The other species of shot are the common musket ball, fired singly from muskets or disfle bullets; shrappel and other improved shells; grape, which consists of small iron balls disposed in linen bags fastened to a wooden bottom, in the middle of which is a spindle round which the balls are secured by cord or wire; or case shot, which consists the bases of which are closed by two circular pieces of wood. Another kind of projectiles are shells, or hollow iron spheres filled with powder, which may act either before or after their explosion.

A French scientific journal we have just received states that in addition to experiments with a steel cannon, said to be invented by the emperor, which have just been made near that city, trials have taken place with a new projectile weighing about 100

THE OLD COUPLE.

It stands in a sunny meadow,
The house so mossy and brown,
With its cumbrous, old stone chimneys,
And the gray roof sloping down.

The trees fold their green arms around it, The trees a century old;
And the winds go chanting through them,
And the sunbeams drop their gold.

The cowslips spring in the marshes,
And the roses bloom on the hill;
And beside the brooks in the pastures,
The herds go feeding at will.

The children have gone and left them, They sit in the sun alone;
And the old wife's ears are failing,
As she harks to the well-known tone.

That won her heart in her girlhood, That has soothed her in many a care, And praises her now for the brightness Her old face used to wear.

She thinks again of her bridal—
How, dressed in her robe of white,
She stood by her gay young lover
In the morning's rosy light.

Oh, the morning is rosy as ever, But the rose from her cheek Is fied; And the sunshine still is golden, But it falls on a silvered head.

And the girlhood dreams once vanished, Come back in her Winter time, Till her feeble pulses tremble With the thrill of spring-time's prime.

And looking forth from the window, She thinks how the trees have grown, Since, clad in her bridal whiteness She crossed the old door-stone.

Though dimmed her eye's bright azure,
And dimmed her hair's young gold;
The love in her girlhood plighted,
Has never grown dim nor old.

They sat in peace in the sunshine, Till the day was almost done; And then at its close an angel Stole over the threshold stone.

He folded their hands together— He touched their eyelids with baim; And their last breath floated upward, Like the close of a solemn psalm

Like a bridal pair they traversed, The unseen, mystical road,
That leads to the beautiful city,
"Whose builder and maker is God."

Perhaps in that miracle country
They will give her lost youth back;
And the flowers of a vanished spring-time,
Will bloom in the sprit's track.

One draught from the living waters Shall call back his manhood's pri And eternal years shall measure, The love that outlived time.

But the shapes that they left behind them, The wrinkles and silver hair, Made holy to us by kisses The angel had printed there.

We will hide away 'neath the willows, When the day is low in the west; Where the sunbeams cannot find them, Nor the winds disturb their rest.

And we'll suffer the tell-tale tombstone, With its ages and dates to rise; O'er the two who are old no longer In the Father's house in the skies.

THE NEWSPAPEH. A man eats up a pound of sugar and the pleasure he has enjoyed is ended, but the information he gets from a newspaper is treasured up in his mind, to calls for it; for a newspaper is not the wis stamps. dom of one man or two men-it is the wisdom of the age-of past ages, too. A family without a newspaper is always an age behind the times in general information;besides, they never think much or find anything to think about. And there are the little ones growing up in ignorance without a taste for reading. Besides all these evils. there is the wife, who, when her work is done has to sit down with her hands in her lap. and has nothing to amuse her mind from the toils and care of the domestic circle.

HAPPY WOMAN. A happy woman! is she not the very sparkle and sunshine of life? A woman who is happy because she can't help it—whose smile even the coldest sprin-kle of misfortune cannot dampen. Men such as Teas, Coffee, Sugars, Molasses, Ap-ples, Potatoes, Butter and Cheese, make a terrible mistake when they marry for beauty, for talent or for style; the sweetest wives are those who possess the magic secret of being contented under any circumstances. Rich or poor, high or low, it makes no difference; the bright little fountain of joy bubbles up just as musically in their hearts. Do they live in a log cabin? the fire-light that leaps up on its humble hearth becomes brighter than the gilded chandeliers in any Aladdin palace. Was ever the stream of life so dark and unpropitious that the sun-shine of a happy face falling across its Drugs, Medicines, & Chemicals, turbid tide, would not awakeu an answering gleam? Why these joyous tempered people don't know half the good they do.

How our Grandmothers used to Live. An old lady relating how she got along raising her family of thirteen children half a century ago, says: "I used to milk the cows STANDARD FAMILY MEDICINES, etc while holding a child a few months old in my lap, while the next older stood upon my dress to keep its bare feet off the dewey grass." She also added, "I never had but one silk dress, which was procured by my father giving me flax to spin and weave into cloth Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in to sell, the proceeds of which should be appropriated to the purchase of the silk dress. I purchased the dress at Southampton, at $1,50 per yard, and paid in my flax cloth at thirty-three cents."—How would the young thirty-three cents."-How would the young ladies of our day like this?

Tiren Out. A three-year old nephew of one of my friends had finished his usual prayer at his mother's knee when she said : "Now, Willie, pray for your grandfather and grandmother." He did as directed.

"Now for your aunts and uncles." He prayed for them.

"Now for your cousins." His petitions went up for this class. "And now Willie pray for all the world."

Wearied out perhaps by the length of his exercises, he exclaimedpray for my own 'lations!"

Avoid Deception. Persons who practice eceit and artifices always deceive themselves more than they deceive others. They may feel great complacency in view of the success of their doings; but they are in reality casting a mist before their own eyes. Such persons not only make a false estimate of their own character, but they estimate falsely the opinions and conduct of others.

CELEBRATED

TOLU ANODYNE

This great Neuralgic Remedy and Natural Opiate calls for special attention and interest, being free of Opium, or preparations of Opium, or of any but its strictly vegetable and medical properties. For Neuralgia Rheumatism, Gout, Tooth and Ear Acle, Spinal Complaints, Bleeding at the Lungs or Stomach, Rose or Hay Fever, Catarth, and almitor Nervous Complaints.

For Loss of Sleep, Chronic or Nervous Head Ache, Sick Head Ache, it has no equal and to which we ofter testimonials from undoabted sources.

For Delirium Tremens Isa Sure Remedy.

For Bowel Complaints, including Cholera Morbus, it is splendidly adapted, in not only removing the pains but acting as physic, a great contrast with Opium, which not only constipates and drugs the system, but makes the remedy worse than the disease.

From Physicians we ask attention, and on demand Formulus or Trial Buttles will be sent, developing in the Anodyne an Opitate which has long been wanted, and in the Congh Remedy such as rest entirely on one central principle.

From Physicians we ask attention of those contemplatin, tis this latter property, among others which makes it acted and premared and premanent a remedy for Piles, upon which forms them.

In Dysersar innumerable as are its causes, asingle box of these Chalybeate Pills and often sufficed for the most habitual teats of premium and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astingent.
