

Legion Minstrel Revue and Armistice Day Program

Under Auspices of Hazeltine Post. The Minstrel Revue staged by Lyle M. Wilson of the Rogers Producing Company under the auspices of Frank D. Hazeltine of the American Legion of Honor at Colonial Theatre Thursday afternoon evening was a signal success. There were large audiences at both presentations and the most favorable comment is that of the director and of excellent talent. Mr. Wilson used excellent judgment in the selection of his entire cast and is a past master in the art of stage management. He made friends with all he met. He has been on the stage since the late 1800s.

The Legion were so pleased with the Minstrel Revue that they engaged Mr. Wilson to stage another performance for them on Nov. 10, 1922.

The performance was most attractive and the designs and tints; a decorative and popular departure.

Comments were heard on every side of the new Colonial Theatre orchestra. William L. Luce, a born and educated musician, as production pianist, its numbers and accompaniments were splendid attractions.

The performance was in four episodes the leading one fifty minutes of melody. The only thing at all new to the conventional circle and comedians in black face. Their costumes were handsome satin dresses with Dresden silk trimmings, and W. Flanders, the interlocutor, in white suit. His enunciation very distinct, he was graceful and at the homing instinct of many of the jokes was attributed to his landing at the time, but have been flying around town.

The comedians, Bert Davis, Charles and Hammons and Vance Norton, were hilarious and played the game every one with the interlocutor. There were choruses work by the following: Dickiey, Karl Darby, Clyde Shonston Johnson, Frank Libbey, Robert Harding, Harold McKean, Carroll and Claude Clements, Milton Stebbins, Charles Decrow, Cecil Getchell, Strout, John Casey and Walter Holt. The musical numbers were:

Chorus, a fine one, Ensemble
Dance, Mr. Davis
Dumpty, with a fine dance, Mr. McKean and Clements, E. Hammons
Norton

Up and Sing for Your Father, C. Hammons
That's All, Mr. McKean

The impulsive encores showed the audience with which they were received. There was a dull minute in the hour.

second episode, "Tell Me Pretty Girl" from Florodora, with Misses Head, Katherine and Elizabeth and Alice Wardwell and Messrs. Casey, Johnson, Libbey, Parker, and in the cast was a genuine attraction to youth. The young ladies in beauty and becoming gowns and sport suits. The music, text and dance steps were new and the last act done. They smilingly responded to the encores of a delighted audience.

Director Wilson and Mr. Davis in black furnished the third episode with a light, bright and breezy bit. It was a fine form, true to the text with its little brass horn convulsed audience, especially when he ruined the episode and his previous vocal including "Rosy Cheeks," showed familiarity with stage tactics.

Chinese fantasy, "Nothing But" was one of the best things presented here by our present day amateurs. Miss Hammons did some star work, Flanders and Harold Ladd were in spirit of their parts, some of which were difficult. Mrs. Basil R. Allen was daintily and sweet in a picturesque gown of the titled Chinese and her solos were charming. She was at her best. The costumed Chinese maids and coolies were attractive and did good work in developing the episode. The musical numbers: Chinese Love Song, Maids and Coolies Fast Asleep in Poppytan.

Chinese Coolies: Messrs. Casey, Clements, Darby, Johnson, Libbey, Shorey.

Armistice Day
It was the first white Armistice Day in local history and the storms of the past few days also prevented the foot ball game scheduled between Hazeltine Post and the High school. All business was suspended and the silence resembling Sunday was accentuated by the ringing of the church bells a quarter of an hour before the call to the two-minute silent prayer at 12. This was very generally observed even by people on the street.

The Schools' Armistice Program
One of the most impressive features of the day was the assembling of over six hundred pupils with their teachers and friends in the Armory at 11.45 a. m. The High school and all the Grades met in their respective buildings and marched to the hall. This thought was suggested by Supt. E. E. Roderick and it is hoped that it may be a feature in years to come. The committee in charge of the program was Principal Harry A. Foster and Submaster Wm. McK. Damm of the B. H. S., Miss Lila Sprague and Mrs. Sarah F. Knight. The program opened with America, sung by the High and Grammar Grades; reading of President Harding's Proclamation by Ermo Scott; two minutes of silent prayer, followed by prayer by Rev. Charles W. Martin. This was most impressive, as in an audience of so many children it was noted that the ticking of the watch held by Mr. Martin could be heard some distance. Scripture reading interspersed with remarks, Rev. George C. Sauer; Acrostic on Armistice by the following Grade IV pupils: Charlotte Cooper, Hilda Tuttle, Hugh Davis, Drusilla Roderick, Lawrence Dow, Evelyn Towle, Ruth Foster, Katherine Pineo, Kermit Robertson, Ruth Thomas, Elizabeth Staples and Sarah Knowlton; singing The Marseillaise by High and Grammar Grades; short address by Commander Ralph A. Bramhall of Frank D. Hazeltine Post. It made a lasting impression on his young audience as he urged them to salute the flag and stand at attention when the Stars and Stripes go by. He pictured conditions at the front when the Armistice was signed as he saw and heard it in the thickest of that awful slaughter of our young manhood. The teachers speak in the highest terms of Mr. Bramhall's address and the absorbed attention his young audience gave him. Lester Cilley and Carlton Robbins of Grade VI Peirce school presented a dialogue, "We are the Men of Coming Years." Rev. William Vaughan gave a very interesting address on the day and its significance. Kermit Nickerson of the High school read poem "A Tribute to the Unknown Dead" and this was followed by the clear notes of Taps by Donald Knowlton of the High school. The program closed by the audience singing the Star Spangled Banner. Miss Alice Robbins was the pianist.

The Armistice Ball
The Armory was most appropriately decorated Friday evening for this annual event. The balcony was draped with red bunting, relieved with flags and pennants, while Japanese lanterns galore were arranged in lines from the ceiling to the walls. There was a very large attendance and an apparent spirit of happiness. By request the first episode of the Legion Minstrel Revue was repeated with fine effect. McKean's orchestra furnished music for the dance from 9.30 until midnight.

Hazeltine Post's net receipts were about $300; $180 from the minstrel revue and $120 from the concert and ball.

The Maine Organization of the Wilson Foundation

Ex-Senator Charles F. Johnson of Portland, Maine, chairman of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation for Maine, called a meeting of the chairmen and chairwomen of the State, Saturday, Nov. 12th, at the Augusta House, Augusta, Maine.

Hon. Selwyn Thompson, county chairman, and Mrs. R. L. Cooper, county chairwoman, both of this city, were in attendance.

Judge Charles F. Johnson and Mrs. W. R. Pattangall, State chairwoman, addressed the meeting, explaining fully the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, which is created by public subscription in recognition of the national and international services of Woodrow Wilson, twice President of the United States, who furthered the cause of human freedom and was instrumental in pointing out effective methods for the co-operation of the liberal forces of mankind throughout the world. The Award of Awards from the income of the Foundation will be made from time to time by a nationally constituted committee to the individual or group that has rendered within a specified period, meritorious service to Democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice.

The National Committee, consisting of 250 representative men and women, with Franklin D. Roosevelt as chairman, have undertaken to establish The Woodrow Wilson Foundation. The purpose of the Foundation is to honor a great American and to create a method whereby public service will be encouraged and conspicuously recognized in this and future generations. From the income of the Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson Award or Awards will be granted in recognition of distinguished public service.

To establish this Foundation on a fitting basis, the National Committee, through an organization in each State, will make an appeal for a popular subscription. The amount of the fund sought is $1,000,000 or more. The active campaign throughout the country will begin the week of Jan. 16, 1922. Subscriptions, however, will be received at any time at National Headquarters or to the local chairmen and chairwomen of our State.

The meeting was a success in every way and much enthusiasm has been created and interest aroused in every section of our State. All phases relative to raising the fund were discussed and an Executive Committee was elected as follows:

Ex-Senator Charles F. Johnson of Portland, Chairman.
Hon. Bertram G. McIntire of Norway, Vice Chairman.
Gov. Governor Oakley C. Curtis of Portland, Treasurer.

Mr. William F. Curran of Bangor, Secretary.
Hon. J. S. P. H. Wilson of Auburn and Dr. C. M. Sleeper of Portland
The co-operation of those interested will be greatly appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Creamer of Calais have been guests the past week of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Patterson. Mr. Creamer was an addition to the Colonial orchestra during his visit.

For the sake of humanity and against the time of your own personal need, support the Red Cross and so help in the public health work. Please be ready with membership fees and subscriptions.

GOV. BAXTER

Endorses Red Cross Seal Sale.

My dear Mr. Thurbur:
I desire to give both my personal and official endorsement to the Fourteenth Annual Sale of Christmas Seals which is about to begin under the auspices of the Maine Public Health Association. The work that your association is doing in arousing an interest in the public health of this State is of inestimable value. An example of what may be accomplished in overcoming preventable diseases is the reduction of deaths from tuberculosis in Maine from 1613 in the year 1892 to 789 in 1919. It is especially important to interest the children of the State in public health matters and in the sale of your seals. To show my appreciation in a practical way I shall have a public health seal placed on all my personal and official correspondence beginning at Thanksgiving and extending through the period of the campaign. I assure you of my deep interest in your work and wish you every success.

Sincerely Yours,
PERCIVAL P. BAXTER,
Governor of Maine.

MOSES F. HURD.

Mr. Moses F. Hurd, of North Belfast died Nov. 9th after a long illness. He was born in Levant Nov. 26, 1840, the son of Lewis and Eliza Hurd. He enlisted as a soldier in the Civil War Oct. 10, 1861, and received an honorable discharge June 12, 1865. In 1865 he married Miss Rose Brown of Keegan, who died many years ago, leaving one daughter, Charlotte L., wife of Mr. Harlan Perkins of Bangor, who survives. Feb. 3, 1883, he married Miss Sarah F. Craig of Winn, who survives him and who has been a most devoted wife and companion; giving him her unfailing care and anticipating his every need. Two children were born from this union, Mamie, wife of W. J. Roberts of North Belfast and Harry F. Hurd of Bedford, Mass. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Daniel Cool of Corinth and by several nephews and nieces, also three grandchildren, Hazel, Helen and Thurber Roberts. He was a good citizen, always cheerful and ready with a kind word for all. He was a member of the G. A. R. and always attended the meetings of the Veterans' Association when able to do so. Funeral services were held at his late home Friday, Rev. William Vaughan officiating. There were many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends. The bearers were W. H. Walton, James Roberts, F. L. Bartlett and W. G. Hatch. The interment was in the family lot at the Head of the Tide Cemetery.

EDWARD W. SHACKFORD.

Edward W. Shackford died at his home at the corner of High and Peach streets last Sunday night at the age of 75 years. He came to Belfast about four years ago from East Weymouth, Mass., when his health failed and he was obliged to give up his occupation as a house painter. At that time he had a shock but was able to be about as usual until two months ago he had a severe one from which he never rallied and failed gradually until the end. In all this time he had the unremitting care of his devoted wife. During his residence he had made many friends, particularly among the Odd Fellows, as for over fifty years he had been a member of Crescent Lodge, I. O. O. F., of East Weymouth. Waldo Lodge members have been attentive to him in his illness. His widow and one son, Charles L. Shackford of Brookline, Mass., survive him. Their only daughter, Mrs. A. D. Brewer of Stockton Springs, died here last summer. His son and wife arrived here last Saturday and remained until after the funeral which took place at his late home Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock under the auspices of Waldo Lodge with Rev. N. F. Atwood of Searsport officiating. His remains will be taken to East Weymouth for interment next Friday.

The Belfast Chamber of Commerce cancelled the "get-together trip" last week as president B. L. Davis and others interested were in the Legion Minstrel Revue.

CHESTER BOWLER CUSHMAN.

Montville and many in other towns were shocked and saddened to hear of the death of Chester B. Cushman, who passed away Thursday, Nov. 3rd, aged 36 years. Taken away in his young manhood; with everything to live for, capable, energetic and popular, with bright prospects for the future, a devoted wife, an interesting family of children, mother, brother and a sister living nearby, who are all inconsolable with this great loss. He had not been in his usual health all summer, was taken ill in October, was attended by the best of physicians and a registered nurse, but after great suffering he passed away with a complication of liver and kidney troubles. Mr. Cushman was born in Center Montville, the eldest son of the late Oscar C. and Emma (Bowler) Cushman. He attended the town schools and was graduated from Freedom Academy in June 1906. In August of that year he went to Bethel to work in the office of his uncle, E. C. Bowler, then editor of the Oxford County Citizen. There he met Miss Lula Marie Arno and they were married June 8, 1908. Four daughters have been born to them, with ages from 12 to 5 years—Helen Bernice, Carolyn Emma, Margaret Eloise and Pearl Dorothy. His father's health failing, he returned to the home farm in Montville in December 1910 and went into trade at the Center with P. A. Clement, under the firm name of Clement & Cushman. Later he took charge of his uncle's, the late Frank A. Cushman's farm, when he was elected sheriff in 1912 and remained there until he passed away. He leaves besides his immediate family, one brother, Harold Ernest, and one sister, Cassie—Eva Cushman on the home place with their mother in Montville, and an aged grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bowler of Palermo. Mr. Cushman had served the town as treasurer a number of years, was the second select man of Montville at the time of his death. His funeral was held at his late home Sunday, Nov. 6th, Rev. Charles W. Martin of the Methodist church of Belfast officiating. Liberty Lodge of Masons, of which he was a member, conducted their last rites with forty of their members present. A great profusion of beautiful flowers were appreciated by the bereaved ones: Several community pieces, floral tributes from Union Harvest Grange, the Mc Cabees, Oxford County Citizen, and numerous friends and relatives. The bearers were Milton Wentworth, Penion Clement, Earle Howes and Oramandel Morse. He was laid to rest in the Cushman family lot. The relatives from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bowler and E. C. Bowler, Jr., of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Bowler and Miss Katherine Bowler of Palermo, Mrs. C. L. Arno of Davenport, Iowa, and Mr. Ivan Arno of Errol, N. H.—N. B. T.

ELINOR GLYN IN FILM

Famous Novelist Seen in DeMille's "The Affairs of Anatol."

Every reader of novels knows Mme. Elinor Glyn, author of "Three Weeks" and other novels of international fame. She wrote the story of "The Great Moment," in which Gloria Swanson stars and during the filming of Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount production of "The Affairs of Anatol" which will be shown at the Colonial Theatre Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 5 and 6. Mme. Glyn was induced to permit herself to be screened with others in a society scene of which there are many in this remarkable all-star photoplay. The celebrated author is seated with Lady Parker, wife of Sir Gilbert Parker, at a fashionable tea given at the home of Anatol DeWitt Spencer, the hero of the story. Only a momentary glimpse of the two ladies is given and those who desire to study their faces must look sharp. Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson, Elliott Dexter, Babe Daniels, Monte Blue, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts and Polly Moran have the leading roles in this great picture production.

THE BELFAST TEACHERS' CLUB

The regular meeting of the Teachers' Club was held Monday evening at the Grammar building. After the business meeting an interesting program was given on the recent Portland Convention:

Good English for Youngsters, Miss Jane Brown; The American Student and His Pen, Mrs. Georgia B. Parker; When is a Child Educated? Mrs. Annie K. Adams; Department of Rural Schools, prepared by Miss Mary Woodbury and read by Miss Grace A. Lord; Report of the Commercial Department, Mr. Daniel M. McInnis; Report of a Personal Talk with Prof. Burdge, Principal Harry A. Foster; Promotions, Supt. E. E. Roderick; Mathematics, Mrs. E. Eirena Luce.

After paying an intimate and glowing eulogy on the late Miss Frances A. Sargent, the following resolutions, presented by Maud F. Townsend, Annie K. Adams, Annie C. Black, Ella K. Foster and Mary A. Houston, were adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of Frances Adelia Sargent, the Belfast Teachers' Club has lost a loyal member and a most hearty supporter.

Resolved, That we as an organization express our deepest sympathy to the stricken mother in the loss of so devoted a daughter.

Resolved, That a page in the records of this Club be set apart in her memory.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon our records and a copy sent to the bereaved mother and also published in the local paper.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, The great and supreme Ruler of the universe has in his infinite wisdom removed from among us one of our worthy co-laborers and sisters, Nettie M. White; and, whereas, the long and intimate relation held with her in the interest she showed for this organization makes it befitting that we record our appreciation of her; therefore,

Resolved, That the ability which she has exercised in the aid of our organization will be held in grateful remembrance.

Resolved, That the removal of such a life from among our midst leaves a vacancy that will be realized by all the members and friends of this organization, and will prove a serious loss.

Resolved, That with deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who goeth all things well.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of our order, a copy printed in the local paper and a copy forwarded to the bereaved family.

Cotton mills are said to be running at nearly full time. The Pennsylvania railroad has increased its employes by about 7,000. Reports of building activities show that more contracts were made during last October than in any other month for more than a year.

It frequently happens in Congress that the calendar of the day carries so many matters assigned for consideration that members wishing to make a speech cannot get an opportunity to do so. In such instances "leave to print" is usually granted and the speech is printed in the Congressional Record.

their fealty to all other organizations even to the government which protects them and their families and pays them good wages. If half the charges of Mr. Blanton against this little union are true there should be a house cleaning in the department of the public printer.

"Whom the gods wish to destroy, they first make mad." The drivers of milk wagons in New York City struck a few days ago. There were about 12,000 of them. Their wage was $35 a week and many of them had a side rake-off which made their pay $45 a week.

Mr. Vernon Kellogg has been associated with Mr. Hoover in foreign relief work for more than six years. He returned recently from Russia where he has been engaged in relief work and has told the Senate committee on foreign relief work about conditions there. We give a summary of what he said:

The Bangor & Aroostook is the most prosperous railroad in New England. The figures for this year made up to Oct. 1, show that the net income for the above period was $625,416. Its net income for a similar period last year was $370,723.

The consumption of gasoline in this country during the first eight months of this year totaled a little more than 70,000,000 barrels, an increase of more than 5,000,000 barrels over the quantity used during the same months of last year.

At an auction held a few days ago by the government, for the sale of surplus wool bought during the war, Mr. William M. Woods, president of the American Woolen Co., bought 940,000 pounds. This company controls more than 50 woolen mills and its managers evidently believe that their business is about to improve.

Since 1789 the treasury of the United States has paid out for war and for things relative or resultant from war, the enormous sum of $52,607,489,427. Only a little more than one-fifth of its disbursements has been for the maintenance of civil government during the existence of our National Government.

The Kennebec Journal says: "State Pier news continues to come, even if in limited quantities."

Don't worry neighbor. We shall learn all we want to know about the State Pier before the tax payers have redeemed the last of the $1,150,000 bonds plus four per cent interest.

Leaving Russia out of the tabulation it has been found that this year's wheat crop is 170,000,000 bushels more than that of 1920. The Department of Agriculture reports show that the winter wheat crop in the United States is in favorable condition.

This year has been a prosperous one for the Eastern Steamship Lines. The net surplus earned up to Oct. 1 being $835,168. For the same months last year the net surplus was only $70,013.

Flour, which was quoted at $11.50 a year ago at Minneapolis, a great milling point, was quoted last week at $7.00 a barrel.

The American Thanksgiving
A Proclamation by the President of the United States

"That season has come when, alike in pursuance of a devout people's time-honored custom in grateful recognition of favoring national fortunes, it is proper that the President should summon the nation to a day of devotion, of thanksgiving for blessings bestowed and of prayer for guidance in modes of life that may deserve continuance of Divine favor."

"Foremost among our blessings is the return of peace, and the approach to normal ways again. The year has brought us again into relations of amity with all nations after a long period of struggle and turbulence. In thankfulness therefore, we may well unite in the hope that Providence will vouchsafe approval to the things we have done, the aims which have guided us, the aspirations which have inspired us."

"We shall be prospered as we shall deserve prosperity, seeking not alone for the material things but for those of the spirit as well; earnestly trying to help others; asking, before all else, the privilege of service. As we render thanks anew for the exaltation which came to us, we may fittingly petition that moderation and wisdom shall be granted to rest upon all who are in authority, in the way that they must discharge. Their hands will be steadied, their purposes strengthened, in answer to our prayers."

Ours has been a favored nation in the bounty which God has bestowed upon it. The great trial of humanity, though indeed we bore our part as well as we were able, left us comparatively little scarred. It is for us to recognize that what we have been thus favored, and when we gather at our altars to offer up thanks, we will do well to pledge, in humility and all sincerity, our purpose to prove deserving. We have been raised up and preserved in national power and consequence, as part of a plan whose wisdom we can not question. Thus believing, we can do no less than hold our nation in the willing instrument of the Providence which has so wonderfully favored us. Opportunity for very great service awaits us if we shall prove equal to it. Let our prayers be raised for direction in the right path. Under God, our responsibility is great; to our own first; to all men afterward; to all mankind in God's own justice. Now, therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, President of the United States, do hereby designate Thursday, the 24th day of November, to be observed by the people as a day of Thanksgiving, devotion and prayer; urging that at their hearthstones and their altars they will give thanks for all that has been rendered unto them, and will pray for a continuance of the Divine fortune which has been showered so generously upon this nation."

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the United States of America.
"Done at the capital of the United States, this 31st day of October, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-sixth.
WARREN G. HARDING
By the President:
"CHARLES E. HUGHES,

SHEEP, OF ALL FARM STOCK, ARE THE MOST DIFFICULT TO JUDGE

The External Parts of a Sheep—1, Muzzle Broad, Lips Thin, Nostrils Large; 2, Face Short, Features Clean-Cut; 3, Eyes Large and Clear; 4, Forehead Broad; 5, Ears Alert and Not Coarse; 6, Poll Wide; 7, Top of Shoulder Compact; 8, Neck Short, Thick, Blending Smoothly With Shoulder; 9, Shoulder Thickly Covered With Flesh; 10, Back Broad, Straight, Thickly and Evenly Covered; 11, Ribs Long, Well Sprung, and Thickly Covered; 12, Loins Broad, Thick, and Well Covered; 13, Hips Wide and Smooth; 14, Rump Long, Level and Wide to Dock; 15, Dock Thick; 16, Twist Deep and Firm; 17, Thighs Full, Deep and Wide; 18, Legs Straight, Short, and Bone Smooth; 19, Cod or Purse in Wether, Scrotum in Ram, Udder in Ewe; 20, Flank Full and Deep; 21, Forelegs Straight, Short, and Strong; 22, Chest Deep, Wide, and Full; 23, Forelegs Wide Apart and Forearm Strong; 24, Brisket Full and Rounding in Outline; 25, Breast Well Extended.

After practice in score-card judging—comparing the exhibited animal with an ideal, for it takes a good animal to score 75 and a choice animal to be marked 90—one is ready to judge by comparing animals one with another. Keep in mind the standard they should approach, and appraise them against one another, point by point, following the same systematic method as with the score card.

It is important to be able to tell the approximate age of a sheep by the teeth. Lambs have a full set of baby or "milk" teeth soon after birth. At from twelve to fourteen months two permanent teeth appear at the center; two more, adjoining, at from twenty-two to twenty-four months; a third pair at thirty-four to thirty-six months; and the full set at forty-six to forty-eight months. From then on only an estimate can be made. As the sheep grows older the teeth gradually spread and become shorter with wear. Still later, sheep gradually lose their teeth. A broken-mouth sheep has difficulty in eating and should not be kept in the flock.

Can you judge sheep? If you can, you are somewhat above the ordinary run of stock raisers, because of all farm animals, in the estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture, the sheep is the most difficult to appraise accurately. With horses, cattle, swine, or poultry the eye will tell much as to the quality for any purpose desired, and by seeing the animals constantly the breeder or handler learns to estimate their worth, point by point. But a sheep with full fleece is, like certain members of the human race, artfully dressed—its clothing may conceal defects that make it absolutely undesirable, or at least detract from its worth. Sheep Judging Requires Study.

Nevertheless, sheep judging is possible to anyone who will give it study and practice and the eye is an important agent, although it must be assisted by a careful inspection with the hand. Any sheep raiser who desires to improve his flock can profit by attending the next county or state fair and following the judges as they go through the sheep pens. If the judges will permit one to try his hand and check up against their findings, it will be much better. A good score card is essential, and one is contained in Farmers' Bulletin 1199, "Judging Sheep," sent on request by the department.

The experienced judge may not appear to spend any time looking at the sheep before he starts the hand inspection; but as a matter of fact, his practiced eye takes in the entire contour, build, and bearing. The student-judge should stand away and carefully view the animal from the front, side, and rear.

The score card allows 25 out of 100 points for general appearance, of which normal weight counts 5; form is given 10, the specifications being straight top and under line, deep, broad, low set for breed, compact, well proportioned. Under "quality," to which another 10 is assigned, the score card specifies: Hair, fine; bone, fine, but strong; features, fine, but not delicate; skin pink; After the sheep has been inspected from a distance, one should check up his observations by going over the animal's body with the hand, keeping in mind the first impressions. Practice is necessary to get the correct touch. Pounding and clawing are out of order. Do not muss the fleece if the animal has been prepared for exhibition.

The score card allows 12 points for condition, comprising an even, deep, firm flesh covering, with fullness in shoulder and brisket, thick covering over top of shoulders, back, rib, and thick dock. Points Noted in Judging. Head and neck are given nine points, of which five go for a head with clean-cut, strong mouth, thin lips, large nostrils, large, clear eyes, alert look, short face, broad forehead, alert and well-spaced ears. Four points are given to a neck short, thick and smoothly joined to the shoulder.

Ten points are assigned to the fore-quarters of which eight may be given to the shoulders. They should be compact on top, smoothly joined with neck and body, and well covered with flesh. One point goes to a full, well-rounded, and well-extended brisket, and one to straight, short legs, set well apart. The body may count 18 points—two for deep, wide, full chest; four for ribs well sprung, close and thickly covered; six for straight, broad back, thickly and evenly covered with flesh; six for wide, thick loin, well covered. Seventeen points are given to perfect hind quarters. Level, smooth hips, wide apart, count one; long level, wide rump, thick at dock, four; full, deep, wide thighs, four; deep, firm, plump twist, joined well down on leg, five; straight, short legs, wide apart, one. The udder in ewes or the scrotum in rams counts two if well formed. Nine points are given to wool—three for quantity, three for quality, and three for condition.

THE SHIP, WILLIAM P. FRYE
Hon. Harold M. Sewell of Bath of the firm of Arthur Sewell and Company, Shipbuilders and Ship Owners, has presented to the State an oil painting of the ship, "William P. Frye." This ship was the first American ship to be destroyed during the war by Germany. She was in the Pacific Ocean and was sunk by the German raider Prinz Eitel Frederic. The picture shows the "Frye" with all sails set and Governor Baxter has hung it in the State Reception Room of the Blaine House so that all the visitors may see it. This ship was a fine example of the old-time industry of the State of Maine, of which Senator Frye was a sturdy advocate and defender. It is a strange turn of fate that the ship named for Senator Frye should be the first one sunk by Germany, because the Senator was the first U. S. Senator to denounce Germany for breaking faith with us and to denounce her for her usurpation in Samoa, upon the occasion when she displayed her devious diplomacy. Senator Frye led the fight on the floor of the Senate which forced Germany to recede from her position, and the ship which bore his name was the first to fall a victim to her ruthless depredations on the sea.

YEAST NOT GOOD FOR LAYING HENS
Preliminary Tests by Government Not Satisfactory.
Egg Production is Not Increased Because Birds Soon Tire of the Mixture When It is Kept in a Moist Condition.
(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Preliminary tests have been carried on by the poultry husbandry division of the United States Department of Agriculture in the use of yeast as a feed for laying hens, the theory being that this material was extremely high in vitamins and particularly valuable in the dietary of laying hens. In the initial test the yeast was dissolved in warm water, added to the mash, and the mixture allowed to stand for 24 hours until the yeast had thoroughly permeated the feed. While the hens ate this mash fairly well, with the result that their egg production was slightly increased for a short period, apparently they soon tired of the mixture and did not consume it with a relish. Subsequently decreased egg production resulted and the mortality among the fowls which received the yeast was noticeably higher than the pens not receiving it. It is thought that this mortality was due to changes occurring in the mash which developed while it was being held in a moist condition for the 24-hour period previous to feeding, rather than as a result of the yeast itself. The moist mash was discontinued and the experimental pens were put on a dry mash containing one per cent of dried fresh yeast. The condition of the flock improved materially with this change, and the birds soon resumed their normal appearance, with fair egg production. However, the egg yield was not greater than that from check pens without the yeast. Thereafter three per cent of yeast which was air and sun-dried and fed in a ground condition was used in the mash without any perceptible increase in egg production. These tests in the feeding of yeast were not conducted on a very extensive scale, not long enough to determine thoroughly its value. The results were not promising and unless some better method of feeding the yeast is found this product is not likely to be of much value for laying hens. Richer in Protein. Sweet clover, although slightly richer in protein than alfalfa and red clover, is not as good a hay plant as either alfalfa or red clover.

DON'T THINK SHE COULD LAST LONG

so grateful for the way Tanlac restored my health that I am only too glad to tell of my experience with the benefit of others," said Mrs. Anna Dugas, 1354 Elm street, Manchester, N. H.

"A whole year before I started taking Tanlac I was troubled so much with indigestion that life was a perfect misery. Every meal I had severe pains in my stomach and would bloat up until I could scarcely breathe. I desired for food and often went to bed without eating a good meal. I was so weak the least little exertion would exhaust me, my nerves were all upset, I could get no restful sleep at night and I think I could have gone on forever without breaking down."

"I want to say that Tanlac has done more good than all the other medicines put together. I can eat three meals a day and never suffer in the least with pains or gas. My nerves are steady as a clock, and I sleep so soundly that I get up in the morning as fresh as a lily. I have so much more energy and vigor that my household pressure, and I think that all who suffer as I did should know what medicine Tanlac is."

Tanlac is sold in Belfast by Read & S. J. Glidden, Freedom; S. M. Sneyd, S. M. Ross, Lincoln; Scribner Drug Co., and by the druggists in every town.

Waldo County Pomona

Waldo County Pomona Grange was entertained by Mrs. Grange, Belfast, Tuesday, Nov. 16. About 100 patrons were present. W. B. Aborn was in the chair and all officers in their places.

After the usual routine business Deputy Sheriff Woods was called upon and made a report in regard to his official duties in his jurisdiction. One candidate received instruction in the fifth grade. Then came the noon banquet and all were happy.

Grange convened at 2 p. m., music by Mrs. Henry Elms and happily proceeded to Lucy Cochrane, past president of Seaside Grange, Belfast. The speaker then introduced Miss Myra Parsons, R. N., who represents the Maine Department of Health, also of the United States Public Health Service, who gave a very fine address on social hygiene and the grange. Every father and mother of every boy and girl in the county should hear her earnest and practical advice on matters and diseases not often discussed in public, showing the evils brought by the ignorance of children and the dangers on every hand ready to strike the innocent as well as the guilty. She said the remedy must be to give recreation, chaperonage for dancing and joy rides, purity of food and receipt, and first, last and all-important education along all lines.

After this she presented the story—"The Road"—in four reels, the scenes being very clear and clean. The address of her address and of the pictures was very interesting, especially the young, to keep pure, if they would be happy.

After getting late the rest of the program was not taken up. A rising of thanks was given Miss Parsons of the grange.

The census 12 granges responded. Patrons from Knox county and one from Kennebec county were present.

Next Pomona Grange will be with Mrs. Ritchie Grange, Waldo, Dec. 6.

CENTER MONTVILLE

W. J. Quith has been very ill, but is recovering.

Mrs. Caroline Arno of Bethel is with her daughter, Mrs. C. B. Cushman.

We are mourning the loss of one of our best and best young citizens in the person of Chester Bowler Cushman, who occurred Thursday, November 3d. Cushman has been in failing health some months. He was of a quiet, unassuming disposition and his death did not realize he was nearly through a few weeks ago. He was Master of Union Harvest Grange, second select of the town, and a member of Liberty Lodge of F. & A. M. He conducted a large farm formerly owned by his father, the late Sheriff Frank A. Cushman and conducted a successful job of office known as "The Cushman Hat Shop." He was a graduate of Central Academy and a man of good character and always reliable. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. The funeral service was held at the home of the Rev. Charles W. Martin of Belfast on Sunday afternoon. The service was brief but touched the hearts of a large assembly. He leaves a widow, two young daughters, his mother, Mrs. Anna Cushman, a brother and sister, and Cassie, and many other relatives. He was the eldest child of the late Oscar C. Cushman.

New Trial in Collemer-Player Case.

A special from Augusta under date of Nov. 8th gives the receipt in one of Waldo County's most interesting cases:

Augusta, Nov. 8.

The Law Court Tuesday handed down a receipt in the Waldo county case of Ralph M. Collemer vs. Preston Player, sustaining the motion of the defendant, setting aside the verdict and granting a new trial.

The Receipt Per Curiam is as follows: Action to recover damages for personal injuries suffered through alleged negligence of defendant. The plaintiff was employed by defendant during the fall and winter of 1917-1918 as caretaker on Mark Island, owned by defendant, off the coast of Maine about three miles from Dark Harbor. On the twenty-first day of January, 1918, he returned to the Island from Dark Harbor in a motor boat during a cold, stormy afternoon. For hauling up the boat beyond danger from the sea, the defendant had provided a substantially constructed railway on which ran a car or cradle; this cradle was heavily weighted with stones that it might be run down the railway into the water beneath the boat; both were then hauled upon the railway to a place of safety, by means of a rope and winch. The plaintiff was injured while removing ice from the railway in order to let the cradle run down to the water.

The case is before the Law Court upon general motion by defendant to set aside a verdict by plaintiff. The testimony of the plaintiff is the only evidence as to the circumstances of the injury.

Upon a careful examination of the record the court is constrained to find that it entirely fails to sustain the verdict upon both grounds essential to the maintenance of the action.

1. Alleged Negligence of Defendant. The declaration charges negligence in that the defendant "provided for the plaintiff's use a cradle or run-way for hauling and hauling out said boat which was unsafe, unsuitable and out of repair."

The evidence shows that both cradle and railway were substantially built and in good repair; whatever slight repairs were needed from time to time had been made by the plaintiff in the performance of his duty as caretaker. The unsuitableness claimed was that the cradle was too heavy for one man to handle.

However, the plaintiff testifies that the winter he used the cradle ten or 20 times, and that on the night he was hurt his wife, a small woman, alone turned the winch and hauled up the cradle loaded with rock, so that he could get out from under it.

But the case shown affirmatively that his injury cannot be attributed to any unsuitableness of the railway or cradle but to the action of the elements, during a severe wintry storm.

2. Contributory negligence of plaintiff. In that winter's story the ice formed on the railway preventing the weighted cradle from running down to the water. The plaintiff accordingly slackened the rope for a foot or more and then removed the ice from the railway letting the cradle run down the length of the slack rope; he then repeated the operation. While so doing he placed himself directly in front of the cradle and was injured.

Such voluntary exposure to danger falls nothing short of negligence. The cradle was not over 12 feet long and by going around the upper end he would have avoided all danger; the ice would not have appreciably increased in the time required to do so.

The verdict is so clearly wrong as to require us to set it aside.

Motion sustained.

Verdict set aside.

New trial granted.

World War Isn't Over for These Two

CHEYENNE, WYO.—It's a far call from the war-torn Germany of 1916 to the peaceful Chugwater Flats, Wyo., of 1921, but Adolf Pfänder made it in his confession here of an attempt to rob the state bank of Chugwater by himself and his ally, Herman J. Kusel, in a declaration of war against America and all things American. Kusel, old enough to be Pfänder's father—grim, taciturn, fidgeting from the sting of more than 300 birdshot in his back and arms—listened to his young confederate's disconnected narrative and affirmed outstanding points by interjecting guttural sentences.

Kusel, fifty-five years old, Swiss by birth, was shot down and captured at Chugwater. Pfänder, plunging into a thicket, escaped for the time, made his way afoot, by automobile and by train 110 miles to Bushnell, Neb., in 26 hours, and there was arrested by pursuing officers in a clothing store which he and Kusel had established as a base for their campaign against American law and order.

Kusel, when the war broke out, was a tailor at Sterling, Colo.; Pfänder was a student in Germany. They were acquainted, but how they became so the story did not reveal. Kusel, the Swiss, was intensely pro-German in sympathy; so strongly so, in fact, that eventually after the United States entered the war, he was adjudged an enemy alien, it is alleged, and his little property was confiscated. Before that took place, however, he admitted that he had conspired with Pfänder for the latter to come to America and engage with him in securing information which might aid Germany in combating America.

He joined Kusel too late for consummation of their plan to aid Germany by acting as spies, but their mutual hatred of America and everything American inspired them to combine revenge with profit by striking at what they conceived to be the Americans' pocketbooks; and this, they decided, best might be accomplished by the robbery of banks.

First Theft of Airplane in History

Charles Heinz, a farmer, pulled Strand out of the wreckage. He took him to Dr. G. W. Barry, 1640 Hinman avenue, for treatment. Then Strand, with a turban of bandages, limped aboard a Chicago bound elevated train.

Meanwhile, Burmeister, finding his airplane had been stolen, telephoned Chief of Police Charles W. Leggett, who notified the detective bureau in Chicago. Strand was arrested as he stepped off the "L" train at Randolph and Wabash. Then he fainted from pain.

"I wanted to go barnstorming. I didn't have any money; so I swiped the ship," said Strand. "I was wandering around Evanston and I saw the plane. 'That's my ship,' I said, 'and I started off. After getting up 1,200 feet I found that the pistons were sticking and the water was out of the radiator. The engine got hot. I decided on a forced landing in a golf course. I came down fast. There was a bunch of trees ahead—the ground rushed up at me—that's all I remember."

After being treated at the Iroquois hospital he was taken in an ambulance to Evanston, where he was held to the grand jury. He is seriously injured.

Some Boys Think a Lot of a Pet Pony

BALTIMORE.—The telephone rang at Fiss, Doerr & Carroll's big auction mart in East Twenty-fourth street. It was a long distance call.

"Hull Brothers, Des Moines, talking," came the voice when Mr. Fiss took the receiver off the hook, about five minutes before the regular weekly sale was to begin. "There's a brown pony with a blaze in his face and high hind leg white in the express load we shipped to you for today's sale. Have you sold him yet?"

"No, not yet. The sale hasn't begun," was the answer.

"Good! Stop him, and send him by express as quick as you can to Henry Gifford, Altoona, Iowa, on the main line of the Rock Island. Let him go through collect, but be sure to get the right pony. He's the only one in the load with a blaze face. Yes; Gifford is good for $200 charges."

"What's the matter," Mr. Fiss asked, made curious by the somewhat excited and anxious tone of the man on the other end of the line as well as the unusual proceeding in the horse market.

"Well, you see, the pony shouldn't have been sold or shipped. He belongs to Mr. Gifford's boy, and Gifford brought him in and sold him to us when the kid was away from home."

"They never thought he would mind it, but when he found the pony was gone it broke him all up. Instead of getting over it in a few days he got worse until his father began to think he was going to lose his mind. 'This morning he came in here to see if we could trace the pony and get it back. He's out on the floor now waiting to hear what I find out. I was going to telegraph, but he said no, get Fiss, Doerr & Carroll on the long distance; don't stop at the expense; a telegram might be too late. I'm mighty glad we reached you in time. Goodby."

GOV. BAXTER NAMES NOVEMBER 24 AS THANKSGIVING DAY

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 9. "As the family is the unit of the State," said Governor Baxter today in a proclamation designating Nov. 24 as Thanksgiving Day, "I call upon the people of Maine to observe the day, and to strengthen their home ties by gathering together wherever possible in family groups."

"The men and women of Maine," he said, "have reason to be thankful for the inheritance of character and self-control handed down to them from their fore-

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM THE CITIES

Woman Claims She Can Cure the Dying

CANTON, OHIO.—"Believe in God. Then I can cure any kind of disease!" This is the first statement made to all prospective patients by Mrs. Lila Taylor, bonnie Scotswoman, who declares she is a divine healer. Her reputation for these powers was attested by the long waiting list of maimed and halt—sufferers from almost all the ills that the human flesh is heir to—that crowded her little home in this city.

"I have raised dying men and women from their beds and made them well again," she said. "My power I cannot explain. My grandfather had it to even a greater degree than I have. He was able to cure man by speaking to him. When I reach thirty, which will be in a few months, I hope to have the power which he long had."

Mrs. Taylor was born in Scotland. She says she began curing people when she was eight years old. She has lived in the United States for eight years, but only five months at Canton. In that time the number of ailing who have visited her has reached into the hundreds.

"They come to me so fast I cannot take care of them," she said. "They come when I am in bed and when I am eating. I cannot refuse to help any of them, or my power would leave me. I never take money from those who have little, but if the rich want to help me, that is all right."

This is her standard formula for treatment of tuberculosis.

"Take a live pigeon, split open its back, take out its palpitating heart and bind it on your chest; then take a linen band, dip it in the warm blood of the pigeon and bind it around the chest. All the while repeat prayers and incantations in Indian."

There are many here who assert that the treatment, fantastic, ignorant and absurd as it sounds, works the benefit claimed.

Waldo County Veterans

Waldo County Veterans were the guests of Morning Light Grange and the citizens of Monroe, Nov. 3d. Dinner was served from 11.30 a. m. to 12.30 p. m. to 150 veterans, their wives, widows and friends.

President Trask opened the afternoon session at 1 p. m. Records of last meeting were read and accepted. On motion of Comrade Palmer voted to adjourn our meetings until next May. Twenty-three veterans, 18 wives and widows of veterans were present. Two comrades reported as having answered the last roll call since our last meeting—Horace Croxford, Dixmont, Co. A, 1st Maine Cavalry; George Walker, company unknown.

The following program was then carried out: Singing, "America"; prayer by our chaplain, Rev. N. F. Atwood; address of welcome by Lizzie York, who made the veterans feel welcome by her well chosen words. A fitting response was by Comrade Spencer of Winterport. Song and tableau, Mrs. Lizzie York; motion drill and song by the children of the village school, "I See You"; vocal solo, Mr. Kyle, "Our Flag"; and responded to an encore; reading, Flora Tasker; piano solo, Mrs. Jasper Curtis; duet, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Clements; drill by village school children, "ace of diamonds"; music by our life and drum corps; vocal solo, Mrs. Billings, "Grand Old State of Maine"; and responded to an encore; remarks by Comrades Morse, Abbott and Cook; song, Brother Glidden. This was composed by his sister after the Civil War, in honor of Enoch Dow of Prospect; vocal solo, Geo. Bryant; remarks, Mr. Kimball, Rev. Mrs. Kyle and Rev. N. F. Atwood; recitation, Miss S. A. Mansur.

On motion voted for the secretary program to select the place for our May meeting, from the invitations she may receive.

A rising vote of thanks was given the grange and citizens of Monroe for their hospitality.

Closed by singing "God be with you till we meet again."

ALICE M. PALMER, Secretary pro tem.

RE-ARMAMENT

Not all the armor forged by man, not all the weapons he has made for his defence, have saved him.

Ships and guns, poisonous fumes, deadly engines of the skies and the waters, have availed for the moment, not to make the old world better, but to make the new world worse.

The incense of valor and sacrifice and death—all honor and reverence to the noble spirits who made these immortal offerings—has risen from the altars, and not yet is the world re-born.

Therefore, it is that man, wounded, bleeding, burdened, staggering, fumbles at the buckles that bind the weight of his armor on his back, longing to cast it off, and wondering if they that take the sword must also perish by the sword.

Shall he then throw away all his weapons of conquest and defence?

There is one armor that the world of men and women, as a world, has never put on. The churches have long bugged with its fastenings, but the world has gone unfastened, and few have been those in whose hands the mystic sword of the spirit has shone with daily use.

This armor, waiting to be worn, is the armor of brotherhood and sacrifice, the sword of unselfishness, a conquering sword, with the power, when used, to unite the world in love. And there are none who may not put it on.

A dream of the poets? Yes. But there are dreams that come true. Even now the poet's voice is merged and drowned in the universal cry, Disarm. The prudent and fearful hold back, and ask, "Disarm, and stand defenceless?" The answer comes, to all a single answer, "Disarm and arm again, with a new armor, not yet tried."—M. A. Dewolfe Howe in Boston Herald.

THE SQUIRREL'S THANKSGIVING.

O Thou who madest the gnarled old oak And set the succored acorns there, And touched the grapes with tints of smoke

Such as the autumn clusters wear; And opens wide the thorny burr With strong white fingers of the frost And thickens all my coat of fur.

Each thread a thing of silk and gloss!

O Thou who dwellest in the grove And shakes the branches with Thy gale, And scatters in the leafy cove; Brown chestnuts thick as summer hail; And bends the stately pine-tree down With pendant cones of green and gray, And scatters far the milk-weed down

On winds that in the autumn play;

O Thou, who draws Thy hand across The haughty rivers of the earth And stills their flowing faces to floss

Of winter snow and hill and dale; And wakes again to bud and bloom The spangled branches and meadow herb!

O Thou art with me in the gloom Of hollowed boughs where none disturb;

O Thou art in the thistle sheen That wraps my curled gray form about, And Thou art in the warmth I wear That shuts the zeroed chill without; And Thou art in the shag-bark's shell That cracks and cracks the nut's hard nut;

The beech-nuts from the mountain dell And spicy buds outside my door!

O Thou, so kind to all Thou'st made In earth and blizzard cloud and sea, I come all frail but unafraid, And give my humble thanks to Thee!—Leslie Cleve Manchester.

A doctor who had taken up as his specialty the treatment of skin diseases was asked by a friend how he happened to select that branch of medicine.

"There were three perfectly good reasons," replied the physician. "My patients never get me out of bed at night; they never die; and they never get well!"

You'll get somewhere with a pipe and P. A.!

Start fresh all over again at the beginning! Get a pipe!—and forget every smoke experience you ever had that spilled the beans! For a jimmy pipe, packed brimful with Prince Albert, will trim any degree of smokejoy you ever registered! It's a revelation!

Put a pin in here! Prince Albert can't bite your tongue or parch your throat. Both are cut out by our exclusive patented process. So, just pass up any old idea you may have stored away that you can't smoke a pipe! We tell you that you can—and just have the time of your life on every fire-up—if you play Prince Albert for packing!

What P. A. hands you in a pipe it will duplicate in a home-made cigarette! Gee—but you'll have a lot of fun rolling 'em with Prince Albert; and, it's a cinch because P. A. is crimp cut and stays put!

Waldo County Veterans

Waldo County Veterans were the guests of Morning Light Grange and the citizens of Monroe, Nov. 3d. Dinner was served from 11.30 a. m. to 12.30 p. m. to 150 veterans, their wives, widows and friends.

President Trask opened the afternoon session at 1 p. m. Records of last meeting were read and accepted. On motion of Comrade Palmer voted to adjourn our meetings until next May. Twenty-three veterans, 18 wives and widows of veterans were present. Two comrades reported as having answered the last roll call since our last meeting—Horace Croxford, Dixmont, Co. A, 1st Maine Cavalry; George Walker, company unknown.

The following program was then carried out: Singing, "America"; prayer by our chaplain, Rev. N. F. Atwood; address of welcome by Lizzie York, who made the veterans feel welcome by her well chosen words. A fitting response was by Comrade Spencer of Winterport. Song and tableau, Mrs. Lizzie York; motion drill and song by the children of the village school, "I See You"; vocal solo, Mr. Kyle, "Our Flag"; and responded to an encore; reading, Flora Tasker; piano solo, Mrs. Jasper Curtis; duet, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Clements; drill by village school children, "ace of diamonds"; music by our life and drum corps; vocal solo, Mrs. Billings, "Grand Old State of Maine"; and responded to an encore; remarks by Comrades Morse, Abbott and Cook; song, Brother Glidden. This was composed by his sister after the Civil War, in honor of Enoch Dow of Prospect; vocal solo, Geo. Bryant; remarks, Mr. Kimball, Rev. Mrs. Kyle and Rev. N. F. Atwood; recitation, Miss S. A. Mansur.

On motion voted for the secretary program to select the place for our May meeting, from the invitations she may receive.

A rising vote of thanks was given the grange and citizens of Monroe for their hospitality.

Closed by singing "God be with you till we meet again."

ALICE M. PALMER, Secretary pro tem.

The News of Belfast.

Bertlett J. Whiting of East Northport has been awarded Price Greenleaf Aid at Harvard College on the basis of his high record at the Belfast High School. The Price Greenleaf Aids are virtually scholarships assigned to promising Freshmen candidates for the degree of A. B. The awards rest in each case on strong evidence of the applicant's scholarship and character furnished by the school from which he enters Harvard.

Coombs; secretary, Fuller C. Wentworth; S. D., Dana B. Southworth; J. D., Dr. Stacey J. Noyes; S. S., Clarence A. Paul; J. S., Walter H. Mitchell; Tyler, James W. Thayer.

Last Sunday's Boston Herald gave an extended write-up with photos of Jeremiah E. Burke of Dorchester, Boston's new superintendent of schools and a former Waldo county boy. The following shows Mr. Burke's attitude as an educator:

"If you were asked, Mr. Burke, to sum up what you hope to accomplish as superintendent of schools; if you were asked to give a message to the mothers and fathers of children," said the reporter, "how would you put it?"

"To the fathers and mothers," he responded, smilingly, "I would say: 'I have two children of my own.'"

"And as to the ideal you have in mind?" "I believe," he said, slowly, "in democratization of education to the utmost extent. I believe that educational opportunities should be so varied, so accessible and so effective that every boy and girl (yes, every man and woman) may rise to the height of his possibilities and endowments and become a citizen of usefulness and power in the service of the commonwealth."

"And do you know," he concluded, "we have more pupils in the private and public high schools of this country than are in such schools in all the other countries of the world, combined? What does that mean? It means that our American boys and girls are to be leaders of the world. It means that America will lead the world, far in advance of the rest. Nothing," he exclaimed, "nothing can stop us."

ABOUT THE MOTHER IN "OVER THE HILL."

With an ambition to be the greatest mother in the world rather than the greatest actress, Mrs. Mary Carr, the charming artist who essays the role of Ma Benton in the William Fox film presentation "Over the Hill," which opens a local engagement at the Colonial Theatre for 2 days commencing Monday, Nov. 21, says that for her, the playing of such a part is merely transferring her household duties from the home to the screen. Six little Carrs and the father, William C. Carr, are in that happy home, and four of the children are with their mother in "Over the Hill."

"I have three boys and three girls," Mrs. Carr explains, "and I am determined to bring up three gentlemen and three ladies. If I can accomplish this, then I am sure my fondest ambition will have been realized. At least six fine young women and young men should make any woman feel that she had been a success as a mother."

Mrs. Carr, under her maiden name of Mary Kenavane, began her stage career in a stock company in her home town of Philadelphia in 1897. One of her earliest engagements was in ingenue parts in stock with Valerie Bergere. Later she appeared as Louise in "The Two Orphans" and as Carey in "Alabama." After her marriage and a brief service in pictures, when the babies began arriving she decided to give all her time to her home.

"But I went back to pictures whenever I got the chance," she explains, "and was always happiest when playing mother roles. I had such roles in 'The Flames of Johanna,' 'The Light of Dawn,' 'The Barrier,' 'Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch' and 'The Lion and the Mouse,' but enjoyed none of them half so much as my latest picture, 'Over the Hill.'"

Preceding the picture a concert by the Colonial orchestra and an original program featuring Miss Louise Newell will be introduced.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, The Great Master of life has deemed it wise to again enter our midst and call from us our beloved sister, Mary Moulton. She has wandered into an unknown land, and left us dreaming how very fair it needs must be, as she leaves there, therefore be it

Resolved, That Dirigo Grange has lost a valued and helpful member, and while we regret in submission to the will of the Master, we mourn with those who mourn, and extend our deep sympathy to her loved ones, and may He who heals the broken heart bind up their every wound, and be it further

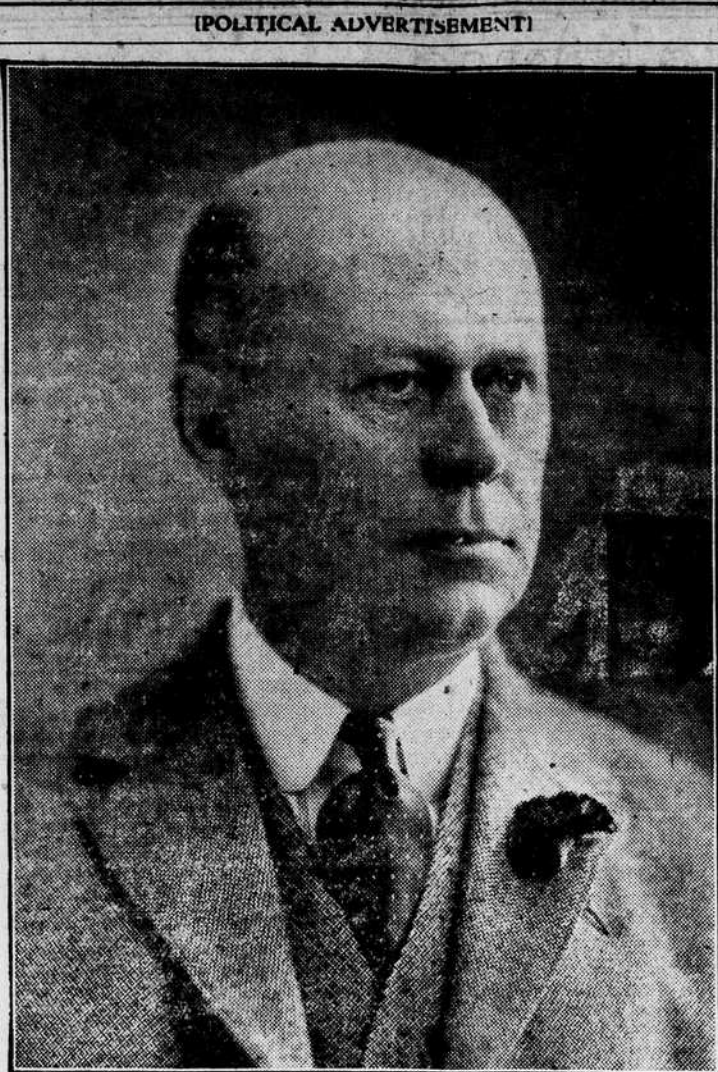

Resolved, That as a token of respect, our charter be draped in mourning for a period of 30 days. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to the Republican Journal for publication, and a copy be spread upon our records.

HOLLY M. BEAN.

The Camden Herald of Nov. 10th has the following obituary of a former Belfast man who once owned and occupied what was for years known as the Robert Patterson house, burned March 14, 1869. Mr. Bean has frequently visited Belfast and is well known to many of the present generation.

"In the death of Holly M. Bean, which took place at his residence on Monument Square, Nov. 9, after a long illness, Maine has lost one of its best known shipbuilders and Camden an old citizen whose stirring and prosperous business activities for a period of more than a third of a century, did so much to bring the town into public notice as one of the principal shipbuilding places in the country. In his long business career he well upheld the ancient fame of Camden for the building, launching and sailing of staunch and notable vessels, carrying the stars and stripes into all the ports of the world. Mr. Bean was the son of Nathan and Phoebe (Marshall) Bean, and was born in Chatham, N. H., July 9, 1835. He received his education in the public schools of his native State. When 14 years of age he went to North Conway and worked on a farm. When he was 18 he spent one winter in a Maine lumber camp. From there he came to Belfast where he became interested in shipbuilding operations.

JOHN E. NELSON

To the Voters of the Third Congressional District:

In the event of the resignation of John A. Peters as representative to Congress from the third district, I shall be a candidate for that office. If Maine continue to have at Washington the benefit of the ability and experience of Hon. John A. Peters, to whom this district is so greatly indebted, then I would gladly continue to support him; but if we must elect a new and untried man to this position of honor and responsibility, then I desire to become a candidate, realizing my limitations, yet feeling that by education and experience I may not be wholly unfitted for the task.

The selection of a Congressman at this time is a matter of serious import to the people of this district. This is a critical period in the history of mankind. We are face to face with the great post-war problems of economic repair, the readjustment of the relations of capital and labor, the revision of taxation, and the tremendous international problems of the restoration of peace and the bringing about of a reduction in armaments. Upon the wise solution of these problems depends the future peace and prosperity of the world, and the welfare of our people. It is a wonderful opportunity for the man you send to Congress, a grave responsibility. Personal ambitions of candidates should receive little consideration by you in your selection of a Congressman. The occasion is too momentous, the need too great. Neither should money or a "ring" force a candidate into office, at this time, to the detriment of the public service and the best and true interest of the Republican Party. I only ask the voters of this district to take the time that this serious matter deserves, to look well into the qualifications of the various men who present themselves for office and then, to vote as their honest judgments dictate.

I am entirely independent of, and apart from that small and select clique of professional politicians who have for so long, in mutual helpfulness and esteem, dictated the selection of candidates in this county and district. I owe them and their henchmen no political debts, and if elected to office, am free to serve the people of this district without fear or favor. I expect and welcome opposition. My whole life has been something of a struggle, and another has no particular terrors for me. I am in this fight to the finish, and hope to win; as I feel that the fight is not mine alone, but that of the whole people who have at heart the best interests of the party and the State, and who are weary of selfish dictation and petty politics.

I am a lawyer, forty-seven years of age, living in the City of Augusta. I was born in China, Kennebec County. As a child I lived in the Town of Palermo, Waldo County, where my mother's people were among the older settlers. While I was yet a boy my people removed to Waterville, where I have spent the greater part of my life. I moved to Augusta eight years ago. My family consists of a wife and eight children, three boys and five girls. Naturally, I am vitally interested in the moral, educational and health problems of this State.

My education was obtained in the common schools of Waterville, Colby College and the University of Maine Law School. Throughout my life I have been dependent upon my own resources. I obtained my education by working on the farm, in the cotton mills of Waterville, in its wood-working mills, on its streets, in its stores and day and evening schools. From daily contact and association with the laboring man I understand his viewpoint, his needs, and aspirations. On graduating from college I acted as principal of the Waterville High school for four years and then entered the office of the late Governor Hailes for the study of law. For the past seventeen years I have worked hard at my profession and with some success. I have endeavored to give honest service to the poor as well as to the rich. My work has constantly taken me over the State and familiarized me with its various industries. I have had an opportunity to study, at first hand, the farming, manufacturing, packing, canning, lumbering, and railroad interests of the State, and to note the labor conditions attendant upon the same. I believe that there is much that could be accomplished at Washington, through the various national agencies, for the development of the resources of Maine and the good of our industries and our people. I desire an opportunity to work toward this most desirable end.

I have always been a Republican. For a quarter of a century I have campaigned throughout the State in the interests of Republican measures and Republican candidates, at considerable financial loss to myself. I have worked much for others and am now, for the first time, asking support in my own behalf. I nominated for Congress the late Hon. Edwin C. Burleigh and supported him in his contest. I then thought that when the turn of Kennebec County should come again, it might be possible for me to become a candidate. In Somerset's turn I accompanied the late Hon. Forrest Goodwin in his campaign for Congress and aided him in every possible way. In Hancock's turn I did the same for the Hon. John A. Peters. Now that it is again possible for Kennebec to present a candidate, I feel that it is perhaps just and right that this candidate should be, in truth, a Kennebec man, one born, reared, and educated here, rather than a man from another county, twice represented in Congress since the late Edwin C. Burleigh so ably served this district from Kennebec.

I have entered the contest at this time because it is probable that Maine will soon lose one of its Representatives, and that the next election will call for a State-wide primary, an expense that only a man of wealth and leisure can afford. If another is now elected from Kennebec, opportunity will have passed forever so far as I am concerned. I realize the important part that the women of this district will play in the coming election. Always favorable to the woman suffrage movement, I hope to merit and receive their support. I ask them to examine into my private and political life and ascertain the positions I have taken on the great moral questions that have presented themselves in the past. I believe that the women of this district are absolutely free from, and opposed to, "ring" domination, and that their first concern will ever be to determine which of two candidates is best fitted to discharge the duties of the office which he seeks.

There is a general conviction that, under our present system of primary procedure, money and leisure play too prominent a part in the selection of candidates. I feel, however, that the time has not yet come in the State of Maine when only the man of wealth may hope to attain to positions of honor and trust in the public service. If this is to be a government of the people, then the door of opportunity should be open to the man of moderate means as well as to the man of wealth, otherwise the great mass of the people may have no real representative in Congress. I have an honest desire to serve this district in Congress, to serve all classes fairly, but most of all to serve, to the best of my ability, the great mass of ordinary citizens, among whom I was born and with whom I have worked and lived all my life, people to whom the future is not assured, to whom excessive taxation is a real burden, to whom the acquisition of a home and the rearing and educating of the children is a matter of anxiety and personal sacrifice.

I am receiving strong assurances of support from every part of the district. This support is voluntary, disinterested, and whole-hearted. It comes from men and women who are more interested in the public service than they are in pre-ordination in politics. It is such support as gives me strong hopes of ultimate success.

Sincerely,
JOHN E. NELSON

Donahue; treasurer, Chas. R. Coombs; secretary, Fuller C. Wentworth.

In the obituary notice of the late Thomas W. Pitcher a member of his family was responsible for the statement that he acquired the property in 1870 from the estate of the late Gov. Crosby. Older residents of the city say that the property was previously the home of the late S. S. Lewis, who sold to Mr. Pitcher in 1868. Previous to Mr. Lewis occupancy of the brick house then on the lot, Ansel Lennan and family lived there for years.

Mrs. Sumner C. Pattee is planning to start a dancing club, to be known as the Belfast dancing club and assemblies will be held once each week. They will be managed after the style of the old Cotillon parties, and a committee will be appointed each time to furnish refreshments. The number of subscribers to the club will have to be limited, owing to the size of the available hall. The evening and place have not yet been decided upon, but it is hoped to have the first dance within two weeks' time.

Charles A. Logan is confined to his home on Bridge street with a badly fractured shoulder, the result of an auto accident Sunday at the garage near his home. He had been riding with George Sanborn and William C. Mason. The latter had left the car to open the garage door and the former put his foot on the accelerator by mistake causing the car to go directly through the rear of the garage and fall about fifteen feet to the ground. It turned completely over. Sanborn escaped without serious injury.

Mrs. C. C. Pinedo, who has been a frequent guest of the Saturday Auction Club, was its hostess last Wednesday evening at the Quimby home on Miller street; with several guests present. A very pleasant game was enjoyed with Mrs. Grace C. Pillsbury, Mrs. Wilmer J. Dorman and Mrs. Carl H. Stevens the prize winners. Later refreshments were served. It was one of their most enjoyable meetings of the season.

There were no formal programs in the Grade schools for Armistice Day, but the schools met in the Armory at 11.45 Friday for their program. See report of the day. Thursday the High school, under the direction of Principal Harry A. Foster had a brief but impressive Armistice exercise. Principal Foster read a selection from the thirteenth chapter of Corinthians followed by the poem, Young Fellow; My Lad, read by Louise Newell; McRae's In Flanders Field, by Edward Martia; singing, Marseillaise by school; address on Disarmament by Principal Foster; America by schools. During the week a short time, each morning was devoted to the Disarmament Conference news. Assignments were given out for reports later. Questions on current thoughts of the conference were asked for the purpose of encouraging the pupils to read this most important subject in world history today.

The union Thanksgiving services will be held in the Universalist church next Sunday evening with a sermon by Rev. William Vaughan.

The Unitarian Alliance will meet today, Thursday, with Mrs. William B. Swan. There will be a miscellaneous program with Unitarian news by Mrs. Fred Rackliff. The usual social hour with refreshments will be omitted on account of the supper in Memorial Hall at 6 p. m. under the direction of the social committee of the Federated church.

Miss Marian Woodworth of Fairfield has succeeded the late Miss Frances A. Sargent as teacher of Grade V in the Peirce school. She was a student at Colburn Classical Institute and also spent two years at Mount Ida school for girls. Her last position was principal of the Grammar school at Boothbay Harbor and she has had seven years' experience. She comes very highly recommended and is giving very high satisfaction.

The Calais News says of a gifted Belfast vocalist: "The church is holding special evangelistic services on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. Miss Edna Hopkins, a Gospel singer and Christian worker of Belfast, Me., is assisting the pastor. Miss Hopkins was present at both services on Sunday and her singing was greatly appreciated by the large congregations present. Her voice is certainly a rich endowment. For richness of tone and volume it is of a high order and she is to be congratulated in her decision to consecrate her gift to the Master's use. The Sunday evening service was one of promise."—Pastor.

FACE INFLAMED WITH ECZEMA

Treatment Prescribed By Two Skin Specialists Had No Effect on The Disease

"Fruit-a-tives" Cleared The Skin

ELBA, NEW YORK. I suffered with Eczema in my face for many years. I tried several doctors, two of whom were specialists on Skin Diseases, and got no help whatever. Last April, I read an advertisement about Dr. E. N. Olzendam of Dover, N.H., being completely relieved of a stubborn case of Eczema similar to mine by the use of "Fruit-a-tives" and "Sootha-Salva".

On May 1st, I began using "Fruit-a-tives" and after two weeks I saw improvement. June 1st I began using "Sootha-Salva" and by the first of August, I was completely relieved.

At the present time, I cannot find any signs of the disease coming back. I can now work on the hottest days in summer and get my blood cleaned up and the Eczema does not bother me."

RAY W. SPEED.

In all the history of medicine, there has never been another treatment for Eczema, Rashes and other Skin Diseases to compare with "Fruit-a-tives" and "Sootha-Salva". Here you have the ideal combination, to purify the blood, insure sound digestion, correct constipation, and soothe and heal the inflamed, itching skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50¢ a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25¢, or from FRUIT-A-TIVES Limited, OGDENSBURG, N.Y.

Vamping for Pity

By MARTHA MACWILLIAMS.

© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

When one is frankly fifty-and-something, with no beauty parlor mitigations, it appears she might reasonably escape any suspicion of vamping, even though appearances might be against her. Mrs. Frances Lane was firmly of that opinion—and facts disprove it. In this wise:

She was not impressive—thin, almost whifflery. Indeed, with ash-gray hair and skin like aged rose leaves, she was yet somehow distinguished—possibly because of eyes which contradicted the hair, refusing to be old or even elderly. For the rest, she had good taste, good manners, modestly sufficient income, rather a pretty wit, and a very kind heart. Twenty years ago a widow she might several times have changed her name and estate to great worldly advantage. That she had refrained spoke no exceptional constancy to the dead—rather a whimsical joy in ordering her life strictly according to her own pleasure.

Her position was so assured. She refused to be "in society"—society even with the capital letter often entreated her to come out and play with it. Such times as she went, swathed and filmy, she never played waltz—she danced rarely if it was of choice, not necessity. She preferred dinners to dances for several reasons, but had vagaries of choice among them. The Windsors, for example, sinfully rich, old and even close friends, found it next to impossible to have her at their big gatherings—because she knew they would "feature" her—and she loathed being featured. A great man, you see, had said after encountering her, "She is the most amusing person in all New York." After that, she might have had a fine, indirect retainer from the Windsors to keep on being amusing—but the role did not in the least appeal to her.

Power abode with the Windsors—social, political, financial. They could make or break—and, being kindly, loved making better than breaking. So Mrs. Lane, who never pulled fires for herself, felt no compunction against bringing them in contact with the young Marshes, who had come from the provinces, bringing letters to her from her husband's people. An engaging couple—well bred and good to look at. Ambitious, too—Jemmy at the law, with a slant toward politics. Lucilla at her art—a very fine art of cookery. They could be helped by the Windsors, Mrs. Lane decided. If they could meet she could feel happily quit of responsibility for them. At the small dinner she gave for them, asking only the potential patrons, with Judge Benton to balance herself, things went so beautifully it was with a light heart she accepted Mme. Windsor's invitation, not to a grand spread, but to a particular and intimate dinner that meant much more.

Judge Benton was coming to claim her—she gave him an entreating look, laid her hand upon Jemmy's arm and steered him safely toward the feast. There, by dint of woman's art, she managed to keep him decently quiet and so to maneuver that after dinner he did not leave her.

More than once she sent soul-wireless to Lucilla, bidding her keep her heart. Lucilla was dumb and dull. She would not join the pair, do what Mrs. Lane might, nor show the least interest in anything or anybody else. Mrs. Windsor was less obdurate. She had started faintly with pursed lips throughout dinner, but when Friend Frances drew her within range of Jemmy's fascinating tongue made him tell stories of back home in a voice that was music's own, she thawed visibly. Enough to mention the opera and her box—though quite vaguely. Even nightmares end, so did this dreadful evening. Mrs. Lane, her face hot at thought of it all, nodded to her friend saying: "Never again. I am forever done with good deeds; tired of suffering for my virtues. As for the Marshes, I wipe them off the slate."

She meant it, but fate had a trick of rewriting slates. Next day but one, Lucilla all but forced her way in, white and drawn of face, her eyes red with weeping.

"I—have—come—to—give him up—to you," she said without prelude, "I am going back—as soon as possible. I will give him his divorce—"

"Explain, please," Mrs. Lane demanded in her great manner. Lucilla wept loudly. "You—you can't face me—and say that—when you have taken—more than my life—"

"And I trusted you—thought you were safe—and old."

"I am," said Mme. Frances, suppressing a smile. Then, by dint of cross-examination that would have been creditable to Judge Benton, she got at the truth—Lucilla had taxed Jemmy roundly with his "infatuation"—he had smugly admitted her charge—having fortified himself afresh with a long drink of Windsor Scotch in the dressing room. Then laughing loudly, he had hidden his weeping one note to be a fool—the combat thickened—after two hours of it he had whisked out, slamming the door hard behind him. The rest was blank silence and emptiness. Lucilla had stood it as long as possible, then descended upon the home-wrecker to shame her with her own magnanimity.

"I'm going to leave a letter to him—with you," she said at the end. "I don't want to make trouble for him at the office—and I know he won't come—home—gulping over the word—'unless you make him.'"

Mrs. Lane no longer felt like smiling. Indeed, there was a choke in her throat as she asked: "Couldn't you see the state he was in? And that I was just playing safe for both of you?"

"But—you swapped Judge Benton for him—I heard the other women talking how strange it was—he is such a catch, and everybody saying you've tried to catch him," Lucilla said obstinately. "Maybe—you couldn't help it—either of you—but oh, oh, I wish I could die right now."

Half an hour at the phone brought results. Judge Benton took the case—he had seen enough to need scant explanation. He rounded up Jemmy in great shape, routing him out of the hotel where he was drowning his troubles in many hours of solid sleep—which had washed away all memory of his emotional lapse. So when he was brought to Lucilla "like torrents from a mountain source they rushed into each other's arms." And let us hope they lived happy ever after.

FALLEN FROM HIGH ESTATE

Unfortunate Stag Well Knew He Was Not in Condition to Be Leader of Herd.

Two of us were resting in the shade at the end of a portage, taking in the loveliness of the clear mountain lake before us, when with not a rustle of the herbage, our pupped at deer into the shadows, not fifty feet from where we were sitting. It was a three-year-old stag, his antlers still in velvet, thick and cumbersome, although they should have been scouring and hardening at that time. Such a miserably ragged, thin and forlorn specimen he was. Evidently he had been badly injured in some way, one shoulder and leg dragged badly. We watched him drink and saw him walk off slowly across the sandy bottomed little bay, and into the alder swamp on the other side. He was perfectly despondent, and not greatly in love with life just then. "He has pulled down his flag, poor chap," I said to my companion as we resumed our normal breathing after his disappearance. "Did you notice that he did not show his white plumed tail?" "Well, why should he?" said my friend. "Yes, why should he?" I answered. "He is no leader to be followed now. Not for him to signal 'Press where you see my white plume gleam,' for he is no safe guide to does and fawns in his present condition."

Evil Conditions in Morocco

The sloth and misery existing among the men of Morocco strike one on every hand, and a correspondent of the Associated Press during a recent tour found evidence everywhere of the depths to which the natives have sunk. The men, for instance, despise labor of any kind for the purpose of making a living. They think it good, however, for their womenfolk, and see no inconsistency in harnessing their wives to beasts of burden. At night the men saunter forth to rob in the neighboring settlements, for they seem incapable of shaking off their inbred love of theft. Many of them, it is said, would murder a close relative for a silver coin, and it is certain that, even in circumstances of the utmost peril, they will go on thieving expeditions.

SEARSPORT

Capt. and Mrs. E. F. Colcord returned Wednesday from a brief business trip in Boston.

The Cong'l Guild will meet with Mrs. Amos Nichols Tuesday at her home in Eastern Main street.

Renfrew Wilson, who has been confined to his home during the past week with an attack of grip, is again about town.

Miss Mabel Griffin, who returned Friday night from a brief visit in Augusta, is the guest of Capt. and Mrs. B. F. Colcord.

Miss Isabel Closson spent Armistice Day at home, returning Monday to resume her studies at Farmington Normal school.

Mrs. Dana Dutch of Waban reached town Saturday morning, called by the serious sickness of her sister, Miss Harriette Erskine.

Searsport Royal Arch Chapter No. 58 was inspected Wednesday by D. D. G. H. P., W. D. Barron of Camden. Following the work of the order supper was served in the lower hall.

The Woman's Club was delightfully entertained Friday by Mrs. Sidney M. Webber. In addition to the regular members the guest list included Mrs. Harold LeMay and young son David, Mrs. Harold Cook and Miss Lena Nye of Portland. Mrs. Webber was assisted at the tea hour by Mrs. F. C. Whitcomb.

At recent meetings of the Searsport National Bank and the Searsport Savings Bank the resignation of Hon. B. F. Colcord, president of these organizations, was read and accepted. Capt. Joseph D. Sweetser was elected president of the National Bank and Mr. James H. Duncan president of the Savings Bank.

On Saturday, Nov. 13, the Institute of Religious Education will meet at the M. E. church for the purpose of instructing county, district and local workers with children. The institute is under the management of the State Sunday School Association and Waldo County Association co-operating and an interesting program has been arranged. Out of town delegates will be provided with lodging and breakfast.

On Thursday evening Kayvetta Lodge No. 125 entertained by View Lodge No. 141 at its regular meeting. After working the degree of the order a musical program was rendered by the following members: Memories, Miss Edith Dow; The Songs My Mother Used to Sing, Miss Vivian Vincent; Chimes of Trinity, Albert M. Cane. Mrs. George Sargent acted as accompanist. At the close of the program members of both lodges marched to the dining room where light refreshments were served by Mrs. Jennie Lombard, Mrs. Myra Eames, Mrs. Lilla Nickerson, Mrs. Gertrude Gambel, committee in charge. A half hour special in the lodge rooms closed a very pleasant evening.

The harvest supper served at the conference room by members of the Guild brought out such a crowd that the tables were set a second time and the lower vestry well filled during the short musical program that followed under the direction of Mrs. Anna Butman. The Misses Gladys Rose and Orilla Whitcomb played a duet arranged by Diabelli. Rev. Harold LeMay well received as a soloist, singing, "One Fleeting Hour" and "Somewhere a Voice is Calling." Gladys Rose then played Pretty Polly, a dainty solo. Miss Violet Meyers rendered a soprano solo and responded to an enthusiastic encore. Orilla Whitcomb played a study by Holzel and Mrs. Butman sang as closing selection, Cleansing Fire, by Gabriel. The committee in charge of the supper were Mrs. Laura Closson and Mrs. Harriet Monroe.

HARRIET M. ERSKINE. The heavy clouds of the past week have been in harmony with the gloom cast over the community by the sudden death of Harriet M. Erskine, which occurred at her home on Main street Sunday, Nov. 13th, after three days' struggle against pneumonia, with which she was stricken on the day of her intended departure to Waban, Mass., where she had planned to spend part of the winter. Born in Searsport, December 10, 1881, she was the younger daughter of Capt. James P. and Martha (Pendleton) Erskine. Like many Searsport children her earliest years were spent on shipboard and before she entered the public school she had visited many foreign ports. She was graduated from the Searsport High school in the class of 1900. Possessing a remarkably alert and orderly mind, she successfully filled several important business positions. She entered heartily into the community life and was a constant attendant and staunch supporter of the First Congregational church; a teacher in the Sunday school and a member of the Guild, serving several years as treasurer of that organization. During the World War her work in the surgical department of the Red Cross Chapter was tireless and exacting. She was a member of the Woman's Club, a charter member of Anchor Chapter, O. E. S., and Worthy Matron of the order during the year of 1916. Always a companionable daughter, Miss Erskine became after her sister's marriage and their father's death even more devoted in her care of the other whose failing health needed the support of her strong and willing spirit. Since her mother's death in 1919 she continued to spend the winter months with her brother, Dr. James T. Erskine, in New York City and in Waban with her sister, Mrs. Dana Dutch. In these homes and in Searsport where she remained the greater part of the year, her loyalty, quick sympathy and ready wit, surrounded her with a host of friends among whom she was held in the highest esteem. Hers has been a short life well spent and those with whom she has come in contact in the day's tasks and pleasures are the finer because she has lived. The immediate family to whom the sympathy of casual acquaintances and intimate friends is extended are Dr. and Mrs. James T. Erskine and young son Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Dutch (Nancy F. Erskine) and son, Dana Erskine Dutch, three cousins, Dr. Irving Pendleton of Lewiston, Edwin Griffin of Canton and Miss Mabel Griffin of Searsport.

STOCKTON SPRINGS

Mrs. Olivia Ryder has returned to her home in Boston after visiting her mother, Mrs. Caroline S. Berry, for several weeks.

Mrs. Harold Hawes secured the Patterson house near the school and moved Saturday from the Crooker house near the shore.

Mrs. Darius F. Berry closed her home Sunday and went to Rockland to pass several months with her daughter, Mrs. Oliver B. Lovejoy.

Miss Ethel Fraser, who has been employed in Boston, returned last week and is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Fraser.

Mrs. L. S. Titcomb has received word of the safe arrival of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Bennett and three children at Lindsey, Calif.

The Current Events club meeting, which was postponed on account of the Chautauqua, was held on Wednesday, the 10th, at the home of Mrs. Carrie A. Gardner.

Mrs. Annie Grant of Westbrook arrived last week for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Rufus L. Mudgett. This is Mrs. Grant's first visit in her native town for fifteen years.

Mrs. Maitland R. LaFurley has returned from an absence of three weeks at Seal Cove, called by the sickness of her mother, Mrs. Mary J. Ober, which terminated fatally.

Mrs. Eugene Wardwell of Orland and her daughter, Mrs. J. F. Ames of Portland, returned to Orland on Wednesday after visiting several days with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wardwell.

The Misses Avis and Mavis Partridge recently received a letter from John McKeen, high school principal last year, saying that he was in a large high school at West Lake, Fla.

After a good run of work through the summer at the garage of Hennessey & Clifford, Ralph Clifford has gone to Bangor for employment and D. J. Hennessey will shortly leave for his home in Lewiston.

What with the bad traveling, Armistice Day in this village more nearly approached a day of ideal Sunday quiet than any for a long time. Flags were generally displayed and the church bell tolled at noon.

An interested gallery watched R. L. Arey climb the flag pole in the park on Friday morning to reeve off new halcyards. There was no active competition for the job; so far as observed he held a clear monopoly.

Mrs. Jacob Glegg of Frankfort, whose previous work as a trained nurse in this town has been a model of efficiency, came down on the 9th to care for Mrs. Frank A. Patterson who is quite ill at her home on East Main street.

The Rebekahs held a supper in their hall Saturday night at 6 o'clock which merited a much larger patronage of the dainty tables loaded with good things. A sale was held after the movies which cleared the surplus.

The big barge S. T. Co. No. 3, was towed to the Stockton wharves, on Sunday for repairs which will keep a small crew busy for several weeks. The new barge S. T. Co. No. 8, is still on the stocks and will not be launched until spring.

Elmer B. Arnold's railroad outfit is in town shingling the station freight house which was damaged by fire some time ago, the crew being made up of Fred Arnold, Robert Nickerson and Gilbert Mason. It seems to be an old home week for them.

Dr. H. D. Worth of Bangor, district health officer, was in town on Friday and diagnosed the skin disease, which has prevailed to a considerable extent in Prospect and this village during the past year and is now troublesome in Sandy Point, as impetigo contagiosa.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Patterson of New Bedford, Mass., and Mrs. Harry W.

Griffin of Mattapoisett, Mass., arrived Thursday night, called by the illness of their mother, Mrs. Franklin A. Patterson. Miss Hamilton of Bangor arrived Friday to assist Mrs. Clegg in the care of the patient.

John McLaughlin went to Bangor on Saturday to bring home Mrs. Alvah Dunham and her young son who had been at the general hospital since Wednesday, where the two-year old had an eye removed as the result of an abscess caused by a fall. This small boy is next to the youngest of 3 children.

Attention may fittingly be called in his old home town to the address of Hon. Charles S. Hichborn of Augusta at the Armistice Day exercises in the city hall of the capital. Mr. Hichborn is widely known as a graceful and forceful speaker and this address as printed in the Kennebec Journal is little short of masterly.

Mrs. Sallie C. Palmer, who has given invaluable service as housekeeper and nurse at the home of James Marden and his invalid sister, Mrs. Jessie Berry, for the past four years, left early this week for an extended vacation in Massachusetts. Her place will be taken temporarily by Mrs. Ernest A. Partridge, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Berry.

Word was received recently telling of the death of Mrs. Delia Clark, widow of George Clark, a native of this town, at her home in Somerville, Mass. In past years Mrs. Clark had passed many summers at her cottage on lower Middle street. She is survived by two daughters and a son. The burial was at Ayer, Mass., beside her husband who met death on his locomotive several years ago.

The first basket ball team to fare forth from this village for a game on a foreign floor made a pilgrimage Friday night and landed in Castine where the Normal School team trimmed them to a score of 21 to 42. In view of the inexperience of the visitors, the score is a commendable one. The team to make the trip was made up of Grant, C.; Woods, R. F.; Cavanaugh, I. F.; Smith, R. G.; Arnold, I. G.; Raymond Morrison, manager. Dunaver, Gross and Redmond, substitutes.

An appeal for Red Cross memberships will immediately be made and it should be a matter of pride that this town should retain recognition as the home of an active branch. The local branch had no occasion for apologies for its activities during the war and after the armistice there remained a considerable amount of funds. Written authorization was received from Boston headquarters for the executive committee to expend these funds for civilian relief. A considerable amount of money has been used during the past two years in assisting emergency cases—families who were temporarily in distress but a long, long way from asking assistance from the town. In the nature of things this work has been done very quietly and much real good has been accomplished. There are still funds on deposit at the Trust Co. Lack of local memberships will result in the closing of the branch and the turning of this surplus over to the County Chapter. The money can be well used in town.

Mr. E. C. Marden has closed his house and gone away for the winter.

Mrs. Isaac Hills has taken the agency for the Spencer made-to-order corset.

H. A. Patch has bought the place where he formerly lived and will shortly move in.

The latest reports from Mr. Merle Huff, who is at the Fairfield Sanatorium, say he is getting along well and improving steadily.

Mr. Alvin Berry has sold his farm to Wm. Hills of this town who sold it to Frank Beach. Mr. Berry has gone to live with his daughter, Mrs. Edwin Colcord of Belfast.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held Oct. 28 at the chapel. The same board of officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. M. B. Whiting Pres.; Mrs. Isaac Hills, Vice Pres.; L. C. Ross, Sec. and Treas.

Mr. John Walker returned from Boston Sunday morning where he had his eyes treated and cataracts removed at a hospital there. He is getting along as well as can be expected and will return in two weeks for further treatment.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. Lucy Knowles Nov. 4th with a good attendance and a very pleasant time was spent. Sandwiches, doughnuts, cheese and coffee were served. The next meeting will be with Mrs. L. C. Ross, Nov. 18.

The Harmony Club, which presented "Down East" at Comet Grange Hall, Oct. 31st, wish to thank the public for their generosity in remaining after learning that one of the principal actors was ill and unable to take part. His part was read by Master Clyde Nickerson who, under existing circumstances, did nobly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nickerson have closed their house for the winter and left Friday P. M. for Somerville, Mass., to make their home with their daughter, Mrs. H. G. Applin, at present. They were accompanied by their son, A. Ross Nickerson and daughter, Augusta E. Nickerson, who have been with them for two months. A. Ross Nickerson will return to Franconia, N. H., where he has charge at Peckett's on Sugar Hill and Miss Augusta will return to her duties in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Ward, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Lane, were in Brewer, Nov. 6, called there by the death of Mrs. Melvina Crockett.

Mrs. L. C. Dow and daughter, Ruth, visited her sister, Mrs. Everett Littlefield of North Stockton Springs last Sunday. Mrs. Littlefield has lately undergone a critical surgical operation at the Waldo County Hospital, and is recovering as fast as could be expected.

Notice of Foreclosure

WHEREAS, Berta Edgar Rich of Lewiston, in the County of Androscoggin, State of Maine, by her mortgagor deed dated April 14, A. D. 1920, and recorded in Waldo Registry of Deeds in Book 338, Page 463, conveyed to James J. Clement of Montville, in the County of Waldo, State aforesaid, which mortgage was afterwards, on the 7th day of July, A. D. 1921, assigned to me by the said James J. Clement, which assignment is recorded in said Registry in Book 297, Page 199, the following described real estate, viz:

"Also another lot or parcel of land, situated in Montville, in said County, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning on the west side of the highway leading from Montville Center to Morrill Mills, so called, thence southwest on land of Rebecca Poland fifty-six and one-half rods; thence southeast on land of Everson Howes to a stake and stump, thence northeast on land of E. Howes and James J. Clement to the highway eighty-six rods; thence northwest on said highway twenty-eight rods to the place of beginning, and containing fifteen acres, more or less.

And whereas, the conditions of said mortgage have been broken.

Now, therefore, by reason of the breach of the conditions thereof, I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage.

Dated at Belfast, this 12th day of November, A. D. 1921.
