By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON (Special) — The outbreak of anti-U.S. riots in Panama last week again emphasizes the accuracy of my warnings over the past several years of the determination of Fidel Castro to create trouble for us everywhere he can in the Caribbean. As early as March 24, 1959, I wrote that Castro was seeking to set himself up as the Nasser of the Caribbean, and added that:

"Just as Nasser electrified the Arab world by taking Suez, some of Castro's cohorts advise him not to stop until he has demanded the Panama Canal be operated for the benefit of Caribbean countries."

As with other instigators of revolution, I pointed out, Castro's tactic is to capitalize on an existing sore point; in this case, the right of the Panamanian flag to fly beside the U.S. flag in the Canal Zone.

Canal Zone regulations provide that this be done at 16 locations, but not throughout the zone. And this remains a sore point with Panamanians, since they claim their nominal sovereignty over the zone should permit their flag to fly everywhere on an equal basis with the Stars and Stripes.

"Many moderate Panamanians who are staunch friends of the United States," I reported in 1959, "argue that we are foolish to hold out on this symbolic concession to Panamanian sovereignty. They want the Stars and Stripes to continue flying over the Canal Zone, but with the Panamanian flag alongside it."

And it is this chronic sore point which Castro propagandists have used to inflame Panamanian tempers against us at every opportunity.

SHORTLY AFTER I pointed out the danger in Panama, a force of Cubans attempted an invasion of Panama. Later there were more riots, and on Nov. 8 of that year I wrote that "a long trail of hitherto secret evidence leads straight from the Panama riots this week to the palace doorstep of Fidel Castro in Havana. U.S. intelligence agents have long known that Castro's great ambition was to force the United States to surrender the big ditch linking the Atlantic with the Pacific, and last Tuesday's anti-American riot was only one step toward attaining that goal."

The attempted invasion earlier, I reported, "was actually aimed not at overthrowing the Panamanian government but at forcing a showdown with the U.S.A. over the canal. Though Castro denied knowledge of the invasion, it was organized directly under his brother Raul, and left the port of Batabano, which is a Cuban naval post, plus an army post and also a police barracks. It would have been impossible for 296 Cubans to sail from this tiny port without the knowledge of the Castro regime."

"MUCH MORE important, however, was the fact that the Cuban invasion force landed not in the deep harbor of San Blas, but in the shallow water in a jungle area which had no road to the interior. Most observers thought they were crazy. U.S. intelligence, however, realized the significance of this spot. It is connected by a 30-mile jungle trail, once pioneered by a mining company, up to the Madden Dam.

"This controls Lake Madden and the precious water so necessary to the operation of the Gatun locks. Without this water, the canal cannot operate."

"Fidel Castro's strategy was to have his men reach this most sensitive spot in Latin America, as far as U.S. defense is concerned. He knew the result would be the dispatch of U.S. Army troops to Lake Madden and a skirmish with his Cuban invaders."

"HE HAD NO illusions as to who would be the victor. But the invasion of Panamanian soil by the U.S. Army, he figured, would cause a storm of criticism all over Latin America and lead to a demand that the U.S.A. evacuate Panama."

"That strategy failed. Now he's trying the slower but also effective method of inspiring local demonstrations against the United States."

Cigarette Peril Called Grave Enough to Require Controls

COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT . . . U. S. Surgeon General Luther Terry, at rostrum, flanked by members of his advisory committee, answers questions on the exhaustive report on the dangers of smoking during a news conference Saturday in Washington. From left, committee members are, Dr. Peter V. V. Hamill, Dr. Stanhope Bayne-

Jones, Dr. Walter J. Burdette, Prof. William G. Cochran, Dr. John B. Hickman, Dr. Emmanuel Farber; Dr. James M. Hundley, vice chairman; Dr. Louis F. Fieser, Dr. Terry, Dr. Charles LeMaistre, (rear); Dr. Eugene H. Guthrie, staff director; Dr. Maurice H. Seevers and Dr. Leonard M. Schuman.

Principal Cause Of Cancer of Lungs, Larynx

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy cigarette smoking is the principal cause of cancer of the lungs and the larynx and a health hazard so grave as to call for remedial action, a blue ribbon science panel concluded Saturday.

The nature of that action was not spelled out. However, Surgeon General Luther Terry of the U. S. Public Health Service said his agency will move promptly to recommend specific steps of the kind urged by the science group.

"I would advise anyone to discontinue smoking cigarettes," Terry told a news conference.

The 10-man special advisory committee on smoking and health took 14 months to evaluate more than 8,000 studies of the effect of smoking on health.

It undertook no fresh research but decided available evidence shows that cigarette smoking far outweighs all other causes of lung cancer and cancer of the larynx—in men and perhaps in women.

It had no such clear-cut indictment of cigarette smoking in the area of heart and blood vessel disease or lesser ailments sometimes associated with smoking. But, broadly, the panel took the view that the more you smoke the more you risk early death.

The special group was not requested to make specific recommendations for laws or regulations to offset smoking hazards but it concluded:

"Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action."

After releasing the report, Terry declared that there will be "no footdragging" in seeking possible remedial steps.

In another major conclusion the committee of scientists said:

"In view of the continuing and mounting evidence from many sources, it is the judgment of the committee that cigarette smoking contributes substantially to mortality from certain specific diseases and to the over-all death rate."

The report, which ran to about 150,000 words and several hundred pages, hit hardest at cigarette smoking as being what it termed a significant cause of lung cancer, chronic bronchitis, and cancer of the larynx, or voice box.

The committee was more reserved in linking cigarette smoking with heart disease and circulatory disorders, at least as to any cause-and-effect relationship.

The report said in this respect:

"Male cigarette smokers have a higher death rate from coronary artery disease than non-smoking males, but it is not clear that the association has causal significance."

But it said also that an association has been established between cigarette smoking in men and higher rates of coronary disease.

"It is more prudent to assume that the established association between cigarette smoking and coronary disease has a causal meaning than to suspend judgment until no uncertainty remains," the report said.

As for lung cancer, the report said that in men, cigarette smoking far outweighs other possible causes of the malady and "the data for women, though less extensive, point in the same direction."

It said the risk of developing lung cancer for pipe smokers and cigar smokers is greater than for nonsmokers "but much less than for cigarette smokers."

For various specific diseases, Terry said in a statement, the committee's findings were that cigar and pipe smoking have little significance in comparison with cigarettes. But while it found much physical menace in smoking, the committee reported that there are benefits in the area of mental health and ease, saying "The habit originates in a search for contentment."

New Disorders in Panama

U.S. Troops Hurl Tear Gas at Mob

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

PANAMA (AP) — New disorders flared at Colon Saturday as diplomats sought to take the U. S.-Panama crisis over the Canal one from the streets to the conference table.

U. S. troops used tear gas to force back crowds who threw stones into the Canal Zone at Colon on the Atlantic side and burned a switch house of the Panama Railroad.

Tension remained high in the wake of previous violence that has claimed 23 lives since Thursday.

On the diplomatic front President Roberto Chiari declared that an indispensable condition for resuming a climate of negotiations is the flying of the Panamanian flag wherever the U.S. flag is displayed in the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone.

It was a flag-raising incident that sparked the crisis which led Panama to break relations with the United States and scrap the 61-year-old treaty with the United States governing control of the waterway.

Fabian Velarde, press secretary for the president, said that Chiari's views were given at his first meeting with the five-man mission sent to Panama by the Organization of American States.

Chiari told the OAS mission also that before Panama could consider resuming diplomatic relations with the United States President Johnson must issue a statement that this will be done on a basis of an integral revision of existing treaties with the United States.

Chiari also reiterated charges of aggression against the United States stemming from U. S. military action against Panamanian demonstrators.

He accused the United States also of "economic aggression," saying U. S. officials in the Canal Zone were blocking highways running through the zone whose use is essential to Panama's economy.

But main stress was placed on the issue of raising the Panamanian flag, with Chiari saying this was the main cause of the present trouble. To see the banner raised alongside that of the United States "is the deep-rooted desire of the Panamanian nation," he asserted.

President Johnson sent new instructions Saturday to his chief diplomatic envoys in Panama. They are Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and Cyrus R. Vance, secretary of the Army.

Mann and Vance saw Chiari for an hour and a half on Friday night shortly after their arrival. Mann plans additional talks with Chiari.

Postmaster General in Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Postmaster General John A. Gronouski had wide-ranging praise for the administration, its tax cut bill and its civil rights proposals Saturday night.

Gronouski and Sen. Eugene McCarthy were among the speakers at a DFL legislative appreciation dinner.

Gronouski predicted in a prepared speech that a majority of Americans will support President Johnson's civil rights program "in the face of inevitable opposition from Ku Kluxers, John Birchers and goose-stepping Know Nothings."

Noting that the Post Office Department is the nation's largest single employer of Negroes, Gronouski said racial equality is not simply a matter of conscience.

"It is a matter of simple economics, of law and justice," he said. "Negroes hold about 10 per cent of the postal jobs, about twice as many as two years ago."

"These are the results of a promotion system which is based on merit alone, regardless of race, creed or color," said the former Wisconsin state official.

McCarthy called for creation of a national conference of federal and state legislators, paralleling the annual governors' conference.

Mrs. Johnson Joins War on Poverty

By FRANCES LEWINE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, visiting this depression-plagued hard coal area Saturday, said she feels this is "the first battlefield" of the President's war on poverty.

The First Lady told a college audience she had come at the request of "my commander-in-chief" because "we both want to know better the people behind these statistics."

She said she had much to report back to Johnson as she headed home Saturday night. On her first official trip as First Lady, Mrs. Johnson drew crowds of thousands in the public squares at Scranton and Wilkes-Barre and along the way flags were hung from homes that looked prosperous and homes that needed paint and repairs.

Everywhere, she paused to shake hands, smile a greeting and thanked the crowd for coming out to welcome her on a day with temperatures in the mid-20s. At the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport, she kissed 9-year-old Janice Erickson of nearby Clarks Summit and said: "I hope nobody goes home cold."

At Wilkes College, where she gave a brief speech dedicating a million dollar science research center, signs of "Flowdy, Ma'am" greeted her.

And in the city squares, placards said "Hello, Ladybird." The cards bore the name of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. In this economically depressed community where hard coal mining cutbacks left a swath of unemployment, the garment industry has moved in to employ large numbers of women rather than men, causing a new sociological problem.

From the moment her chartered plane, carrying 26 reporters and photographers, arrived from Washington at 10 a.m., Mrs. Johnson began stressing a theme of hope for the area.

Boy, 11, Killed In Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — An 11-year-old boy was killed and his mother critically injured Saturday in an accident involving their car and a freight train.

Killed was William Avenson. His mother, Mrs. W. W. Avenson, 41, of Edina, was taken to a hospital and reported in critical condition.

Police said the accident occurred on a railroad crossing leading to the private road of a ski resort in Bloomington. The freight involved belonged to the Minneapolis, Northfield and Southern Railway.

Bloomington police were studying the accident to determine whether the boy's death would be listed as a highway fatality. One side of the crossing is private property.

Safety May Be Taken From Highway Dept.

ST. PAUL (AP) — An initial move toward possible separation of safety matters from the engineering and road-building activities of the State Highway Department came Friday with naming of a study group.

Chairman Norman Larson, Ada, chairman of the legislative interim highway study committee, approved the survey after James C. Marshall, highway commissioner, again advocated that driver licensing, the highway patrol and highway safety be removed from his department.

He said that with pressures growing on highway construction, including federal freeways, it was impossible to do justice to the law enforcement job.

Tear Gas Blows Back On Reds

BERLIN (AP) — East German troops lobbed tear gas grenades at a West Berlin television crew Saturday but a sudden wind blew the gas back into the soldiers' faces, dispersing them.

West Berlin police said the television crew had come to the border between West Berlin and East Germany in the Spandau area to film East German troops ripping down abandoned houses on the frontier's immediate east side.

Russia Wants Chemicals on Long Credits

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency says the Kremlin wants to buy large amounts of Western chemical machinery on long-term credit so as not to hamper Soviet arms production.

CIA's conclusions about Russia's economic woes were issued Thursday in CIA's first general press briefing since the secret agency was set up after World War II.

The United States has been trying to persuade its allies, so far unsuccessfully, to bar long-term credit on Red purchases. But a CIA spokesman denied trying to influence policy by airing the agency's views publicly.

He said CIA's aim was to make public information gathered by its experts on a subject where the customary secrecy label could be removed without harm, and that CIA may give out further data later. It was understood President Johnson approved the action.

According to CIA's analysis, the Soviet economy has run into such deep trouble that Premier Khrushchev can achieve his chemical industry expansion goals by paring other programs or through long term credits from the West.

Soviet import requirements for Western chemical machinery and equipment, mainly to produce fertilizers, were estimated at $2 billion over the next few years. Credits from the industrial West totaled $600 million in 1962-63. Khrushchev's seven-year chemical industry expansion plan calls for a $4 billion investment over-all.

Nothing Khrushchev's call last month for Western credits, the CIA said "the current Soviet push for new foreign credits and extended repayment terms is directly related to Moscow's desire to prevent the chemical program from impinging too directly on the production of military end items."

How to Buy a Car

No Trade-in and Cash Too Much for Salesman

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Writer

I suppose it sounds kind of silly, but can anybody out there tell me how to buy a car? It must be simple to do. They say that seven million people buy one every year. But I can't seem to get the hang of it.

You see, I lived overseas for a long time, and I'm still trying to catch onto these American ways. One trouble seems to be that I just can't talk to the fellows who sell automobiles.

I can't seem to talk to the fellows who sell life insurance or encyclopedias, either, but that is another story.

I don't own a car now. My wife and I live in the great stone cave, district of Manhattan, and if we want to go any place, we call a taxi, or if we are in a hurry we take the subway.

But the cat has been looking kind of peaked lately, and we thought if we had a car we might take him out in the fresh air on drives and things.

We also feel sort of unpatriotic without a car. It seems to be so important to the economy to buy one.

Anyway, I saw one the other day that didn't look too much like an aircraft carrier in dry dock and went in to try to buy it. It was a complete failure.

The first thing I did was walk up to a man and say: "How much is that car in the window?"

He beamed. "I can make you the best deal in town on that one," he said.

That was surprising because he didn't even know me, but I said, "Swell. How much?"

"Make me an offer, any ridiculous offer," he said. "I'll probably take it."

"Gee," I said. "I wouldn't know where to begin. I've never seen the price of a car written down or ever heard one spoken out loud. Why don't you tell me how much it costs?"

"Tell you what I'll do," he said. "I sold one just like it a few minutes ago for 2875. I'll knock 200 dollars off that and stretch the payments over 36 months."

Apparently he had cheated the last fellow but he liked me. "I was thinking of paying cash," I said.

"Cash!" he said.

"Well, yes," I said.

"I'll have to check with the boss on that," the man said, backing away from me. "But if you'll take the payments deal I'll knock another 200 off the price and give you 500 more on your trade-in."

"But I don't have a trade-in," I said.

"I mean the car you're driving now," the man said. "I don't care if it's even got a motor in it. If you can push it here, I'll take it."

"You mean the best way to buy a new car is to buy an old car first?" I asked.

"That's the best way, buddy," the man said and walked away.

So I went to a used car place and saw a car with the words "a steal" written in white on the windshield.

"How much is that car?" I asked the man there.

"Make me an offer," he said.

"Any offer."

And that's where I gave up.

WSC Staffer Writes Article On Negotiations

Dr. Joseph H. Foegen, associate professor at Winona State College, has written an article in the December issue of "The Journal of Business."

The article, "Innovations in Labor Involvement in Labor Relations," is the 13th such article that Dr. Foegen has had published since he has been at Winona State.

Dr. Foegen attended the University of Wisconsin and received his bachelor of arts degree in 1954, his master of arts in 1955 and his doctor's degree in the summer of 1958 after joining the Winona State staff in 1958.

In his article Dr. Foegen points out that public involvement in labor relations is essential in certain situations, notably during wartime and when other threats to the national health or safety are present. But, he contends, other times, when labor negotiations are conducted by persons other than the parties directly involved, it is a poor substitute for the "real thing."

WORLD TODAY

Three Welfare Plans Offered

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Times have changed.

In this single week Democratic President Johnson and two Republican governors — Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and George Romney of Michigan — all proposed welfare programs.

Johnson did it for the nation, the two governors for their states. This identity of purpose won't eliminate the bombast the two parties throw at each other in this year's political campaigns. But it does narrow the range a bit.

It wasn't until the days of Henry VIII and Queen Elizabeth that a government in what might be called the modern world acknowledged for the first time it had a responsibility for the general welfare.

The acknowledgement had a very modest beginning in the Elizabethan poor laws. The early settlers in this country brought the idea with them and it took form in poor houses.

The idea progressed about as fast as an elephant walking backwards across a frozen lake.

The Constitution mentioned the general welfare vaguely. The government did take responsibility for the welfare of the economy but not of needy people. The first Congress passed a tariff act to protect American business from imports.

But as late as the last half of the 19th century American presidents — specifically Pierce and Cleveland — were denying in very strong terms that this government had responsibility for the general welfare.

The Supreme Court had pretty much the same view. The idea began to grow, but still in baby steps, until the depression days of the 1890s when President Roosevelt's New Deal assumed responsibility in desperation to save the country.

This historic callousness to the welfare of the poor, the old, the unemployed, the handicapped, the ill is hardly surprising when it is remembered human slavery existed from antiquity, didn't start to get abolished in Europe until the 19th century and in this country had to be abolished by a war.

Even now there are probably still areas where slavery is a way of life, in its direct form in some places, and in peonage in others, since peonage is just a nice-nellyism for the real thing.

Still the United States was tardy with its concern for people's welfare. By the mid-1930s, when it finally got around to Social Security and compulsory unemployment insurance, it was already a quarter of a century behind Britain.

And it wasn't until 1946 — when Congress passed an employment act but refused to call it "full employment" — that the men on Capitol Hill for the first time declared the government did have responsibility for the general welfare.

But this was delayed recognition for what had already become an accepted fact of American life with its start in the social legislation of the New Deal.

Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy all accepted it and went on from there, as they would have anyway without the 1946 declaration. Their election-conscious parties didn't urge any return to pre-welfare days.

The disputes between the parties, as parties, was no longer whether to do something for the needy but only how much.

Nevertheless, there is still probably a part of the population which would like to go back to the attitude of the 19th century. But, judging from the election returns of the past 30 years, it is in a big minority.

Sen. Barry Goldwater has sounded unhappy about Social Security but he seems to have had second thoughts. At one point in his career he appeared to be saying the government ought to get out of welfare programs.

But last September, in an interview with U.S. News and World Report, he was asked if he would "phase out" various welfare programs.

He said: "Oh, I don't think you can do that. Take Social Security, for example. I think it could be made flexible and voluntary in that, if a man didn't want to go under it, he wouldn't have to."

Thursday in New Hampshire — where Rockefeller and Goldwater are campaigning to get the Republican presidential nomination — the New Yorker took a crack at Goldwater for the views he expressed last September.

He said Goldwater advocated plans that "would wreck the Social Security system of the country" and "would take us right back to the poor house and bigger relief rolls."

Harmony Citizens Group Asks for 2nd School Vote

HARMONY, Minn. (Special) — The Harmony citizens committee has voted 30-8 to resubmit to school district voters a proposed $800,000 bond issue for a new high school.

Alvin Jones, committee chairman, presided at the meeting. Committee members discussed suggestions for presenting to voters the need for the new building. No date has been set for the second vote. The issue was defeated 549-356 Oct. 1.

Members of the school board attended. Clinton Ewall is chairman; Don Hulcher, treasurer, and Sam Bigalk, Francis Grebin and Roy Erickson, directors. Eight faculty members were present.

After 65 Years, Family Leaving Store at Wabasha

WABASHA, Minn. (Special) — From the days of high-button shoes, kerosene lamps, the cracker barrel and horse-drawn delivery wagons and sleds, Kuehn's store on Main Street here has been a Wabasha institution. It has been owned and operated by the family since 1898.

However, on Tuesday a new owner, James Theismann, 22, Wabasha, will take over. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kuehn, who have worked a total of 93 years (Clarence, 48, and Mrs. Kuehn, 45) will retire.

WHEN HE was 18, in 1916, Clarence became a partner of his father, the late L. M.

Kuehn, after his original partner, the late Emil Arens, joined the Meyer company here. Kuehn and Arens purchased the store in 1898. It originally was known as the Salsbury store. The store was first in the present Northern States Power Co. building with the post office in the rear. In 1905 the post office department remodeled the building and moved to the front. Kuehn and Arens established the store in the present location, two doors away.

Dry goods and shoes, the small town version of a department store, groceries and meats were sold from 1918 to 1934. That year with the advent of 3.2 beer, L. M. Kuehn discontinued dry goods and shoes and added a tavern, which he operated 10 years.

Clarence recalls that in early days when there were few telephones in Wabasha the delivery boy with his horse-drawn wagon or sled would make his route taking orders, return to the store to fill them, and to the customer with the groceries.

A folkway from early days in the store still persists at Kuehn's Food Market. When the customer pays his bill, he is given a sack of candy.

THEISMANN, who has spent the last four years in the U.S. Air Force at Perrin Air Force Base, Sherman, Tex., will continue the grocery and meats with delivery service.

A graduate of St. Felix High School, Theismann is married and has two children. His wife and mother, Mrs. Albert Theismann, Wabasha, will assist him temporarily.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

Winonans Just Miss Panamanian Riots

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Sunday News Staff Writer

Probably no one anywhere was more startled to learn last Thursday of the flareup of violence in Panama than a Winona couple who had been visiting in that Latin American republic a scant week earlier.

As a matter of fact, if it hadn't been for some last-minute difficulties in travel arrangements Mr. and Mrs. Larry D. Conway, 1256 W. Broadway, could very well have been in Panama City when a student demonstration erupted into fighting that left in its wake 10 dead and more than 200 wounded.

The Conways and their two children, Lynn, 2½, and Kelly Ann, 1½, left Winona Dec. 17, planning to spend a three-week Christmas holiday vacation in Mrs. Conway's native Panama. The former Mairelia Sogandarez, Mrs. Conway met her husband while she was attending the College of Saint Teresa here. The vacation was to mark her first visit with relatives in Panama in more than five years.

Their original plans called for them to fly their own airplane to Miami, then board a jet airliner for Panama City and return to the United States the middle of this month.

"There was absolutely no indication that anything might be brewing," Conway said Saturday in recalling events of their visit. "We would have stayed another week but learned that with the return of college students to the United States after the holidays it might be difficult to obtain airline reservations. We found we could get bookings out of Panama City Jan. 2 and decided to cut our visit short and take them."

The change in schedule meant they had to decline an invitation from Panama President Roberto Chiari to visit him in the Presidential Palace, an appointment that had been made for the day on which they boarded the airliner for the return to the United States.

Chiari had been a close friend of Mrs. Conway's father who was killed four years ago in an accident in Panama. In Panama City the Winonans visited with two of Mrs. Conway's aunts, Dr. Lidia Sogandarez, a leading Panamanian obstetrician, and Dr. Lucila Sogandarez, a nutritionist who travels extensively through Mexico and Latin America.

Dr. Lidia had delivered the Chiari children - as well as those of several of the President's predecessors - and it was through her that arrangements for the visit with the President had been made.

"Almost everything that we saw while we were in Panama," Conway commented, "indicated that relations between United States citizens there and the Panamanians were harmonious. My wife was amazed at the new construction that had been completed since she last was home - apartment buildings, hotels and the like - and I was ready to tell people when we returned to Winona how well things appeared to be going down there.

"We were both stunned," he continued, "when we learned of the outbreak of fighting. It just didn't seem possible."

Conway feels that the outbreak stems largely from natural consequences of an incident involving an emotional people who have long chafed under what they feel are certain injustices involved in the United States' operation of the Canal Zone.

"I'm convinced there's no basis for much of this talk you hear that Castro was behind it," Conway said of the demonstration which developed after American students raised a United States flag in violation of an agreement over display of flags in the zone.

He acknowledged that his observations led him to believe that a good many younger Americans in Panama are more than a little lacking in diplomacy and courtesy in their relations with the Latin Americans.

The Conways made one trip by boat to a nearby resort island for a luncheon engagement with the governor of Colon.

"There were a number of young American students, probably 12 to 15 years old," he said, "who were on board and I was disappointed with their loud, often crude talk and manners. There were also Panamanian youths aboard but they remained restrained and well-mannered throughout the trip."

Conway feels that the fact that this is an election year in Panama (a cousin of Mrs. Conway is one of six candidates for the presidency) might be a factor in the explosive atmosphere in that nation. He also believes several long-standing grievances between the United States and Panamanian people have not been satisfactorily resolved.

"It's my understanding that, since the canal was built, there hasn't been an increase in lease payments paid by the United States for the Canal Zone property," he noted. "It appeared to me that the Panamanians feel the United States is getting rich on the operation although, as a matter of principle, we aren't supposed to be making a profit from this free port."

"On the other hand," he continued, "when the United States shows that it isn't making a profit, it writes off support of its military forces there as an operating expense and the Panamanians may have reason to question this.

"Of course, they would like to control the zone and operate the canal - since it's actually a part of their country - but I'm convinced that, at least at the present time, they're not prepared technologically or in several other ways to accomplish this successfully."

There are numerous other things that still rankle some Panamanians, he observed, mentioning specifically construction of a bridge in the Canal Zone in 1959.

"The Panamanians thought it should be named the Bridge of the Americas," he continued, "but our government decided to name it after the governor of the zone as Fleming Bridge and that's what it is. Most Panamanians, though, still refer to it as the Bridge of the Americas. I wonder if there isn't one point where we could have bent a little."

Despite these differences, however, Conway is convinced that significant progress has been made in improving relations between the two countries.

"The death of President Kennedy was a great personal loss to those people," he said. "We here in America naturally were shocked by his assassination but you have to go outside the country to see what impact it had on other people. Even when we were in Panama, the people would talk about Kennedy and tears would come to their eyes. They are convinced that he was working for their best interests."

Conway's sentiments about relations between Panama and the United States, he said, were underscored by conversations he had with the sister-in-law of the president of Mexico, with whom they spent New Year's Eve and who commented that she felt relations between the two countries were better than on her prior visits to Panama.

Child Ordered To Pay Costs For Mother

A $960 judgment has been won by Winona County in its court action against a Rochester, Minn., woman whose mother has been an old age assistance recipient.

Findings were filed in District Court here Friday in the case brought by the county Welfare Board against Mrs. Irwin Mueller, who maintains residence at rural Utica as well as Rochester.

The county, in a hearing before Judge Murphy last August, had contended that Mrs. Mueller had been financially able to contribute $20 monthly for the support of her mother, Mrs. Minnie Wondrow, Saratoga, during the period from Jan. 1, 1959 to Dec. 31, 1962.

Mrs. Mueller contested the welfare board's finding that she was able to provide the financial assistance.

Judge Murphy's order states that Mrs. Mueller must make the $960 payment, together with costs.

County Weed Meeting Jan. 21

The annual weed and seed conference for Winona County has been set for 10 a.m. Jan. 21 at the Lewiston Village Hall, according to a statement issued by Duane A. Wilson, commissioner of the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Attendance at the conference is mandatory for township officers and city and village mayors or their assistants. Weed inspectors appointed by governmental bodies are legally qualified assistants for purposes of this meeting, Wilson's statement pointed out.

Bishop to Speak To Holy Name at Cathedral Today

The Most Rev. Edward A. Fitzgerald, bishop of Winona, will be the guest speaker at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart's Holy Name Society breakfast meeting after the 8 a.m. Mass today.

New officers will be installed. They include Donald V. Gray, president, who succeeds Bernard F. Boland; Joseph Richardson, vice president, succeeding Leo F. Murphy Jr.; Robert Northam, treasurer, succeeding Fred Naas, and Hugh Shaw, secretary, succeeding Howard Tomashek.

New Choate Manager Named

Donald W. Gray will become general manager of H. Choate & Co. Feb. 1, it was announced today by W. Leo and Eugene Murphy, La Crosse, Choate officials.

Gray has been manager of the La Crosse TV Signal Co. since March 1961.

Gray was born in Baldwin, Mich., attended the University of Wisconsin and was graduated from Rider College, Trenton, N.J., with a bachelor of arts degree in business administration.

He has a 30-year background in the retail department store business starting with R. H. Macy & Co. in New York City. He has been a vice president and general merchandise manager at the William Doerflinger Co., La Crosse, and later was affiliated with Montgomery Ward & Co. 15 years.

During his Ward tenure he managed stores in Nebraska, Minnesota, Michigan and Oklahoma. He spent three years as regional fashion merchandise manager in the company's headquarters in St. Paul. In the capacity of district stores manager, he supervised Ward stores in North and South Dakota, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and New Mexico.

Gray has two daughters, Mrs.

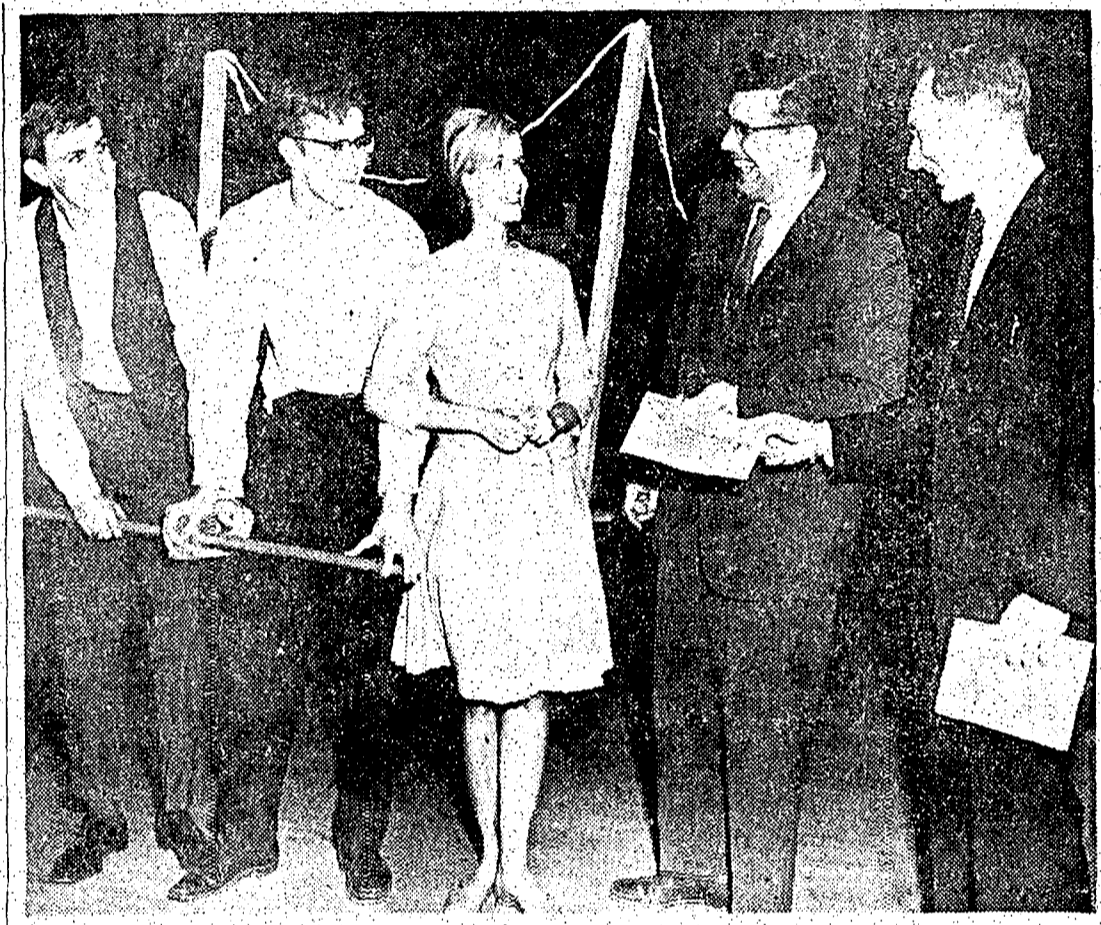

Cong. Quie Concludes Local Visit

Cong. Albert H. Quie has returned to Washington, D. C. following a 10-day visit to the 1st District in which he visited all 12 counties and made many personal appearances.

Cong. Quie wound up his schedule with an office session Friday at the Winona County courthouse. During his visit to the district he made 20 speeches and conducted office hours in all counties.

In the course of his talks to constituents, Cong. Quie made some major points:

- The 1963 Congress should be called "Congress of the Humanities" because of accomplishments in fields of education and mental health.
- Sale of U. S. wheat to Russia, under present conditions, is unwise.
- A tax cut and a watered down civil rights bill will pass this year.
- New domestic wheat legislation will be passed and a change in agricultural concepts may be expected in Congress.

A bottle of blood can mean many things to many people, Filipovich said.

"It may mean the difference between life and death for a severely bleeding accident victim, it might be used for exchange transfusions of a newborn infant, it might replace the blood of a patient who is suffering from internal hemorrhage or used to assure the success of a surgical operation," the doctor asserted.

Last month, nearly 50 units of blood and six units of plasma - the fluid portion of the whole blood - were used at Community Memorial Hospital here.

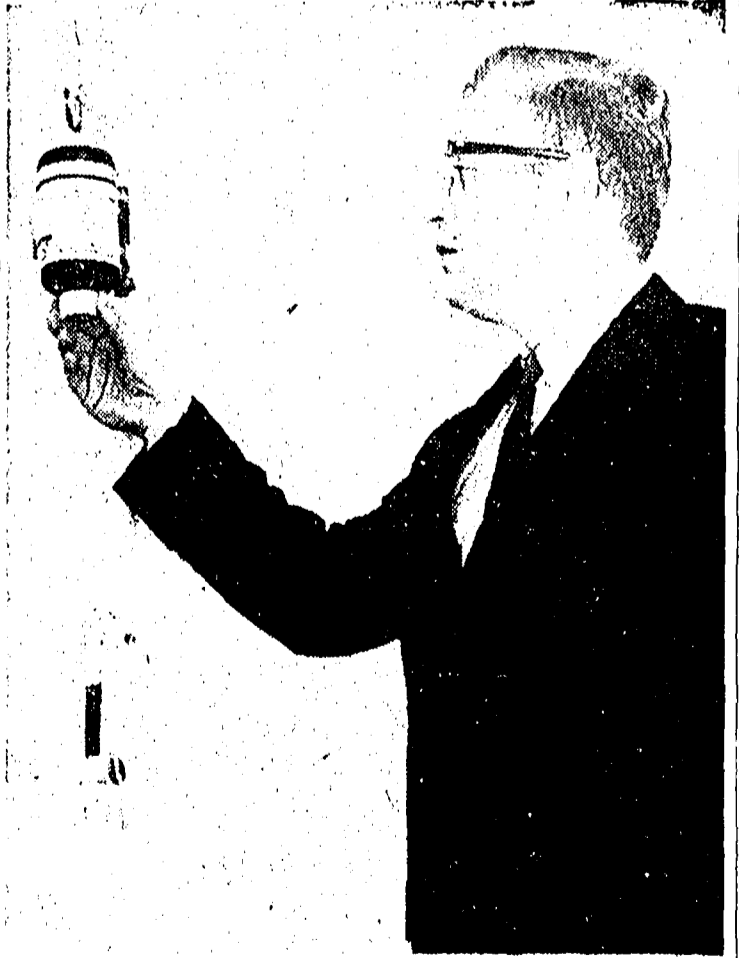

IN ADDITION TO USES listed by Filipovich, the Red Cross blood program involves research activity. A recent result of this research was the discovery of vaccinia immune globulin, which counteracts serious reactions to smallpox vaccination.

Other discoveries have been gamma globulin, the disease fighter; serum albumen, which combats shock, and fibrinogen, which controls hemorrhage in childbirth.

FIBRINOLYSIN, which is used to dissolve blood clots, is now being tested, and researchers are trying to perfect a freezing technique for long-term preservation of blood.

THE BLOODMOBILE will be at the Red Cross headquarters, 276 W. 5th St., from noon until 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Friday.

Donors are asked to make appointments with the Red Cross before coming in to give blood. This speeds up the blood collection process and enables workers to function more efficiently, Red Cross volunteers point out.

BLOOD . . . Dr. Orest N. Filipovich, medical adviser for the Winona County chapter of the Red Cross, examines a bottle of blood as it appears to prospective recipient. It was donated by a volunteer and collected by other volunteers during a blood drive here. A continued supply of such blood depends on the response of Winonans during the next visit of the bloodmobile, which begins Monday noon at the Red Cross headquarters, 276 W. 5th St.

WSH Comedy Wins Top District Rating

Winona Senior High School will represent District 3 in the regional drama contest Jan. 25 in Albert Lea.

The school's winning entry, which received an "A" rating in the district contest held at the senior high school auditorium Saturday, was a comedy, "The Shoemaker's Wife." Members of the cast were Pattilee Patterson, Richard Behling and Steve Andersen. Warren Magnuson was the director.

Thomas Stoltman of the high school faculty was manager of the contest, in which seven schools besides Winona took part.

Pine Island's entry, "Harlequinda," also a comedy, received an "A" rating. The school was named as alternate participant in the regional contest.

Plays entered by other schools received "B" ratings. The other participants were Dover-Eyota, Kasson-Mantorville, Plainview, Lake City, Stewartville and St. Charles.

Judges were Miss Dorothy Magnus, Winona State College, and Brother Raymond and Norman Delue of St. Mary's College.

Moselle River To Be Linked With Rhine

By CARL HARTMAN
KOBLENZ, Germany (AP)—This spring one of the world's most beautiful valleys will be free of the dust and jackhammers that have kept tourists away for five years.
At the same time, the rivers of France will have a new commercial link with the great inland waterways of Central Europe.
Part of the Moselle River is becoming a canal to enable 1,500-ton barges to ply from Thionville in Alsace along the border of little Luxembourg and through the twisting, vine-clad Moselle Valley to the Rhine.

In 1970, when the Rhine-Danube canal is completed, it will be possible for some boats to go from the English Channel to the Black Sea. The Moselle project also brings the day nearer when heavy traffic can float inland from the North Sea to the Mediterranean.

Opening of such waterways is highly important to trade. Barges often offer the cheapest kind of transportation.
Normally the Moselle is a picturesque but shallow stream. Tourists long have been charmed by its castle-crowned hills and the old world villages nestled at their feet. Villagers grew prosperous with their dry, richly perfumed white wines.

French industrialists had another kind of interest in the Moselle. They wanted to lower the cost of bringing coal from Germany's Ruhr Valley to the steel mills of French Lorraine, and of taking Lorraine iron ore to the Ruhr. They also may have their eyes on easier access to markets in Eastern Europe. The Germans were less enthusiastic. Their railroads stood to lose revenue. But in 1958 a treaty was signed, sweetened for the Germans by French consent to making the Saar part of West Germany.

The canalized section of the Moselle is 170 miles long, of which 129 miles are in Germany. France is paying two-thirds of the $185-million cost. West Germany will pay the rest, except for $500,000 contributed by Luxembourg, where the steel industry will benefit.

For their money, the three countries will get a channel 21-33 feet deep, with 13 dams, 14 locks, nine power stations and five barge ports. The power plants will develop 800 million kilowatt hours of electricity a year, mostly for Germany.

Ruhr mining firms are hoping to ship 2.5 million tons of coke and 1.1 million tons of coking coal up the river to Lorraine every year, and 450,000 tons of iron ore from overseas. The French will send back about 1.8 million tons of iron ore and steel. Local German traffic between Trier and Koblenz may reach a million tons annually.

United States agriculture's production assets comes to about $22,000 for each farm employe.

It Happened Last Night

Mother Got $14,000 Loan

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — "Let's face it," says Al Martino. "A year ago, I was dead on records. I was a has-been."

"Nothing much had happened to me in 11 years, not since I did 'Here in My Heart,' in 1952."
Suddenly the Philadelphia bricklayer-singer of pop and semi-classical songs switched to "country music" — and in six months he knocked off three hits ("I Love You Because," "Painted, Tainted Rose" and "Living a Lie") and sold 1,500,000 records and 250,000 albums. At 36, he has staged a genuine comeback.

"How broke was I?" Al said. "Let's say I didn't have enough money to eat in my favorite restaurant, Marchi's."

"I didn't, as they say, have anything going for me."
The Al Martino comeback is a story of one man's refusal to be beaten. Having nothing much in America after that "Here in My Heart" hit in '52, he went to Europe for six years then came back to find music patterns all changed. He was in a strange land — his own.

"I had to get out there and make them believe in me again," Al remembered, spinning the tale in Lindy's the other afternoon.
"But I couldn't even get a recording session."
"I borrowed $14,000 — yeah, from my mother — that is; she was my sponsor with the bank — to get together an album titled 'The Exciting Voice of Al Martino.'"

"Our family did all right as bricklayers. Jack Kelly did all right as a bricklayer, didn't he?"
"THE AGREEMENT was that if that album sold enough for the recording company selling it to break even, I would get a crack at a single session. 'I had to sell 40,000 albums. That's 40,000 more than I'd sold in 11 years."
"I borrowed enough money to tour the country and get all the information I could about the music business. There was no end to the expenses. I used about 50 musicians in the album session. My mother had to sign it for me at the bank. Good old Mom! My mother sponsored me on the 'Here in My Heart' song when I recorded that, too."

At last — when the album paid its way — Al was ready again but looking for material.

"Nat (King) Cole had done 'Rambling Rose' country style. He was pop and I was pop. Maybe I could sing country!"

LAST FEBRUARY, Al asked a music publisher to let him have some country albums.
"The publisher left some Eddie Howard albums on his desk. The first one I picked up had 'I Love You Because.'"

"I took that home to Philadelphia on the train and put in on my record player, and played it over and over for about two hours. I kept saying, 'That record's a hit. But I worried that if Eddie brought out his before mine, it would ruin me. I would just have to keep it quiet.'"

When Al long-distanced Capitol Records Vice President Voyle Gilmore in Los Angeles about the song, the latter said, "Sing it on the phone!"
He did. Gilmore was impressed, and they were off.

"You're a country singer — have you ever been in the country?" I asked Al.
"When I was 13, I ran away from home — down south to New Orleans. I was staying at the Salvation Army and I got an old man there to pose as my father and give me permission to enlist in the Navy. I was the only Yankee in the outfit."

"I was always singing and playing a guitar. That started it."
"JUST THE other day," Al continued, "I paid off that $14,000 loan. I had to live with that loan for three years. My mother worked hard for that money. I'd have been in hock for the rest of my life if I hadn't made good. I couldn't ever have built enough brick walls to pay that off."

Assault Trial Slated at Alma

ALMA, Wis. — The trial of Irvin H. Przytarski, Buffalo City, charged with assault and battery on complaint of Stanley A. Apel, Buffalo City, is scheduled in county court here Friday at 10 a.m., according to Buffalo County Judge Gary Schlosstein.

Pepin County Judge John Bartholomew will preside, Judge Schlosstein having disqualified himself.
By his attorney, La Vern G. Kostner, Arcadia, Przytarski has pleaded not guilty to the misdemeanor, arising from an alleged altercation between defendant and complainant at the Mississippi last month. District Attorney Pat Motley will prosecute.

The case was scheduled Friday but was postponed because Kostner was occupied in Circuit Court at Whitehall.

THERE'S CONSIDERABLE speculation around the city these days as to who will be the successor to George Savord who has resigned as chief of police and is now acting in an advisory capacity to the department.

Most prominently mentioned are two veteran members of the department—Captain James W. McCabe and Captain of Detectives Marvin A. Meier. Capt. McCabe joined the force Nov. 1, 1942 and Detective Meier on April 1, 1940.

The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners plans a session soon to select a new chief. No word has leaked out, however, as to whether they will pick a man from the department, which we would endorse, or go outside as they did when they selected Chief Savord.

MICHIGAN HAS announced that it will take the initiative in numbering interchanges on Interstate Highway 94 next year. Eventually it is expected that some system of marking interchanges on the whole Interstate system will be worked out, but Michigan, like other states, wants to make haste slowly in order to test motorist reaction and because only limited sections of Interstate are completed elsewhere.

Interest in numbering interchanges comes principally from the tourist industry, which feels that strangers to an area can be more easily directed to accommodations and resort areas by numbering exits.

Two methods are under discussion: consecutive mileage or the consecutive interchanges, both of which hold disadvantages and it seems to be a matter of selecting the one with the least problems and with the most advantages.

Numbering according to mileage means that the number of the interchange will fall into the sequence of mileage markers along the side of the road.

If the motorist is going to exit at Interchange 50 and is at Interchange 25, he knows he has 25 miles to go before his exit point. The motorist who forgets the last interchange number has the mileage markers which will be erected along the freeway, to remind him of his location in relation to his exit.

The same mileage numbering system also can be used to number auxiliary points along the freeway if desired at some future time — rest areas, for example, and non-interchange structures. It is also possible to add interchanges later without altering the number pattern.

Johnson Given Edge for 1964

By MARQUIS CHILDS WASHINGTON—The traditional prophecies ushering in a new year are more than a little futile in 1964. By any political reading with even a shadow of objectivity President Johnson has established such a solid political base that he seems bound to take the big decision of the year.

This, it must be quickly added, is barring events now totally unforeseen. For we learned in the melancholy end of 1963 how little store may be placed in the best laid plans of mice and men.

Sen. Barry Goldwater's candidacy adds a footnote of confirmation to a political reading that was fairly evident before. That candidacy was relevant to the Kennedy administration. Regardless of how small the justification in fact, it would have been mobilized as an attack on the dangerous "liberalism" of the Schlesingers and the Galbraiths.

In the context of the Johnson administration the net effect will be a bruising fight sharpening the deep split in the Republican party. The Eastern (Rockefeller) wing will make the case that since President Johnson is weakest in the big-city states only a moderate can hope to win by appealing to the minorities holding the balance of power in those states. This is the line Governor Rockefeller is already taking. A shattering fight reaching a climax at the San Francisco convention will make it difficult, if not impossible, to unite behind any candidate.

Childs

BUT WHILE the President's solid base owes a lot to the deep divisions in the opposition camp, Mr. Johnson has within the short space of six weeks shown a sure political touch in aligning the often-hostile power groups in his own party. He has come down hard on the two issues that can re-elect a President—peace and prosperity. His own special touch is the folksy vocabulary of the conservative, the economist, when it comes to taxes and spending.

On what he calls the peace offensive the President is going all out. While it is unlikely, a meeting with Premier Khrushchev in the months just ahead is not ruled out. This is the conviction of those at the highest level charged with carrying out foreign policy.

IN SHORT, the President is taking the peace offensive with the utmost seriousness. However close he may have been before to the awesome seat of power he knows now at first-hand the weight that night and day rests on him and on him alone. But, to put this on the most expedient level, he also knows that every poll shows a large majority of the American people want to try to find an honorable way back from the nuclear precipice.

This is the popular cause even though a small and highly articulate minority would make it seem wrongheaded and reckless, if not downright immoral. The Johnson policy is grounded on a series of steps taken by the Kennedy administration.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Cigaret-Cancer Report Bears Out Early Warning

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it takes a long while to protect the health of the American public, especially when big and powerful industry, powerful advertising, and a powerful farm bloc are involved.

It was on May 8, 1954, that this column first reported the danger of lung cancer from cigarette smoking and the courageous battle of Dr. Allon Ochsner of Tulane University to warn the public. At that time Dr. Ochsner was almost alone. And this column for a time was almost alone in publicizing his findings.

Pearson

That was 1954. This is now 1964. It has taken ten years for the United States government to act courageously in announcing the dangers of cigarettes and that announcement was due to be publicized Saturday.

In between there has been an amazing story of procrastination and cover-up. There was the interesting television treatment of Surgeon General Leroy Burney's announcement warning that cigarettes do cause lung cancer as reported in this column Jan. 12, 1960. The TV networks considerably held up the announcement until the cigarette industry — which includes some of the biggest sponsors — could reply.

THERE WAS also the frantic attempt by Philip Morris to pressure Rep. John Blatnik, D-Minn., to change or withdraw his article in Harper's magazine which criticized Parliament's "recessed filter" and Marlboro's "white ash," as reported in this column July 30, 1958. The cigarette company's public relations man even went to Harper's editor, John Fischer, and tried to persuade him to withdraw the article.

It was a little over one year ago, Nov. 13, 1962, that this column reported on the first, rather reluctant start of the U.S. Public Health Service to study cigarettes. "Every possible precaution was taken to keep the press away from the first meeting of the surgeon general's advisory committee on smoking and health," the column reported.

"SO SENSITIVE" were they that even the secretaries of HEW asked to be kept ignorant of the room in which their bosses were meeting.

Surgeon General Luther Terry warned that there were too many economic, public, political, and other factors involved and implied that these factors would have devastating repercussions. The experts who met to consider cigarettes were immediately given a report on the importance of tobacco to American agriculture.

The strategy of the cigarette industry during all these years was that more research was necessary. And today, believe it or not, the American Medical Association has played squarely into the hands of the industry by announcing a new investigation of smoking.

This tactic is difficult to understand in view of the fact that earlier the AMA had given its approval to the panel of doctors appointed under the Kennedy administration to make a report on cigarettes. This is the panel which is reporting officially today.

BEFORE THEIR appointment, the AMA had started an investigation of its own, but dropped the study after the appointment of the panel, explaining that there was no need for duplication. The AMA described the doctors as "outstanding."

But even before the presidential panel finished its work and even after the emphatic report of the American Cancer Society warning of lung cancer, the AMA announced a new investigation of its own.

This has given rise to reports that the AMA has made a deal with senators from the tobacco states that it will conduct a further investigation in return for opposition to medical care for the elderly by the congressmen and senators from the tobacco states.

When Dayton Moore, public relations representative for the AMA, was queried by Jack Anderson regarding this he replied: "I know nothing about it."

Asked why the AMA should suddenly launch a new probe of cigarettes, he claimed that the present study was an evaluation of present research, while the new AMA study would be more basic research.

DESPITE ALL these studies, the American Cancer Society, the Royal British College of Surgeons, and many distinguished medical experts in the United States are convinced that there is overwhelming evidence of a direct relation between cigarettes and lung cancer.

As Dr. Ochsner of Tulane University told this writer in 1954: "There's a complete parallelism between the consumption of cigarettes in the United States and lung cancer. Both go up in about the same degree. Lung cancer has outstripped every other type of cancer in recent years."

"Lung cancer has gone up in the same proportion as cigarette consumption wherever studies have been made — in Holland, Denmark, England. In England an official government report found a definite relationship between the two."

This came ten years ago, from the man who has removed more than a thousand lungs because of cancer. In the interim there has been all sorts of backing and filling and cover-up and jeopardizing the health of Americans.

PROF'S MORALITY PLAY

NEW YORK (AP) — A morality play by a college professor is to be an American exhibit in the 11th International Theater Festival in Paris this summer.

"Roughshod Up the Mountain" is to be shown after the French visit on a tour of eight European cities and is to be brought here next season.

The author, Arthur C. Lamb, is professor of drama at Morgan State College, Baltimore. The play's story concerns a minister's struggle against material temptation.

FRENCH 'FIGARO' HERE

NEW YORK (AP) — Reversing usual procedure, Broadway is to be the tryout spot for a new production.

Jean-Louis Barrault is including a fresh version of "Marriage of Figaro" in the repertory that his company offers in February at the City Center. It doesn't go on exhibit in the troupe's Paris theater until two months later.

Are Voters Being Fooled?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Somebody is fooling somebody on the American political scene. Surely the Southerners haven't suddenly given up their stand on "civil rights" — nor have the radical liberals in the North overnight become conservatives.

But if the public-opinion polls are right, the South and the North have undergone quite a political change since Lyndon Johnson became President.

It doesn't seem logical that, just because Mr. Johnson comes from the South, the voters there now favor the "civil rights" bill sponsored by the Kennedy administration, while the "liberals" in the North coincidentally believe that President Johnson will defend and support the policies of his predecessor on labor relations and other issues which have caused businessmen to feel in the last three years that the Democratic party was veering toward socialism.

Both sides cannot be right about President Johnson's attitudes. Yet the public-opinion polls in recent days have shown a sharp drop-off for the Republicans and a big rise for the Democrats since President Johnson took office on Nov. 22, 1963. Last September, for instance, the Gallup poll showed Mr. Kennedy with a rating of 58 percent for the entire country against 37 percent for Nixon, and of 57 percent against Goldwater's 37 percent.

Today the national opinion showing in the latest Gallup poll reveals Johnson as getting 75 percent as against 20 percent for Goldwater, and 69 percent for Johnson vs. 27 percent for Nixon.

In the South the change is even more striking. There, in September Mr. Kennedy got 57 percent of the "decided" voters, in a "trial heat" against Nixon but only 44 percent when matched against Goldwater. Today, in the South, Johnson is recorded at 70 percent as against 24 percent for Goldwater, with 6 percent undecided. Against Nixon in the South, Johnson shows a rating of 68 percent, Nixon 23 percent, 9 percent undecided. Immediately it will be assumed that Mr. Johnson is more popular throughout the country than Mr. Kennedy was last autumn and that this is especially true today in the South.

BUT ON what is such a change based? Certainly Mr. Nixon hasn't said anything to cause the change, and neither has Sen. Goldwater. The answer must be in the opinion formed in all sections of the country by many people that President Johnson will not support all the Kennedy policies and will eventually go over to the other side on many points.

There is nothing as yet in the utterances of Mr. Johnson to justify any such assumption. The northern Democrats, especially some of the extremist organizations which boast of their "liberalism" and anti-conservatism, are taking it for granted that Mr. Johnson will base his appeal to the country on a wholehearted acceptance of the Kennedy policies. For, politically speaking, he could hardly repudiate the acts and programs put into operation by the Democratic administration from Jan. 20, 1961, to Nov. 22, 1963, and still retain the support of all the so-called "liberals" in the North and West.

On the Republican side, incidentally, there is also found evidence in the North of a feeling that Mr. Johnson will turn out to be as "liberal" as Mr. Kennedy. Thus, some of the Republican political observers in the northern states have openly indicated their belief that Mr. Goldwater, an outspoken conservative, is no longer strong, that conservatism is less popular than it was a couple months ago, and that the time has come to turn toward the "liberal" views expounded by Gov. Rockefeller and, to some extent, by some of the other aspirants for the Republican nomination.

BUT IN the South and in some business circles in the North the reasoning is just the other way — that Mr. Johnson is basically conservative and, in due time, will turn out to be a genuine conservative. This would perhaps be more evident after the election, when he presumably would no longer need "liberal" support.

Is conservatism more of an issue than a "civil rights" issue? Sen. Goldwater himself thinks so. On "Meet the Press" last Sunday, he told the TV audience that in the South the issue of conservative fiscal policy, for instance, is considered more important than "civil rights." The Arizona senator said: "I will make a prediction to you. I believe that, when the civil rights bill comes to the floor, it will contain the public accommodations section. I think we will go through the gestures of a filibuster and the President will go through the gestures of fighting for the bill, but at a critical point a compromise will be reached where the public accommodations section will be dropped, with the approval of the President."

But wouldn't this mean losing the enthusiastic support of the Negro voters and of the various "liberal" groups in the North? Maybe the public-opinion polls will tell a different story than as the Johnson popularity figure surges upward in some sections and drops in others. Certain groups are doubtless going to find themselves disappointed.

Letters to The Editor

Original Article Declared Correct

To the Editor: We are amazed at the news article in the Friday issue of the Daily News which claims to correct a news article of the day before in regard to the St. Charles School Board meeting of Jan. 7.

In fact, the article of the day before was correct, whereas the article which claimed to correct it contained false statements and false implications. The facts are:

I—The letter of the Loyal Citizens Committee never was on the agenda for the meeting and the undersigned board members were unaware of its existence until the end of the meeting.

II—ALL of the members of the school board were present for more than a half hour before the VOTE delegation left.

III—The chairman of the board announced there would be no other business to come before the board except the consideration of the administrators' salaries. It was then that the VOTE group left. It was after this that the chairman drew from his pocket the letter of the Loyal Citizens group in reference to the central school issue.

IV—The statement in the Jan. 10 article as follows: "The board decided that the Jan. 21 meeting with Dr. Domian will be a preliminary discussion and limited to the board here." is absolutely false. There was no such board decision. No such action was taken. Dr. Domian had, by letter, asked that the Lewiston School Board be invited to the Jan. 21 meeting, when he will explain the services of the bureau of field studies and surveys. All board meetings are open to the public. Therefore, we three school board members extend a cordial invitation to the Lewiston School Board and all other interested citizens of the area involved to come to the meeting of Jan. 21.

Mother, Widow Of Oswald Still at Odds

By BLAIR JUSTICE
Fort Worth
Star-Telegram Writer
(Written for the AP)

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The question of whether Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald believes her husband killed President John F. Kennedy revived raw feelings that split the Oswald family four days after the assassination.

After Oswald was fatally wounded by Jack Ruby Nov. 24, Secret Service agents took the accused assassin's widow, mother and brother to a motel in suburban Arlington.

There a heretofore-undisclosed drama was played out involving the family, Secret Service agents and a few of Oswald's friends.

The mother and daughter-in-law parted in separate directions. This week, their differences were bared again.

Marina, the pretty Russian-born widow, said she was convinced of her husband's guilt. Oswald's mother said Marina was confused.

Last November at the motel, the conflict concerned who would take care of Marina and her two daughters, June Lee, who will be 2 in February, and Rachael, then one month old.

Oswald's mother contended Marina and the babies should move to her three-room duplex in Fort Worth.

She said they could live off the $863 collected from her insurance policy on her son and on donations.

Oswald's brother, Robert, thought Marina and the babies should find a place of their own. The mother said one or two of the Secret Service agents guarding them joined the argument. She also said a man who taught Russian at the Fort Worth library sided with Robert.

"I didn't even know what had been decided for Marina and the babies. They planned it all without even asking me. I asked them what the big idea was," Oswald's mother said.

Mrs. Oswald said Marina was confused, barely knew English and was unduly influenced by those who urged her to live separately.

The mother announced she was leaving the motel, regardless of what the agents wanted. She didn't see her daughter-in-law or grandchildren again.

Decision Expected Within 60 Days In Alma Dispute

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — The decision on whether a discharged employe of the Alma Dairy Products Cooperative should be put back on the payroll will be made in about 60 days, Robert McCormick, Madison, said following a grievance hearing at the Buffalo County courthouse here Friday.

McCormick was arbitrator representing the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board which, according to the collective bargaining contract between the union and the dairy, is called in where differences are not resolved between the plant and employe.

Marlin Hagen, discharged Dec. 7, had been employed at the plant about 14 years. He and other employes are members of the General Drivers and Helpers Union, Local 662, Eau Claire, an affiliate of the National Brotherhood of Teamsters. James Novacek, Eau Claire, president of the local, was present, as were Charles Zepp, dairy manager; his attorney, Peter Pappas; La Crosse; Alfred Ebert, plant superintendent, and others.

Several witnesses were called during the hearing, which began Friday morning and closed at 5:30 p.m.

BLAIR CHIMNEY FIRE

RAIL SUITS TOP CASES

Memorial Service Opens Term of District Court

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Sunday News Staff Writer

Three personal injury suits against railroads for damages ranging up to $125,000 are scheduled for trial during the winter term of District Court which opens here Monday morning.

The railroad cases, in each of which employes say they were permanently disabled as a result of injuries suffered at work, are among 36 civil actions on the calendar for the winter term released by Clerk of Court Joseph C. Page.

THE TERM will open at 11 a.m. with an informal call of the court calendar by Judge Leo F. Murphy.

Preceding the call of the calendar the Winona County Bar Association will conduct a memorial service for the late Municipal Judge S. D. J. Bruski—also a former county probate judge and Winona city attorney—who died during the past year.

Judge Murphy will hear criminal matters at 2 p.m. Monday and the remainder of the first week of the term will be devoted to the trial of uncontested court cases, hearings on motions, pre-trial conferences and miscellaneous matters.

The order for trial of jury cases will be determined at the call of the calendar with the jury called for duty the afternoon of Jan. 20.

TWO OF THE THREE railroad cases have been carried over from the fall term of court.

In one, Harold Page, Adams, Wis., is suing the Chicago & North Western Railway for $125,000 for injuries allegedly suffered July 30, 1962, while working as a switchman at Madison, Wis.

The other is an action by Alfred C. Jerezek, 866 E. 2nd St., for recovery of $85,000 from the Green Bay & Western Railroad for injuries he says were sustained in an accident near Whitehall, Wis., Oct. 17, 1961.

New on the calendar this term is a case in which George Wherritt Sr., Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., seeks $100,000 from the Green Bay & Western as a consequence of a May 10, 1963, accident.

Wherritt says that he was working as a switchman at Wisconsin Rapids when he fell and suffered injuries which have left him permanently disabled. He alleges that negligence on the part of the railroad was responsible for his accident.

DAMAGES TOTALING more than $130,000 are claimed in three suits arising from a fire that swept a business and apartment building at the southeast corner of Howard and Center streets Nov. 28, 1959.

Zywicki Investment Co., owner of the building; Floyd Voss, who operated a self-service laundry in a portion of the ground floor, and George W. Ehlers, whose grocery store also was on the ground floor, are the plaintiffs in the three suits.

A Winona contractor, H. J. Kramer Plumbing & Heating Co., is named as the defendant in all three suits, in each of which Kraning's Sales & Service and U. S. Heating & Cooling Manufacturing Co., are third parties.

The three complaints state that in November 1959, prior to the fire, Kramer installed a heating boiler in the building. The boiler allegedly was supplied by Kraning, a Winona firm, and manufactured by U. S.

Heating, with headquarters in Ohio.

The plaintiffs hold that the boiler was defective and that these defects were responsible for the fire.

Zywicki is asking a total of $70,000—$55,000 for damage to his building and $15,000 for loss of rent.

Voss claims $60,000 damages, $30,000 each for damage to equipment and loss of business. Ehlers' suit is for $2,458.55.

AN APPEAL from an award made by commissioners in condemnation proceedings for the acquisition of right of way for Interstate Highway 90 in the Dresbach area is being brought by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Mosher.

Operators of the Once-the-Ship motel and cafe at Dresbach, the Moshers were awarded a total of $67,764 for property taken by the state Department of Highways in the spring of 1960.

Of this amount $32,000 was for a 1.25-acre tract on which the Moshers had an eight-unit motel, cabins, garage and other structures and $15,764 for 12.76 acres on which there was a house.

The Moshers charge that appraisers assessed no damages for access and depreciation of remaining property or for damage to the sewage system and say that original construction plans were changed to bring the outer limit of the area taken to within 44 feet of the motel.

They are asking $175,000 damages for the taking.

A SUIT FOR $37,000 damages is brought by Andrew Snyder, 970 W. 3rd St., against John Fitzgerald, 64 Lenox St., and his son, David, as a result of a three-car accident here Dec. 18, 1961.

Snyder says that he was driving on East 3rd Street, between Market and Franklin streets, when his car was struck by an automobile owned by John Fitzgerald and driven by his son.

The driver of the third car, Peter Wacoowiak, 67 Chaffield St., is a third party defendant.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ellis, former Winonans now living at Crystal, Minn., are suing Leo H. Anderson and Clifford W. Paswalk, both of Goodview, for a total of $42,500 damages in connection with an automobile accident on Highway 61 at the intersection of the Goodview Road July 29, 1959.

The former Charlotte Svenningson, Mrs. Ellis says that her car was struck by an automobile driven by Anderson and owned by Paswalk. Mrs. Ellis alleges that she suffered disabling injuries as a result of the accident and seeks $37,500 damages. Her husband's suit is for $5,000 for medical expenses involved in his wife's treatment.

A TWO-CAR collision Oct. 14, 1961 at Highway 61 and Orrin Street figures in a $15,000 suit brought by Mrs. Clarence Olson, Minneapolis, against Eugene Ziebell, 125 Lenox St.

Mrs. Olson charges that she was injured when the car in which she was riding, driven by her son, Ronald, Minneapolis, and an automobile driven by Ziebell collided.

Ronald Olson is named as a third party defendant.

A WINONA policeman injured when his squad car and another automobile collided here last Feb. 1 has filed a $20,000 suit against the other driver.

Paul Kapustik, 476 Winona St., says he suffered disabling injuries when the squad car and an automobile driven by Edward C. Jasmer, 573 Sunset

Dr., collided at West 5th and McBride streets.

Jasmer is the defendant.

TWO SUITS on the calendar are concerned with an accident in which a dump truck ran into a building near Fountain City, Wis., Nov. 14, 1962.

A Winona truck driver, Fred Lewis, was driving a dump truck owned by Donald Elliott, Minnesota City, on Highway 35 when, according to Lewis, he was forced to turn out to avoid a collision with a truck owned by John Morrell & Co., a corporation in the state of Maine, and driven by Charles Stanes.

The dump truck crashed into a concrete block building beside the highway and Lewis says that he was permanently injured.

Lewis is suing for $10,000 and Elliott is asking $6,000 for damage to the truck and loss of its use.

The Morrell firm is the defendant in both cases.

THE CITY of Winona is the defendant in a $15,000 damage suit brought by a Winonan who says he was injured in a fall on a sidewalk.

Lawrence C. Wiczorek, 906 E. King St., says that he was walking on a sidewalk near East 5th and St. Charles streets March 6, 1963, when he fell.

Wiczorek alleges that there was a defect in the sidewalk that caused his fall and that the city was negligent in its maintenance of the walk.

BOBBY K. FOSTER, injured while working at O & J Motors, St. Charles, Minn., is suing the firm for $15,000.

Foster, who says he suffered a fractured pelvis in the accident, alleges that the auto company had provided no insurance protection as required under the Workman's Compensation Act.

In its answer to the complaint, O & J asserts that it has paid Foster a sum in excess of his loss of wages and hospital bills.

IN A CONTRACTUAL dispute, Engineering Packaging Service Co., Minneapolis, is suing Schuler Chocolates, Inc., Winona, for $1,126 allegedly due for merchandise delivered to the Winona firm in October 1960.

NORTHERN Field Seed Co., 115 E. 2nd St., is appealing from a municipal court ruling denying its motion to vacate a judgment against it as a garnishee in a case brought by Winona Produce Co., 159 E. 2nd St., against a Winona trucker, Eldridge Smith.

Winona Produce had obtained a default judgment against Smith on its claim for $205.80 damages on grounds that a shipment of eggs Smith delivered for the firm to Fort Atkinson, Wis., in January 1959 had been damaged. Northern Field was brought into the case as a garnishee but contends it has no contractual arrangements with Smith.

OWNERS of adjacent properties on the Pleasant Valley Road are involved in a dispute over erection of a fence.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Johnson, in a suit against Mr. and Mrs. James Corey, contend that the Coreys have built a fence that is on the Johnson property and that the Johnsons have been denied use of a portion of their property within the confines of the fence.

The Johnsons say that they previously had the land surveyed and built a fence on what they assert is their property line. This fence, they charge, was removed by the Coreys when the latter built their fence.

The Johnsons are asking for a court order establishing the boundary line between the two properties.

They also want the Coreys to be required to remove the existing fence and seek recovery of $200 as damages for removal of the Johnson fence.

grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Among other NEW CASES scheduled for hearing this term are those brought by H. Choate & Co., against Alfred J. LaBarre; Edwin P. Yach against John D. Kamrowski Jr., and Clifford J. Grajczyk against Arlen Pierce.

THE FIRST 14 cases on the calendar have been carried over from a previous term. Among them are actions by: Charles Flanagan against Raymond Erickson, a $50,000 alienation of affections suit.

Edward Senski against the city of Winona, Pearl Griesel and Harold Wooden, $25,000 for injuries suffered in a fall.

Mrs. Senski against the same defendants, $10,000 for damages in her husband's accident.

James J. Howrigan, as administrator in the estate of Christine Nelson, against Elmo and Marguerite Stilwell, $63,448 for recovery of funds.

Roger H. Conaughy against State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., for recovery of $4,595 damages in an automobile accident.

Lawrence Rinn against Erich Gilow, for $1,000 automobile accident damages.

Mrs. Elouise Monahan against Dean F. Monahan, divorce suit.

Mrs. Anna Garinger against Frank Fohrman and Mark Pelowski, $25,000 in a traffic accident suit.

Winona Sand & Gravel Co., against the village of Goodview, an appeal in condemnation proceedings.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Kraning against Royal Yellow Cab Co., $25,000 damages in a suit arising from a two-car collision.

David Rother and his father, Herbert Rother, against Leonard Konter, a total of $100,000 damages for injuries allegedly suffered by the son while he was riding in a car owned by Leonard Konter and driven by Roland Konter.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Pruksa against Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Pruksa, $1,211 in a suit involving division of jointly owned property.

JURORS DRAWN for the January term are: Kenneth Anderson, Rushford; Mrs. William Bell, 267 Carimona St.; Mrs. Fred Burkholder, Dakota; Darrell Benson, Lewiston; Loy F. 'Juleboking' Not Lost in Blair Area

BLAIR, Wis. (Special)—"Juleboking," a Christmas custom brought over from Norway, is not going out of date, particularly in the rural areas. Literally it is translated Christmas fooling.

Young and old dress up in costume and masks and visit their neighbors during the holiday season.

No Objections Heard To Draining Low Land

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special)—No objections were voiced at a hearing at the municipal building here Friday afternoon on application of Decorah Prairie farmers to organize a drainage district.

Five farmers testified to benefits they would derive on some 71 acres of land under a 1905 state law permitting groups of farmers to work in solving their drainage problems. The law hasn't been used for years, but recently Judge A. L. Twesme appointed a county farm drainage board, as required in the law, to receive petitions to organize a district and to supervise building and maintenance of drainage facilities.

BOARD MEMBERS present at the hearing were Henrik Herness, Whitehall, chairman, and Bernard Wood, secretary. Claude Jackson, Independence, third member, wasn't present.

John C. Quinn, Galesville attorney, represented the petitioners. The meeting was recorded by Mrs. E. Lillian Horan, court reporter. Edward Ausderau, Whitehall, farm management agent, represented the Extension Service.

Ausderau said a request has been made for a state engineer's report on the proposed drainage ditch through Decorah Prairie, where some of the land in low areas stays too wet for cultivation. Additional acreage produces reduced yields in wet seasons and cannot be tilled at maximum efficiency because of scattered potholes.

THE FARMERS were sworn in by Herness.

Donald Docken said of the 160 acres owned by him and his brother, John R., 50 acres are swamp and lowland. Several acres would be improved, he said, if an open ditch were dug along the natural watercourse to a depth great enough to permit him to empty tile lines into it.

The cost of the ditch would be paid by each farmer according to the benefits provided him.

Benefits to a farm are not necessarily in proportion to the amount of actual construction on the farm.

The proposed drainage ditch would not affect the water table of neighbors and would be worth the project over a number of years, he said. He was speaking also for his brother, who was absent on jury duty.

Drainage from the area flows westward across the farm, he said. The Dockens have operated the place 21 years.

FRED LOWENER, whose farm is on both sides of Highway 54, said his land is affected by runoff every spring and he would benefit by drainage from the swampy areas.

Darwin Congdon said of his 360 acres, 12-14 acres need drainage. Sometimes 8-9 acres cannot be cultivated at all. He is a lifetime resident of the place.

Congdon said six acres are marsh. He would like to have all the area drained; then it would increase two or three times in value. Drainage wouldn't affect the water table or supply, he said, and the swamp could be injurious to health if not drained.

The added yield if drained could run 115 bushels of corn per acre or 60 bushels of oats, he said.

CONGDON valued his drainable land at $150 an acre. The board commented that the farmers were being modest in valuing their land at $150 an acre.

Harold Cook with his brother owns the farm he rents. Seven to 14 acres would be favorably affected by drainage, he said. Seven acres can be cropped in a dry year. He said the sub-standard land would be raised from $25 to $150 an acre.

THE UNIVERSITY of Wisconsin college of agriculture would be working with the farmers on their project, Ausderau said. The land lies in the Etrick silt loam area, which is the second richest soil in the state, Ausderau said, topped only by Muscatine and Toddville.

Lee Sacia, Town of Gale chairman, spoke favorably of the project as beneficial to health and the beauty of the landscape in addition to added production.

Husband Asks Trial On Assault Charge

Dorvan Lande, 38, 508 Chaffield St., pleaded not guilty in municipal court here Saturday to a charge of assault and battery.

Lande was arrested by police at 11:57 p.m. Friday on a complaint by his wife.

Judge John D. McGill set the case for trial Thursday morning and ordered that $50 bail be posted to insure the defendant's appearance in court. In default of payment of the bail Lande would be held in jail.

Troops Called Out in New Clash in India

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Troops were called out Saturday to maintain order in the wake of violent clashes between Moslem and Hindus.

Police, who fired into rioting mobs Friday, said several persons were reported killed. However, further details were not available.

The area adjoining Calcutta was put under a curfew and demonstrations were banned in this city.

The demonstrations began Thursday, following reports that Moslems were killing Hindus in the East Pakistan area of Khulna, 75 miles east of Calcutta.

The Indian press reported 29 persons were killed in the clashes.

Pakistan is predominantly Moslem. Indians are mostly Hindu.

The clashes in Khulna came after a hair, believed by Moslems to have come from the prophet Mohammad, was stolen from a shrine in the Indian part of the divided state of Kashmir Dec. 26. The hair was recovered Jan. 4 and restored to the shrine Friday.

Magpie Loose At Red Wing

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bird watchers may get a little bug-eyed if they spot a red-billed magpie one of these frosty Minnesota days.

They shouldn't. There is one fluttering about in eastern Minnesota, specifically the Red Wing area.

There's nothing unusual about sighting magpies in Minnesota, but a red-billed blue magpie is rare. The bird is native to Asia, particularly Burma and India, and favors jungle country ordinarily.

The one loose in Minnesota is a fugitive from the Como Zoo in St. Paul. He escaped about a year and a half ago.

Dr. Walter J. Breckenridge of the University of Minnesota's Museum of Natural History reported Friday that the bird apparently is "wintering" in the Red Wing region. He said amateur ornithologists there have reported sighting the rare bird there since last October.

"I assume the bird at Red Wing is the one which escaped from the Como Zoo, Dr. Breckenridge said. "We've been having long discussions with the Red Wing group."

"I understand the bird stayed around the zoo free for a number of weeks, and then disappeared. Then it showed up at Red Wing last October."

The Red Wing bird people are hopeful the magpie will be well fed from bird food they put out, and that it won't freeze.

If anybody can trap the bird, Como Zoo would be happy to have it back.

SHE MARRIED OWNER'S SON

When Hotel Maids Made $1.50 a Week

By LOUISE MILLET
Sunday News Correspondent
DURAND, Wis. — The August Schlumpfs wouldn't have "the good old days" back on a bet.

Mr. and Mrs. Schlumpf, who are among the older residents of Durand, think today's way of life is much easier than when they were young, although they have many pleasant memories, too.

MRS. SCHLUMPF grew up near Elmwood, Wis., and, as a young girl, came to Durand to find employment. She was hired by Mr. and Mrs. August F. Schlumpf to help in their hotel. It was here that she met her future husband, a son of the proprietors.

"I was certainly proud of my job, because it was one of the best paid in town," Mrs. Schlumpf said. "I started working for $1.50 a week, but soon asked for a 50-cent raise, because of the huge hotel washing I had to do. Other working girls envied my high salary."

Today most girls would expect nearly the weekly salary that Mrs. Schlumpf received, for just an hour of the same work, and would be most unhappy with the working conditions.

"I rose at 5 a.m. each day," she said. "I would start the washing while Mrs. Schlumpf cooked breakfast. Between washings I cleaned all the rooms, scrubbed floors and helped in the kitchen."

"The job I disliked most was trimming the kerosene lamps and keeping the chimneys clean."

"About 22 men ate at the hotel. Mrs. Schlumpf would give me 35 cents and send me to the meat market for a beef roast. We could feed all the men at noon and still have roast beef left over. Meat sold for two and three cents a pound then. Apples were $1.75 a barrel. That was the only fruit available in the market."

WASHINGS were done all by hand then. Large tubs had to be filled with hot water from the kitchen stove.

"I think the greatest invention, as far as women are concerned, was the washing machine," Mrs. Schlumpf says. "When I was old enough to understand what I had to do, my father made me a little bench to stand on so I could reach the washboard."

"It was important to learn to wash clothes and to knit, for these were things every woman had to know."

Two other conveniences in Mrs. Schlumpf's opinion were not to be overlooked: One was the installation of piped cold and hot water.

"It surely beats priming the old hand pumps with a teakettle of hot water on a cold morning," she said. "The icebox, too, was wonderful. No longer did we have to lift the heavy trap door to the cellar where we kept food as cool as possible. It meant fewer trips to the grocery store, too."

THE SCHLUMPF Hotel was built in approximately 1892. August and his two brothers, Charlie and Frank, worked for their father in the harness making business.

"This was considered a good skill. To make a good serviceable harness was an exacting job," August said. "The harnesses were all made entirely by hand. We had to do good work, because there were two other harness makers in town and the competition was keen."

"It would take the three of us about two days to complete a double team harness. Harnesses were among the few items that sold for high prices in those days. A double team harness sold for approximately $35. If it had brass trim, it sold from $55 to $65. I recall one special harness that the local brewery ordered. It was decorated with ivory rings and fancy glass rosettes. It was the nicest one we made."

In connection with the hotel there was a feed barn, where people boarded their horses. When farmers came to town to trade, they also put their horses in the barn.

"Father charged them 10 cents shelter for one horse for all day, and if they wanted the horse fed hay, it was 15 cents. Grain was 5 or 10 cents more. The basic charge for day and night board for a horse was 25 cents. If anyone had told us that some day horses and harness making would be obsolete, we just wouldn't have believed it."

AS A BOY, he remembers seeing the Indians come down the Chippewa River in canoes, filled with beaver hides for trading. In the evening, too, he remembers seeing the town marshal walk up and down the street, lighting the kerosene street lamps.

There were the boyhood thrills of riding the steamboats, like the Phil Scheffel, or helping open the toll bridge that spanned the Chippewa River to let the boats pass.

J. G. Leonard and his brother-in-law, H. R. Smith, owned the toll bridge. They charged 10 cents for a horse and rider to cross; 35 cents for a horse and buggy (there were very few buggies in the area), and 5 cents for a foot passenger. This was the only place between Eau Claire and the Mississippi River that a crossing could be made. For this reason, Durand grew rapidly and did a thriving business. Transportation was mostly by river and by train. Teams often made the 35-mile trip to Eau Claire, but it was an all-day trip, and in the spring flood conditions made it hazardous. In frigid or stormy winter weather people could freeze to death when traveling with horses.

THE BROTHERS continued their father's harness business until there was no longer any demand for them. Later both August and Frank worked for the post office here. August was employed from 1905 to 1935 on a rural route south of here.

For 12 years he used a horse and buggy to deliver the mail, stopping occasionally to kill a rattlesnake for the 50-cent bounty. Later he drove a Model T. "I had less trouble with the horse than I did the car," August said.

Mrs. Schlumpf tells how ice for the ice boxes had to be hauled from the surrounding lakes by team. Ice from the Chippewa River was full of sand and would dull the saws, so it wasn't used too much.

MR. AND MRS. AUGUST SCHLUMPF She Had to Know Two Things on Nine-Mile Island, just upriver from here. Today it is used by the Boy Scouts as a camping site. The Schlumpfs found duck hunting on the island and fishing around it exceptionally good. It is Frank who can best recall seeing the last of the dying flocks of pigeons on the island.

THE LOWER END of the island can be seen from the Durand Rod and Gun Club. Here, in pioneer days, was located a large sawmill owned by C. C. Washburn, a Civil War general and governor of Wisconsin. The town of Washburn was named after him. A boarding house, store and some homes were situated near the mill in the town of Waubeek.

About 1872, Nine-Mile Island was the scene of the last large pigeon roost in this section of the state. Thousands of these passenger pigeons, now extinct, would feed miles away during the day and return there at night to roost. They were so numerous their combined weight broke large limbs from trees. Another large passenger pigeon roost was near Beldenville and down along Beef Slough. They were easy prey for hunters, some of whom bagged thousands a day with nets. They were put into barrels and shipped to markets in Chicago and New York City. Shipments of 100,000 at a depot platform at one time were common.

LOOKING SKYWARD in the early morning or late evening, a living mass of pigeons could be seen. Often 100 pair would build their nests in a single tree. They flew at heights of 500 to 1,000 feet at the speed of a mile a minute. Newspapers at that time related how 500 men would gather with clubs and nets and slaughter millions of birds for sport and profit.

By the time August was old enough to go hunting on the island, there were very few pigeons to be seen.

The Schlumpfs have three children, Robert A. Durand, August F. Milwaukee, and Mrs. Frances Hickey.

Morris Branch Will Be Turning Students Away

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Morris Branch of the University of Minnesota will be turning away students next fall.

That was the prediction Friday of President O. Meredith Wilson of the university in a report to the board of regents.

Wilson said that Morris had received college aptitude test scores from 525 high school seniors this year as against 308 in 1963. He said that Morris admitted 309 freshmen last fall.

He said it was reasonably certain that Morris would not be able to accommodate all those who seek to enroll, adding that it probably would be necessary to raise the admission requirements.

Morris Dean Rodney A. Briggs said it was planned to accept only the top 60 per cent of high school graduates, based on a combination of their class standings and scores in the scholastic aptitude examinations. He added that even that percentage might have to be raised if the anticipated flood of applicants materializes.

Regents gave approval to a university budget of $45,565,230 for the 1964-65 year, or $4,800,270 more than is being expended in the current 12 months.

Wilson said $1,666,000 of the increase would be earmarked for academic salary boost and fringe benefits with another $852,871 allocated for selective merit increases.

3 Adult Classes Slated at Arcadia

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Three adult classes are being scheduled at the high school here.

An adult knitting class will begin Monday at 8 p.m. in the home economics room. "It will be the last opportunity to attend a class in knitting for some time," said Mrs. Lloyd Twesme, instructor for three years.

A beginners' adult typing class will meet Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. if 10 register. Those interested should leave their names with Mrs. David Krett, school secretary. Students are to bring typing paper the first night, said R. A. Kamla, instructor.

A women's physical education class will be held Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. if 12 register. Registrants are asked to dress appropriately and to wear tennis shoes, said Mrs. James Killian, instructor.

Veterinarian Set For Blair in June

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — Blair will have a veterinarian, according to Dr. L. L. Patterson, Whitehall.

Duane Purtilo, a native of the Duluth area, a senior in the University of Minnesota school of veterinary medicine, will locate here as an associate of Dr. Patterson after his graduation in June.

Purtilo, 27, who is married and the father of one daughter, already has purchased the Lloyd Twesme lot at Second Street and Highway 95 (Spring Street). He will construct a residence and veterinary office there.

Peace Over Holy Land for Brief Moment

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — A messenger of peace came to the tortured Holy Land, and for a brief moment bitterness and hatred were almost forgotten.

Now Pope Paul VI's visit is a memory, and the bitterness and hatred seem as deep as ever. Yet there is the barest gleam of light. It is discussed guardedly, almost as if it might be too much to hope for. It is the idea that the Pope's applications for peace may help stay the hand of violence.

For a moment in history the barriers of hatred were down, while the Pope moved from Arab Jordan to Jewish Israel and back again to Jordan in his pilgrimage to the holiest shrines of Christendom last weekend.

Since the truce line was drawn by the United Nations in 1949 the border crossing north of Jenin in Jordan into Israel has been used rarely, and then only by U.N. personnel perhaps to arrange the return of stray cattle or even wandering people who stumbled into no-man's-land.

Today the scene in the open country beyond Jenin is as it has been for 16 years: The barriers are as formidable as ever. Sentries watch the barbed wire barricades on either side of the armistice line, and nobody crosses over.

Where, then, is the gleam of hope? For non-Arabs and non-Jews in the Holy Land, it lies in the potential impact of the Pope's appeals for an end to wrath, in the possibility that he has implanted a will to work against violence. The hope is slim, but it is there.

The Pope received a pledge from Jordan's King Hussein I to work for peace, but the divided Holy Land since 1948 has been on the edge of violence and still is.

In Cairo Monday Hussein and other Arab leaders will hold a summit meeting to discuss what they will do if Israel goes ahead in the spring with its announced intention to divert Jordan River waters. This diversion could be enough to start the shooting all over again if the Arabs felt themselves in a condition to sustain hostilities. But the Arab nations are divided about many things, and Israel is militarily strong and capable.

Pope Paul did not speak directly of the conflict between Arabs and Jews. He said of the Holy Land's people: "May God reward them, may He wipe away their tears and grant them peace, prosperity and true happiness."

The Arabs choose to interpret this as compassion for them because of what has happened to them as a result of the dispute with the Israelis. Thus Arabs tell themselves that the Pope, in effect, condemned Israel.

Hussein, an Arab monarch, must look upon things as an Arab does, and to the Arab in Jordan — as elsewhere — there can be no peace in Palestine as matters stand now, or until the demands of the Arabs are met.

Perhaps the Pope's pilgrimage will have an effect in the long run of helping to ease the hatred, but it must be in the future.

TAMARCK LUTHERANS

WINONA ATTENDANCE SECOND HIGHEST

SE Minnesota Fairs Compared

By FRANK BRUESKE
Sunday News Farm Editor
Winona County had the second largest attendance among five area county fairs, it was revealed at the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs meetings in St. Paul.

Attendance at Winona County Fair was 32,000, up 22,000 from 1962. Only Olmsted County's Fair pulled more customers, 110,000, up 5,000 from 1962.

Winona County went to a free gate in 1963 to join Wabasha and Olmsted County. Fillmore and Houston County still have a pay gate.

WINONA'S had the smallest number of exhibitors, (not including 4-H) 56, while Olmsted had the most, 1,978.

Winona's total receipts from operation of the fair jumped from $7,079 in 1962 to $13,616 in 1963. Fillmore's fair receipts went up almost $2,000 and Houston's increased about $2,500. Wabasha County's rose only $50 while Olmsted's dropped $2,000.

Winona's increase included $3,000 more than last year from the grandstand, $1,500 more from parking and $2,400 more from concessions.

In the county aid bracket Winona's was tops with $10,000. Olmsted received $6,000 and Fillmore's received $7,684.

Winona's total receipts from other sources were $16,069. Total receipts overall were $29,685.

OLMSTED'S total receipts from the fair and other sources were $43,779. Wabasha's total receipts were $11,985. Fillmore's totaled $19,922 and Houston's totaled $24,594.

Hospital Awarded Full Bill for Care

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — After about 90 minutes of deliberation Friday night, a Trempealeau County Circuit Court jury awarded St. Francis Hospital, La Crosse, the full amount asked for in its collection suit against Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ritter, Trempealeau.

Dr. John Sevenants, La Crosse dermatologist, was found not negligent in a malpractice suit brought against him by the Ritters.

A countersuit against the hospital by the Ritters was dismissed on motion of Robert Johns, attorney for the hospital, before the case went to the jury.

THE JURY began deliberations at 7:25 p.m., was escorted to supper, and returned its special verdict at 9:15 p.m.

The special verdict contained two parts. The first asked the jurors to five the award to the hospital. It was $2,600.18, the amount incurred for care of Mrs. Ritter during hospitalization for leg ulcer treatment in 1961 and 1962. Dr. Sevenants attended her.

Judge Merrill Farr, discussing the dismissal of the Ritters' countersuit against the hospital, said that until Jan. 10, 1961, hospitals in the state were immune from liability for negligence of employees. This immunity was removed by law after that date. He pointed out that Mrs. Ritter's complaints on care were made in December 1960 prior to the date liability went into effect.

hospitalization. That was about 10 days before it was submitted to the company. He said he was not aware that Ritter had said Mrs. Ritter's ulcer resulted from burns from scalding water. The ulcer actually was caused by a cut received when a car door slammed into her. Non-infected ulcers developed on the posterior of her leg during hospitalization.

Dr. Sevenants said that on July 26, 1961, when Mrs. Ritter was released from his care as cured, Ritter asked him if he would testify in a malpractice suit against a Winona doctor, to which he replied no.

Dr. Sevenants testified that in his report to the insurance company he had said he had treated Mrs. Ritter for ulcers following an automobile accident, that the patient was recovering satisfactorily and that she was gradually resuming normal occupations.

Ritter had testified Thursday that his wife knew nothing of the information on the insurance claim, nothing of his approaching Dr. Sevenants about testimony in a malpractice suit, and nothing of his consulting a Wabasha law firm about a malpractice suit against a Winona doctor. He said he told her to sign, and she did.

Earlier in the case, which lasted five days, Mrs. Ritter had denied knowing about the malpractice suit consultations and about the insurance claim.

IN HIS PLEA to the jury late Friday, Thomas Skemp, La Crosse, attorney for the Ritters, said he "disassociated himself" from Ritter because of his apparent falsehoods but felt sorry for Mrs. Ritter because of her pain and suffering.

La Vern G. Kostner, Arcadia, representing Dr. Sevenants with Richard Hollern, Madison, in his jury plea said he thought "Skemp got the surprise of his life when he found out, in court, what had been done by his client."

Other witnesses Friday were three registered nurses employed at St. Francis—Mrs. Theresa Tikel, Miss Louise Hammes and Mrs. Gladys Pfennig—and Dr. Kaare Gert, West Salem. The nurses testified to Mrs. Ritter's care at the hospital. Dr. Gert, dermatologist at the Gundersen Clinic, La Crosse, corroborated a deposition read by Hollern in which Dr. Robert F. McManis, working in internal medicine at St. Francis, said pain Mrs. Ritter has complained of since her hospitalization is diabetic neuropathy.

Dr. Gert, graduate of the University of Norway, Oslo, who examined Mrs. Ritter Nov. 26, 1963, at Grandview Clinic, La Crosse, said the ulcers were healed.

The jury was dismissed until February.

Deadline Jan. 20 For Durand Filing

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — School district clerk Wilbur W. Weishaple has announced that all nomination papers for board vacancies for Durand Unified Schools must be filed with him by Jan. 20 at 5 p.m. for the April election.

Terms of Clerk Weishaple and directors Dr. R. J. Bryant and Victor Lindstrom will expire. They were elected when the district was formed in 1961.

Pepin Co. Mutual Renames Officer

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Pepin County Mutual Fire Insurance Co. re-elected Carl B. Harmon, Arkansaw, secretary-treasurer, and elected Russell Kirk, Durand, to succeed Ed Hartung as members of the board of directors at the annual meeting Tuesday at the courthouse here.

Holdovers are Leslie Anderson, president; Roman Bauer, vice president, and Ed Bauer and Ed Achenbach, directors.

In addition to fire and lightning protection, the firm now offers protection from the loss of livestock by electrocution.

United States agriculture's total assets are worth $214 billion.

It's Not the Size of the Budget

Some aspects of President Lyndon B. Johnson's first budget message to Congress are discussed by Dr. Svetozar Pejovich, assistant professor of economics, St. Mary's College. Dr. Pejovich holds a Ph. D. degree in economics from Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. A native of Yugoslavia, he has lived in the United States since 1958.

from the teachings of the British economist, Keynes.

I think the problem is this: Whether the government will increase the supply of money to finance the extra output, the demand for which would be provided by tax cuts.

I'd like to add that quite often people are worried about an increase in supply of money. Of course, it is not always advisable to increase the supply of money. However, since our price system is not flexible downward, the only way to finance an increased output is by a prudent increase of money supply.

Q.—Can the President's "attack on poverty" be successfully carried out if, at the same time, taxes are cut and the budget is cut back below that of last year?

A.—Of course we all would like to see a successful war against poverty. However, I have to say I disagree with the way in which the President approached the problem. He proposes to increase welfare expenditures next year.

It means nothing else, in fact, but redistribution of income from those who have more to those who have less. In other words, the very same gross national output we have now should be distributed a slightly different way so those who are poor get a larger share and those who are rich receive somewhat smaller shares.

I think a better way to fight poverty, and to increase the welfare of all people, is not to redistribute income but help to improve business confidence and the rate of growth. Everyone would have equal opportunity to participate in this advance.

Q.—You feel, then, that distribution of income is better achieved by the private sector than by the government?

A.—If people like to live in a free private economy, then they must realize that redistribution of income undertaken by the government is, and must be, contrary to the distribution of income by the free market.

Q.—Having lived under a totalitarian economy, what does this experience prompt you to feel are the advantages of our economy and what pitfalls might be avoided?

A.—Production is meaningful as long as it aims to satisfy human wants. It is very easy for private business to determine whether it is satisfying these wants. It is immediately shown in the profit sheet. However, the government has no objective criteria to determine — even assuming a government wants to satisfy human wants — whether a dollar spent is spent to satisfy urgent individual wants.

Therefore, one has to be careful about President Johnson's statement that he wants a dollar's worth for every dollar spent. This is a nice statement but difficult to attain. How can government decide what criteria can be used to determine that a dollar spent by government is spent as usefully as possible. The government still doesn't have objective criteria to tell us this.

Q.—If our economy continues to grow, as it has recently, do you think unemployment rates will grow, decrease, or remain about the same percentage?

A.—If wage rates do not change, it can be expected that unemployment will drop from the present high of six percent of the labor force. But this is true only insofar as wage rates do not change. However, if wages increase faster than the price of capital, it will be cheaper for businesses to employ capital and machines rather than workers.

In this case, an increase in the gross national product will not bring about a decrease in unemployment.

Q.—Will unemployment ranks continue to be composed mostly of unskilled or semi-skilled labor?

A.—Yes, because, first of all, when we speak of unemployment the most usual statement is that we have six percent of our labor force unemployed. This is not completely true. We show unemployment among unskilled workers but there is a scarcity of skilled workers.

Therefore, any talk of unemployment should be restrained only to the problem of unemployment among unskilled workers. The solution to this problem, of course, would be either to maintain wages at their present level or to retrain workers and let them learn some skill.

Q.—Do you think the section of the President's budget relative to educational aid will be effective in helping to eliminate some of this problem?

A.—I think this is one of the best parts of the budget. Investment in education is not good only for those who gain skill; it is good for the country as a whole because this is an investment in human capital.

Q.—What will the President's new budget mean in terms of the average white collar and blue collar worker's outlook?

A.—We should be confident about the future of our economy. As far as take home pay is concerned, maybe it will stay at about the same level as today but I think the total opportunities should increase and we should be confident about the long range outlook for our economy.

Q.—Is a reduction in government spending desirable simply as an end in itself?

A.—No, I don't think so. I think that in the whole discussion about the size of the government budget, the public has often been misinformed about the importance of its size.

I think what is important is not so much the rate of spending as the way in which the government spends money.

Q.—In what directions could government expenditures best be directed?

A.—I think that if the government spends money essentially so as to create better business environment and encourage confidence in private business, the dollars are well spent.

If the dollars are spent to compete with private business they take profit incentives away from business. This type of spending should be eliminated.

Q.—How could government help create good business climate in the course of establishing spending policies?

A.—By spending less money for goods and services which are not directly associated with individual wants and by competing with private business for labor and capital. Business is not helped if government uses money to send abroad in various forms of foreign aid.

Library Offers New Talk 20 New Films Of Revolt In Brazil.

Twenty motion pictures, including films for children and for a wide variety of adult interests, will be available for loan starting Monday at the Winona Public Library.

The 16-millimeter films—some of them in color—may be borrowed by library patrons for 24-hour periods. The library staff suggests that advance reservations be made if a particular film is wanted at a special time.

BORROWERS must supply a clean starting film and an experienced operator and are responsible for the condition of the film while it is under loan. A $1 handling fee is charged on each loan of one or two films.

Some of the films deal with other parts of the world and the problems facing them. "Continents of Africa" describes the difficulties confronting the lands south of the Sahara Desert as they move toward a stable, modern society.

"Turkey: A Nation in Transition" begins with a cartoon presentation of the country's history, then deals with the modern country and its problems.

"Hunting in Newfoundland" and "Vacation Land of Algoma" are color films produced by the National Film Board of Canada.

"Honolulu," a 17-minute color film, is a travelogue that deals with citizenship and race relations in this melting pot of the Pacific as well.

Of interest to music lovers are "Grand Canyon," which is a visual accompaniment to an orchestral performance of Ferde Grofe's "Grand Canyon Suite," and "The Nativity," which uses 15th century music as a background for showing paintings of the Nativity by Flemish artists.

"Neighbors" is an award-winning film which — without dialogue of narration — shows the development of conflict between neighbors. "Have I Told You Lately That I Love You?" is a thoughtful approach to social problems and family life, also done without dialogue or narration.

Other films deal with anthropological subjects, historical themes, or nature.

Children's movies include "Goldilocks and the Three Bears," starring a family of real bears, and "White Men," the story of a boy's trip "ship with a wild stallion. The latter film won seven international awards.

They will be presented with charter and bobcat pins, said their den mother, Mrs. Joseph Brown.

On Jan. 14 three members of the executive committee will escort the cubs to the school recreation center for ice skating. The committee is composed of C. J. Pappenfuss, Harry Foust, James J. Knutz and Ralph Grant, Cubmaster and institutional representative.

Mrs. Brown wants an assistant. There are openings for three boys 8 to 11. Meetings are held Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. in the Brown home.

Boys 11 to 19 are to contact Grant if they're interested in Boy Scouts.

The blue and gold banquet will be held in February.

By EDGAR MILLER

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Amid talk of revolution and coup d'etat, Latin America's largest country is tottering once again on the brink of deep political and economic crisis.

Widespread strikes, rampant inflation, unrest in the armed forces and mounting leftist pressure on President Joao Goulart's government underline the troubles.

Although many observers feel Goulart will be able to ride out the latest wave of crisis, rumors of an attempt to topple his government are generally a harbinger of increased political turmoil.

More political trouble looms with the expected signing this month of a controversial decree authorizing the government to expropriate up to 5.25 miles of land on either side of federal highways and railroads. The measure is designed to get the government's long-planned agrarian reform program launched.

Goulart is reported considering a major revamping of his Cabinet to give it a more leftist slant.

Despite official denials, rumors persist in financial circles that the government is considering a new devaluation of the official exchange rate of the cruzeiro.

The present official rate is 600 cruzeiros to the dollar; the free market rate is twice that.

The government also is being pressured to double the national minimum salary to keep pace with last year's increase in living costs which preliminary government figures show rose about 95 per cent.

Of the continuing strikes, the biggest is that of maritime workers who want a Christmas bonus equivalent to a month's salary. Other striking segments of the chaotic economy are demanding salary increases of no less than 100 per cent.

Deputy Leonel Brizola, pro-Castro brother-in-law of Goulart predicted last weekend that the "acceleration of the economic crisis will lead to a fall of many aspects of the present institutional life of the country."

A leftist campaign is under way here, Brizola, a former governor of Rio Grande do Sul, named finance minister.

Relations between Brazil and the United States have been cool in recent months, and most observers fear that appointment of the hotly anti-American Brizola to the key finance post would hurt severely chances of improvement.

to increase the supply of money.

Q.—Do you feel that the overall effect of this budget will be inflationary?

A.—No, I don't think so. As a matter of fact, the high rate of growth we have experienced this year and last year did not bring about inflation. While if you recall in 1957-58 when we had a very slow rate of economic growth and recession, prices increased by much more than they did in the past two years.

Q.—Do you believe in the validity of the so-called "multiplier effect," under which the economy theoretically will be stimulated by a tax cut, to the point where growth will wipe out the deficit in government tax receipts?

A.—What the government proposes to do is decrease our taxes by 11 billion dollars, and by maintaining government spending at approximately the same level, they hope to create from two to three million additional jobs.

Since six-percent of our labor force is now out of work, if this comes through, unemployment would be reduced to approximately 4 percent of the labor force.

There's a theory that a tax cut will, by way of the "multiplier effect," bring about an increase in the area of demand and consequently an increase in the national output.

The "multiplier effect" is based on common sense expectations. However, it can't be proved empirically.

The most sensible approach to explain the effect of tax cuts, will be to say that, if government keeps—as is suggested now—the old level of spending, a tax cut will provide 11 billion more dollars spending money for businesses and private individuals.

If government wants to continue to spend the same amount as before, the only way to do it is by increasing the supply of money. And this increase in the supply of money, not the "multiplier effect," will help to finance this extra output.

Q.—Do you feel that the stability of the dollar will be affected in any way by the new budget?

A.—I don't think so. Price levels have not changed much between November 1962 and November 1963. As a matter of fact, consumer prices have increased but the increase is primarily in service industries. It's obvious that the richer we are as a nation, the more we tend to spend of our income, percentage-wise, for services.

Durable consumer goods cost less today than they cost in 1959. However, I think that the crucial point affecting the stability of the dollar—and I have to go back to this again—is the behavior of trade unions because the cost factor that all businesses have to face is extremely high.

Any further increase would be detrimental to profit expectations and it should never be forgotten that as long as we pride ourselves in having a free market economy it must be understood that this economy can exist only as long as profit incentives are strong.

Q.—Do you consider the proposed $11 billion tax cut a temporary device which may be revoked in the near future?

A.—Tax cuts will help but I'm afraid they will not have permanent value. I think another approach the government should make is to do something to increase business confidence.

A better way to do it is not by cutting income taxes so much as by radically decreasing corporate profit taxes.

Q.—The gross national product, in which government spending is a factor, is to rise between $20 and $50 billion next year, forecasts say. Might a reduced federal budget restrict the GNP so that the hoped-for "multiplier effect" will not be realized?

A.—I think the new budget, especially if followed by tax cuts, will help the rate of economic growth. However, I still am not certain that this increase can be ascribed to the so-called multiplier effect. This stems

Gas Considered At Galesville

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — Burr Tarrant, Whitehall, and Harold Le Grand, Thorpe, district manager for the American Gas Co., answered questions on natural gas heating when the Galesville Common Council met Thursday.

Members were interested in comparative prices of fuels. Le Grand explained them.

The representatives are anxious for the council to act on a franchise which will allow a feasibility survey to be made. One is being made in Whitehall this month. Blair and Pigeon Falls already have had a survey. Action is pending. John Quinn, city attorney, is studying the proposed franchise.

In other business, it was suggested that "No Smoking" signs be placed in the city hall. Those collecting unemployment checks grind out their cigarettes on the floor instead of using the ash trays, councilmen said. Driver's license written testing is done in the hall also.

Requests have been made to have the street light under the bridge replaced since the street is too dark for persons walking at night to homes on the lower table. Clarence Brown and Howard Barentin will consult with Northern States Power Co. Clarence Brown was absent; he was attending a county fair meeting in Milwaukee to select acts for the 100th Trempealeau County Fair. Assessor Clarence Brown will receive $5 for his work. Mrs. Alma Quinn, treasurer, will receive a $10 monthly increase. The salary of Clerk Evelyn Larson will remain the same.

All bills were approved. A question was raised on a possible refund on fuel oil. The contract by the supplier called for a price 4 1/2 cents below public posted prices and oil has dropped 3/10 of a cent without a price drop on the bill.

37 Ore Carriers Docked at Duluth

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Thirty-seven ore carriers of the Great Lakes fleet are in winter quarters in the Duluth-Superior Harbor with major remodeling work under way on many of them.

The Fraser-Nelson Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., in Superior has 600 workers employed on such projects as converting vessels to self-unloaders, rebuilding holds and installing bow thrusters to aid the large ships in docking.

Of the 17 vessels wintering in Duluth, 14 are owned by the Pittsburgh Steamship Co., a U.S. Steel subsidiary.

Work on the ships is scheduled so they will be ready for mid-April sailings.

Fieldmen Told Mastitis Cause

BLAIR, Wis. (Special)—Dairy fieldmen from Trempealeau, Jackson, Buffalo and La Crosse counties heard Ed Neuendorf, assistant sales manager of the Dairy Equipment Co., Madison, discuss mastitis at the Western Wisconsin Dairy Improvement Association meeting here.

Neuendorf, a native of Trempealeau County, said mastitis, often referred to as udder irritation, is a serious problem. He said the most important milk-factors are the vacuum and pipeline size and inflation and pulsation.

He said 85 percent of udder irritation is caused by milking machines. Fifty percent of the vacuum pumps are too small, he reported.

Donald Stanford, public relations director at the Preston Creamery cheese plant, welcomed the group at the business meeting that saw James Bryntson, rural Ettrick, elected president. Miles Wheeler, Whitehall, was re-elected vice president and Ed Anderson, Holmen, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The first four members of the association — Alfred Ellikson, Whitehall; Anderson, Walter Everson, Taylor, and Lyle Stair, Osseo — were present. John Taylor, state inspector, and Peter Bieri, Trempealeau County agent, also attended.

The fieldmen's next meeting will be at Arcadia in March.

Cold First Half Sends Gophers Reeling 85-73

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State built up a 19-point halftime lead over cold-shooting Minnesota Saturday and then coasted to an 85-73 Big Ten basketball victory.

The Buckeyes, boosting their conference mark to 2-0, were led by Gary Bradds who tallied 27 points. Teammate Dick Ricketts chipped in with 21 and Don DeVoe contributed 14.

Lou Hudson got 19 points and Archie Clark 14 for Minnesota. The Gophers, falling to 1-1 in the league and 8-4 overall, were frigid from the field. Minnesota dropped in only two baskets in the first 11 minutes of play, connecting on only four shots in the first 22 tries.

The Buckeyes broke out of a 2-2 tie and assumed a 9-4 lead. Then Ohio put together a string of 13 straight points, with Bradds getting seven of them, to take a commanding 22-6 advantage.

The Gophers cut the margin to 12 before the Bucks went on another seven-point tear that gave them a bulging 31-12 margin.

The winners, now with a 7-5 record against all opposition, carried a 44-25 lead to the dressing room and fought back repeated Gopher rallies in the lute going to triumph. The Gophers cut the deficit to 11 at 71-60 with 6 minutes to play. But Ohio, which went without a field goal in the final 8:30, scored its last 17 points on free throws which resulted when Minnesota's desperate pressing defense committed foul after foul.

Minnesota, which shot a poor 25 per cent in the first half fared a little better in the overall statistics with 27 field goals in 79 attempts for 34 per cent. The Buckeyes dropped in 29 baskets in 52 tries for a solid 56 per cent.

Bradds picked off 17 of his team's 48 rebounds while Bill Davis, who scored 11 for the Gophers, got 11 of his team's 42 rebounds.

Michigan Rolls Past Purdue

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Michigan's Wolverines played keep-away in the closing minutes and beat Purdue 77-70 Saturday in a Big Ten basketball game.

The Wolverines, rated No. 4 nationally, had unexpected difficulty convincing Purdue's eight-time losers and won at the free-throw line. Purdue had a 30-27 edge in field goals but Michigan dropped in 23 of 28 free throws against the Boilermakers' 10 of 15.

Michigan's Bill Buntin took game honors with 23 points and Cazzie Russell added 17. Michigan is now 2-0 in the Big Ten and 11-1 over-all.

Future Senator?

RESIGNED TO HIS FATE... Bud Wilkinson, University of Oklahoma coach, walks out of a regents meeting after resigning from his post Saturday. He will remain as athletic director, but said he will resign that job also if he decides to enter politics. (AP Photofax).

MAY ENTER SENATE RACE

Wilkinson Quits Job As Coach

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Bud Wilkinson quit as one of history's most successful football coaches Saturday and said he frankly was interested in running for the U.S. Senate.

He told the University of Oklahoma's Board of Regents he would like to continue as athletic director. But he later told newsmen that if or when he definitely decided to become a candidate, he'd quit that job, too.

The regents accepted his resignation reluctantly and there were some who indicated they'd like to try and change his mind.

A registered Democrat and an appointee of the late President Kennedy as head of the nation's physical fitness program, Wilkinson strongly indicated he would run as a Republican—if he ran.

But, in the manner of a football coach, the tall, good-looking 47-year-old Wilkinson evaded a lot of definite answers. In 17 fabulous years as head coach, Wilkinson had teams that posted 145 victories, 29 defeats and four ties. Included in this were 47 straight victories, five perfect seasons, three national championships, 12 straight Big Eight championships and 12 straight years of never losing a conference game.

The Sooners last year won eight and lost two. Wilkinson came to Oklahoma as an assistant in 1946; became head coach a year later when Jim Tatum went to Maryland and promptly made Oklahoma a scourge of the football world and the split-T formation almost the rule in college play.

As football coach and athletic director, Wilkinson drew $22,500 per year on a contract that was virtually lifetime. Speculation centered on Gomez Jones, his veteran line coach, or Eddie Crowder, University of Colorado coach, as a successor. But the ranks of college coaches are filled with Wilkinson-taught coaches, including Darrell Royal, boss of the nation's No. 1 ranked Texas Longhorns.

The regents met in special session so Wilkinson could "explain my situation." He said all of the rumors about him going to run for the Senate were eventually going to hurt Oklahoma's football recruiting.

"I am thinking of the team," he said in resigning as coach. He said, though, he'd like to continue as athletic director until he made up his mind whether to run for political office.

"It would neither be proper nor accurate to say I am not considering the Senate race," Wilkinson said. "Frankly, I am."

It was no secret J. Howard Edmondson—the man he probably will oppose—tried to get him to run for governor as a Democrat.

The Senate seat expected to be sought by Wilkinson is for only two years, the remainder of the unexpired portion of the late Sen. Robert Kerr's term.

Northern's balanced scoring attack was led by Dave Cade with 17 points. Wayne Lundy with 16, and Bob Armstrong with 15. Dave Odegaard scored 16 points for the losers.

Northern is 8-3 for the season. Bemidji has won five of its 12 games.

MORRIS BOWS ASHLAND (AP)—Northland, defeated 10 straight times, posted its first victory of the season by outbattling the University of Minnesota-Morris 83-77 Saturday in a Pioneer College Conference basketball meeting.

Veteran Line Scores, Redmen Post 7th Win

By GARY EVANS, Sunday News Sports Editor

Hamppered by snow slowed ice and unorthodox moves from St. Thomas goalie, Penn. it took St. Mary's two periods to get warmed up at Terrace Heights Saturday afternoon.

But the third period brought a marked change in skating and as a result, the Redmen rinksters posted their seventh victory and fifth straight in the MIAC by the score of 6-3.

Not that the scoring picked up considerably in the final stanza — the Redmen got two goals in each period — but the puck spent most of its time booming around and now and then through Penn.

The Tommie goalie, who resembled an octopus with steel tentacles in the first two periods, couldn't cope with the scoring of the veteran line led by center Andre Beaulieu.

Penn spent the first 40 minutes tripping from cage side to cage side, now and then spread eagling in front of it and once saved a goal by pushing it out of position after a Redmen shot seemed destined for score.

It was close — too close for Coach Keith Hanzel through the first two periods — as St. Mary's found itself tied 2-2 at the end of the first and holding a narrow 4-3 lead with one frame to go.

"We really skated in the third period," said Hanzel. "We really played hockey."

St. Thomas got its scoring machine under way first, Torridas hit on assists from Voyelosang and Pates with 9:22 remaining.

The biggest assist, perhaps, came from his skate as it helped the puck into the nets. Beaulieu tied it with 7:01 left, drifting in from the left side and slapping the disk past Penn.

Dick McCormick, who turned a hat trick in a 5-0 victory over Hamline Friday, sent the Redmen in front with 4:20 left, using assists from Beaulieu and Don Berrigan and shouldering his way through a mob to score.

Torridas hit unassisted with 1:01 remaining to tie it. In the second period, Brian Desbiens, a man of many moves, whirled behind the cage, dropped the puck in front of the cage and all Phil Reichenbach had to do was rifle it home.

The Toms' Davidson tied it after the Redmen had waged a fruitless multishot siege on Penn, but Beaulieu, who nearly had the puck get away on a sweep from the left side and then backhanded it into the nets, sent St. Mary's in front with 32 seconds left in the second period.

Berrigan hit on an assist from Beaulieu with 13:42 to play in the third period and McCormick capped it with his second goal on another assist from Andre at 8:42.

St. Mary's now gets another shot at Hamline at Terrace Heights Tuesday before hosting St. John's Jan. 25. Jan. 27 will bring a strong test against Bemidji State at Aldrich Arena in St. Paul.

Bemidji, according to Hanzel, lists at least seven Canadians on its roster and has a host of Twin Cities talent.

"It was nice to finish strong," said Hanzel of the 6-3 victory. "We looked good the third period. St. Thomas has some good skaters."

Crosby Meet Opens 23rd Run Thursday

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Bing Crosby's golfing extravaganza swings into its 23rd edition Thursday with a bigger field and bigger purse than ever.

Although listed as an unofficial tournament by the Professional Golfers Association this year because of its pro-amateur format, the event still draws the top professionals and pays off in official coin of the realm—$80,000 of it.

Iverson to Play In Tournament

LA CROSSE (AP)—Don Iverson, 18-year-old University of Wisconsin freshman from La Crosse, will leave by plane Monday to participate in the Bing Crosby pro-amateur golf tournament at Pebble Beach, Calif.

Iverson will play practice rounds Tuesday and Wednesday before the start of the tournament. The field includes the nation's top pros and amateurs and many celebrities.

Billy Casper won individual pro honors in the 1963 tournament with a 72-hole score of 285 in four days of exacting play. He collected $5,300. Then in the concurrent event, Doug Sanders collected $3,000 as he and his amateur partner, Chicago industrialist Lloyd Pitzer, fired a 257 best-ball score for the pro-am title.

An amateur teams with a pro each day with three courses in play—Monterey Peninsula Country Club, Cypress Point and Pebble Beach.

By Sunday, each team will have played each course with the final 18 holes always played at Pebble Beach for the low scoring 50 teams and pros.

Entertainers entered include Ray Bolger, James Garner, Paul Harris, Dean Martin, Daniela O'Connor and Fred McMurray.

All three courses are rough and play to par 72. Each touches the Pacific Ocean at points and extends through sand dunes and into forest areas.

EARLY SESSIONS MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves announced Saturday that 32 players, including 16 carried on the major league club roster, will attend an early instructional training camp starting Feb. 21 at West Palm Beach, Fla.

WARRIORS TAKE 70-67 VERDICT

Winona State Upsets 'Kato In NIC Play

MANKATO, Minn. (Special)—An early week press release billed the Mankato State College basketball team as the "hottest quintet in the state."

The writer evidently forgot about the Warriors Coach Bob Campbell has been bringing along slowly, building steadily for the NIC campaign.

All of Campbell's tutelage paid dividends Saturday night as the Warriors upset high-flying Mankato 70-67 in their first conference start. The loss was the first for the Indians after eight straight victories.

The Warriors battered the taller Indians to a standstill in the second half, and, with captain Lyle Papenfuss finishing with 25 points for honors, made sure of the victory.

Dave Goede chimed in with 15 points for Winona and Gary Petersen had 14.

Jon Hagen topped Mankato with 17, George McKay had 15 and Less Sonnabend and Joel Hagen each tallied 10.

Papenfuss' performance was termed as "tremendous" by Campbell.

It was free throws that kept the Warriors ahead in the waning minutes.

Campbell credited a slowed down game for the victory and praised his team's defense.

The Warriors now have a five-game victory string and stand 4-6 on the season. Mankato is 8-4.

The Warriors trailed by only 20-29 at halftime after falling behind by as many as eight points midway through the first 20-minute period.

With Jon Hagen, who counted 11 points in the first half, finding the range early in the game, the Indians built up leads of 16-8 and 20-12 before the Warriors started to rally.

Lyle Papenfuss was high for the Warriors in the first half with Dave Rosenau, who hit four vital free throws in a late rally, getting six and Gary Petersen and Dave Goede five each.

Redmen Cagers Trip Johnnies By 69-61 Count

COLLEGEVILLE, Minn. (Special)—St. Mary's laid its claim to the strong contender label Saturday night as the Redmen knocked off perennial stumbling block St. John's 69-61.

The Redmen hit a snag midway through the season, and dropped four straight, but now have come back to grab a pair of MIAC wins, boosting their conference mark to 3-2 and their season slate to 9-4.

Roger Pytlewski was the big gun for St. Mary's. The 6-5 forward returned to the lineup after missing one game because of illness and pumped in 20 points. With St. John's attempting to surge from behind in the second half, Pytlewski rammed home five straight long jumpers from the top of the key to put the contest out of reach.

The Redmen were never headed, leading from the outset, but were tied at 10-10 with 5:50 gone in the game before their offensive machine started to click.

A quick spurt put St. Mary's ahead, but the Johnnies came back to close the gap at 16-15. From there on it was just a steady increase of the lead by the Redmen, going into the locker room at halftime with a 33-27 bulge.

The trend continued throughout most of the second half, with Pytlewski keeping the host squad at bay. The lead reached 13 at one point, with the Redmen on the upper end 64-

51. Despite hitting only eight field goals in the first half, St. John's managed to stay within range thanks to charity tosses. St. Mary's drew 11 fouls in the first 20-minute span.

Helping out Pytlewski was Al Williams with 13 points and 6-7 pivot-man Jim Rockers with 11. Joe Mucha headed the Johnnies' offense with 18 markers. Hardy Reyerson fired in 16 points, and Bob Ryan added 12.

The loss left St. John's with a 6-4 season record, 1-3 in the MIAC.

Bemidji Bows In Non-Loop Play 82-68

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP)—Northern Michigan's run-and-shoot basketball team raced to its sixth straight victory Saturday, beating Bemidji State 82-68.

Northern took a 12-10 lead in the first quarter and stayed in front. Its halftime edge was 44-35.

Northern's balanced scoring attack was led by Dave Cade with 17 points. Wayne Lundy with 16, and Bob Armstrong with 15. Dave Odegaard scored 16 points for the losers.

Northern is 8-3 for the season. Bemidji has won five of its 12 games.

MORRIS BOWS ASHLAND (AP)—Northland, defeated 10 straight times, posted its first victory of the season by outbattling the University of Minnesota-Morris 83-77 Saturday in a Pioneer College Conference basketball meeting.

WEST HOLDS 8-5 EDGE IN SERIES

NFL All-Stars Meet Today, West Favored by TD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Western Conference squad with only a few players from the West and an Eastern Conference team without the leading passer in the East meet Sunday in the 14th annual National Football League Pro Bowl game.

A crowd of at least 60,000 is expected to view the all-star event at Memorial Coliseum. The game starts at 4 p.m. EST and will be televised nationally by NBC.

The West, which holds an 8-to-5 edge in the series, is favored by a touchdown. The guess is that the spread might be less if the East had quarterback Y. A. Tittle. The brilliant New York passer was scratched because of a knee injury suffered Dec. 29, when the Giants lost the NFL title game to the Chicago Bears, 14-10.

Of the 34 players on the Western squad, only five are from the two Far West franchises, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Twenty-four are from the four Midwestern teams and five others are from that typically Western frontier town of Chesapeake Bay, Baltimore.

Since no title is at stake, the suspicion has grown that players approach the Pro Bowl game with less enthusiasm than they would a more momentous occasion, such as Sunday dinner.

But the series has produced some fine games. Three have been decided by one point, six by a touchdown or less.

This year, to help the players concentrate, the East coach, Allie Sherman of New York, and the West coach, George Halas of Chicago, barred the public from workouts. It was the first time both Pro Bowl squads sought such privacy.

Norman Snead of Washington was picked to replace Tittle on the Eastern roster, but Charley Johnson of St. Louis is expected to be the East's starting quarterback. Jim Brown of Cleveland will be the starting fullback; Tim Brown of Philadelphia is likely to start at halfback and Frank Gifford of New York will be the flanker. Gifford replaces Buddy Dial of Pittsburgh, who injured a knee in practice.

For the West, it will be Johnny Unitas of Baltimore at quarterback, Jim Taylor of Green Bay at fullback, Tommaso Mason of Minnesota at halfback and Terry Barr of Detroit at flanker. Bill Wade of Chicago is the West's second quarterback.

Wade was the winning pitcher in the title game, and is one of eight Bears on the West team. The runner-up Packers, who battered the Browns 40-23 in the Playoff Bowl at Miami last Sunday, also placed eight.

Unitas has quarterbacked the West team for seven straight years, and was named the game's outstanding player in 1960 and 1961. In addition to Barr, Unitas will have such passing targets as John Mackey of the Colts, Mike Ditka of the Bears, Gail Cogdill of the Lions and Ray Berry of the Colts.

Pre-Game Masterminding Reality, Hawks Win

By GARY EVANS
Sunday News Sports Editor

Had John Kenney been a puppeteer Friday night and his Winhawk five marionettes on strings, the mode of Winona High's 83-78 victory couldn't have been more effective.

As it was, pre-game masterminding became reality before the coach's eyes as he watched his team run its patterned offense to a peak nearly surpassing perfection in building up a 51-37 halftime lead.

The Hawks ran it to a 19-point difference early in the third quarter before a typically game Austin team started a resurgent period that nearly, but not quite, led to victory.

The Packers cut it to four points on two occasions in the fourth period, but the hot shooting never-say-die Hawks took their shooting mastery to the free throw line to push it out of reach.

In recording their first victory over the Packers since the semifinals of the Region One tournament in March of 1961, the Hawks dropped 20 of 31 field goal attempts, including 13 of 16 from the lane, for a torrid first-half percentage of 645. They capped off the performance with 10 of 29 in the final half for an even 50-percent performance for the night.

But ironically enough, it was the free throw, a weapon used to their disadvantage in the past several games, that made the victory possible.

The Hawks sunk 23 of 34 from the charity stripe. Austin also hit 30 field goals, but wound up with 18 of 29 in the free throw department.

Austin Coach Ove Berven, a gentleman even in defeat, had nothing but praise for Winona. "They were the better team tonight," he offered. "We looked a little better in the second half, but they were just too much for us. He (Kenney) has a fine team. They were fired up tonight."

"It's been a long time since I've seen a first half as fine as tonight's," said Kenney. "Every pattern we ran turned into a bucket."

Winona gave fans an early insight of what was to come as it hit on a long jumper from the key by Steve Keller shortly after the tipoff. The contest was tied at 4-4 and 6-6 before Austin took a 7-6 lead on Al Berg's free throw with just over five minutes left in the first quarter.

Winona got it back on a jumper by Bill Squires and after 8-8 and 10-10 ties, the Hawks were on their way, steadily building the margin into a 27-23 quarter lead.

The second quarter was no contest as the Winhawks' deadly accuracy opened a 12-point lead in one three minute stretch at 29-27. It went to 44-29 with three minutes left in the half.

Austin rallied in the third quarter. With several Hawk regulars riding the bench, the Dave Hartman and Mike House-led Packers made their surge.

Only John Duell, thrust into a starting role after returning to the team only two weeks ago after being out with mono-nucleosis, helped avert disaster.

In the third period, Duell hit three field goals and a pair of free throws for eight of his team's 15 points.

The margin with eight minutes to play favored Winona by 66-60.

The fourth quarter was nip-and-tuck, but the free throw shooting of Duell, Jim Kasten, Keller and Gary Addington made the difference.

Keller, sensational in a guard role, finished with 25 points for game honors. Three teammates—Squires, Duell and Addington—each had 16.

House hit 24 for the Packers, who suffered their first loss in eight games, and Hartman 20. Wally Osterholt got 14 and Al Berg 10.

Winona, which now stands 4-5 overall and 3-1 in the Big Nine Conference, journeys to Mankato Friday.

City Pinmen Hit 7 Honor Counts

Winona keggers hit 600 counts all over town Friday night as seven of the honor totals were registered.

The topper came from the Legion circuit at Hal-Rod Lanes where Hal Bilgen plastered 251-633 for First National Bank. Bauer Electric blazed 1,067, and Mayan Grocery counted 2,961.

A trio of the top scores came from the Westgate Bowl Lake-side loop. Wally Dubbs smashed 614 and Al Crodes bagged 241, both for Wally's Bar. Jerry Nelson registered 602, and George Kratz hammered 600. Jen's Tavern belted 1,060 and Winona Printing hit 2,933. John Sherman socked a 597 errorless.

The Braves & Squaws league at Westgate came up with another 600. Brandt-Kertzman counted 1,215 behind Mike Kertzman's 601—his first honor count. His high single was 212. Ruth Olson socked 191 for Olson-Tuttle, and Leona Lubinski tagged 511 for Knopp-Lubinski. Clint

Nett Happy With Subs Court Play

By BOB JUNGHANS
Sunday News Sports Writer

With a meager two-point lead going into the second quarter, your starting five looking listless and the shorter opposition consistently out-rebounding and out-hustling your team, what do you do?

If you're Cotter Coach John Nett, you insert your second five and then sit back and enjoy the action.

That was the situation at St. Stan's gym Friday night as the Ramblers went on to blast Bethlehem Academy of Fairbault 66-40 for their ninth victory in a row and 10th triumph in 11 starts this season.

"I didn't plan to use the second five like that," said Nett after the game, "but the first five didn't seem to want to play basketball, so I sat them on the bench."

IF NOT for Bethlehem's inaccuracy in the first eight-minute span, the Rambler cagers may have found themselves trailing by a wide margin, as time and time again the shorter Cardinals were able to get two or three shots at the basket to Cotter's one.

With less than a minute to play in the first quarter, Nett yanked his starting five of Mike Jersek, Bob Judge, John Nett Jr., Gene Schultz and Rick Starzecki, and put in the reserve unit of Russ Fisk, Dave Knopick, Bob Allaire, Bill Browne and Dan Pelowski.

Knopick hit a jump shot just before the buzzer to give Cotter a 12-10 quarter margin. With Knopick and Browne pumping in points like a pair of howitzers, the Ramblers managed to pull away to a 29-22 halftime bulge. Knopick hit 10 points in his appearance and Browne six.

Cotter's regular were back on the floor in the second half, and left little doubt in the contest as they outscored the demoralized Cardinals 23-7 in the third period to ice the victory.

Coach Nett has special praise for Browne and Knopick. "Knopick is a real fine shot," he said in reference to the five long buckets he rifled in, which, along with a pair of free throws gave him 12 points for the night.

"Browne is a good shooter also," continued the veteran mentor. "What he needs is more game experience, and he got it tonight." The slightly built guard finished with eight points for the evening.

NETT JR. also picked up a dozen markers for his evening's efforts, and forward Judge added 11, 10 of them in the second half.

For B.A., powerfully built center Jerry Hatfield topped all scorers with 16 points, mostly on long jumpers, while Terry Schmidt picked up 10 counters before fouling out with 5:43 left to play in the third period.

With win No. 10 tucked safely away, Nett and crew got a full week of rest before tangling with a powerful Benilde in St. Louis Park Friday night.

"They're going to be tough," said Nett. "And we have to

Hawk Swim Team Rips Past 'Kato

Both Winona High "A" and "B" swimming teams triumphed Friday night, sweeping the twin bill with Mankato, and in the process, taking every first place but one.

The Winhawk A-squad trounced the Scarlet tankers 65-29. It was the first dual meet win of the season for Winona, which now stands 1-2.

Coach Lloyd Luke was obviously pleased with his charges, and said, "Some of our boys swam their best laps of the season."

Winona's "B" squad turned back Mankato 61-23, but lost one first place decision. Mike Vee of Mankato won the 100-yard breaststroke event.

The Winhawk swimmers go back into action next Friday when Mankato makes a return visit.

Redmen Skaters Shut Out Hamline

If it weren't for Jan. 31 and Feb. 1, Keith Hanzel, St. Mary's hockey coach would be the picture of tranquility.

These two dates may be black days on the St. Mary's calendar, and the reason is the excitement from defending MIAC champion Macalester.

The Redmen stayed tied with Macalester at the top of the heap Friday night by stopping Hamline 5-0, and the win prompted Hanzel to say that due to the fine performance of his St. Mary's chargers, he was not worried about the rest of the games this season except for the two with the Scots.

Jerry Archaubeau, freshman goalie, played an outstanding game in the nets for the Redmen. He had to make only 17

ATTENTION! MEN BOWLERS

Jim Schneider, secretary of the Winona Men's Bowling Association, reminds all bowlers thinking of competing in the City Tournament, which opens at Hal-Rod Lanes Feb. 8, that entries close Saturday.

Anyone thinking of entering the competition is urged to be speedy about getting his entry blanks in.

Schneider also asks that League secretaries who haven't done so submit the averages of their bowlers immediately. The average deadline originally had been set at Jan. 4.

Also, Schneider reminds the local men keggers that to be eligible for competition they must have an ABC number.

Each entry blank contains a number, and bowlers without one are urged to contact their league secretaries and obtain one.

Eagles Top Wanamingo

Dover-Eyota led all the way in defeating Wanamingo 47-35 in a Wasioja Conference game Friday night.

The Eagles took a 15-6 first-period lead, were on top 24-21 at intermission and 35-26 with eight minutes to play.

Dan Lyke topped the winners with 13 points. Gary Daniels had 10.

Steve Kristianson was high for Wanamingo with 9.

Wanamingo won the "B" game 41-32.

Description of Winhawk Victory: Wonderful, Sensational, Tremendous

By STAFF WRITER

Adjectives reigned supreme just a few minutes before 10 o'clock Friday night, but whether you used TREMENDOUS, BEAUTIFUL, WONDERFUL, or SENSATIONAL, it all added up to the same thing — Winona High had beaten Austin for the first time since the semi-finals of the Region One basketball tournament in March of 1961.

The score in that encounter was 60-53. This time it was 83-78. And, although the names of the heroes changed this time around, the celebration that followed the contest was no less ecstatic.

Before the final gun had gone off, Winona players not directly involved in the contest, posed at the bench for the big dash.

The buzzer sounded and seconds later Coach John Kenney was the recipient of a shoulder ride. "Round and round the gym went the screaming players and fans, Kenney perched high above the crowd.

The celebration carried into the dressing room. Forgotten was the string of four straight losses the Austin victory had

"We saved it all for Austin," said Bill Squires, who played a vital rebounding role and wound up with 16 points. "We wanted to win that one."

Little Hawks Tumble Austin By 58-51

Winona High School's "B" squad set the stage for the Winhawks varsity upset of Austin Friday night by downing the Little Packers 58-51.

The Little Hawks forged in front 17-9 at the end of the first quarter and led 29-25 at halftime. At the end of three periods, the score favored Winona by 45-34.

Don Hazelton garnered 17 points for Winona and John Ahrens 10.

For Austin, Hartman and Hanson each had 12 points and Jacobson 10.

Redmen Take 55-50 Verdict

COULEE	W	L
Gale-Etrick	1	1
Mindoro	2	1
Holmen	2	1
Trempealeau	2	1

A pair of upsets in Friday night action put the middle of the Coulee Conference standings in a shuffle, but left Gale-Etrick all by itself on top of the heap.

Mindoro fell from a share of first place as it was stunned by Onalaska 77-48. Gale-Etrick shaded Trempealeau 55-50 and Bangor fell before surprising West Salem 59-53. Holmen smashed Melrose 84-34.

HOLMEN 84 MELROSE 34

With reserves playing the majority of the second half, Holmen shellacked Melrose 84-34.

The first unit bulled its way to a 45-15 halftime margin before Coach Dean Uhl cleared his bench. Big Eino Hendrickson, who had been averaging 22 points per game, showed in 27 points to lead the onslaught. Arlen Anderson had 10.

Larry Hertzfeldt topped Melrose with 12.

WEST SALEM 59 BANGOR 53

Bangor was hot in the first and last quarters, but in between told the difference as the Cardinals were upset by West Salem 59-53.

Bangor led 20-16 at the end of the first quarter, but fell behind 30-26 at the half. The Panthers boosted the margin to 44-36 at the end of the third period.

Steve Zantow led the upset with 16 points, followed closely by Harry Griswold with 12 and Stan Benson's 10.

Mike Olson scored 18 for Bangor, and Bud Fiet hit 11. Bangor copped the "B" tilt 41-37.

ONALASKA 77 MINDORO 48

"They finally looked like I expected them to all season," said Onalaska Coach Chuck Deeth.

His Hilltopper cagers proved heavily favored Mindoro 77-48.

Onalaska led from the outset, with Bob Lamb setting the pace with 19 points. Tom Monsoor bagged 18, Bob Topple 14 and Tom Everett 10. For Mindoro, Gary Goodenough scored 12.

Onalaska won the "B" game in a big way 77-48.

GALE-ETTRICK 55 TREMPLEALEAU 50

The hard-fought rivalry between Gale-Etrick and Trempealeau was its usual self Friday night, with Gale-Etrick coming out on top 55-50 in a tilt that went right down to the wire.

The Redmen had built a commanding 28-19 halftime margin, but the Bears stormed back within two points with 40 seconds to play. A missed shot gave Gale-Etrick the ball, however, and subsequent foul's brought the margin to its final proportion.

Doug Nichols was a one-man gang for the Redmen pouring through 33 of their points. Dave Duell had 16 for Trempealeau. Gary Meunier added 15 and Dean Dale had 12.

Trempealeau copped the "B" game 36-35.

Wabasha St. Felix showed it was still the class of the Bi-State loop Friday night by stopping Rollingstone Holy Trinity 52-38, and Hokah St. Peter, which just a few weeks ago snapped the state's longest losing streak at 46, won its second game 66-53 over Caledonia Loretto.

HOKAH ST. PETER 66 CALEDONIA LORETTO 53

Hokah St. Peter got off on the right foot thanks to its defense, and then got its offense rolling in the second period and went on to defeat Caledonia Loretto 66-53.

The Indians led 13-4 at the end of the first period, and then boosted the margin to 26-24 and 56-51 at the end of the next two quarters.

An obviously elated Rollie Tust Jr., Hokah coach, said, "It was a fine team effort again."

er headed in posting a 66-61 win over Wykoff.

Tom Oddegarden led the Gophers with 20 points. Wayne King had 16, Glen Bernard 13 and Ed Tuohy 10.

Chuck Doering got 15, Norm Vehrenkamp 14 and Harlan Jacobson 11 for Wykoff, which won the "B" game 43-20.

Chatfield led 16-11, 33-27 and 48-42 at the quarter turns.

His Hilltopper cagers proved heavily favored Mindoro 77-48.

Onalaska led from the outset, with Bob Lamb setting the pace with 19 points. Tom Monsoor bagged 18, Bob Topple 14 and Tom Everett 10. For Mindoro, Gary Goodenough scored 12.

Onalaska won the "B" game in a big way 77-48.

GALE-ETTRICK 55 TREMPLEALEAU 50

The hard-fought rivalry between Gale-Etrick and Trempealeau was its usual self Friday night, with Gale-Etrick coming out on top 55-50 in a tilt that went right down to the wire.

The Redmen had built a commanding 28-19 halftime margin, but the Bears stormed back within two points with 40 seconds to play. A missed shot gave Gale-Etrick the ball, however, and subsequent foul's brought the margin to its final proportion.

Doug Nichols was a one-man gang for the Redmen pouring through 33 of their points. Dave Duell had 16 for Trempealeau. Gary Meunier added 15 and Dean Dale had 12.

Trempealeau copped the "B" game 36-35.

Indees Squeeze Past Alma Center 50-49

DAIRYLAND	W	L
Blair	5	1
Independence	3	1
Alma Center	3	2

Not much was changed in the Dairyland Conference after Friday night play. Blair and Independence made more apparent their power, while Whitehall moved into third place.

Blair smashed Augusta 86-60, while Independence was sneaking by Alma Center 50-49. Whitehall edged Eleva-Strum 43-44, and Osseo notched win No. 2, 79-64 over Cochrane-Fountain City.

BLAIR 86 AUGUSTA 60

If not for a 20-point fourth quarter, the humiliation would have been worse as Blair shellacked Augusta 86-60.

The Cardinals held leads of 22-6, 47-17 and 68-30 at the end of each period before Augusta came up with 30 points in the final frame.

John Woyiecki netted 24 points and Jim Rawson 21 to pace the winners. Carl Aubert added 13, Jim Osborn's 19 paced Augusta, while brother Dick backed him up with 11.

Dennis Thompson and Eugene Berg stood out for Blair on defense. The Cardinals also won the "B" game 50-47.

OSSEO 79 COCHRANE-FOUNTAIN CITY 64

Osseo built a 36-27 halftime lead, and then poured it on in the fourth quarter to stop Cochrane-Fountain City 79-64.

Ken Anderson scored 24 points, and Bruce Brecklin tallied 21 to pace the Chiefs. Dave Higley and Lyle Sell added 14 and 10, respectively.

Dan Diltich captured evening scoring plaudits with 31 points for the Pirates. Dave Kennebeck had 13.

INDEPENDENCE 50 ALMA CENTER 49

Alma Center's last minute surge fell short as the Hornets fell before Independence 50-49.

The Indees held a five-point margin with 1 1/2 minutes to play, but two quick buckets by Lincoln pulled the count within one. Both teams missed free throws in the final seconds, and the Indees chalked up victory No. 5.

Bob Edmundson paced four Indee cagers into double digits with 14 points. Paul Kullig had 12, Connie Marsalek 11 and Jack Bisek 10.

Vince Ruzic ripped home 24 points for Alma Center, and Norm Seguin bagged 13. Independence won the "B" affair 36-26.

WHITEHALL 45 ELEVA-STRUM 44

Whitehall had to fight its way back in the last quarter to trip Eleva-Strum 45-44.

The Cardinals had led 36-30 going into the final quarter, but Whitehall steadily chopped the bulge until a pair of charity tosses by Jack Muldonado with

ROOT RIVER	W	L
Peterson	4	0
Spring Grove	4	1
Caledonia	3	2
Rushford	2	2

Peterson hung on to first place in the Root River Conference Friday night, but Spring Grove stayed close behind.

Peterson hung a 74-62 loss on Houston, while Spring Grove was nipping Canton 36-35. In the only other game, Rushford trounced Caledonia 78-60.

RUSHFORD 78 CALEDONIA 60

Caledonia stayed with Rushford for one quarter, but the Trojans pulled away and went on to defeat the Warriors 78-60.

The score was knotted at 17-17 in the first period, before Rushford moved away to a 37-28 halftime bulge. Dale Ostad and Ed Sandness spearheaded the drive with 26 and 23 points, respectively, for Rushford.

SPRING GROVE 36 CANTON 35

Canton's first Root River Conference win seemed to be within its grasp, but Mel Homuth fired in a jump shot at the buzzer to give Spring Grove a 36-35 decision over the Raiders.

The Lions led all the way until late in the fourth quarter. Homuth finished the night with 20 points. For Canton, Dean Jones topped the scorers with 12 points. Don Halvorson made his first appearance in uniform this season, and played an outstanding game.

Spring Grove won the "B" game 38-26.

PETERSON 74 HOUSTON 62

Houston came close to pulling one of the biggest upsets of the year, but the attempt fell by the wayside as Peterson won a 74-62 verdict with a fourth-quarter surge.

Houston held leads of 19-13 and 32-24 at the end of the first two periods, but the Petes came back to take a slim 40-47 advantage at the end of the third period, before wrapping it up with their late surge.

Stan Gudmundson rifled in 29 points to top the winners. Dan Olson had 18 and John Ferden 14. Bob Bremseth led Houston's bid with 19 counters. Tom Running bagged 15, and Steve Bremseth added 14.

Peterson swept evening honors with a 51-45 win in the "B" game.

Richardson hit 17 points for the night, backed up by Tom Tucker's 14.

Bruce Husbyn and Dean Dickey each scored 14 points for Goodhue. Bob Schinnert added 12.

RANDOLPH 65 WABASHA 56

A disastrous second quarter and big Dave Sorenson proved too much for Wabasha, as the Indians bowed to Randolph 65-56.

Wabasha could manage only seven points in the second period, while Randolph was firing in 20. Sorenson hit 27 points for the night. Will Gergen clicked for 14, and Dave Felton added 11.

Contests Popularize Winter Fishing In Area

Competition Keen for Top Prizes

By LEFTY HYMES
Sunday News Outdoor Writer
PROBABLY no single factor has done more to popularize winter fishing than the winter fishing contest.

In all of the north border states from the Rockies to the coast of Maine, a vast winter fishing population looks forward to attending at least one winter fishing contest. Many fishing families — parents and the kids — will spend up to a dozen Sunday afternoons trying to catch a fish large enough to win one of the contest prizes. All of them, of course, are assured of at least one attendance prize.

Beyond this hope that Lady Luck will smile upon them, is the competitive factor, the same which makes men compete on the football field, basketball court, or in any other game of skill. It is the ability to pull a winner out of the hat, or in this case put a big flopping fish that others will admire or envy on the ice.

Then there is the fascination of being with a crowd. It is normally a friendly yet competitive crowd. Winter fishermen and fishermen are usually good sports and ready mixers. Most everybody talks fish and fishing to everybody else.

THERE IS some criticism of the lottery aspect now injected into the contests. The entry ticket to the contest carries a number which is drawn from the hat or box, much like at the old bank nights in show business, and the holder, present or not, gets a valuable prize, often a boat. There also are prizes for the largest fish of various species.

When contestants catch what they think may be a prize winning crappie, bluegill or walleye, they take it to a registration table where it is weighed, tagged and put on a fish display board. After the gun or bomb ending the event is shot, the judges pick the winning fish by species off the board and suitable prizes are awarded to the winners in each of the fish classes. Most often the prizes are fishing tackle.

Also throughout the afternoon contest, names are drawn for various merchandise prizes donated to the organization staging the contest. Some merchants consider this part of the fishing contest a racket. However, normally such prizes are inexpensive and no organization is seriously hit if it gives a half dozen such awards during the season.

ANOTHER SOURCE of income to sponsoring organizations which in most cases are sportsmen's groups raising funds for some worthwhile conservation project, is the food and refreshment stand. Cold fishing people readily buy hot dogs and hamburgers. There is no hesitation about paying a dime for a cup of hot coffee.

With most of the help being volunteers, nearly every contest makes money for the sponsoring organization, providing the membership works. Somebody must sell enough tickets in advance to cover the "nut" — the cost of the prizes, advertising, lumber for the stand, and other incidentals. Somebody must be on the ice during the contest doing the hundred and one things required such as checking and tagging the fish, frying the hamburgers, serving the coffee, and policing the contest. There are a few fishermen who like to "put-one-over" or cheat in the contest.

included substituting or hooking on the line raised from the water a record or winning fish caught previously. Two game wardens spotted two such fish on the rack at a contest on Prairie Island last winter. The eyes showed the fish had been dead more than 24 hours. Usually at least one game warden patrols each contest. Sometimes, right after the first of the year, they check for the proper fishing license.

Many of the fishing contests along this sector of the river are held in boundary waters of the Mississippi or between the two railroad right of ways where resident license holders of either Minnesota or Wisconsin may fish without purchasing a non-resident license. This gives the contest a two-state drawing range.

The history of fishing contests is a bit vague in our mind. We cannot recall when the contests began. The earliest ones recalled are those at Lake City, Eau Claire and St. Paul's winter carnival. Some organizations advertise their contest as the 25th annual or more.

OPPOSED TO fishing contests a number of years ago were conservation-minded summer fishermen who thought they were promoting inroads on their summer fish supply. Such criticism has pretty well died out.

They have learned by observation that the catch in the vast majority of contests runs well below a fish to each contestant. In fact, some contests last winter had less than one fish on the board for every 50 fishermen.

Seldom do fish cooperate. Once in a good while the fish will spring a surprise. Last year, on Fountain City Bay, one club offered two dollars for every panfish caught. They set aside the price of a good boat to pay for the fish, knowing that less than 50 fish were taken the year before and they figured

25-Below Moose Hunt
Two Winonans packing two moose have come home out of the frozen Ontario wilderness they were promoting a money-maker. Fortunately they established 200 as the mark when the bulk would go broke. Well, the expert crappie fishermen moved in on the contest and the curtain was pulled down in 27 minutes after the start, if we remember correctly. The fish cooperated.

Despite the fact that we have in the past printed a fishing contest calendar, competition for dates is keen and has resulted in too many contests in one area on a given date. All the sponsors had trouble breaking even.

As to the broods on fishing, most fish authorities now agree that fishing contests in winter save fish. If the same number of fishermen went fishing alone, they would catch many more fish than are taken at any given contest.

Independence Ice Fishing Contest Feb. 2

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — The Elk Rod and Gun Club of Independence will hold its sixth annual ice fishing contest Sunday, Feb. 2, from 1 to 4 p.m. on Bugle Lake. Prizes will be awarded for the 15 largest trout caught.

There will be 3,000 holes drilled for fishing, bait will be available and hot lunches will be served.

Eighteen months ago the Elk Rod & Gun Club bought 2,000 fingerling trout and raised them in their own private pond. In September of 1963, 1,600 trout measuring from 12 to 15 inches were released, also 400 larger ones which measure from 15 to 18 inches were kept back to be placed in the pond for the fishing contest.

Sportsmen at Arcadia Elect
ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — When the Arcadia Sportsmen's Club met Tuesday night in the Sportsmen Clubhouse, Albert Woychik Jr. was re-elected club president for another term. Also re-elected was vice president, Daniel Sonsalla; secretary, Fredrick Glowchewski and treasurer, Adolph Chitko.

Cleon Fernholz was elected director for a three-year term to replace Roland Haines.

Hold over directors for a two-year term was Donald Glanzer and Edward Sonsalla for a one-year term.

The president will appoint the various committees at the next regular meeting of the club.

WHITEWATER VALLEY
ELBA, Minn. — The White-water Valley Sportsmen's Club will hold its January meeting in the club hall at Elba Monday. The meeting will be called to order at 8:30 p.m. There will be lunch and refreshments.

WILD RICE
ST. PAUL, Minn. — The Chipewewa Indians of Minnesota harvested nearly 70 tons of wild rice last year from the Rice Lake and Tamarac National Wildlife Refuges, according to the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

Water levels on the refuges are controlled to encourage maximum production of wild rice. Ducks feed upon the large quantities of seed that drop to the bottoms of the shallow lakes during harvest operations.

Durand Club Claims More Than Half Century of Good Works

By MRS. ROBERT CONSTANTINE
Sunday News Correspondent

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — As the 20th Century gets into its second half by 13 years, with the beginning of 1964, a women's club in Durand also starts a significant new year, its 54th. More than half a century of active existence can be chalked up by this progressive group. Fifty-three years ago Dec. 1, 12 women from Durand, driven by an earnest desire to have an educational club, a chance to do civic work and to gain a sense of accomplishment, started the Durand Women's Club. It was then known as the Travel Club.

The year was 1910 and women then were the same as they are now — they wanted to accomplish something worthwhile, something other than the all-important job of being wives and mothers.

THUS, ON Dec. 1, 1910, the Travel Club was organized and has been an active, civic-minded group ever since.

Twelve women attended the first historical meeting at the home of Mrs. L. L. Plummer, where they elected officers. The president was Mrs. Plummer. Mrs. P. A. Richards was vice president; Mrs. Walter Biles, secretary-treasurer. These three actually were founders of the movement.

Others of the 12 charter members were Meses. W. A. Gilmore, (the only one still living), C. A. Ingram, Finley Goodrich, Victor Hammond, George Tarrant, Frank Pierce, J. J. Morgan, J. W. Harris, and O. W. Smith.

THE NAME was chosen because Mrs. Ingram subscribed to the Travel Magazine; the name indicated the subjects of the early programs.

With the exception of Mrs. Gilmore, who resides in Durand, but is spending the winter months this year in Phoenix, Ariz., all the charter members are deceased.

Historical records show that in 1921 the name of the club was changed to The Woman's Club of Durand. Previously, on April 12, 1917, the club voted to become affiliated with the Wisconsin State Federation and was accepted on April 26, 1917. That year the group voted to send Mrs. Ingram and Mrs. Bowman as its first delegates to the Tenth District Convention.

EARLY membership was limited to 20, because meetings were held in the homes of members. Currently the DWC meets in the Durand Public Library and membership has been enlarged to 49 women, plus six honorary members.

Records of the first four years of the Travel Club were not written, but from 1914 on records have been kept. They show that the club was one of the most active and community-minded in the area.

Civic work heads the list of programs. The first project was a skating pond, located on what is now the Henry Goodrich property. The latest project is the sponsoring of Brownies and Girl Scouts.

IN 1931 the club bought materials for organizing the first Girl Scout troops in Durand. Many members of the club today are active in both Boy and Girl Scouts.

CHARTER MEMBER . . . Mrs. W. A. Gilmore, the only living charter member of the Durand Women's Club, is pictured here as she looked soon after the turn of the century, when the club was organized as the Travel Club in 1910. Although no longer active in the club, Mrs. Gilmore still has its interest at heart. She is not attending meetings this winter, because she is in Phoenix, Ariz., for the cold season.

Student nurse scholarships, flower shows, beautifying the city, the sale of Health Seals, community improvements and the Helen Mears Art and Essay contest are some of the other projects of the DWC.

The first outside speaker was Helen Parkhurst, who talked before the club for two hours on the Montessori System of training and instructing young children. Miss Parkhurst, a native of Durand, lives in New York and has gained distinction in promoting the Dalton System, working with juvenile delinquents in New York and writing a book on her experiences.

DURING World War I the club purchased and filled scrap books for hospitalized soldiers. Members collected musical instruments to send to military camps. In 1942 the club sent each serviceman from Durand a Christmas card, with $2 enclosed. Kindness to servicemen and veterans is still being shown by the members.

In 1941, the club undertook the project of having its own Health Seals; thus Pepin County Seals was started and has continued ever since.

It would not be possible to write of all the community projects and educational programs DWC has nurtured during the past 53 years. But one thing is certain — the women of the organization have been active and a great asset to the city of Durand.

IT HAS BEEN point-

PRESENT OFFICERS . . . Mrs. Val Hoesser, left, and Mrs. Bert Hagness are president and vice president, respectively, of the modern 1964 Durand Women's Club. Here they are shown before the holidays, packing a box of gifts for patients at the Veterans Hospital in Tomah, Wis. The presents are for patients to give to their families. Such worthwhile projects are in line with the half-century-old club's purpose from its inception — of taking part in community and area affairs and helping others, while they automatically improve their own stature.

erica's Need for Americanism," "Jane Adams," "Child Labor Laws in Wisconsin," "Women's Privileges and Duties" and "Status of Women in Different Countries."

"These last two topics made interesting discussions, since it was in 1920 that women were granted the right to vote," Mrs. Tarrant said.

Although she is not an active member today, Mrs. Joe Boehrer was a busy member in the early days. She was vice president in 1922-1923.

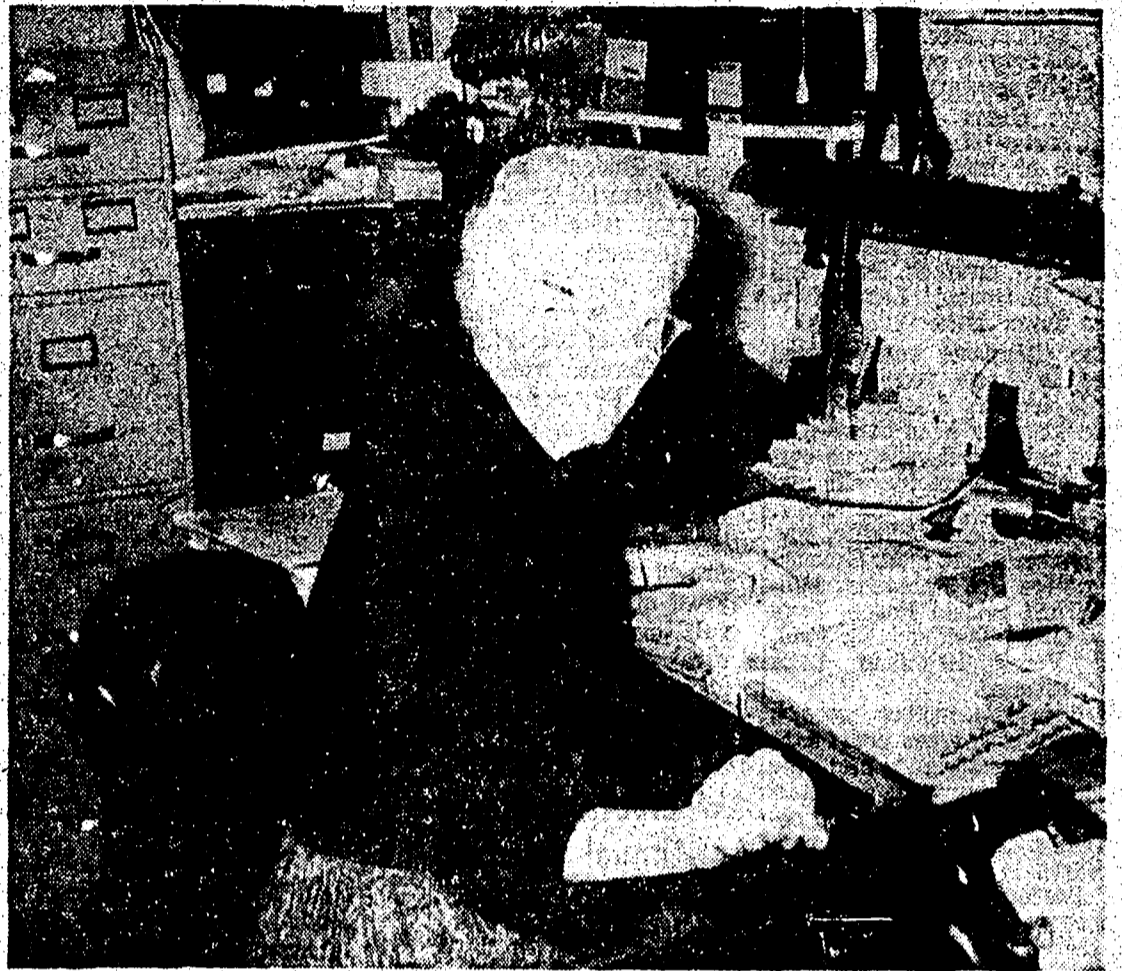

I FOUND Mrs. H. C. Marquardt making preparations for this year's Christmas program, which was held Dec. 10 at the home of Mrs. G. F. Bauer. Mrs. Marquardt, a member since 1916, continues to be active in DWC and served on one of the committees for the holiday party. She was secretary in 1921-1922.

While glancing through the yearbooks of the club, beginning with the first in 1919 and ending with 1963, I found a little poem which the women of the DWC seem to have followed to the letter for the last 53 years: DO YOUR TASK "Whenever a task is set for you, Don't idly sit and view it.

Nor be content and wish it done, Begin at once and do it."

Another quotation found in the yearbooks come to mind and I couldn't help thinking of it as I watched the former First Lady in the tragic days of the President's death and burial. "No country is greater than its women."

MISS EVALYN GOODRICH . . . Business affairs at the Goodrich Furniture Company, where she is the bookkeeper, do not keep Miss Goodrich, one of the early members of the DWC, from taking part in club activities. She served as the club's vice president in 1923-1924. (Photos by Mrs. Robert Constantine)

MRS. JOE BOEHRER . . . One of the early members of the Durand Women's Club, although not a charter one, is Mrs. Boehrer. She no longer takes an active part in club events, but did in the organization's earlier years, is pictured here making preparations for a recent party of the club. She was secretary of DWC in 1921 and 1922.

MRS. BURR R. TARRANT . . . Another early member of the club is Mrs. Tarrant, who was one of the club's earliest presidents — in 1921-1922. Although she is no longer active, but attends only special functions, Mrs. Tarrant recalls the many interests of the club in the early days, particularly the members' interest in the affairs of the day.

Trinity Church Scene of Hien-Rabe Wedding

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — Trinity Lutheran Church, Lake City, was the scene of the marriage of Miss Janet Rabe and Eugene Hein Dec. 28.

The Rev. Harold Schwertfeger officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rabe, Lake City, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hein, Millville, Minn.

Soloist was Mrs. Harold Schwertfeger and organist Miss Margaret Schwertfeger.

The bride wore a bouffant floor-length gown, fashioned of taffeta and hand-clipped Chantilly lace. Seed pearls and sequins trimmed the long sleeved lace bodice. Her silk illusion veil fell from a matching head piece and she carried red roses.

Mrs. Glenn Becklund, St. Paul, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Loa Wiebusch, St. Paul, and Mrs. Ronald Hoops, Lake City, sister of the groom. Kathie Becklund, St. Paul, and Sally Heitmann, Lake City, were flower girls.

The attendants were dressed alike in rouge red velvet street-length dresses. They wore white fur head bands with rouge red chapel veils and carried white fur muffs with red roses.

Maynard Hein, Millville, was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Joe Rahmann, Millville, and Ronald Hoops, Lake City. Glenn Becklund, St. Paul, and Perry Heitmann, Lake City, ushered.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece blue green dress with white accessories, and the groom's mother wore a winter-white knit dress with brown accessories. They wore red rose corsages.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served to 150 guests at the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Siefert were host and hostess.

The couple will make their home in Missoula, Mont.

The bride is a graduate of Wabasha High School, and was employed at the Minnesota Mining Manufacturing Co., St. Paul.

The groom is a graduate of Elgin (Minn.) High School, and is employed at Van Evans Plywood Co., Missoula.

Nancy Davison Weds R. W. Brady At Cathedral

Miss Nancy H. Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy O. Davison, 576 E. 3rd St., became the bride of Richard W. Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Brady, 603 E. Howard St., Jan. 4.

The Rev. Donald Connelly officiated at the ceremony at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart. The grade school children's choir sang.

The bride wore a satin brocade gown designed with fitted bodice, scoop neckline, long sleeves and controlled bell-shaped skirt. A large French bow fastened the square train at the back of her skirt. She wore a silk illusion veil held by a matching pillbox hat and carried a cascade of red Sweetheart roses with stephanotis and centered with an orchid.

Miss Judith Bonfe, St. Paul, was maid of honor. Mrs. Gerald Wachowiak, Mrs. Thomas Norrie, Minneapolis, and Miss Rose Mary Ludowese, Colorado Springs, Colo., bridesmaids.

They were gowned alike in floor-length dresses of rouge red velvet with satin cummerbunds. Their head bands were of white fur and they carried white fur muffs topped with a cluster of red roses.

John Courtier, Winona, was best man; Gerald Wachowiak, Minneapolis, William Courtier, David Beaman, groomsmen, and David Davison and Robert Brady, Red Wing, Minn., ushers.

A dinner and reception was held at the American Legion Club following the ceremony with an evening dance at 8 p.m. at the club. Bob Schuler, Winona provided music.

The couple will be at home at West St. Paul, Minn., following a short wedding trip.

The bride attended Cotter High School and Rochester School of Practical Nursing. She has been employed as a LPN at St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Paul.

The groom attended Winona Senior High School and is employed at Plastics Inc., St. Paul.

Parties were given for the bride-elect at the Athletic Club Oct. 28 with the Mmes. Raymond Jazewski, Earl Klinger, and B. J. Muir, hostesses and Dec. 13 at the home of Mrs. Joseph McDonough with Miss Bonfe, Mmes. Wachowiak and Thomas Norrie, hostesses.

A bridal buffet was given at the home of the bride's parents Jan. 3.

Witousek-Engan Vows Exchanged

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special)—Miss Sonja Elaine Engan, Spring Grove, and Charles Lee Witousek, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, were married Dec. 28 at the Big Canoe Lutheran Church with the Rev. W. T. Hexom officiating.

Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Engan, Spring Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Witousek, Cedar Rapids.

Miss Mavis Arneson, Spring Grove, was soloist and Mrs. W. T. Hexom, organist.

Mrs. Robert Fernow, Denver, Colo., sister of the groom, was matron of honor and Miss Sharon Anderson, Decorah, bridesmaid.

The bride's brother, David Engan, Spring Grove, was best man and Arden Anderson was groomsmen. Larry Bentley, Spring Grove, and Robert Fernow, Denver, ushers.

Michael Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kelly, Decorah, was ringbearer and Rhonda Dolash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Dolash, Decorah, flower girl.

The bride wore a silk bombazine gown styled with long sleeved fitted lace bodice and sabrina neckline. The bouffant skirt extended into a chapel-length train edged with hand clipped lace.

Her veil of imported silk English illusion was held by a princess style crown of bugle beads and aurore borealis crystals and she carried red roses on a white ribbon.

The attendants wore moss green street-length frocks with matching head pieces and carried white muffs.

A reception was held in the church parlors.

The groom is serving in the U.S. Navy as Boilerman 2nd Class. The couple left for Philadelphia, where the groom is stationed.

The bride was graduated from Decorah High School and the groom from the Prairie High School, Cedar Rapids.

The groom's parents were hosts to the bridal dinner at the Cliff House, Decorah, following the wedding rehearsal.

Mission Work in China Discussed At WSCS Meeting

"Christians on the Roof of the World" was the topic presented by Mrs. Bruce Jarvis, St. Paul, to members of the Women's Society of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guild members at the combined dinner meeting Thursday. The meeting was held at Central Methodist Church in the Ladies Parlor.

Mrs. Jarvis spent almost 30 years in mission work in China before the present regime made Americans unwelcome.

Prior to her marriage she served as a Presbyterian missionary in Nanking. After leaving China in 1949, the Jarvises work for three years in a Methodist Mission Hospital in India.

UPON THEIR return to the U.S. in 1953, Dr. and Mrs. Jarvis worked in the medical offices of the National Council of Churches of Christ and Methodist Board of Missions in New York City.

Since their retirement in 1958 they have made their home in St. Paul where they are members of the Central Park Methodist Church. In addition to her work in the WSCS of her local church Mrs. Jarvis is currently serving as district secretary of missionary personnel for the society.

Mrs. Jarvis told of missionary work being done in Nepal, a country the size of the state of Illinois, lying along the north-eastern rim of India. "The thing which opened up Nepal," she said, "was the interest of the missionary, Dr. Robert Fleming, in making a bird collection for the Chicago Museum of Natural History."

"PRESENTLY the United Nations in Nepal has 22 different denominations and missions with workers from 12 different countries. There are now schools, hospitals and agricultural advances evident as a result of mission work. Projects for malaria control, road improvement, telecommunications, village development and others are underway."

"In 1950, the first king to depose Ranos established himself as ruler. His son, Mahendra, ascended the throne at his father's death. He is now king of Nepal. At the time of his coronation, President Eisenhower asked Dr. Charles Mayo to go as a representative of the U.S. Dr. Mayo visited the King and Queen to visit in the U.S. at his home in Rochester which they did."

Mrs. Jarvis stated that mission work in Nepal differs from other locations in that Nepal has a law which does not permit a person to convert or be converted from one religion to another. This means Christian witness depend on the daily living of missionaries.

Miss Fern Ellison, a member of the guild, modeled an Indian sari, brought to the meeting by the speaker. A Bible and hymnal printed in Nepalese and objects of Indian brass were displayed from the collection of the speaker.

MRS. E. R. STREATER, WSCS president, presided at the business meeting and Mrs. Helen Warmack gave devotions.

WSCS members were in charge of the program and Wesleyan Guild members were hostesses for the dinner.

Mrs. E. Clayton Burgess entertained those of the group desiring further talk with the speaker at the parsonage following the meeting.

St. Matthew's PTA Hears Doctor Talk On Family Problems

St. Matthews PTA meeting for the month of January was held Thursday evening at the school with Dr. Paul Heise as guest speaker. He talked on "Christians View of Sex."

Dr. Heise emphasized the best way to explain sex to children is to have true love in the home. God has endowed Christians with sexual urge to serve his purpose, he said. Possessiveness and demanding habits are carried over from infancy into married life, the speaker pointed out.

Many marriages are ruined because of the partners not discussing problems with a Christian attitude, Dr. Heise asserted.

The Rev. Arnold Mennicke led devotions. Gerhard Schackelmann gave the school report and Howard Heup gave the report for the school patrol's basketball.

The ninth grade won the penny count for most parents present among the 50 persons attending.

Messrs. and Mmes. Emil Laak, Louis Caruso and Mrs. Dorothy Norton were in charge of refreshments.

Kermit Taylor Weds Miss Hoover In Lewiston Rites

LEWISTON, Minn. — Miss Donna Elaine Hoover, Rochester, Minn., daughter of Clyde A. Hoover, St. Croix Falls, Wis., became the bride of Kermit Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Taylor, Lewiston, Dec. 29.

The Rev. Clarence Riske, Altura, Minn., officiated at the ceremony in Bethany Moravian Church, near Lewiston.

Brushed ivory brocade was used for the bride's floor-length sheath gown. A full train was draped from the shoulder.

Mrs. J. Ramsey Gibson, Eau Claire, Wis., was her sister's matron of honor and Miss Lois Taylor, bridesmaid. Richard Skjeic, Rochester, was best man and Dennis Taylor, Rapid City, S. D., groomsmen. Allan Simon, Altura, and Fred Prudoch, Winona, ushers.

A reception was held in the church basement.

The bride is a graduate of St. Croix Falls High School and is employed as a medical secretary in Mankato, Minn., where the couple will make their home. The groom graduated from Lewiston High School, Lee Barber School, St. Paul, and is presently a student at Mankato State College.

Gay Young Fashions Seen In New York Style Showing

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Designer Oleg Cassini sent his pert, ingenue models onto the runway Thursday in a gay, successful, and much less expensive young America collection.

Military feeling crossed with the easiness of Coco Chanel is the way Cassini described the loop braided, brass-buttoned pastel suits.

There followed a parade of figure-skimming linen dresses, fitted black cocktail dresses, and cheerful cardigan-coats with paisley lining matching dresses.

Sun glasses, shaped into long narrow slits, goggles or giant sunflowers, and military tams, berets and bretons were other Cassini styles for spring.

Designer John Weitz whipped up a few expensive versions of the bathrobe for use anywhere but in the bathroom. He designed bathrobe jacket - suits and lounging clothes to be stepped into, as well as zipper-torn shifts.

Among his nonsports clothes was the nongolf jacket—a blouson-zipped jacket, skirt and scarf made of an off-course floral patterned fabric.

Eric Lund had his fun with deceptive coming-or-going coats which are built split-level to look like suits from the front view. Double vision, or photos out of focus, was the effect of his two-layered two colored chiffons and organzas.

At the closing session of the American design preview, Norman Norrell presented the travel suit — creased slacks and checked mannish jacket. The collection also included a knitted, short-jacketed suit, classic cape suit and three-tone dinner gown with jersey tank top, huge sash and floor-length skirt.

Mr. and Mrs. Gadow are at home at St. Paul Park.

New Way of Setting Off Nuclear Blast

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Science Writer
LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP)—Scientists are perfecting a new and top-secret way of producing nuclear blasts that could have a profound effect on both military and peaceful uses of the atom.

This is the primary reason an obituary has been written for Project Plowshare, a giant-scale, earth-moving scheme literally driven underground by the 1963 limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

Instead, the Atomic Energy Commission has extended its study of the problems of digging a second Panama Canal — a project once considered impossible because of the hazard of radioactive fallout.

Although AEC officials cannot discuss military applications, it is obvious that development of low — radioactivity weapons would have a vital significance in wartime: key enemy installations could be destroyed with less contamination of adjacent areas; troops could use atomic artillery with less fear of being themselves wiped out by a change of wind direction.

Dr. Gerald Johnson, associate director of the University of California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, which runs Project Plowshare for the AEC, said the "cleaner" technique results from information learned in recent underground tests of military weapons in Nevada, combined with data from a 1962 Plowshare blast that opened a crater three blocks wide and a block deep.

Although a 100-kiloton hydrogen device — equal to 100,000 tons of TNT — was set off in that test, code-named Sedan, radioactivity was kept remarkably low.

Less than 30 per cent of the total yield was from fission — an atom-fissioning or splitting process that produces much "dirty" radiation when particles of the atom fly out in all directions.

The rest of the yield was from fusion. In this relatively clean explosion, atomic nuclei are thrown together so hard they fuse and collapse. This collapse releases great amounts of energy in the form of heat, pressure and short-lived radiation, but very little long-lasting contamination.

In the Sedan shot, Johnson said, more than 90 per cent of the fission-produced radioactivity was trapped underground by earth falling back down into the crater.

"We had just completed a two-year study of the feasibility of a canal across the isthmus which showed we could cut a new canal for less than the cost of widening the old one — and still keep radioactivity within reasonably safe limits," he said.

"Now, on the basis of our new experience, we are reviewing the project again and I think we will come up with an even better safety factor."

Last Oct. 10, the major nations of the world signed a treaty banning nuclear testing in the air, sea and space.

On the surface, at least, Project Plowshare — on which more than $35 million had been spent — came to an abrupt halt. Above-ground explosions, with the kind of devices then in existence, were prohibited.

John Kelly, director of the AEC's division of peaceful nuclear explosives, says "I am very optimistic that we will be able to do some cratering tests under the treaty. There is no doubt that the goal of achieving an excavation technology by 1967 has slipped, but I don't think anyone can say at this time how far.

"The treaty language is not black and white — there's a large gray area yet to be defined. But one method is definitely open to us: The deep underground, fully contained explosion which will permit continued development of the cheaper, cleaner devices that would be needed for such projects as the canal."

The treaty specifically prohibits any nuclear testing in sea, air or space. That would seem to leave the way open to underground testing, but when the question arises: What is meant by "underground" — would a few shovelful of dirt thrown on top of the device meet the terms of the treaty?

An apparent attempt to forestall any such interpretation lies in a further injunction against any explosion which "causes radioactive debris to be present outside the territorial limits of the state under whose jurisdiction or control such explosion is conducted."

Dr. Johnson said he personally thinks the 1962 Sedan test qualifies as an underground shot.

"The device was buried 635 feet deep, and although it threw up a dust cloud 12,000 feet high so far as we know there was no fallout beyond the boundaries of the United States," he said.

He said it was obvious, however, that a row of such shots across Panama or any other Central American country would cause fallout far beyond its borders.

In a further indication of hopefulness Johnson said, "It seems to me the treaty has two basic intents: To reduce world political tension and to reduce radioactive contamination. I believe Project Plowshare eventually will be able to achieve its goal of moving large amounts of earth cheaply and safely without affecting either tension or contamination.

"If the dreams are bright enough, ways will be found to fulfill them."

ROBERT C. RUARK

GOP Needs New Deck

NEW YORK — Lord knows I like Ike, and I love that dame named Mame. (Both might remember I had something to do with the successful sloganeering.)

But I do not see the general as anything more than a retired President and a retired Chief of Staff. I certainly do not see him as the doyen of the party to which he actually defected. Ike was a Democrat once, remember?

From what I read the line forms to Gettysburg, seeking Eisenhower approval for possible shots at the Republican nomination. I am prepared to vote for Art Buchwald, if not for Harold Stassen, but I do not think that the Eisenhower stamp is necessary for the run.

Ike won a fine war. Ike kept us free from Adlai Stevenson. Ike made golf worthy of Scotty Reston. Ike endowed us with a freedom from excessive Presidential rhetoric. Ike kept Marnie at home. Ike was — is — pretty damned wonderful.

But I don't think we need him as a leader of the Young Turks. The Young Turks are having trouble enough already with Goldwater, Rockefeller and a lot of other people named Wilbur, including one retired named Harold Stassen. Not since they preme a t u r e l y exhumed A l f Landon has the GOP been so short of peanuts for the elephant.

What the party does not need is an elder statesman. Too many things people don't like are associated with the Republican past, and almost all of it is connected to failure.

Herbert Hoover, who collected a cold wind not of his own blowing, when he assumed responsibility for the Depression — which was certainly not of his own making — had the good grace to go fishing when he quit the executive office. Mr. Truman was a cantankerous fellow, but when he quit he basically quit. He just played citizen, and shot off his face when it pleased him. In any case he didn't try to organize the Young Turks.

As a MATTER of fact, I don't think Ike's trying to swing his weight very much, either. Certainly he didn't swing it for Dick Nixon when Richard was aiming for the succession. It appears now that all of the people are inferring that Ike's for 'em instead of agin 'em. The communications on Stassen's latest bid are the kind of mimeographs you send out in response to begging letters.

The Republicans, it seems to me, are standing sorely in the need of complete transtusion. They don't need a Queen Mother; what they need is a candidate. And they don't need a candidate who's been whipped to his knees so often that defeat is synonymous with his name.

I think Dick Nixon would be a good President, but his grin is sour with defeat. Tom Dewey would make a good President, too, but his mouth is full of ashes. Stassen has only narrowly missed being defeated for the office of dogcatcher. To announce his availability for the Presidential race, with the inference of Eisenhower backing, is about as ridiculous as if I stood for public office. I'd rather vote for Buchwald. At least he knows he's a comedian.

MISTER GENERAL, Eisenhower cannot, I think, nominate any of the aforementioned for endorsement. And I don't think he can do much for Mr. Rockefeller or Mr. Goldwater either. There is too much legend still fragrant with Ike's last administrative years, including the walkout at the summit.

As an inexpert observer of the political scene for the past quarter century, I really think the Republicans ought to concede the battle this trip, and spend the next four years building up a farm system, like the Yankees. Casey Stengel couldn't make the Mets go. Certainly Eisenhower can't make a Stassen or Dewey or Rockefeller or Nixon (the hot beat in his own state for governor) into a pennant contender.

What we need is a new coach, and a lot of hungry young people who don't know defeat, haven't been unpopularly divorced, and aren't members of a strict faith which has bylaws against Negroes and conflicting

Far Eastern Expert Lives With Danger

By SPENCER DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Roger Hillsman, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, is accustomed to living and dealing with crises. His prescription: Steady nerves.

With a wry smile, the Texas-born son of an Army officer tells his friends, "I don't have any trouble sleeping at night—I only have trouble getting to bed."

As the State Department's intelligence chief during the Cuban missile crisis, Hillsman, 43, managed only a wink or two per night over a six-day period. Again last November as top expert on Asian affairs, he virtually lived in the State Department's operations center during the Viet Nam crisis which brought the downfall and death of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Nhu.

Hillsman learned in World War II to live behind enemy lines. He was a battalion commander in Merrill's Marauders during the campaign between the Chinese and Burma.

"People who worried because there was no one to the right or the left, or behind them but enemy forces didn't last long," he recalls.

"Now as then, dealing with big and bold problems calls for steady nerves, with enough calmness and coolness so that a crisis does not wreck confidence in the policies you are carrying out."

A West Point graduate, Hillsman was a member of the faculty of international politics at Princeton's Center for International Studies from 1953 to 1958. Later he was a member of the Washington Center of Foreign Policy Research at Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies.

While serving with the Library of Congress, Hillsman wrote background and reference works for Lyndon B. Johnson and other senators.

He was appointed director of intelligence and research for the State Department in February 1961 and succeeded Waverell Harriman as assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs last April.

He is married to the former Eleanor W. Hoyt and they have four children.

Foreign Aid Slash Will Lengthen Danger, Claim

By SPENCER DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Asst. Secretary of State Roger Hillsman predicts that congressional cuts in foreign aid will lengthen the period of high risk and danger to Asian countries vulnerable to Communist aggression.

Hillsman, the State Department's top expert on the Far East, characterized the problems confronting this region as "big and bold." They could not be solved in 1964 or in any single year, he said in an exclusive interview.

"All you do with cutting in aid is to stretch out the time when some of these countries are vulnerable to communism and to stretch out the time when you are running high risks, stretching out the period of danger," he said.

"The more aid we have, the sooner we will solve some of these problems and the less time there will be risk and danger to the whole of our foreign policies and national security."

"So I think that an aid cut is a serious matter."

Hillsman was referring to the action of Congress in reducing the foreign aid program from an administration request of $4.5 billion to about $3 billion.

Hillsman said he has not detected any sign of moderation on the part of Communist China's present leaders. Among the unsolved basic problems of the Far East, he also cited Communist aggression, poverty, the need for modernization and development.

Highlights of Hillsman's replies to questions follow:

Q. South Viet Nam—Is the situation worsening?

A. I don't think I would agree with the latter judgment. We have always been aware that the most serious area of all in Viet Nam was the delta. The war effort and the attempt to extend security to the countryside has gone very well in the coastal regions and the mountain provinces. There has been a change of government there which means that there is a period, which we are still in where the new government has to get itself fully organized.

The Viet Cong, the Communists, have attempted to take advantage of this by stepping up their military campaign. The new government has also stepped up its military campaign to a higher level. As a consequence there are more battles and more casualties. Actually the casualty rate between the Viet Cong and the government has turned more in the favor of the government in these last three years. Whether this will remain, we will have to see. I would sum up by saying that there is a serious problem in the delta but I believe it can be resolved.

Q. What do you think of efforts to neutralize South Viet Nam?

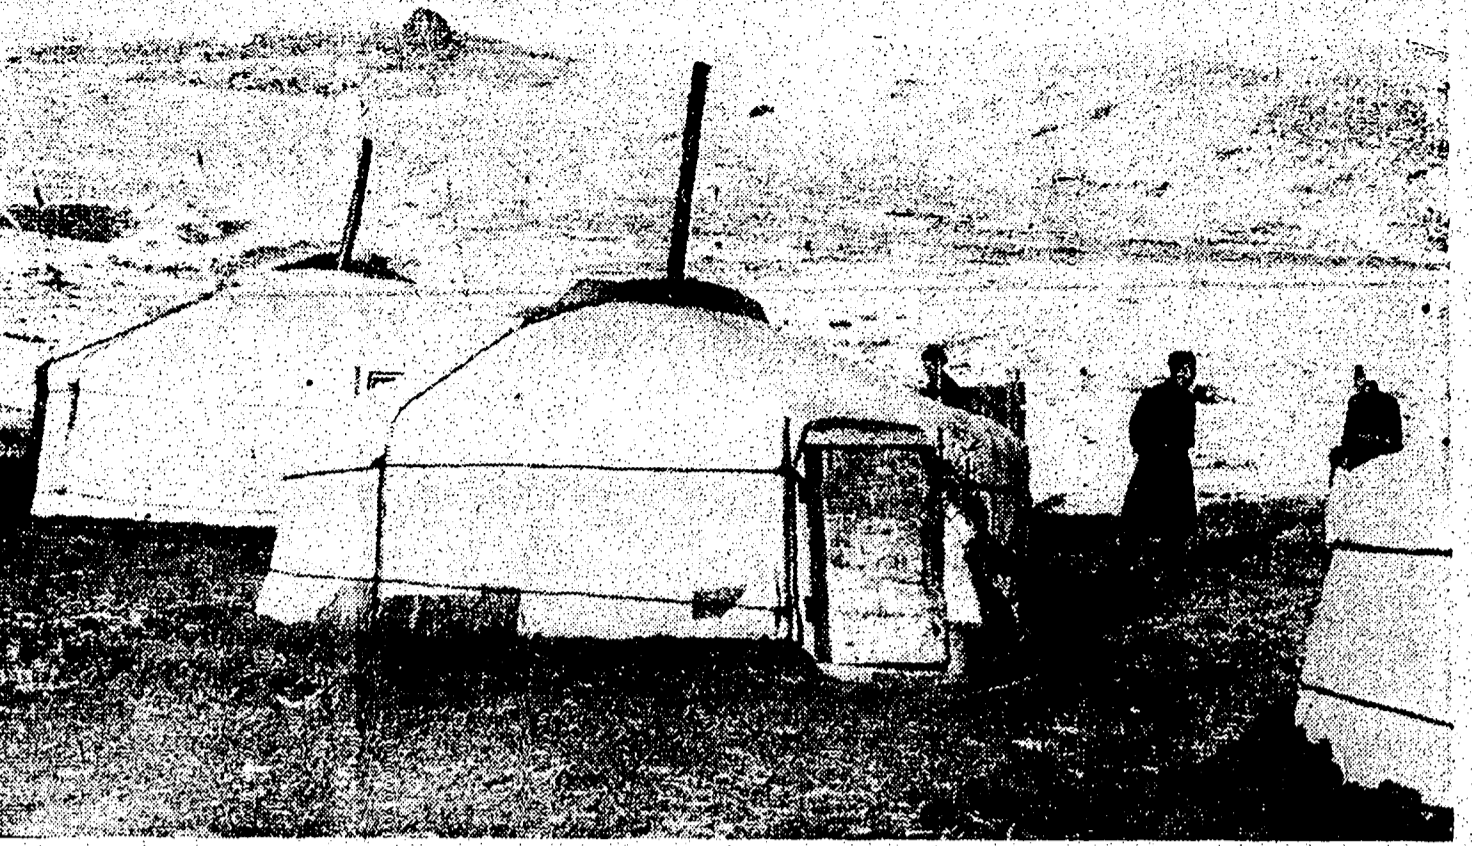

A. On the question of applying a neutrality scheme to Viet Nam, this is totally unacceptable.

Q. Is there any way the United States can join in an international inspection and guarantee of Cambodia's borders?

A. Since 1954, Cambodia has declared it would follow a neutralist policy. We have always accepted this and always assumed that this was a central theme of our Cambodian foreign policy. As far as more recent proposals go these will have to be looked at very carefully, it seems to me.

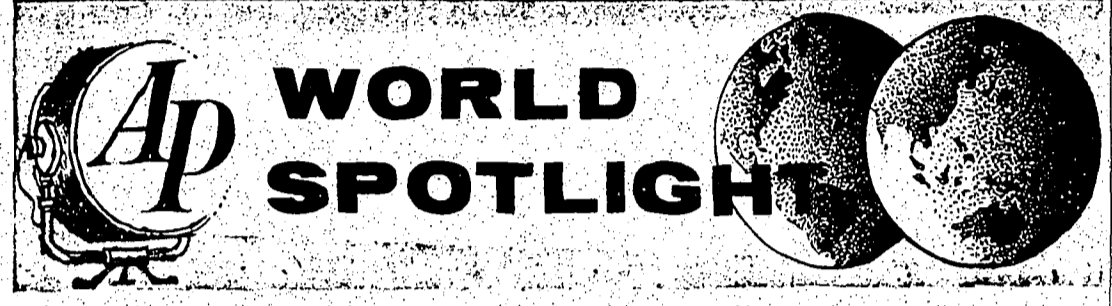

Q. On Communist China do you see any trend in the direction of moderation that might evolve among Chinese Communist leaders. In your recent speech on the open door policy toward Communist China were you talking in the historical sense of a trend that might take place?

A. I didn't use the word moderate or "moderation" and I really don't expect this out of the Chinese Communists. The speech enunciated a policy of firmness, flexibility and dispassion. Firmness in our support of the Republic of China on Taiwan (Formosa) and of our commitments to them and our determination to honor these commitments. Firmness in dealing with any aggression from the Chinese Communists; flexibility, to keep an open door to developments in this part of the world, and in terms of looking at developments coolly and objectively; and dispassion in terms of not being ruled by emotion as you deal with complicated problems.

Queen of Greece Waits for Lunch

By EDDY GILMORE
ATHENS (AP)—"Please remind papa that it's twenty minutes to two," said Queen Frederika of Greece, "and that we're hungry."

Princess Irene stood up, smiled and walked quickly through a door towards the office of her father, King Paul, in Tatoi Palace, 18 miles north of Athens.

"My husband," explained the queen, "is having his audiences and they seem to be taking an unusually long time today. Normally we lunch at 1:15."

Reappearing on the sunlit porch, Princess Irene said: "I'm sorry, but papa's not through yet."

"In that case," sighed the queen in a voice of royal resignation, "I suggest we have another sip of champagne."

"Is there something amusing?" she asked.

"Well, ma'am, if you'll forgive me—"

"Yes, go on."

"Well, I'd heard you wear the pants in this family."

"Ha," was her quick comment.

"I don't think you do."

"You mean because my husband is keeping us waiting?" she asked with a twinkle in her soft expressive eyes.

"It's supposed to be a fairly infallible test, ma'am."

"I don't know about that, but I don't wear the pants as you put it. For one thing, he's (the king) been in the business a lot longer than I have. And for another, this is an understanding family."

At 62, King Paul is 16 years older than his German-born queen. When they first met, he was 25—almost at his 25th birthday—and she was 10, a granddaughter of the Kaiser, and a great granddaughter of Queen Victoria of Britain.

Looking forward to a new trip to the United States, this time to receive an honorary degree from Barnard College in New York, the queen earlier had talked freely in an interview of a number of personal subjects.

"I don't know why I'm called controversial," she said, "I've never been a controversial figure in my life."

She was told that certain persons have said that she once belonged to a Hitler youth organization when she was a girl in her native Germany.

"Yes," said the 46-year-old queen, "I'd like to tell you about that."

She sat on a small sofa. Beside her was her daughter, Princess Irene, a bright-eyed, slim, young woman with light eyes and hair the color of a pot of honey in the sunshine.

"I was about 14," recalled Queen Frederika. "My home was a huge castle. I seldom saw another child. Sometimes I longed desperately for playmates."

"The only children I really ever played with were the children of our servants. One day I saw them dressed up in some sort of uniform and I asked if I too might not have such a uniform."

Saying she could not remember all the details, she went on: "I recall two strange looking females coming to see my parents. They must have asked permission for me to join up, for it was after this that I was allowed to go off once a week with the servants' girls to meetings. We were dressed in uniforms—Hitler's youth—obviously."

How long did she attend such meetings?

"For six or eight months—as well as I can remember."

"And the political effect of them?"

"The political effect on a 14-year-old girl? I can't even remember if there was any such thing. As far as I remember, I was just going along with the other girls—and this and this only—was what gave me fun. In any case, it was right at this time that my parents packed me off to a girl's school in England."

Young Frederika had a distinguished school career in Britain, rising to that most enviable of all student positions—head girl.

This was at a school in the old Dickensian town of Broadstairs. The school was North Foreland Lodge.

Frederika was a beautiful and vivacious young woman when she married Prince Paul, brother of the late King George II of Greece. Prince Paul was the crown prince.

It was as the crown princess that Frederika, her husband and her then two children, fled the advancing German army in World War II.

Paul returned to Greece with his wife, son and two daughters in the wake of the war. He and Frederika waded into the struggle that was going on during the Communist rebellion.

At considerable personal danger, Frederika insisted on accompanying her husband to the front lines. Even her critics will not deny that she was—and is—adored in the Greek villages and countryside.

Lodge Wrapped Up in Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge is wrapped up these days in Vietnamese affairs—probably more so than any American official who has served here in the nine years of Vietnamese independence.

The New Englander has been on the job as U.S. ambassador nearly five months. President John F. Kennedy decided in June to name him, and Lodge came to Saigon Aug. 22.

There is no question that Lodge has stature in the eyes of Vietnamese officials. Some Vietnamese go so far as to say the provisional government would collapse without Lodge's initiative and support. This may be an overestimate of Lodge's real authority here. U.S. foreign policy is often judged in terms of the individuals who carry it out.

Recent rumors that Lodge might leave Saigon and actively seek the Republican presidential nomination created concern in some quarters here. But Lodge has said he has no intention of leaving Saigon for the time being and has no plans for seeking the nomination. He shrugs off close questioning about any future political plans.

Lodge is 61. He was Republican candidate for vice president in 1960. Under President Dwight D. Eisenhower he was U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Salgon was under martial law when he arrived in August. His motorcade swept through dark, deserted streets from the airport, skirting barbed-wire barricades and roving armored cars. The previous day President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, had raided Buddhist pagodas. The nation was in crisis.

After a night's sleep Lodge made his first "protocol visit" to two of Diem's Buddhist opponents. He went to the U.S. aid mission to check on the welfare of two monks who had leaped to safety from the wall around their raided pagoda and had received asylum with the Americans.

Lodge's visit to the monks was regarded by the Diem government as an open provocation, but the new ambassador made it plain he had not come to Saigon to make polite, diplomatic talk.

The main American lever against Diem's domestic tactics was economic. Washington decided to halt the biggest part of economic aid to Saigon until the Diem government changed its methods.

The Diem regime regarded Lodge as a dangerous enemy, despite the polite things the government said about him in public.

The Nov. 1 coup that destroyed Diem brought no relaxation to the ambassador.

A new Vietnamese government with no really strong political leaders had bloomed overnight. Communist guerrilla forces pounced on every weakness they could find in the new regime and opened a major military offensive. The situation continues to have many grim aspects from the West's point of view.

Viet Girl Killed In Saigon Blast

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A bomb exploded outside a Saigon bar Thursday night, killing a 13-year-old Vietnamese girl and a Vietnamese man and wounding seven American servicemen slightly.

The terrorist who placed the bomb against the outside wall of the bar escaped. The girl was playing nearby.

Since the beginning of the automotive manufacturing industry in the United States in 1890, more than 200 million vehicles have been produced.

Few Americans Visit Mongolia

(Editor's Note: Mongolia, the giant land which lies between Siberia and China, is seldom visited by American reporters. For one thing, the United States does not recognize Mongolia and visas to enter the country are not easy to obtain. This dispatch is by the AP's chief of bureau in the India-Pakistan area. He went into Mongolia via the Soviet Union.)

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
TSETSERLEG, Mongolia (AP)—Dashdorji lives in a yurt. In the spring he takes the canvas and then the felt off its wooden frame, dismantles the frame in about 30 minutes and is ready to move his home. He mounts his small, rugged Mongolian horse and drives 130 cows to summer pasture.

There, Dashdorji puts up the circular yurt in about 40 minutes and moves in. When autumn comes, maybe sooner if the pasture is poor, he moves again.

Dashdorji's ancestors have been living this way in Mongolia for centuries. But Dashdorji is no primitive nomad.

He sleeps in a metal frame bed and listens to a battery-operated radio. His wife has a sewing machine. His 20-year-old son is studying geology in Moscow. Another son, 15, is studying to be an engineer in Ulan Bator, capital of the Mongolian People's Republic.

In four years his daughter now 4, will leave home to attend school at the headquarters of a cooperative of which Dashdorji is a member.

The cooperative is about 25 miles west of Tsetserleg, a provincial capital of about 13,000 persons, and 325 miles west of Ulan Bator.

Dashdorji currently is camping in a mountain-rimmed meadow over a mile high. Ten of the cows are owned by four families, the other 120 by the cooperative—part of the cooperative's 84,000 head of livestock on 1.225 million acres. Dashdorji is paid for tending the cows.

Despite increasing industrialization and agricultural development, Mongolia is still primarily based on livestock economy. Sheep, goats, cows, horses and two-humped camels thrive on sweeping plains and broad valleys that look a lot like Montana.

The government has organized all the rural people of Mongolia's 1.02 million population into about 350 cooperatives and 25 state farms.

In addition to schools, the buildings of Dashdorji's cooperative include a hospital, veterinary station, cinemas and other facilities. This is the permanent core manned by 2,800 persons for the shifting system of pasturing the livestock by the other 2,000 cooperative members.

Canadian Jets to Get Nuclear Bombs

OTTAWA (AP) — Nuclear warheads for Voodoo jet interceptor squadrons at three Canadian bases probably will be delivered late this year, it was announced Friday.

Nuclear weapons storage facilities for the CF101 Voodoos will be built at Chatham, N.E., Bagotville, Que., Comox, B.C.—all Voodoo squadron bases— and at a deployment base at Val d'Or, Que., a spokesman said.

South Korean Chief Asks Belt-Tightening

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—South Korean President Chung Hee Park told his people Friday "poverty stares at us from all sides today" and called on them to tighten their belts and work harder.

Giving his first state of the nation speech to the National Assembly, Park said he would uphold the principles of free economy in combating the economic difficulties.

Being Blind No Jury Duty Excuse

LEICESTER, England (AP)—John Coles, 57, applied Thursday for exemption from jury duty. He pointed out that he is blind and virtually deaf.

The town clerk's office refuse saying that was insufficient excuse. Coles asked his member of Parliament to do something about it.

Betancourt Raps Sales to Cuba

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—With Britain, Canada and Spain as his chief targets, President Romulo Betancourt told a news conference Thursday night nations that do business with Cuba won't be allowed to trade with Venezuela.

Betancourt, one of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's bitterest enemies, cited sales of British buses and Spanish and Canadian ships to Cuba.

Western Girls Can't Show Off Knees in Russia

By ANTHONY WHITE
MOSCOW (AP) — Western girls' knees are raising Russian eyebrows in Moscow.

It's not just the Russian women who are complaining. The men are, too.

The trouble centers on a clash of customs: In the Soviet Union it is considered not polite or decent for a woman to show her knees.

Thus, you never—or almost never—see a Russian woman cross her legs in public.

No matter how gracefully a Western girl manages it, she invariably draws looks of astonishment and disapproval.

A young English girl who relaxed while sitting in a Moscow subway train caught a sharp reprimand from a well-covered Soviet matron.

The Russian woman leaned forward in her seat and told the girl, who was sitting opposite, "Uncross your legs—it is not decent to sit like that."

The girl did as she was told. "It's absurd," she said later. "You see women sprawled with their legs apart—most undignified and unladylike by our standards—and yet they object if you show a little knee."

The Russians have a passion for concealment—yet it has its contradictions. Russian women think nothing of going to the beach clad in panties and bra.

To prevent clashes with Soviet sensibilities, diplomats have given their female employees some advice on what not to wear in Moscow.

Definitely out are very bright women stockings, tights and ski pants.

Tights and ski pants are too revealing, Russians think.

Another Western girl working here went for a walk wearing bright red woolen stockings. She had brought them from England especially for the Russian winter.

"They crowded around me everywhere I went," she said. "They gesticulated and nudged each other. Some laughed. Others seemed outraged. Even men."

Later the reason for the Russian interest was made clear: In the old days Russian prostitutes wore red stockings to advertise.

"I just daren't wear them again," the girl giggled. "I almost caused an international incident."

Nehru Sicker Than Public Led to Believe

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indications mounted Saturday that Prime Minister Nehru is sicker than official statements have led the Indian public to believe.

A government publicity officer warned that photographs of the 74-year-old Indian statesman will not be permitted when he returns to New Delhi. He has not been photographed since taken ill on Tuesday in Bhubaneswar where his wily Congress party held its annual meeting.

Indian totem poles served as coats of arms, banners, story-books—even as notices of unpaid debts. Totem carving became a fine art when Europeans gave northwest coastal Indians their first steel tools.

30 Feared Lost On Niger River

Galesville Man Gets Prayer Art From Norwegian

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special)—In a round-about manner from halfway around the globe, Arthur Giere, Galesville, has received a copy of the Lord's Prayer, hand lettered in Latin and decorated with the religious symbols in color.

The attractive prayer was lettered and signed by I. Bromes, a young Norwegian girl. She gave it to Bishop Stoylen of the state Lutheran church. The bishop sent the prayer to his brother, Sigvalde Stoylen, an English professor at the University of Minnesota.

Stoylen knew who would be most pleased to receive the prayer. Giere had written an article on the origin and history of the Lord's Prayer last year for a Masonic magazine.

Giere will display the prayer in his hobby room at his home, 306 French Road.

Giere speaks, writes and reads in Norwegian, although the Giere families have been in America 109 years. Giere's father was a pioneer settler in Rock Dell, Minn., near Rochester.

Johnson Takes Panama Crisis In Day's Stride

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was Lyndon B. Johnson's first day of foreign crisis as President. Yet bloodshed in Panama took up less than half his working day, and he took time for an afternoon nap.

Aides said Johnson remained unruffled and relaxed Friday as he dealt with the explosive Panamanian problem, the first international blip during his seven-week-old administration.

The President's schedule, although rearranged to make room for policy conferences on Panama, gave credence to Johnson's reported air of calm.

In many ways, it was business as usual at the White House. Johnson held two long meetings on economic affairs, talked to a couple of ambassadors home for consultation, took part in a ceremony of only passing interest, and had an unburied chat with a famed old Democrat, James A. Farley of New York.

The Panama crisis was the single dominant topic on the presidential agenda. It forced Johnson to make some quick policy decisions of real moment.

Still, one of his associates said the total amount of time Johnson spent on the Latin American explosion was more than exceeded by the time he devoted to other matters.

Johnson spent the noon hour talking with his principal economic advisers about the U.S. balance of payments problem and domestic interest rate levels.

Then Director John Gleason of the Veterans Administration handed the President a $55.20 dividend check on Johnson's GI insurance policy.

The chief executive finally got to the White House living quarters for a lunch break about 2 p.m. He stayed away from the office for nearly three hours, spending about an hour napping.

Later, he met with Farley, 75, an erect, ruddy-faced businessman who was President Franklin D. Roosevelt's postmaster general. Johnson handed Farley a commission as honorary postmaster for the 1964 New York World's Fair.

Before returning to the living quarters about 8 p.m., Johnson spent two hours going over drafts of the budget message he will send to Congress Jan. 21.

Transportation Club to Install

Foster Care For Elderly Discussed

An increasing need for foster care for the county's elderly was discussed Thursday by the Winona County Welfare Board.

William P. Werner, director of the county welfare department, said there is a growing number of aged men and women in need of a family kind of situation in which to live.

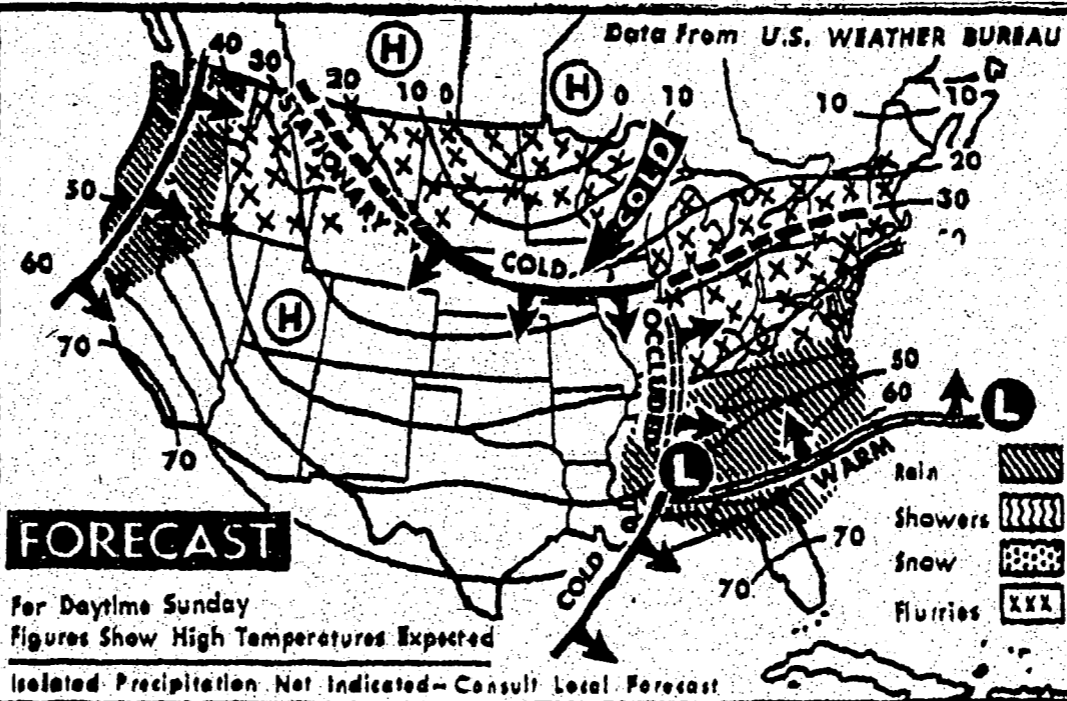

These persons do not require the constant care and frequent medical attention that a nursing home would provide, Werner said. They do, however, need security and some help with the routine tasks of day to day living, he explained.

Werner said that there are hundreds of elderly men and women in the county, now living alone, who could benefit from such a foster care plan.

Werner also reported to the board on routine matters handled by his department since the board's last meeting. These included settlement of several old age assistance real estate liens and studies of prospective adoptions made for a court.

The board approved payment of the department's routine bills.

The United States exported $5.1 billion in farm products in 1962.

WEATHER FORECAST A widespread area of precipitation is expected east of the Mississippi valley today. Rain is forecast for coastal sections of middle Atlantic states to northern Florida. Snow and snow flurries are slated from upper Lakes region through Ohio and Tennessee valleys to north and central Appalachians. Occasional rain and showers will fall along northern Pacific coast with light snow and snow flurries from northern Rockies to northern plains. (AP Photofax Map)

Powdery Snow, Cold Weather Grip Winona

A fine powdery snow sifted out of the clouds over Winona Saturday and more of the same is in store for the area today.

The thermometer, destined to hit the 8-18 below zero mark during the night, was not expected to get much above zero this afternoon and the fine snow was slated to continue much of the day.

Below-normal temperatures are expected Monday but no significant precipitation is likely, said the weatherman.

WINONA, which had a high Friday afternoon of 15, saw the temperature drop to 10 Saturday morning, rise to 17 in the afternoon and drop down to 10 at 6 p.m.

Although all the rinks were open, the cold northwest wind cut skating crowds to the real hardy at most places.

Driving remained hazardous with slippery stretches on main highways and icy streets in the city.

ALL MAIN highways were open but drifting was reported a problem in many places and motorists were urged to use caution by the highway departments of both Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The slippery conditions were more noticeable on secondary roads.

Lowest reading in Minnesota Saturday was -28 at Bemidji. International Falls had -22 and Duluth -10.

A year ago today the Winona high was 23 and the low 11. The alltime high for Jan. 12 was 46 in 1896 and the low for the day -26 in 1912.

Mondovi-Naples FU Unit Elects

GILMANTON, Wis. (Special)—Three delegates and three alternates to the Wisconsin Farmers Union convention at Madison Feb. 16-18 were elected by the Mondovi-Naples local Friday evening.

Delegates are Mrs. Rangmar Sigerstrom and Martin Heike, Mondovi, and Ed Linse, Albia, Alternates are Mrs. Ralph Sigerstrom, Carl Pabst and Melvin Ruteschow, Mondovi.

Junior officers elected at the meeting included Neil Sigerstrom, Mondovi, president; Eugene Puhl, Mondovi, vice president, and Ellen Quarberg, Mondovi, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Helwig reported on the national NFO convention at Des Moines in November.

It was reported that a new county plat book has been published, sponsored by the Buffalo County Association of Cooperatives. The book will be sold by 4-11ers.

Dakota Residents Provided Area For Winter Sports

DAKOTA, Minn. (Special)—A recreation area for winter sports has been provided by the Dakota school board and interested officials.

An ice skating area, 85 by 200 feet, is kept in top condition, the ski slope is one area of the large school ground and a sledding area is on the other slope. The entire area is fenced in, there's no vehicular traffic, there's a shelter and the skating area is lighted. It does not have a heating system, nor an attendant, but it does provide a place for sports enthusiasts to change skates, adjust winter clothing, or just "to warm up."

Public participation in accident prevention and in passage of legislation that will help will be emphasized at a regional traffic safety workshop here Feb. 12.

Principal speaker at Pasture Hall, Winona State College, will be either Gov. Karl Rolvaag or Lt. Gov. A. M. Keith.

IT IS EXPECTED that Sen. Robert Dunlap, Plainview, member of the interim highway commission of the legislature, will chair the workshop.

The general meeting will be at 6 p.m., followed by a dinner at Richards Hall and simultaneous sessions, one for adults, one for youths.

Coordinator of this workshop and eight others in the state is the Minnesota Highway Department. Local sponsor is the Automobile Club Safety of Winona of which the Rev. A. U. Deye is chairman. Dr. Harry Jackson is workshop chairman.

"What Happened in '63?" is the workshop theme.

SPONSORS SAY: "If you are concerned about the loss of 42,000 lives in traffic each year —

"If you want to do something about that tremendous problem but aren't sure how —

"Then you need to attend the 1964 traffic safety workshop.

"We need to be united for action to save our own lives. Join other Minnesotans to help make our state the safest state."

"What happened to run up the worst traffic fatality record?"

"What happened to our accident prevention programs?"

"What happened to the many legislative proposals?"

"Whether you are a public official or a citizen member, a taxpayer or your community —

"Whether you are a professional man or laborer, student or retired, you must be a part of Minnesota's total attack against our disgraceful scourge — the No. 1 killer — traffic accidents."

ARCADIA, Wis. — The Arcadia City Council Thursday night appointed William Micek as supervisor to represent the 3rd Ward at meetings of Trempealeau County Board of Supervisors until a successor to the late Dr. W. E. English is chosen at the April 7 election.

John Hohmann, 3rd Ward alderman, has been serving as supervisor by certification of City Clerk Warren Shankey.

Council voted to bond the city treasurer for $66,855 to cover state and county taxes coming in.

A bartender's license was granted to Dennis Molszko.

A building permit for remodeling and a cigarette license were granted to Gerald Meyer, who recently purchased Andrew Karmla's Cafe. He has enclosed the cooking area, installed a U-shaped counter, put in new booths, paneled the walls, and put in new ceiling and floors.

Meyer, who runs the bakeries here and at Independence, opened the new cafe, the Tally-Ho, Jan. 6.

The application of Clifford Scharlau for placing a broader house next to his garage was tabled. Emil Fink originally applied for a permit to move this building from the country and place it at the rear of a service station as a tool shop.

The council withdrew restrictions on making U-turns at the intersection of Grant, Commercial and Washington streets with Main Street. This provision had been in effect since 1959.

"Jack" Ollom, Veteran Pilot, Dies Here

J. L. OLLOM

John L. "Jack" Ollom, 44, chief pilot for Watkins Products Inc., died Saturday at 2:20 p.m. at Community Memorial Hospital, following a heart attack. He was admitted Saturday as a transfer patient from a Rockford, Ill., hospital.

He had been a patient since Dec. 26 at Rockford, where he made an emergency landing after suffering an apparent heart seizure while flying two company officials to Peoria, Ill. Although he became ill while in flight, his landing at Rockford was described by his passengers as perfect.

Mr. Ollom had been with the Watkins company since 1945. He joined the firm shortly after his discharge from the U. S. Army Air Force with the rank of major. He had been commanding officer of a squadron of B-24 bombers in the 8th Air Force. He was a veteran of 29 missions, including some of the first daylight raids on Berlin and other German cities. He held the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with five oak leaf clusters.

His first experience was gained in 1938 with Max Conrad, who taught him to fly at the Winona airport. At his death, he held the rank of lieutenant colonel in the United States Air Force Reserve.

Mr. Ollom, the first pilot hired by the Watkins firm, was active in the affairs of the National Business Aircraft Association. During his tenure, the Watkins company won numerous awards for air safety from the NBAA. In September, 1963, he was presented the NBAA million-mile safe flying citation and had received awards each year since 1959.

One of the high points of his commercial flying career was a trip in the Watkins DC-3 to the Gettysburg, Pa., farm of President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1955. The plane transported a prize bear, presented to the President by a state swine breeders organization.

Mr. Ollom, who lived at 1714 Gilmore Ave., was born April 22, 1919, at Richfield, where he was reared by his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Olson. He was graduated before World War II from Winona State Teachers College and served four years with the U. S. Army Air Force. While serving as a flying instructor at West Point, he married the former Muriel Wandell, Newburgh, N. Y., March 14, 1943. The couple had lived in Winona for the past 19 years.

He was a member of First Congregational Church, Elks, American Legion and the Winona Country Club.

Mr. Ollom is survived by his wife, one daughter, Janet, one brother and four sisters.

Funeral services will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. at First Congregational Church, the Rev. Harold Rekdast officiating. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Friends may call at Fawcett Funeral Home Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. and at the church Tuesday after 1 p.m.

Police Report Two Accidents

Damage estimated at more than $200 resulted from the collision of two cars on Main Street, near West Howard Street, at 1:25 p.m. Friday.

Police reported James Pampuch, Winona Rt. 2, was backing out of a driveway when his car and an automobile driven by Lynn B. Florin, 628 E. Bellevue St., collided.

Damage to each car was estimated at more than $100.

Also completed Friday was the report of an accident which happened Friday afternoon at East Wabasha and Lafayette streets.

Alois Simonic, 476 Center St., was listed as the driver of an automobile involved in a collision reported by Mrs. Genevieve Eichmann, Galesville, Wis.

Damage to the Simonic car was estimated at $20.

Meeting Set For Fillmore Co. ARC

PRESTON, Minn.—The Fillmore County Association for Retarded Children will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the courthouse here.

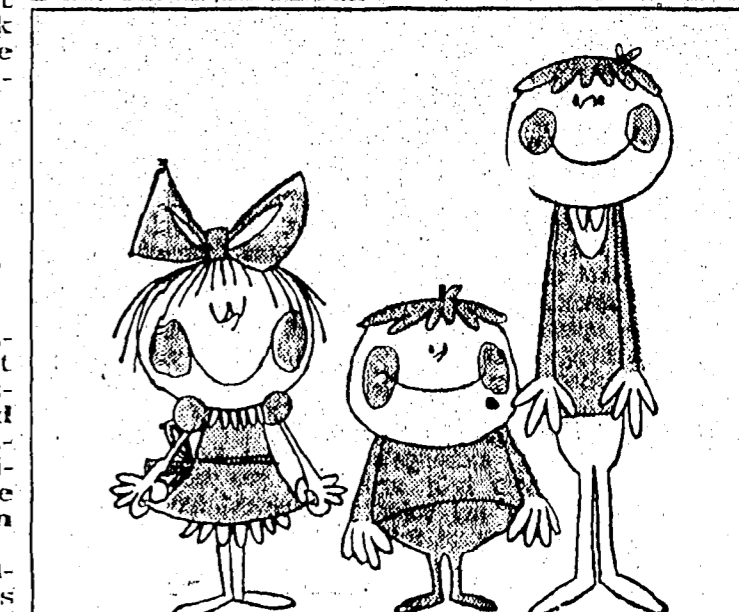

A 25-minute film, "The Innocents," made by the St. Paul ARC, will be shown. It tells what parents can do to adjust to their problems. It also discusses care in the home and nursery school facilities and points out how the community can share in the solution of this problem. Interested persons are invited.

Manned Satellite Stations Foretold

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The year is 1975. Several U.S. spaceships the size of house trailers circle the globe in an orbital pattern which keeps the entire earth under constant surveillance.

Each has a four-man crew. Two fly the craft and monitor instruments while the other two rest.

Suddenly, the captain of one ship spots scores of missiles blasting from a hostile country. He flashes an alert to the other ships. Those within range aim detection equipment at the missiles and determine within seconds that they are headed for the United States.

The spaceships, maneuvering at 18,000 miles an hour, launch deadly antimissile rockets at the enemy projectiles, destroying most before they've expanded their booster fuel. Other ships in the American patrol obliterate many of the warheads during the midcourse portion of their journey. And U.S. ground defenses wipe out many more.

Can manned satellites effectively carry out military missions of this type?

The Air Force long has said yes and has struggled for a military role in space. Last month the service won its argument and was assigned the multimillion-dollar task of developing a manned orbiting laboratory — known as MOL — to learn just what the military can do while orbiting 150 to 300 miles above the earth—the area considered vital for war operations.

As envisioned, the early MOLs will consist of a modified version of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's two-man Gemini capsule attached to a huge canister 25 feet long and 10 feet in diameter.

The Titan 3, now under development, will be the booster rocket. During the launching phase, the two-to-four-man astronaut teams will ride in the Gemini vehicle. Once orbit is achieved, they will transfer to the pressurized canister, where they will remove their space suits and operate in a shirt-sleeve environment.

After three or four weeks aloft, the astronauts will don space suits, slip back into the Gemini capsule and return to earth, leaving the canister in orbit.

In announcing the MOL decision on Dec. 10, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the first manned flight of the complete vehicle is expected late in 1967 or early 1968 after a number of unmanned launchings have qualified the equipment.

McNamara stressed the project is "an insurance program" to prepare the United States to launch manned space warships if the need should arise.

Basically, MOL will be a research program. It will add to the knowledge on how man can function for long periods in space; it will determine technical requirements for military missions, serve as a proving ground for components and systems which must operate in space for long periods, and will establish the configuration for military spacecraft.

Electronic Vengeance

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — John Yolton has struck back with electronic vengeance.

A few months ago, Yolton complained to Hayward police that dogs owned by next-door neighbor Dominic Magri were disturbing him with their howling and barking. Nothing happened.

So Yolton tape-recorded the doggy noises.

And, at 3 a.m. night after night, he played them back at full volume from a window facing the Magri home.

The Magri dogs don't bark when the tape recorder plays. They just listen to the recording of their own barking.

Now Magri has complained to police. Not to get Yolton arrested, he explains, but "just to set the record straight."

Polly Buck Called GOP Secret Weapon

Mrs. Polly Buck
GOP Secret Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans have a secret weapon, it developed today—a beautiful lady with mosaic eyes, Mrs. Polly Buck by name.

Mrs. Buck will call the roll of the states for the presidential nomination at San Francisco in July. The party high command is counting on her to help fetch the television audience.

Too bad there are not more color television sets, because black-and-white simply won't do justice to the subject.

Mrs. Buck's key role was revealed Thursday at a luncheon of the Republican National Committee. When the high-ups took their places at the head table, an excited murmur ran round the press tables:

"Who's the dame in green wool sitting beside Bill Miller?" (Rep. William E. Miller of New York, Republican national chairman.)

Nobody seemed to know, so an Associated Press reporter went up and talked to her.

She is 37, daughter-in-law of former U.S. Sen. C. Douglass Buck of Delaware, and she is now secretary of the Republican National Committee. She went to Bennington College, Vermont, but left to marry C. Douglass Buck Jr., now an

5 Named to State GOP Committee

ST. PAUL (AP) — Appointment of five persons on the Republican State Central Committee, governing body of the state Republican Party, was announced Thursday by Robert A. Forsythe, state party chairman.

Named were:

H. E. Westmoreland, Duluth advertising and public relations executive who was re-named to membership he has held since 1952.

Duane Lund, Staples superintendent of schools and former executive secretary to U.S. Sen. Edward J. Thye.

John Mooty, Minneapolis attorney who formerly was first vice chairman and chairman of the 1962 GOP state convention.

Robert C. Coborn, Sauk Rapids businessman and chairman of the Tri-County (Stearns, Benton and Sherburne) Republican work shop.

Robert A. Barrett, Mankato State College educator and charter member of the Republican Educators Council.

Kennedys Spending Sunday in Mountains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her two children, Caroline and John Jr., are spending the weekend at "Westford," their home on Rattlesnake Mountain near Atoka, Va.

This is the first trip to Atoka for the former first lady since her return last week from a year-end holiday stay at Palm Beach, Fla.

The newsman had difficulty deciding the color of her eyes, so he asked:

"Blue, or green," she replied. "Oh, just call them mosaic. They seem to be different colors."

The reporter explained that in interviewing beauty queens, it is mandatory to ask the measurements.

"I haven't the slightest clue," she said. "I haven't been measured lately."

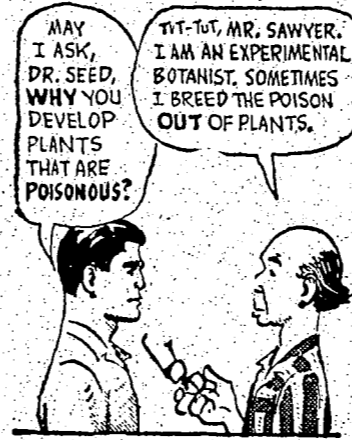

She does know, however, that she is 5 feet 6½ and weighs 129.

ON POST . . . Winonan Lee Huwald walks his sentry dog, Alf, along the crest of a blast barrier at Bitburg Air Base in Germany. The dog, one of two handled by Huwald while he was at the fighter-bomber and interceptor base, was a veteran of combat duty in the Korean conflict. This daylight walk at the airstrip was an exercise and not regular sentry post duty.

Military Dogs Stand Guard

Man's Best Friend a Formidable Foe

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Sunday Editor

TAKE 128 pounds of Golden Gloves boxer, add 85 pounds of German Shepherd dog and you've got a sentry team that would convince all but the most foolhardy that a "No Trespass" sign should be observed.

Air Force veteran Lee Huwald, now back in Winona after a tour of duty with the Air Police in Europe, for more than three years, was one of 53 handlers of military dogs in service at Bitburg Air Base in Germany.

One of this area's top amateur boxers, Huwald, who lives at 609 E. Second St., says he put in for duty as a sentry dog handler "because I liked dogs and, well, I thought it would be a good experience."

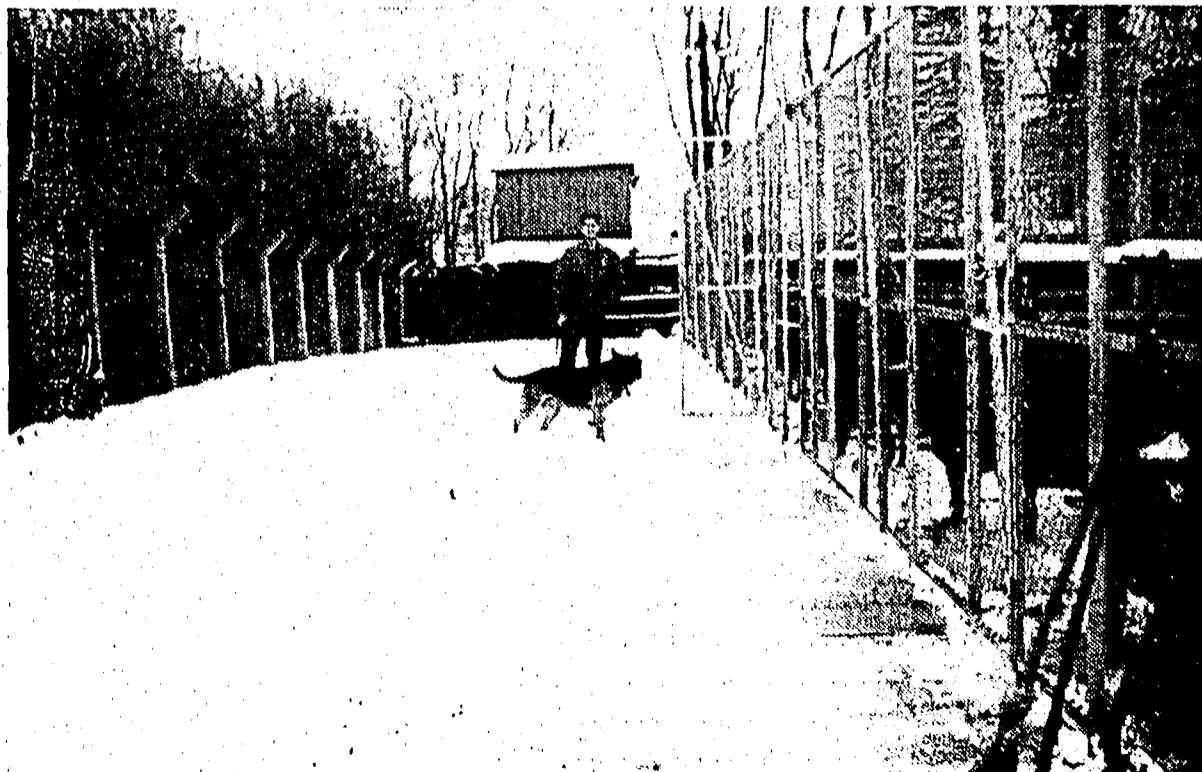

It was. Although you don't hear too much about the role of dogs in the nation's defense, members of the K-9 corps are on duty at America's far-flung military installations around the world and their training is as precise and demanding as that of any combat team.

The use of dogs in wartime is as old as warfare itself. The dog first was used in combat hundreds of years ago as a defensive aide. Later, equipped with armor and collar to which had been attached spikes and sharp knives, he took the offensive along side his master in attacks on the enemy.

Frequently, entire formations of attack dogs wearing armor and spiked collars were sent into battle for the sole purpose of harassing and causing a general disturbance along the enemy lines.

During World War II the United States alone employed about 10,000 dogs for sentry and combat duty, many of them cited for high honors for their actions in combat.

Huwald explains that, although other dogs are employed for military duty, the German Shepherd is to be seen most frequently at Army and Air Force installations.

CANINE BARRACKS . . . This is a portion of the kennel area at Bitburg Air Base where dogs trained for sentry duty are housed. More than 50 dogs handled by Air Police personnel are used at the base. Each specially trained handler is responsible for the training, care and, frequently, feeding of his dog.

HEARTY GREETING . . . Huwald's dog, Alf, snarls at a person who walked past his kennel lodging area. The dog was credited with two enemy kills while in service in Korea.

Today's Cover

Lee Huwald stands with his sentry dog at one of the gates to the Bitburg Air Base in Germany where Huwald was a member of an Air Police squadron assigned to handling military dogs.

LEFT . . . Huwald urges his dog to walk across a narrow rail structure on an obstacle course used in the training of military dogs.

The breed is favored for sentry work because the dog has a long, tireless gait, is strong, agile and well-muscled — and, most important, usually is exceptionally alert and fearless.

Generally speaking, he's not a vicious animal but all German Shepherds have a natural distrust of strange persons and strange situations. He has been found to be adaptable to varied climatic conditions because of his double coat; the outer coat is long, coarse and somewhat water resistant; the undercoat is soft, furry and thicker in the winter than in warm weather.

Huwald says it's difficult to tell whether the services are more demanding in their selection of prospective sentry dogs or candidates for duty as dog handlers.

Both must pass rigid physical examinations, both are scrutinized to make sure that their temperament and attitudes are those required for the duty they will be called upon to perform.

As for the handlers, Huwald says, "They really keep a close eye on you before and during training. They have to be certain that you'll be able to gain the confidence of your dog, that you have the patience to work with him and that you really want to do that kind of work.

Dogs, on the other hand, must display qualities of alertness, aggressiveness, vigor and responsiveness if they're to be accepted by the military. It's obvious that a timid, shrinking or cowardly dog would not be suitable for sentry work, nor would one that's found to be over-sensitive to noises such as gunfire or aircraft.

Huwald's first dog when he arrived at Bitburg was an 11-year-old battlewise combat veteran named Alf.

"That dog was a two-kill dog that had seen action in Korea,"

BELOW . . . The dog emerges from an underground tunnel through which he had crawled during a session on the obstacle course.

UP AND OVER . . . A sentry dog at his handler's command scales a wooden barrier on the obstacle course. Spotted along the course are barriers of various heights and other devices to keep the dog agile and train him on obeying commands.

GOOD BOY . . . An important part of every dog's training is an expression of praise when a job has been well done. Praise and repetition of actions are keys to training.

ON THE ATTACK . . . Alf lunges forward toward an agitator making an aggressive action while Huwald restrains the dog with the leash during a training period. Agitators use heavily padded clothing to protect themselves against the dog's attack.

NOT IN THE BOOKS . . . Assuming a bowing position on command is one of the extras Huwald trained his dog to do. This isn't one of the routines prescribed in the

Huwald recalled, adding with a smile, "I guess there wasn't much I could train him; it was more like he was training me."

Later, a younger animal, Alex, was assigned to him and remained as his charge during the remainder of his tour of duty.

Prior to field work with the dogs, handlers attend classroom sessions at which lessons are given in the general care — including first aid — feeding and training of sentry dogs.

Then the handler goes to the kennels to become acquainted with his dog.

"You start off slow at first," Huwald explains. "Maybe for the first several days you'll just stand around outside the fencing letting him get acquainted with you. You'll talk to him and after you've gotten to know each other a little you'll take him out for the first time. Usually the dog is muzzled when you put him on the leash the first time but there are some dogs that can be taken out unmuzzled."

Then follows a period of adjustment between handler and dog, days during which they'll go for walks together, maybe play a little but with only a minimum of training routine.

"You may do this for a week or so before you give the first command," Huwald says; "and more likely than not you'll get a growl when you try to make him obey. The important thing is to gain his confidence and respect."

The new team of man and dog then get down to the serious business of training by running a specially designed obstacle course. Around the course are various devices such as catwalks (you should excuse the expression), tires through which the dog is ordered to jump, underground tunnels into which he must crawl and networks of rails he is to walk.

"He's going to be scared," Huwald says, "and it's up to you to convince him that he can do these things and that you mean to have him do them. It's all a matter of repeating these same things until he'll obey your commands and giving him praise with a word or a pat when he does them."

The dog is ready for the next phase of his training when he is able to complete the obstacle course without an error. One mis-cue, though, and the trainer returns the dog to the start of the course and then entire run is repeated.

Now trained to obey commands, the dog is subjected to agitation, the first important step in his training as a sentry.

One of the handlers dons a padded uniform weighing something like 25 pounds and, while the dog's trainer maintains a grip on the leash, will simulate an attack on the dog and his master.

The snarling dog will leap at the aggressor and sink its teeth into the padding, attempting to wrestle his adversary to the ground or drag him back to his handler.

At the command of "Out!" spoken by his handler, the dog will release his hold on the attacker, but won't shift his gaze from the man, waiting only for the slightest move which would send him on the attack again.

GOOFING OFF . . . Clinging to the top of one of the barriers he's been ordered to hurdle, this dog appears to be trying to make up his mind whether the whole business is worth the effort . . . a thought that's entered the mind of many a GI during his basic training on the obstacle course.

This training routine — agitation and obstacle course — is repeated frequently to keep the dog at sentry readiness. And, there's always the word of praise for a job well done.

An 80-pound dog subjected to workouts like this eats well. Huwald says that, although the ration may vary in accordance with size or duty of the dog, an average of about three pounds of food is served each day to the military dogs.

They're fed well, too. As a matter of fact, the handlers' training manual section on feeding contains this statement: "Should an emergency situation arise whereby there is no commercial dog food available, your dog can get along very nicely on some of the same foods that you eat . . ."

But, then, we all have to put up with certain things in the service, don't we?

Photographs on these pages show something of the training routine for sentry dogs and were taken by Huwald and fellow handlers while he was stationed at Bitburg.

FUN FOOD

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

No finicky eaters in the home of this Winona housewife who encourages her children at an early age to know and enjoy foods that are best for them and their good health.

Shape Up After the Holidays

Start the Battle of the Bulge Early

Just before the holidays I had lunch with two trim and attractive young women, Mrs. Robert Lembkey and Mrs. James Robb Jr., and got from them some of their very sensible ideas on food. Both have young children, and they feel it's easy and practical to train the children in good food habits early so that they will avoid some of the American bugaboos like decayed teeth, and particularly obesity.

When you stop to think that about 70 percent of adult Americans are overweight and constantly fighting the battle of the bulge you will agree that these young women are very wise in starting their youngsters up the path that leads not only to good nutrition but to slimness. So today this column will present Beth Robb's ideas on the subject, with a few of her favorite recipes thrown in, and next week Dotty Lembkey's ideas.

The four blooming healthy little Robbs, Ricka, age 7; Becky, 6; Eve, 4, and Molly, 2½, are being trained by their mother to be "adventurous eaters" who like to try new foods. They are great milk drinkers — but their mother believes that the fat-making calorie-rich cream in whole milk contributes little nutritionally, and so she has brought them up on skim milk.

Emphasis in the Robb family has never been put on rich desserts, but if dessert is served it's usually fruit or fruit sauce. A slimming trick: Beth never makes thick gravy for meals but uses just the liquid meat juices with fat skimmed off. Here are a few of Beth Robb's ideas and some of her low-cal recipes which her family like especially well.

Favorite Bouillon Soup

Throughout the week save juices from canned vegetables, cooked potatoes and other cooked vegetables, leftover meat juice (with fat removed). Add 1 cup of this liquid to 1 bouillon cube to make enough basic broth for 1 person. Be careful about salt as cubes are highly salty. Add 1 tablespoon rice, noodles, macaroni, barley, etc., and, if you wish, a little cut up celery top or green onion, etc., for interest. Serve in mugs — it tastes more interesting.

Tomato Bouillon

Chop 1 onion and saute in 2 teaspoons butter. Add 6 cans tomato juice, 1 bay leaf, ½ cup chopped celery with leaves, ½ teaspoon oregano, salt and pepper to taste. The oregano gives it a fine flavor.

Cottage Cheese Dressing for Greens

Cream 8 ounces cottage cheese with a mixer until smooth. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice and a few drops of liquid sweetening (or a bit of sugar), ½ teaspoon salt, 1 small clove of garlic minced fine, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, some freshly ground pepper. Mix all together with mixer. Chopped cooked broccoli added to lettuce with this dressing is especially good. This entire recipe is only 200 calories, or 12 calories per tablespoon.

Sweet and Sour Red Cabbage

4 pounds red cabbage, ¼ cup water, ½ apple, peeled and cubed, 1 tablespoon flour, ¼ cup cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 teaspoon liquid sweetening, 1 teaspoon salt.

Wash the cabbage thoroughly. Shred medium fine and combine with the water and apple in saucepan. Cover and cook over low heat 10 minutes, mixing occasionally. Mix the flour, sugar, liquid sweetening and salt together. Pour over the cabbage, stirring constantly until the boiling point. Cover and cook over low heat 30 minutes. Taste for seasoning.

Stuffed Peppers

(Serves 6; 295 Calories)

6 large uniform green peppers, 3 onions, ¼ pound lean ground beef, 2 tablespoons uncooked rice, 2½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 egg beaten, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 can (No. 2½) tomatoes, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 teaspoon liquid sweetening.

Wash the peppers. Cut a 1-inch piece from the stem ends and reserve; carefully scoop out seeds and fibers. Grate one onion and mix with the beef, rice, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, the egg and water. Stuff the peppers and replace the tops firmly.

Slice the remaining onions. Melt the butter in a Dutch oven or heavy saucepan; saute the onions 5 minutes. Add the tomatoes, and remaining salt and pepper. Arrange the peppers in an upright position. Cover and cook over low heat 1¼ hours. Stir in the lemon juice, brown sugar and liquid sweetening. Cook 15 minutes longer, or until peppers are tender. Taste for seasoning; the sauce should have both a sweet and sour flavor. Skim the fat and serve.

MRS. JAMES T. ROBB JR., today's Fun With Food contributor, at her Glen Mary home.

Orange Dressing for Fruit Salads

Combine 1 cup orange juice, ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 teaspoons liquid sweetening (or sugar), 2 egg yolks beaten. Add to flour mixture gradually. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Cool.

Milk Chocolate Sauce for Ice Cream

1 tablespoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup skim milk, 1½ teaspoons liquid sweetening, 2 teaspoons butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon vanilla extract.

Makes 1 cup—15 calories in 1 tablespoon.

Mix the cornstarch, cocoa and sugar in a saucepan. Stir in a little milk, mixing until smooth. Gradually add the remaining milk, sweetening and butter. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick, about 5 minutes. Place over ice or in ice water and stir until cool. Add the vanilla. Serve cold with puddings, ice cream or cake.

American Fashion Gains Stature

1963... This Was the Year That Was BEFORE buckling down to 1964 business with bright-eyed and bushy-tailed fervor, I'd kind of like to lay '63 to rest by recapping its highlights.

In 1963 the stature and independence of the American fashion industry grew by leaps and bounds. While Paris remained the focus for haute couture, America continued to excel in ready-to-wear with the couture look.

The soft silhouette — the relaxed, natural fit with curved, stretched-out seaming — won out over the strict, molded-seam, tailored fit.

THERE WAS A GENERAL RETURN to naturalness — in figure control, in apparel, in makeup and grooming.

- Coats were shorter.
- Jackets were longer.
- Collars were higher.
- Shoulders were wider.
- Skirts were slimmer and straighter.

Long, generous sleeves staged a comeback. The fashion direction in 1963 was dictated more by time of day than by temperature or locale.

The male-inspired sportive look thrived by day, the ultra-feminine luxurious look by night.

There was a resurgence of interest at the top: Necklines were muffled by day, plunging by night.

Waistlines descended in the direction of the hip by day and climbed breastward by night.

Hemlines skimmed the knee by day and reached for the ground by night.

CRANBERRY RED, CHOCOLATE brown, and luminous green were the new color contenders for day wear; the violet-mauve-fuchsia family for after five. Black and white — the perennial evening champions — retained their crowns.

Suede became high fashion — versatile enough for day or evening.

- Tweeds were thicker, yet lighter.
- Knits were more textured and varied.
- Embroideries were richer.
- Laces were finer.

Wool emerged as one of the most dramatic fabrics for evening. Traditional seasonal taboos were ignored and a number of colors, fabrics, and patterns were acclaimed as year-round staples.

For day wear, colors were whitened and lightened. A surge of pales made blue and pink acceptable for the cooler months — and thus, for year-round wear.

Typically warm-weather patterns — such as hound's tooth checks and Glen plaids also became cool-weather favorites.

CHALK WHITE, OYSTER, BISQUE, and beige invaded the accessories field. The "little fur" — the brief jacket, the stole, the short cape — enjoyed a spurt of popularity.

The blazer with brass buttons and patch pockets was revived with a bang.

Most suits were coordinated costumes with their own overblouses — producing the three- and four-piece layered look.

Fake jewelry came in large chunks and vibrant hues.

Lightweight stretch fabrics scored in swimwear, foundations, lingerie.

Loungewear — soft, long colorful, romantic — came into its own as something quite different from lingerie.

Come to think of it, who said 1963 is a thing of the past? As you'll see in future columns, its influence is very much alive.

FASHION MIRROR

Sling it over your shoulder, dangle it from your wrist, or clutch the strap in the palm of your hand — but tote that bag and you'll be in style in town or out. You name the texture (take a gander at simulated reptile), the color (white's nice), the shape (have you seen the "shoehorn?"), and the size (choose between large, extra-large, and "back-up-the-truck") — but if it's a tote, your bag'll carry the popular vote.

FASHION TIP

Short-waisted damsels would do well to avoid strictly tailored costumes, belted outfits, tuck-in blouses — in short, anything which would clearly mark the natural waistline. But don't despair, the list of alternatives reads even longer; the shift, the Empire, the princess, the overblouse, the cardigan — all of which tend to de-emphasize (in fact, lengthen) the waistline.

DEAR ABBY:

Another's View

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: I recently received a letter from a young woman who was enraged with her "narrow minded" parents because they refused to give her a large church wedding, complete with white gown and veil. She said, "Their reason was that, when I was 17 I eloped with a boy the same age, and got pregnant right away. It was a big mixed-up mess. My folks had the marriage annulled and I gave the baby up for adoption." I replied, "Sorry, I can't help you because I happen to agree with your parents."

Many readers wrote to tell me I was wrong, that the girl was entitled to the kind of wedding she wanted. I had always held that a white wedding gown and veil were symbols of chastity, and to wear them without having earned them would be making a mockery of the ceremony. There appears to be an exception. I quote an article clipped from the Pueblo, Colorado, Catholic Register, sent to me by a reader:

"Q. What does a white veil mean to a bride? I say only a bride who is a virgin should wear a white veil. Are there exceptions?"

"A. The Church prescribes only that the bride's dress be decent. To forbid her to wear a white veil if she happens to have lost physical virginity through sin would be to force her to confess her sin in public, which no one is obliged to do.

"What is more, by thus advertising her sin she would actually create scandal and thus help bring virginity into disrepute.

"White is an emblem of virginity and purity. If the bride has confessed before her wedding, and received absolution, she is pure and chaste.

"One is unchaste who clings to unchastity, not one who at some time has done an unchaste act, and since repented.

"Even one who is not physically virgin can have what is formal in the virtue of virginity, his mind being so prepared that he has the purpose of safeguarding the integrity of the flesh, should it be fitting for him to do so (St. Thomas Aquinas, Summa, 11-11, 162, 4, 4)."

DEAR ABBY: You always give the same advice to the woman who finds out her husband has been unfaithful. "Forgive him," you advise, "and redouble your efforts to be a good wife."

I would advise the wife to pack up and leave him, and go to the comforting arms of her mother to cry it out. Then, when the husband comes to you on his hands and knees, and begs you to take him back, tell him you want more time to think it over. And make him wait some more. Finally, when he is really desperate, and begs you to come home again, go home to him, and you will live happily ever after. MY SOLUTION.

DEAR MY: And what if he doesn't ask you?

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUNG SCIENTIST . . . Teen-ager Michael Schatzlein demonstrates his two-way communications system to host Don Morrow and guest Col. Charles Yeager, first man to break the sound barrier, on the premiere show of "Science All-Stars" today on ABC.

Making Science Attractive

New Television Series Will Feature Young Scientists

By HARVEY PACK

When the Russians launched Sputnik it had almost the same effect on American intellectuals as a foreign invasion. For, suddenly, the United States discovered that our political and ideological enemy was outdistancing us in the race for space, and somewhere in our educational system nestled the embryo of our destruction.

As Paul Revere rode through the countryside warning of the British, our educators began to sound the alarm, asking the country to develop young talent in the field of science rather than potential executives ready to work their hearts out for a home in the suburbs and all the material comforts of 20th century America.

It's catching on. Science has been glamorized and the high school student who can build a computer is on his way to being as big a man on the campus as the boy who scored last week's winning touchdown.

TV ENTERS THE picture today, with a new ABC show called "Science All-Stars." The program is the brainchild of Steve Carlin, who previous contributions to our culture include "64,000 Dollar Question" and "Gangbusters." Mr. Carlin claims he has spent several years developing this show and he believes it successfully combines science and entertainment.

"I knew I wanted to do something to make science attractive to youngsters," said Carlin, "but I've been in the business long enough to know that a technical show will attract only a very limited audience. My first idea was to combine it in some way with a variety or game show, and 'Science All-Stars' actually developed from that concept."

Carlin learned that schools all over the country conduct science fairs which are sponsored by local businessmen, but usually start with every school putting its students to work on projects. "There are a million and a half students involved in this every year. I went out to the St. Louis science fair where 2,000 projects were selected from 20,000 done at the schools. It took me a week to go through the exhibit, and I finally selected 400 as possibilities for 'Science All-Stars.' But you must remember that, as a TV producer, I was primarily interested in projects which could be visually demonstrated," explained Carlin.

STEVE FINALLY settled for 30 projects, took pictures of the young scientists, listened to their demonstrations and was impressed. "All the kids were great," he said. "It was a great relief after all the stories on juvenile delinquency to meet so many attractive, wholesome youngsters who'd rather break atoms than windows."

In its final form the show is a revue. Mr. Carlin stages each demonstration in such a way that it has a beginning, middle and end and builds to the applause generally heard on a variety show. The explanations are not technical because Carlin wants to pique the interest of his

CAN YOUR HOUSE SELL ITSELF?

Sometimes a house that's up for sale is its own best salesman! Even so, the house that sells itself without outside assistance is pretty rare . . . often fetching less than it should. Why is this? It's because most real estate transactions involve complex procedures — appraising, advertising, showing . . . negotiating, financing, and closing. With so much involved, you can readily see why an expert in ALL these things is almost always needed.

Life Among The Outlaws

Rory Calhoun and Rod Cameron team up in a Western adventure film in color in THE GUN HAWK, running through Tuesday at the Winona Theatre.

Adapted from an original story by Richard Bernstein and Max Steeber, the movie deals with a strange killer who sets up the code of living for a band of outlaws who operated from a hideaway which he ruled.

The killer is portrayed by Calhoun and among his closest friends is Cameron, cast as a sheriff who once wanted to deputize him and finally saw the day when he had to set out after him to bring him to justice.

Ruta Lee is cast as the girl in Sanctuary, the outlaws' almost inaccessible mountain town, who idolizes the killer and savors every moment spent together with him because she realizes it may be the last.

Screen newcomer Rod Lauren is a young outlaw who has put Calhoun on a pedestal and tries in every way to emulate him, until that moment when he wishes he'd never met the killer.

For the exterior scenes, the company worked in Southern California's foothill ranch country.

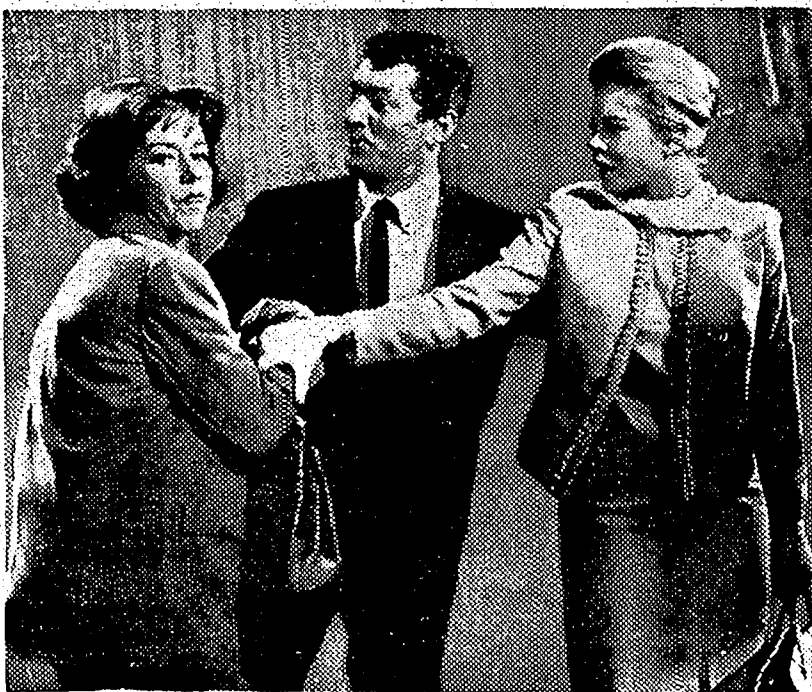

The score was composed and conducted by Jimmy Haskell and the movie features the song, "A Searcher for Love."

Opening Wednesday at the Winona is THE GIRL SWAPPERS.

TENDER TREATMENT . . . Ruta Lee administers to injured Rory Calhoun in this scene from THE GUN HAWK, currently showing at the Winona.

TAKE IT OFF! . . . Dean Martin and Elizabeth Montgomery try to restrain Carol Burnett from doing a strip tease in the Technicolor comedy, WHO'S BEEN SLEEPING IN MY BED? The movie plays through Wednesday at the State.

Dean Martin in the Middle

Five Wives Pose Problems

Dean Martin is cast as an actor who plays a doctor in a popular television series in WHO'S BEEN SLEEPING IN MY BED? playing through Wednesday at the State Theatre.

Everything works out fine for him until people begin to think he's invincible, like the doctor he plays on TV. Everyone wants him to take care of their problems, aches and pains but things become bothersome when his friends' wives begin visiting him and telling him their troubles.

Among them are Jill St. John, Yako Tani, Macha Meril, Elizabeth Fraser and Diane Foster, all beautiful and lonely and Dean finds he has to curb his romantic impulses when they visit him. The husbands know about the visits and Dean feels the pressure building up as he walks a tightrope between husbands and wives.

Meanwhile, he's having second thoughts about his own marriage plans with his girl friend, Elizabeth Montgomery. All of the frustrated wives make Dean wonder whether marriage is such a good thing after all.

Carol Burnett, who plays his fiancée's best friend, learns the cause of his hesitation and tried every kooky trick in the book to bring about the marriage.

Dean's poker playing cronies are Louie Nye, Richard Conte, Jack Soo, Elliot Reid and Martin Balsam, all connected with the television show except Balsam, who is a high-priced psychiatrist.

Opening Thursday at the State is CHARADE, with Gary Grant, Audrey Hepburn, Walter Matthau and James Coburn.

This is Grant's 61st motion picture, a comedy murder mystery which teams him for the first time with Miss Hepburn.

Most of the story is set in Paris where Miss Hepburn is threatened by three American hoodlums who believe she knows the whereabouts of a hoard of gold stolen by her late husband. Summoned to the American Central Intelligence Agency, she's informed that four former GI's, including her husband, buried a fortune in Army funds somewhere in Germany with an agreement to share it after the war.

The gold has been dug up, her husband slain and, thinking only she knows where the money is, the thugs mark her for murder. Grant is offered a quarter of a million dollars in cash to help the lady in distress, accepts the job and starts out on a step-by-step adventure of intrigue to untangle the mystery.

COMING THURSDAY — "30 YEARS OF FUN"

New Brahms Album

The four Brahms symphonies have been brilliantly recorded by Ernest Ansermet and L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande in a new issue by London FFRR.

The stereo reproduction is excellent and occasional background sounds from the orchestra — slight instrument noises natural at the conclusion of a movement, for example — serve to enhance a concert-hall atmosphere.

The album also includes Ansermet's readings of the Tragic and Academic Festival Overtures and of Brahms's Variations on a Theme by Haydn.

The veteran conductor achieves a clarity in his interpretations of these classical favorites as well as in the four symphonies.

The pace is never too slow, with the result that the music flows in the regular, majestic rhythm intended by the master.

Of the symphonies, the recording of the Fourth is perhaps the most impressive. Ansermet extracts the maximum grandeur from this most complicated orchestral work and the grand pas-sacaglia in the first movement proceeds without unnecessary flourishes.

In the popular Second Symphony, the orchestra achieves again the clarity that distinguishes these new recordings of Brahms. And, in the monumental First, Ansermet effectively blends the melodic and majestic passages for a thoroughly moving interpretation.

Technically, this new London FFRR release is far ahead of earlier recordings featuring the late Bruno Walter, in which the strings never seemed to overcome a tendency to thinness.

Other memorial albums include Premier's "John F. Kennedy Memorial Album," a memorial program that was broadcast by New York radio station WMCA plus excerpts of some of Kennedy's speeches.

"John F. Kennedy, the Presidential Years," 20th Century Fox, with the voice of the late President on some 20 different occasions, not all of them formal speeches.

Luigi Vena, Boston tenor who sang "Ave Maria" at both Kennedy's wedding and funeral, plans to record that song and others for an LP on the Veritas label.

A Helpful Guide Book For Leap Year Hopefuls

By JOHN R. BREITLOW

It being leap year with all that portends, a pair of lightweights in honor of the season might be in order. First is Nina Farewell's tactics of husband-hunting, with the encouraging title EVERY GIRL IS ENTITLED TO A HUSBAND (McGraw-Hill, 199 pages, interestingly illustrated, $4.95). Almost as an echo comes THE WOODS ARE FULL OF THEM by Irma Lee Emmerson (McKay, 242 pages, $4.50). Each does its best to live up to its rather promising title.

Nina Farewell (which sounds like a pseudonym) has established herself as the Stephen (Gamesmanship) Potter of husband-hunting. Her delightful little treatise on man-trapping is filled with guileful ploys whereby even the homely girl can snare herself a mate. It is enough to make an old married man look back in awe, and is guaranteed to give a bachelor the discomfiting feeling that his position is slightly worse than a mallard leaving the refuge on opening day.

MISS FAREWELL is nothing if not methodical and candid. She outlines the mission of the unmarried female as (1) Locating a man, (2) Attracting him, and (3) Luring him into matrimony. Dispensing with such introductory thoughts as "Is Love Necessary?" by citing her Grandmother's motto: "A girl with any sense at all, manages to be in love with the man who asks her," Miss Farewell gets right down to business.

The first order of this business she coyly calls "Preparation for the Hunt," bolstering the courage of her would-be huntresses by listing the fifteen pleasures of wifehood, ranging from dependence, ownership (of the man, naturally) and lazy leisure through such dubious pleasures as giving orders, revenge, and what she deftly labels "The Pleasure of Innocent Pleasure."

At this point, some dissertation on Sex, as the author sees it, is in order. The best we can say for it is that it is fun-but frightening — the dissertation, not the topic, that is. Her statements are so far from truths which have been accepted for centuries that maiden readers with little experience in this field are apt to rush out and inquire as to the veracity of this section. We will personally shoot any male who becomes involved with such a quest and spills the beans.

Manhunting instruction continues with some rather sound advice on "Where to Look for Him," a few props which are useful and others which are definitely not recommended ("dogs are in but children are cautionary"), and some excellent advice on camouflage, designed especially for the tall girl; the old girl and the plain girl.

MUCH OF THE balance of EVERY GIRL IS ENTITLED TO A HUSBAND deals with "How to Trap Him," listing various lab-and-field-tested Lures, Love Potions, Formulas, Spellbinders, and a section for the inventive on "How to Design Your Own Method." By this time, all males regardless of status will be wearing that glazed, trapped look undoubtedly most familiar to Kremlin interrogators and Internal Revenue agents, while all girls will privately smile an enid smile.

"How to Trap Him" is followed by the poignant but pitiless section "What to Do If You Don't," outlining a series of last-ditch stands, and followed by a preventative chapter on "Pitfalls and How to Avoid Them." For whatever comfort men may derive from this fatal but fertile text, Miss Farewell closes with a small sop for the boys, charging her successful readers to "Be Kind in Victory."

More human but less humorous is Irma Lee Emmerson's THE WOODS ARE FULL OF THEM. It is the tory of a girl who had little need of Miss Farewell's book and had only to contend with the problem of protecting herself while making up her mind.

Miss Emmerson was once a cook in a North Woods logging camp and was the only eligible female within many miles of 60 virile loggers. To settle the issue, she finally marries Edison Smith, one of these loggers, but not before a lot of good fun and some anxious moments saved only by the dinner bell and occasionally an iron skillet over the head of some overly-ardent suitor. Miss Farewell would be shocked at the tactics, but would applaud the results, and the book that tells of them in nice tones of human comedy.

Largest Museum in the West

Young Men Work With Big Collection

Jack Richard McGregor is only 33 but he is director of the West's largest museum—the M. H. de Young Memorial—in Golden Gate Park in San Francisco.

It has more than 60 galleries. Its annual attendance of more than 1,000,000 is exceeded in this country only by the New York Metropolitan.

McGregor, a Harvard graduate who started his training on a fellowship seven years ago at the Metropolitan and became an administrative assistant, took the job at de Young last fall.

He concedes he has found three monumental challenges. He can count on growing old with one.

That is the $18 million-plus Avery Brundage collection of Oriental Art, largest in the world and still growing in boxes, lockers and packing cases in the de Young's acres of basement.

Another challenge is moving a 900-year-old Spanish monastery out of a condemned warehouse in the park—dating back to California's first world's exposition — The Midwinter Fair of 1894.

The third problem is setting up an endowment so the museum can take care of such matters as the condemned warehouse without having to ask the city for a special, unbudgeted and almost impossible-to-get appropriation. A favorable editorial in the San Francisco Chronicle, another enterprise of the late Michael H. de Young, is helping McGregor with this problem.

His most pressing enterprise is housing the Brundage collection, given to the museum by the Chicago multimillionaire businessman and sportsman who heads the International Olympic Games Committee.

It now is being cataloged and appraised by another young man — young by museum standards — who also promises to become old with the job. He is 35-year-old Rene-Yvon Lefebvre d'Argence, Orientalist, graduate of the Sorbonne, former curator of Cernuschi Museum of Chinese Art in Paris, currently professor of Oriental art at the University of California. He has directed museums in Hanoi and Saigon in Indochina and has been named Brundage collection curator by the de Young trustees.

McGregor is having a three-story wing constructed — two stories — for the collection. The city has voted a $2.7 million bond issue for the project in an election which climaxed a struggle of several years to get the collection over bids by Honolulu and a dozen other American cities.

McGregor is fascinated by the collection — which includes such objects in the more than 6,000 already unpacked as Kwan Yin, goddess of mercy, a bronze statue based on a lotus, from the Ming dynasty. There are ceremonial bronze vessels — some hanging from great tripods and big enough for a roasting hog, dated 700 years before Christ; porcelain fish bowl on legs with ceramic fishes on the inside and about the size of a baby's bathtub; beautiful vessels in jade and semiprecious stones.

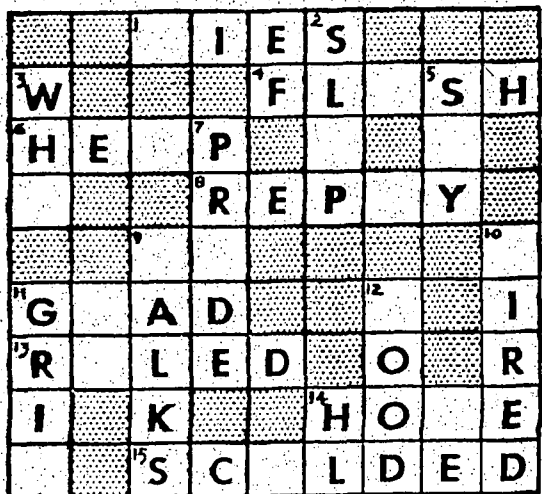

Sculpture and temple facades from India are in one big section of the basement. Chinese, Indian and Japanese art are the biggest separate collections. But there also is art from the Mediterranean, Africa, ancient Egypt and Southeast Asia.

WITH BRUNDAGE COLLECTION . . . Jack McGregor, director of the West's largest museum, the M. H. de Young Memorial in San Francisco, is shown with objects in the Brundage Collection.

Puzzle Entry Arrives 15 Months Too Late

WINONA SUNDAY NEWS Prizewords Puzzle No. 464

MAIL TO: Prizewords, Winona Sunday News,
Box 70, Winona, Minn.

There were no winners in last week's Prizewords contest but we do think there was some kind of record set by one of our players . . . a record for lateness.

In the bundle of cards for the contest the week before was a filled-in entry for a puzzle that was published in the Oct. 7, 1962 issue of the Sunday Magazine.

WHERE IT HAD been for the past 15 months we'll probably never know but, of course, there's always that old cliché, "Better late than never."

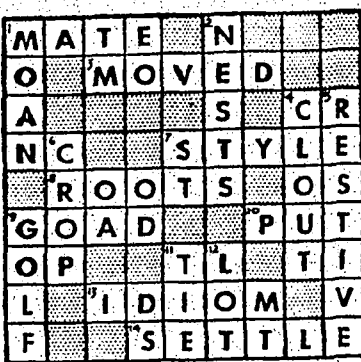

Since there weren't any winners last week the $190 offered for a perfect entry last Sunday is raised to $200 today.

Kenneth Haase, 673 Olmstead St.; Mrs. Dan Literski, Trempealeau, Wis., Rt. 1, and Ray Gabrych, 720 E. Broadway, all came within two letters of claiming the $190 prize and there was a large stack of cards with only three wrong.

AMONG THEM were entries sent in by Lambert A. Reglin, 816 W. Broadway; Carol F. Brommer, Nelson, Wis.; H. C. Goss, Wabasha, Minn.; Mrs. Margaret Putzier, St. Charles, Minn.; Norman Sarasin, Reads Landing, Minn.; Mrs. Marie Anderson, 1741 W. Broadway; Mrs. Paul Anderson, Houston, Minn.; Kenneth Haase—who followed up his two-error effort with another card that had three mistakes—Mrs. Glenden G. Corey, Houston, Minn.; Lorentz Myrah, Spring Grove, Minn., Rt. 3; Mrs. C. Thaldorf, 193 Mechanic St., and Kenneth Kleist, 1630 W. 5th St.

Today's $200 prize will be sent to the one person who selects all of the answers to today's clues.

Entries must be attached to postcards and mailed with a postmark not later than midnight Tuesday.

DOWN:

1. It's often the little things in life that make a person MOAN (Mean).—Often exaggerates with Mean in the sense of either "stingy" or "nasty". MOAN is better with often; it's so easy to complain.

2. Keen gardeners often destroy NESTS ruthlessly (Pests).—Often understates with Pests. NESTS permits of exceptions, as in the case of NESTS of beneficial birds.

4. As a rule, we're quick to criticize a young man who would CLOUT an elderly person (Flout).—CLOUT fits with as a rule, which makes allowance for cases of self-defense. Flout, to mock or insult an elderly person is always deserving of criticism.

5. Police usually have to be firm with large crowds that appear to be RESTIVE (Festive). With Festive crowds, tactful handling is more effective; firm handling might turn gaiety into resentment. RESTIVE is more to the point; they show signs of becoming unmanageable.

6. It's the CROP that a frail tree has that indicates its need for support. (Prop).—Not Prop; a much better indication would be the lack of such a prop. CROP is better; its branches are weighed down, and the tree is bent dangerously.

9. A person who wins a GOLF award usually has reason to be proud of his skill (Gold).—Gold is open to question; the award might have nothing to do with his skill. With GOLF, he is much more likely to have needed skill to win such an award.

11. A difficult TIE is usually a good test of a golfer's ability (Lie).—Any one Lie, even if difficult, is only a test of the golfer's ability to play that one particular shot, but a difficult TIE includes every shot in the match.

12. We sometimes mourn the loss of a person for whom we thought we didn't care a LOT (Jot).—Sometimes points to LOT; though we don't care a LOT for a person, we may care for him a good deal more than a Jot, a very little bit. Sometimes exaggerates with Jot. Seldom would be better.

ACROSS

1. Many a woman tends to make herself a bore by talking about her MATE (Mite).—Tends is too restrained with Mite, she's talking about her little child! Few women talk about their MATES to the extent of boring others.

3. A much-hated man in a firm might very well desire to be MOVED (Loved).—MOVED is more likely; he is probably the object of much hostility. A man does not become so hated unless he is objectionable and antisocial, which rather rules out any case for Loved.

7. A STYLE that suits tall wom-

Blanche Peters

The term "General Bookkeeper" doesn't tell us much about Blanche—nowhere near the complete story. Actually her position is bookkeeper of the general ledger accounts, which is the core of the bank. She operates a huge electronic bookkeeping machine that handles all miscellaneous bookkeeping applications in the bank except savings and checking. For example, Blanche handles the bank's accruals, the general ledger system, all real estate computations, general loans, the bank's installment loans, tallies expenses and figures the FIRST'S income compilations. (We told you her bookkeeping machine was huge!) Blanche came to us from 21½ years with the Northwestern National Bank of Rochester. She and her husband, Curtis, live at 730½ East Third Street, and attend St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. In her spare time Blanche collects recipes for future cooking experiments, sews many of her own clothes, and relaxes with light fiction reading.

On your visits to the Bank, you probably won't come into contact with this member of the FIRST Family, but she's another of our staff so important to the total operation of the Bank. May we help you this week?

Coiffures in '64 'Going Straight'

"THIS will take the curl out of your hair," agree the coiffure trend-setters for 1964. The crystal gazers of the brush and comb set predict straight and chic, waveless and bang-free, as the keys to the new look in hair styling. Actress Carol Lynley illustrates a trio of coifs — The Casual, The Calculated, and The Classic. All emerge from a seven-inch cut (with the forelock snipped an inch or two shorter) and the same roll-under set. The Casual features a part, sides brush-polished to hug the head, and end tips gently "bent" to fan away from the face.

THE CALCULATED COIF, as its name implies, is designed for the girl who likes every hair in place. Its tress trademarks are shape and smoothness. As designed by Margaret Donovan, head of hair styling at 20th Century-Fox studio, locks are brushed back from the forehead, and ends turned under into a chin-length bob. To give body to silhouette, under-stands are "plump-brushed," then top hair smoothed neatly over them.

THE CLASSIC LOOK sends hair swirling into an upsweep, yet stays to the straight and narrow tress trend. Notice the lack of waves or wispy cheek curls? Carol, who stars in the 20th film, "Shock Treatment," discovered such close-to-the-head swirl styling diagonally dips hair across the forehead, slant-covering the tip of the brow. The back is brushed into a neat twist, with a coronet of false hair and a jeweled clip adding dramatic emphasis.

Furniture Talk

By Lavern Lawrenz

"DECORATING FROM THE BOTTOM UP"

Carpeting is one of the most important parts of your decorating scheme. For a small room, carpeting, wall to wall, can give the impression of space. When matched to wall color, an even greater illusion of space can be achieved. If your problem is a big living area, make a conversation corner with an area rug. Area rugs can define and set aside one living area from another in the same room. Just be sure the rug is large enough so that at least part of the furniture sits on the rug, so your group looks cozy and inviting rather than skimpy.

At Lawrenz Furniture our salesmen can help you select the carpeting that will give your room an entire new look. With today's choice of deep dyed colors, and the big choice of miracle fibers and blends, you no longer have to choose an ordinary dull color "so it won't show the dirt." This is the age when you can make exciting things happen with brilliant new colors in your living room.

Come in and see our new carpeting, there are styles to blend or contrast with your present furniture, whether it's early American, contemporary, or your own inventive blend of mix and match. Our salesmen suggest that you pick several samples you like, and then have us call at your home with the samples so you can compare them with your furnishings. This is one of many decorator services at Lawrenz Furniture that are always available to you without obligation. Call on us soon at

TV Science For Youth

"Although we help our participants prepare their presentations, we try to use their own words as they expressed them during an early interview with our staff," said Carlin. "A good example is an electrical wizard who, when I asked him how he makes electricity, said, 'Nobody can make electricity. It's there. You must generate it.' When he's on the show he will use that same speech, because I know it taught me something."

The average age of our future Einsteins is 14½, but they range from 10-18. When a junior scientist appears on the show a band plays his school song as he marches on and off (if they don't have a song, the show's staff writes them one), and they are awarded an Olympic type blazer with a specially designed Science All-Star insignia. This is all part of Carlin's plan to make his show colorful and a career in science appear glamorous.

Cooperation from the academic world has been unlimited and the armed services are also in the act. Men like Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Col. Charles Yeager, first man through the sound barrier, are on the opening show, and Carlin's list for subsequent programs is equally impressive.

Perhaps, in a world where touchdowns are fine for a Saturday afternoon but our national goals are more vital, the popular song of another era which tunelessly said, "You've gotta be a football hero . . ." will be replaced by one more pertinent to modern times . . . "You've gotta be a science all-star."

Fine Woods Provide a Dramatic Room Setting

A DRAMATIC USE of woods is evident in the attractive room shown above. Interestingly traditional in feeling, the room's setting of warm woods and handsome blue print has practical features adaptable to any type of living. Mellow, teak veneer has been used for the walls, and old doors set with fabric panels have been installed in the modern frame. Bookcases that look like built-ins are really a structural frame simply fitted over wall hung shelves; fabric makes them interesting and wood veneer with a fabric backing has been hung like a window shade to cover the clutter. Vinyl tiled floor is always practical and always striking when a travertine pattern is used with teak feature strips. The room is multi-purpose, warmly livable. It provides surroundings conducive to quiet reading or desk work and a sofa bed opens for extra sleep space for overnight guests. The upholstered chair is keyed to the desk and corner table and accents are provided by the Venetian wood plaques on the walls.

ELEGANCE OF LINE and precise workmanship are characteristic of this carefully detailed cabinet introduced this season. Lustrous hickory wood is introduced on the Mediterranean-inspired piece. The commodious armoire has shelves and drawers behind the handsome carved doors.

Prince Valiant

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

WRITTEN AND ILLUSTRATED BY HAROLD R. FOSTER

Our Story: THE POWERFUL COUNT BRECEY OF BRITTANY, HANDSOME AND RUTHLESS, HAS NEVER BEEN DENIED ANYTHING HE WANTS. NOW HIS SOMBRE EYES FOLLOW QUEEN ALETA WHEREVER SHE GOES.

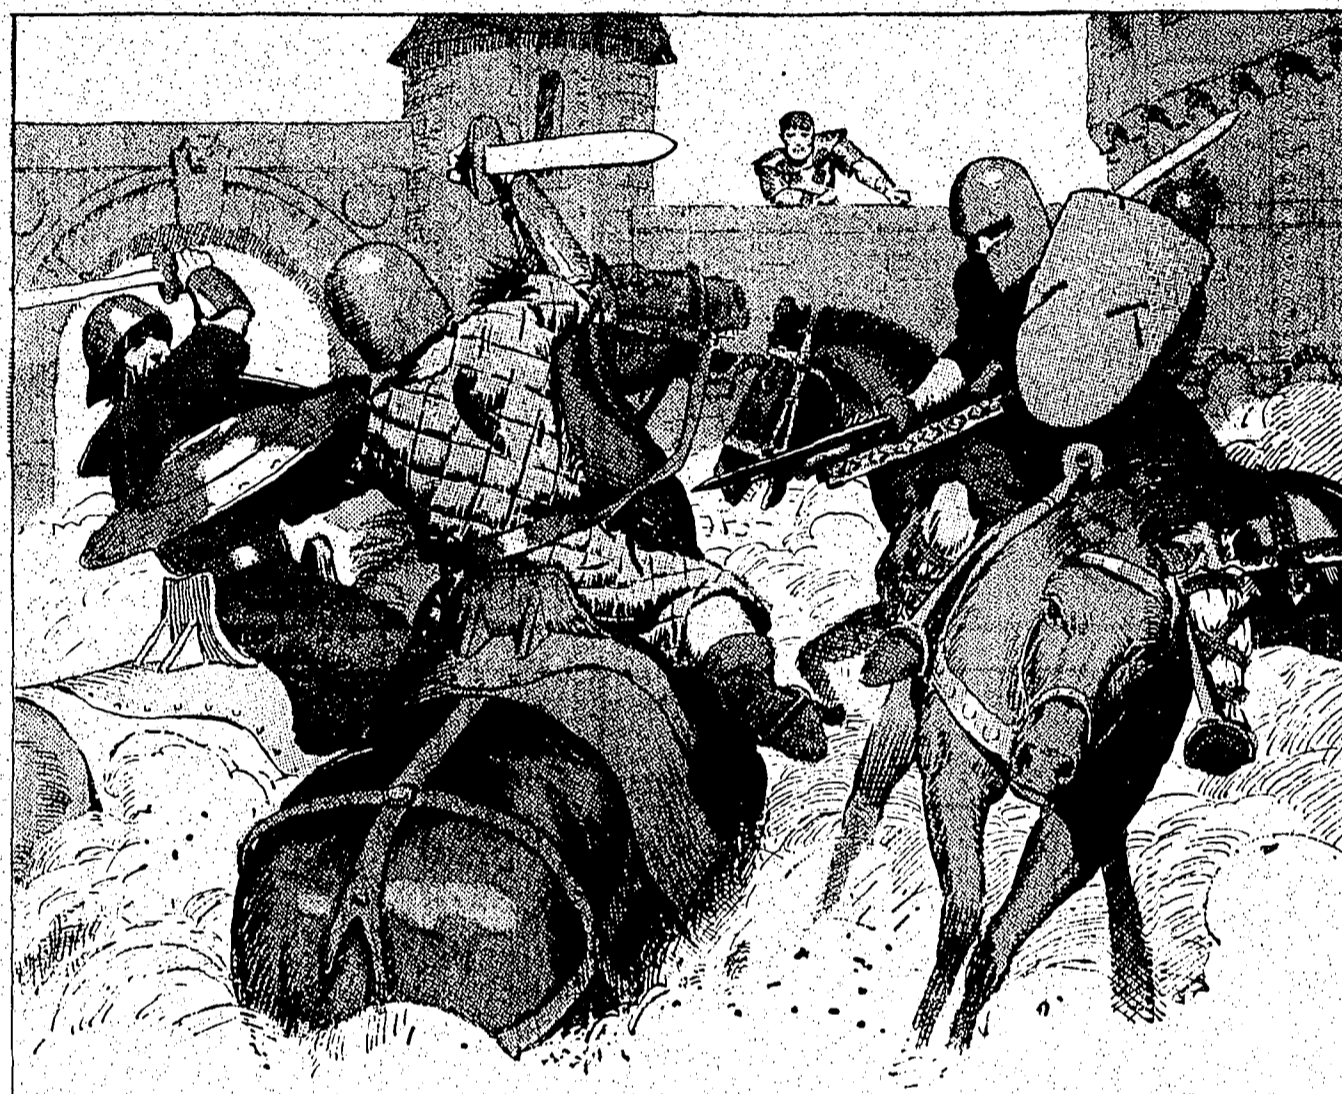

A RETAINER REPORTS: "SHE IS QUEEN ALETA AND WIFE OF SIR VALIANT, A PRINCE OF SOME OBSCURE LAND TO THE NORTH, AND SHE HAS FOUR CHILDREN."

"IN THAT CASE I SHALL MAKE HER MY WIFE AS SOON AS SHE IS WIDOWED. HER CHILDREN MAY SOME DAY BE KINGS OR QUEENS. AS THEIR STEPFATHER MY POWER WILL BE GREAT."

HE SENDS FOR HIS COUSIN, HUGO, HIS CHAMPION AND AN ACCOMPLISHED KILLER OF MEN. "YOU HAVE ALWAYS WANTED THE FIEF AND CASTLE OF GLANDON. KILL ME THIS SIR VALIANT DURING THE TOURNAMENT AND IT IS YOURS."

HUGO GOES INTO THE PRACTICE YARD WHERE KNIGHTS ARE TRAINING FOR THE TOURNAMENT. THERE ARE PRIZES, GLORY AND APPLAUSE TO BE WON AT THE WAR GAMES, BUT WORD HAS GONE AROUND THAT THERE WILL BE A LIFE-AND-DEATH STRUGGLE WITH THE SAXONS THIS YEAR, AND THEY TRAIN IN EARNEST.

HE WATCHES PRINCE VALIANT INTENTLY. "HE IS SKILLFUL AND MUCH MORE AGILE THAN I, BUT MY GREATER STRENGTH WILL PREVAIL, AND HE HOLDS HIS SHIELD TOO LOW. HIS ONLY ADVANTAGE IS IN THAT GREAT WAR HORSE. I MUST CONTRIVE TO WOUND IT!"

THEN BRECEY, OVERCONFIDENT OF HIS POWER, MAKES A MISTAKE. "SUMMON MISTRESS ALETA. I WISH TO CONVERSE WITH HER."

HAL FOSTER

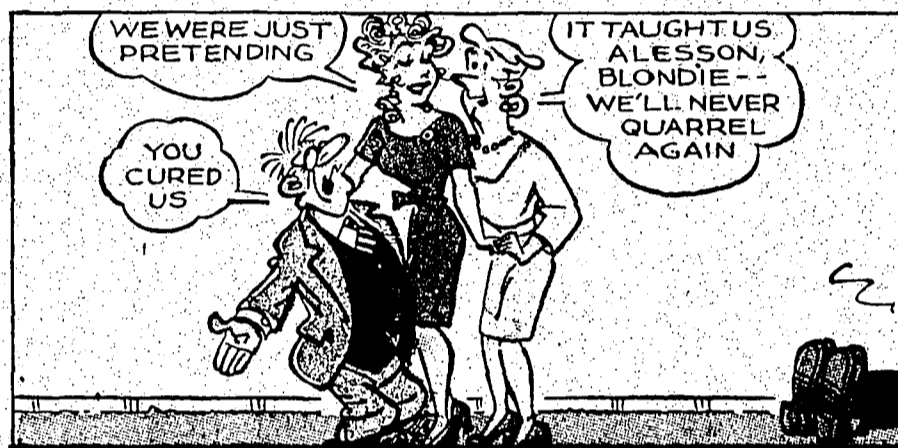

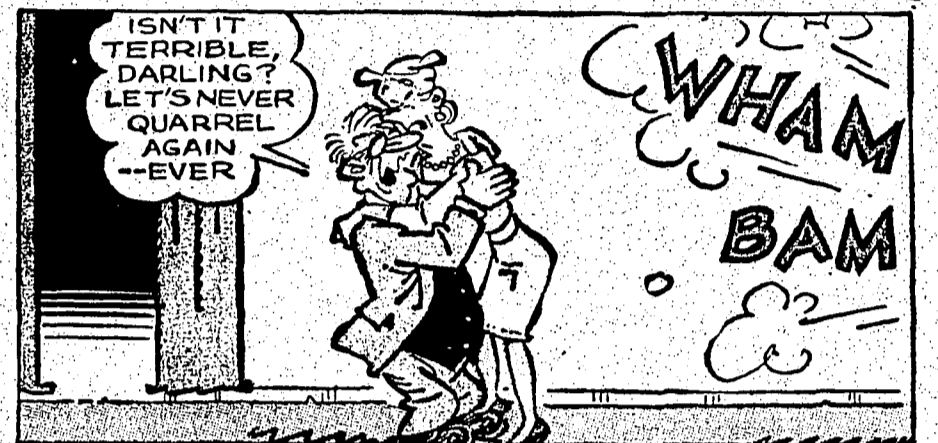

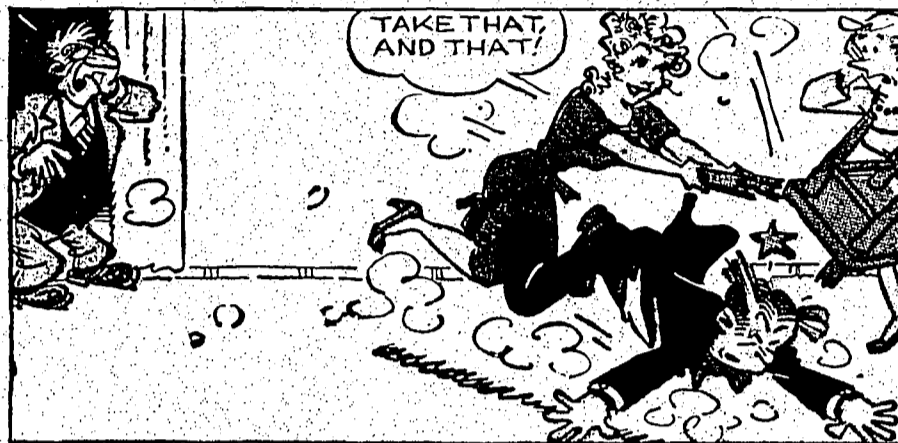

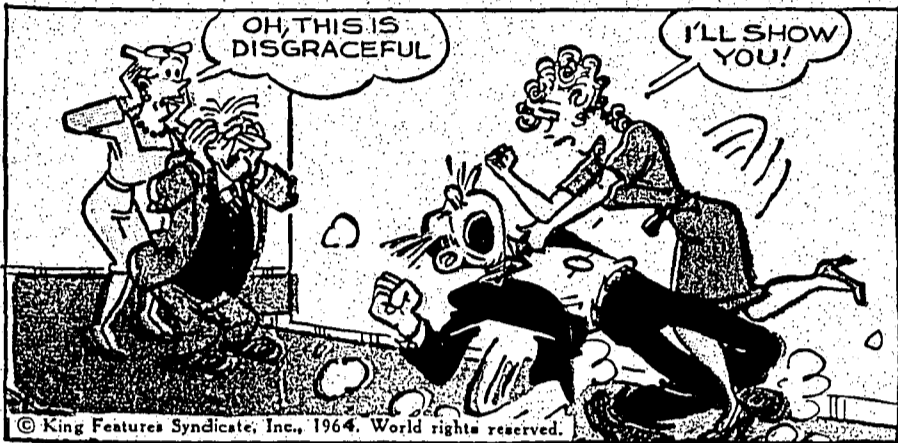

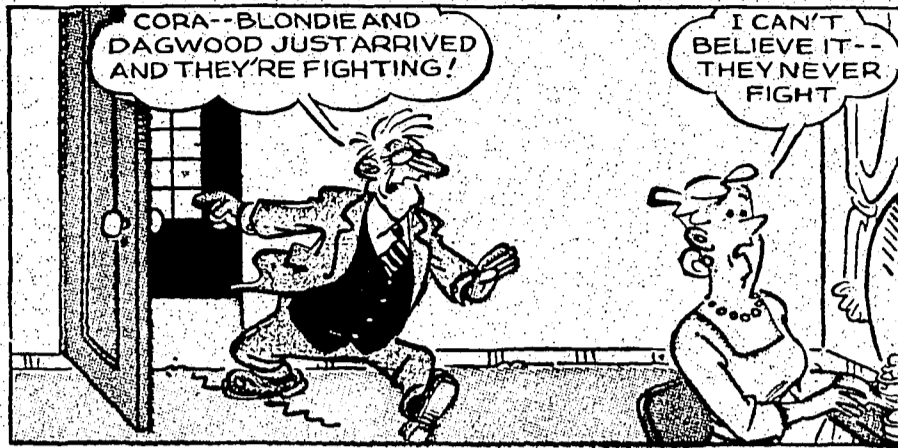

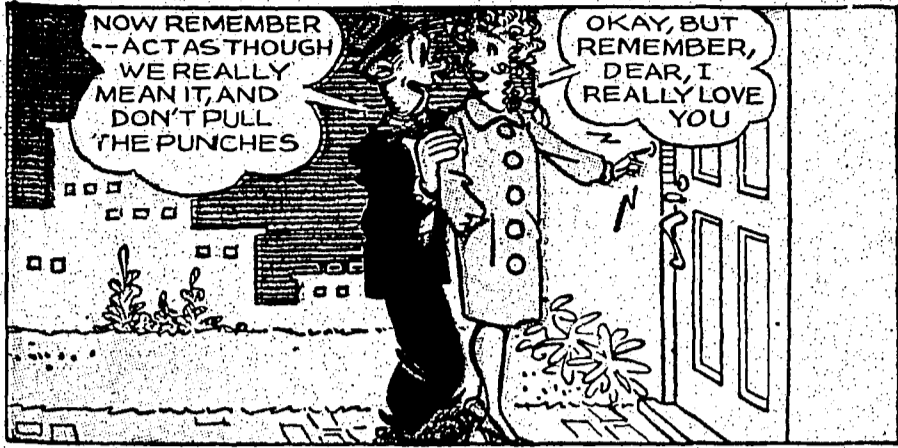

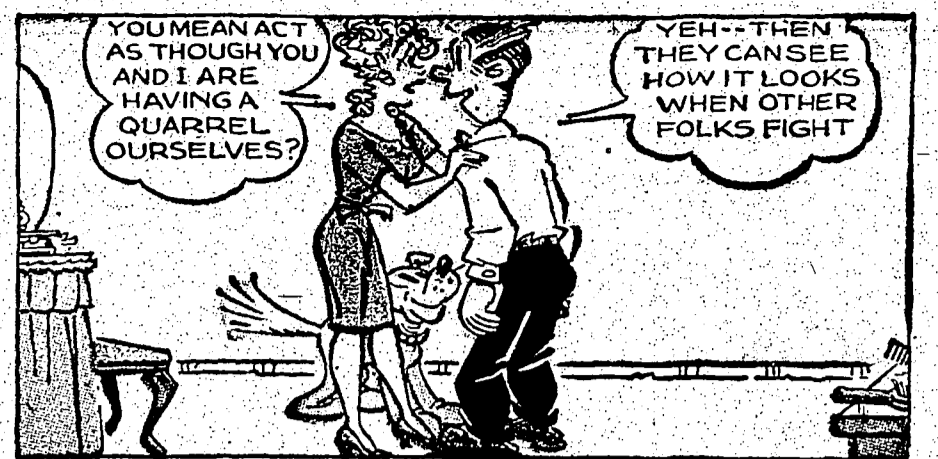

"SIRE, HER ANSWER IS, 'TELL YOUR MASTER THAT I, ALETA, QUEEN OF THE MISTY ISLES, WILL GRANT HIM AUDIENCE IF HE BE PROPERLY PRESENTED.'"

BIG GEORGE!

by Virgil Partch

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a new one for you. You know those old wieners or frankfurters . . . or whatever you call them?

Well, next time you take a bunch of kids, or even just your own family, on a picnic, take along your wire French-fry basket. Dump all the wieners into this basket. After all the coals have died down thoroughly, place the wire basket full of wieners over the coals. As soon as the juice starts dripping on the fire, shake the wire basket, and the wieners will turn themselves. By simply tossing the basket up and down like fancy cooks do pancakes, the wieners will move themselves around.

But here's the greatest idea of all: Before blanching, boiling or broiling wieners, cut them in half lengthwise. This not only allows for better cooking but they fit into the bun better!

Also . . . many people do not like so much meat. By cutting one lengthwise, it satisfies not only their egos, but also their stomachs.

Joe Lindsey

DEAR HELOISE:

I wonder if people know that they can make their own Lazy Susan for spices (and Items we seem to lose in the cupboard) by using a pie or cake tin.

Make a hole in the center of the pie tin and screw it to the shelf in your kitchen cabinet.

All one has to do then is turn the tin to find ginger or whatever!

Julie Logie

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who mend dark socks and heavy sweaters, but whose eyesight is not too good, I wonder if they have ever tried using a flashlight in place of a darning ball.

This is excellent for me because the light shines through the stitches, you can see them perfectly, and know exactly where to mend.

S.L.F.

DEAR HELOISE:

When I unravel yarn from old sweaters, etc., for reuse, I wind the yarn carefully around the wide end of my ironing board, then lay a dampened tea towel over it and use my iron to press it.

The steam from the damp cloth takes out all the wiggles and tangles in the yarn. After one side is ironed, gently pick it up as you would hold a skein and slip the skein around so that you can iron the other parts of the yarn.

My yarn always looks like new this way. I find it much better than trying to roll it in balls that eventually stretch the yarn too much.

Frances S.

DEAR HELOISE:

When I open a jar of olives, instead of picking the olives out of the jar with a fork . . . I pour the liquid into a clean glass and then just dump the olives into a dish.

Pick out the amount of olives you want to use, return the rest to the bottle and then pour the liquid back over them. Result? No stabbed olives.

Peg Ennes

DEAR FOLKS:

This same idea can be used for pickled cocktail onions, capers and cherries! Don't waste anything. What's left over from our parties should be kept in first-class condition for the next one.

Heloise

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Our family eats a lot of ice cream, so we usually buy half-gallon cartons.

Here's our simple way to keep it and make it easy to get at when serving. Open the carton, make about a dozen slices, then wrap each slice separately in waxed paper or paper sandwich bags. Place in the refrigerator freezer compartment. There will be no mess when the time comes to eat it. It stays more solid, too.

Marilyn Beebe

DEAR HELOISE:

To keep hotcakes from sticking to our breakfast plates, I first sift a little powdered sugar onto the plate, then place the cake on the sugar.

Gladys Craig

DEAR HELOISE:

I cut my quilt patterns from fine sandpaper. This is really wonderful because it does not slip on the material while cutting, and it will not get out of shape either.

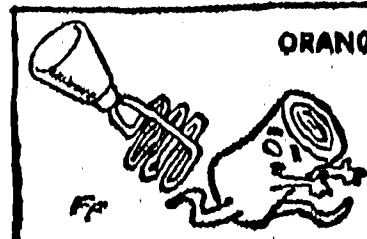

Mrs. H. Roy Galpin

DEAR HELOISE:

Do you have trouble getting frozen orange juice to dissolve in a hurry? I use my potato masher!

Edith Elms

ORANGE SQUASH

DEAR FOLKS:

Did you know that you can open a can of plain applesauce and add about three drops of red cake coloring to it, and it turns a beautiful pink? It makes it more appetizing. My family eats twice as much this way.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I make most of our clothing, and when I buy material I always buy a little more than the pattern calls for. I use the extra length to make either an apron to match my dress or to make something for my little girl!

Mrs. Patrick Moore

PARTY PREPARATIONS

DEAR HELOISE:

Teen-age parties require plenty of iced drinks. And my solution for iced these drinks is simple. Use your washing machine!

I fill my top-loading washer with about six inches of cold water, pour in part of the ice, load it with bottled drinks and cover with more ice. They chill quickly. No bottles filling up a refrigerator, either.

Caution: Disconnect the washer while the party is in progress. Even adults get funny!

The next morning all you have to do is spin the water out of the machine. No mess, no toting of water, and a neat area after the party.

Mrs. Curtis Scott

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper.
