Husband Was Choking Her

By TERRY BORMANN Daily News Staff Writer

A 13-year-old Goodview boy is held in county jail after killing his father early today to protect his mother during a family quarrel, Sheriff George Fort said.

Lester W. Schmoker, 44, 4618 6th St., Goodview, died at 3:30 a.m. today at Community Memorial Hospital, with a bul-let wound in the head. The shooting occurred about 2:30 a.m., and an ambulance brought Schmoker to the hospital at

MRS. SCHMOKER told Sheriff George Fort that her husband had been drinking heavily every night for the last two weeks. He would come home drunk and pick quarrels with her, Mrs. Schmoker said.

Wednesday night, Mr. Schmoker came home at 11:30 o'clock and went to sleep. He awakened about 12:15 a.m. and began to choke her and twist her arms, Mrs. Schmoker related. This waking up had occurred often in the past she

About 2:15 a.m., Mr. Schmoker awakened again and began to choke her in real earnest, Mrs. Schmoker told a friend. He cut off her breath with the edge of one hand and repeatedly struck her on the chin with the butt of his other hand, in an apparent attempt to break her neck, she said. Schmoker saw combat with the Army in World War II.

This Boy Is Just Too Calm

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have three sons, 13, 12 and 10. I am worried about our eldest boy. He is about the same size as his 12-year-old brother. In fact, they are often taken for twins. The two younger boys gang up on the older one, who just stands there and lets them beat him up. He doesn't cry or hit back or even ask for help. This doesn't seem normal to me. I know all brothers Eight sometimes, but this is no fight. He won't even try to defend himself. He is a good student and a very quiet, obedient boy. Could something be wrong with him? I can't figure it out.

MICHIGAN MOTHER

ABBY

DEAR MOTHER: Don't try to "figure it out." Ask your family doctor (or pediatrician) to recommend someone who specializes in child behavior problems, and take the boy there. Something IS wrong with a boy who will not defend himself, or retaliate when attacked. P.S. And while you are about it, find out what is making unprovoked aggressors out of the other two boys.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is divorced has two small children and receives no help from her former husband. (He has remarried and left the state.) I have been taking care of her children days while sine works. She makes very good money, but I have a small pension and don't take anything for helping her. My daughter is very quarrelsome. She curses me and the children and treats me like a hired hand. She has been getting me so nervous and upset lately that I can't eat or sleep right, and my health is beginning to fail. I have had a proposal of marriage from a very nice man I've been going with for two years, but he wants me to promise him that after we are married I will not take the responsibility of caring for my grandchildren any more. He says that is the only way we can be happy. I care a lot for this man, Abby, and want to marry him. But is it fair of him to make me choose between him and my own HARD TO DECIDE

DEAR HARD: Marry the man. If your daughter had to face the responsibility of rearing her own children, she would find a way. You have earned happiness. Help

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the Pennsylvania minister prompts this. If he knows that those who go to heaven don't need prayers, and those who go to hell don't receive them, then he knows a lot more about inter-personality communication than most mortals. I assume that his routine funeral service would go something like this, "Well, what the heck. the guy is dead and can't hear us anyway, so let's all go home!" Sincerely.

The Rochester conservative told the Senate Finance Committee that the three are Profs. Margaret Boddy and Augusta Nelson in English and Dorothy Magnus in speech.

THEY ARE believed to be the only women full professors on the Winona faculty and have been outspoken critics of some decisions of the college administration concerning the faculty's role in governing the college.

Dunlap was quoted as saying that the raises were unfairly distributed by other colleges, too, but he singled out Winona.

Reviving the question of faculty dissension at Winona State which flared up after Gov. Karl Rolvaag's visit there last fall, Dunlap said salary decisions concerning the three women resulted from "a case of internal political furor - and one that has to be settled."

Dunlap said they were denied any raise last year until he filed a protest. The decision was changed and the three were given standard 5 percent raises during the year.

THIS YEAR they were raised 2 percent, the lowest percentage of increase given Winona faculty members, Dunlap contended.

There has been some criticism -never public-of Dunlap for serving as the professors' attorney while he is chairman of the Senate Education Committee and the powerful Education subcommittee of the Finance Committee.

Yesterday Dunlap said he had written the State College Board to protest the raise policy and stated that he wrote "as their attorney and not as a politi-

But Dunlap claimed that state college spokesmen assured lawmakers that this was aimed only at recruiting or retaining outstanding faculty members, that "no attempt would be made to put in a most system and that put in a merit system and that they still would adhere to a rigid salary schedule."

Goodview Boy Described A 'Polite, Well-Mannered' Youngster

By GEORGE McCORMICK Daily News Staff Writer

"He didn't have a mean bone in his body." That is the way a neighbor describes Lester Schmoker

Jr., the 13-year-old boy who shot his father early this morning in an effort to protect his mother.

IT SEEMS TO BE AN opinion that is echoed by anyone who knew the Phelps School eighth grader. At school, in his Boy Scout troop at Central Lutheran Church, in his neighborhood - Junior has the reputation of being a nice boy, never a troublemaker.

He has a lot of friends: "My boys are over there all the time," another neighbor said this morning. "They come in here a lot," a neighborhood shopkeeper said of Junior and his 12-year-old brother, John. The boys are invariably polite and well-mannered, he added. "I've seen no traces of delinquency in those boys," their pastor, Dr. L. E. Brynestad, asserted.

NONETHELESS, IN THIS family's small, tan, frame home at 4618 6th St., Goodview, between 2:15 and 2:30 a.m. today, Junior Schmoker shot his father through the head. The boy used a .22-caliber rifle he had received as a Christmas present only two months ago.

The trouble had been brewing a long time, and Mrs. Schmoker seemed shaken but not surprised when she talked about it this morning. A neighbor was with her when she let reporters into her small living room this morning, about six hours after the shooting. Another neighbor came to see her before they

of a working family with two growing boys. There is enough furniture, and it is comfortable. It is not new, however, and here and there a chair's cover is patched.

A large striped cat nosed over to investigate the visitors. TEARFULLY, BUT WITHOUT hysteria, Mrs. Schmoker said her husband had been drinking heavily for more than a

"He's been coming home and beating me up," she said. The pattern was usually the same, she related. Her husband would come home drunk and fall into a deep sleep. He would awake a few hours later and would attack her.

'Lately, it's been almost every night," she declared. Once before, Junior tried to stop his father from hurting her, Mrs. Schmoker said. He got between his parents, but his father began slapping him.

THE BOY RAN OUT of the house, his mother said, and called the sheriff from a telephone booth a few blocks east on 6th Street. The sheriff's men came, she said, and talked to her husband.

Junior was afraid to come home, however, and spent the night sleeping in a dugout in the Goodview ball park, a few blocks from his home, Mrs. Schmoker asserted.

This morning, his mother's screams brought Junior into his parents' bedroom. His father had Mrs. Schmoker behind the bed, on the floor. He was atop her, one hand on her throat to cut off her breathing, the other jerking her head in an apparent effort to break her neck, Mrs. Schmoker said. His head was showing over the edge of the bed.

That is where Junior shot him. "Right through here," the boy's younger brother said this morning, indicating either side of his head.

HAD MRS. SCHMOKER tried to get help in the past?

She had consulted doctors, she said today. Most of them said they were not psychiatrists; they were physicians. One, whom her husband did agree to see, told the man his trouble was too much drinking and cigarettes.

No one referred Mrs. Schmoker to a psychiatrist or suggested that she consult a social agency, she declared today.

"Where can a person go?" she asked.

One place she did not go for help was her church, Dr.

Brynestad said this morning. Mrs. Schmoker and the boys, fairly new members of Central Lutheran, attended services regularly, he said, but Schmoker stayed away.

Mrs. Schmoker confirmed this: "He wouldn't go to church," she said of her husband. It was only this morning, when he was called to minister to the family, that he learned how serious the problem had been, Dr. Brynestad said. Those who knew Schmoker say he was a big man, who often became loud and sometimes bellicose when he drank. HE SEEMED TO HAVE fears that would be released by alcohol, acquaintances said. He had worried about going to war before his military service during World War II; today, he worried about his job and his wife. Lately, he had been writing checks at the Goodview municipal liquor store, asking that they be held until he could cover them with future paychecks, his wife said today. Alcohol was his refuge, some said, but it only made things

Hamm's announces a completely new 12-ounce beer can—the result of a $21,000,000 research and development program.

What's in it for you?

This is your opportunity to taste beer at its very best. It's the first big breakthrough in beer packaging since the bottle was invented. Here are the facts you will want to know:

Beer is at its best only when absolutely fresh, brewery fresh, at the moment it's packaged.

Beer does not improve in flavor after packaging. Yes, aging is important. But the aging takes place in the brewing—not in the container. So the fresher the beer, the better it tastes.

Does any package protect this delicate freshness?

Packaging has been a major problem to brewers for years because light, air, and temperature extremes may affect the flavor of beer.

Even the dark brown bottle can't keep out all the destructive forces of light. That is why bottled beer should not be exposed to direct light.

At last, a package that is virtually foolproof!

It's a new 12-ounce seamless, all-aluminum can—developed after seven years of research by the Reynolds Metals Company and Hamm's, at the staggering cost of $21,000,000.

This is a major breakthrough in beer packaging. And we are proud to announce that Hamm's has this package exclusively.

This is the package the beer industry and packaging manufacturers have been seeking for 32 years—ever since the repeal of prohibition.

Seamless...to seal in freshness.

Unlike other beer cans, this one has no seam on the sideno seam on the bottom.

It's formed from one piece of aluminum. With this can, the original freshness of Hamm's is sealed in tight-until you're ready.

Rustproof aluminum guards the pure flavor of Hamm's.

With aluminum, there is no possibility of rusting. And this new can is all aluminum—so friendly to the taste of beer.

We believe you will prefer Hamm's in this new container over any other beer.

And this modern package is lighter, brighter, easier to handle. Chills fast. Feels smooth.

Doesn't all this make Hamm's the most sensible beer to buy?

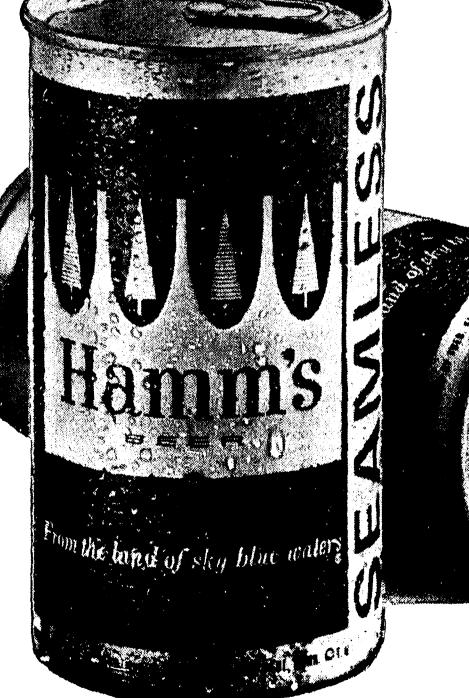

Only Hamm's has it, and at no extra cost.

That's right. No one else has this remarkable new package.

And Hamm's brings it to you at no increase in price. So why not try it today?

Put these new cans on ice and see how fast they get cold. Take one in your hand... wet and smooth and colder than you'd believe possible.

That's what's in Hamm's new package for you. So pour yourself some real freshness—have yourself a Hamm's.

Possible Area Of Conflict

PEOPLE WHO OWN summer cabins in Minnesota are not always too happy with their lot. For one thing, most of them complain that they pay a larger proportion of local taxes than they should. The complaint centers around the fact that they do not benefit from the schools and some other local services financed by these taxes. They say local tax assessors are prone to place higher valuations on property belonging to non-residents than on property of equal value owned by year-round residents of the

So much for their pocketbook grievances. Now they may have reason for further annoyance. For their importance to the state's economy has been challenged.

Minnesotans should be more interested in the people who come from afar to stay at resorts than in those who spend their holidays at their own cottages, concludes a report emanating from the University of Minnesota's Duluth branch.

The report authored by three UM-D professors was made at the request of state officials. It is in the nature of a study of the impact on the economy that might be expected if the proposed Voyageurs National Park on the Kabetogama Peninsula were established. The authors concluded that the public interest would best be served by the development of a park that would attract tourists in large numbers — even if summer cottage owners were dispossessed in the process.

THE STUDY BORROWS heavily from data collected by one of the authors, R. O. Sielaff, evalutes probable revenue from tourists compared with present expenditures of cottage owners, and concludes that from a dollars-and-cents viewpoint tourists are to be preferred over cottagers.

Sielaff found that the average tourist to Northern Minnesota spends $6.82 a day and stays about nine days. A typical tourist party spends $262 on a summer visit to Minnesota.

Summer home owners have longer sojourns, but they spend less per day. He aspessed their average expenditures at $466

From these figures the conclusion is reached that "two tourist families . . . will spend on the average more than one typical summer home family (and) an attractive resort cabin might, during a season of three to four months, house six to ten tourist families for a week and a half each with total expenditures from $1,500 to $2,-500 per cabin."

The authors maintain that if the establishment of a national park on the international border caused the construction of but 32 cabins, the income from them would equal that derived from the 138 summer homes within the proposed park boundaries that would be eliminated in the transition of the area to public ownership.

THE EXPECTATION is, of course, that a far larger number of resort accommodations would be built. In fact, the professors estimate the annual resultant spending might reach two million dollars - right off the bat.

The professors make out a good case for tourist promotion - at least in the specified area. But it is undoubtedly a distorted one in-so-far as it overminimizes the value to the state and its people of widespread private property ownership in the recreational regions.

Minnesotans are urging industry to locate here. And we tell prospective newcomers of the advantages of living in this state — one of them being the ease with which a man can slip away from his office or work bench on a Friday afternoon, pick up his family, and head for a nice place of his own (be it a fairly pretentious summer home or a modest hunting or fishing shack) where all can enjoy the great outdoors. People who work in most cities elsewhere don't have such advan-

PERHAPS THERE is no need to worry about tourists crowding out summer residents. Wise land use planning can accommodate a much larger number of tourists without inconveniencing summer home owners. But if the time comes when the two groups find themselves on a collision course, the interests of Minnesota residents and taxpayers should not be roughly brushed aside.

Congressional reform is widely discussed. If there's half as much reform as there has been talk, we'll see the biggest changes in history.

Behold, happy is the man whom God correcteth: Therefore despise not thou the chastening of the Almighty. Job 5:17.

TODAY IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Taft-Hartley Study Sought

WASHINGTON - If Congress re-opens the Taft-Hartley act for amendments, there certainly will be an effort by employers to make sure that the language of the law will be clarified so that their own "civil rights" are preserved. For today the National Labor Relations Board is willing to approve as a bona fide election the votes marked on cards distributed privately by the unions themselves, and the burden is then placed on the employer to prove that when he questions the validity of the cards he is doing so in "good faith."

This correspondent recently drew attention to the weakness in present procedures, and the labor board now has written him a letter taking issue with the view expressed. The letter, signed by the executive secretary of the board, claims that it is a misrepresentation and misleading to imply that a card ballot cannot be a valid method of holding an election. The board's explanation is as follows:

"THE BOARD will not order an employer who has a good-faith doubt as to a union's majority status and who has committed no unfair labor practices to bargain with a union unless and until that union wins a fair elec-

"In other words, an employer who has a good-faith doubt of a union's majority status is entitled to a secret-ballot election unless he has so interfered with the free choice of his employes as to make a fair election impossible. It is only in such circumstances that the board will accept a union's cards instead of an election as proof of majority, and the board and the courts have followed this policy for 30

The board's letter emphasizes that the employer can, in court, "try to show that the cards were obtained by coercion or misrepresentation or intimidation or even that they were forged." The board itself does no policing of the methods by which the signatures are obtained. Employes complain that getting proof is difficult when employes are afraid to talk for fear of union reprisals.

THE BOARD'S letter says that cases of this kind are few and points out that the number in which a union's majority status was based on cards would approximate 200 in the three years from July 1, 1961, through June 30, 1964, and then adds:

"In sum, the employer with clean hands can ask for and get a secret-ballot election, and in the overwhelming majority of cases, this is exactly what happens.'

But many an employer who is well aware of the pressure put upon his employes but who cannot produce enough evidence to satisfy the Labor Board is reluctant to go into a lengthy legal battle to obtain his "civil rights."

Congress apparently thought it had taken this power away from the board when it passed the Taft-Hartley act in 1947, amending the Wagner act. Under the latter statute, the board was empowered, in determining employes' desires as to union representation, to use a secretballot election or "any other suitable method to ascertain such representatives." The Taft-Hartley act, however, specifically removed from the law the provision for "any other suitable method." The board itself, in its 1948 annual report, said:

"SECTION 9 (C) of the act, as amended, prescribes the election by secret ballot as the sole method of resolving a question concerning representation, and leaves the board without the discretion it formerly possessed - but rarely exercised - to utilize other 'suitable means' of ascertaining representatives.'

According to complaints by businessmen, the NLRB nowadays is using card-checking as a "suitable method" of conducting elections even more than it did before the Taft-Hartley law took that discretionary power from them.

In one case, in 1964, the board ruled that an employer had violated the National Labor Relations Act by refusing to bargain with a union which claimed a majority of his employes and insisting upon a board-conducted election. The board held that the employer's request for an election before granting recognition of the union was motivated, not by any bona fide doubt of the union's majority status, but by a desire to gain time in which to persuade his employes not to vote to join the union.

WASHINGTON - The second big question which American ambassadors to Pacific nations, meeting in the Philippines tihs week, are debating is whether the U.S. retaliatory air raids on North Viet Nam have pushed the two bitter factions of the Communist world together.

If so, this could set back one of the greatest American diplomatic triumphs of the decade and unite Chinese manpower with Russian nuclear power in an unbeatable threat to the

The American ambassadors know that previously Moscow had called a meeting of European Communist nations to try to work out the problems of Chinese-Russian friction. They also know that most of the European Communist leaders did not want to get in the middle of this row Only Bulgarians and the East Germans failed to know considerably more than the American public about recent harmony between the Kremlin and the White House. It began when the President overrode right wing congressionobjections to selling wheat to Russia in December, 1963, and was further emphasized by Johnson's reduction of 26 surplus military bases and a cut of 21,-000 civilian defense personnel, announced Dec. 7, 1963, followed by Khrushchev's announcement Dec. 14 of a cut in the Russian military budget.

Later, in April, '64, Johnson cut back our plutonium and enriched uranium stockpiles 20 percent and 40 percent respectively, and Khrushehev matched this cut the same day. In May, the two

In response to Mr. Wagner's letter appearing in Monday's paper I would like to ask him if he ever wondered what the "American College Boy" did on the 364 days of the year when raids were not scheduled. I realize, of course, that when he wrote his letter Mr. Wagner overlooked, or was ignorant of, the fact that all of the raiders were not enrolled in college and that actually only a very low percentage of "our students" engage in raids on dormitories.

Perhaps Mr. Wagner, and any who sympathize with him, should visit one of the neighboring colleges. They might be amazed to find the "American College Boy" giving blood or attending a meeting of the Armed Forces "Ready Reserve."

Raid Investigation Disturbs Mabel Man To the Editor:

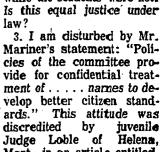

As a Minnesota taxpayer I am much disturbed by some of the facts reported in your issue of Feb. 15 concerning the recent outbreak of violence at Winoma State College.

1. I am disturbed that the investigation and disciplining of the students involved is being handed over to the "student citizenship com-mittee." If they had been mittee." doing the job their name implies this riot would never have happened. The fact that this violence occurred in their jurisdiction thoroughly discredits this "committee." I think that this may be a "pass the buck attitude on the part of the duly constituted college authorities.

vide for confidential treatment of names to develop better citizen standards." This attitude was discredited by juvenile Judge Loble of Helena, Mont., in an article entitled, "Open House for Young Hoodlums," published in December, 1963, issue of American Legion Magazine and reprinted in April, 1964, Readers' Digest. He credits full publicity of offenders names (and of their parents) as being partially responsible for cutting juvenile crime in his district.

I appreciate the situation of the college authorities. But I believe they should publish the names of all the guilty-be they college men or outsiders. Their duty is to reassure the parents of the terrorized girls, interested outsiders such as I, and even the parents of the guilty men.

To Your Good Health

Many Items Involved in Facial IIIs

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss muscular twitching and jerking around the eye and mouth, and back to one ear. I am afraid this causes my severe headaches and the numbness on that side of my head.

I can give you a number of possibilities. It is highly probable that you will need a lot of help from your doctor in identifying the correct cause, but it will be worth the time and effort.

This twitching (tic) is often dismissed as being a habit developed by nervous or neurotic individuals. And so, indeed, it sometimes is. But there are also other and quite different causes. There are cases in which such tics give evidence of being an aftermath of certain types of encephalitis or inflammation of the brain.

NEURALGIA OF the facial nerve can cause twitching of both the mouth and eye, since branches of this nerve serve both areas. In a good many cases (and probably from widely differing basic causes (attacks of the twitching can be touched off by fatigue, by emotional excitement, and sometimes even by vigorous use of the facial muscles. Hard chewing is one example.

Some nervous individuals quite unconsciously tense their facial muscles to the point of fatigue and pain, and both the twitching and headaches could be related to this. Muscle tension, in fact, is a very common cause of headache, the socalled tension headache.

MALOCCLUSION, a faulty bite of the teeth, can be a contributor to such tension, and dental correction sometimes is a fundamental treatment.

So the problem can become quite complicated and may require investigation of more than one of the factors we've discussed.

College Student From Ghana Tells About Native Land

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) - Mias Philomena Croffee, native of Ghana on the Gulf of Guinea in West Africa; spoke on her home and customs at the Monday meeting of the Columbian Women.

Miss Croffee described the climate of Ghana, its crops and resources and explained how the native dress of the women is designed so that mothers can carry their babies in a kind of sack on their backs as they work. They assist with the farm work in addition to doing housework and seem healthy, because they get much exercise, she said.

She told about the large homes in Ghana, which are planned to accommodate the usual large families, including grandparents, uncles and aunts. Marriages in her country, Miss Croffee said, are arranged by the family. There is polygamy in some non-Christian families, so that some men have two or three wives to help with the

Fillmore Co. For Tuesday

LANESBORO, Minn. - The Fillmore County Market Hog Show will be held at the Lanesboro Sales Commission Tues-

The show will combine a live market pen show of 2 hogs, a live individual show, a carcass contest and a judging contest between Fillmore and Houston County farmers.

RULES set up by the committee are:

Each family or firm may enter a pen of 2 hogs which may be either barrows or gilts or one barrow and one gilt.

All hogs will be paid for on a grade and yield basis starting at 50 cents per hundred over the Feb. 23 Hormel market. Hogs must weigh between 200 and 240 pounds.

Carcass prizes are: First, $20; second, $17; third, $15; fourth, $13; fifth, $11; sixth, $9; seventh. $7; eighth, $5, and ninth, $3. These prizes are based on 25 or more entries.

Carcass money will be paid only on entries which meet the following certification standards: Carcass length of at least Mrs. Bennie Johnson, Whitehall, 29 inches; not more than 1.6 and Nola Jean Stasiak, daughinches backfat average; at least ter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Staa 4 square inch loin eye; a 14 siak, Holmen. percent skinned ham on basis of live weight, and carcass of satisfactory meat quality.

Farmers must designate the carcass contest and the live show individual hogs. Hogs must be delivered to the Lanesboro Sales barn before 10 a.m. Tuesday.

HOGS will be shown as pairs or pens. Awards will be given to top 5 pens. Farmers then will designate live show individual and carcass contest animals. Individual live show entries will be judged and awards given. The FFA Foundation forestry Another part of the show will be a contest between the judge and the exhibitor. Each will give Hobbs, Winona, son of Mr. and the estimated ham loin index. All farmers who come closer than the judge on the carcass results will share proportionally THE CHAPTER presented in prizes.

ALMA, Wis. - The zoning ordinance being considered for Buffalo County will provide for six basic use districts; residences, agricultural, recreation, flood plain, commercial and industrial, says Archie Brovold, Buffalo County agent. Within these districts, certain uses are permitted and others are prohibited. For example, industrial and most commercial uses are not permitted within a resident district.

Besides establishing areas for certain uses, the ordinance contains provisions for off-street parking and loading, set-back of buildings from highways and minimum lot sizes, he said.

lot sizes for residences are based upon the ability of the soil to absorb septic tank effluent. The information which enabled the soils to be so classified is contained in the detailed Soil Survey of Buffalo County. Arcadia's Fredrickson: We'll Be Ready for 'Em (Durand) This Time'

By ROLLIE WUSSOW

Daily News Sports Writer Two variables are of mammoth concern to Arcadia Coach Dick Frederickson and Durand Coach Jim Miners. The first is that should Durand win its game with the Raiders Friday night on the Arcadia floor, it would sew up the Mississippi Valley Conference title, no strings attached. But, should Arcadia win Friday, and then knock off Mondovi next Friday, the Raiders would tie with the Panthers for the loop title. Last year's titlist, Mondovi, is out of the run-

"This is the one we've been waiting for,"

says Fredrickson. "I think we've improved an awful lot since the beginning of the season, especially since the first Durand game (the Panthers took a 72-51 win). We'll be ready.

Fredrickson points out that his charges were a bit rusty in the first meeting due to a twoweek layoff.

"I think we got the kinks out against Whitehall Tuesday," said Fredrickson. "We trailed by only two in the third quarter but lost by 14. Even so, we'll be more prepared for 'em (Durand)

Fredrickson credits his underclassmen for bringing the team around since the early part of the season. "Mike Lien, a 6-2 sophomore, John Rosenow, a 6-1 freshman, and Bud Benusa, a

for us," stated Fredrickson. "If they have good nights Friday we'll have a good chance of beating

The main worry for the Raiders seems to be the ominous presence of Dale Harschlip, who tallied 32 points in the first meeting between the two schools. "He's their big gun," says Fredrickson.. "Kralewski (Wayne) is no slouch either."

Arcadia starters will be Benusa at center. Torn Kostner and Rollie Thomas at guards and Pat Maloney and either Lien or Rosenow at for-

Miner will go with 6-3 Kralewski, Dale Walker, Harschlip, Joe Langlois and 6-3 Steve Brack.

The Panthers are a greatly improved team this year. They rank 9-7 over-all as compared to a year ago when they finished with a 2-2 league slate and 3-15 over-all. Fredrickson, a Durand native, is quite confident that Durand has improved since the first contest, too.

Game time is slated for 8 p.m.

Other top games in the area Friday have Stewartville at Kenyon, Lake City at Cannon Falls and Zumbrota at St. Charles in the Hiawatha Valley, and West Concord at Hayfield in the Wasioja.

Rushford has a top date scheduled at Peterson in the Root River, while Spring Grove treks to Caledonia in another Root River contest.

In a "must" game, West Salem, currently one game out of first place in the Coulee, hosts top rated Holmen in what will be a battle all the way for the Vikings without Eino Hendrickson. Holmen Coach Dean Uhls has said West Salem is the team that gave his Vikes the most trouble this year, even when they had the services

HARMONY, Minn. - Ask Harmony wrestling coach Gordon Matson his rule for success and the answer would probably go something like this: "Give me 11 farm boys, one city slicker plus dedication and we'll do the job."

That, at least, has been the formula for a standout 1964-65 season that has seen the Cardinals compile a 10-11. dual meet record while winning the Southeastern Conference championship. Naturally Matson's team is the favorite for the District One title at Houston Saturday.

The team this year is made up of 11 farm boys and - Jim Scrabeck - from the city. The coach himself sets the pattern, farming 300 acres as well as teaching in the afternoons.

The coach has his sorn, Gerri, as a stalwart 127pound performer. He is umdefeated in dual meets this vear and has a total 33-2-2 over two years, excluding pre-season tournament corn-

"We usually finish chores about 8:30," smiles the coach, a trim 6-3 225-pounder. "Then Gerri goes on a two-mile run for a little extra conditioning."

The team is made up of a long list of standout performers, who use hard work

Greg McCabe at 95 has won nine straight after los ing two of his first three matches; David Engle, a senior whom the coach rates as one of the best squad leaders in the state, has a three-year record of 61-4 and is undefeated at 165. He has been conference champion for three years, district champion for two and also has won the Rochester Invitational for two years in preseason competition. Ken Vagts is 12-2 at 138 and the runnerup in conference warfare while John Engle at 133 has a 10-3-1 mark. He is a

Of Dave Engle, the coach says: "I think he will make a great college wrestler. He certainly has the qualities. We wrestled him at heavyweight in the conference and he pinned all three opponents in about five minutes of total time and they all outweighed him by about 40 pounds per man.'

Yes, it has been a truly great winter season at Harmony where the basketball team also ranks as a District One powerhouse with a 16-1 record.

IT MUST BE SAID that Jack Dempsey's boys knew what they were talking about when they picked Jim Donlinger, the farm boy from Millville who now attends Winona State, the No. 1 pro prospect in their talent hunt for heavyweights three years ago.

Donlinger flashed through the Upper Midwest Golden Gloves field, defeating Roger Busch of Blue Earth in the finals, to become the first Rochester heavyweight to win an Upper Midwest title. In fact, it was the first title for a Rochester team since one Duane Horsman won six years ago.

Donlinger, who has an array of professional offers awaiting him, is eligible to fight in the national tourney at Kansas City March Donlinger The graceful heavyweight drew the plaudits of one man who should know-Rocky Marciano, who was in the Mill City to officiate the main event of a professional wrestling card. Marciano worked the Donlinger - Richard Peck semifinal bout and came away amazed. "The kid looked awfuly good,"

At any rate, Donlinger should do much to revive interest in the gloves sport in this area. A champion is always a top drawing card.

TO SAY THAT INTEREST in high school wrestling is not increasing would be in error. The prep mat sport is drawing additional fans all the time.

The winner will play the State University Conference champion two days later for the right to enter the national tournament starting March 8 in Kansas

In tonight's only game, Northand, 8-10, is at Bethel.

Limited action Friday night has Beloit, 7-6, at Cornell, 4-5, in a Midwest Conference game. Lakeland goes to Illinois-Chicago, 6-4, and second in the Gateway Conference. St. Norbert will entertain Dominican and Northland is at Northwestern of Minnesota.

On Saturday, La Crosse, apparently headed for its second southstraight State University Conference title, will risk its 11-0 record at Stout, second on a 9-4 record.

According to L.B.J.'s budget report, two out of three farmers will be leaving their farms as a result of low prices and rising costs of production. Hundreds of thousands of farmers in the U.S. and hundreds in your own county have joined the NFO in an effort to protect their families and farms. We can do the job with your help, so investigate the plan. If interested, Tel. 3765, 4737 or 2773 at Lewiston.

103 YEARS IN DIAMONDS

Worth Looking Into!

THE merit and worth of any diamond ring is mostly in the diamond or diamonds it contains.

And the value and beauty of every diamond is more than "skin deep". So get the "inside story" before you make this important investment; see for yourself the internal quality of the diamond of your choice through the binocular Diamondscope we have leased from the American Gem Society. Compare it for color against our master graded stones under the approved color-corrected light in our diamond room.

In every diamond ring, the heart of the matter is the diamond. Worth looking into!
