year. Touching the question of war of rates he said the Baltimore & Ohio began it. That company, he asserted, had been built to be sold to the Western Union. This was expected to be accomplished on the basis of the damage it could do.

The history of government telegraph showed tardy service, bad delivery and bulled messages. Would the government be responsible for delays and errors? he asked. No government system ever was. The Western Union had to pay from $100,000 to $200,000 a year for its mistakes. He believed that the deficit of a government system as suggested in the Cullom bill, would be from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 a year. If the government did run a telegraph system, it must take existing lines. No private enterprise could run against the national treasury setting out to do business for nothing. He wished to say concerning the Western Union, that its value as stated by the press, would not buy the wire at the factory, and the company's other equipments amounted to three or four times the value of the wire. The property of the Western Union could not possibly be duplicated today for its capitalization.

There was a popular belief that the company was owned by one man. The company's directorate, composed of thirty menthe millionaires of the country—had less than three-eighths of the stock. Its stock was held by 3000 people throughout the country. Over 20,000 people in all were interested in this property.

"I am told," the doctor continued, "that a petition bearing 500,000 signatures, is to be sent to this committee in favor of the government system. They will come by command, originating in spite egainst one man, with whom Mr. Powderly had a quarrel, and not 1000 men who will sign have ever seen a telegraph message."

claring that the public health requires the immediate enactment of proper quarantine regulations by the national government, and the appropriation of suitable sums to carry these into effect by the National Board of Health; declaring that it is expedient for the national government to ask for a conference of all maritime nations to consider the rules of all maritime nations to consider the rules governing lights and signals at sea; an international code of flags, the means of saving life, and the destruction of wrecks and derelicts, and other similar questions affecting the commerce of the world.

The following preamble and resolutions in regard to extradition treaties were adopted:

Whereas The desire to accumulate sudden wealth by doubtful methods is a growing evil, and.

Whereas, immunity from punishment of embezzlers and defaulters by escape to Canada, or elsewhere, exposes the business community to crimes of greater gravity; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the duty of the national government to make such extradition treaties with all foreign governments as will enable it to secure the return to this country of persons accused of such crimes for trial in our courts.

Resolved, That Congress be respectfully memorialized in accordance with this proposition. A resolution favoring the amendment to the Constitution so as to allow the President to veto separate items in the annual appropriation bill was adopted, and the convention adjourned sine die. The next convention will be held in Chicago on the second Wednesday of November.

government thought it might be practicable to make in the proposed draft. These changes it is believed, were designed to render the so-called dynamite provisions less objectionable on political grounds to those Senators who are sensitive upon the subject of the Irish vote. It is believed also that some suggestions of change have been made to enlarge the scope of the proposed treaty with respect to the extradition of defaulters who escape to Canada from the United States. The Dominion government has been more ready to recommend to the British foreign office that some stringent provision in this respect be made, for the Canadians are tired of furnishing a Botany Bay for the boodler oangs of the cities of the United States. These refugees do not make an attractive feature in Canada's social life, and are not considered a wholesome example to citizens. The Canadian government is not, willing to permit that country to be made any longer a refuge for public and private thieves. The administration is very hopeful that the British extradition treaty in some form will be approved by the Senate at this session.

Are the Passengers on a Boston and Lowell Train.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 20.—The Canadian Pacific express, Charles T. Bean, conductor, jumped the iron near the East Concord station on the White Mountain division of the Boston & Lowell railroad, at about 7 o'clock this evening. The train consisted of a baggage car, first and second class passenger coaches, and a drawing room car, drawn by the locomotive Hubbard Hastings, one of the finest passenger engines on the line. Although the express was 35 minutes late, it was not going faster than usual, about 15 to 20 miles an hour at this point. The engineer had slowed down before reaching the passenger station. A short distance below, he observed something wrong, reversed the engine and applied the air brakes. He had hardly succeeded in doing this tefore the machine struck a frog and ran on to a siding the cars following. The engine, forced from the iron, turned on its side and was hurled into the end of the freight station, completely demolishing it. The tender had become Lowell Train. the cars following. The engine, forced from the iron, turned on its side and was hurled into the end of the freight station, completely demolishing it. The tender had become detached, and propelled by the cars, was turned end for end several times, the upper part stopping 25 feet from the running part and the latter fully three rods south of the locomotive. All the cars jumped the iron but retained an upright position, standing zigzag across the main line and siding when stopped. About seventy-five passengers, including several ladies, were aboard and were terribly frightened and somewhat shaken. None received the slightest injuries. Some of the seats were dislodged and the running parts of the cars damaged. Engineer Edward H. Loaither, of Woodsville, stuck to his post, until the engine stopped on its side in the freight station, when he dropped to the floor 'Fireman, E. J. Davis, of Plymouth, continued with the tender, and found himself under the wheels. Loaither was badly cut on the face and his right hand and arm were bruised. Davis was hurt about the head and chest. Had the frog been on the opposite side of the main line, the train must have gone into a number of freight cars on another siding, and the loss of life would have been great. Most of the damage is to the track, the locomotive and the freight station. Passengers and baggage were transferred. Traffic was notjseriously interfered with. The accident was caused by the breaking of a flange of the forward trucks of the locomotive.

haps many thousands of colored people of city, and may result in an exodus of negroes from the United States to South America. The headquarters of the new movement are in Topeka, Kan., and the object sought is the amelioration of the condition of the colored population of the Southern States. Several well known and wealthy colored men are arranging plans to establish colonies in Guiana, Brazil, and the Argentine Republic. The principal outfitting points will probably be Hondusas and Costa Rica. Immigration depots will be eslablished in the Argentine Confederation. It is learned that important concessions will be made by the Brazilian and Argentine governments in the way of lands and immunity from taxation, and aid in transportation, which will place this new haven within the reach of all. Their rights and privileges as citizens are guaranteed, and their color will not debar them from social and political preferment. It is believed that by next fall everything will be ready to set the flood in motion, and only the lazy and worthless class of negroes will be weeded out. Early in the summer a committee will go to South America to complete arrangements, secure the land and concessions and prepare for the work. Guiana, Brazil, and the Argentine Republic prepare for the work.

doubt not the estate will pay what is really sion on Providence society, which will not soon be forgotten. Young Ralston was in many respects a remarkable man and exhibited strangely contradictory elements of character. By day he was a hard working mechanic, with grimy hands and oily blouse and overalls, toiling as diligently and as earnestly, as the humblest workman in the great machine shops. traight and right. The matter not only was | By night he was the handsome, elegantly attired, polished gentleman, the lion at the palls and in the parlors of the rich and balls and in the parlors of the rich and fashionable.

To one of his intimates one night young Ralston told his reason. Some years before his death the elder Ralston had said that it was the one regret of his life that he had not mastered mechanical engineering. If he had, he said, he would go to Siberia and open up mines which would astonish the civilized world. This made a deep impression on young Ralston's mind, and after his father's death he decided to master mechanical engineering and then devote his talents and his fortune to the development of the buried treasures of Siberia. With this end in view he came East and entered the great Corliss works. He devoted time and money to the prosecution of his studies, and expended quite a fortune in the development of tools and machinery especially adapted 2 mining.

in his enterprise under the promise that he would obtain for him government patronage. Ralston did obtain a special permit from the government to inspect the mines, but he placed such implicit confidence in the promises of the adventurer that he lost his fortune before accomplishing any result, and, after spending 18 months in Siberia, he found himself almost penniless and unable to carry out his long-cherished schemes. He returned to this country disheartened and despondent, and there is no doubt that his suicide was caused by a broken heart, due to the failure of his life's ambition.

The story of his life is a romance and a tragedy, and the story of the fate of the young men who were his boon companions during his stay in Providence is a singularly tragic one. All were young, all were rich, and nearly all were connected with leading families of the city. All but two are dead. One was murdered in Arizona and another in Mexico; another fell in a duel in France, and another died in a Paris hospital. Still another, who, through Ralston's influence, secured a position in the Alaska seal fisheries, was lost at sea. Now Ralston has died by his own hand, and this leaves but two of the party alive. One of these has suffered the loss of his reason, and is now hopelessly insane in the Butler Asylum at Providence. The other was released from the same asylum only a few months ago, and has just fallen heir to a big fortune.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.

A long debate occurred this afternoon on the question of adopting the report of the majority of the committee on elections on the Thoebe-Carlisle case. Messrs. Crisp,

Cooper of Ohio, and Rowell of Illinois, spoke in support of the majority report, and

Messrs. Lyman of Iowa, and Lodge of Massachusetts in favor of re-opening the case.

Mr. Thoebe was given an hour to present his argument on his own behalf. The previous question was then ordered upon the resolution of the majority of the committee, which confirms the title of Speaker Carlisle to his seat.

A resolution in the nature of a substitute

A resolution in the nature of a substitute was offered by Mr. Lyman of Iowa, declaring the contest of such importance to sitting members and the people of the country that it is entitled to a full, thorough and impartial investigation, and providing that the papers in the case be printed and referred to a select committee or a sub-committee of the elections committee authorized to investigate the matter. The substitute was defeated, 125 to 132. The following Democrats voted in the affirmative:

Num. Grouse, Foran, Hare, McKinney, Shive y and Weaver.

The question recurred on the majority resolution on the adoption on which the yeas and nays were ordered. The Republicans, with the exception of three or four who voted in the affirmative, and Brumm, Hoovey and Laidlow, who voted in the negative, refrained from voting on the ground that they had not sufficient information upon which to act. The vote was: yeas, 140; nays, 3.

The House, at 6 o'clock, adjourned.

Memorial Hall vs. Monument. To the Editor of the Press: To the members of the S. and S. M. Asso ciation and Fellow Citizens: As the ex-officers of the war and the officers of the Association have generally been expected to speak the most on this subject, as they have performed the labor and should understand it well, please listen to a few remarks from one of the ex-privates. Years ago when the matter was spoken of to erect a memorial hall it did not seem favorable, as it would want to be situated in the business portion of the city and would naturally be surrounded by high buildings which would obstruct man Brown is not alone in backing him. It is said that Major Frank Haskell of Waterville, has gone to Washington to help along; and Mr. Bunker himself will probably be throwing gravel at the President's bedroom window before long. the view of it. This evening the subject will come before the Association. Shall we have a monument or memorial hall? The site chosen appears to the Market Square. site chosen appears to the Market Square. Now why cannot the meeting vote to instruct the committee to confer with the Mayor and city government on the feasibility of erecting a memorial hall upon that site. Suppose we say the second story to be occupied as a memorial hall, and the first, third, fourth and fifth stories, if built as high, to be occupied for city purposes. The first story could be occupied as an armory for an artillery company with room for their cannon, etc., and there would also be room for a ward room or any purpose the city might want it for. The third story could be used for the armories of our militia companys, and the upper story for a drill hall; the entrance to memorial hall to be separate from the other stories of the building. The old material of the Market House could be used on the inner walls and the building constructed as near fire proof as possible. James Gagen & Co.'s feed mill at Janes-ville, Wis., was demolished by an explosion yesterday. Two men were killed and others injured. on the inner walls and the building constructed as near fire proof as possible. Niches could be built on the corners of the second story, and small statues of soldiers, sailors or implements of war could be placed there; also some designs placed on the outside walls of the same story. Tablets could be placed on the inside walls or on each side of the entrance on the outer walls. The whole building can be made ornamental and the roof finished off with dormer windows, and a statue of a soldier on one end and a sailor on the other, and perhaps a short spire in the centre.

Now, gentlemen, if we can have this we want to pay for it. There is no doubt but what the Association can raise more money to add to what they have to build a monument in Market Square. To build a monument in Market Square. To build a monument there they say will cost $35,000. Let the Association contribute that amount and the city $35,000, making $70,000, and could not the building be built?

Our valuation next spring will be about $35,-000,000. Add 10 cents on each hundred or one dollar on a thousand, and the Memorial Hall building can be paid for. The city should have the perpetual care of the whole building, heating, lighting, etc. The interest on $35,000 paid by the city at 6 per cent.—$2,100—will give them the use of three or four stories each year and will be a good investment for years to come. Whereas, if a monument is built in Market Square, they will have the perpetual care of it without monument is built in Market Square, they will have the perpetual care of it without the income. It is understood that the City Building is none too large for city purposes, and in a few years they will want to occupy a building for some purposes in the central part of the business portion of the city if not for the purposes above mentioned. The Association has about $17,000 on deposit, which was raised by a fair given some years ago and by membership fees of $1 each and donations made on Memorial Day a few years ago. Now will those citizens who feel an interest in this matter attend the meeting tonight? If they are not members, they can years ago. Now will those chizens who leed an interest in this matter attend the meeting tonight? If they are not members, they can become so by paying $1 to the Secretary or Treasurer. It is understood that our subscriptions have been in small amounts. Now will those who want to donate larger amounts attend the meeting and say whether they will give more to have a monument or memorial hall built in Market Square?

Women's Indian Association. The Women's National Indian Association, of which the Maine branch holds its nnual meeting in Portland, Monday, the 23d inst., is now in the tenth year of its extence. It was organized in 1879, in Philadelphia, by a few ladies interested in misionary work, whose attention was contin nally drawn to the injustice and faitnles ness of the government in its dealings with the Indians. Realizing in this country that the laws are an expression of the mind of the people, they set themselves about rous ing and informing public sentiment in this direction. It was a great undertaking for

In the evening there were processions, illuminations, etc. At the meeting at Tullamore today, O'Brien said that he had the greatest difficulty to find adequate words with which to express gratitude for the kindness of his countrymen, and more especially Messrs. Moorhead and Eagan, without whose assistance in his lonely duel with the jall authorities, they would likely have had a much different event to celebrate today. Referring to Wilfred Blunt's charges against Balfour, he said he had heard them from Mr. Blunt himself long before there had been any likelihood that Blunt would be a victim. It was because that he (O'Brien) had that statement in mind, that he told Moorehead and Eagan, in the begining, that he believed that he had been brought to prison to be murdered. He knew that Blunt would let his hand wither in the fire before he would tell a lie. He confessed that though he kept a good face, he went to prison with perfect confidence that he would never emerge alive. Apart from Blunt's revelations, he thought they had a right to infer the worst from Balfour's secrecy in immuring them in what he supposed would turn out to be a tallamore faith and patriotism of this venture.

During the first three years leaflets and pamphlets quoting from government records, and showing the causes of Indian wars, were issued to churches, colleges and editors throughout New England and adjacent States to such good effect that the petition to Congress in 1882 represented 100,000 citizens and 1,000 churches; at that time, also, the association had auxiliaries and helpers in 100 towns and 15 States of the Union.

From the beginning, the ultimate object of the society has been citizenship for the Indians; in 1881 there was added to the petition, lands in severalty.

From that time the work has broadened and expanded, until today there are 90 branch organizations in 28 States. In the past year the society has furnished articles on Indian topics in 800 newspapers and periodicals, has prompted 400 public and parlor meetings, has brought influences to bear on Congress to secure needed legislation, and has has also accomplished a vast deal of unrecorded labor. For four years the Women's Association was alone in the field, and in December, 1882, the Indian Rights Association was organized by Mr. Herbert Welsh, for the important work of the legal and political defence of the rights of Indians. Later the Boston Citizenship Committee took, up the same work.

the Boston Citizenship Committee took, up the same work.

The unintermitted crowding of all these influences has culminated in the passage of the "Dames Severalty Bill." By this bill any Indian who will may have 163 acres of land allotted to him and thereby become a citizen of the United States. But it is like setting a child in the middle of a tract of land and demanding from him self-support and the duties of citizenship. Now, the aim of the Momen's Association is a sort of complex missionary work, with a view to fitting the Indian for the responsibilities of his new position, pioneer labor in tribes where there are no missionaries of the churches. There are no missionaries of the churches, the association of the brain.

Arming in France. Indian for the responsibilities of his new position, pioneer labor in tribes where there are no missionaries of the churches. There are already seven such stations; the association proposes to open more of them, to lend small sums of money to Indians who desire to build houses on their new allotments, to purchase horses, tools and all means of self-supporting labor, to teach the Indian woman how to keep house—in short, in every way to aid these children to develop into Christian manhood and womanhood.

While such instructions will "banish the hallucinations of the cigar, hasheesh, opium and chloral dreams, as well as alcoholic madness," will it not strike at the very root of the more dangerous and insidious evil to which Dr. Hill alluded, the terrible forms of impurity through which the body is desecrated. And the monument we shall build must one way or another draw its significance from all that is monumental in the nation, the state, the city. It is on this ground that I confess to a weakness for the conservation of historic buildings. Western Union Presents its Opposition to Covernment Telegraph.

The Senate Likely to Deprive Embez zlers of Their Paradise.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 .- The Senate committee on post offices and post roads met this morning, and listened to Dr. Norvin Green, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, in opposition to the bills for the establishment of a postal |telegraph system. The doctor began by questioning the constitutionality of the proposed bills. No country, he said, was so favored in its telegraph system as this. It was asserted that the Western Union was a monopoly. It had no exclusive franchises. The field was open to everybody. It was no more of a monopoly than any great commercial business. He showed how the success of the Western Union had permitted it to reduce the cost of nessages to the public from an average rate of $1.05 in 1867 to 301 cents in 1887. He said that the rates would be further reduced this

The people of Indiana are receiving considerable edification from a source similar to that which has supplied the people of Ohio quite recently with food for reflection. Forgery in order to carry elections is not the weapon alone of the Standard Oil Democrats of Ohio. In Indianapolis the performances of Cincinnati have been equalled by the "tally sheet" forgers now on trial. In the election of 1886 erasures and additions of votes were made on the tally sheets to carry Indianapolis for the Democrats. The Press has not declared that prohibition is a failure, or said anything tantamount to such failure, or said anything tantamount to such a declaration. That prohibition in the larger cities of Maine has not suppressed the it would we have declared and declare again. But that is something very different from de-claring that prohibition is a failure. There Cabot Lodge, John D. Long, George S. this State. In the great majority of them the rumshop is unknown, largely because of the effect of the prohibitory law. In a half dozen cities the rumshop does exist in spite of this law. A law that has suppressed the liquor traffic in five-sixths of the State cannot be pronounced a failure because it has failed to suppress it in the other sixth. Now as regards the cities. We frankly admit that the law has come far short of its purpose, namely, the total extinction of the liquor traffic iu these places. could as a matter of fact be very much shocked by Mr. Bayley's disclosures.

We suppose that the Transcript will not claim that the spectacle of a woman buying beer or of men filing into a hotel in search of drinks is any more shocking per se in Portland than in Boston. Yet it discants upon the former at considerable length and apparently with a good deal of feeling while its numerous opportunities to preach a sermon numerous opportunities to preach a sermon on the latter are habitually overlooked. Of course this difference of treatment is not motive is not far to seek. Portland is living Wednesday, Jan. 24th and 25th, commencing under a prohibitory law, and of course the Tuesday, at 2 p.m. Matters of interest to existence of rum shops here militates against the efficacy of that law. There is a movement on foot in Massachusetts to place a similar law on the statutes of that State. A good many of the people of Boston and of the people o its newspapers, the Transcript among them, terested. do not approve of this movement. Hence the parading of the open rum shops of Portland. It is useful as an argument against prohibition. Had Portland been living unbuying beer in this city or the fact that a child or two in 5000 takes whiskey "when sick" or at wakes would, we imagine, have der a license law the spectacle of a woman sick" or at wakes would, we imagine, have excited little horror among our esteemed excited little horror among our esteemed oction excited little horror among our esteemed oction. contemporaries of non-prohibition states.

When he had no account to give of various sums of money intrusted to him by her, she forgave it. When he asked once, on some remonstrance, if, at her age, she expected to keep a young fellow all the time by her side, she forgave it. When he brought home a boisterous companion, and proceeded to make a night of it in the big kitchen, brewing various delicious concoctorions with rum and pine-apple preserves from the pantry, and did not go to be dtill morning, and then with his hat and great-coat on, she forgave that. She even forgave his "taking off" the pastor (find she not even laughed with him?), and his comparing the choir to a parcel of old cate on the back-yard fence.

But when her two young nieces came to her on a visit, and he, one day, tired of the obligation of being decent in their presence, remarked that either they must go or her on a visit, and he, one day, tired of the should, she found it hard to forgive that: should, she found it hard to forgive that: and when, on another occasion, having more than one noisy companion with him, she overheard him calling like a mania to the poor soul, an every produce.

VITIATED BLOOD Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by

Cuticura. Through the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with crysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our country. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 20, 1888 .-- Cotton is firm; SCROFULOUS ULCERS. James E. Richardson Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofnlous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the Cuticura Remeters, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. Crawford.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES. We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES, for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE WEBB. FRIDAY.—Mary J. Marston vs. Grand Trunk Railway of Canada. Action for personal injuries received by the plaintiff. A verdict was rendered for the defendant company early in the term; and today a hearing was had on motion for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence. Motion overruled and judgment entered on the verdict.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

FRIDAY—In the case of George H. Snyder vs. the Boston & Maine Railroad, the jury remained out from 3 p. m. Thursday until 4 o'clock this morning, and at the coming in of Court reported that they were unable to agree. It is reported that they stood seven in favor of the railroad and five for the plaintiff.

This being the last case for the jury, they were finally excused. This being the last case for the lary, they were finally excused.

Cora E. Nason, libellant, vs. Geosge W. Nason. Libel for divorce. Cause alleged, adultery. The hearing in this case was continued this morning before the Court, and occupied the entire day. At the conclusion of the testimony the case was submitted without argument. The presiding justice then stated that, in his opinion, the evidence produced failed to sustain the allegations in the libel, and he would therefore direct an entry denying the divorce.

A lady of this city received a letter yesterday from a friend at a city in the west, where the people enjoy blizzards in their full glory, saying that the Bostonians had just been there and given "The Poachers." Mr. and Mrs. Barnabee being friends of hers They telegraphed they should arrive at 8.40 a. m. The family arose at 6 a. m., and prepared a hot breakfast for their expected guests. They didn't come, as the train was reported three hours late. During the morning a telegram was received stating the company had secured a special and would arrive at 3 p. m. A nice dinner was got ready, and no guests arrived to eat it. At 5.30 p. m., a hack drove up to the door and out got the dle street, under the Falmouth Hotel. The schooner Trenton, Captain Cotton, nd a crew of four men, arrived yesterday with coal for D. S. Warren & Co. The ves_ sel left New York on the seventeenth of De ember and has been on the way to this port ever since that time. She put into four diflerent ports for harbor. In leaving Provacetown a strong southeast snow storm was countered and the vessel's mainsail and oresail were so badly torn that she had to out back for repairs. Boston and Salem aforded the schooner protection and she sailed from the latter place for this port on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The voyage was a very severe one and on entering this harbor the vessel was covered with ice.

Physical Culture. Last evening, the evening class of Gil-of Emmetsburg, Iowa. Established 1872.

UNDER the provisions of Art. 5, Sec. 1, of the Constitution, I hereby call a special meeting of the Association to be held at Army and Navy Hall, corner Congress and Brown streets, on Saturday Evening, January 21, 1888, at 7.30 o'clock. The Executive Committee having voted that it is desirable to have a final determination of the question whether the structure to be erected in Market Square shall be a monument or memorial building, before asking for additional plans and estimates, the question will be submitted to the Association for its decision at this meeting.
