Historical Statement and General Information

The English Evangelical Lutheran Synod of the Northwest, which owns and controls Northwestern Lutheran Theological Seminary, is one of the constituent synods of the United Lutheran Church in America, whose beginnings date to 1748, the year of the first synodical organization of Lutherans in America. The Synod of the Northwest was organized in 1891 to look after the interests of Lutherans living in the states of the old Northwest in their transition from the use of foreign languages to the language of the land.

The rapid growth of the Synod, which began with six congregations and 343 communicant members and has now reached the dimensions of 136 congregations and 90,000 members, necessitated the establishment of a theological seminary to meet the ministerial needs of its expanding field. The institution began in the fall of 1920 in a parting from the Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary, which had previously furnished many of its pastors, and operated during its first year as the Chicago Lutheran Divinity School in the city of Chicago. The school was made permanent under the name Northwestern Lutheran Theological Seminary by the Synod of the Northwest at its meeting in Grand Forks, North Dakota, June 1, 1921, and continued for one year at Fargo, North Dakota.

Practical considerations determined the removal of the Seminary to Minneapolis in 1922, in which city it has continued to the present time. The first building at 1018 19th Avenue N. E. was in use until the summer of 1940, when the present beautiful and adequate structure at 100 East 22nd Street was acquired. Since then four substantial buildings have been added to serve as dormitories and to provide boarding facilities. The growth of the Seminary has accompanied that of the Synod as effect and cause.

The Seminary seeks to provide a thorough theological training for all properly accredited men who seek to specialize in theology or otherwise to serve the church. Its particular aim is to train an adequate number of candidates for the Gospel ministry to meet the large and growing needs of the Synod in its vast territory extending from the Great Lakes to the Rocky Mountains. This territory is the most preponderantly Lutheran area in the United States and the greatest home mission field in the church. The policy of the Seminary is to foster sound and conservative Lutheranism and to work in harmony with all who labor toward the same end.

The Seminary has had three presidents, the Rev. Joseph Stump, D.D., LL.D., L.H.D., 1920-1935, the Rev. Paul H. Roth, D.D., 1935-1950, and the Rev. Jonas Hoke Dressler, D.D., who became president June 1, 1950. Three professors, members of the original faculty, have died: The Rev. G. H. Gerberding, D.D., LL.D., 1920-1926, the Rev. Joseph Stump, 1920-1935, and the Rev. H. B. Reed, D.D., 1920-1939.

The Seminary, which is the special care of the Synod, and is the only institution owned by it, is supported by annual grants of money which, with the returns from the growing endowment fund, have thus far met all expenses. The Seminary possesses a beautiful property admirably situated in the midst of parks near the center of Minneapolis. The largest gifts thus far are those of Mr. William C. Grunow of Chicago, who gave the sum of $76,000.00 for the endowment of the Louise Grunow Chair of Old Testament, and of the late Dr. John L. Rothrock of St. Paul, who gave a total of more than $135,000.00, in part to endow the Chair of Practical Theology. The Synod, which has supported the Seminary from its beginning, raised a Jubilee Fund in 1940-41, the proceeds of which amount is over $200,000.00. A campaign for $150,000 is now in progress throughout the Synod in connection with the Christian Higher Education Year Appeal of the United Lutheran Church in America.

The Seminary is manned with six full time professors and two part-time instructors. Eminent lecturers each year supplement the instruction. The Seminary is a fully accredited member of the American Association of Theological Schools. The emphases are upon sound, progressive Lutheran theology and the spirit of missionary aggression. The library, which is well-selected and maintained, is constantly being built up by the addition of standard and contemporary volumes.

The situation of Northwestern Seminary is remarkably advantageous for its purpose. The metropolitan area of the Twin Cities, Minneapolis and St. Paul, comprising about 1,000,000 population, is the metropolis of the Northwest and the heart of the most Lutheran section in this country.

The city offers unusual cultural advantages to students. Besides the University there are many institutions of learning nearby. Two great art galleries, the Walker Gallery and the Minneapolis Art Institute, contain outstanding collections of great paintings, sculpture, tapestries, and other forms, and are especially rich in ecclesiastical art. The city is also a very notable musical center. The Symphony Orchestra, one of the four or five most distinguished organizations of its kind in this country, can be heard each week during the season. Minneapolis is distinguished also for its annual performances of Bach's great choral works. Nearby at Northfield is the famous St. Olaf Choir which has set new standards for church singing. Students of Northwestern are thus in contact with a rich and varied cultural life.

The Twin Cities area offers also the advantage of acquaintance with the greatest Lutheran center in America. Hundreds of Lutheran churches cover the metropolitan district. Here is the center of Swedish and Norwegian Lutheranism. German, Danish, Finnish, Slovak and other Lutheran nationalities are represented. Three Lutheran Seminaries and several Lutheran colleges are on the field. Nowhere else can Lutherans be found in such numbers and variety. The benefit of contact with so representative and unprovincial a Lutheranism is most valuable in the training of the Lutheran pastor.

The Seminary administration building is beautifully situated at 100 East Twenty-second Street, fronting on parks and the Minneapolis Art Institute. It is readily accessible by the Nicollet Avenue car line, ten minutes' ride from down town.

Requirements for Admission

Students desiring enrollment must be graduates of colleges of recognized standing. Exceptions to this rule may be made only by unanimous consent of the faculty. They must present testimonials of good Christian character from their pastors and must satisfy the faculty as to their qualifications and purpose. They will be admitted without examination on presentation of an official transcript of their college credits and such other credits as they have secured.

Pastors and other properly accredited persons may, with the advice of faculty, elect from the curriculum such subjects as they deem most helpful to them. Special pains will be taken to assist in the election of such subjects as will help the students in the use of the English language in pastoral ministrations.

Every applicant must also submit a certificate of health from a competent medical authority.

The Junior year in the Seminary is regarded as a probationary year.

Requirements for Registration

To complete registration the following deposits have to be made at the beginning of each quarter:

1. Library fee	$ 5.00
2. Bookstore textbook deposit.....	10.00
3. Payment of 1 quarter's board at the current rate by the members of the Boarding Club.....	85.00

Requirements for Graduation

The requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Divinity are a bachelor's degree from an accredited college and the three full years of the Seminary course. The course is planned to cover three years of three quarters each, or 33 weeks per school year. A comprehensive examination will be held during the last quarter of the three years' course.

Reading Courses

The faculty is ready to give advice and direction to pastors and others who wish to study along definite lines. No credits are offered for such work. Application for information as to books and reading courses should be made to the secretary of the faculty.

Expenses and Aid

There is no charge for tuition or rooms. A limited amount of aid in the form of compensation for work done about the building or by grant of Synod is available. Particulars of the conditions for such help will be given upon inquiry of the president of the Seminary. Beds, pillows, mattresses, tables, chairs and book shelves are provided by the school. Students are expected to provide their own bed clothes.

Board is furnished by the Students' Boarding Club under the direction of student and faculty management at the present cost of $85.00 per quarter. All students rooming in the dormitory are required to board at the Seminary.

Further information, bulletins, etc. will be given upon request. Applications for admittance and requests for information and literature should be sent to J. H. Dressler, President, 100 E. 22nd St., Minneapolis 4, Minn.

Required Clinical Training

All Juniors are required to do certain practical work in parishes during the first year. In consultation with local pastors, the assignments are made by the student-faculty committee. No private arrangements should be made without consulting the above committee.

Nearly all advanced students engage in practical work in parishes in the Twin Cities, such as assisting pastors in conducting services, preaching, teaching Sunday school and catechetical classes, training choirs, directing young people's work, parochial and institutional visiting, and making surveys of fields. The Twin Cities area is outstandingly rich in opportunities for these types of practical experience. All such activity is carried on under the direction of the faculty. Summer work under the direction of the Board of American Missions is engaged in each summer by students, and other summer work in parishes is available.

Pre-Seminary Curriculum

The Seminary in agreement with accepted standards recommends that prospective theological candidates seek to include the following in their college curriculum:

Two years' work in English literature and composition.

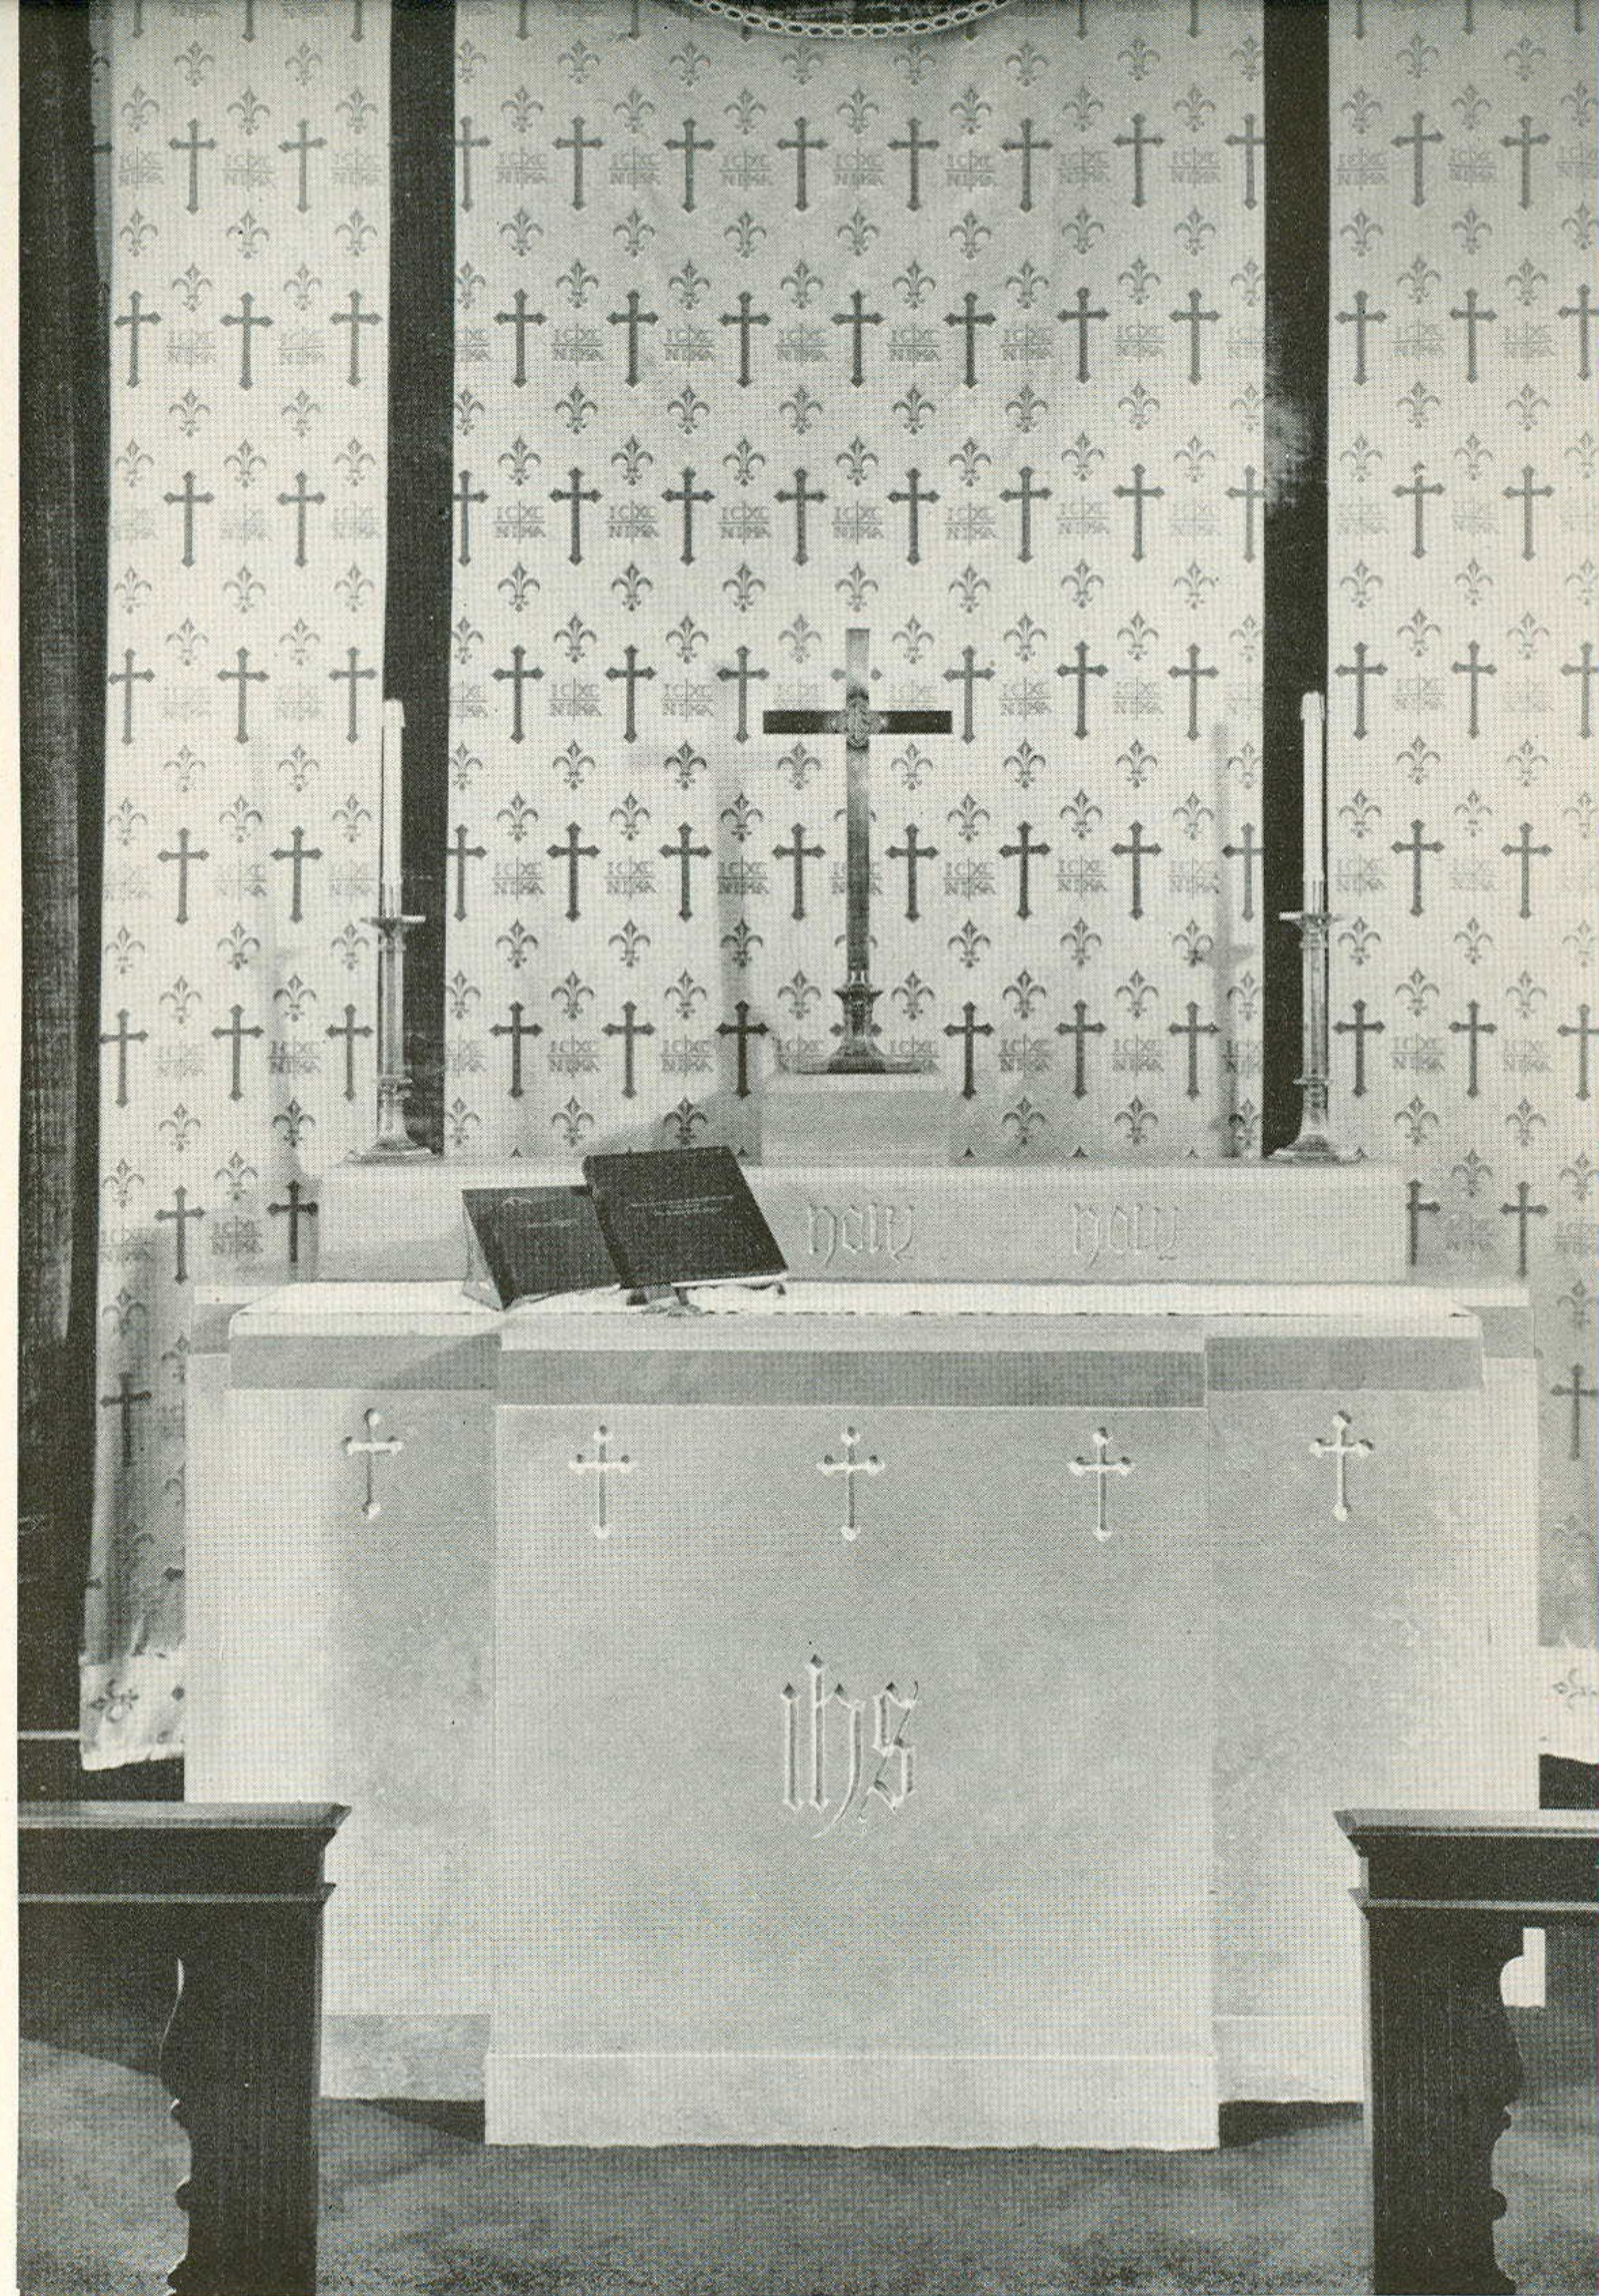

Work in foreign languages, including elementary Greek, German, Latin. Elementary Hebrew is desirable.

One semester each in psychology, philosophy, sociology or economics.

One year in history.

Courses in the natural sciences, with laboratory work.

Public speaking.

Courses of Instruction

DEPARTMENT OF OLD TESTAMENT

PROFESSOR WILLIAM H. COOPER

The Old Testament gives a picture of the world into which Christianity was born, portraying particularly the pre-Christian relationship between God and His people; it pictures the soil in which the roots of Christianity first grew. This department seeks to interpret this pre-Christian area of life and thought in order to lay a foundation for a more thorough understanding of the New Testament, as well as the whole system of Christian Theology.

In order to do this, an intensive study of the Old Testament is made in the original languages, but it is also recognized that the Bible bears a relationship to the whole realm of ancient near-eastern culture and civilization. Our work must, therefore, necessarily involve studies reaching beyond the Bible into general ancient history and archaeological researches.

101. Elementary Hebrew: In the early part of the course students will be taught the Hebrew characters, paradigms, vocabulary, and elementary syntax. Simple exercises in composition and translation will prepare for the latter part of the course when selections from the Scriptures will be read. 44 hours. Junior elective, 4 hours per week, second quarter.

102. The Pentateuch: A required reading course covering the first five books of the Old Testament in English. A first view is given of the contents and historical setting. The principles of Scripture interpretation are explained and applied. The student supplements his reading by reference to Bible dictionaries, atlases, and commentaries. 33 hours. Juniors, three hours per week, first quarter.

103. English Exegesis: A study of selected portions of the Old Testament in English for those who do not elect Hebrew. 33 hours. Juniors, three hours per week, second quarter.

104. Biblical Hermeneutics: A survey of the principles underlying a valid interpretation of Holy Scripture, including the history of interpretation in the Christian church from the first days to the present time. Selected passages of the Old and New Testament will be studied in order to illustrate the best methods. 33 hours. Juniors, three hours per week, third quarter.

201. Old Testament History: This course will trace the history of the people of Israel from their earliest known stages down to the New Testament era. It will involve references to their relationships with other peoples. Extra-Biblical sources, particularly archaeology, will be considered. Special attention will, however, always focus on Hebrew religion. 33 hours. Middlers. First quarter.

202. Old Testament Introduction: A study of introductory matters pertaining to the books of the Old Testament such as date, composition, literary form, purpose, transmission, canon, text, and historical setting. 33 hours. Middlers. Third quarter.

301. Old Testament Exegesis: The books of Amos and Hosea are studied comparatively. Detailed study of one of these books with comment based upon the Hebrew text and with continuous reference to the content and teaching of the other. 33 hours. Seniors. First quarter.

302. Old Testament Theology: This course will serve as the climax to all other studies in the department. It will present in systematic form and in historical perspective the distinctive teachings of the Old Testament revelation. 33 hours. Seniors. Third quarter.

401. The Psalms: A study of the historical background and the literary, cultic, personal, and theological aspects of the Psalter, viewed as both the hymnal and the prayer book of ancient Israel. Exegesis of selected psalms in the light of recent research. Offered as an elective in the second quarter, 1953-1954. 33 hours.

NEW TESTAMENT DEPARTMENT

PROFESSOR A. C. P. HAYS

101. The Synoptic Gospels: A study of 1) intergospel relationships and 2) the course of the life and ministry of Jesus. An interpretation of the mission of Jesus gives theological content to the historical data. 33 hours. Juniors. First quarter.

103. New Testament History: The aim of this course is to present in their main outlines the life of Jesus and the development of the Church to the end of the first century. The treatment includes the archaeological findings which bear on the history. 33 hours. Juniors. Second quarter.

105. New Testament Introduction: The writings of the New Testament are studied in their relation to one another and to the historical backgrounds before which they stand. The problems of origin, authorship, authenticity, and integrity are considered in the treatment of each book. The relation of the New Testament to contemporary literature is kept constantly in view. 33 hours. Juniors. Third quarter.

201. The Johannine Literature I: The Fourth Gospel, the Epistle of John, and the Revelation are studied as to their form and contents. The Gospel receives special consideration for its unique and highly developed theology. The Revelation is analyzed and studied as part of an extensive apocalyptic literature, to which it bears a certain relation and from which it derives in large part its interpretation. 33 hours. Middlers. First quarter.

203. The Johannine Literature II: Continuation of 201. Second quarter.

301. Galatians, Romans: These doctrinally related letters of the Apostle Paul are read in the original text and studied critically especially for their Christology and Soteriology. Term papers on aspects of the doctrine in the letters are required. 33 hours. Seniors. First quarter.

303. Hebrews. Seminar: Lectures supplemented by class papers treat the doctrine of Christ as High Priest and related themes in the light of Paul's theology. 33 hours. Seniors. Second quarter.

405. Prison Epistles: Colossians, Ephesians, Philemon, and Philippians are studied in their relation to each other as a late testament of the Apostle. The exegesis emphasizes the mature forms of Paul's doctrine, with special reference to the Church. Term papers. Elective.

405. Apocalyptic in the New Testament: The Gospels, certain Epistles, and the Revelation are studied for their contributions to the understanding of the nature and place of Apocalyptic in the theology of the Church. Readings and discussion of papers. Elective.

409. Preaching Values of the New Testament: Certain pericopes of the Church year are selected for exegetical and practical studies. Student presentations are the basis of class discussions. Readings supplement class instruction. Elective.

SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY

PROFESSOR JAMES J. RAUN

PROFESSOR A. C. M. AHLÉN

101. Philosophy of Religion: A study of the relationship between faith and reason. The basic Christian beliefs are considered in their relation to an all-inclusive intellectual approach. The nature and the existence of God, the problem of evil, the criteria of religious truth are some of the questions considered. 33 hours. Juniors. First quarter. (Prof. Ahlén).

103-5. Dogmatics: Introduction to Theology. The purpose of this course is to introduce the students to the problems, thought-patterns and vocabulary in the field of Theology, especially such particular phases as revelation, inspiration, faith, etc. Juniors. Second and third quarters, 33 hours each. (Prof. Raun).

201-3-5. Dogmatics consists of a thorough study of Lutheran Dogmatics with special emphasis upon such doctrines as Theology, Christology, Pneumatology, Soteriology, Ecclesiology, etc. First through third quarters, 33 hours each. Middlers (Prof. Raun).

303-5. Christian Ethics deals with the theory of ethics and the problems of conduct with special reference to current questions of morals as related to Christian Truth. 55 hours. Second quarter, 22 hours. Third quarter, 33 hours. Seniors (Prof. Ahlén).

401. The Psychology of Religion: A study of the human mind and its operations in religious experience. Conversion, mysticism, intuition, worship and other group activities are a few of the problems discussed. 33 hours. Elective. Seniors and Middlers. Third quarter, 1953-54 (Prof. Ahlén).

403. Comparative Symbolics: A study of the basic confessional writings of the major Christian denominations. Elective. 33 hours. Seniors and Middlers. Second quarter, 1954-55 (Prof. Ahlén).

405-7. Contemporary Sectarianism: A practical study of the beliefs of the important cults such as Spiritualism, Christian Science, Jehovah Witnesses, Mormonism, Unity, I Am, etc. Elective. 33 hours per quarter. Students may enter either term. Seniors and Middlers (Prof. Ahlén). First and second quarters, 1954-55, and on demand.

409. Social Philosophy: A study of man as a social being and the institutions through which he functions, such as the family, the school, economic organizations and the state. Special attention is given to the various forms of contemporary totalitarianism. The relevance of the Christian ideal for all human activity, group as well as personal, is stressed throughout the course. Elective. 33 hours. Seniors and Middlers. Third quarter, 1954-55. (Prof. Ahlén).

411. World Missions II: This course offers a rapid survey of the contemporary situation and problems of the rapidly shifting frontiers in the overseas mission fields. First quarter 1953-54. Elective. Middlers and Seniors (Prof. Raun).

413. Theological Backgrounds: This course offers a rapid survey of the religious and theological forces which form the background and constitute the beginning of early American Denominationalism. Elective. Middlers and Seniors (Prof. Raun).

415. Comparative Religion: Third quarter, 1954-55 (Prof. Ahlén).

417. Contemporary Theology offers a study of modern theological tendencies covering a number of schools in Central Europe, the Scandinavian countries, England and America. 33 hours. Elective. Middlers and Seniors. Second quarter, 1954-55 (Prof. Raun).

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORICAL THEOLOGY

PROFESSOR PAUL H. ROTH

101. Church History: A survey of the course of the Church from the time of Christ to the beginning of the Reformation. 66 hours. First through third quarters. Juniors.

201. Church History: This course rapidly surveys the course of the Church from the Reformation to the present day, aiming to stress main lines of development and divergency, to present a comprehensive background for special studies, to suggest bibliography and lines of investigation in the vast field of the history of the modern Church. 66 hours. First through third quarters. Middlers.

301. American Lutheran Church History: In this course the aim is to make clear the origins, development, and organization of the Lutheran Church in America, with special reference to the causes of division in American Lutheranism and the movements in progress toward Lutheran union. 66 hours. First through third quarters. Seniors.

301. History of Christian Doctrine: Beginning with the period immediately succeeding the apostolic, the course of Christian teachings and dogmas is followed in historical order. Formative personalities, systems, and movements receive special study. The development of Christian teachings from their original roots is traced, with the aim of providing such perspective and orientation as are necessary for informed theological judgments. 55 hours. First quarter, 33 hours; second quarter, 22 hours. Seniors. (Prof. Ahlén).

305. The Lutheran Confessions: After lectures on the Confessional Principle and on historical introduction, most of the time of this course is devoted to reading and class discussion of the material in the Book of Concord beginning with the Augsburg Confession, with the aim of bringing about a first-hand knowledge and appreciation of the Confessions and implanting an incentive to their future thorough study. 33 hours. Third quarter. Seniors (Prof. Ahlén).

307. History of Music: The history of Church music from the beginnings to the present day is rapidly surveyed. The aim is to present a knowledge of its course, variety and developments, to foster an appreciation of all the great schools, to stress the necessity through study and action of the purification, development and intelligent use of a worthy Church music. 22 hours. Second and third quarters, 11 hours each. (Prof. Roth).

401. Elective to be announced.

DEPARTMENT OF PRACTICAL THEOLOGY

PROFESSOR JONAS H. DRESSLER

101-3-5. Homiletics: An introductory course in the preparation and delivery of sermons. It is given the first year in order to enable the student to meet speaking and preaching appointments. 33 hours. First through third quarters. 11 hours each. (Prof. Dressler).

107-9. Liturgics: The history and practical application of liturgical forms to the services of the Church. Study of the Church Year, colors, vestments, appointments, architecture. Practice in conduct of services. 22 hours. First and third quarters, 11 hours each. Juniors (Prof. Dressler).

111-13-15. Field Work in Local Parishes: Discussion and reports monthly. First through third quarters, 1 hour each. Juniors. (Prof. Dressler).

207. Evangelism: A study of the ways and means of seeking the unchurched and bringing them into vital relationship with Christ and His Church. Principles and methods examined. Third quarter. 11 hours. Middlers. (Prof. Dressler).

209. Sermon Delivery: A course in the planning, outlining, writing and delivery of sermons. Attention is given to the Church Year, the Pericopes, free texts and series of sermons. Special attention is given to delivery. Third quarter. 22 hours. Seniors. (Prof. Dressler).

211-13. Institutional Chaplaincy: First through third quarters, 11 hours each. Middlers. (Prof. Trygstad).

215-17. Introduction to Counseling: This course deals with the dynamics underlying human behavior in both normal and deviated forms. It seeks to acquaint the student with the types of emotional and mental disturbances with which he will be most frequently confronted in his pastoral ministry. Consideration is given to the psychoses and neuroses, delinquency and criminality and the psychosomatic implications in some physical disorders. The course attempts to help the student to recognize the deviations and distinguish between those things which are properly handled by a pastor and those which the pastor must refer to other competent help. Second and third quarters, 11 hours each. (Prof. Norstad).

219-21. Pastoral Counseling: Pastoral psychiatry, clinical training, the art of counseling. First and second quarters, 11 hours each. Middlers. (Prof. Dressler).

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING
NORTHWESTERN LUTHERAN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

GIFTS AND BEQUESTS

The Seminary is always glad to receive gifts of money, securities, and other usable property. Much help has come to our institution in the past from such beneficence.

Gifts of any amount are welcome for the endowment and equipment fund. Endowment money works perpetually, and since there is no end to the Gospel field of endeavor the endowment fund should be remembered constantly in our wills and bequests. The following form of bequest is a correct one:

I give and bequeath to Northwestern Lutheran Theological Seminary of Minneapolis, a corporation organized for the education and training of students for the ministry in the Lutheran Church,
The sum of.....Dollars.
