HIS EMINENCE, RICHARD CARDINAL CUSHING

Archbishop of Boston

Throughout the nearly 2,000 years of its existence, the Catholic Church has been richly blessed with leaders eminently fitted to meet the challenges and tensions of their times. In an age stressing the inherent worth of all mankind and the basic dignity of the solitary person, the universal concern, the serene simplicity and engaging honesty of Richard Cardinal Cushing are providential qualities in the contemporary life of the American Church.

Of unpretentious origin, but with impressive natural and supernatural gifts, Cardinal Cushing has risen to the highest level of statesmanship in the Universal Church. His character and his achievements command and have evoked the respect of Catholic and non-Catholic alike.

Yet, with truly Christian compassion, he has labored unceasingly for the defeated, the handicapped, the underprivileged. Especially close to his heart have been the mentally retarded, those "children forever," for whom he has provided not only the institutional guidance of special schools, but the personal affection of his company and care. The reach of his involvement in mankind has been contrastingly revealed by his concern with necessary age, his establishment and expansion of facilities dedicated to the spiritual and physical welfare of the senior citizens of the Archdiocese of Boston.

An alumnus of Boston College, Cardinal Cushing has been no less zealous in his efforts for education. Since his ascent to the episcopacy in 1944, through his encouragement, urging, and financial support, the number of colleges and universities in his archdiocese has been doubled, and the number of scholars many times multiplied. Thus, on all levels, there are at the present time more than 300,000 students enrolled in his archdiocesan schools. In addition to his provision for these general educational needs, he has instituted his unique system of special schools, not only for the retarded, but for the deaf, the blind, the crippled—for every need and for every ability.

Cardinal Cushing has enlarged the program for the care of the sick and the training of nurses. He has expanded hospital facilities, instituted psychiatric departments, geriatric care and research programs. He is currently the Honorary President of the Catholic Hospital Association. Recently, he has endowed Boston College with a new building for its nursing education program. He has implemented the essential and recognized role of religion in treating mental disorders, by installing chapels in mental hospitals in the State of Massachusetts.

To provide as well for the spiritual needs, not only of his own archdiocese but of other areas and other countries, Cardinal Cushing has expanded seminaries, fostered the establishment of 55 additional religious communities and, in fulfillment of his episcopal motto "Ut Cognoscant Te"—"That they may know Thee, O Lord"—has been the founder of the Missionary Society of St. James the Apostle, to provide priests from the Archdiocese of Boston to serve in the missions of South America.

Again, as author, editor, and as a striking orator, Cardinal Cushing has vividly realized the effectiveness of all the modern media of communication. His Boston television station, the first ever operated by an archdiocese, has been merely an expression of his unceasing activity, his efforts to bring the word of truth to the children of God.

His intelligent tolerance and his engaging informality have spread Cardinal Cushing's influence beyond the formal area of the Catholic Church, as an ever-lengthening list of honors accorded him by civic organizations, foreign governments and leaders of other religious denominations bears witness.

In recognition of his significant encouragement of every level of education, in acknowledgment of his personal concern with all levels of mankind, in tribute to his tireless engagement in spreading the proper knowledge of God, Seattle University is proud to confer upon Richard Cardinal Cushing the seal of its highest award, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Honorary Degree

SISTER MARY EMIL, I.H.M., Ph.D.

Executive Secretary of the Sister Formation Conferences

Stimulated by the call of Our Holy Father to renovation and adaptation, to an improvement of professional preparation, the American Sisterhoods within the last eight years have organized in a vast, dynamic movement of rethinking and replanning their formal education, and the influences, spiritual and intellectual, which go to make better religious teachers and better professional persons.

The Sister Formation Conferences, as the movement has been called, were inspired, organized, and directed through their incipient stages by a Sister who is a scholar and an author, and who has been recognized nationally for her life of vigorous dedication, her brilliance in scholarship, and the resulting high achievement in religious education. Today, Sister Mary Emil of the Sister Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, is completing her term as Executive Secretary of this organization which functions as a section of the National Catholic Educational Association, and has been cited as the "most significant development in Catholic Education." With admirable prudence, tireless zeal and burning enthusiasm, Sister Mary Emil has travelled from coast to coast lecturing to learned groups, visiting remote centers, and inspiring new efforts in the advancement of a total formation of Sisters. No convent has been too distant, no convent too small, for her to reach, to advise, to challenge.

Four years ago, aided by a Ford Foundation grant, Sister Mary Emil brought eminent Sister-educators to the Far West to work with combined efforts on the drawing up of a curriculum which has become nationally known in the educational world as the EVERETT REPORT. The carrying out of this blueprint curriculum is the raison d'être of Seattle University's College of Sister Formation.

Since earning her doctorate in Philosophy at St. Louis University, Sister Mary Emil has been the recipient of the St. John Baptist de la Salle Medal at Manhattan College, and has been recognized by numerous other honorary awards across the continent, as well as having received special commendation from Rome.

Because of her exemplification of the fire and truth of the Holy Spirit, her inspired leadership in the educational world, her dedication as an apostle and a scholar, Seattle University is honored to confer on Sister Mary Emil the degree of Doctor of Laws, Honoris Causa.

RICHARD EMMETT BERLIN

President, the Hearst Corporation

Throughout the progress of civilization, the instruments and organs of communication have exerted enormous force in the development of Western culture. From the first human speech to Gutenberg, from Caxton to Marconi, man has depended upon effective and responsible communication with his fellows, for the extension of knowledge, the sharing of common interests and the warnings of desperate urgency.

Today, in a society of tinder-dry tensions, in a world diminished by the technologies of transportation and of destruction, in a time when men at evening in Moscow may affect the mornings of the world, the role and obligations of a free press are not merely significant; they are critical.

Whoever exercises upon that medium of communication a major influence must submit to a major responsibility. For as "It is excellent to have a giant's strength—it is tyrannous to use it like a giant." Hence, it is to the credit of the world's largest publishing institution, the Hearst Corporation, that it has as its chief executive officer a man with the ability, the sense of clarity, the integrity of Richard Emmett Berlin.

Mr. Berlin has achieved his position by successfully matching the many challenges which have confronted him, by proving that men, no matter how unassuming their origins, through ability, dedication and force of character, may stand out from their fellows and merit command.

Through remarkable personal initiative and recognized competence, Richard Berlin rose, in the span of ten years, from a $25-a-week magazine advertising salesman to the vice presidency of the magazine chain. Because of his unusual executive talents, his meteoric rise continued, first to the presidency of the same magazine group and later to the presidency of the parent international corporation.

Today, Mr. Berlin directs an organization which includes a chain of newspapers, a group of fifteen magazines, partnership in an international news service, radio and television stations, land and mineral holdings and a separate philanthropic foundation.

Under his skillful direction, efficient reorganization and improvement of the corporation have continued. Not the least of these has been a greater insistence on social responsibility in communications media.

Richard Berlin's activities have by no means been limited to the business world. His active participation in affairs of the Church has been recognized by the Holy See in his election to the papal order of the Knights of Malta.

Alert to his responsibilities as a citizen, Mr. Berlin also takes active part in civic and charitable works. He is a national director of the Boys Clubs of America, a trustee of Roosevelt Hospital, a director of the New York chapter of the American Red Cross and a member of the Saratoga Springs Commission which helps serve the health needs of the Commonwealth of New York.

For his demonstration of the needed and repeated ideal of success through ability, for his responsible leadership in the important communications field, for his distinguished service to his Church and fellow man, Seattle University is proud to confer upon Richard Emmett Berlin the seal of its highest award, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

An A grade carries 4 grade points, a B 3 grade points, a C 2 grade points, a D 1 grade point, and an E no grade points.

Academic Costume

The caps, gowns and hoods universally worn by faculties and candidates for degrees at graduating exercises are a costume dating back to the twelfth century. In medieval days the scholars were clerics; the buildings were cold, capes and hoods were required for warmth, and robes of scholars were similar to the cassocks of the clerics.

In the course of years of development, caps with tassels have replaced capes for the head covering, the hooded cape has been modified into the present hood, and the gowns with long flowing sleeves have been redesigned to indicate the character of the degree of the wearer. In 1893, a student movement in the United States endorsed academic apparel as overcoming awkwardness and difference in dress at graduation exercises and resulted in a standardization of academic costume in this country.

The Intercollegiate Code, adopted in 1895, recognizes three styles of gowns: a bachelor's gown, a master's gown, and doctor's gown. The differences in these gowns are mainly in the cut and shape of the sleeves and in the trimming. Hoods are also recognized for each of the above degrees and vary in shape, size and length. The shell of the hood matches the black material of the gown, and is lined with the color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. The velvet bordering of the hood is of a color indicative of the field of learning to which the degree pertains. The Oxford cap, proper for all degrees, is worn both indoors and outdoors with academic costume. The tassel, worn over the left eye once the degree is conferred, is also symbolic of the degree and conforms to the code of colors for hood trimming. Prior to the actual conferring of the degree the tassel is worn over the right eye. Holders of Doctor's degrees are entitled to wear a gold tassel. The tassel of a bachelor's degree indicates the field in which the degree is granted. The color for each field of learning follows:

Arts and Letters	White	Library Science	Lemon
Theology and Divinity	Scarlet	Education	Ice Blue
Laws	Purple	Forestry	Russet
Philosophy	Blue	Commerce and Finance	Olive Drab
Science	Golden Yellow	Engineering	Orange
Medicine	Green	Nursing	Green and White
Dentistry	Lilac	Physical Education	Sage Green
Veterinary Science	Gray	Agriculture	Maize
Fine Arts	Brown	Economics	Copper
Music	Pink
