We welcome the June graduates to the Bar of this state. We congratulate them in completing a course requiring diligent application, and we wish for them success in the practice of law. We are also hopeful that they will immediately begin participating in Bar Association affairs and that the Bar as a whole will profit by their vigor, youthfulness, and learning.

The highlights of the annual meeting of the West Virginia Bar Association to be held at The Greenbrier on September 2-4, 1965, are an address entitled "New Frontiers of Administrative Law and Their Corporate Impact" by Thomas W. Moses, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, formerly of this state; an address entitled "Pitfalls and Gimmicks of Corporate Law" by Arch M. Cantrall, Clarksburg, West Virginia, and John D. Phillips, Wheeling, West Virginia; an address entitled "A Judge's-Eye View of Trial" by the Honorable Frank L. Taylor, Judge of the Circuit Court of Kanawha County; and an address entitled "Recent Federal Income Tax Developments" by Wayne E. Chapman, of New York City, a partner in the firm of Cravath, Swaine & Moore.

We believe that this program will be both instructive and entertaining, and we urge all of the members of the Association to attend.
