ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We wish to express our gratitude for the help we have received from the staff of the Maine State Library, especially Mrs. Marcia Lowell now Library Director, Lithgow Library, Augusta.

We are also deeply indebted to Mrs. Helen H. Wheeler and her staff of the Juvenile Department and Mrs. Marianne B. Spinney of the Reference Department of the Bangor Public Library; Mrs. May Albert, Librarian at Wisdom High School, St. Agatha for her knowledge of material about the Acadians, Mrs. Constance Holling, Librarian, Brewer Public Library, and Linda Pattee, secretary in the Department of Education who also have made valuable contributions.

INTRODUCTION

The study of Maine—its geography, natural and industrial resources—in all public and private school systems of the state is required by statute. This study is usually made in grade eight.

In 1956 a bibliography Through Maine on Printed Paths was compiled by members of the staff of the State Department of Education. This list attempted to offer appropriate material for study to three widely diversified groups: eighth grade students, teachers of Maine history, and students at the graduate level. Only twenty-five titles were useful specifically for eighth grade students and almost half of these are now out-of-print.

Many out-of-print titles not readily available to teachers and librarians were included in the 1956 bibliography which were, and are, valuable sources for the adult scholar but because of the scarcity of these items and the degree of relevancy to the type of study made by eighth grade students, many of these books have been eliminated from this list.

Local histories—unless the events have direct bearing on the history of the state—have not been included. Books of personal experience unless they were part of the state's social or political history are not listed, and only that print and non-print material which seemed to be readily available has been entered.

The purpose of this bibliography is to provide a practical, currently available listing of material relating to the study of Maine history at the junior high school level. The list may also be useful to school librarians as a buying guide. This guide is not meant to be comprehensive but selective. An item has been included only after it has been read, examined, or previewed and found to meet one or all of the following criteria:

1. It was currently available as of April 1, 1969.
2. It could be purchased through regular channels for the acquisition of books or pamphlets, or in the case of films could be borrowed from the source listed.
3. It must be of measureable value to the eighth grade Maine history student or teacher.
4. It must have reasonable relevance to Maine history.
5. The content and style of writing must meet at least minimum standards of quality.
6. Each work of fiction included must have a Maine setting although in a few cases the only clue to this is given by the publisher.
7. A biography had to have as its subject a person who was born in Maine or who had established residence here for an appreciable length of time.

Information Included

The listing for each item includes, author, title, publisher, publication date, pagination, presence of illustrations, and indication of bibliography and index. The entry also includes the suggested level of use.

Prices of the material are listed but it would be well to check these in the latest Books in Print or publishers' catalogs. Pamphlets and other material which are available without charge are marked "free."

A directory of publishers and distributors is included as is an author-title index.

Arrangement

Sections are arranged in alphabetical order. Symbols used are:

- (S) slow reader
- (M) mature reader
- (R) resource material

Titles with no symbol at the upper right side of the entry are at the level of an average eighth grade student's reading ability.
