Flu Moving Westward Across U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The wave of Asian flu and influenza-like respiratory ailments is moving in some areas, but is continuing its slow westward movement across the nation.

"The latest and about the only recent trend is westerly," said a spokesman at the U.S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta.

The CDC said outbreaks of influenza-like illness have been confirmed in 29 states and the District of Columbia. Asian flu has been confirmed in the District of Columbia and 17 states, including Kentucky, whose health department reported late Tuesday that the Asian virus had been isolated there.

On the other hand, school authorities at St. Louis said absenteeism is declining. City health officials noted a drop in hospital care for flu patients.

North Carolina officials said Asian flu cases are increasing in the western portion of the state and decreasing in eastern sections. About 2,000 new cases were reported Monday and there are indications the 5-week-old epidemic will hit a peak this week.

BOYLE'S COLUMN

Men Marry Later, But Die Earlier

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Some 90 per cent of U.S. income tax payers earn $5,000 or less each year.

The American diet now includes 86 pounds of beef and 4 1/2 pounds of potato chips per person annually.

Household hint: With spring in sight, now is the time to plan to have your furnace checked. One of every 10 home fires begins in a defective heating unit.

Haven't for the stingy: Greece and Japan share one distinction. They are among the few countries left in the world where a cab driver doesn't expect a tip.

Here's another peril faced by the expense account aristocracy: a husband whose career was aided by his wife's social drinking cannot avoid paying for her support if she overdoes it and becomes a lush.

Sweet tooth: America now has 500,000 persons who keep bees for fun or profit. Last year their unpaid little slaves buzzed home to live with a record crop of nearly 275 million pounds of honey.

Our quotable notables: "Men have a much better time of it than women; for one thing, they marry later; for another thing, they die earlier."—H. L. Mencken.

Every blessing brings a problem. Example: The United States has about two-thirds of the world's motor vehicles—but only about one-sixteenth of the world's land space in which to park them.

Those good old days: At the turn of the century bathrooms were so scarce that families that had them often rented them to residents of nearby boarding houses. The going rate was 27 cents a bath, including soap and towels.

Wintry partings: The divorce rate usually rises sharply during January and February. The reason: many unhappy couples can't bring themselves to a divorce during the peace of Christmas time. But love goes up the chimney with Santa Claus, and they head for lawyers.

It was Alphonse Karr, French novelist, who observed, "Some people are always grumbling because roses have thorns; I am thankful that thorns have roses."

It Happened Last Night Phil Keeps on Kiddin' Wagner

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Something unusual on Broadway — a lampooning of Mayor Wagner for not settling the newspaper strike — is being waged vociferously by Comedian Phil Foster, "Brooklyn's Ambassador to the Ed Sullivan show," and it's getting lots of laughs at the mayor's expense.

"Mayor Wagner," moaned Foster, opening at Basin St. E., "is the only man in N. Y. who believes that no news is good news."

"New Yorkers," he said, "have a sense of humor. We're going to elect Wagner again... and again... and again... until he LEARNS THAT JOB!"

Foster's satirical slaps resemble Will Rogers pokes at presidents. Friends of the mayor have asked Foster "Why?" He shrugs, indicating he's "kidding on the square."

"When we had that big snow," Foster says, "Wagner moved the snow. He moved it from the main streets to the side streets and back to the main streets. Some SNOW JOB!"

Foster adds: "Some year I've had... I've been rooting for the N.Y. Mets, the N. Y. Titans, the Rangers, the Knickerbockers, and Wagner and ROCKEFELLER. Talk about losing streaks!"

We think the Mayor's entitled to equal time.

Mamie Van Doren split up with millionaire Clement Hirsch in Hollywood, and Mamie's looking about for a new fiance. Auditions, anyone? ... Jackie Gleason's hurriedly taping more TV shows so he can have another Palm Beach sojourn — the second this winter.

Osseo Council Approves Plans For Hospital

OSSEO, Wis. (Special) — Osseo City Council Tuesday night approved final plans for 70-bed combination hospital and nursing home. Bids will be opened April 4 at 8 p.m.

Plans for the 40-bed nursing home and 30-bed hospital combination were drawn by Gavic & Gavic, Spring Valley, Wis. A site has been purchased on the east edge of the village. Financing is being handled by T. G. Evensen & Associates, Minneapolis. Construction will be paid for by revenue bonds, the bond holders carrying a mortgage on the property.

About $90,000 has been raised in local contributions to help furnish the building. Approximately $500,000 will be raised for construction by sale of bonds.

Originally an area nursing home was planned here but early last year the combination was suggested. Osseo has two resident doctors.

Lanesboro Council Approves Summer Recreation Program

LANESBORO, Minn. (Special) — The Lanesboro Village Council approved the continuation of a summer recreation program Monday night. Last year the village contributed $600.

Last month the council appointed Lawrence Moriahl fire marshal, not fire chief as previously reported.

Chicago Bound
Two Whit-Crafts, (pictured above), Winona manufactured houseboats, will be on display at the National Boat Show at McCormick Place, Chicago, for ten days starting March 2. One Whit-Craft is a 35-foot 10-inch Wanderer II, is a very popular boat at this year's show.

So far this season, Whittaker Marine & Manufacturing Co. has had houseboats on display at the Chicago Vacation Show, and the Sports and Boat Shows at St. Louis and Kansas City. From the Chicago Boat Show the boats will go to the Northwestern Sportsmen's, Vacation and Boat Show in Minneapolis. Dick Whittaker, owner of the company, reports 30 houseboats have been delivered for the 1963 season and 12 more are now in various stages of construction for early spring delivery.

The new craft being added to the line is 30 feet long, 10-foot beam, a cabin 7 1/2 by 18 feet, with 6 feet 3 inches headroom, and standard equipment such as running lights, searchlight and horn, mechanical steering, slider windows, gas stove, ice box, toilet, dinette (converts to double bed, upper and lower bunks and a couch which also converts to a double bed).

Power options of up to 136 h.p. are available. Hulls aboard the firm's boats are constructed of 10-gauge steel, with two 7-inch channels running from bow to stern and 13 7-inch channels running from gunnel to gunnel for internal bracing.

Lakeshore Rebellion
Minnesota may have a rebellion. The Minnesota Lakeshore Property Owners League is holding a general membership meeting to decide whether members of the league will withhold paying taxes until the states and counties make corrections, March 2, in Minneapolis. Members would all refuse to pay their taxes.

The question is not only interesting to lakeshore property owners, but to rivershore dwellers. Here along "Old Man River" we have heard numerous complaints about the big jump in taxes on cottages used for weekends only.

The action taken Saturday is aimed to call attention to the league's pending bill in the legislature that would reduce lake and river shore classifications from 33 to 25 percent.

Three Blair Girls Hike Nine Miles
BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — The hiking craze has spread to Blair High School.
Three girls—Jean Tjuflat, Mary Hegland and Janet Kittleson who call themselves the "Beach Nuts"—proved they are physically fit by trudging from Beaches Corner to Blair.
The nine-mile hike took the girls a little under two hours. The girls, who started at 5:45 p.m., turned down several rides and commented that everyone that passed them honked the horn, as if in recognition of their attempt.
The girls have challenged anyone in the school or area to a hiking contest.

Speed Asked on Funds For Girl Scout Camp

ST. PAUL (AP) — Legislative notepad . . . ST. PAUL (AP) — Bills were introduced in the Senate and House today calling for an appropriation of $49,000 to speed up development of Savanna Portage State Park as a site for the 1965 national Girl Scouts convention. Some 100,000 persons would attend if the Minnesota site is chosen. The 15,000-acre park in Aitkin County was created by the 1961 legislature but needs substantial improvements. The new bills provide that the money become available only if the Girl Scouts choose the site before July 1.

ST. PAUL (AP) — Senate liberals made another argument against appointments by Gov. Elmer L. Andersen, claiming the jobs are being handed out by a "retired" governor. But again, they failed to block approval of an Andersen appointee — this time William Joyce, state liquor control commissioner. The vote was 41-23 against a motion to send a committee recommendation back to committee. Joyce's final confirmation likely will come today. Sen. Harold Kalina, Minneapolis liberal, said he wanted to know more about Joyce and whether a morale problem was involved in resignation of two "key men" in Joyce's office.

ST. PAUL (AP) — Seven Republican legislators and two state officials from North Dakota will be at the Capitol today for a look at Minnesota's tax withholding system. North Dakota is considering a similar system as a means of filling a $17 million gap between expected revenue and spending for the next two years. Attending will be Sens. Donald C. Hildan and Edwin C. Becker; Reps. H. B. Baeverstad, Harold Hofstrand, A. R. Miller, Bryce Strehel and Gordon Aamoth, along with Kenneth Jakes of the tax commissioner's office and director C. Emerson Murry of the Legislative Research Committee.

ST. PAUL (AP) — Rep. Robert Johnson, St. Paul conservative, added his voice Tuesday to those believing the legislature will wind up in 90 days. Speaking to a telephone company convention in Minneapolis, Johnson said "our legislative work is going very much as planned."

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Senate Education Committee gave unanimous approval to a bill continuing school boards' complete immunity to negligence lawsuits. A similar measure got a frosty reception in the all-lawyer House Judiciary Committee last week. The Senate bill also goes to the Senate Judiciary group, likewise composed solely of attorneys, where the reaction may be less enthusiastic.

ST. PAUL (AP) — Sen. Jack P. J. Holand, Austin, introduced a bill to apply the present 10-cent-a-pound tax only to colored oleo margarine. A bill to legalize colored oleo was killed last week. The Davies-Holand bill is another attempt to legalize colored oleo, but the added angle of freeing uncolored margarine from the extra tax.

ST. PAUL (AP) — Former Congressman Fred Marshall of Grove City was endorsed for a University of Minnesota board of regents seat by the liberal caucus Tuesday. However, conservatives in the 6th District backed Fred Hughes of St. Cloud, who now holds the post and who almost surely will be re-elected since conservatives are in control.

Social Security Earnings Asked On Tax Returns

Earnings records of more than 140,000,000 workers are on file in social security headquarters at Baltimore," according to Victor E. Bertel, district manager of the Winona social security office, 356 E. Sarnia St. "There is a record for every person who has been issued a social security account number card in the 27 years since social security started," Bertel said. Each dollar shown on each of 40 million accounts had to be reported before it could be put in the worker's account. "For every dollar that hasn't been reported, or was reported incorrectly, someone is short one dollar in his account," he said. "Those dollars will be very important one day because each worker's record of earnings is used to figure the amount of his retirement or disability benefits, or the benefits payable to his family in case of his death." Self-employed people, reporting their earnings for social security purposes at the same time they file their annual income tax return, should be sure that Schedule SE at the bottom of page 1 of their Schedule C-1 or Schedule F-1 is completely and correctly filled in. It is only from this Schedule SE that the social secur-

417 Sign for Feed Grain Program in Trempealeau County

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — As of last week a total of 417 Trempealeau County farms were signed up for the feed grain program, according to Henrik R. Herness, office manager for the county ASCS office. Base acreage totaled 13,889, with 6,984 in diverted acres. The total amount of the diversion payment would be $216,735 plus price support. "People can make a record of self-employment earnings," George Erickson, internal revenue agent, Winona, urged each worker to make sure the worker's earnings record is correctly kept by always putting the worker's name on Schedule SE even though it is also shown in other places. "Be sure that your social security number is entered on this form, as well as the earnings on which you are paying social security tax," Erickson said. Bertel recommended that social security records be checked every three years to see if all earnings are properly credited. The local social security office which can provide a postcard to be used for this purpose, can also help straighten out the account if all earnings are not shown on the statement received. "Self-employment earnings for the last full year may not yet be shown because of the time needed in processing and posting the earnings," Bertel said.

Million or More Lost in Failure to Tax Colored Oleo

ST. PAUL — A bill was introduced in the Minnesota Senate Tuesday that would apply the Present 10-cent-a-pound excise tax on oleomargarine only to the sale of colored oleo. This proposal, by Sens. Jack Davies, Minneapolis Liberal, and P. J. Holand, Austin Conservative, also would repeal the prohibition against sale of colored margarine. The bill will go to the Senate Tax Committee for consideration. The Senate Agriculture Committee last week killed a bill permitting sale of colored oleo. "Our estimate is that 10 million pounds of colored oleo are being bootlegged into the state each year," Davies said. "If just this amount were sold in Minnesota it would mean a million dollars in taxes."

Tri-County Co-op Sales Exceed 3.3 Million Gallons

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — Distribution of more than 3 1/2 million gallons of petroleum products in 1962 and the third successive year distribution was over 3 million gallons was reported by Maurice Quale, general manager at the Tri-County Cooperative Oil Association annual meeting. The association set a new record with patron purchases totaling $1,106,874. This topped the million mark for the fourth time. Net savings amounted to $22,319, down $24,335 from 1961.

MORE THAN 1,500 persons attended the meeting at the school auditorium here. Members re-elected directors John Kahoun and Clarence Rustad, Rushford, and Herman Forsyth, Houston to three-year terms. Other board members are: Jerome Agrimison, Peterson; Ralph Johnson, Houston; Chester Boyum, Utica; Joseph Sandness, Rushford; E. W. Gady, Houston, and Merlin Jameson, Rushford. Youth delegates, Sharon Meyer, Rushford, and James Mindrum, Whalan, reported on their attendance at the Minnesota Association of Cooperatives annual meeting and youth conference last October. Guest speaker was Jerry Voorhis, executive secretary of the Cooperative League of the USA with offices in Chicago. Speakers from Midland Cooperatives, Inc., included Ray Korman, area supervisor; Gordon Standish, petroleum specialist, and Forrest Smith, LP gas plant manager at Rushford. Diane Ekdahl, accordionist, and Bill Davids, impersonator, entertained at the afternoon session. Other entertainment included the Rushford High School "Swinging Sandies" and the "Rushford" a men's quartet made up of Arvid Kjos, Dr. John Moor, Dr. Harvey Post and Ralph Anfinsen.

Bill to Save Phones, TV for Relievers Drawn

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Assembly Public Welfare Committee was sympathetic but unimpressed Tuesday by a bill that would prohibit state or local welfare departments from denying relief recipients telephones or television sets. Assemblyman Patrick Kelly, D-Milwaukee, co-author of the measure, argued that telephones especially are "as necessary as food on the table." In emergencies due to illness or fire, a telephone could be the difference between life or death, he said.

The bill takes note of this by limiting telephones for welfare recipients to those with persons under 16, over 60, or disabled in the home. But the committee seemed to agree with Assemblyman Harvey Gee, Wisconsin Rapids, who noted that welfare is a function of the localities and if there is need of a telephone in the home of a welfare recipient, they can provide it. Barbers made the fur fly on another bill heard by the committee. This would create a three-member advisory committee to work with the State Board of Health on matters affecting barbering. It is sponsored by the Associated Master Barbers and the Barbers Union. Sole opposition came from the United Barbers of Wisconsin, who felt they were being discriminated against because they would not be represented on the committee. Another major objection by them was that the bill does not go far enough. They advocated a committee divorced from the health board. However, Earl Mullen, representing the Master Barbers and the union, said the bill was modified after existing laws from advisory committees of other professions and trades.

Tax Bill Action Faces Long Delay

FINAL ACTION ON President Kennedy's tax bill may be delayed until 1964, in the opinion of 1st District Congressman Al Quie. Reason for this conclusion, he said, is the public and congressional debate which is just getting under way.

What the President and others once called the solid support of the business and labor communities has now started to crumble, says Rep. Quie. Within just a few weeks, the AFL-CIO, the Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers have all criticized the tax program. He continues:

Although these groups have different and conflicting reasons for their criticism, it is important to note that each has decided to attack the plan.

SEN. HUMPHREY, assistant Democratic Senate Leader, recently stated that, "As of now, the tax program is in trouble."

The difference of opinion over the tax cut isn't whether or not our present tax system now has a restrictive effect on the economy. Most people agree on this. Most people would like their taxes lower.

The disagreement concerns the size and timing of a tax cut. It concerns whom the cut will benefit. It concerns the question of cutting taxes without trying to cut spending. Above all, it concerns attempting to balance the federal budget.

Some people ask, what's the difference if the federal budget isn't balanced? How can the national deficit hurt us? We only owe it to ourselves.

FEDERAL BUDGETS and national debts are important. Look at it this way:

This year the national debt may rise above $315 billion. That means that once every minute, we must pay $19,000 on the interest on that debt.

With $19,000, you could buy an attractive three-bedroom split-level home. Every minute of every day of the year, Sundays and holidays included, we spend the equivalent of 525,600 of these homes. The money could go to the expansion of our economy. Instead it saps the strength of America by being used. And it doesn't even go to pay off our old debts. It simply pays the interest on those debts.

DR. HELLER, the President's chief economic adviser, says there is a difference among federal deficits. One kind he calls "passive" deficits; another "stimulating". The first are deficits that are not planned and therefore they are bad. The second group are planned and because of this they have a good effect on the economy.

Perhaps he's right. But there are those of us who believe that debts, no matter what they are called, are damaging to the economy if allowed to continue to grow unchecked.

Through all of this, let's remember one point that was demonstrated by a survey of a group of economists published in U.S. News and World Report—no matter how desirable a tax cut is, it isn't an economic cure-all. It alone won't create a sound economy.

MEANWHILE Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin's 8th District, takes this slant of the tax situation:

"You may be a Puritan without even knowing it. On the other hand, you could be a Heller. These interesting possibilities, which have nothing to do with your private life, result from the testimony of W. W. Heller, the President's chief economist, last week. The trouble with people who feel that tax cuts without spending cuts to reduce the huge deficit are bad is that they suffer from a 'basic Puritan ethic,' he said. Such a huge deficit will not be bad, it will be good, the Hellers maintain. The Puritanism of the disbelievers can only be overcome through 'education,' their spokesman said (see cartoon on this page). If, in practice, 'down' does not prove to be 'up,' the landing is going to be hard for all of us—Hellens and Puritans alike."

HOW DO YOU STAND, SIR?

What's School Program About?

By SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER

President Kennedy and his advisers would like the American people to believe (1) that there is a tremendous crisis in American education and (2) that only massive amounts of federal money will solve the situation.

This, in effect, is what the New Frontier's education program is all about. It is an attempt to frighten the American people and the members of Congress into turning over control of the nation's education system to the federal government.

Because the education issue in this Congress is no different than it was in the last Congress, I recently reintroduced the alternative to the administration's program that I also sponsored in the first session of the 86th Congress.

If enacted, the program I have offered would solve all the educational problems—both real and imaginary—facing our country today. At the same time, it would make the administration's program for massive federal aid to education irrelevant and unnecessary.

BRIEFLY, MY bill consists of two major provisions. One would provide tax relief for families with children attending college; the other would give a tax credit to homeowners for that portion of their real property taxes which is used for the maintenance, operation and construction of public elementary and secondary schools.

The purpose of the bill is to provide the means for solving additional school problems, if they really exist, but at the same time to leave the determination of this highly-debatable question where it properly belongs—with state and local communities and not with the federal government.

THE BASIC problem in education, if there is one, is financial. If state and local communities in some parts of the country are unable to keep pace with their school needs, it is because the federal taxing power has preempted state and local sources of revenue. Hence, the proper approach is to compel the federal government to restore to the states and localities at least a portion of the tax resources which it has taken away. This is precisely what my measure will do.

There can be no doubt, no matter how hard the administration's supporters argue, that the state and local communities are ready, willing and able to do their part in meeting educational needs. Recently published school statistics, for example, show that between 1950 and 1960 public school enrollment increased by 44.4 percent; during the same period, the number of teachers by 51.9 percent. But while pupil enrollment and the number of teachers were increasing in these percentages, total expenditures for public elementary and secondary schools increased by more than 150 percent.

THESE EXPENDITURES were not federal. They were state and local expenditures. Thus, it is quite obvious that the state and local communities have been making enormous and effective efforts to meet their school needs without help from Washington.

In view of the willingness of the state and local communities to keep pace with growing educational needs, I reject the wasteful and undemocratic measures to appropriate for school needs billions of federal dollars extracted from the states only to be partially funneled back to them again with strict limitations on how they can be used.

I believe that the plight of our schools has been grossly exaggerated and that the magnificent efforts of our state and local governments to find the money to meet their school needs have been largely and purposely ignored. My education program is designed to help them do the job better themselves.

How do you stand, sir?

Payola Prober Turns to High Voltage Line Quiz

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., is the man who once made headlines investigating radio payola, the $89,000 question, Charles Van Doren and various victims of Madison Avenue's imagination. The public was flabbergasted. It had been fooled. Harris was on the front pages for weeks.

Today the gentleman from Arkansas will investigate something which will not make the front pages, but will hit the public pocketbook to the tune of millions.

Pearson

Harris will dig into the question of high-voltage transmission lines, which can carry power long distances from the mine mouth in West Virginia where coal is a glut on the market to downtown New York where Consolidated Edison now burns coal hauled long, laborious miles from the mine mouth.

Or these long transmission lines can carry power from the flooded waters of the Northwest when water is high and power is scarce.

THE SAVING could rid cities of air pollution and transform the industry pattern of the entire United States.

This new technique of long distance power was first developed in the Soviet Union which has to get around the problem of long distances between remote Siberian power plants and populated industrial centers. It has not yet been used in the United States, but the battle is now on as to who will control and regulate these long lines—the government or the big utilities.

Sen. Clair Engle and Rep. John Moss, both of California and both public-power Democrats, have introduced a bill requiring these high voltage lines to be certified by the Federal Power Commission. In other words, the FPC would decide whether each long transmission line would be public-owned or private-owned, whether they must carry both public and private power just as a toll highway carries any and all kinds of traffic.

CHAIRMAN Joe Swidler, a Kennedy appointee to the Power Commission, actually drafted the bill for Engle and Moss, but later got "chicken" and backed away from it. He didn't want the Power Commission to get mixed up in regulations. Vice Chairman Howard Morgan, another Kennedy appointee, vigorously supports the Engle-Moss idea that high tension lines should not be built without federal certification.

Morgan has written President Kennedy that he will not accept reappointment on the Power Commission. He claims the commission is industry dominated. Morgan will be the lead-off witness before Chairman Harris and his commerce committee. Swidler will follow him.

How Chairman Harris handles this technical but dynamic subject will be interesting. Oren is not a corporate congressman. He is one of the most industry-minded members of Congress, author of the Harris-Fulbright natu-

TODAY IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Do Unions Need 'Steel Treatment'?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy may think he evened things up when he denounced the "responsibility of Bertram Powers, head of the printers' union, in New York City's newspaper strike. It will be recalled that, when Mr. Kennedy assailed Roger Blough and the steel executives in April 1962 as defying the "public interest," many critics said he would never undertake to give equal treatment to a labor executive. But how far does the parallel go?

The President convened a federal grand jury and used the contracting power of the Defense Department as a means of coercing steel executives—not to do along with the proposed price increase. Will Mr. Kennedy attempt to do anything at all in the legislative or judicial field against a labor-union monopoly that endeavors to fix wage costs in a metropolitan area and set the pattern for other cities in the country?

The Department of Justice could certainly investigate what has happened in the New York newspaper strike. The President could press for a law that would prohibit labor-union monopolies, just as industrial monopolies and price-fixing are forbidden. If Congress passed such a law, it would then really "even things up."

The labor monopoly scandal has not been acted on for several reasons. One is that politicians are afraid of the labor vote. They ignore, however, the non-labor vote—the large number of victims who would rise to support a President or a Congress that sincerely believed in "equal rights." Another reason is that the American people have not been given the facts. A comprehensive investigation by a congressional committee is needed to tell the people they are living under a labor-union dictatorship which depends on tactics of violence and intimidation to keep workers from crossing a picket line.

Why should a national labor union be permitted to use a $17,000,000-a-year strike fund to enable printers to collect total benefits of $115 a week from all sources while other strikes in weaker unions cannot resume work and have to subsist on unemployment compensation of $30 a week?

EVERY INDIVIDUAL has a right to work or to refrain from work. But no two individuals have a basic right to conspire together with others to bring about a work stoppage and consequent economic loss to other citizens. The constitution, under the commerce clause, gives Congress the right to legislate on the subject.

Labor leaders will not like such suggestions, but, if these leaders are realistic, they will perceive that perhaps labor-union dictatorships have seen their heyday in America.

Either the government will step in with restrictive laws or else Congress will be compelled to set up a government-controlled economy. Few will like it, but this formula is the lesser of two evils. For the free-enterprise system cannot survive under labor-union monopolies—nor can labor-unions be permitted to run the country.

President Kennedy has pointed up the dangers. He said in a prepared statement read at his news conference last week:

"The New York newspaper strike is now in its 73th day. The situation has long since passed the point of public tolerance. The essence of free collective bargaining in this country is a sense of responsibility and restraint by both sides, not merely an effort by one side or the other to break those who sit across the bargaining table from them.

"IT IS CLEAR in the case of the New York newspaper strike that the local of the International Typographical Union and its president, Bert Powers, insofar as anyone can understand his position, are attempting to impose a settlement which could shut down several newspapers in New

To Your Good Health

Impetigo Is Infectious, Contagious

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have children, aged one and two. My daughter had impetigo when she was five months old, and now my son has it. I keep them as clean as I can. What can I do to get rid of this condition? — Mrs. C. M.

Impetigo is an infection of the skin, not only infectious (caused by germs) but contagious (passed from person to person).

The germ can be either a form of the streptococcus or staphylococcus. Either, once it starts, soon sets up infected pustules. It can, of course, be a dangerous infection as well as a messy, unpleasant one.

True, cleanliness is extremely important, but that isn't the whole story. Despite all reasonable care, it is still possible for the infection to spread because you can't see the germs. They may be transmitted by a child touching another, or by use of another's handkerchief, toys, pencils or whatnot.

Today's case gives at least a hint that in this instance the disease may have been passed, not from child to child, but from adult to child.

SOMEONE IN or close to the household may be a carrier of the germs, more particularly the staphylococcus variety. This has been known to happen many times and is one of the threats against which well-run nurseries are constantly on guard.

These germs can be carried in the nose, cause no trouble to the carrier, yet become devilishly mean if they reach a person who possesses poor protection against them.

York and throw thousands out of work. Collective bargaining has failed. The most intensive mediation has failed. This is a situation which is bad for the union movement all over the country, bad for the newspaper managements and bad for the New York citizens, more than five million of them, who are newspaper readers.

But the President came up with no recommendation to Congress. He just called for "independent determination" on a voluntary basis, and said he could see no alternative. Today existing law doesn't really permit irresponsible bargaining or failure "to bargain in good faith." Yet the Department of Justice is afraid to proceed against a labor monopoly. The administration is beholden to the labor unions for the money that they have contributed in political campaigns and for the votes lined up for candidates of the Democratic party in the elections of 1960 and 1962.

Compulsory arbitration or wage-and-price control under a biased administration would not solve the problem. If, however, court judges, instead of labor or management partisans, were appointed as arbitrators, there might be effective arbitration which, though distasteful, might prove better than the present state of anarchy in the national economy.

BUSINESS MIRROR
Personal Debt On the Rise
By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Personal debts have been rising much faster than the national debt. But the rate has slowed down in the last year or so—just as has the rate of economic growth.
And while consumers have been busy running up a huge total of debts, they also have been building a huge total of savings in various forms.
Commercial bank savings deposits have soared, partly because of the inducement of higher interest rates. So have funds in mutual savings banks. Savings and loan associations report the trend is continuing this year. Life insurance companies are taking in more premiums. Credit unions report gains. Even the total invested in U.S. savings bonds climbs in spite of the competition with other forms of saving that pay more.
But beyond the generally accepted forms of savings, the public has been putting increasingly large sums into various forms of personal security, some private and some public.
Together these are now taking in about a billion dollars a week, the Institute of Life Insurance figures. It notes a steady increase in the amount flowing into life insurance and annuities, into health insurance and into corporate pension funds. These private forms of personal protection took in $11 billion in 1959 and more than $27 billion last year.
So while debts of all forms have risen over the years, so have savings and the programs to secure against future needs.
American women are beneficiaries of 80 percent of all life insurance policies, the National Consumer Finance Association reports.
The U.S. Treasury is now running a deficit and expects this to increase. But the debt rise will still be moderate if compared with the growth of the economy as a whole. Output of goods and services is now running at around $563 billion a year.

So HELP Me by Fran
 Isn't this weather something! It seems to me Winter will never end this year — we bundle up — and bundle up — Is it any wonder we are all troubled with dry skin? The odd part of it is that we bundle up all the rest of the body, but what do we do? We leave the face exposed — just the part we should take care of the best — A complexion needs protection against wind and moisture loss — About the only way this can be accomplished is with the help of a moisturizing base — a few drops used regularly will prevent the skin's natural oils from evaporating when you plunge from one temperature extreme to another — Have you tried DuBarry's "MOISTURE PETALES" — Revlon's "MOON DROPS" — There are many good ones on the market — the most important thing is to use one — and regularly — in incisors and out.

DEAR ABBY:

He's An Oddball, Get Him to Doctor

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I have been married for five years to a man who is getting on my nerves. He doesn't give me a dime unless I tell him what I need for it. I haven't bought myself any clothes for two years. He says I don't need anything. If he wants something, he buys it. I don't know what he earns as I've never seen his pay check. He takes me to the local drive-in movies three times a year. That's my entertainment. He has an ugly temper and when he gets mad he kicks everything in sight. He won't leave the house without suntan lotion on his face and dark glasses. Winter and summer. Is something wrong with him? Do you think he's dangerous? SICK OF IT ALL.

DEAR SICK: He is certainly peculiar, and could be dangerous. Ask your clergyman to help you get him to a doctor. And do it now.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is 16. He is constantly going up to his room and looking across into the neighbor's window where two teen-aged girls have their bedroom. I told my husband and he said it was "natural." I don't think so. WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED: Curiosity is natural, but this is bordering on the mischievous, if not pathological. Tell your son to cut out the peeping and peep on him until you are sure he has.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I were invited to a sit-down dinner at the home of an officer of his firm. Everyone there was connected with the company. Most by executives and their wives. One man came without his wife, so I asked my hostess if the absent wife were ill or out of town. She whispered that she didn't invite the wife because she had place settings in only 12 and did not want to spoil her table with an odd place setting. This hostess is a college graduate and supposedly intelligent. Did her reasoning make sense to you? FLABBERGASTED.

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: An old place setting probably would not have been noticed. And if it had, no one would have cared. If the hostess actually excluded the man's wife for that reason, SHE is odder than the place setting.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARYANN: Your skirt should be short enough to show you're a woman - and long enough to show you're a lady.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Words of Help On Mathematics

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D., Professor of Education, University of Southern California
For a number of years I was introduced as a mathematics teacher and the reaction was interesting to watch. People felt called upon to explain that they never really understood arithmetic in school. In fact, if they hadn't learned a few tricks, they might never have graduated!

RUSK

Unfortunately, many students don't even try to understand arithmetic. They watch carefully as the teacher does a sample problem so they can learn the procedure. But learning mechanics doesn't produce understanding!

A boy named Bill came to me for help with his arithmetic homework. I asked him a few questions regarding the concepts behind the problems. He quickly became irritated.

"I don't want to know all that," he protested, "just show me how to work the problems!"

BILL WAS doing arithmetic the hard way. It would have been easier, and certainly more pleasant, to understand concepts in the process.

Many students have been successful in doing arithmetic for a number of years. There are several reasons why:

When we put an idea into our own words, we really understand the idea. We have set up a thought pattern that will help us recognize this same situation when we see it again.

The teacher explains in words. When a student consciously pays attention to the teacher's explanation, and at the same time watches the problem being solved on the board, he is getting the idea through two senses. He is seeing the mechanics of the solution, he must depend upon "seeing" the same situation at test time, or fail the question.

THE TEXTBOOK has the printed explanation along with the illustration. The student who is conscientiously thinking about arithmetic in words will read these explanations.

In this way the textbook explanation strengthens the understanding gained from the teacher's explanation.

When a student studies for an examination by thinking in words, "What kind of problems have we had?" and "How do we tell these problems given him on an examination?" The problems you will meet in

Tax Cut Needs Some Reforming

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) - Within one month—pretty fast for a re-election year—President Kennedy not only has shifted ground on his plan for tax cuts and reform taxes but became willing to abandon part of it, the "reform" part.

In his tax-plan message to Congress Jan. 24 Kennedy emphasized this point throughout: Lower taxes would stimulate the economy by giving consumers more money to spend and business more to invest.

But when they got a look this year at what Kennedy had in mind, the two business groups joined with the AFL-CIO and all three parties with the President.

It might be argued that Kennedy, knowing how much opposition he would face on his tax plan, decided for political reasons to lump cuts and "reforms" together so that if the going got too tough he could compromise by insisting on the cut while yielding on the reforms.

Worse than that perhaps—for Kennedy's reaction of his own leaders in Congress could hardly be called enthusiastic although they loyally said they'd do his best.

To make things still worse, Kennedy lacked a rich source of votes which he intended to grease the way for his plan in Congress only to see it collapse in complete defeat. This is what happened there. Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va., who takes a dim view of any tax cut unless government spending is cut—and Kennedy wasn't cutting spending this year—was chairman of the conservative Finance Committee which will handle the measure.

Kennedy and his advisers thought, if they could just get the committee enlarged to make room for two Democrats favorable to him, they could overcome any bottlenecks. It was a feeble effort and they didn't make it.

Never once in that long message did he suggest he feared another recession unless the economy got a shot-in-the-arm. But as criticism of his plan piled up he suddenly gave a gloomier reason for a tax reduction.

At his news conference last week he threw in this new element: fear of recession unless the economy got the stimulus he proposed. He said: "What are most concerned about is the prospect of another recession."

Britain Has Delinquency Too

LONDON — President Kennedy's plea to Congress to establish a National Service Corps, to work at home in much the same sense that the highly successful Peace Corps has worked abroad, in conjunction with the Congressional Peace Corps to keep the jobless teenagers gainfully employed at noble aims, has aroused a great deal of interest in England.

The interest centers around Britain's own similar problems of delinquency and underdevelopment. And England seems more inclined to follow along Kennedy's dog-good idea, even though the original idea of the welfare state was to produce a result at which Kennedy is only just now aiming.

Britishers seem mostly intrigued in the Youth Conservation Corps idea, which is shaped to keep the switchblade set out of the candy stores because England has its own problem of the Teddy Boy gangster, the racial trouble between whites and colored Americans and the "L.A. riots." The British are a little more brass-bellied stamping shoe are a uniform here, together with a few teenage mutants and the wild labor-discipline of the young Teddy Boys.

They keep asking me what I remember of the old CCC—Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps—and I cannot remember whether he actually achieved much in the way of rebuilding the forests while keeping the kids out of the poolrooms. What I do remember is the universal resentment at being required to what they used to call "the C's" when it came to military training and imitates they were had been sent to a reform school.

In my talk of the weeks, the British seem to be very much impressed by the idea because it suggested that a man who was not a soldier, not a sailor, and was in there for a policy back and three times more because he could starve if he didn't get it. In the outside world if you said that "Henry is with the C's" it literally meant that Henry was an unemployable bum and had consented to sign up with the conservation corps as an alternative to reform school or the county farm.

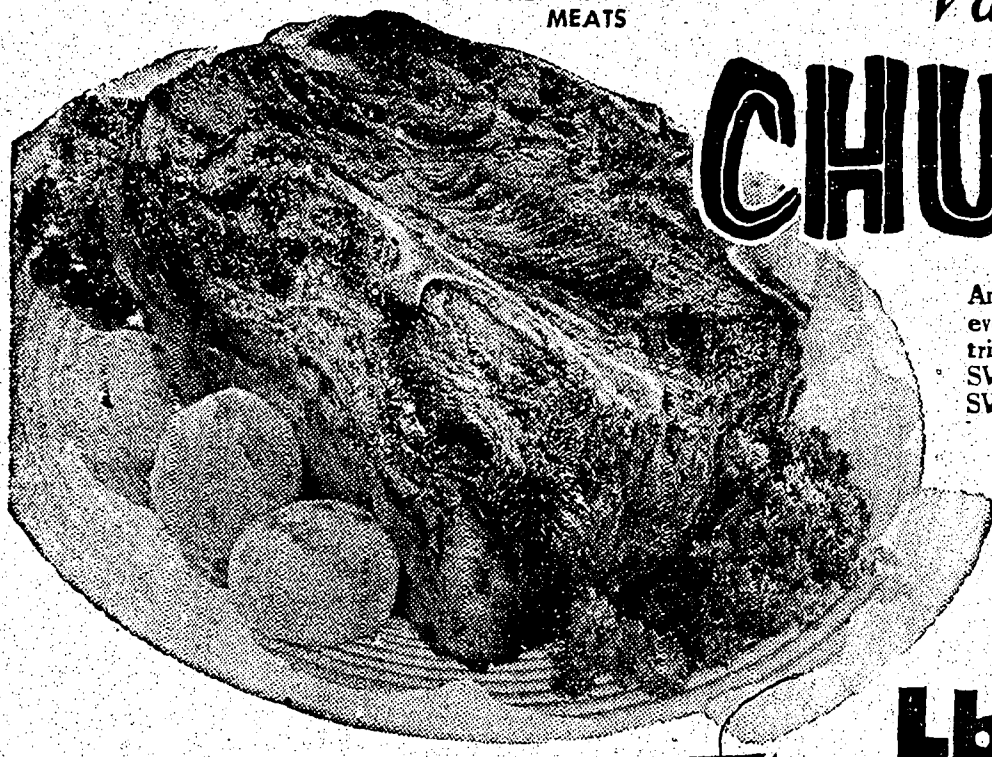

THE KIDS resembled reformed boys in behavior and when they came to town to spend their holiday weeks on a busy, great many purposes, but really dropped the shuffles on his shops. They were not encouraged on impulse by the trades people, nor were they very heavily excluded by civic groups. Of course, these were real depression days, and many young people had not an outdoor job and under discipline merely for the lag and laziness involved.

Decision on 6th District Delayed Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee Tuesday delayed for a week any decision on the recount asked by Robert J. Odegard of Princeton, Minn., Republican loser in the state's 6th District Congress election.

The group, headed by Rep. Robert T. Ashmore, D-S.C., heard two hours of arguments on Odegard's plea for a recount and the petition of Rep. Alec Olson to dismiss the whole matter.

Olson, a Montevideo insurance man, was elected by 348 votes last Nov. 6, with Odegard later appealing to the House on grounds there were voting irregularities.

Although a decision was delayed, there were indications the Democratic majority on the subcommittee were less than sympathetic to Odegard's view.

Olson's attorney, George E. Hulstrand, said Odegard had not filed depositions — written testimony — within the prescribed 40 days.

But Fred J. Hughes, attorney for Odegard, contended there was confusion because the House Campaign Expenditures Committee had checked into the matter last year.

Hughes said he was misled as to his rights by letters and conversations he had had with John W. McGarry, counsel for the expenditures committee. The latter went out of existence with the end of the last Congress.

Hughes brought a sharp retort from Rep. John J. McFall, D-Calif., after Hughes said the elections subcommittee had investigated an election case in Minnesota in 1958 when no formal request for a recount had been submitted.

Hughes said that in 1958 Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., won in a special election over Democrat Eugene Foley, by 802 votes with some 88,000 ballots cast.

Olson won by 348 votes with 153,000 ballots cast.

When McFall asked if Odegard had followed the statutes, Hughes said:

"What precedents do we have here today which were not in effect in 1958 when a Democratic-Farmer-Labor candidate was the loser?"

"You are alleging," McFall replied, "that this committee made a recount when the Democratic-Farmer-Labor candidate was the loser, but will not do so when the Republican candidate is the loser."

Hughes said he was making no allegations.

Ashmore said each case would stand on its own merits. He said in 1958 there had been some allegations of fraud and he and other subcommittee members went to Minnesota to make a check.
