S.U.'s Homecoming Court was elected yesterday. The nine coeds selected by student vote will dominate and decorate the festivities of Homecoming week in the first week of February.

The court is complete except for the queen. She will be chosen by an alumni committee from the three seniors on the court.

SENIORS elected yesterday to the court are Liz Bauernfeind, Carol Ann Conroy and Alva Wright. The alumni committee will interview each of these girls and the announcement of their choice for queen will be in the Jan. 31 Spectator. The other two seniors will be princesses.

Two girls from the three lower classes will complete the court. The junior princesses are Carol Ballangrud and Carolyn Cline. Sophomore royalty are Cam Martin and Fran Vanderzicht. The freshmen are Patsy Lawrence-Berrey and Sue Thoma.

HOMECOMING committeemen were somewhat disappointed by the relatively small vote in yesterday's final election. Only 125 seniors voted, 152 juniors, 189 sophomores and 171 freshmen. The total of 637 was less than expected.

The court will be introduced officially for the first time at the pep rally tomorrow night.

ALTHOUGH the court will participate in all homecoming activities, the highlight will be the coronation of the queen at the Homecoming dance Feb. 6. She will be crowned anew the following night at the alumni dance.

Pep Parade, Rally Set for Tomorrow

By JUDY HANLON

"Gauchos' Last Stand" is the theme of the parade and rally, sponsored by Spirits, S.U.'s new pep organization, tomorrow night.

Dorm study hours have been suspended for the festivities. S.U. plays the Santa Barbara Gauchos in Santa Barbara on Dec. 7.

This event is part of the activity for "Spirit Week," proclaimed by Dick Otto's official executive order.

All entries in the parade will assemble at 6:30 p.m. in front of the S.U. gym with the judging at 7. At 7:30 the parade will proceed from 11th Ave. north to Pine St., then west to Broadway and will continue north to Dick's Drive-In on Broadway, where the rally will begin at 8 p.m.

ALL CLUBS and individuals are eligible to enter the parade competition. The best club entry will win $50 and the best individual entry $25. Entry blanks are available in the ASSU office. Deadline for application is 4 p.m. today. The application fee is $1.50 for organizations and $1 for individual entries.

Guest speaker at the rally will be Keith Jackson, KOMO sports director. Al Cummings, of KVI Radio, will act as master of ceremonies and introduce the coaches, team members, the cheerleaders and the Homecoming Court. Special skits will be presented and Spirits Band will provide pep music.

The winners of the parade competition will be announced at the rally. Winner of the "Fragments" winter quarter books contest will also be announced.

Dick's Drive-In will furnish free soft drinks at the conclusion of the rally.

Terry O'Day and Greg Hitchings, parade co-chairmen, can be contacted for further information regarding the parade and rally.

Open to All Students:

Race Relations Lectures Offered

By JIM HALEY

All S.U. students will be allowed to audit nine classes of a sociology course on interracial relations during winter quarter on a no-charge, no-credit basis.

The course—Sc. 266—will feature guest lecturers every Friday at 11 a.m. during the quarter. The meeting place will be changed to either Pigott Aud. or one of the larger classrooms in the Bannan Bldg.

to accommodate the students and faculty members who wish to attend. The project is a brainchild of Dr. Robert Larson, head of S.U.'s sociology dept.

A TENTATIVE list of speakers includes two S.U. Jesuits, a sociology professor from the U.W., two Protestant pastors and several civic leaders deeply involved in the civil rights question in the Seattle area.

Dr. Larson termed the proposed speakers as "action people" all of whom are opposed to racial bigotry. They have had varied experience with the civil rights issue.

"WE INITIATED the idea because most of the people who take the course have in the past been sociology majors," Dr. Larson said. "But we'd like to get other people involved so we left it open to all students on Friday of every week."

According to Dr. Larson, the plan is immediately aimed at the passage of the Open Housing ordinance which will go before the city's voters on March 6. "The proximate aim is the education of a portion of the community to the real problems involved in the interracial field."

"Educating the community is the only way progress will be made. No real success will come through legislation and court decision alone. The basic way of thinking must be changed," said Dr. Larson.

"THE STUDENTS enrolled in the course will study the factual, theoretical part the other four days of the week. On Fridays, those students and any of the student body who wish to attend will be introduced to the practical aspects of national and local problems."

Dr. Larson's plan was approved by Fr. John Fitterer, S.J., Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and by Fr. Frank Costello, S.J., Academic Vice President, last week.

Junior Prom Given Increase; Senators Sing for First Veep

By JOHN MILLER

The student senate was in rare form and good voice last Sunday night.

At the conclusion of the regular business, Sen. Kathy Keeley, sophomore, introduced a resolution to sing "Happy Birthday" to John Fattorini, ASSU first vice president and chairman of the senate. Fattorini was celebrating his twenty-first birthday.

STANDING RULE 18 was quickly suspended and all the senators joined in for an enthusiastic, if somewhat less than euphonious, chorus.

Under regular business, the allotment for the junior prom was increased from $1,000 to $2,000 by an 11-5 decision.

THE $1,000 increase was recommended by Sen. Bruce Weber, junior, to enable the junior prom committee to put on a formal dance for all classes at the exhibition hall at the Seattle Center.

Principal objections to the raise came from Sen. Wally Toner, senior. He said he considered it "absurd optimism to expect 300-350 couples at a formal dance during spring quarter which would cost four dollars per couple." He said further that he admired the work put into the project but could not agree with the financial expectations.

SEN. DAN Regis, senior, stated that the junior prom committee was trying to make the junior prom what it ought to be. He also said that he recognized the risk involved but because of the tremendous job the committee was doing, he was confident the dance would be successful.

Gary Brumbaugh, co-chairman of the junior prom committee with Sue Heguy, mentioned a "$5 package-deal" they were planning which could help in the success of the dance. Under the package-deal program, if enough male students express their desire for the formal dance, an arrangement will be made so they can rent tuxedos for a five-dollar reduction in cost.

FORMOSA: Vice President Chen Cheng has resigned his dual position as premier of Nationalist China, a government announcement said today. The official reason was ill-health, but informed sources said he quit in a dispute with Chiang Kai-Shek.

ROME: Despite objections from the U.S., the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) has approved a record $38,838,300 budget for the two-year period of 1964-65.

The U.S., which foots about one-third of the bill, asked for a limit of $37.3 million. The vote Tuesday for the compromise budget was 59 to 27 with three abstentions.

The U.S. share under the new budget would be about 6.5 million a year.

UNITED NATIONS: The U.N. general assembly approved today a resolution favoring self-determination and independence for Portugal's African colonies. The vote was 91 to 2, with 11 abstentions including the U.S.

FROSH MEETING

Rick Berry, newly elected frosh class president, has called a general meeting of the freshman class for 1 p.m. Friday in Pigott Aud.

He urges all freshmen to attend the meeting which will serve as an idea session for further class plans this year. Committees for class activities will be set up at this meeting.

Cheers for Dan—Papers for All

Man of the Hour

Homecoming 1964—What does this connote to you? Ask 100 different students and you would undoubtedly get at least 99 different answers.

To make Homecoming meet the romantic images of tradition for over three thousand students and countless alums is far from an enviable job. This year, Dan Leahy, a junior pre-law-economics major, has that responsibility and he certainly seems to be the man for the job.

FROM THE coronation of our queen to meeting alums at the airport, Homecoming success is keynoted by forethought and unending planning. These very prerequisites have characterized Leahy's program.

He has unobtrusively put together a team of co-workers who are planning "Totem Traditions" and if present indications are any guide, S.U. can count on an eventful and entertaining Homecoming, 1964.

THESE FEW days of celebration will culminate practically a year of preparation on Dan Leahy's part. This same fellow was largely responsible for the success of last year's University Day, and again he is doing a masterful job. It seems that he has discovered the merits of giving.

On behalf of the students, Dan, thanks for your efforts.

Memorial Reprint

The kind words about The Spectator's publications in honor of President Kennedy were deeply appreciated by the staff. In a sense, even more appreciated was the demand for both the Nov. 22 13-page mimeographed booklet, and the 8-page memorial extra of Nov. 26.

By yesterday afternoon requests for almost 700 copies of the mimeographed booklet had been received. These copies should be ready by next Monday.

ALTHOUGH 7,000 copies of the Nov. 26 "Profile in Courage" memorial edition were printed, no extra copies remain. The Spectator will reprint this special edition also. To help us determine the number of this second printing, would those desiring extra copies leave a note in The Spectator Building with the number they desire?

THIS OFFER is open to anyone. Those who desire a copy to be mailed them are asked to send their name and address plus a five-cent stamp for each paper requested to The Spectator. Please make your requests for extra copies immediately. We want to know how many papers to order for this reprint.

These special editions and the reprints will leave the paper with a considerable financial burden. We think it is worth it.

Probings, Paul Hill

The recent election gave us a set of freshman senators and officers, and put that class officially in the mainstream of the ASSU. The freshman senators have already begun to function; and they have their work cut out for them. Beside learning the senate's procedure and participating actively in its work, the senators are going to have new jobs piled on them constantly. There is no fear that the senators will sit idle.

Sad to say, such is not true of the class officers. Our student government is set up to give significant functions to senators and ASSU executives, but class officers have no prescribed duties except something nebulous about beefing up the class treasury. This has naturally resulted in a pretty low level of activity on the part of class officers. If the people who held those positions were of mediocre ability, there would be no complaint with a system that allowed them to stagnate. But most class officers are genuine leaders of high ability, and we can't afford to let them do nothing.

THE OFFICERS need something to do. With all the things that are lacking in our student activities, this should not be too hard to find. For a starter, I would suggest a number of possibilities—first, special functions on the activities board. The complaint is often heard that our social activities often ignore the interests of whole age groups within the student population. To remedy this, a council of class officers could be formed to help and advise the second vice president's activities board in planning activities with balanced appeal.

Such a council could also arrange seminars or panel discussions in which older students would give younger students the benefits of their study experience. The position of advisor to the freshman class, established last year by the senate, could be manned and assisted by members of the council of class officers.

Class officers could help the student body by putting their prestige behind the various charitable drives conducted by the Sodality, and could exercise real leadership by becoming more vocal in student affairs.

ALL OF THESE are mere suggestions, offered to the class officers for their consideration. The specific functions that the class officers decide to undertake doesn't matter. What does matter is that these very capable people must find some way to use their talent to contribute substantially to the ASSU.

Diplomatic Policy Not Secret

By KAETHE ELLIS

Dean Haydn Williams, who spoke yesterday morning in the Chieftain Lounge, transported his listeners to the silence and seclusion of the White House Cabinet room for a typical meeting of the National Security Council

Williams is currently Associate Dean of the College of Business Administration at the U.W. and Special Consultant to the Secretary of Defense on a continuous basis.

WILLIAMS has a distinguished background, including a Ph.D. from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy and a variety of positions with the Defense Department under both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

In these high-level consultative positions, Williams has been in close contact with both formation and implementation of national policy.

IN COMPARING the differences in the NSC under Eisenhower's administration and during Kennedy's unfinished term, Williams said that Kennedy attempted to make the structure of the Council less formal and took a more active part in the proceedings of the Council. He abolished the Planning Board and the Operations Co-ordinating Board, which had previously implemented policy decisions. Kennedy, according to Williams, felt that our country must "look directly" to the Secretaries of State and Defense and the NSC for formation and implementation of policy.

Dean Williams stated that anyone who carefully reads the news knows what our national strategy is in all but the most top-secret areas. "We don't have a policy of secret diplomacy today," Williams explained.

Williams also pointed out that "basic strategy changes very, very slowly." When Kennedy took office, continued Williams, although there were "new directions in Africa" and new emphasis in certain other areas, the general policy retained much the same character as that initiated by Eisenhower.

A Son in Italy:

Spurs Become Foster Mothers

By TERRY PAGNI

Pietro Santoro has 36 mothers. One, Signora Santoro is with him in his native Italy; the other 35 are S.U. Spurs.

The plight of thousands of overseas children is well-known. These children have never known normal lives. Instead they know tragedy, fear, hunger and insecurity. The Spurs, sophomore women's service honorary, have taken steps to try to remedy this situation—they have adopted eight-year-old Pietro Santoro.

THE IDEA was first brought before a meeting of the Spurs by one of its members who had inquired about the Foster Parent's Plan. The girls gave their whole-hearted approval and in a matter of a few weeks became proud foster parents.

The Spurs, now mothers, told us that Pietro is an attractive youngster with dark hair, expressive brown eyes, and a wonderful smile. They know that he is very likeable and is a good-natured boy, but they are worried about his attacks of severe bronchitis.

His family history is like those of many others. Antonio Santoro, Pietro's father, was killed in an automobile accident on Jan. 8, 1963. Without the father's care and protection, the family now faces poverty.

SIGNORA SANTORA has applied for a government pension and will eventually receive $19.32 a month. She and her three children live in one small room, with no running water, no kitchen and one small window.

The furnishings include a double bed, a cot, a small table and six chairs.

As foster parents, the Spurs will contribute $180 a year or $15 a month plus used clothing, toys, and utensils for Pietro and his mother and sisters. Through such contributions the Spurs will be able to provide the financial and moral support necessary for Pietro to become a self-supporting citizen in the future.

Intramural Sports Filled to Capacity

By DON SPADONI

The intramural program at S.U. is literally bulging at the seams. As far as the facilities will permit, every activity is filled to capacity according to Barney Koch, intramural director.

The intramural football program had some 14 teams which played in two leagues with some 170 men students taking part. Two additional teams were turned down and a third squad was split among the other teams because of the limited number of playing days.

THE MEN'S volleyball league which was added to the intramural program at the beginning of fall quarter meets on Wednesday nights and has been very successful. With 100 more students participating the league had to borrow four extra days to complete their tight schedule on Wednesday nights.

There were also six women's volleyball teams which played on Thursday nights. Mr. Koch, intramural director, said that if the gym were more available the volleyball program could be expanded considerably.

Men's and women's badminton was added to the sports offered by the intramural program this year. Barney Koch said the program was a success, inasmuch as it began this year. The entire intramural program is run by Mr. Koch and five student assistants, who do the refereeing.

BASKETBALL season begins winter quarter and some twenty teams are expected to sign up. According to Mr. Koch, this will draw more than 200 students.

This spring an intramural golf and tennis league is planned. This will be the first time for these sports to be included in the intramural program at S.U.

A TRACK meet is also planned for this coming spring. Although last year some 20% of the student body participated in the intramural program, Koch thinks that this year the figure will be upwards of 25%. He says that this is about as high a percentage as the present facilities will hold. If and when S.U. gets a new gym, the intramural director has great plans to offer more activities to more students such as swimming, handball and squash.

Chieftain Rifles Reschedule Shoot

The Chieftain Rifle's annual turkey shoot, rescheduled for the second time, will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week.

The shoot had to be rescheduled twice because of the holiday the day of President Kennedy's funeral and because of a conflict with the intramural rifle league.

The shoot will be in the ROTC firing range below the Chieftain from noon to 3 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday and 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Wednesday. The price will be three shots for 25 cents and seven for 50 cents.

Papooses Win, Play Tonight

The S.U. Papooses romped over the Western Washington JV's 88-42 Monday night in Bellingham.

Tonight the Papooses travel south of Seattle to play Highline JC. Game time is 8 p.m. in the Highline High School gym. Coach Purcell said he expects Highline JC to be tougher and stronger competition than his opener.

THE PAPOOSES opened the game with a shooting barrage and built up an early lead. Mike Acres started the scoring with two quick baskets. Then Malkin Strong kept up the quick pace by dunking three more baskets.

With Western Washington unable to crack the tight defense of the baby Chiefs, the Papooses went into a 40-20 halftime lead.

In the second half the Papooses widened their lead to 40 points. All the players got into the contest and all of them added to the already high score. Tom Workman was high scorer with 25 points making 13 of 14 free throws. Strong was close behind with 21. Twelve of these were on dunk shots.

DEFENSIVELY the Papooses looked good. Acres was a stand-out on defense with nine steals. Western Washington had foul trouble with three starters leaving the game because of personals.

Fashion Board Positions Open

Applications for College Fashion Board representatives at the Bon Marche are available from Marcia Waldron in the Spectator office.

The girls selected for the Board are guaranteed a full time summer job in the store and receive several additions to their wardrobe.

They are particularly interested in girls who wish to explore retailing and fashion as career possibilities, according to Marcia, who served as S.U. representative last summer.

"They look for girls who are active on their college campus and who are attractive enough to act as models for the College Board fashion show," she said.

Girls who fill out applications should return them to the attention of Virginia Graham, publicity director at the Bon Marche, Seattle. Applicants will be interviewed and notified after Christmas vacation of the selection committee's choice.

A K Psi, MUN Send Delegates to Confab

College students from the state of Washington will meet with leading businessmen throughout the country to discuss current economic problems at the College Business Symposium, tomorrow, at the Olympic Hotel. Twenty-seven members of S.U.'s chapters of Alpha Kappa Psi and Model United Nations will participate in the day's events.

THE PURPOSE of the symposium is to explore in detail pressing national problems about which young men and women in college, and men and women from business share a mutual interest and common concern.

THE A K PSI members attending are Jim Thiel, Jeff Myers, Dick Cavaliere, Joe Miller, Denny Oreb, Dan Cochrane, Dennis Ricci, Sal Trippy, Dick Van Dyk, Dave McDermott, Jim Mallonee, Peter Lockwood, Bob Brennan, Jim Kuklinski, Bob Dunn, Tom Troy, Gary Brumbaugh, Denny Waldock, Sandy Saunders, Rick Wheelers, Mick Schreck and Jerry Plesko.

The representatives from the M. U. N. are Tim Sullivan, Mary Piccolo, Joan Berry, Roy Angevine and Bob Blair.

Students to Meet On Core Revision

The student committee on core revision will meet Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Bellarmine Snack Bar. The meeting will be open to all students and faculty members.

Dr. Robert Larson, head of S.U.'s sociology department and a member of the faculty Core Revision Committee, will explain what has been done thus far by the faculty committee and will invite criticisms of the present curriculum and suggestions for its revision.

Some of the questions which will come up for discussion at the meeting are: What do students think about the proposed reduction of credit hours required for graduation, from 196 to 180? Would students be willing to pay more for their education in order to get a better one and are they satisfied in taking the least possible hours for obtaining a degree?

U.S. Bishops Determine To Plan Rites in English

ROME—(AP)—The American bishops at the Ecumenical Council announced today they plan to meet early next year to get a start on introducing English into the sacraments and Mass in the United States.

A statement issued by the bishop's liturgy commission said the American bishops in Rome have agreed to make full use of permission to replace Latin with vernacular languages.

The statement said the American bishops have directed that English translations be selected for consideration by a meeting now proposed for the spring of 1964.

Senate Continued

THE $1,500 appropriation is used as stipends for students who had done exceptional work in student government.

Sen. Jim Picton, junior, introduced this measure and objected to the merit scholarship arrangement because the student body has no control over the manner in which students use stipends, because the grade point requirement for eligibility was 3.0 instead of 2.5, and because the financial condition of the ASSU did not allow for this spending.

LATER IN the meeting an ASSU merit scholarship committee was approved which will investigate ASSU scholarships and make recommendations to the senate regarding a future arrangement.

The winter quarter activity schedule was approved.

A FINANCIAL revision committee proposed by Sen. Bart Irwin, junior, was approved and will investigate the fundamentals of the budget.

Also approved was the pep club seating plan introduced by Sen. Regis, the renewal of the charter of Scabbard and Blade and a letter of commendation to the Sodality and Joe Robinson, prefect of the Sodality, for the work done on the high school conference the weekend of November 23.

Sunday's meeting was the last of the year for the senate. The next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 12, 1964.

THE CLASS will meet in front of their respective sets each Monday, Tuesday and Thursday during the quarter from 7:30-8 p.m. A television receiver will be available in the English House for those also taking an 8 p.m. class on campus.

The midquarter exam has been set for Saturday, Feb. 8 at 10 a.m. in Pigott Aud. The final exam will be on March 14 also at 10 a.m. in Pigott Aud.

REGISTRATION dates for the course are Jan 10, 6-9 p.m. and Jan. 13-15, 6:30-8 p.m. at the registrar's office.

The cost of the course is $43.50 plus fees. The text, The Great Northwest, by O. O. Winther, may be purchased at the Broadway Bookstore for $5.50.

Further information concerning the course can be had by calling EA 3-9400, ext. 28.
