The spruces not far from the house were merry all day with the song of this bird. I also noticed the Jimeo—that hardy bird—which had just put in its spring appearance with the song sparrow. Off in the distance I heard this same date the blue bird sore but could not row. Off in the distance I heard this same date the blue bird song but could not follow it, as the snow was too deep. He sat on the end of some piled up fence poles, while the madame sat back in the rear, daintily lunching on a crust of snow. It was funny how he scolded until I began to whistle, when he became quite friendly."

In her youthful days she experienced religion. In June 1868 she was baptized by Rev. James Small and with her husband united with the North Montville F. W. B. Church, of which she remained a worthy member until her death. She and her husband were charter members of Dirigo Grange of Freedom, where she attended until declining years compelled her to remain at home. She was of a bright, sunny disposition and had a host of friends. She always had a pleasant word for old and young, and "Aunt Elona," as she was familiarly called, will be sadly missed by them. Her funeral was from her late home Sunday afternoon, March 19. Rev. James Washburn of Parkman, an old friend, spoke words of comfort to the sorrowing ones. B. F. Foster had charge of the funeral arrangements. The bearers were J. B. Wiggin, W. M. Vose, J. W. Nutter and

She was an ardent Universalist, devoted to her church and all of its interests. Her life was an unusually pure one, and she never spoke evil of others and seemingly never thought it. She was always ready to assist whenever the opportunity offered. While she left few relatives to mourn their loss there are many friends who will miss and mourn her sudden taking from them. The funeral was held at her late home last Friday, conducted by her pastor, Rev. Ashley A. Smith, assisted by the Rev. George W. Bicknell, D. D., of Cambridge, Mass., a cousin, of Mrs. Cooper, who came to attend the funeral. Both spoke with an earnestness and deep feeling at the loss of a pure life. Wednesday evening Milltown, N. B., covered the Belfast boys with further defeat. The score was 15 to 12. In this game goals from the floor were secured by McIntosh 3, Mungall 3, Corbett.—Calais Advertiser.

Thursday night, March 23d, B. H. S. played in Machias and were defeated by the local team by a score of 28 to 17. The score at one time early in the game stood 7 to 0 in favor of Belfast; but the home team rallied and tied the score in the first half, 11 to 11. The first five minutes of the last half saw no change in the score, but the locals finally threw a basket. With a lead of two points in their favor they put up some of their most skillful work and for a few minutes the score was increased at a rapid rate. A Machias correspondent says: "The visiting team was undoubtedly one of the best that has visited Machias this season and those who witnessed their work on Thursday evening feel that they will have no difficulty in defending their title of the champion High School team of the State. In the game here the team was considerably strengthened by Capt. Phelan of the Fairfield team, who is coaching the Belfast team and occasionally plays with them. Newman of Fairfield and Getchell of Machias acted as referee and umpire."

BELFAST, MAINE. Dear Sir: But few of the men who sell

Dear Sir: But few of the men who sell the hundred different paints in the market know much about them. All Devoe agents have a state chemist's certificate telling just what it's made of; they know a good deal, not only about Devoe but the rest; we see that they do. We buy every paint, that has any sale, and analyze it. Our agent finds out all about it.

When we know what a paint is made-of, we know how it will act; we know how far it goes, and how long it wears.

Devoe is the standard, call it 100. The best of the rest is about 75; the worst about 25; the rest are between.

best of the rest is about 75; the worst about 25; the rest are between.

But the men, who sell them, don't know any better. They know what the maker tells them. That is: they know that he tells them. They don't know whether he tells them the truth or not.

The business is not conducted on knowledge; the less they know, the more comfortable they are.

Yours truly,

F. W. Devoe & Co.

PALM BEACH, FLA., March 19, 1905. Visitors to Florida take much interest in the Everglades, which the au-thorities will endeavor to drain, and thus open to cultivation many thousand acres of rich soil. Snakes and alligators

it. The diamond-back rattler is one of the most venomous snakes known and when first seen will be lying behind a log or basking in the sun, with his big flat ugly looking head from which a forked tongue is viciously thrust. Travelers say they would rather face a panther than step on one of these reptiles. They are from five to ten feet in length; body black, marked with bright yellow diamonds. The Indians are said to have an infallible antidote for snake bites, the secret of which they refuse to divulge to white men. The number of rattles on a snake's tail does not always indicate his age, as is often thought, because they sometimes get broken off as do the finger nails. Some very large and old snakes have very few rattles. The alligator dislikes to be disturbed, and if surprised when taking a sun hath on the share makes. The diamond-back rattler is one of slides off the bank into the water. The largest are from ten to thirteen feet in length. Sometimes the little ones, but recently hatched, are seen lying in the sun on the broad lily pads. They are never found in company with their elders, because their papas are too fond of eating them.

The question asked by a northern boy the other day as to "whether the old alligator sat on the eggs like hens?" led to the following explanation: The alligator builds a nest of sticks, leaves and grass, and it is very much like the house of a muskrat. In the middle of this are laid from twenty to forty thick shelled pure white eggs, about the size of the largest goose egg. These are left to be hatched by the heat of the sun. When they break their shells the little fellows immediately scramble for the nearest water, where they are left to care for themselves without parental guidance or advice. In fact, they are wise enough from the very first to keep out of the way of their elders, whose only love for them seems to be that of an epicure for a dainty dish.

A field of poor ground was divided into halves, and one of the halves was vaccinated by the new method. The untreated half of the field produced only 200 pounds of clover to the acre.

Wild turkeys and white-tailed deer abound in the Everglades.

The season is fast drawing to a close and there is every indication of the big hotels closing next week. From here I shall go to Miami, but as Mr. Frederick has given you an interesting letter from that point I will not attempt it unless something unexpected comes in view. From Miami I had planned on an ocean trip to Key West but the season is growing so warm that I have been advised to wait until another year.

Mr. Newman certainly had a very tough time with the grip, and it is no wonder, now that he is over it, that he thinks that the remedy that cured him can't be beat. His case shows how profoundly grip poisons the system and how obstinately it resists all ordinary efforts to eradicate it. The publication of the following interview with Mr. Newman will shorten the sufferings of others, as it will save them doubtful experiments and guide them at once to treatment that has proved a wonderful success.

As soon as I got them I knew that I had at last hit the right remedy for my case. The very first box did more for me than anything else I had ever taken. They gave me relief right away and in three months they positively cured me. Vaccinating the Ground.

The up-to-date farmer no longer spends hundreds of dollars annually in buying fertilizers for his acres. Instead, he sends to the Department of Agriculture in Washington and receives a little peak again beatagis and with these tle package of bacteria and with these he vaccinates his soil, enables his plants to draw their nitrogen from the air instead of from the ground, and increases his crops from 100 to 1000 per Crocodiles are not as numerous in the Everglades or on the coast as formerly and are not often seen. The head differs from that of the alligator; because it was "worked out," increased his output 500 per cent., simply by vaccinating his soils. Scores of similarly about deal farms were required. ilarly abandoned farms were reclaimed.

To understand the simple principle of this revolution in agriculture it is necessary only to bear in mind that nitrogen is one of the chief foods of plants. Potash, iron, etc., a plant must have to thrive, but nitrogen is one of the most important of all the elements

Ordinarily, plants take their nitrogen out of the ground through the medium here, are pleasantly quartered at The Oaks, Daytona. The coming week Mrs. of their roots, and each successive crop Pendleton and Mrs. Nichols of Searsport, who have been visiting for the past month at The Palms, will start north, with the many visitors who valuable food, the ground will become lean and poor and, eventually, useless. Up to now, the method of putting back the nitrogen exhausted by the crops has been by using fertilizers. Every fall and spring, the farmers carted hundreds of loads of costly manure, spreading it with untold labor. Guano he spreads, and expensive fertilizers costing from $30 to $75 a ton. He even had to scatter nitrate of soda (saltpeter) shipped more than a thousand miles, all the way from Chili. In fact, so absolutely necessary were these soil invigorators and so extensively had they to be used that today practically all the guano beds of the world have been exhausted, and the visible supply of salt peter is so limited that, according to the present rate of consumption, it can be supplyed to the present rate of consumption, it can be represented by the crops has been by using fertilizers. Few cases can be worse than Mr. Newman's for he had head, heart and stomach troubles combined with great weakness. Speaking of his long illness, he recently said:

The attack of grip which I had eight years ago left ne in a very bad fix. I became nearly deaf and my head ached continually and was filed with hissing and roaring sounds that were fearfully annoying. My heart fluttered and had regular running-away spells. My stomach was sore that I could hardly bear a touch on that part of my body. I had a great deal of pain in the regin of my liver and the doctor said that organ was enlarged. My kidneys gave me trouble. When I attempted to get up after sitting a while, they ached so that I could hardly stand."

"Bidh't you give up and go to bed?" he was asked.

"No. I simply wouldn't. My head and "No. I s would regain their fertility. Only comthe other plants should have this faculty, was a mystery. It was never suspected that these pod-bearing plants ed in such numbers that they might readily be procured. It had been noticed that the roots of these legumes

But, although there were instances of phenomenal success, on the whole Nitragin was a deplorable failure.

It was at this point that Dr. George T. Moore, in charge of the Laboratory of Plant Physiology, Department of Agriculture, took up the invention and made it practicable. To these minute, invisible organisms he applied a rule which holds for the higher animals. He decided that the German Professor had gone too far by being too good to his germs. At the outset, the Professor had given his bacteria too much nitro-gen and they never learned to gather it for themselves, but died no sooner their original portion was exhausted.

Dr. Moore treated his germs just as a Dr. Moore treated his germs just as a wise father treats his son. He did not surfeit them with the good things of life. He gave them just enough nitrogen to make them want more, and gradually they learned to hunt it for themselves and to hunt up enough for themselves and to spare. In fact, so active were these bacteria when turned out of the laboratory that seeds soaked in the germ solution approuted and grew drive off the last traces of nitrates. With this success phenomenally estab-lished, it remained merely to enable the cultures to be distributed in sufficient quantity to become of practical use. It was found that when these bacteria It was found that when these bacteria were grown on nitrgen-free media they retained their high activity, providing they were carefully dried out and revived in a liquid at the end of varying lengths of time. By using an absorbent, like cotton, which will absorb millions of tubercle-forming bacteria these could be shipped to any part of the United States and arrive in perfect condition, ready to be revived in water and to be cultivated into untold billions by the simple addition of certain lions by the simple addition of certain nutrient salts. Thus, by sending out a dry culture no larger than an yeast cake, the bacteria might be multiplied suf-ficiently to inoculate at least an acre of land. In fact, the amount of material thus obtained is limited only by the quantity of the nutrient water solution, and it must be evident that the cost of inoculating land is so very small that it is absolutely infinitesimal when com-pared with the very large increase in returns from soil so treated .- Pearson's Magazine for April.

Corners, whose letters in the Portland Argus "Man About Town" column, Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont. recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement, "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mont.

After using Ely's Cream Balm six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh.—Joseph Stewart, Grand Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts., or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York. he calls a "dispensary," where he proposes to dispense drugs, toilet articles, confectionery, cigars, tobacco and liquors. Of the last named line of goods, he says:

"I shall also keep in stock the purest and best wines and liquors to dispense for strictly medicinal purposes. and have always been a temperance man but am not a temperance crank I am in full sympathy with every move to prohibit the use and sale of intoxicating drink as a beverage, but I am not in sympathy with any law or regulation that will prevent any honest respectable man or woman obtaining ligner of any description. honest respectable man or woman obtaining liquor of any description—whiskey, brandy, wine or gin, to be used as a medicine in any case where such remedies are indicated. As a registered physician I have the legal right to dispense any form of liquors for medicinal purposes and if I allow myself to abuse that privilege I shall expect the law to deal by me as by any-body else."

Dr. Luce does not say where he gets his law, but, as it does not appear in the Revised Statutes, we suppose it must be included in the Sturgis bill, must be included in the Sturgis bill, the Oakes bill, or some other of the new measures passed by the Legislature the past session. If the doctors only get their dispensaries running in good season, and the liquor agencies keep on doing business, the new dispensation may prove popular after all sation may prove popular, after all.-Rockland Opinion.

WHAT AILS YOU

Many people owe their present good health to the fact that they consulted Dr. Pierce by letter, giving him all possible information about their condition, symptoms, etc., and received in return good medical advice which cost them nothing. Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce by no means confines himself to prescribing his well-known medicines. He tells you in the most common-sense way what ails you, what you ought to do, what line of treatment should be followed out in your particular case, and if your case does not indicate the need for this proprietary medicine, he tells you plainly and frankly what you do need, and the best possible method of improving your health. Dr. Pierce treats many chronic cases at a distance, through the mail and all you have to do is to write him your symptoms.

I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and now can say that I feel like a new woman. I do all my work and do not feel tired out like I used to. After many years the pews became free and now the church is used for worship by all denominations, as the builder originally intended it should be.

OLD LINCOLNVILLE CHURCH.

Remarkable Old Building in a Walde County Town When a stranger goes to Center Lin-colnville one of the first objects of historical interest that is shown him is the old Baptist church. Every citizen points to it with a just pride as it is one of the few old churches in Maine that remains the same today as when that remains the same today as when built.

"The old Meeting House," as it is called was built by Captain Joshua Lamb, a public spirited citizen of the town, in the year 1821. It is estimated that the building cost $10,000. The finish is the best. Seats are of pine, two feet wide and free from knots. All carving, of which there is considerable, is by hand, and very beautiful. Probably most of the lumber used in its construction was from the primeval forests of Lincolnville.

The April Cosmepolitan contains an occurrence of the Agency, now told comprehensively for the first time.

Variety and value mark the contents of the April number of The Booklovers Magazine. There are a dozen or more contributions, and each one is strong in descriptive and critical features. The magazine is as usual beautifully illustrated, and the "World of Print' is packed full of interesting excerpts and pictures from the best contemporary sources.

These are six feet long and three wide, with board settees running around the sides. Small kneeling boxes were placed in the center of the boxes. The pews had doors, many of which have been removed. been removed.

A peculiar feature of the church is that the seats face the front so that all people entering can be seen by the entire congregation. This is believed to have been an incentive to early arriving.

Captain Lamb had two brothers who were Free Will Baptist clergymen, Rev. George Lamb of Brunswick and Rev. John Lamb of his own town, and another brother, Deacon Benjamin

Lamb, was born on the old homestead overlooking the church and village. He graduated from Colby College with high honors in the class of '55, being the first native college graduate of Lincolnville. He was a classmate of Hon. Reuben Foster, one time speaker of the Maine House and presideent of the Senate and of the late Governor Ding-

The Pinkerton Detective Agency is to most people a sort of unknown quantity; its methods have been shrouded in mystery, and it has been vaguely described as the "eye that never sleeps." struction was from the primeval forests of Lincolnville.

When completed Mr. Lamb sold as many pews as possible to his townsmen, giving deeds therefor, but the larger number remained unsold, seriously embarrassing him in business.

Entrance to the church is made by one door to the hall, from which two doors lead to the audience room. Galleries are on all four sides, the rear gallery being occupied by the choir. The front gallery, somewhat lower than the others, forms the pulpit, so that the names in literature. The contributors include Israel Zangwill, Alfred Henry Lewis, David Graham Phillips, Arthur Symons, Gelett Burgess, Poultney Bigelow, Maxim Gorky, Charles Wagner, Cyrus Townsend Brady, George Hibbard, Edna Kenton and Herbert Quick. This brilliant array places the issue second to none in interest and merit of the magazines of the month.

Four of the principal articles in the National Magazine for April deal with the railway problem, now to the front in Americans politics. The literary and pictorial features of the number are up to its usual high standard. F. Conrad (the new Iowa humorist), and Mabel Percy Haskell.

The controversy over the management of the Equitable Life Assurance Society is the text of the financial article in the April number of the World's Work. In "How May We Insure Our Insurance?" an analysis of the situation is given from the view points of the company's organization, its relations to the public, and its bearing on the broad question of public con-trol of corporations. A table showing the concentration of financial power in the hands of a few directors is the most illuminating contribution to the discussion of corporate management that has appeared recently.

The theme which Doctor Taylor discusses in his first article is physical betterment, the particular phase that of comeliness, the chief factor in which is the shape and poise of the body. Scientists have discovered that the bacillus of influenza is carried in its epidemic form of grip by railroads and by steamers. We have noticed that most travellers carry their grip.

In the debate on the Bangor insane hospital last week Senator Staples said: "They tell us the number of insane in think, from some legislation we have passed this winter, that that may be

Of the late John M. S. Hunter of the Farmington Chronicle Editor Otis says in the Rockland Opinion:

The writer of this worked with him in the Chronicle office when both were boys and to his death maintained with him a cordial and pleasant friendship, which has left none but agreeable and grateful memories. From this practically life-long acquaintance, we have led to appreciate his many excellent qualities, and we deplore his death as a misfortune to the community in which he resided, to the State, and more especially to the newspaper guild, of which he was a conspicuous and useful member. His family and more intimate friends have the profound sympathy of one who knew and loved him.

The Maine farmers in the Legislature are a consistent lot, they hammer liquor selling in the cities on every possible occasion, yet refuse to put under the bar their own bardeider, full of alcohol and strong in the potentiality of drunkard making. And they are a fair sample of most farmers in most Legislatures. -Boston Journal.

This is a fair sample of the current misrepresentation of Maine matters in the press outside the State, and in this particular case rank injustice is done refused to pass the cider bill, has no farmer and lumberman, the farming in each case secondary. The House, which passed the cider bill by a decided majority, contains 34 farmers and 10 who combine farming with some other occupation. The Boston Journal owes an apology to the farmers of Maine.

Until we read the letter of a clergyman in the Bangor Daily News we were not aware that in discussing the local railroad question The Journal had made undue use of the dictionary-in fact we refrained from using many fitting words it contains-and we were further surprised to learn from another source that The Journal had been accused of 'scurrility" in this connection. It is certainly far from our intention to resort to scurrility at any time or under considered a fitting word to characterize our presumption in advocating a public improvement that may "spoil the natural secluded beauty" of someprospect." The quotations are from a report by the Belfast correspondent of the Bangor Daily News, who made a personal canvass in East Belfast.

The arguments (?) advanced against the building of the railroad to Belfast are simply arguments against all improvement and progress the world over. They would prevent the building of wharves on a water front, the felling of forests to open land for cultivation the opening of quarries, the working of mines and mills, and would compel a return to travel by Shanks mare or by stage coach. Are the few who desire to dwell in primeval solitude to deprive the many of all the improvements and advantages of an advancing civilization? Shall business be suspended and the grass allowed to grow in our streets that a few vacationists may monopolize the "entrancing prospect" for a short time in summer? The Journal is as solicitous for the welfare of East Belfast as for any other section of our city. It is very deeply interested in the prosperity and advancement of our city as a whole, of Waldo county, and of the good old State of Maine. This railroad enterprise means more to the county and to the State than is yet generally realized; and yet a few supremely selmal fraction of the whole—would deprive the city, county and State of increased prosperity that they may sit down in solutude and enjoy the view.

A NOVEL CASE

Involving the Manufacture and sale of a Patent Medicine.

Ellsworth, Me., March 24. On Friday, March 31st, there will be a hearing in the municipal court of particular interest to Hancock residents, as at that time, it will in all probability be decided whether or no patent medicines may be manufactured and sold containing a greater percentage of alcohol than allowed by the statutes of the State of Maine.

For sometime western Hancock citizens have been protesting against the manufactured.

For sometime western Hancock citizens have been protesting against the manufacture and sale of a compound for a tonic or medicine which it was alleged contained foremost among its ingredients, liquor or wine. Complaint has been made to the high sheriff and he intended having a bottle analyzed, but before severe measures could be adopted a full barrel of liquor arrived at Bluehill, which was promply seized and brought to Ellsworth, where it is in the custody of Mr. Mayo.

and brought to Ellsworth, where it is in the custody of Mr. Mayo.

The liquor was billed to a medical company under which name medicines are manufactured, and the person identified with the same, a Bluebill man, has been apprehended, and notified to appear at Ellsworth for the appointed hearing.

County Attorney C. H. Wood of Bar Harbor will represent the State at the hearing, and it is understood the defendant has engaged counsel.

Hyomei, the Guaranteed Catarrh Cure Prescribed by Physicians.

A DANGEROUS HABIT.

Gladstone's Physician Gives Warning Against a Growing American Custom

The growing habit among Americans of taking a mint tablet or some other so-called digestive after eating a hearty meal, is something that Sir Andrew Clarke, Mr. Gladstone's physician, advises strongly against, saying, "It is absolutely dangerous to take into the stomach remedies which are popularly supposed to aid in the digestion of food."

There is nothing known to the science of medicine that can perform the work of the human stomach. Drugs do not and cannot digest the food. They simply decompose it. What can be more revolting or disgusting than the thought of taking something into the stomach that is going to turn the good food you have extenitive mass of company. food you have eaten into a mass of corrup-

The Sturgis Commission.

It is announced from Augusta, on apparently good authority, that Governor Cobb will appoint the Sturgis Commission to enforce the prohibitory liquor law before the adjournment of the council, which will be about April 10. There are now 47 applications for the three jobs. Quite a number of them are from pronounced temperance people, a few from temperance agitators, and several from Democrata, most of whom have also called in person. For the one Democrat provided for the measure, Gov. Cobb is said to have in mind Ex-Sheriff A. H. Lang of Skowhegan, who not long ago performed the feat of making Somerset county practically dry.

It will bring rich, red blood, firm flesh and muscle. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will do. Taken this month, keeps you well all summer. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Sold by R. H. Moody.

AN URGENT NEED. Better Provision for the Care of the Dead at Grove Cemetery. A public meeting, called by the Improve ment Society to consider the advisability of erecting a building for a chapel, receiving tomb and office at Grove Cemetery, was held in the court room Wednesday evening, March 22nd. Mrs. Chas. A. Pilsbury, President of the Improvement Society, called the meeting to order and stated its object. Miss Ada Boody of Jackson is attending our High school. It does not seem so very long ago that her mother, then known as Nora Pilley, was a school girl here.

R. A. Hall has been unable to do any work all winter, having been nearly blind. His eyes are improving and he hopes to get to work again when the snow is gone.

Miss Alice L. Dow will leave for Boston Saturday to be absent from home about two weeks. On her return she will be prepared to furnish the latest in the millinery line.

Rev. F. S. Dolliff, who was obliged to resigned his pastorate some months since by reason of ill health, has taken to outdoor work on his farm in Jackson and is looking very much stronger than he did.

The play "Our Jim" was given last week hose in the landscape; but I presume that only a small percentage of the citizens of Beliast realizes the shameful condition inside this tomb. It was originally built with a capacity for 16 old-fashioned coffins, and the modern burial case being larger will not go into the lower tier of shelves. There are now 27 bodies in this tomb, and they are piled 4 tiers deep, just as boxes of merchandise would be piled up; and in order to get into the tomb to deposit remains the bearers are obliged to walk on top of boxes containing remains previously deposited there.

So much for the need of immediate action in this matter. As to what we need I will give you an outline of my personal ideas: The first consideration is a more commodition in this matter. A WORD TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Don't! brethren—to say nothing of the sisters! Please don't use abbreviations in your communications to the Advocate. It is just possible that the editor can put in his spare time to better advantage than in going over your manuscript and writing in the letters that you have omitted. And while we are on this subject, Do! please do write the names of persons and places plainly.—Zion's Advocate.

Same here. Many hours each week are spent in writing out abbrevations and in endeavoring to decipher the names of persons and places. If these are wrongly given the paper is held responsible. Read your items as they appear in type and see yow they should be written.

HAPPY WOMEN

PLENTY OF THEM IN BELFAST, AND GOOD REASON FOR IT.

Wouldn't any woman be happy. After years of backache suffering, Days of misery, nights of unrest, The distress of urinary troubles, She finds relief and cure?

No reason why any Belfast reader Should suffer in the face of evidence like this Mrs. John A. Briggs, living at the corner o Cedar and Elm streets, Belfast, Maine, says: "My back ached severely and I had other symptoms of kidney complaint, and although I was not con fined to my bed I was suffering so much that I was anxious to be rid of the trouble. Any sudden ovement caused a twinge of pain to catch me the back, and if I sat down in a chair I dreaded to get up for this reason. At night I could not rest and no position I assumed in bed was comfortable, and in the morning I arose tired and un refreshed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and so convincing were the endorsements of it that I began using them, and when I had taken a little over two boxes I found that all my trouble had disappeared and that I was completely cured I was so pleased that I gave an unsolicited testi nonial for publication, and now, two years after this experience I have described, I can state that the cure has been permanent, for I have had no return of my trouble. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States Remember the nane-Doan's-and take n

Milk Crust, Tetter, Ringworm, and Scalled Head, and Every Form of Torturing, Disfiguring Humors from Infancy to Age.

CURED BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter, and salt rheum all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not instituted by the standard of t not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the cer-tainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

CAPT. GRAHAM'S CURE

Of Distressing Humour.

Captain W. S. Graham, 1321 Eoff St., Wheeling, W. Va., writing under date of June 14, '04, says: "I am so grateful I want to thank God that a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. I suffered for a long time with sores on my face and back. Some doctors said I had blood poison, and others that I had barbers' itch. None of them did me any good, but they all took my money. My friends tell me my skin now looks as clear as a buby's, and I tell them Cuticura Soap and Ointment did it." Cuticura Soan, Cintment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Potter Frag. Ch. m. For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If you baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

Maine Folks Abroad.

A Word for the Belfast Club of Boston. Maine Reunions in Brockton and Worcester. Mass.

TO ALL BELFAST PEOPLE ABROAD AND AT HOME: The reunion of the Beifast Club of Boston, March 10th, was a most delightful affair and while it is still fresh in our minds I wish, through the medium of The Journal, to catch the ears and hearts of some of our older Belfast people, who have resided in Boston and its suburbs for 25 years or more and no doubt have in some instances lost interest in the old home on the shores of the Penobscot. As a general thing as we grow older our thoughts turn to the home of our youth and we become more or less retrospective and live over the good times and happiness we enjoyed there.

We feel now that the club membership is on a sound foundation; that we can hold what we have; but we want to see a generous increase before another year. The older ones probably reason something like this: there would be few if any that they know, and that they are too old, etc. We are never too old too try and be young, and the best way to keep from growing old is to mingle with young people, and it would be worth while for these same older ones to meet with us and see the bright youths and maidens that are yearly coming to Boston and making homes for themselves in the various walks of life. They are talented and of the right stuff to make all Belfasters proud of them. Three hours at our banquet table, filled with good cheer and laughter, would make your heart beat warmer for the old home and lighten your burdens for many days. I wish some of you gentlemen would emulate the example of our president, Mr. Field, who is showing an interest in the club that gives pleasure and satisfaction to all and ensures a prosperous future for the club. The larger membership we have the better entertainment we can furnish, and it would also help us to assist our good people at home in their various projects for the good of Belfast. We are thinking of having permanent headquarters, where we hope the ladies can meet frequently for social purposes and which will stimulate an interest in keeping the organization alive. No matter if you are baldheaded; there are plenty of your old companions who wear that style of hair and it will not prevent your exchanging stories of old times with the other old boys. And, madam, even if your hair shows silver threads and you wonder how that other gray lady could have been your chum_of youthful days, your heart will warm to school teachers; all bright, brainy men | Clair Deering." and women, whose bright remarks and interest in the prosperity of the club wife. It seemed as though we had been transported to Belfast. I wish more Luther C. Greenleaf, Boston; Rev. J. transported to Belfast. I wish more of our friends "down home" might arrange their business or social trips to Boston coincident with the date of our reunions. They would find a warm welcome. There seems to be no other inducements that I can offer at the present time to become members of the Belfast Club of Boston; but even if you do not care to attend the banquet, why not become a member and pay the annual fee, which will help the good cause along and remind you, lest you forget, that you came from Belfast, Maine. So, I say, come one, come all, another year-eat and be merry at the shrine of good old Belfast.

MRS. A. B. KNIGHT.

Maine Folks in Brockton. Through the efforts of Mr. Russell Gullifer and Mr. Fred C. Jackson, who for the past two months have been earnestly at work endeavoring to bring the State of Maine people together more strongly, about 250 former resi-dents of this State gathered in Pythian Hall last evening. The chief accom-plishment of the evening was the organizing of a society of State of Maine folks.

Tickets were widely sold announcing a social and dance of the "Maineac" Clue, and each purchaser was informed of the object of the party. A dance programme was commenced at 8 o'clock in the main hall, while in the anteroom whist was played. Mr. Gullifer was in the floor and Mr. Jackson was assistant floor director. The aids were Messrs. Samuel Willey, Charles Reckards, Harry Paine, George M. Peabody and Herbert Reckards. Those in charge of the floor wore in the lapels of their coats stems of timothy grass, sent especially for the occasion from the Pine Tree State. The music, that of the old fashioned variety, was furnished by Crafts' orchestra. During intermission lunch was served in the banquet hall under the catering of Mrs.

Anna Young. With the assemblage in the banquet hall, Mr. F. C. Jackson, moderator, announced the intention of the gathering and, after brief introductory remarks, Mr. Harry J. Windle was elected president of the new society and Mr. How ard Thompson secretary and treasurer. An executive committee will soon be appointed and at another meeting it is expected that a constitution and bylaws will be presented. It is expected that within a short time the membership will increase to 500, practically all of those attending last night becoming members.

In the whist contest Mr. Fred R. Shoales secured the gentleman's prize, a vase, and Mrs. William Cochran, a fancy match safe, the lady's prize. Mrs. William D. Thomas and Mr. Henry Webber were awarded ash trays as consolation prizes. There were

Accounting for the reason why so many people have left the State of Maine for Massachu-setts, Mr. Washburn said he did not believe any of them were fugitives from justice, but he thought the men came to Massachusetts for their wives and the wives for their husbands. Of the 200,000 people who have left Maine, nearly half have shown their good taste by taking up their residence in Massachusetts. It would be idle, he said, to talk of the boundaries between States, when the whole country through the magic of modern invention is brought within the sound of human voices. "It is the spirit of Plymouth rock," continued Mr. Washburn, "which has made the people of New England and the country great; the same spirit that fought the Revolution, and that spirit spread into one-third of our population, that fought in the Civil war, and we of Massachusetts and of Maine, bound to-gether by the indissoluble ties of kinship and tradition, may in the spirit of humility, still show that to our fathers is due the rich harvest which we are bound to leave

THE GIRL WHO SMILES.

The wind was East and the chimney smoked,
And the old brown house seemed dreary,
For nobody smiled and nobody joked.
The young folks grumbled, the old folks
croaked;
They had come home chilled and weary.

Then opened the door and a girl came in; Oh, she was homely—very! Her nose was pug, and her cheek was thin, There wasn't a dimple from brow to chin, But her smile was bright and cheery.

She spoke no word of the cold and damp Nor yet of the gloom about her, But she mended the fire, and lighted the lamp,
And she put on the place a different stamp
From that it had without her.

Her dress, which was something in sober brown, And with dampness nearly dripping, She changed for a bright, warm, crimson gown; They forgot the air was nipping; They forgot that the house was a dull old place,

And smoky from base to rafter,
And gloom departed from every face
As they felt the charm of her mirthful And the cheer of her happy laughter.

Oh, give me the girl who will smile and sing, And make all glad together! To be plain or fair is a lesser thing, But a kind, unselfish heart can bring Good cheer in the darkest weather.

Mrs. Searsport to Mrs. Stockton.

Do not laugh so, Mrs. Stockton, Do not try to be so swell, Be not lacking in your manners, And treat your neighbors well.

Do not think because the railroad Is coming to your town,
That you must hold your head up,
And put your neighbors down.

A fine old lady is Mrs. Searsport; She can hold her head up, too; She has never asked for favors That were not her due.

Mrs. Searsport is not envious Of the puffing of your town, But you seem to claim her honors In the swelling of your own.

Oh, don't imagine, Mrs. Stockton, That Mrs. Belfast cares If you laugh and sneer at her When you ought to say your prayers.

Mrs. Belfast's home is pretty, No matter what you say, And the scene is lovely All along the bay.

Now we hope, dear Mrs. Stockton, With your crowded streets and shore, You have gained up just a little, You were rather thin before.

Don't despair, dear Mrs. Stockton, If you want their friendship true,
Love your neighbors as yourself,
And they surely will love you.

THE WINDY DAY.

Oh, the windy day is a laughing day!
For the wind is a funny fellow;
He rollicks and shouts when skies are gray And leaves are turning yellow. The pines, a moment ago so still, Fling out their arms and laugh with a will, Nodding their heads as who should say, "The old wind has an amusing way."

Oh, the windy day is a singing day!
For the wind is a minstrel, strolling
Thro' field and wood, with cheery lay.
Insistent, sweet, cajoling:
The strings of his harp are pine and oak. As he chants his tale to the woodland folk Ah, revelers of old are they When the minstrel wind begins to play!

Oh, the windy day is the vagrant's day!

For the wind is a comrade rover,
Whistling down the great highway
To every hill-road lover:
And whether he whistles or laughs or sings.
Through every vagrant heart there rings
The impelling, world-old call to stray
With the comrade wind for ever and aye.

CARRY COSTLY WOODS. The West Indies also furnish the windjammer with another of its staple windjammer with another of its staple cargoes—lumber. There is a steady procession of sailing vessels to the States and Europe with cargoes of the costliest of all logs—mahogany, mahoe and ebony. Let a schooler in the West Indian lumber trade meet disaster off Hatteras, and valuable woods worth thousands of dollars are fed to the seas. In this quarter of the world, also, the windjammer gets its freight of logwood, whose extract, besides being used legitimately as a dye, frequently enters into many cheap wines, being used to give the stuff the desired color.

Just as every Caribbean port knows

Just as every Caribbean port knows the windjammer intimately, so is it known in the Mediterranean and in the Western Islands, where it takes on cargoes of fruit and races with them to the markets of England and France. Spoilable cargoes have also been carried by the windjammer of late years clear from South Africa to London, a matter of nearly a month's voyage for liners even.

Coal, fruit, lumber, case oil, wool, wheat—these are the staple cargoes of the windjammer today, with scarcely a thought for passengers, as in the good old times. Scarcely a thought, mind you, for, strange as it may seem, a packet line with a regular schedule still runs across the Atlantic, and the lines that sail out of English ports for Australia and New Zealand nearly all make tralia and New Zealand nearly all make a strong bid for passengers—and get enough to justify the expenses incurred in going after and taking care of them.

SCHOONER PACKET LINES.

The American schooner packet line's home is the famous old whaling port of New Bedford. It originated in the days New Bedford. It originated in the days when every whaling ship, leaving New Bedford short of a full crew, made the Western Islands, and there completed the necessary quota with Portuguese, the necessary quota with Portuguese, and the proports came in from the large of the large of the ship reporters about it. But there was no news of the Gamecock was still missing. There had been no rough weather, and no reports came in from anywhere of a vessel on the role of the ship reporters about it. But there was no news of the Gamecock was still missing. There had been no rough weather, and the ship reporters about it. But there was no news of the Gamecock was still missing. There had been no rough weather, and the ship reporters about it. the best lancers and harpooners on the chief reason of the of the windjammer in the body blows which it in New Bedford, and in order to get the Gamecock was not to be found. the course of a hundred the course of a hundred those home who wanted to go a packet line between the whaling center and matted to market in the letime in steam bottargoes go by sail, and little and the New Bedford papers, and shippers and nearly everyone else gave the particular to the solution of the shingles. When on the tenth of November the Gamecock had not been reported the shippers and nearly everyone else gave the particular to the solution. its passengers are Portuguese and descendants of former Portuguese har-scendants of former Portuguese harpooners, who married and settled on abandoned New England farms, their children religiously keeping up inter-course with the "old folks at home," sailing over to see them by the hundreds in summer.
On one of the English lines for the Antipodes the unusual passenger is the teetotaler. Not that you can get anything to drink on board, for the windjammers do not carry a drop of intoxicants, not even for medicinal purposes: but physicians, knowing the line's peculiarly, make use of it to get men suffering from alcoholism, or verging tle to the death.

is just about the length of time needed to accomplish this object. Many an English doctor's standing prescription for a hard drinker is a trip on this line; and, as a result, when one of the wind-jammers is making ready to sail the passengers begin to appear, supported between obliging friends, limp, in cabs, and with eyes seeing the proverbial sea see trade.

But the coastwise windjammer has steam vessel in recent years, and all because the ingenuity of the sailing master has made steam do his bidding. He discovered that he could control at will mate. Some much engine power and equipment as was on the first steamships to cross the Atlantic. Like the majority of the coastwise fleet, they are engaged in carrying such humble cargoes as coal and lumber. Four or five sailors and two officers, with the assistance of the donkey engines, are enough to look after each of these enormous windjammers of 5,000 tons burden and 40,-000 square feet of canvas.

HOW STEAM HELPS. Now quite a few have ting plants, and bring up thean the most spoilable uxuries. before the wind finally shifted and allowed it to head harborward.

When will steam finally, definitely, triumph over the windjammer? Last year, for the first time since 1812, no square-rigged ship was built in America, and only in France is this style of windjammer holding its own. It has been calculated that in twenty years the square-rigger will have disappeared from the American merchant marine. from the American merchant marine. from the American merchant marine. In the meantime, other sorts of wind-jammers are multiplying, and in the meantime, also, a thousand and one things may happen to keep the square-rigger from disappearing—for example, if Congress should pass the present shipping bill, the largest firm of square riggers in America will immediately riggers in America will immediately add several ships to its fleet. GOOD TEMPLARS.

Program Announced for Grand Lodge Annual Meeting.

The 47th annual session of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars will be held at Portland, Mystic Hall, 475 1-2 Con-gress street, April 12th and 13th. Ar-rangements have been made for reduced rates with railroads, hotels, etc.

marked that it did beat all how some folks wanted to go rushing through life and "a-wearin' of 'emselfs out for noth."

It was in the mild September when the Gamecock, with dry pine in the hold and her decks piled boom-high with red cedar shingles, towed out of Bangor to Fort Point cove, whence she was to spread her more or less snowy wings and speed away to Hingham, on Cape Cod, where a builder needed those boards and shingles the worst ways. The passage should, with a fair chance have occupied a nywhere from two day, to a week; but, although the chance was more than fair, Capt. Jabez Lincoln let it slide. He found so many entertaining people and so many comfortable attentials in the session at the hall; 10 a. m., opening of session in Grand Lodge degree, and preparatory business; report of committee on credentials in session at the hall; 10 a. m., opening of session in Grand Lodge degree, and preparatory business; report of committee on credentials; intiation of candidates entitled to the Grand Lodge degree. At the end of two weeks, when the Gamecock had not been reported at Hingham, the consignees began to inquire of the shippers, and the shippers asked the ship reporters about it. But Tuesday evening, April 11, there may be a reception to grand officers and prominent workers at Mystic Hall. Headquarters will be at the Chadwick House, 431 Congress street, near Monument Square, and the Council will be in session Tuesday afternoon or

Looks Like A Mining Town.

A stranger in Bangor these days seeing the number of carts and laborers going through the streets in the early morning might get the impression that mining operations were being conducted near the city. THE COASTWISE TRADE.

All the vessels we have been talking about are engaged in foreign trade exclusively, but there are at least tensailing vessels in the world's coastwise trade to every registered one.
