Growing momentum

Federal mandates (2003 NIH, 2011 NSF, and more)

SUNY Digital Repository (2005)

University Faculty Senate (2014)

Library initiatives

A reminder

Highlights

- Community Colleges lag behind IR development
- Student works are main content of existing IRs
- Future efforts may focus on Community Colleges for student work and instructional materials
- SUNY may build a single system-wide IR for all campuses similar to University of California system
- Library budgets are absorbing the costs of managing IRs.

Who's using them?

University Centers and Comprehensive Colleges

Who's NOT?

Community Colleges

Who is uploading content?

Very few faculty, but a surprising number of students, especially in Digital Commons

Full-time or Part-time?

Librarians as usually assigned to IRs "as time allows."

What would help?

A more unified, flexible and centrally supported system and a SUNY Open Access mandate.

What are they using?

What are they using it for?

SUNY Digital Repository is used most for Student Work. Digital Commons is used most for Faculty Work. Other platforms are developed for Special Collections.

Who cares?

Attitudes at institutions with an IR:

	Very Strong	Strong	Indifferent	Weak	Very Weak
Librarians	4	7	3	2	1
Faculty	1	3	10	2	1
Admin	2	5	7	3	0
Students	1	3	9	2	2

Attitudes at institutions without an IR:

	Very Strong	Strong	Indifferent	Weak	Very Weak
Librarians	1	5	5	3	3
Faculty	0	2	6	4	5
Admin	0	2	6	4	5
Students	0	0	8	3	6
