THE STRIKES.

A GANG OF ITALIANS SET UPON BY STRIKERS.

Revolvers and Clubs Freely Used----Several Laborers Wounded.

New York, July 11.—About 400 striking freight handlers, who had been in the employ of the Eriel road, marched in a body to the company's office in Jersey City this afternoon, to get the money due them. On reaching the Erie freight yards some of their number became incensed at about forty Itstians working in their places, and attacked them with stones and other missiles. The Italians fied, followed by the roughs who instigated the attack, but soon found themselves hemmed in by a large number of strikers. One of the Italians thereupon drew a revolver, and shot into the crowd, dangerously wounding one of the strikers in the head. He fell, and his companions, thoroughly infuriated, attacked the Italians with coupling links and pins, and anything they could lay hands upon. The Italians drew revolvers and fired on the strikers, wounding a number. After emptying their revolvers, the Italians fied in all directions, closely pursued by the now infuriated strikers, who succeeded in capturing a large number of the workmen and severely dealt with them. A number of Italians fied down the dock and attempted teclimb aboard the schooner Josie Hock, Capt. Fickett, by means of a rope stretching from the stern offich vessel and fastened to the dock. Four Italians had reached the deck, and three were hanging to the line of the vessel, when, it is alleged, two seamen cast off the line, throwing the three men into the water. One, who had only been one month in this country, was drowned. The two inhuman seamen were subsequently arrested. They are Malcolm Slocum of New Bedford, and Enoch W. Tracey of Brewer, Me. They were held on a charge of mansianghter.

The police upon arrival at once cleared the yard of all but employes of the railroad company. The Italians were placed on barges, where a committee of strikers were given the opportunity of identifying any of them whom they had seen using firearns. Four Italians were arrested on complaint of the strikers on the charge of assault with intent to kill. The police then made a thorough s

New York, July 12.—There is no change to-day in the condition of the freight handlers' strike. The companies declare that they are disposing of the freight almost as fast as formerly, and that the new hands are rapidly becoming skilled at the work. Shipping was light this morning. Committees from different German societies are engaged in visiting the different piers, persuading their fellow countrymen from working against the strikers, London, July 11.—Admiral Seymour telegraphs as follows: "The ships opened fire at 7 o'clock this morning. The return fire from the forts was weak and ineffective. the Invincible, telegraphs as follews:

ALEXANDRIA, July 11.—7.40 A. M.

The Alexandria, Sultan and Superb opened the fire upon the fertifications. The batteries at once replied, but their shoots at first fell skort of the ships. The rest of the fleet then joined in, and the action became general. After 20 minutes' cannonade, two of the forts ceased firing. Fort Pharos appears to be much damaged. The ships as far as can be perceived have not suffered any damage. 9.10 A. M.-The attack on the forts has now

9.10 A. M.—The attack on the forts has now been kept up two hours. Smoke hangs over the town along the line of the shore batteries and among the ships, and it is difficult to see what damage has been done. It is certain, however, that the enemy has suffered very heavily. Fort Marsa El Kanat has been blown up by the fire from the other batteries. The forts are slackening their fire. The top of the tower of Fort Pharos has been carried away and many guns have been dismounted on that and other forts. The flag of the Geneva red cross is flying over the hospital in the city. The Dutch and Greek flags are hoisted over their respective Consulates. At the beginning of the bombardment immense excitement was visible. Crowds of people were seen wending their way toward the palace. The streets are now deserted, the people having fled or taken refuge in cellars. There are no signs of a surrender so far. A telegram from the Eastern Telegraph Company's steamer Chiltern, sent at 11.15-a. m., says the bombardment still continues. The forts are gradually being silenced. The Inflexible is in the Corvette pass, the narrowest channel leading into the harbor, and 3700 yards north by west from the Masse fort. The Temeraire is in the central channel 3500 yards north

The Temeraire is in the central channel, 3500 yards north to northwest of the Masse fort, and the Peneglope, Invincible and Monarch are 1000 to 1300 yards to the northwest of Masse fort. The unarmored ships are under way, working their guns to the best advantage. The triped depot ship Hecla has arrived. Fort Ada, the magazine of which has been blown up, is located close to the Vice Regal Palace, outside of the harbor.

Lord Granville said the bombardment of Alexandria does not constitute a declaration of war against an allied power, as the government is not in alliance with the military despotism now the de facto ruler of Egypt.

ALEXANDRIA, July 11.—Shortly after noon all exposed guns in the forts were dismounted and only those in sheitered positions are able to return the British fire. Fort Massa El Kanat which was blown up, was only completed a week ago Sunday. Moncrieffe battery and Pharos fort have been silenced by the guns of the Temeraire and Inflexible. It is reported that the Khedive's yacht has been sunk in the harbor.

that the Khedive's yacht has been sunk in the harbor.

The report of the sinking of the Khedive's yacht is untrue.

Admiral Seymour recommences the attack on the forts in the morning. The small effect of the 81 ten and other heavy guns on the earthworks cause some disuppointment in the fleet. The Invincible had four men wounded; Inflexible was hit five times. It is confirmed that 40 British were wounded. The Egyptian loss is unknown, but is likely to be severe. Part of Ras el Tin Palace is in ruins, and the lighthouse slightly damaged.

LONDON, July 11.—A special correspondent of the Associated Press with the British fleet telegraphs, off Alexandria:

July 11—6 p. m.—The British naval officers have furnished me with the following account of the day's operations:

The bombardment commenced at 7.45 this morning. The ironclads Superb, Sultan and Alexandria engaged and totally destroyed Fort Pharao and Lighthouse batteries at the entrance to the new fort, and which were intended to dominate the appreach to the new harbor. The flagship Invincible, Monarch and Penelope, took up commanding positions inside the reefs and assisted from the outside by the Temeraire attacked, with destructive effect the strong position of Fort Mex with the lighthouse and shore batteries. The Inflexible was stationed so as to command the lighthouse batteries, Forts Pharos and Mex at the same time, and thus was in a position to cooperate both with the division outside and that inside the reefs.

The gan vessels Bittern, Condor, Beacon, Decoy and Cygnet, attacked the Marabout batteries at the entrance of the harbor, and taking close and destructive range soon silenced them, after which they ran m and shelled Fort Mex on the southern side entrance to the anchorage or outer harbor. The Invincible under cover on the southern side entrance to the anchorage or outer harbor. The Invincible under cover of her own guns and those of the Bittern, then landed a party of blue jackets and marines, who entered Fort Mex and blew up the heavy guns.

The bombardment practically ceased at noon though some heavy guns at this hour are still shelling Fort Napoleon, a large work situated at the southern angle of the inner harbor and dominating the town. but the fort does not re-On the whole the Egyptians fought their batteries with more determination than was expected. Several earthworks behind which guns were mounted were found mere heaps of VIENNA, July 11.—It is admitted in government circles that England is perfectly justified in her vigorous action against Arabi Pasha's attitude of provocation and so long as England pursues this line of conduct she will meet with no opposition from the powers.

ALEXANDRIA, July 11.—It is reported the Egyptian ministers were not aware yesterday of Admiral Seymour's intention because it was intercepted by Arabi Pasha.

Constantinople, July 11—Evening.—The Porte has telegraphed the Turkish ambassador at London the following:

"The Porte has learned that Admiral Seymour has opened fire. It is superfluous to dilate upon the extreme gravity of this fact, and in view of the prepare of this matter the and in view of the urgency of this matter the Porte confines itself to requesting you without a moment's loss of time to make pressing representations to Lord Granville to issue his order to cease firing immediately in order to avert will greater wisfortunes. still greater misfortunes.

London, July 11.—A dispatch to the Tele-graph from a correspondent on board the Unit-ed States steamer Quinneboug says the Egypt-ians fought splendidly and the ships behaved magnificently. The Quinneboug was anchor-ed only five cables on the port beam of the Temeraire and had a fine view of the contest. Shells from the forts frequently fell quite close to her.

LA VALETTA, MALTA, July 11.—The British troop ship Tamar with 1000 marines and the Spanish frigate Carmen sailed to-day for Alexandria.

London, July 11.—The Standard's correspondent on the Invincible telegraphs that the forts and batteries on the sea face are a heap of ruins. The Egyptians stuck to the guns until the forts were crumbling. The aim of Egyptian gunners was chiefly directed against the Penelope and Inflexible and they fired principally round shot. Their elevation was bad and the Invincible was seldom hit. The armor of the Superb was penetrated. Egyptian officers set a good example to their men, after jumping upon the parapets to see the effects of their fire. A party of marines which landed from the Invincible to blow up Fort Mex saw several dead lying inside the fort. The Egyptians had no shells, which fact accounts for the small number of casualties on the British vessels.

the British vessels.

At 5.15 this evening the Helicon approached the Invencible with officials from Dervisch Pasha who had been trying to find the flagship all night, with a letter from the ministry to Admiral Seymour offering to dismount the guns. Admiral Seymour replied that the time for negotiations had passed.

The Raseltin palace took fire during the bombardment and is still burning at the time this dispatch is sent. Men were called for on board the Invenctble at 1 p. m. to go ashore and spike the guns of Fort Mex, and although the work was dangerous, as troops might have been lying behing the fort, there were a plenty of volunteers. Twelve men were chosen and placed in charge of three officers. On landing the party was obliged to swim through the surf. They landed unopposed and after bursting the guns with gun cotton returned without any casualty.

ing the guns with gun cotton returned without any casualty.

The Penelope was struck five times, and had one gun disabled; the Inflexible was hit many times, but only six shots penetrated her armor; the Monarch was not hurt, owing to her moving about. After the action was over, the whole fleet drew off from the shore, and the vessels approached each other. THE ALEXANDRIA FIGHT.

Great Interest in Army and Navy Circles

-Surprise at the Success of British Sea-Washington, July 11.—The is the greatest interest felt in army and navy circles here in warlike news from Alexandria, as the contest will be very instructive in determining the fighting value of the modern iron clads and of modern heavy ordnance. The duel between the British fleet and the forts will afford the first real opportunity of studying the practical working in war of many accepted theories of marine architecture, ordnance, torpedo defence and fortifications. The defensive strength of the heavy armor of the British ships and the destructive powers of the great eighty-ton guns will be watched with special interest. If the engagement is fought out on its merits it will be of the greatest importance in its bearing on the science of war.

News is eagerly awaited by our government about movements of the British fleet in front of Alexandria. Nothing has as yet been heard, except a brief official dispatch, which has been received at the Navy Department, confirming the announcement of the bombardment.

George Bacheller, a long time cennected confirming the announcement of the bombardment.

George Bacheller, a long time connected with the International Court, in Egypt, was recently here and talked freely of Egyptian affairs. He sided with Arabi Bey against the Khedive, and considered that he represented the progressive element to a very much greater extent that the Khedive does.

Naval officers who have heard that four of the Egyptian forts were destroyed after the first day's firing are surprised at the remarkable success of British marksmanship. They had anticipated that the heavy, modern guns mounted on the Egyptian forts would have done much damage to the iron clads, which were drawn up in battle line so near the forts. Minister Roustan, upon being applied to this morning for information, said that he had no later official information than the press has. In fact his latest infermation came through the press sources. As to the general situation, he said that in view of his official position and the complicated condition of diplomatic affairs he maturally must decline to sneak. the complicated condition of diplomatic affairs he naturally must decline to speak.

[LATER.] The big guns seem to have done the business. From information received here it is thought that the fortifications of Arabi Bey are althat the fortifications of Arabi Bey are already in rains.

At the British Legation the favorable result of the morning's bombardment is naturally received with gratification. The Legation has had no official report of the engagement. The resistance of Arabi Bey is regarded at the Legation as a foolhardy and fanatical act, especially in view of the absence of torpedoes, which might have embarrassed the manœuvres of the British fleet. The future movements of Arabi are of course unknown. His influence may be overthrown by the chastisement, or he may be able to retire to the interior and carry on a guerilla warfare.

The American Fleet at Alexandria. Washington, July 11.—Relating to a dispatch sent to the London Telegraph from Alexandria, which stated that Admiral Nicholson, in command of our fleet in European was son, in command of our fleet in European waters, had warned the Arabs working on the forts that if they fire at him he will return the fire, officers and the Navy Department say that such a declaration on Admiral Nicholson's part would be absurd, and they have no idea he ever said anything of the kind. The department has received no such information from him. As a neutral it would be Admiral Nicholson's duty to get out of the way of an engagement, and if he did as the dispatch stated he would do, he would render himself liable to court martial.

Probable End of the State Prison Trouble CONCORD, July 11.—This morning Warden Earle sent all the colvicts, except about twenty who are still undergoing special punishment, to the shops, which have been closed for just one week. The men were willing, many of them anxious, to resume work, close confinement and a bread and water diet having become distasteful to them. Their return to the shops will be followed by the resumption of their customary food, and by that of the privileges that they have not forfeited. To all seeming, the prison is in nearly its normal condition, nor does Warden Earle fear that he will soon be troubled with another attempt to defy his authority. A Brutal Affair.

POLITICAL MURDER.

The Recent Killing of Mr. Blair at Camden, S. C.

THE ACT A DELIBERATE ASSASSINA TION FOR POLITICAL REASONS.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Postmaster Taft of Charleston has arrived here from South Carolina. He says that the evidence is overwhelming to show that the killing of Blair at Camden last Tuesday, was a political assassination. As soon as Blair was killed, the friends of Haile, the murderer, took possession of Blair's body. A post mortem was held, and Haile was brought before the judge and liberated on $5,900 bail. The law requires that the prosecuting attorney shall be notified and be present whenever an application is made for bail under such circumstances. In this case the attorney was not notified, as the law requires. Taft further says that Judge Kershaw, who admitted Haile to bail, is a relative of the latter. Congressman Mackey has received a letter from a friend in Camden, who, he says, is a responsible and trustworthy man. This letter was written on the day of the assassination. He details the circumstances of the murder as follows: [Special to the Boston Journal.]

was written on the day of the assassination. He details the circumstances of the murder as follows:

"A mass meeting was called to-day by the People's Rights party. Blair, Col. Cash, Fishbern and others were to speak. Blair was on his way to, and about 150 feet from the post office, when he was accosted by Haile. He turned to answer him, and, as he started off was fired upon three times by Haile, two bullets taking effect, one about the shoulder in the back, on one side, the other a little below the shoulder, passing through the lung. Instant death followed. He was shot because of his politics, although they will try to make it appear in self defence, when the deceased was going from his aggressor, which is plainly shown by Blair's having been shot in the back. He was a United States supervisor. Can anything be done in that case if it be proved that it was only his politics? We are insecure; life is at a discount, and danger underlies all our movements. What do you think best for us to do?" It appears that Blair had notified all the State officers of registration that he should demand strict compliance with the law, and Taft says that his activity in this direction was really the cause of the assault made upon him by Haile.

Matches and Patent Medicines.

A correspondent of the Advertiser cannot understand why the removal of the stamp tax on patent medicines will not diminish the cost of these articles to the consumer, while the removal of the tax on matches will. The reasons for the difference can be briefly stated. The lucifer match is not patented. Anyone who has the capital can engage in its manufacture. The tax is a hundred per cent. If that tax be removed the bunch now sold for two cents can be sold for one cent. If manufacturers refuse to make the reduction in selling price other men will engage in the business and secure the trade, making a handsome profit at the lower price. So competition will compel those now in the buiness to lower the cost.

With proprietary medicines the case is quite different. They are patented. No one but the patentee, or his assignees, can manufacture them. Competition is barred. The owner is under no uecessity of lowering his prices, for no other man is permitted to enter the field against him. The sum he gains by the abolition of taxes he will therefore put in his own pocket. The people have no redress and the public revenue is the loser.

Furthermore it may be said in regard to the matter that there is not much disposition, except on the part of patentees, to complain of the two per cent or less tax that purchasers pay on pills and potions, some of which are deleterious and few of which are beneficial. But there is a strong disposition to complain of the hundred per cent tax on matches which all use and which have become a positive necessity in every household. If internal revenue taxes are to be only in part removed let the removal be made from articles of necessity like matches, and let the tax be retained on articles of luxury like rum, tobacco, perfumery, playing cards and patent medicines.

A Maine Institution. That guide, philosopher and friend of Maine statisticians, Hoyt's Year-Book and Legislative Manual, has put in its annual appearance. The edition for 1882 is an improvement upon its predecessors, good as they were, and really leaves nothing to be desired in the way of the fulness or accuracy of its information about the public affairs of the State. A description of the "Maine Register"-as this excellent manual is commonly called-is needless. The book is favorably known to all who take an active interest in our public affairs and considered an indispensable work of reference by intelligent men of various callings. It is a Maine institution of which we are all proud -for no other State of the Union has a manual so comprehensive and so handy for immediate consultation. Its editor, Mr. Edmund Hoyt, is indefatigable, and spares no pains in his work. The book has nearly doubled in size, and greatly increased in worth within the last decade. It is now a model statistical manual. The demands of the public for information have not only been met-they have been anticipated; and the volume is one that the Maine man of affairs will not willingly be without.

*Maine State Year-Book and Legislative Manual for 1882-83, By Edmund S. Hoyt, Portland: Hoyt,

WHILE our American amusement agents are very actively engaged in making arrangements with conspicuous English and French theatrical and operatic performers for starring tours in the United States, some of our own stars are proposing to engage for professional tours in the British Isles during the ensuing season. By this means Europe and America will mutually interchange their amusement attractions, and the advantage on both sides will be about fairly balanced.

He thus makes a living, thinks he is famous, is happy and doesn't know that he is laughed at—thinks it all applause—and isn't have a well off as many who have their minds intact? Rather a living sarcasm on ambitious humanity, don't you think? WHILE our American amusement agents slight, wizened little man, with a thin but rosy and wrinkled face whose mild blue eyes beam kindly on the world. His clothes are exceedingly the worse for wear, and his hat is a battered silk one of ancient dimensions. He is a lecturer and speaker, and may be engaged at very moderate rates by anybody to speak anywhere, on any given topic. He is not fussy as to the subject given him, but he has his preferences, and one of his favorite topics, as he told me yesterday, is "Medical Jurisprudence." "Yes," said he, confidentially, "I've spoken on Medical Jurisprudence before the students of the Boston University Law School, and also at Harvard. It's a great subject, you know—vast—its importance is greatly underestimated—in fact, it goes to the root of the whole matter. I don't go into it very fully before those students—they aren't capable of grasping it, you see. I can only allude to it very generally. I've written a new lecture—here it is;" and he took one from a roll of papers and handed it to me; "The Saving Properties of the Solar System.' Yes—it's a pretty good t'ing—it takes well—I'm going to give it at Charlestown to-right."

About a dozen times during this information Mr. Pratt took his departure, but re-opened the door to add another sentence. Finally I directed him to the office of some lawyers whom I thought he would like to take with, and he left. I laughed to think of the siege they would have to stand, but I had had my turn. Poor old fellow! He really believes himself an important personage, and good-naThe Popular Woman

[The Queen.] If the popular woman be not a very high type of woman, her virtues and her faults it must be admitted are of an amiable sort. She is, of all beings, the most social; delighting in her kind and dependent upon it for her pleasures. Society is absolutely necessary to her. We do not mean by society that which is represented by the highest circles in rank, wealth, or intellect, but simply the constant friction with her fellow beings. Soutude to her means desolation; in it her sprits languish, ber temper sours. The dread concen trated natures experience of enlarging the number of their acquaintances, lest they be distracted from their purpose in life; the shrinking within themselves of the shy before strangers; the depression of the over-sensitive weighed down by a sense of incompleteness in the presence of varied interests and aimsthese are sensations unknown to the popular

The popular woman is seldem domestic; the narrow circle of home duties seems too limited to absorb her superabundant energy and its routine is distasteful to ber. Those sudden calls that upset the even tenor of existence, and prove so flurrying and distracting to groove-loving individuals, have an exhilarating effect upon her spirits. Sad or joyous, trifling or important, whatever appeal brings to her the sense of the bustle of life is welcome; her activities rise to it, as flat champagne fizzes at the touch of a crust. She is, certainly, vastly good-natured, cheerily fulfilling any number of commissions for her friends, with whom she is unally in constant correspondence, and in Missouri which tells of the political small pox within.

Mr. J. R. Randall writes from Washington ton to the Augusta (Georgia) Chronicler' Agentheman well acquainted in Virginia tells me that the Democratic party there is still leaderless and disorganized. In his opinion Mahone will carry the State next time by a larger majority than ever. I hope this is a mistake, but should not be surprised if it proved true. The common impression here is that we shall have losses in the south, but they will be more than made up in the east and west."

Mr. Chaimers says he intended to leave the Democratic party even before he was ousted from his stolen seat in congress, and charges his trials and tribulations upon Senator Lamar. If the combined Greenbackers, Republicans and Democrati friendly to him elect him once more to legislative halls, he promises not to vote for the Democratic nominees for officers of the house, and that on other questions he will vote as he chooses.

An amateur of statistics has discovered that the smallest sovereign in the world is the Emperor of China, who measures only four feet three inches. The tallest men are in the Hohenzollern family. The Emperor William is five feet ten inches; the German Prince Imperial, five feet tes vie inches; Prince Charles, brother of the Emperor, five feet nime inches, and Prince Albert, nephew of the Emperor, six feet four inches.

Mr. S. M. Dunlap of Des Moines took his it is over all the mained and disfigured body of his cousin who was one of those killed by the tempest. favor of truth.

The talk of the popular woman is characteristic of herself. It is more copious and brilliant in the larger company. She does not contribute any flashes of wit to the conversation, any number of facts to the store of learning, but there is the crispness of originality in her remarks, a certain raciness of expression that gives pignancy to her phrases. A gift pecubut there is the crispness of originality in her remarks, a certain raciness of expression that gives piquancy to her phrases. A git peculiar to her is a rapid appreciation of the wit of others; a power of seizing it, and throwing a gleam upon it that makes it evident to daller brains. She is not sarcastic, and never on the heights. Slow-witted and commonplace folk do not fear her. She will not soar above the level of their comprehension, and she will not dart those shafts of irony they have an uncomfortable feeling their clever sisters occasionally level at them. Intel'ectual folk take pleasure in companionship that is easy and not dull. It is an incontestable fact that people of intellect find relaxation in the society of those who do not require them to be always pumping their brains. They like gossip, and the popular woman is fond of gossip, she knows how to tell a story well, with appreciation of its points, and with a certain dramatic, instinct, enlarged by her knowledge of human nature. It is seldom, however, that the origin of an ill-natured story can be traced to her. If she retails scandal, it is amusing and not bitter; and she usually relates it in a tone that conveys an excuse for the rinner. Her hearers feel that, should their defects or weaknesses be handled by her, she will not deal unkindly with them. She admits that she likes secondrate books, second-rate wines." One

Flies and Fly Poison.

Whatever the annoyance of flies in the ouse, do not use fly poison. This is sold under the deceptive name of "Cobalt," to be mixed with sweetened water and set about the rooms to attract the flies. It kills the fliesbut it kills children also. We have known of two distressing deaths from this cause, and it should be generally known, that the powder sold under that name is not cobalt at all, but which is a greater mileage of construction than in any previous half year in the history of the country.

An English physician says that seventy diseases arise directly from alcohol, and that in Great Britain 120,000 deaths are caused annually either directly or indirectly by drinking.

The "Great American Traveller."

[Boston Corr. Salem Gazette.]

I had a call yesterday from one of the best known men of Boston. You may have heard of Daniel Pratt, G. A. T.? His title of "Great American Traveller" was bestowed, I know not when, where or by whom, and its application is probably due to the fact that he is always on the tramp and turns up periodically at all the schools, offices and gatherings of the city. He is almost an omnipresent haunter of ail business places. In presence he is an old, slight, wizened little man, with a thin but the foundation of the country.

TELEPHONE 177 PLANT FOOD.

This compound has been thoroughly analyzed by a competent Professor of Chemistry, who pronounces it cood for all we claim for it. No one need fear to apply it to the most tender plant. Use a small quantity and Increase as the Plant Matures.

The composition gives the plants a luxurious growth and a dark rich green color, which no other food gives them; it also gives the flower of the plants a brighter, richer and more beautiful color. It has no equal for Plants in the house or garden, and what is of the most importance to the Ladies, is its easy application, and it has positively no offensive odor. Try it and you will be well pleased with it. Directions with each Box.
