Power Plant Near Haiphong Blasted

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief jets blasted a major power plant today 14 miles northeast of Haiphong, North Viet Nam's major port. It was the first American strike in the Communist foe's industrial heartland in the Red River delta.

Pilots reported that they had hit the heart of the Uong Bi steam power plant and many secondary explosions followed. A U.S. spokesman said the raid knocked out the plant, which he said supplies 15 per cent of North Viet Nam's electric power and is the primary power source for the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

One plane was shot down but the pilot, Capt. Harry D. De Witt of Moscow, Idaho, was rescued. He suffered a broken leg and facial injuries.

The escalation of the air war against the Communist North came as U.S. military spokesmen announced that U.S. combat dead climbed last week to 81, the second highest weekly toll of the Vietnamese fighting. Seven other Americans were reported missing or captured and 316 wounded in the seven-day period that ended at mid-

McNamara Asks NATO to Help

PARIS, (AP) — Another call for token help for the United States in Viet Nam was sounded today by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara at the annual meeting of NATO ministers.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk appealed to America's partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Tuesday to send doctors and engineers to the war in Southeast Asia. Rusk did not ask for troops.

Like Rusk McNamara stressed that the United States stands firmly committed in Viet Nam and that a show of unity by the Atlantic Alliance would discourage Communist aggression elsewhere.

U.S. sources said NATO support of American policies in Southeast Asia would also discourage Communist China and North Viet Nam from thinking the United States will back down because its allies do not support its stand.

West Germany, Italy and Luxembourg have already sent medical personnel to Viet Nam. The West Germans have also contributed money.

France has openly criticized the U.S. intervention in Viet Nam and there seemed little hope it would contribute anything.

A clash developed Tuesday when France challenged American plans to share responsibility for nuclear strategy with other NATO members, including West Germany.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville argued that a special committee prompted by McNamara to deal with the problem should be only a temporary body. West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder said the committee should be permanent.

The West Germans are anxious to keep alive the prospect that they will get a voice in the alliance's nuclear strategy, either through the American-proposed multilateral force — MLF — of surface ships armed with Polaris missiles or through the broader British plan for an Atlantic nuclear force — ANF — of planes and submarines.

Craft Only Little Over 100 Feet From Each Other

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 6 and 7 astronauts conducted the world's first rendezvous in space today — a momentous space feat and one of man's greatest adventures.

The successful in-flight formation of the two craft, slightly more than 100 feet apart, pushed the United States past a major milestone on the road to the moon.

Word of the spine-tingling feat came in a calm voice from astronaut Thomas P. Stafford aboard Gemini 6.

"We're at 120 feet and sit-

Wilson Flying To U.S. to Meet Johnson

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson flies to the United States today to talk with President Johnson and to address the U.N. General Assembly. Viet Nam and Rhodesia are expected to be his chief topics.

Wilson's aides said he may announce tougher sanctions, including an oil embargo, against Rhodesia's rebel white minority regime when he speaks to the assembly Thursday.

Such an embargo would need the support of the United States to airlift oil to landlocked Zambia, Rhodesia's black-ruled northern neighbor.

Wilson is expected to discuss the airlift with Johnson in Washington Friday. Talks between U.S., British and Zambian officials have been going on since Rhodesia declared its independence from Britain Nov. 11.

Wilson told Parliament Tuesday night he would discuss prospects for peace in Viet Nam with the American President. He said if North Viet Nam indicates it will come to the conference table if the United States halts its bombings, then Britain would want to pursue the suggestion. He said that Hanoi so far has not indicated it is willing to negotiate.

Wilson said he still favors a simultaneous stop in American bombing of North Viet Nam and in North Vietnamese intervention in South Viet Nam.

Wilson has been under increasing pressure from left-wing members of his Labor party opposed to his alignment with the American stand in Viet Nam.

Famed Award Presented By Humphrey

Max Conrad, Winona's famed 62-year-old "Flying Grandfather," has been given the Harmon trophy international award for his 7,878-mile nonstop transatlantic flight a year ago. Making the presentation Tuesday in the nation's capital was Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. The vice president said he was particularly pleased to present the award to another Minnesotan.

He also presented an award posthumously to Joan Merriam Smith for the first round-the-world equatorial solo flight in the spring of 1964. She was killed in a light plane crash in California last February.

The award was accepted by Mrs. Smith's husband, Navy Lt. Cmdr Marvin G. Smith Jr. and by her mother, Mrs. Arne Merriam of Miami, Fla.

Witnessing the presentation to Conrad were his wife Betty and the eldest son among their 10 children, Max (Terry) Conrad III, a soldier at Fort Knox, Ky.

His 57-hour flight was from Capetown, South Africa, to St. Petersburg, Fla., in December of 1964.

He recalled that one of his last thoughts prior to the Christmas flight was, "This time I have taken too big a bite."

He has piloted single-engine and twin-engine planes across the Atlantic 129 times, mostly east-bound, and across the Pacific.

4-10-Inch Snow Covers Kansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Subzero cold drove southward from the northern Rockies today behind a snowstorm which spread a 4-to-10 inch snow band through western and central Kansas.

Another disturbance sifted snow from the Northern Plains to New England but in generally lighter amounts. A two-inch fall at Hibbing, Minn., thickened snow cover there to 27 inches.

The cold air sweep, which dropped the reading at Butte, Mont., to 20 below zero, threatened driving hazards in northern Arizona where a snowfall of six inches was indicated, and in parts of central Illinois and Missouri where freezing precipitation was brought with falling temperatures.

Reapportionment Committee to Get Assistance

ST. PAUL (AP) — Dr. Robert G. Dixon Jr., a professor at George Washington University law school and described as a nationally-known authority on reapportionment, will appear before the Minnesota House Reapportionment Committee Friday.

Dixon has published numerous articles and given a number of speeches on reapportionment in the last 1½ years, as well as having testified before congressional committees considering redistricting bills.

His appearance Friday was announced today by Rep. Robert Kucera, Northfield Conservative who is chairman of the committee, which is to consider proposals to reapportion the legislature.

ing," he reported.

The historic moment took place about 185 miles above the Philippine Islands as the two space chariots, each with two astronauts aboard, zipped along nose to nose at more than 17,500 miles an hour.

At the moment of Stafford's announcement, the 40-man team in the mission control center in Houston, stood up, smiled and waved American flags.

With Stafford aboard Gemini 6 was astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr.

Manning Gemini 7 were astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr., who earlier this afternoon completed the 11th of their planned 14 days in orbit.

Gemini 6 was launched from Cape Kennedy at 8:37 a.m. (EST) today and started the suspenseful pursuit that covered more than 100,000 miles over more than 3½ orbits.

Gemini 6 initially was in an orbit ranging from 100 to 161 miles, while Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. raced around in a near-circular path of 183 to 188 miles.

Schirra and Stafford, who started out 1,200 miles behind Gemini 7, planned eight jet firing maneuvers to gradually move into the same orbital path as the target. Each move slightly increases the speed, which initially was about 17,500 miles an hour.

The first maneuver, at 10:12 a.m. over the Gulf of Mexico, raised the high point of the Gemini 6 orbit to 170 miles.

At 10:55 a.m., over the Indian Ocean, a blast of the small jets elevated the low point to 135 miles.

After this second shift, the distance between the two space ships was reduced to 495 miles.

"Everything looks good," flight director Chris Kraft told the pilots.

"It was completely nominal (normal)," said mission control of the second orbital maneuver. Gemini 6 reported it was able to monitor through mission control center transmissions from Gemini 7 to the ground. Later, when they have each other in sight, Gemini 6 and 7 will be able to carry on a direct conversation.

Schirra reported his cabin temperature was slightly higher than expected — about 90 degrees — but it was dropping and was not a problem.

He also reported seeing the star constellation Orion, which Schirra and Stafford selected as part of the symbol for their flight. Orion in mythology was a hunter.

Gemini 7 entered its 163rd orbit at 8:12 a.m. (Winona time). Only a few minutes after the perfect launch, Schirra and Stafford got a go-ahead from confident mission directors on the ground for a fourth-orbit rendezvous.

An elated Schirra responded: "You've got a big fat go from us!"

Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell, who had been flying in the comfort of their cotton underwear, were instructed to get back into their space suits for the completion of the rendezvous.

Borman and Lovell were about 185 miles high, some 200 miles south of the Cape, when the Titan blasted into the skies.

"We didn't get to see the lift-off," Lovell called, "but we saw them coming through the clouds."

Six minutes later, when mission control announced that Gemini 6 had achieved its orbit, Gemini 7 had streaked 1,200 miles ahead and the chase was on — featuring a record cast of four U.S. astronauts.

Borman and Lovell were nearing the end of the 11th of their 14 planned days in space.

The dramatic pursuit was to cover about 105,000 miles during which Schirra and Stafford were to make a series of orbit-shifting maneuvers to close gradually with Gemini 6.

If all goes right, the rendezvous was to have taken place at 2:28 p.m. today. At that time, the two spacecraft should be within 100 feet of each other, zipping along at 17,500 miles an hour 185 miles above the Mariana Islands in the western Pacific.

Searchers Find Lovelace Plane

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A helicopter pilot reported today he had seen wreckage of a light plane similar to one which vanished Sunday with three persons aboard, including the nation's director of space medicine.

The wreckage was at a spot 11,000 feet high on rugged Independence Pass, a few miles east of Aspen.

The sighting was announced by Col. William A. Ryan Jr., search mission commander for the Air Force.

The pilot reported he got within 100 feet of the wreckage and apparently the craft hit hard against a mountainside.

Aboard the missing craft were Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace II, a pioneer in space medicine and owner of an Albuquerque, N.M., clinic; his wife, Mary, 53, and their pilot, Milton Brown, 27, also of Albuquerque.

The aerial search had been hampered by snow.

The Colorado Civil Air Patrol was considering the possibility that the travelers never got beyond the 12,095-foot Independence Pass near Aspen after leaving the resort town Sunday on a flight to Albuquerque.

Maj. Elmer Smaller of Canon City said the plane was observed turning east after leaving Aspen, apparently attempting to fly over the pass. He said there was no evidence that it had cleared it.

A four-engine HC130 from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., covered 700 miles in a three-hour search Tuesday between Aspen and Los Alamos, N.M.

"It was tough trying to get where we could see," said the pilot, Maj. L.C. Berry, 41, of Portsmouth, Va.

Snow covered much of the 30,000-square-mile search area, making the task of spotting a white plane doubly difficult.

No flight plan was filed and the plane's route is uncertain.

Lovelace acted as an adviser on all of the one-man flights in the Mercury space program. Many of his suggestions were incorporated into medical experiments in the current Gemini program, including the 14-day Gemini 7 mission.

Gronouski Meets With Red Chinese

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — John A. Gronouski, the new American ambassador to Poland, today opened a meeting with the Chinese Communist ambassador on the war in Viet Nam.

Gronouski met Wang Kuochuan in Warsaw's Myslowiecki Palace.

It was the first session of the 10-year-old U.S.-China talks attended by Gronouski, the former postmaster general who succeeded John Moors Cabot this month as ambassador to Poland.

Queen Salote Dies In New Zealand

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Queen Salote of Tonga, a giant of a woman who was a favorite at Queen Elizabeth's coronation in 1953, died today in a private hospital. She was 65.

The Polynesian queen had been in Auckland since Nov. 4 for medical treatment.

A dignified woman of quiet charm, Salote stood 6 feet, 3 inches tall and weighed 270 pounds.

Taxes, Aids Reported For Wisconsin Counties

Of the $1,210,911,377 in all taxes collected in Wisconsin for the year ending June 30, all but $616,054,791 went directly to the state.

The latter figure represents general property taxes raised by municipalities for operating their own governments, their schools, and the counties. Other taxes, going directly to the state, were income, motor vehicles, sales, occupational, utilities, and inheritance and gift taxes.

The 1964 total of all taxes was $1,245,601,250—the increase this year was more than $65 million.

State aids paid from its receipts totaled $208,577,101, an increase of more than $5 million from the previous year.

Total educational aids by the state were $103,623,187, of which the largest amount, $84,559,683, went to elementary and high schools.

Welfare aids from the state amounted to $41,432,154. The largest totals were $13,528,936 to county insane asylums and $11,369,286 for old age assistance.

Total highway aids were $54,011,623. Of this total, the largest were $30,360,482 for supplemental road and street aids and $13,011,623 for supplemental county trunk highway aids.

Total miscellaneous aids were $8,638,387.

Among counties in this area, Buffalo County received $1,568,318 in aids and shared taxes, of which $643,516 was for schools; $242,735, local governments, and $21,304, county government.

Jackson County received $2,358,846, of which $1,008,752 was for schools; $371,857, local governments, and $678,140, county government.

Peppa County's contributions totaled $877,399, of which $436,387 was for schools, $109,354 for local governments, and $204,159, county.

State aids and shared taxes in Trempealeau County totaled $2,634,320, of which $1,292,062 was for schools; $35,155, local governments, and $823,418, county government.

Eau Claire County received $5,738,134 in aids and shared taxes; La Crosse County, $5,763,451, and Pierce County, $2,564,233.

Of the total state aids to schools and counties for education, the major amount, $101,180,174, was aids to local schools.

Congress Opens Big Hearing On Blackout

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional inquiry opens today to try to shed more light on the Big Blackout.

But the investigation of the cause and effects of the last month's great power failure in the Northeast probably will lead into the high-voltage field of federal regulation of electric power and how far it should go.

This controversy "was coming to a head," said Rep. Walter E. Rogers, D-Tex., chairman of the House Interstate Commerce subcommittee which is making the inquiry. "The blackout brought it to public attention."

Rogers said he hopes that in addition to "nailing down the basic reason" for the massive power failure—and some other relatively minor blackouts—the inquiry will get "to the bedrock" of U.S. power policy.

"Congress is going to have to decide what the electrical energy policy for the whole country should be," he added.

This would get into the myriad technical, legal and rate-making problems involved in state versus federal regulations and the highly sophisticated interlocking electrical power network.

Joseph C. Swidler, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, was scheduled as the first witness.

Shortly before Congress adjourned, Rogers' subcommittee approved a bill to exempt from the power commission's jurisdiction rural electrification co-operatives, municipal power companies and those electrical firms defined as dealing only in intrastate commerce.

Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., a member of the full committee, said he expected Swidler would seek stiffer regulations as a result of the Nov. 9 failure.

Pickle, who represents President Johnson's home district in Texas, said, "The commission feels that if you turn on a switch in New York it would be felt in Florida, so that everybody's in national system."

"I take the opposite view, that the blackout proves the need for strong regional grid systems to a blackout in New York won't spread to San Francisco."

An investigation by the FPC has indicated that the Northeast blackout originated in Canada. An overload then fed through the interlocking grid system on the American side of the border, triggering automatic cut-off switches and thus blacking out thousands of square miles, including Boston and New York.

Rogers said he hoped by getting at the causes of the power failure a remedy could be found and "if legislation is needed, it will be offered."

Russians to Try New Landing

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union says it plans to start testing a new landing system for space vehicles Thursday.

It warned ships and planes to keep away from an area in the central Pacific Ocean for 5 1/2 months, saying parts of booster rockets may fall there.

The official news agency Tass gave map coordinates for an area about 500 miles south of the Aleutian Islands and 2,000 miles east of Japan. It said the tests would continue until June 1.

Congress Urges New Ways to Aid Domestic Scene

LAKE CITY, Minn.—Congress should explore new ways of helping solve domestic problems, especially in the field of education, Congressman Albert Quie said here today.

He told the Lake City Kiwanis Club that "new methods of utilizing resources to solve national problems should be fully explored, rather than merely depending on huge Federal spending programs which are already expected to push the national budget to $150 billion by 1968."

Quie noted that federal appropriations this year are at $119 billion — although the President's "economy budget" submitted last January called for spending just $99.7 billion.

"With the increase of inflationary trends in the economy and the rising cost of the war in Viet Nam, Congress should look to greater efficiency and time tested concepts of financing domestic programs," the legislator said.

In education, he said, a start might be made by passage of income tax credit plans. Quie said he will introduce legislation next year that would provide a tax credit for the financing of higher education costs by parents, guardians or others who pay for higher education.

"I can think of no system that will provide aid in the area of education with greater efficiency and less potential waste," he said.

The mushrooming costs of domestic programs is illustrated, he said, by just seven major Great Society programs. These seven programs, broken down on a per capita cost basis, could cost Wabasha County $1,183,333 this year alone, he said. This compares to total 1964 state and local real and personal property taxes for the county of $2,448,770.70. At current estimated costs, Quie said, the seven programs could cost the county $7,003,546 over five years.

"In addition, there is often inequitable formulas for distribution of federal funds," he said. "Under the aid to elementary-secondary schools formula Wabasha County could receive $149,180.75 next year. And a county with the same number of eligible pupils in New York would receive $197,811.24." A county with the poorer state of Mississippi would receive just $65,569.20, however.

LA CRESCENT BOOSTERS
LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special)—The La Crescent High School Booster Club will meet tonight at 8 in the high school cafeteria.

Ground has been broken in the former school FFA plot by Colonial Development Corp., which will construct the three-story building.

Six one-bedroom and six two-bedroom apartments will be available, according to P. H. Jenks and Francis Kramer, corporation members. Plans were drawn by Camco, Inc., Minneapolis, which also is constructing the building. Tentative completion date is set for late spring.

Dallas Doctor In Futile Battle For Son's Life

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—"We lost the heart beat during the ambulance ride," said a Dallas physician who had opened his son's chest and massaged the youth's heart back to life in a futile medical battle Tuesday.

Louis Smith, 19, a freshman music student at North Texas State University, died at a hospital seven hours after the emergency operation in his home.

Dr. Louis S. Smith, a pathologist, said a sixth sense caused him to check the condition of his son about 1:30 a.m. The youth had come home from school with a cold and bronchitis.

"I walked into his room, checked his pulse and his heart had stopped beating. I tried to massage it externally, but that did not bring him back.

"I cut his chest with a razor and took his heart in my hand. I began to massage it," Smith said.

Another son Richard, 17, gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation while Mrs. Smith called for an ambulance and firemen.

The massaging and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation continued during the ride to the hospital. Smith said, "he got worse during the trip."

"We lost the heart beat during the ambulance ride because we could not keep his air way open."

Other doctors relieved Smith at the hospital.

"My hand was about dead then — I had been working his heart for about 40 minutes."

The youth died at 8:20 a.m. of a "cardiac standstill."

THE WELFARE aids by counties were:

Buffalo — total, $205,075; old age assistance, $77,274; aid to dependent children, $30,849; insane asylums, $50,551; TB sanatoria, $354; welfare administration, $13,038; blind, $62; disabled, $20,413; nurse, $833, and other, $11,703.

Jackson — total, $404,391; old age assistance, $126,922; ADC, $96,488; insane, $54,130; TB, $3,394; welfare administration, $14,597; blind, $2,496; disabled, $35,658, and other, $68,718.

Peppa — total, $118,133; old age, $41,485; ADC, $23,645; insane, $19,861; TB, $1,560; administration, $10,532; blind, $146; disabled, $3,418; nurse, $167, and other, $7,319.

Trempealeau — total $377,013; old age, $160,684; ADC, $40,392; insane asylum, $98,137; TB, $4,413; administration, $18,276; blind, $7,951; disabled, $19,584; nurse, $1,000, and other, $28,993.

Eau Claire County received $14,920 in welfare aids; La Crosse County, $751,809, and Pierce County, $233,870.

Your Social Security

Q. What is included in the new program of Medicare?

A. There are two parts. One, hospital insurance, will help pay the costs of hospital care, and the other, medical insurance, will help pay doctor bills and certain other medical expenses.

Q. Who is eligible for these benefits?

A. Almost everyone 65 or older. The people who are not covered are some Civil Service employees, aliens who have not been permanent residents for at least 5 years, and people convicted of certain crimes.

Q. How do I sign up for the hospital program?

A. If you receive monthly social security or railroad retirement benefits, you are automatically covered. If you do not receive these benefits, get in touch with your social security district office. Remember, you must be at least 65 to be eligible.

Q. What benefits are payable under hospital insurance?

A. Up to 90 days of hospital care are provided for each spell of illness. You pay the first $40 and $10 daily after 60 days of hospitalization. You are also eligible for outpatient diagnostic services, posthospital home health services, and (effective January 1 1967) posthospital extended care.

Fire Vehicle In Collision On Broadway

Two accidents reported today by police resulted in $294 damage to the three vehicles involved. No injuries occurred. Bruce Johnstone, 1576 W. Howard St., was driving a fire department station wagon west on Broadway Tuesday at 3:35 p.m. when a collision occurred in an eastbound lane with a 1 1/2-ton truck driven south on Huff Street by Roland Hansen, 605 E. Mark St., according to police.

HANSEN TOLD police that he heard the sirens of fire department rigs answering a fire call and saw a ladder truck moving west on Broadway about a block away as he approached the intersection with the green light. Thinking he could make it through the intersection ahead of the ladder truck, Hansen began to make a left turn east onto Broadway when the collision occurred with the fire department station wagon, which he had not seen.

Johnstone had swung into an eastbound lane of Broadway to get around two cars stopped for the red light in the two west-bound traffic lanes. Damage was $125 to the left front of the station wagon and $50 to the left front of the truck, owned by Quality Chevrolet Co., 3rd and Huff streets. Patrolman Richard D. Peterson investigated.

CLAIR P. Hoffman Jr., 25, 372 Lafayette St., reported Tuesday that he struck a car parked on Main Street, 30 feet north of 3rd Street, that morning at 12:10 o'clock. Hoffman told police that he was backing out of a diagonal parking space when he hit the left rear bumper of a second car parked in his right. Hoffman reported $119 damage to the right side of his convertible. The owner of the other car has not been identified.

Judge Suspends Jail Sentence

Judge John D. McGill suspended a jail sentence for a Winona man today after the man produced a $220 receipt for payment of arrearages in support of his child.

In another municipal court appearance, a Winona youth pleaded guilty today to a charge of failure to yield the right of way to another vehicle (causing an accident) Sunday at 2:37 a.m. at East 5th and Wall streets.

Daniel A. Borkowski, 42, 850 W 5th St., who had been under sentence since Monday on his guilty plea to a charge of non-support of his 8-year-old child, produced a receipt today showing that he had paid $220 in overdue support money.

Judge McGill suspended the 30-day sentence he had imposed Monday. The judge had given Borkowski until today to either pay the arrearages in support or begin serving the jail term. William R. Ebert, 19, 983 E. 5th St., paid a $25 fine, imposed by Judge McGill on the failure to yield right of way charge, as the alternative to eight days in jail.

Santa to Fly Into Goodview

Santa Claus will visit the Winona area children Sunday between 2 and 3 p.m. at Max Conrad Field. He will arrive by airplane from the North Pole and will distribute candy canes to the children. This event is sponsored by the Goodview Lions Club.

Legion Auxiliary Participates in Newspaper Plan

The Winona unit of the American Legion Auxiliary is participating in "Operation Home-town Newspaper," a national Legion Auxiliary project. Winona servicemen in Viet Nam, in a special program arranged by the Department of Defense, may request a subscription to the Daily and Sunday News.

First announcement of the project appeared in the Pacific Edition of the Stars and Stripes, servicemen's newspaper, in mid-November. The local Legion Auxiliary unit already has processed one subscription request, according to Mrs. Robert Thaldorf, president.

Santa at Lewiston

LEWISTON, Minn. (Special) — Santa Claus will visit Lewiston Saturday afternoon. Persons having children who are shut-ins due to illness may leave names at Nussloch's store so they won't be forgotten.

November Payrolls Here Highest Ever

Employment in Winona during November reached the highest level ever recorded for that month, according to the Minnesota Department of Employment Security.

Payrolls at the mid-month point listed 11,318 workers, 363 more than in November 1964. The November total represented a slight rise from the October level of 11,296, which also was a record month.

NEARLY ALL categories of employment remained strong,

MSES reported, except for those of service, government and construction. Worker supply has been tight for the past four or five months but demands showed some signs of easing as weather turned colder and some slowdowns occurred. Demand for workers is expected to drop somewhat more in the next several months, employer forecasts indicate.

Manufacturing employment held steady in October while trade, utilities and finance registered small gains.

Within the manufacturing category, textile and apparel, chemicals, paper and allied showed rises in employment. Worker callbacks in knit goods and crew buildups in plastic garments gave the textile apparel group a boost. Production steps in plastic manufacturing raised the number of chemical workers.

SHIFT expansions increased employment in paper and allied industries while layoffs of workers, brought by off-season slowdowns, reduced concrete products employment.

The outlook appears to be for slowly falling employment levels in manufacturing for the next several months, says MSES.

Led by food, accessory and apparel stores and eating and drinking places, retail and wholesale jobs showed small advances. Holiday season employment will produce sharp climbs in this division the rest of this month, employers predicted. Numbers of persons working in construction continued at the highest levels in 14 years. A long, moderate fall allowed contractors to maintain full crews. Higher than normal levels for this season are anticipated through upcoming winter months.

Labor demand has been heavy for most of this year, falling off only recently as hiring activity slowed. The strongest needs continue to be in manufacturing, the report says.

Labor supply showed some increases at the end of November. Approximately 725 applicants were registered for work at the employment office, according to Ray H. Brown, manager. Of these 225 were students and others seeking part time work.

Fillmore Board OKs Insurance

PRESTON, Minn. (Special) — Fillmore County Commissioners Tuesday renewed Blue Shield insurance on county employees.

The board voted to take a workmen's compensation policy with Osterud Agency, Spring Valley, and authorized the same company to renew its insurance on county money in securities.

The board authorized the county nursing services to charge fees where patients are able to pay, as provided in a new state law. Service will be provided free of charge as usual to persons unable to pay.

Philip Milne, Jerry Doering and David Sunde of the highway department were authorized to attend an introductory survey course that will be given at Rochester in evening and Saturday classes.

Adjustments in assessed valuation were granted Rochester Co-op, Harmony, Robert Fischer, Chatfield, and Walter Inman, Spring Valley. Merrill Benson, Harmony, and Emery Eickhoff, Fountain, discussed with the board resolutions passed at the annual county Farm Bureau meeting.

Jaycees Begin Monthly Award

William Doerer, 219 E. Wabasha St., was named Jaycee of the month at a meeting Tuesday night of the Winona chapter at the Winona Athletic Club.

The chapter plans to make a similar citation each month, members said. Doerer was named on the basis of inner chapter development work and achievement in the community. He has been a Jaycee since 1961.

Doerer, 25, is also a member of Rotary, YMCA, Elks, Winona County Club and St. Paul's Episcopal Church. He attended Winona Senior High School and Winona State College and graduated in 1961 from the University of Miami with a degree in business administration. He is currently publicity chairman for the Winona County Republican Committee and was Steamboat Days captain in 1962. He has held a number of offices and chairmanships in the Jaycees.

La Crescent Scouts Plan Paper Pickup

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — Boy Scout Troop 33, sponsored by the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, will conduct its second pick-up of paper Saturday starting at 9 a.m.

Persons who have paper for the scouts are asked to tie them in bundles so that the boys can handle them and place them in their curbs before 9 a.m. In case of precipitation, residents may leave their porch lights burning and the Scouts will call for the papers at the door.

CONRAD

(Continued from Page 1) tic 20 times, mostly west-bound. Usually it was to deliver aircraft to buyers. He estimates he has spent more than 46,000 hours in the air since his first flight in 1928.

Time May Be Catching Up With Famed Flier

The following story appeared in today's St. Paul Pioneer Press, written by Al Eisele of the newspaper's Washington, D.C. Bureau.

WASHINGTON — Father Time finally may be catching up with the nation's most famous flying granddaddy.

Max Conrad, the 82-year-old Winona native, reluctantly admitted as much Tuesday when he came to Washington to accept one of aviation's most coveted trophies.

Conrad was presented the Harmon trophy by Vice President Hubert Humphrey in recognition of his latest record flying feat, the 57-hour, non-stop solo flight of 7,878 miles from South Africa to Florida late in December last year.

"There are still a lot of things that look exciting to me, but I'm having a hard time getting somebody to sponsor any new flights," Conrad said in an interview after the ceremony.

"THEY'RE kind of putting me out to pasture, but I'm re-belling a little bit — I'm not ready to go just yet."

Conrad said he "had hoped there would be more flights" sponsored by Piper Airplane Co., whose twin engine Comanche light plane he flew on the record 1964 flight. "I keep thinking of all kinds of possibilities but I don't hear anything from them. Maybe they don't want to try anything else."

Conrad came to Washington from the west coast. He had flown a plane from Pennsylvania to be specially altered. He will fly the plane to Korea after New Year's for a private customer.

There are still worlds to conquer despite his age, Conrad emphasized. His 1964 flight created a new category of light planes. "There never used to be a Class 5 plane which is between 6,600 and 13,000 pounds, but now there are a whole list of things that can be done in that category."

BUT HIGHEST on his priority list if he can get a sponsor is to recover the first record he ever held. In 1950, he flew non-stop 2,641 miles from California to New York, for a new distance record for planes up to 2,204 pounds.

That record was broken by a Czech pilot, who flew non-stop 2,774 miles. "I didn't like to have that taken away, especially by a foreign country," Conrad said.

"That's probably my secret, gnawing ambition, to get that record back," he added. "I would like to be able to go at least 3,000 miles in that same class of light airplane."

Conrad's wife and one of their 10 children, 22-year-old Max III, were on hand for the presentation. The son is in the army at Fort Knox, Ky.

THE VICE president praised Conrad for his flying achievements, calling his flight "almost unbelievable." Humphrey noted that Conrad is the first general aviation pilot to win the trophy, established in 1927 by a pioneer American aviator and balloonist.

"If you'll pardon a little local pride," Humphrey commented, "Charles Lindbergh came from Little Falls Minn., and Max Conrad comes from Winona, Minn." Lindbergh won the Harmon trophy for his 1927 flight from New York to Paris.

"They've both moved since then, but we still claim them as Minnesotans, Humphrey added. The Conrads now live in Prescott, Ariz.

HUMPHREY called Conrad's flying feat "every bit as exciting as the astronaut flights." He said Conrad has provided "a continuing inspiration to the light plane pilots of the world."

Conrad, in accepting the trophy, said that "a year ago right now, I wasn't expecting to be here."

Humphrey presented the 1965 Harmon aviatrix trophy to Navy Lt. Cmdr. Jack Smith, husband of the late Joan Merriam Smith of Long Beach, Calif. Mrs. Smith flew solo for 27,000 miles along the equator in 1964. She was killed on a routine test flight in California last February.

Dregney Selected As Pepin Co. Radio Operator

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — The Pepin County Board of Supervisors, sheriffs and justices committee Tuesday night selected Gary Dregney, 22, rural Mondovi, as radio operator and deputy sheriff at the county jail beginning Jan. 1.

Dregney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dregney, Town of Albany. Gary was selected among 15 who applied. His salary will be $350 a month.

Jury Split In Silo Case; It's Mistrial

The judge called the jury in after nearly 12 hours Tuesday in District Court to ask what was the matter.

The jurors replied that they were in hopeless disagreement on how to decide the case of Harold T. Zitzow, rural Dover, Minn., farmer, against Homestead Mutual Insurance Co. which insured Zitzow's silo against, among other things, loss due to explosion.

IT WAS at 11:30 p.m. that the jury told Judge Arnold Hatfield they were divided, six to six, on what verdict to render. The case had gone to them for decision about noon.

It had been five hours since a unanimous verdict had become unnecessary and any 10 or 11 of the jurors could have brought in a verdict over the objections of the other one or two. Judge Hatfield decided to declare a mistrial and send everyone home.

The case now goes back on the calendar for trial at a later date, probably not again, however, in the September term of court which ends early next month.

Zitzow had claimed $8,400 damages to the silo, his barn into which the silo collapsed Aug. 13, 1964, and an attached milk house which was moved off its foundation by the collapse.

Attorney Duane M. Peterson represented Zitzow; Attorney Ralph E. Foster, Minneapolis, represented the insurance company.

DISTRICT Court took a breather from trial work today. A case scheduled for trial today — Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Wood, 1220 Mankato Ave., against Miss Judith A. Walsky, 191 E. King St., in a $24,000 personal injury suit — was continued to Jan. 3.

Winonan Admits Tax Evasion

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pierce P. Wittenberg, 41, 460 Junction Ave., Winona trucker, pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of evading $2,379 in federal income taxes for 1960.

Wittenberg was released on personal recognizance bond and is to be sentenced after a check of his background, as ordered by Federal District Judge Gunner Nordby.

The government charged Wittenberg listed joint taxable income for him and his wife of $986 and tax due of $197, whereas, said the complaint, he had $1,146 income on which $2,576 was due.

A second charge that the defendant evaded taxes for 1959 will be dismissed, said Hartley Nordin, first assistant U.S. attorney. That count charged he had taxable income of $10,697 and reported only $2,572.

Caledonia Post Votes Donations

CALEDONIA, Minn. (Special) — Loveless-Elkens Post 191, American Legion, has voted donations to Caledonia Charities, Gifts for Hospitalized Veterans and to Legionville for equipment. And also to buy a gift for a boy in Red Wing Training School.

The post has ordered scholarship pamphlets for high school students. Robert Standish is commander.

Patrol Comments On Arrest of La Crosse Woman

A check of court records showed that Mrs. Arella K. Degnan, La Crosse, whose account of her arrest last summer by the Minnesota Highway Patrol appeared in Tuesday's Daily News, was ordered to post $14 bond in Dakota justice court.

This amount corresponds to the usual fine on a charge like the one against Mrs. Degnan of $10, plus the usual court costs of $4.

The court record, therefore, contradicts Mrs. Degnan's claim that she was ordered to post a $14 bond and $5 court costs.

The court record further shows that Mrs. Degnan refused to plead either guilty or not guilty or to post bond. The Highway Patrol says that the proper exit from U.S. 61-14 into Dakota was clearly marked. Barricades and signs had been set up, according to the patrol.

Indeed, the patrol said, Mrs. Degnan was arrested as she passed a "Do Not Enter" sign and confronted a Highway Patrol car driving the right way on the roadway, which is an entrance to the highway from Dakota.

Light Snow Seen; 5 to 15 Tonight

Mostly cloudy, a little snow and somewhat lower temperatures are predicted for Winona and vicinity tonight and Thursday.

Light snow or snow flurries are forecast for tonight with no appreciable snow accumulation and temperatures dipping to between 5 and 15 by morning.

2 Plead Guilty To Counts in District Court

Judge Arnold Hatfield ordered pre-sentence investigations today in cases involving a burglary charge and a check forgery charge against a Dodge County youth and a South Dakota youth, respectively.

Timothy M. Murphy, 18, Kasson, Minn., pleaded guilty to the burglary of the Hamm's warehouse, 5245 6th St., Goodview, Sept. 12; and John E. J. Dallen, 21, Hot Springs, S.D., pleaded guilty to forging a check Sept. 15 in Winona.

ASSISTANT County Attorney Richard H. Darby read the information today in District Court charging Murphy with stealing 96 12-ounce cans of beer from the warehouse after breaking in early Sept. 12. The beer was valued at $13.95.

Attorney Robert D. Langford, representing Murphy, told the court that his client's youth and lack of true criminality should be taken into account while the pre-sentence investigation ordered by the judge is performed.

Judge Hatfield, questioning Murphy under oath, found that the youth had appeared in Dodge County juvenile court about five years ago on a car theft charge.

When Murphy admitted that he had pleaded guilty to a beer in possession charge in Rochester while the burglary case was pending in Winona County, the judge warned, "This is a turning point of your life, young man."

Murphy is free under $1,000 bond. He was to report to the state probation officer in Rochester today for the start of the pre-sentence investigation.

COUNTY Attorney S. A. Sawyer read the information in District Court charging Dallen with forging the signature "J. E. Faber" to a check for $23.70 last Sept. 15 in Winona. Dallen, Sawyer said, shared a hotel room with Faber between Sept. 10 and 15.

The youth stole two checks from the man and cashed both with forged signatures, Sawyer alleged. (The other check was for $41.)

Court-appointed attorney Harold J. Libera told the judge that the investigator should know that Dallen received education through the 11th grade in South Dakota schools. The youth served two years with the Army and was honorably discharged a year ago.

Dallen told Judge Hatfield that he left school to join the Army. He left his South Dakota home to find work and earn a living, Dallen said. (He was working in La Crosse at the time of his arrest early this month.)

DALLEN admitted a conviction early in October in La Crosse on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors. Three juveniles whom he knew broke into his apartment, Dallen said, while he was at work. They were runaways from an institutional home in La Crosse.

On his return to his apartment, Dallen said, he did not force them to leave, although he asked them to do so. When the police were called, Dallen said, he was charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Santa Claus Plans Caledonia Visit

CALEDONIA, Minn. (Special) — Santa Claus will make his first visit to Caledonia Monday from 2 to 5 p.m., when he'll be on downtown streets distributing treats.

To entertain the children of the trade area and make shopping easier for the parents, Caledonia business people have arranged for the showing of four matinees at the State Theater free to children 12 and under. The shows will start at 2 p.m. Saturday, Tuesday, and Dec. 22 and 23. Free tickets for admission will be available to the children in the stores when accompanied by parents or an adult.

and rising to a high of 20-25 Thursday. Variable cloudiness and a little warmer is the outlook for Friday.

A LIGHT snow dusted the area this forenoon. Temperature for the next five days in this section are predicted to range 3 to 6 degrees above daily normal highs of 24-29 and nighttime lows of 5 to 11. It'll be a little warmer Friday and slowly cooling thereafter, says the extended forecast.

Precipitation is slated to average two-tenths to four-tenths in occasional light snow, especially over the weekend.

THE thermometer rose to 29 Tuesday afternoon, dropped to 20 overnight and was 24 at noon today. A year ago today the high was 11 and the low zero with a trace of snow on the ground.

All-time high for Dec. 15 was 52 in 1923 and the low for the day -23 in 1901. Mean for the past 24 hours was 24. Normal for this time of the year is 21.

It was snowing at several Minnesota points this morning, mainly in northern areas. Temperatures were above the zero mark across the North-west but approached it at Minnot, N.D., where the morning reading was 4. Lowest in Minnesota 12 at International Falls, 13 at Hibbing and 14 at Alexandria, Brainerd and Duluth.

A light snow fell in many sections of WISCONSIN Tuesday night and the skies remained cloudy over the state today.

About 1.5 inches of new snow was reported in the Superior area. Park Falls recorded 0.2 inch and Wausau about 0.1 inch of snow while a trace was noticed at Madison, Lone Rock, La Crosse, Green Bay, and Eau Claire.

Temperatures were slightly colder Tuesday. The highest temperature in the state was 34 at Racine.

The lowest overnight temperature was 14 at Superior.

TUESDAY'S national high was 83 at West Palm Beach airport and Fort Myers, Fla. The overnight low was 20 below zero at Butte, Mont., and 15 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont.

Third Break-in In Pepin County

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — The third break-in in three nights was reported by Pepin County authorities this morning.

About $10 in silver was reported taken from the United Building Center here sometime Tuesday night. Entrance was made by forcing the side door.

A window was broken in the Durand Cooperatives building Sunday night but apparently nothing was missing. A thief or thieves broke into the Dr. Joe Springer office Monday night and took about $50 in cash.

Republicans Blast Rolvaag Judge Choice

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Karl Rolvaag's latest judge appointment has drawn fire from Republicans, who say he has been ignoring the Minnesota Bar Association as a consulting agency.

The Hennepin-Apoka County Republican Committee, through a letter by its chairman, State Rep. Loyal A. Schwarzkopf, expressed its concern to the president of the bar association, James Monpague of Duluth.

Reference was made to Rolvaag's naming Richard J. Kantorowicz, Minneapolis alderman, as Hennepin County municipal judge Monday.

Schwarzkopf wrote: "No plebiscite was requested by the governor and the basis for the appointment is now clouded in politics. We feel that a man's politics does not mean that he will be a good or bad judge. We hope judges are appointed on the basis of merit."

He suggested the bar association should redouble its efforts to get bar plebiscite in the governor's judicial appointments.

Gov. Rolvaag to Help Christen U.S.S. Duluth

ST. PAUL (AP) — Gov. Karl Rolvaag will fly from Duluth to New York Friday to take part in commission ceremonies of the USS Duluth Saturday. The program will be held at Brooklyn Navy Yard and will include civic and business leaders from Duluth.

Winona Lodge No. 18, A.F. & A.M. Brethren will meet tonight at 8:45 p.m. at the Fawcett Funeral Home to pay last respects to George Robertson Jr., W.M.

New Harmon Trophy Winner Holds About Every Other Flying Record

By GORDON R. CLOSWAY
Daily News Executive Editor

Not since the roaring twenties has such an intrepid aviation figure appeared on the scene as Max Conrad of Winona, who Tuesday was awarded the Harmon trophy in Washington, D.C., one of aviation's most coveted awards.

Conrad, who has logged more than 45,000 hours — more than any other man; who holds virtually every light plane record in the world and who has made 129 North Atlantic crossings on his log and 20-odd flight deliveries of light planes across the Pacific, last crashed the headlines in a big way in 1964 when he made, unharmed, a forced landing of his single-engine plane on the Greenland ice cap the middle of March.

His dramatic rescue only six hours later by Danish and American sea and air units was just one more exciting adventure in a career spanning 37 years of flying which has marked him as the latter day Lindbergh. His amazing feats as the pilot of a small plane have never been surpassed.

Conrad is not a young man anymore. He celebrated his 62nd birthday early this year by playing three last games of handball at the Winona YMCA during one of his frequent stops here between flights.

HERE ARE some of the records he holds for light aircraft: Class 2 world non-stop distance record, Los Angeles-New York.

Two round trip flights, Minnesota to Europe and return. Paul Revere flight to all 48 state capitals (1954), return flight, non-stop San Francisco-New York.

Class 3 world non-stop distance record of 6,967 miles, Casablanca-El Paso and Class 3 closed circuit world non-stop distance record of 6,921 miles.

Class 4 world non-stop distance record of 7,668 miles, Casablanca-Los Angeles.

In 1954 flew non-stop New York-Paris — first light plane flight over route since Lindbergh in "Spirit of St. Louis."

In his famous craft, "New Frontiers", set round-the-world speed record, covering a 25,946-mile route in 8 days, 18 hours (March 8, 1961). Flight began and ended in Miami.

In addition to his Atlantic and Pacific crossings, he has ferried Piper aircraft throughout South America.

Conrad is one of the last survivors of that vanishing race of "vagabond flyers" who would rather promote interest in aviation than make a lot of money.

He fits that role physically, too. He is slender, wiry, six feet tall, with a shy manner, an irresistible warm grin, and that slight crinkling about the corners of his eyes that is said to be the mark of the truly veteran airman. He has never smoked or drunk and declined to go into the fur business established by his father because he felt it was wrong to kill animals and use their pelts for fur coats.

ONLY his lean, weather-beaten face and slight graying at the temples gives hints of the dangers he has survived, almost always alone.

Though Max has flown almost every type of airplane—he loved to stunt in Ford trimotors, years ago—he has long had a penchant for piloting small planes over great distances — and while he admits that he is now, finally, "slowing up," he said immediately after his Greenland mishap that he plans a few more transoceanic crossings before he gives up entirely.

He has trained 44 airline captains, more than 350 Navy, Army, Air Force and Marine pilots and 56 licensed mechanics. In all, he has taught more than 3,000 persons to fly, most of them at schools he has operated in Green Bay and Eau Claire, Wis., Winona and Rochester, Minn., Notre Dame, Ind., and Riverside, Calif.

Max is the father of ten children, three of whom are now living temporarily with Mrs. Conrad, the former Betty Blesanz of Winona, at Prescott, Ariz., where she is treating an asthmatic condition. He has taught seven of his children to fly and on one round-the-world flight he was accompanied by his son Terry, now in the Army at Ft. Knox, Ky. The family maintains a summer cottage on State Highway 35 two miles north of Alma, Wis., on the Mississippi River and they expect to occupy it again next summer.

WHEN THE children were younger, the family spent two years in Switzerland and some of the smaller ones learned to speak fluent French before they learned English.

Max, himself, recently disposed of his ferrying headquarters at Lock Haven, Pa., adjacent to the Piper factory, and plans to return to Winona to revive interest in a project he launched in 1953 known as "The Winona Experiment" — a plan to rejuvenate interest among teen-agers in aviation — which he still hopes will become nationwide in acceptance.

The project had the blessings of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Civil Air Patrol and was watched closely by military and civic authorities and aircraft manufacturers. It was first launched here in connection with the 50th anniversary of powered flight, then lapsed — but Conrad has established a foundation which is providing funds to revive it and he holds great expectations for its future.

GROUPS OF 50 teen-agers would take 13-week courses at no cost to them during which they will assemble a small plane from a kit provided by a manufacturer (Piper Aircraft), thus learning the fundamentals of being a mechanic. When the plane has been assembled it will belong to the students who then may learn to become pilots if they desire. Their only expense then will be fuel used during flying instruction periods.

The plane with which Conrad set most of his records weighed less than 1,000 pounds, with a wing span of 28 feet and a 12-horse engine (Lycoming). It was literally a flying tank, holding 165 gallons of fuel on take-off. To lighten the load, Max carried no baggage and his only extra equipment consisted of a flashlight. Even door handles were removed from the cabin and his sole companion and, as dedicated his life to the advancement of aviation.

He was commended by the late John F. Kennedy, then President of the United States, who said, in a telegram:

"I'm happy to learn of the dedication of Max Conrad Field in Winona, Minn. Your numerous long range flight records in small aircraft are a tribute to your courage and professional ability. You have helped to prepare young people for the complex and serious responsibilities in the aero-space age. In addition your work and example have brought good will to many parts of the world."

CONRAD'S career has run the gamut of everything from heroic deeds to a world mark in high jumping. He was born in Winona Jan. 21, 1903, attended Marquette and Notre Dame Universities, where he led an orchestra, and learned to fly in Denver, making his solo flight March 13, 1923.

He then opened a flying school and soloed his first student when he himself had a total of only 38 hours flying experience. At various times he has operated an airline, flew as an airline pilot in the Canadian bush, conducted aerial tours throughout the country, was executive and test pilot for Minneapolis-Honeywell and ran six pilot training schools under the old military CPT program.

A former Notre Dame athlete, he set a world's high jump record of 6 feet 8½ inches in 1931 at the age of 29 as a member of the Los Angeles Athletic Club and he holds several handball titles. He was a favorite to make the 1932 Olympic squad in the decathlon until the press of business kept him from the trials.

He is an accomplished violinist, cellist and banjo player and passes much of his time aloft playing the harmonica and writing music. He sidetracked his musical career while in college, after playing with an orchestra for a year, to become a transport pilot.

He saw the famed Air Force Thunderbirds aerial acrobatic team put on a blue ribbon show in honor of the man who has SOFT-SPOKEN and unassuming, Conrad has had only one serious accident through aviation—and that occurred on the ground. A woman passenger had disembarked, walked into the still-spinning propeller and was killed. Max, in trying to rescue her, received a skull fracture which nearly cost his life, and did cost him some three years of his memory.

He had to learn to talk again from scratch, and fragments from the missing three years still return to him. Although the accident at Red Wing, Minn., in October, 1929, his greatest flying and athletic feats followed.

Again, on Armistice Day of 1940 when a flash blizzard whipped the Upper Midwest, Conrad flew missions around the clock to stranded duck hunters, dropping food, clothing and medical supplies and directing rescuers to them. The intensity of that storm during which 64 hunters froze to death along a 100-mile strip of the Mississippi River, has since become legend and few if any pilots other than Conrad have ventured out in such a blinding gale. He was commended by the Minnesota House of Representatives which adopted a resolution commending him for bravery and recommended him for a Carnegie medal for saving many lives. The Minnesota Junior Chamber of Commerce presented a special award at a dinner in his honor attended by 300 persons.

IN 1943 HE PERMITTED a friend to overhaul a plane in his Winona Flying Service hangar and when the plane suddenly burst into flames, the owner was covered with blazing gasoline. of the flying school and charter business.

His 10 children now are scattered in all parts of the globe, except the three living with Mrs. Conrad in Arizona. These are Nick, 17, Chico, 15, and Ann, 13. The others are: Judy, 32, (Mrs. James de Ryan), San Francisco; Betsy, 30, (Mrs. R. H. Heberer), Honolulu; Jana, 28, (Mrs. William Kosko), Phoenix, Ariz.; Molly, 26, (Mrs. Don Smith), Vientiane, Laos; Christina, 20, (Mrs. David Apel), Eldsvold, Queensland, Australia; Katie, 24, (Mrs. Camp Kersten) Milwaukee; and Terry, 22, in the Army at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Max Conrad has been called the most famous non-military pilot in the world because of his exploits with a small plane and may go down in history as one of aviation's great figures if his plan revives the lagging interest of the youth of America in flying.

MacGregor Flays Pakistan Ban

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., said Tuesday this nation ought to insist that Pakistan quit making U.S. aircraft detour around that country.

The Minnesota Republican gave his views in a telegram to President Johnson, who is holding talks with Pakistan President Mohammed Ayub Khan in Washington.

MacGregor said current restrictions placed on commercial flights force them to detour around Pakistani airspace unless they are landing in that country. He added it results in a 1,100 statute mile detour which costs the airline more than $1,400 and an hour and a half in time.

It's "unconscionable" for a SEATO ally to do that, he said.

Let Uncle Sam Take First Hitch

SOOTHING SOUNDS from Washington and the Texas White House won't reconcile many Americans to the increasing squeeze on their pocketbooks.

The cost of living reached a new record high last month, according to the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics. This was no surprise to householders wrestling with the family budget.

The BLS index showed that a typical family had to pay $11.04 in October for goods and services that cost only $10 six to nine years ago.

A dose of syrup was administered right after the bitter pill. It took the form of a report that the average weekly take-home pay for a factory worker has risen faster than the cost of living.

No doubt, we have vivid memories of the federally dictated settlement to avert a steel strike, which was generous to workers in our nation's basic industry. But factory workers make up less than one-fifth of the labor force. We question whether wage hikes for the other four-fifths have kept pace with the rising cost of living.

THEREIN LIES the evil of inflation, which reportedly is worrying President Johnson as he recuperates in Texas from surgery. He plans to call a meeting of his four top economic advisers to coordinate government policies in the price field.

One of the four is Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, who has been stumping the country to spell out rules for a new "working partnership" between government and business.

In Chicago, Mr. Fowler called for obedience to the federal guideline which puts a ceiling of 3.2 percent on wage and price increases. He promised that Washington would "blow the whistle" on any wage settlements considered inflationary. That whistle didn't work last year when Uncle Sam, the nation's biggest employer, awarded pay jumps averaging 4.3 percent and 5.6 percent respectively to 1.6 million classified and postal workers.

IN NEW ORLEANS, Mr. Fowler called for holding the line on credit without raising interest rates, which are the natural dampener for too much borrowing.

In Hollywood, Fla., Mr. Fowler asked the Investment Bankers Association for "redoubled effort" next year to halt the outflow of dollars from the United States. He said the federal plan for voluntary restraint on overseas investment would be broadened and tightened within the next few days.

Mr. Fowler's message to the IBA was interpreted as describing a new "partnership" in which Uncle Sam will call the signals and business will do the cooperating. This may keep business booming, but it also could cut profits, the motive power of the profit-and-loss system.

IF BELT TIGHTENING is in order to combat inflation, let the first hitch be taken by Uncle Sam, whose persistent deficit spending is mainly to blame for the rising cost of living.

Blue Earth Grand Jury Studies Teen-age Drinking

(The Mankato Free Press)

THE BLUE EARTH County grand jury has issued a report voicing concern over underage drinking in the Mankato area and calling for greater adult vigilance and better identification methods to curb it.

Apparently the jury's attention to drinking by people under the age of 21 came as a result of an investigation into other matters. It brought in six indictments in connection with a fatal accident in October in which the jury said unlawful possession of liquor was involved.

Except for those indictments, the jury members' statement on teen-age drinking only called attention to things that aren't being done. It was pointed out that greater "adult vigilance" is needed.

Except for the official status given to the grand jury's findings, the warning about teen-age drinking really was nothing new. Police and sheriffs officers have commented on this problem frequently and there have been numerous newspaper editorials and columns calling attention to what was going on.

PERHAPS, HOWEVER, the grand jury can go farther. Frequent cases of teen-age drinking have come to the attention of police officers and the courts. During the next several months it might be worthwhile for the grand jury to take note of the arrests that are made and conduct a private investigation into the circumstances surrounding each violation. In that way, it could get a more accurate picture of the total problem and perhaps come up with something carrying greater force than a mere recommendation that parents and law enforcement officers ought to give more attention to the use of intoxicants by underage boys and girls.

IT MIGHT EVEN be that the grand jury, if it studied the problem in this kind of detail, might feel it necessary to return some indictments. Previous evidence has indicated that warnings are of little value. During the years they have been made the teen-age drinking problem has shown no improvement.

The Lord is on my side; I will not fear: What can man do unto me?—Psalm 118:6.

How Historian Does His Work

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. had a room at the top, or near it, as special assistant to President John F. Kennedy. Now he has another room at the top, an office on the third floor of an old three-story building here.

There in 14 months, turning out on his working days 2,000 to 4,000 words a day, he wrote his best-selling, 1,087-page book — "A Thousand Days" — on the Kennedy administration. It has been criticized for revealing too much; it has been highly praised.

For years it probably will remain the best book on the Kennedy days. It is not the final word; he didn't pretend it was. It is not totally objective, far from it. It bulges with adoration of Kennedy. But Schlesinger frankly said in his first sentence the book was a personal memoir.

SCHLESINGER, 48, is one of the most readable historians this country has produced. His books are full of people moving with events or causing them. In 1945 he won the Pulitzer Prize for his "Age of Jackson." In the 1950s he turned out three superb books on the New Deal.

Now he expects to finish that job over the next 8 to 10 years with three or four more books on the New Deal period. They will be full of people, too. How did he come to write that way? What goes into shaping an historian? Asked those questions in an interview, he gave these answers:

G. A. HENTY'S romantic histories for boys began his interest in history. The first big influence was his father, Arthur M. Schlesinger Sr., a distinguished historian who recently died at 77. From his father he got the realization of constant change in history and that it was "something more than past politics."

These were some of the other influences, all historians except one:

Francis Parkman (1823-1893) — "I was entranced by his narrative skill." Charles Beard (1874-1948) — "His interpretations stimulated me," although Schlesinger thinks, in general, they were wrong. Henry Adams (1838-1918) — "He had one absolutely indispensable quality for a historian — the gift of irony." And Reinhold Niebuhr, Protestant theologian and writer still alive — Schlesinger found in him the "relationship of the hero in history, the individual against determinism."

SCHLESINGER disagrees with Leo Tolstoy's view which he described as looking upon "people as leaves blown by the winds of history." His own theory is that the "individual has much more of a role than Tolstoy gave him, and he has choices."

Unlike historians writing of the past, with no one of that era left alive to talk to, Schlesinger writing of recent history, looks for people who took part in it. He talked to about 100 on the New Deal books, about the same number on the Kennedy book.

Know Right Politician For Virgin Island Deal

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Business firms who want to do business in the Virgin Islands are learning that what it takes is not business skill but skill in playing politics in Washington. You have to hire the right lawyer who knows the right people and you have to pay him.

The Virgin Islands, once branded by Herbert Hoover as "an effective poorhouse," have been trying to get a certain amount of industry in order to refute the Hoover label. To that end, two U.S. companies in the islands have been importing Italian wool cloth, which is waterproofed and then sent, duty-free, into the continental United States. The amount imported is determined by quota set by Gov. Ralph Paiewonsky and a Wool Board.

The other day, a representative of a woolen firm, the Vitex Corporation, Mrs. Helen Blumberg, approached John Kirwan, in charge of Virgin Island affairs for the Interior Department and at that time a member of the Wool Board (later he resigned). John is the son of Mike Kirwan, potent Democratic congressman from Youngstown, Ohio, who as chairman of the Appropriations Committee for the Interior Department has life or death power over that department's activities. Naturally, it was not hard for his son to get a job in this department, but this column has reported that he has done a good job.

SINCE waterproof wool from Italy is not competitive with American domestic wool, and since the Vitex Corporation was anxious to stabilize its production in the Virgin Islands, Mrs. Blumberg asked Kirwan how the company could get the VI quota reinstated. The quota had previously been 7,000,000 yards, but Gov. Paiewonsky, afraid of a speech by Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., against wool imports, had chopped it down to 1,800,000 for the entire islands in 1966, of which Vitex would get only 900,000 yards, not enough to justify operation.

Specifically, Mrs. Blumberg asked if she should hire a lawyer and whether Meyer Feldman, former counsel for Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, would be the right man. "Mike Feldman's a fine man," replied young Kirwan.

He added that as a government servant he was not free to recommend anyone but that he could mention one or two, including Fred Fayette of Burlington, Vt., who had several Virgin Islands clients, and Paul McGowan, a Washington attorney who represents the Virgin Islands legislature.

"If I were trying to do what you are trying to do in the Virgin Islands," he added, "there's only one man I would go to — Paul McGowan. My father loves him. He's a great friend of Speaker McCormack's. He's going to have dinner with us Saturday night. In my opinion he's the only man who could straighten this out."

"Of course," he said, "I don't want you to think I'm suggesting anyone."

Mrs. Blumberg went immediately to Attorney McGowan. He seemed to know about the wool situation in the islands. "I think the speaker had an interest in a company down there," he said.

He referred to the Kent Corporation, run by Joseph Slika of the Slika Corporation, a friend of Cardinal Spellman's. The cardinal had sent Slika to McCormack, and, working through Martin Sweig in the speaker's office and John Kirwan in the Interior Department, Slika's wool quota for the first year of operation had been generously increased.

MCGOWAN wanted a fee of $100,000 from Mrs. Blumberg if he upheld the Virgin Islands wool quota, and an initial retainer of $10,000 whether he succeeded or not.

This seemed like a lot of money, and he finally agreed to an initial retainer of $5,000. Mrs. Blumberg tentatively agreed.

McGowan asked her to come back on Saturday. At that time he reported that he had lunched with John Kirwan on Thursday, dined with the family on Friday "and I think I've got him sewed up."

Debasement of Coins Cruel Tax of All

To The Editor:

The results of research necessary to get the untold true story behind the debasement of our coins produce some amazing facts.

The American people were led to believe, by Sen. Pastore (D., R.I.), Sen. R. Kennedy (D., N.Y.), and other liberals, that "there just isn't enough silver to go around" (June 24, 1965).

The true story is that the U.S. Treasury has been selling its silver stockpile at the rate of 40 million ounces a month since 1961, eventually bringing on a total depletion by 1967. The purpose of this wholesale sell-out of America's silver stockpile was to keep the price of silver from rising above $1.283 per ounce. Of course, since it is unprofitable to mine and smelt new silver reserves at this price, our abundant underground silver resources have gone largely untapped.

Now, why has our government been so anxious to sell silver? Because if the price of silver would ever reach $1.38 an ounce, the silver content in U.S. coins would be worth par, that is, the silver content in two half-dollars would be worth $1. Citizens would then proceed to pass paper money and hoard silver money, bringing on chaotic business conditions and some newly awakened and surprised voters.

Thus, faced with the hard realities of the market place, the politicians were forced to cheapen the real value of the people's money by using base metals in newly minted coins.

I suggest that the thin veneer of silver on the outside surfaces of the new "sandwich" coins is truly a fitting monument to yet another thinly veiled attempt to conceal the rottenness of the big-spending, inflation-producing, currency-debauching policies of "liberal" politicians and their Keynesian economists who, for the past 30 years, have carried out their avowed intentions to "spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect."

Debasement of our coins is the cruelist tax of all.

Calls Gov. Rolvaag
"Man of the Year"

To The Editor:

The Supreme Court's decision that upheld the Governor's veto over a Republican reapportionment bill, has developed a running battle between the governor and the conservatives' "straw boss" Lloyd Duxbury.

Despite a nearly two-thirds conservative majority in both houses of the Legislature during the 1965 sessions, Gov. Karl Rolvaag proved to be the "man of the year" in passing substantially all of his legislative program.

The conservative legislature promised tax reform but failed to come up with a program which would unite their causes for legislative action. Sure to be a big issue in the 1966 campaign is the failure of a Republican sales tax (an old tax reform) to provide tax relief for the Chamber of Commerce, the Minnesota Taxpayers Association and the Farm Bureau.

On reapportionment the conservatives created such a muddle that involved lawsuits and the Supreme Court, nobody knows for sure for whom he will be voting in 1966 state elections, with conservatives such as we have in the Minnesota Legislature, who needs enemies?

To Your Good Health

Don't Fear The Use of Barbiturate

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Four years ago I was under great strain, was nervous, and had difficulty in sleeping. I was given Nembutal and took one each night and had a good sleep.

When I read in magazines and newspapers two years ago of the danger of taking this drug, and the terrible withdrawal consequences, nausea and convulsions, I went to my doctor, who is an eminent one, and asked him for something different.

He said, "One Nembutal has never hurt anyone. If it relaxes you and helps you, take it." I later consulted another doctor and he prescribed a different drug, but it makes my lips swell and after a time is nauseating.

So I am writing you to ask if you will suggest a less harmful sedative. I don't want to take barbiturates. — MRS. M.D.

It was only a year or two ago that I was talking to the doctor in charge of the government hospital at Lexington, Ky., a man of enormous skill and stature, and we talked about barbiturates. His comment was this:

"Yes, some people use excessive amounts of barbiturates. They take so much — and they can't get that much except by buying 'bootleg' supplies — that they become addicts, and this certainly is dangerous. "But what bothers me is this. The barbiturates, properly used, rank among the most useful medicines known to man."

"CERTAINLY overuse is dangerous, but normal use is not. This publicity about the danger of overuse isn't going to be heeded by the addicts, but is going to frighten people who are using safe amounts — and they'll stop, and lose the benefit of one of our most useful medicines."

Mrs. M. D., he might have been talking directly to you. He saw what would come of that spasm of publicity. Sure, I agree we mustn't conceal the facts, even for what we regard as worthy motives. There is such a thing as barbiturate poisoning — when people go hog wild.

But, one tablet a night never poisoned anyone, never addicted anyone.

YOU WERE perfectly safe, and comfortable, when you followed your first doctor's advice — the doctor you called "eminent."

You then shopped around until you found a doctor who prescribed another drug, and it upset you. This doctor, I feel sure, did the best he could for you — in view of the fact that you insisted on another drug.

You're no addict. But why don't you go back to your first doctor, and stop worrying? You've just worried yourself into a tizzy. You confused proper use of this drug with over use. There's a world of difference.

My friend in Lexington saw your problem coming. He was right.

Bipartisan Redistricting Group Back in Action

ST. PAUL (AP) — The bipartisan group assigned to come up with a plan for remapping Minnesota legislative districts may get back into the harness again within a few days.

At least that is the hope of Franklin Rogers, Mankato, who heads the Governor's Reapportionment Commission. Rogers said today he hoped to get the 15 members to agree on a meeting date prior to the Christmas holidays.

"We already have the pattern for mapping the districts, and I hope we can finish up by the first of the year," said Rogers, who is editor of the Mankato Free Press.

The commission earlier this year produced a plan which Gov. Karl Rolvaag forwarded to the legislature without recommendation. The lawmakers produced their own bill, which was subsequently vetoed by Rolvaag. He termed it a blatant gerrymander by the Conservative-dominated legislature.

When nine plaintiffs challenged his right of veto, the State Supreme Court ruled Rolvaag had such power, and the whole touchy question is out in the open again.

The plaintiffs, comprised of suburban Minneapolis officials, agreed Tuesday to ask Federal Court to reapportion the legislature. More than a year ago, a panel of three federal judges told the lawmakers they must draw up new district lines. The implication was the judges themselves might have to resolve the matter if the legislature and governor couldn't come up with a suitable plan.

If the federal jurists move into the case, they would bypass the legislature's prerogative to redistrict its own seats. There are 67 legislative districts with one senator in each, and 135 members of the House.

Rolvaag, in reactivating the reapportionment commission, asked that new districts be drawn as closely as possible along lines of existing political subdivisions. He also suggested it substantially lower the deviation of around 20 per cent from ideal population sizes, as contained in the commission's first report.

The governor said he preferred not to make any more specific recommendations, adding, "I don't think that I ought to intrude myself."

Rogers pointed out that redistricting is not an easy matter, and that House districts must fall within the larger lines of the Senate districts.

He said the commission may resort to use of a computer, as it did in helping figure out the multiple angles of its first recommendation.

Computers at the University of Minnesota and the state commissioner of administration's of-

... are possibilities for this purpose.

Rogers said 15 members of the original 17 would probably serve in the second effort. Associate Prof. Charles Backstrom of the university's political science department is out of the state and former State Sen. Chris Erickson of Fairmont has asked to be excluded.

The plaintiffs who will seek relief in Federal Court backed off from their stand of a week earlier, when they suggested new districts should be within five per cent of absolute equality in population. They followed advice of their attorneys who suggested they tell the court that the five per cent figure could be achieved in many cases, as it was in all but four of 39 districts in a recent North Dakota plan.

Attorney Clayton LeFevre told the plaintiffs it would be "unwise and unrealistic" for them to draw up their own plan to present to the court "and I doubt very much that this would be necessary."

He also said that each plaintiff might be asked to present suggestions if the court decided to ask for evidence with which to work in drawing new districts.

Rep. Connie Burchett of Coon Rapids, one of the plaintiffs, said one such consideration should be trying to avoid cutting up fast growing counties, such as Anoka.

Attorneys said new federal action could not be started before Jan. 10.

On motion of St. Louis Park Mayor Kenneth Wolfe, the plaintiffs voted 8-0 for the new action, with 3rd District Congressman Clark MacGregor abstaining.

"Asking the federal courts to do a state legislative job is a drastic step," he said, adding he could not believe Rolvaag "will not exercise his constitutional duty and call a special session."

New Hope Mayor Milton Honey said the seven-county Twin Cities area should have 33 senators — one short of control of the 67-member Senate. He said Minneapolis should have nine senators, suburban Hennepin County nine, St. Paul six, suburban Ramsey County two, Anoka two, Dakota and Washington counties three together, and Carver and Scott counties one together.

No Law Against Gifts for Mailmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's all right to give your postman a handkerchief, some cookies or such for Christmas in appreciation of those trudges through rain, sleet and snow to your mailbox.

A postal official said today that the department has no position regarding token gifts of appreciation—within reason.

"But we have very, very strict regulations — under no circumstances can the letter carriers solicit anything," he said.

A check around the capital showed the government has "hound's tooth clean" regulations about gifts to any federal employee from anybody having business or seeking business with the government.

The rules pretty well eliminate anything from a business firm except calendars or pencils with the firm's name on them.

The word appears to have gotten around "We used to receive quite a few gifts, but after the new regulations came out, it stopped," one Pentagon worker told a reporter.

For the thousands of federal workers under Civil Service, the regulations are similar.

Members of Congress set their own guidelines.

A congressional assistant was asked if she and her staff were under any regulations about accepting Christmas gifts.

"No — because we never get any," she replied. "Oh, sometimes, a box of candy comes to the office staff."

"Do they keep it?"

"We eat it," she replied in a "what else?" manner.

Private School Lunches Major Food Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department survey shows that school lunch programs in private schools are a major market for food in this country.

A study it made of the programs in 6,500 private schools in 1962 showed the food served cost $77 million.

About 5,000 of the 6,500 private schools offered complete plate lunches, reaching about 2,300,000 pupils.

Pupils in 1962 consumed 256,000,000 pounds of milk, 22,400,000 pounds of red meat, 10,500,000 pounds of poultry and 3,600,000 pounds of fish. They also ate millions of pounds of fruits and vegetables, bread and other bakery products, eggs, condiments, pudding, and other food.

Of the money spent for these foods, $80 million was spent locally. The remainder was food donated by the federal government through the Agriculture Department.

Children's Party Set at Legion

A children's Christmas party will be held at the American Legion Memorial Club Friday evening.

That was announced at the meeting of Leon J. Wetzel Post Tuesday evening.

Tom Price is chairman for the annual "baby-sitting night" which begins at 6:30. Santa Claus and a magician will be among those providing entertainment.

At the post meeting a fund was started by Commander Ronald Hammond for aid to the Vietnamese people. This is a national Legion project.

BLAIR PATIENTS

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — Albert E. Johnson is at Tri-County Memorial Rest Home, Whitehall. He has been a patient at St. Francis Hospital, La Crosse. Mrs. Melvin Stay is at Luther Hospital, Eau Claire, receiving treatment for a chest cold. Norman Odegard, Milwaukee, former Blair area resident, is ill at St. Luke's Hospital there after suffering a stroke last week.

DEAR ABBY:

But Where's The Lesson?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter about the kids who stole goodies from the refrigerator and it reminded me of my own problem. We have ten kids between the ages of two and thirteen and they are always helping themselves to goodies from the freezer, refrigerator and cupboards. No matter where I hide things, they always find them. These kids get plenty of treats. I pop popcorn and make candy every Sunday night and I bake twice a week, they steal stuff anyway. They also rummage around in my drawers. I don't even have a pair of matching earrings any more. We solved the food-snitching problem, though. We keep everything locked up in the fruit cellar and I wear the key around my neck. We can't afford to feed ten kids three good meals a day and let them eat whatever they want all day.

ABBY

YAKIMA MOM

DEAR MOM: You may save a lot of food by locking it up, but you're overlooking something far more valuable — the character of your children. They should be taught early that there is a mine and thine, and they must either obey their parents or take the consequences. Children who are not disciplined by their parents will never learn to discipline themselves. With the privilege of having children goes the responsibility of training them.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that it is not proper for a widow to send Christmas cards or gifts the year of her husband's death. Is this true? What about answering friends from afar who haven't heard the sad news and send their Christmas cards addressed to "MR. AND MRS."? I hate to dampen their Christmas spirit with my unhappy news. Any help you can give me will be deeply appreciated.

RECENTLY WIDOWED

DEAR WIDOWED: Unless the grief is still too fresh for you to attempt to resume normal living, send Christmas greetings as usual. One must go on living. After the Christmas season has passed, write those friends who obviously were not aware of your husband's death and tell them.

DEAR ABBY: If this didn't actually happen to me, I'd never have believed it. I was laid off work for almost two months and needed a job desperately. I heard of an opening in my line of work. (I am capable and knew all I needed was the chance, but I didn't have enough time put in at one place to land that job.) Well, I got a friend of mine to write false references, and I got the job. I am doing very well, and this is my fourth week there, but another problem has come up. This "friend" told me that I have to give her $5 a week, or she will write an anonymous letter to my boss revealing that my references were false. I know this is blackmail, but this job minus $5 a week is better than nothing. What should I do?

BLACKMAILED

DEAR BLACKMAILED: Tell your boss the truth and don't waste any time. If he fires you, he fires you. Then inform your "friend" that her little scheme won't work. And in the future, don't expect to find an honest partner for a crooked deal.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WANTS TO SERVE BUT HANDICAPPED": Your letter reveals a fine mind and a genuine determination to contribute to society. The true guardians of a country are not its soldiers, but its teachers. Consider a career in education.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lewiston Board OKs Contract

LEWISTON, Minn. (Special) — Lewiston Board of Education has awarded a contract to St. Paul Book & Stationery Co., St. Paul, on its bid of $22,173 for science equipment for the new high school under construction.

Hauenstein & Burmeister, Inc., and Haldeman - Homme, Inc., Minneapolis, also bid on the equipment.

Bids on vocational agriculture shop equipment will be opened at the Jan. 13 board meeting, which is being held later in the month because of a conflict with the Minnesota School Boards Association convention.

Miss Daphne Ducharme has been hired as a secondary instructor to fill a vacancy.

Direct Long Distance Dialing Set for 1968

The Winona exchange has been by-passed on the present direct long distance dialing system, but, as a result of it, may become one of the first in Minnesota to have the full electronic system now being developed by Bell Laboratories.

The system now is being tested in one exchange — in a small New Jersey community — to "work out the bugs," according to Robert Olson, Winona manager.

DETAILS of the system were discussed when the new Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. addition was dedicated here June 19, 1965. It was said that the new equipment would be installed "in the very near future."

The present schedule calls for 1968.

Should Winona become one of the first Minnesota communities to have the all-electronic system, it would be repeating as a leader. In the early 1960s it was one of the first to have the "step equipment, or electrical impulse."

Since then other communities have received the step equipment and then subsequently the direct dialing system, which presently involves a partial electronic system, called the "cross bar system."

Olson said that Winona hasn't obtained that system for several reasons. (Among major Minnesota cities it is almost alone in this respect. Duluth doesn't have it nor does Mankato, which, however, is not in the Bell system). It hasn't come here, one, because telephone growth here hasn't been rapid enough to make it economically feasible, and, two, growing government demands for equipment set back delivery schedules.

A year and a half ago, said

Olson, the decision was made to pass up Winona for the partial electronic system in preference for the full electronic system.

The cross bar system is now in some respects considered obsolete.

THE FULL electronic system, when it arrives here, will provide not only direct long distance dialing (pushbuttons), electronic tone signaling (transmission of data), automatic dialing (for frequently used numbers) and code dialing (so that calls can be switched to another number when you're away from home).

Nevertheless said Olson, equipment improvements are continually being made. This year about $336,000 was spent on the addition and its equipment. Other line construction cost about $160,000.

Stock Market Eyeing Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, having taken the rise in interest rates in stride, now is concentrating on the next big cliffhanger — the federal budget.

The political battle over the Federal Reserve Board's hiking its interest charges puts the uncertainties veiling the budget even more in the spotlight. How higher interest rates and the new budget will live together is a moot question. The debate will get hotter.

But the biggest current question in the eyes of stock traders is how the budget, when unveiled next month, will divide federal spending between Viet Nam war needs and the many programs to carry on the march toward the "Great Society."

And the stock market would like to know the answers — ahead of time, if possible. The allocation of funds could affect many individual corporations — and the price of their stocks — as well as the trend of the economy in general in a period which many see as touchy and critical.

That the government will be spending more next year is taken for granted. The tantalizing questions just now are what, if any, civilian programs may be curtailed, or postponed because of the increased costs of the military efforts in Southeast Asia. Just how the larger defense spending will show up in orders for various industries, and individual corporations, will be awaited impatiently in Wall Street.

The stock market seems to have accepted the Federal Reserve Board's contention that increased interest rates won't reverse the upward trend of business and consumer spending, only hold it in moderate limits.

But Wall Street doesn't write off the political effects of the Fed's difference of opinion with the White House over the need for a monetary check rein on the business expansion now.

Nor does it escape notice that the Federal Reserve Board itself was closely split on the decision to raise rates. Minority members are on record as believing that the increase should have awaited more definite word on what shape the federal budget would finally take.

A huge tableau of Santa Claus and his reindeer has been fixed to a building on Jameson Avenue and Santa seems as merry as ever. Colored lights have been strung along First Street and the stores are bespangled to the ceilings.

MARK TRAIL

Rhodesians Notice Little Difference

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia's white minority government declared independence from Britain a month ago today. The only difference the man in the Salisbury street has noticed is that Christmas decorations have gone up.

All the talk of African politicians about marching on the Zambezi River and seizing the Kariba Dam power station has kicked up hardly a ripple here. Soldiers are a rare sight in Salisbury and policemen roll by placidly in squad cars as before.

A huge tableau of Santa Claus and his reindeer has been fixed to a building on Jameson Avenue and Santa seems as merry as ever. Colored lights have been strung along First Street and the stores are bespangled to the ceilings.

There has been no rattling of muskets, no bands playing. The Union Jack still flies above many buildings.

It may be that no rebellion in history has caused less stir among the rebels and created more agitation abroad.

Prime Minister Ian Smith slipped quietly up to Kariba Friday to inspect the security arrangements at the power station on the border with black-ruled Zambia. A brief announcement after his return said he was satisfied with what he saw.

Zambia has been insisting that British troops take over the station to guard the electricity supply for Zambia's copper mines.

The stiff economic sanctions imposed on Rhodesia by Britain and other countries have not yet touched the average Rhodesian. There is no rationing. Beer, gone up a few pennies, but there has been no general price increase.

Eggs were selling for 28 cents a dozen today. Beef is plentiful and cheap. You could buy a three-pound chicken for a dollar.

However, behind the glazed doors of bankers' offices, things are different. Exchange control and various import and export restrictions have created massive problems.

The real pinch, of course, will come in two or three months when present stocks of some consumer goods are depleted and the sanctions and stringent import controls produce shortages.

In the meantime, Smith is riding high with the Rhodesian public, at least the white portion of it.

White House Lights Will Be on Longer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lights will shine longer at the White House this week and next.

The reason is the Christmas season.

Two white-lighted trees flank the north portico, and an 18-foot fir has been set up in the Blue Room.

The inside tree is decorated with 960 tiny lights plus popcorn and cranberry chains, gingerbread cookies, teddy bears, toy drums, straw stars and other ornaments.

The doorways have been hung with mistletoe, mantels are banked with holly and greens and a wreath hangs over the front door.

Hot Competition For Top Actor

By BOB THOMAS AP Movies — Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A hot race for top actor, a less spirited one for actress — that's the shape of the race for the 1965 Oscars as contention nears the end.

To qualify for an Academy Award, a film must play in the Los Angeles area for at least a week. Hence the movie companies are jamming the local theaters this week and next. Eyes are bloodshot as critics try to cover the releases.

Since not all of the contenders have been shown yet — "Doctor Zhivago" is still in the cutting rooms — an accurate analysis of the hopefuls cannot be made. But a survey of probabilities indicates it will be a man's year.

Academy voters may suffer an embarrassment of riches in trying to narrow best-actor nominees to five. At least four stars are being pushed for double performances: Sidney Poitier for "A Patch of Blue" and "The Slender Thread"; James Stewart for "Sherandoah" and "The Flight of the Phoenix"; and Oskar Werner for "Ship of Fools" and "The Spy Who Came

From the Cold"; Lee Marvin for "Ship of Fools" and "Cat Ballou"

As of now, Werner seems to be the front runner for "Ship of Fools."

Laurence Olivier's "Othello" will doubtless be a strong contender, as will Omar Sharif's "Doctor Zhivago." Others with chances are Jason Robards, "A Thousand Clowns"; Richard Widmark, "The Bedford Incident"; Jack Lemmon, "The Great Race"; Terence Stamp, "The Collector"; Max Von Sydow, "The Greatest Story Ever Told"; George Segal, "King Rat"; and Michael Caine, "The Ipcress File."

And now the ladies.

Such past winners as Julie Andrews, "The Sound of Music"; Simone Signoret, "Ship of Fools"; Vivien Leigh, "Ship of Fools"; and Anne Bancroft, "The Slender Thread," are among the most promising.

The Academy often favors newcomers. Hence the nod may well be given to Samantha Eggar, "The Collector"; Elizabeth Hartman, "A Patch of Blue"; Patricia Goztl, "Rapture"; or Julie Christie, "Darling."

Performances Greeted by 200 At St. Mary's

By Bob Wheeler
An audience of more than 200 persons greeted the premiere performances of "The Monument" and "The Ball Game" with enthusiasm Saturday night at St. Mary's College auditorium.

The two, half-hour productions exposed the thin facades of many of society's values while holding out for the "really real."

The difficult task of a social protest play, which can easily send the audience away with a bitter taste, instead merited the theatergoer's highest praise.

When James LeBeau, the Chicago author of the plays, was asked what he thought of the productions, he responded only with the highest recommendations.

"This was great, really great. It was more than I had hoped for," said the author.

ESPECIALLY impressive, noted LeBeau, was the use of some of today's pop-protest songs in "The Monument." Sound for the show was arranged by Douglas Eichten, a junior at the college.

Concerning the performances by the actors, LeBeau again had only superlatives in his vocabulary, singling out Larry Basile for added praise for portraying "exactly the character I had written." Basile was cast as Will, the typical bleacherite fan in "The Ball Game."

LeBeau spoke of a difficulty

which naturally arises from an author's interpretation of a play, and the director's interpretation of the play. But he mentioned that, "as an author gets older he tends to give the director more leeway in putting the show to stages."

However, he said that he was fully satisfied with the way in which his play had been adapted to stage, although there naturally were parts which he might have done differently had he produced the show.

LEBEAU ALSO mentioned that when seeing the production on stage for the first time every author finds parts which he would like to rewrite.

"In 'The Ball Game' and in 'The Monument' there are certain lines which now I would delete, and others which I might add," the author said.

The unique evening of entertainment was appropriately concluded over many cups of coffee as the playwright met with the audience in an informal coffee hour after the performances.

The presentation of the plays was directed by Gerald Sullivan and Norman Delue of St. Mary's drama department.

Mondovi Christmas Program Thursday

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special) — The Mondovi High School Music Department will present its annual Christmas Concert Thursday at 8 p.m. in the gym. Participating will be the elementary chorus, directed by Mrs. Florence Canar; the concert wind ensemble; senior high chorus and the concert band.

Richard Putzier is the Senior High School band and chorus director. There is no admission charge. The Music Mothers' will serve lunch in the cafeteria following the concert.

St. Anne Hospice Visited By 600 During Gala Sale

The sparkle and gaiety of the holiday season warmed the hearts of 600 guests who visited the St. Anne Hospice Sunday afternoon and evening when the St. Anne Hospice Auxiliary sponsored the Christmas Gala Sale.

Festive food tables were covered with white cloths complemented with Christmas flowers in red and gold design. Large potted red poinsettias were placed at either end of the tables at which a variety of Christmas baked goods was displayed.

Christmas wreaths made of colored feathers, holly, woven plates decorated with fruits and nuts made a festive Yuletide background for the red and green, felt-covered display tables at which the arts and craft department showed its colorful centerpieces, decorated candles, candle holders, and small baskets of sprayed fruits and flowers.

IN THE glittering arts and craft center, the guests found hundreds of items made by the "folks" at the Hospice for the discriminating Christmas shopper. Knit items for all ages, ceramics, rugs, glassware, toys, and Christmas tree ornaments were featured attractions guarded by a band of impish elves hanging from their place on a large pegboard wall.

The tea table, planned in a pleasant contrast to the colorful display tables, was covered with a white cloth trimmed with a large silver cord. An arrangement of red and white carnations centered the table from which large silver trays of Christmas cookies and coffee were served.

Mrs. Everett Kern and Mrs. R. N. Roverud were general chairmen. They were assisted at the food sale by the Mmes. Thomas Cavanaugh, Henry Brom, Lester Harris, Bernard Boland, Ted Glubka, Hannibal Choate, Leroy Backus, Charles Rogers, Herbert Honor, Lambert Hamerski, Earl Kane, Harold Thlewes, Robert Stein, Richard Vickery and Francis J. Holland, and Miss Marguerite Riley. Mrs. Richard Maxwell donated gifts from foreign lands.

MRS. THOMAS Sonsalla and Mrs. Edward Kohner planned the tea and were assisted at the tea table by the Mmes. C. H. Drier, Hubert Weir, Louis Felten, B. J. Hoepfer, E. J. Hartert, Al Smith, George Kelley and Ida O'Shaughnessy.

Mrs. Pol Maloney was in charge of the coffee and cookies for the tea and was assisted in her solicitations by the Mmes. Marie Koch, Stella Chapman, Martha Collins, Leo Dooney, Lloyd Korder, Robert Northam and Roy Larson, and the Misses Maybel Floyd, Eva Walinski, Alma Kemp and Theodosia Prondzinski.

The arts and crafts sale was under the direction of Mrs. Ray Kulasiewicz and Mrs. Charles Smith. Their committee included the Mmes. Anna Rand, Delbert Bitzan, E. G. Brose, Charles Kochta, Robert Gleason and Oscar Horner.

Mrs. Edward Valentine served as chairman of the calling committee and Mrs. Earl Heiting publicity chairman.

Ruskin Club Told of Visits To International Dramas

Vivid, descriptive detail marked the talk by the guest speaker, Miss Dorothy Magnus, professor of speech and director of the college theater at Winona State College, to the Ruskin Study Club Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William F. White.

Related by Miss Magnus were highlights of her six weeks in Europe and the Middle East this summer at the International Drama Festivals.

In Greece, rich in ancient history as well as theatrical excellence, Epidaurus, located in Peloponnese, is the site of a world famous annual drama festival. Built in the fourth century before Christ, the amphitheatre is an enormous structure seating 14,000 she said. Here, amidst the cultivated beauty of the festival grounds, in the best preserved of original theaters, Miss Magnus' tour began at a performance of the tragedy of "Agamemnon" by Aeschylus. The Greek National Theater Company staged the play, "Oedipus Rex" by the same actors, was also attended.

AT ATHENS, Sophocles' "Antigone," done in the mountain top theater Lycabettus, within the city limits, was a thrilling experience, the speaker said, for the breath-taking view over Athens was "pure enchantment at night." While located in a pass between huge rocks, classic backgrounds were skillfully preserved, she said.

Another memorable evening was spent at the Festival of Sound and Light from a height near the Acropolis, with the historic landmark the star of the show. Two things were commented on by the speaker, the superb lighting effects of this production, and the great number of American students attending.

Miss Magnus itinerary included Lebanon, where at Baalbeck, the international drama festival is annually attended by 100,000 spectators. In an ancient temple, again open to the starlit sky, and surrounded by other historic ruins, Racine's "Andromaque" was done in French. Again artistic lighting was a feature of the production.

Of Germany, the well-known Wagner festival at Bayreuth and the Salzburg and Bregenz festivals in Austria were recounted. Here pantomime and ballet, and again elaborate and beautiful lighting, marked the theatrical offerings, particularly in that of "Parsifal" at Bayreuth in the Festspielhaus. In Berlin, theaters were playing to good houses, she stated.

THE GLAMOROUS American-born Josephine Baker, world-renowned, and now Paris-based, colored entertainer of note, appeared in Copenhagen's entertainment center, Tivoli Gardens during Miss Magnus' stay there. A second evening she heard Brigit Nilsson, Scandinavian opera star, in concert. The King and Queen of Denmark were in their box, she added. Tivoli Gardens center is tax-supported and a wide variety of theater, including band concerts, is there for everyone, every day, she commented. Most shows are free, she noted.

The Shakespeare festival at Stratford-on-Avon, England, was visited for the third time by the speaker, but though a spectacular performance was, as always, seen there, Laurence Olivier's three-year-old theater in Chichester delighted her more this trip, she explained. A private tour of the theater and a new play, "The Black Comedy," by Paul Schaffer, provided the consuming interests.

Plays in London and several more in the theater festivals of Scotland concluded the European tour a full summer of rich theatrical fare, dazzling and unforgettable.

In answer to inquiry about the uniformity of splendid lighting in European theatricals, Miss Magnus attributed it to the dedication and artistry of the individuals involved in the productions.

Mrs. McKendree Petty, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

At the social hour, Mrs. Herbert Bierce presided at a tea table whose Christmas accent was a green and white topiary tree suggestive of mistletoe, and flanked by tall white tapers. Guests for the afternoon were Misses Rebecca Rau, Gertrude Blanchard and Dorothy Leicht. Mrs. Robert Selover was co-hostess.

Christmas Story Told to WBPW By Rev. Dacken

"What was the First Christmas Service?" asked the Rev. Russell Dacken, pastor of the First Baptist Church, in bringing his message to the Winona Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday evening at Hotel Winona. He then read the age-old story of the birth of Jesus.

"Many things are necessary for a true service and all were present at this first Christmas service," he said. "The audience was the simple shepherds on the hills of Palestine who were the first to hear the story; the messenger was the Angel of the Lord, and the message was, 'Unto you is born this day, a Saviour in the city of David which is Christ the Lord. You will find him wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger.' The choir was a multitude of heavenly hosts, praising God and saying, 'Go out and tell the people what you have seen and heard. And the shepherds went to Bethlehem to tell of the glory.'"

REV. DACKEN said that each of us must accept God's gift of his Son in order to show our gratitude to God, if we are to have individual peace during this holy season. World peace will come when all men have good will to one another.

Preceding the dinner and program, devotions were given by Miss Janet Paton. Music was provided by the choir of the First Baptist Church, directed by Mrs. Dacken, with Mrs. James Martin as accompanist. They sang Christmas songs. The club's friendship committee was in charge of the program. Distribution of gifts was headed by Miss Sara Potter, chairman, assisted by Miss Janet Newcomb and Mrs. J. I. Van Vranken. Miss Helen Hilyer won the special prize of the evening.

Miss Rose Schettler, president, presided at the brief business session. She said the state board meeting will be held in Minneapolis Jan. 22-23. Miss Margaret Weimer brought the decorations for the table of balsam boughs and fresh holly and golden topiary for the head table.

GREETINGS WERE sent to shut-in members and a round robin card to Verlie Sather, who is in Florida attending the University of Florida on her sabbatical leave from Winona State College. Gifts were distributed and gifts for the needy were given to Mrs. Katherine Breitbach to be distributed among elderly men and women who might be forgotten. A social hour of cards followed.

BAKE SALE STOCKTON, Minn.—The Ladies Aid of Grace Lutheran Church will sponsor a Christmas bake sale at Benke's Store Saturday starting at 11 a.m. A variety of home-baked breads and holiday goodies will be featured.

TOWNSEND CLUB Townsend Club I will hold a Christmas party Friday at 8 p.m. at the West Recreation Center. Those attending are to bring their own sandwiches, Christmas cookies and a gift.

Castro Trying To Discourage Idea of Santa

HAVANA (AP) — "Why won't Santa Claus come this year, Mommy? Has he forgotten us?" "It's not that he's forgotten us, Alfredo, but you see, Santa Claus is an American and Fidel won't let him in the country."

Thus did a young Cuban mother answer her 5-year-old son asking why he would not receive gifts on Christmas.

Though Jan. 6, the Day of the Three Kings, is the traditional time for gift-giving in Latin-American countries, Cuban children along with other Latins have been accustomed to receiving toys from Santa Claus on Christmas, too.

This year there will be a few toys, and possibly a limited supply of the Cubans' favorite Christmas dish, roast pork, but the emphasis is on "year-end fiestas."

Santa Claus is connected with "Yankee imperialism," therefore no longer mentioned. Most children will receive their toys only from the reyes, the three kings, Jan. 6.

Even that holiday is being phased out. Some children receive their toys immediately after their parents buy them anytime during December or early January. Many mothers, however, have had a difficult time in explaining to their offspring the differences in the celebration of Christmas since communism took over in Cuba.

Once nativity scenes, Christmas trees and religious activities were common. Now smiling Santa Clauses and religious adornment are absent from downtown streets and stores. Christmas carols sung in soft Cuban Spanish no longer fill the air.

But the spirit of giving and receiving is evidently too strong for Communist leaders to abolish. But they've regulated it, along with almost everything else in daily life.

Cards: Young and Old; They All Like Them

By RUTH ROGERS
Daily News Area Editor

Today some of the names on our list for those extra Christmas cards you are sending to the sick and the lonely are on church visitation and cheer lists. All of these, we are assured, would enjoy, receiving cards at Christmas.

Among them is Paul Hamann, 10, third grade, who broke his leg Aug. 25. He was in a hospital in traction for some time. That didn't help so now he's been in a waist-high cast on both legs more than six weeks. Think what a greeting would do for him.

Today's list: Mr. Paul Hamann, Fountain, Minn. Oscar Gaustad, Caledonia Nursing Home, Caledonia, Minn.

Carl Nelson, 87, Winona Rt. 3, Minn. (Witoka) Mrs. Shirley Pagenkoph, State School Home, Faribault, Minn. 52201.

Father of 7 Charged in Shotgun Death

ALTURAS, Calif. (AP) — A father of seven has been charged with murder in the shotgun death of his wife's stepfather during a family altercation in this remote community in northeast California.

Dist. Atty. Robert Barclay filed the murder complaint Tuesday in Modoc County Court against Frank W. Goring, 40, of Alturas.

Sheriff's officers said Goring and 54-year-old Frank Farley shot it out Sunday at the Farley residence. Farley was a former resident of Bismarck, N.D.

Farley was killed and Goring was wounded in the hand by bullet fragments. Mrs. Farley, also hit by part of a bullet, was treated at a hospital and released.

Officers told this story: Goring, his wife and their seven children had been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Farley. As Goring was driving to get some gasoline Sunday, he came upon his wife and several of their children walking along a road.

Goring's wife said she and the children were thrown out of the Farley residence. Goring drove to the house and the exchange of shots took place.

Goring said Farley fired the first shot. Officers said Goring fired a shotgun and Farley used a .30-.30 rifle.

Tribal Edict Disappoints Ousted Coeds

RED CLIFF, Wis. (AP) — Two college coeds, who lost their struggle to bring the domestic peace corps to this remote Indian reservation, voiced disappointment and uncertainty over future plans today.

Judy Rothman, 20, University City, Mo., and Jill Hunt, 22, Keaweenaw, Ill., barred from the Red Cliff Indian Reservation by a 5-2 vote by the tribal council, were told Tuesday by an official of Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) that they would be moved.

Alfred P. Johnson, field liaison worker for VISTA, said he was "concerned over the possibility of violence" and added, "We could not see any meaningful jobs for VISTA" while the tribe was debating whether to lift its edict. The project might be resumed only if the tribe invites VISTA to return after "the differences within the Indian community are resolved," Johnson said.

"We really feel disappointed," said Judy. "We feel it's kind of unfair to the whole community."

Johnson said the two sociology students, who left college to join VISTA, would be transferred. But Judy said, "I don't think right now that Jill and I will be able to transfer to another VISTA project after all the physical and emotional strain."

She said they would remain "another day or so" in the rented house where the pair is living off the reservation, but added, "our personal plans right now are indefinite."

Today, Rosary will be said at 8:45 by the St. Anne Guild and at 8 by Msgr. Grulkowski.

Mrs. Anna Kaufman
Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Kaufman, 402 1/2 W. Sanborn St., were held this morning at St. Stanislaus Church. Solemn requiem high Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Douglas Fiola, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. N. F. Grulkowski as deacon and the Rev. Milto Ernster as subdeacon. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Palbearers were: Richard Buchan, Rom a Zolondek, Frank Matejka, Edward Mlynarczyk, Joseph Maliszewski and Joseph Leiwica.

Walter C. Schildknecht
Funeral services for Walter C. Schildknecht, 723 Clark's Lane, were held today at Breilow Funeral Home, Dr. E. Clayton Burgess, Central Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Palbearers were: Herman Panzer, William Streng, A. C. Tarras, Neil McLaughlin, Adolph Schildknecht and Walter Tarras.

Goods Valued At $316 Taken From Parked Car

About $316 worth of goods were stolen from a Winona man's car Tuesday evening, Police Chief James W. McCabe reported today.

Albert King, 456 E. Wabasha St., told police Tuesday at 9:16 p.m. that his car was parked near Wabasha and Vila streets Tuesday evening when the theft took place.

Missing are: Two Johnson walkie-talkies, one Magnavox transistor radio, one Japanese-made transistor radio and a pair of hip boots.

Police detectives are investigating.

Gasoline Tax Receipts Higher Than in 1964

ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota gasoline tax receipts for November rose to $8,567,743, or 10.6 per cent above those of November 1964, Tax Commissioner Roland F. Hatfield reported today.

He said collections for the year, after refunds, totaled $1.2 billion at the end of November, a 12 per cent increase over the year-earlier figure.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Resolutions For Parents

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.
University of Southern California

Parents can contribute greatly to their children's success in school. But in the rush of busy days, it is easy to forget the little things that mean so much to children.

The following are some resolutions that should help you to remember some of these things.

1-Resolve: I will have some private conversation with my child each day. I will help him to realize he is important as an individual and that his parents are interested in all of his activities.

2-To listen to him carefully and learn his ideas and values. I will be patient in guiding him in the development of his character.

3-To help him build a large vocabulary, and I will endeavor to interest him in using the right word to express his precise meaning.

4-To listen to him read or narrate stories, realizing that in school, with its large classes, his opportunity to express himself is limited.

5-TO SEE THAT he has regular medical and dental check-ups.

6-To make certain that he starts out happily each day with a good breakfast.

7-To show an interest in his schoolwork and his progress. I will be casual enough in this regard to avoid undue pressure but, at the same time, discover any possible roadblocks in his path of learning.

8-To help him find answers to his questions. I will encourage him to use the index in his textbooks and to use the dictionary. Knowing how glad the librarians are to help inquisitive youngsters, I will encourage him to make use of library services.

9-To encourage him to take both initiative and responsibility for his own homework. While I will not do his homework for him, I will help formulate plans as to how and when he is going to do it, knowing that with

Tarkenton (MVP) Foresees Trouble

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Fran Tarkenton, named by a Twin Cities fan club Tuesday night as the Minnesota Vikings' most valuable player this season, is going to have a lot of competition to keep his quarterback's job in summer camp next July.

The Vikings signed two more potential quarterbacks Tuesday — Minnesota's John Hankinson and Los Angeles (Calif.) State's Ray Jones — two pro contracts.

They bring to five the number of quarterbacks the Vikings will have in camp next summer — unless one goes to Atlanta in the National Football League expansion or one is involved in a trade.

Coach Norm Van Brocklin isn't saying what his plans are for all the signal-callers.

"You can't have too many quarterbacks," was all the Dutchman would say. "Look at what happened to the Baltimore Colts."

Baltimore has lost Johnny Unitas and Gary Cuzzo to injuries and face the prospect of using halfback Tom Matte at quarterback in their season-ending game next Sunday.

Tarkenton was honored by the fans, along with linebacker Lonnie Warlick as the Vikings' top rookie, wide end Paul Flatley as the club's best offensive player and linebacker Rip Hawkins as the best defensive player.

Tarkenton, of course, has been Minnesota's No. 1 quarterback since the 1962 season. Ron Vanderkelen and Bob Berry were reserves this year.

Now come Hankinson, who rose from Viking ballboy in 1961 to a member of the team, and Jones as the latest candidates, although Jones more likely will wind up trying out at another position.

Jones was signed as a free agent after being picked 12th in the American Football League by the San Diego Chargers but being passed over in the NFL draft.

He is a 5-foot-11, 198-pounder who was the Los Angeles State quarterback this past season but played halfback in 1964. The Vikings view him as a defensive back or running back prospect.

Jones scored 13 touchdowns this year, including all three for his team in an 18-10 victory over Santa Barbara in the Camelia Bowl game last Saturday.

He was named to the Associated Press' second Little All-America team this year.

The Vikings drafted Hankinson as a future last year, then outbid the new Miami franchise in the American Football League to sign him. Miami acquired AFL negotiation rights to Hankinson from the Boston Patriots.

Neither Van Brocklin nor Hankinson appeared very concerned over the flood of quarterbacks on the Viking roster for next season.

"I'm certainly not thinking of playing next year," Hankinson said. "Every good quarterback in the NFL—with the exception of a few like Tarkenton—has served at least a couple of years of apprenticeship. You can't beat experience at that position."

The two offers, he said, were about equal but he wanted to remain in Minnesota.

Durocher Hustle Will Show Up in Stanky's Tactics

CHICAGO (AP)—Eddie Stanky, who earned the nickname of The Brat during his playing days, ended the Chicago White Sox' frantic search for a manager when he signed a three-year contract Tuesday.

Stanky's last managerial job in the majors was with the St. Louis Cardinals 10 years ago. More by coincidence than design, Stanky becomes the Sox' answer to the Chicago Cubs' recent signing of Lippy Leo Durocher.

Stanky, 48, broke into the majors in 1943 with the Chicago Cubs. The following season he was traded to the Dodgers and became a key man under Durocher.

Stanky's last managerial job in the majors was with the St. Louis Cardinals 10 years ago. More by coincidence than design, Stanky becomes the Sox' answer to the Chicago Cubs' recent signing of Lippy Leo Durocher.

The Brat is of the same hustling mold as The Lip. Stanky played for Durocher with the Brooklyn Dodgers in the '40s and again for The Lip with the New York Giants in the early '60s.

Both last managed in the majors in 1955. Both signed three-year contracts for an estimated $40,000 a year and both were completely surprising choices.

Stanky said Tuesday Durocher was "the best manager I played for" and Durocher, when he made his famous crack "nice guys finish last," used Stanky as an illustration.

However, probably the greatest compliment made about Stanky's playing ability was voiced by the late Branch Rickey when Rickey said "he can't hit, he can't field, he can't run and he can't throw. All he can do is beat you."

Stanky's signing ended a six-week search by the Sox to replace Al Lopez who resigned Nov. 4 and then became a vice president of the Sox.

Stanky, who quit a front office job with the New York Mets to take the Sox post, said he had turned down at least four managerial offers since leaving the

Chiefs' Grid Star Dies After Surgery on Knee

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fullback Mack Lee Hill, unwanted by the pros in 1964 but a star with the Kansas City Chiefs in 1965, died Tuesday of complications following an operation to repair ruptured ligaments in his right knee.

He was injured Sunday when he was tackled after catching a pass in the third quarter of the American Football League game between the Chiefs and the Buffalo Bills in Buffalo.

Hill entered Menorah Medical Center Monday night.

"He went into convulsions following the operation," a hospital spokesman said. "His temperature shot up to 108 degrees."

Hill died 1½ hours after the operation. He was 25 years old.

An autopsy was performed today to discover the exact cause of death. Tuesday doctors said Hill suffered "a sudden and massive embolism after surgery."

The chief surgeon, Dr. Joseph Lichter, said the embolism "is not common, there is no known treatment, it is entirely unpredictable and unpreventable."

Dr. Albert R. Miller, team physician, explained that an embolism may be triggered by a fat globule or particle of a blood clot entering the bloodstream and causing circulation blockage at a vital organ, or death could have been caused by extreme neurogenic reaction to the type of anesthesia used.

A native of Quincy, Fla., Hill matriculated to Southern University in Baton Rouge, La. He had a great sophomore year on the gridiron, but injuries and a change of coaches slowed down his productivity his last two years.

The Chiefs were the only professional football club to show interest in the 5-foot-11, 235-pound Hill. He signed in the era of big bonuses for a mere $300, to be paid only if he made the team.

"Mack Lee Hill was a fine gentleman and a great football player," Chiefs Coach Hank Stram said when informed of the death. "He was probably one of the most unselfish players I have ever coached. He was completely dedicated to the team. Football was his life."

NFL Quality Wins Nobis For Falcons

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Tommy Nobis, the 230-pound linebacker who signed a big money contract with Atlanta of the National Football League, returns to classes at the University of Texas today.

He has some studying to do since he brought to a halt the seemingly endless conferences with Atlanta and Houston of the American Football League over which would get the services of the two-time All-American.

Nobis signed with Atlanta Monday. The terms were not announced but it reportedly was a three-year contract calling for $225,000.

He flew to Atlanta with Atlanta Falcon owner Rankin Smith, who said, "We won't have time for a party in Atlanta. I guess we'll have to celebrate on the plane."

At the Southern city, Nobis denied he ever agreed to sign with Houston Oiler owner Bud Adams although Adams declared the football star did so by telephone last Saturday.

Nobis was the No. 1 draft choice of both teams.

Nobis said his decision to go with Atlanta, although Houston obviously offered more money, was the quality of play in the NFL, the over-all contract that involves pension benefits, the city of Atlanta, the coaching and the "boys I'll be playing with."

"It wasn't the money," Nobis declared. "I guess I followed the NFL closer. I like NFL football — I'm not taking anything away from the AFL, but I thought if I ever could play in an NFL football game, I would do it."

Freeman Below Par—But He's Good Enough

MADISON (AP)—Don Freeman fell below his scoring average Tuesday night but the 6-foot-three senior guard still managed to crack the Wisconsin defense for 27 points as Illinois ripped the Badgers 90-70 in the Big Ten basketball opener.

The Badgers held Freeman to only five points in the first half, but the Illini mainstay found the range after intermission to add eight field goals and six free throws.

Freeman had scored 150 points in five nonconference games for a 30-point average going into the Wisconsin match.

He and his teammates were deadly from the free throw line and this, plus a second half press, helped the Illini overtake Wisconsin after trailing 39-37 at intermission.

Illinois sank 16 of 18 from the foul line while the Badgers hit 14 of 23. The Illini hit 46.3 percent mark from the floor while the Badgers sank 39.4 percent.

The Badgers turned over the ball 18 times without getting a shot and Coach John Erickson cited the damage of the errors.

"We hurt ourselves much more than they hurt us," he said. "We worked so hard to win the game that we even tried to slow our fast break to stop the mistakes and make everything count."

The Illini took the lead 90 seconds into the second half when Dean Flessner connected on a shot to make the score 41-40. The visitors then steadily built up the margin to 64-52.

At that point the Badgers changed defensive tactics and went into a full court press. The ineffective and porous press presented Freeman and Rich Jones with repeated scoring chances.

Freeman connected on 9 of 29 from the field and clicked on nine straight free throws. Jones added 20 and Jim Dawson 19 points for the visitors who now have defeated the Badgers three times in a row.

Mark Zubor paced the Badgers with 16 points, followed by Joe Franklin and Ken Gustafson with 14 and 13 points, respectively.

The victory evened Illinois' record at 3-3. The Badgers have lost 3 of 4 games.

BUBAS' REFUGEES TRIUMPH AGAIN

Atlantic Coast Game: Geographical Hopscotch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Your draw doesn't have to be perfect for you to play in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Geographical hopscotch, a favorite recruiting tactic for many schools in ACC, paid off in a major upset for Frank McGuire at South Carolina last week and now has Vic Bubas' Duke Blue Devils on top of the collegiate basketball heap.

McGuire's Imports beat Bubas' refugees a week ago but Duke has spun off three straight victories since, two against defending national champion UCLA, and is ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll today.

Furman was the latest victim of the passport policy Tuesday night, bowing to the Blue Devils 102-67 at Durham, N.C.

Duke's Bob Verga, who comes from Sea Girt, N.J. — 380 miles from Durham — pumped 25 points and Jack Marlin, who grew up in Farrell, Pa. — about 350 miles from Durham — had 20.

Two more well-traveled Blue Devils, Steve Vacendak and Mike Lewis, pitched in to help Verga and Marlin. Vacendak, who's from Scranton, Pa., had 12 points, and Lewis, a sophomore who is Duke's mileage champ — he's from Missoula, Mont., added 11.

Ninth-ranked Bradley, only other team in the Top Ten to play Tuesday night, nearly blew a 14-point lead but hung on to whip Missouri Valley Conference foe St. Louis 68-63.

The Braves led 43-29 at the half but a 10-minute cold spell that produced just five points cut the lead to two points.

Joe Allen and Eddie Jackson hit a pair of quick baskets that pulled Bradley out. Tom Campbell with 24 and Allen with 19 led the Braves, who won their sixth straight. St. Louis is 4-1.

Bill Backensto scored 31 points as Toledo broke a school record with 47 field goals and ripped Northern Illinois 110-88. The Rockets went 47-for-76 from the floor for a brilliant .594 shooting percentage.

Southern Methodist scored the upset of the night, knocking off previously unbeaten Oklahoma City 92-81. SMU had won five straight and beaten the Mustangs 97-90 in an earlier meeting. Carroll Hooser led the winners with 23.

Dub Malaise played only 28 minutes but fired 33 points as Texas Tech downed Oklahoma 100-92. The Red Raiders ran up a 61-point first half that tied a school record for one period. Malaise had 13 for 18 from the floor and 7-for-7 from the foul line.

Cincinnati's Gene Foster sank three free throws in the last 31 seconds as the Bearcats won their fourth straight, downing Colorado, 67-64. The Buffaloes had rallied with seven straight points to tie the score before Foster's free throws gave Cincinnati the victory.

NFL Scoring Race Going to Wire

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League scoring race will go right down to the wire Sunday with Gayle Sayers, Chicago's sensational rookie, holding a six-point edge over the unsmiling Jim Brown of Cleveland.

Sayers' six-touchdown spurge Sunday against San Francisco rocketed the former Kansas star into the lead with a record total of 21 touchdowns and 126 points. Brown had tied Lenny Moore's record of 20 TDs a week earlier.

GILMANTON FALLS

Mondovi Triumphs, Durand Tumbles

Wisconsin area independents Durand and Mondovi split in action Tuesday night and Gilmanton is looking for its first victory.

Mondovi got its second victory against three losses by dropping Baldwin-Woodville 63-57 and Durand saw its record cut to 4-3 when Ellsworth eked out a 67-65 decision.

Gilmanton suffered shooting woes and fell before Eau Claire Immanuel Lutheran 39-31.

ELLSWORTH 67 DURAND 65

Joe and Dan Langlois, Durand's pint-sized guard tandem, put on a two-man show, but it wasn't good enough as Ellsworth squirmed to a 67-65 victory.

Durand was beaten from the free throw line. The Panthers were assessed 28 personal fouls and Ellsworth 12.

Ellsworth led 17-10 at the quarter and 33-27 with eight minutes to play. The halftime score was deadlocked at 29-29.

Joe Langlois, the taller of the two brothers at 5-7, fired in 28 points on 13 field goals and two-of-three free throws. Dan, 5-6, potted 12 field goals and two of three free throws for 28 points.

Coach Al Ormsom termed the display "fantastic."

Dodge had 23 for Ellsworth. Durand won the preliminary 54-28.

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN 39 GILMANTON 31

Gilmanton shot only 10 percent following intermission Tuesday and saw that turned into a 39-31 victory for Immanuel Lutheran of Eau Claire. Gilmanton now is 0-6.

The Panthers led 9-7 at the first break before slipping behind 20-18 at halftime and 27-23 with eight minutes to play.

John Gurgel had 19 for the winners and Ron Hovey 15 for Gilmanton.

Immanuel Lutheran won the "B" game 32-29.

MONDOVI 63 BALDWIN-WOODVILLE 57

Mondovi racked up a 63-57 win over Baldwin-Woodville by grabbing an early lead and hanging on.

By the half the Buffaloes led 35-28 and at the end of three it was 47-46.

At the head of the Buffalo attack was Steve Kent with 17. Steve Fedie had 14 and John Hesselman 10.

For Baldwin-Woodville, Bob Sittlow tossed in 25 and Larry Gilbertson hit 11.

Mondovi lost the "B" game 57-16.

Duke Soars To Top of Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Duke's Blue Devils soared to the top of The Associated Press' major college basketball poll today, replacing UCLA, the team they beat twice in two nights last week. The West Coast Bruins fell to eighth place.

The Blue Devils, with a 5-1 record including Tuesday night's 102-67 conquest of Furman, advanced from sixth position. They collected 17 first-place votes and 357 points in the balloting by a special regional panel of 43 sports writers and sportscasters. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

Duke whipped UCLA, defending national champion, 82-66 Friday and 94-75 Saturday.

St. Joseph's, Pa., moved up one place to second with 14 votes for the top spot and 323 points. The Hawks have a 4-0 record, including last week's victories over Bellarmine and Bowling Green.

Michigan is third followed by Kansas, Vanderbilt, Minnesota, Providence, UCLA, Bradley and Wichita. The latter team replaced South Carolina among the first 10.

Michigan dropped one notch to third. The Wolverines beat Ball State and San Francisco and lost to Wichita last week for a season's record of 4-1. The voting was based on games through Monday night.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, won-loss records through Tuesday's games and total points:

1. Duke (17) 5-1 ..... 357
2. St. Joseph's, Pa. (14) 4-0 323
3. Michigan (3) 4-1 ..... 260
4. Kansas (4) 5-0 ..... 253
5. Vanderbilt (5) 4-0 ..... 243
6. Minnesota 3-0 ..... 137
7. Providence 3-0 ..... 134
8. UCLA 2-2 ..... 132
9. Bradley 6-0 ..... 112
10. Wichita 3-0 ..... 63

Eight Pins Make Easy Gopher Win
PLAINVIEW — Plainview High School wrestlers recorded eight pins to overwhelm Zumbrota 45-10 Tuesday night in a Hiawatha Valley Conference dual meet.

Ron Ryan, Jim Schad, Don O'Brien, Ken Tibesar, Lon Niemi, Ralph Ratz, Neal Grummons and John Holzer all flattened their opponents for the Gophers. Both Grummons and Holzer pinned their foes in less than one minute.

Preston Overrated? Ofstun Says 'Yes!'

By BOB JUNGHANS
Daily News Sports Writer
PRESTON, Minn. — "I definitely feel that our conference is one of the better balanced around the state," said Preston High School basketball coach Dick Ofstun. "You can't consider anyone a soft touch."

The records of the teams that compete in the Maple Leaf Conference where the Bluejays fight for honors bear Ofstun out. Chatfield is 3-2, Harmony 4-1, Lanesboro 4-2, Wykoff 4-1 and Preston 4-0. Only Spring Valley has had little luck on the hardwood this year, losing all five of its games.

"But they gave us a good battle," said Ofstun. And though Preston hasn't given any indication of it by its undefeated record, Ofstun feels his team is over-rated.

"I think we were overrated at the beginning of the season and I definitely think we still are," said Ofstun. "I can't see how anyone can say that we are just going to waltz through this conference."

Preston has posted two league victories, but Thursday night the Bluejays run into one of the teams that Ofstun personally picked as a team to beat in the loop — Chatfield.

"They've only got two starters back from last year, but they were two of the finest players in the league," said Ofstun of the Gophers' 6-4 Doug Rowland and 5-8 Tom Judd. "And they had a fine 'B' squad last year. And Harmony (the other team Ofstun picked to make a run for the title and which defeated Chatfield last week 82-73) has two good players back and they unofficially won our 'B' squad conference."

As for his own team, Ofstun says, "We have a long way to go. We're pretty young at the guards except for (Jerry) Rislove."

But the Bluejays do have 6-3 Mike Kneis, the Maple Leaf's leading scorer with a 23.8 average. "Last year I considered Kneis one of the better ball players in the area," said Ofstun. "He averaged 25 points-a-game and he's off to a better start this year."

"But we're not a one-man team. Rislove, (Steve) Trende, Jerry Himli and Bill Hall are all double figure scorers. They're all real good shots." In naming his double figure men, the Preston coach also named his starting lineup for Thursday's 8 p.m. contest at the Preston gymnasium. Kneis and Himli will be at forwards with Hall at center. Rislove will be at one guard with either Trende or Steve Hall at the other. The front line reserves are Charlie Lammers and Jim Himli.

Cards Own 1st Place, C-FC Falls

Dairyland Conference
Eleva-Strum 4 0 Whitehall 1 2
Osseo 3 1 Blair 1 3
Alma Center 3 1 Cochrane-FC 1 3
Augusta 2 2 Independence 1 4

TUESDAY'S RESULTS
Eleva-Strum 49, Osseo 39.
Alma Center 69, Whitehall 55.
Whitehall 44, Blair 43.
Augusta 47, Independence 44.

Tuesday night marked the fourth round for the Dairyland Conference and a very good night for host ball clubs. They all won.

Eleva-Strum took sole possession of first place and remained undefeated by downing previously undefeated Osseo 69-59.

In other league action, Alma Center rapped Cochrane-Farmington City 69-55, Whitehall smashed Blair 66-43 and Augusta slipped past Independence 47-46.

ELEVA-STRUM 69 OSSEO 59
Eleva-Strum is now alone in first place in the Dairyland. The Cards' 69-59 victory was over their closest contender Osseo — which was also unbeaten.

The Chieftans led throughout the first half with quarter scores of 19-10 and 35-32. It was in the third period that the Cards found the bucket and led 47-45.

In double figures for the Cards, now 5-0, were Roger Tollefson with 22 points, Jim Skogstad with 16 and Tim Bue with 14. For Osseo Lyle Sell stuffed in 23 points, Jerry McNally tallied 14 and Dave Nelson hit 12 points.

HE'S CHARGED Cassius Lips Off at Cop

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy-weight boxing champion Cassius Clay has been charged with disorderly conduct stemming from an argument with police about whether his car should be curbed.

Clay, 22, was in the car with three other men when police stopped it on a South Side street Tuesday. Police said the vehicle did not have license plates or a city tax sticker.

When the officers tried to search Clay, they said he told them: "Lay a hand on me and I'll place a brutality charge on you."

Farogol said Clay dared him to throw a punch so Clay could sue the government.

Clay, Bey and the other two were taken to the police station in a police car. The policemen said Clay was arrogant and boisterous during the entire period.

At the station, Clay and Bey were charged with disorderly conduct and released on $25 bond each.

The driver, Johnny Cage, 47, of Chicago was charged with driving without license plates and a city sticker and with a revoked driver's license.

SOUTH AMERICAN TOUR
NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, who has retired from boxing, will tour South America starting the second week of February, an agent said Tuesday.

Irlene Trimmer Hits 243 Game for First

Irlene Trimmer, Winona Women's Bowling Association secretary, owns first place in the single-game division for the current listings.

She triggered 243 in the Hal-Rod Ladies City League Tuesday night to bypass Hope Dennis' 242, hit in the same circuit Oct. 12.

MRS. TRIMMER, who confesses right now she's more interested in city tournament entries than top scores for herself, packed five strikes in a row in her second game. That led her to the 243.

She will tell you, however, that her league-leading 546 series that pushed Pozanc Trucking to 945-2,657 was not to her liking.

She opened with a 131 and closed with 172. She held a 166 average going into Tuesday's round.

Entries for the city tourney opened Monday and will close Jan. 8. Meanwhile, Helen Grulkowski was ripping 201-544, Larry Donahue 534, Grace Burley 201-532, Audrey Sieracki 531, Barbara Pozanc 527, Dorothy Beynon 522, Lois Schacht 204-518, Leona Lubinski 514, Ruth Hopf 509, Ramona Hildebrandt 505 and Elsie Dorsch 504.

ly sparked Flintstones to 834-2,341 with her 201-485. Hiawatha — Joel Hatleli slammed 215-565 to pace his league leading Norm's Electric team to 999-2,805. Carroll Colbenson had 566 for Midland.

National — Daily News registered 946-2,732 behind Bill Bellman's 209. Steve Fretten had 537 for Waddell & Reed. Alley Gaters — Nash's garnered team laurels with 854-2,541, while Jan Wiczorek was pounding 172 for Fenske Auto Body. Jane Sherman laced 478 for Mohan's Window. It was split-making night also as Gerry McLaughlin converted the 3-6-7.

Working Girls — Carol Styba shot the Go-Go Girls into a first-place tie as the team hammered 444-1,706 on the strength of Carol's 163-465.

HAL-ROD: Four City — Earl Wanek blitzed 254, sparking Central Motors to 983. Winona Truck Service counted 2,805, and Arwin Overby clouted 564 for Christenson Drugs.

ATHLETIC CLUB: Elks — Home Furniture won the first-half championship going away as Len Merchlewitz counted 231 and John Orlewski laced 529 for the champs.

WYKOFF WINS AGAIN

Lewiston Tops Rollingstone

In Minnesota nonconference action, Lewiston scored its second consecutive victory, Wykoff ran its record to 5-1 and Randolph saw its slate evened at 2-2.

Lewiston rode past arch-rival Rollingstone Holy Trinity by the score of 68-54 while Wykoff was having its troubles against Adams.

The Wykoffs finally moved to the 68-64 victory in an overtime session. Randolph was beaten 68-48 by Burnsville.

Lewiston and a third-period score favored the Cards 49-40. Hitting double figures for the Cards were Dean Wilde with 21 points, Ron Kirkeby with 20 points, and Ron Gatzlaff with 10.

For Rollingstone Holy Trinity Dave Arnold tallied 25 and Dennis Fenton hit 11. Lewiston also took the "B" game 37-31.

WYKOFF 68 ADAMS 64
Wykoff found itself winning in a very tight 68-64 battle from Adams.

The Wykoffs jumped to an early lead of 16-7 in the first period, but by the half it was cut to 27-23 and by the third period it was 46-41. At the end of the fourth period it was 61-all and Wykoff finally won it in overtime.

New Polaroid Color Pack Camera

Polaroid has just introduced an economy model of the famous Color Pack Camera. It's called the Model 104. Same great film. Same fast loading. Same electric eye. Same big color prints in 60 seconds (black and whites in just 10). Yet Polaroid has figured out a way to bring it to you for only about half the price of the original model. When you invent something that's this much fun, you've just got to find a way to put it in the hands of a lot of people. Come on in. We love to show it off.

Many Officers Agree With Gen. Le May

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Air Force officers agree with Gen. Curtis E. LeMay that the kind of new bomber they are going to get is a poor substitute for the advanced long-range strike air plane their service really wants.

But these officers still are in uniform. So they are not free to criticize openly Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's decision to modify the controversial TFX fighter plane into a bomber.

LeMay is retired and is under no such restraints.

In a recent interview with The Associated Press, the former Air Force chief of staff was asked his views on a follow-on bomber to replace the B52 Stratofortress, and about the pending proposal to adapt the TFX to a bomber version.

"We need an advanced manned strategic aircraft," LeMay said.

"The TFX is not really the solution. It could be used, but it lacks size, range and weight-carrying capacity to do the long-range job.

"We may be caught and have to use this aircraft as a poor substitute, for we are long past the time when we should have started production of a new and advanced system."

In essence, the Air Force will support the McNamara program for a force of 210 FB111 bombers — as the TFX offshoots will be known — because it is a matter of half a loaf being better than none.

McNamara is willing to spend $1.75 billion to adapt the TFX design and build a fleet of FB111 bombers.

But the defense secretary obviously is unwilling, at least so far, to set in motion a from-drawing-board-up advanced manned strategic aircraft — AMSA — that could cost as much as $11.5 billion for 200 planes.

The Air Force hopes the FB111 will turn out to be only an interim solution—that eventually McNamara and President Johnson will come around to accepting Air Force views.

Sit-ins Stopped by Reclassification

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's what two U. S. notables said about current problems Monday:

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director: "Reclassification is quicker at stopping sit-ins than some indictment that takes effect six months later."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower: "I trust that every member (of the Republican party) will continue to harden his determination to eliminate quirks, internal arguments and mutual antagonism among Republicans..."

NERVES TO MATCH A BRIDGE OF STEEL... Ray Santana of San Francisco is one of 40 elite painters who scramble daily 746 feet above the rip tides of San Francisco Bay to protect the famous Golden Gate Bridge with its coat of International Orange paint. Here he is atop one of the two towers. The other is in the background silhouetted against the San Francisco skyline. (AP Photofax)

Golden Gate Bridge Has Fascination for Painters

By LYLE W. PRICE
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There's an almost mystical attraction to the Golden Gate Bridge, at least for the painters who climb to fearsome heights daily to renew its world-famed orange glow.

"The bridge grows on you; it becomes part of you," says Hale Sharrett, a husky ex-Navy man who supervises a 40-man painting crew.

The painting boss replaces his calm, steady gaze with a look of surprise when asked why a person would work at heights up to 746 feet above swirling riptides.

"Why this is the Golden Gate Bridge you're talking about, not just any bridge," he exclaims.

This magnetism has also drawn millions of tourists — and 286 known suicides — in the bridge's 28-year history.

It also thrills drivers and passengers who cross the 4,200-foot suspension bridge, says James Adam, general manager of the bridge. Some 345 million vehicles have crossed the bridge since it opened in 1937.

Another 1.5 million pedestrians have strolled the bridge's walkways, usually in couples, or families, almost always with cameras. Only rarely will they see the painters, who usually are specks high up on the towers, or hidden from view under the deck.

The painters continuously paint its 10 million square feet of deck, towers, supports and cables.

The bridge, second in length by only 50 feet to New York's new Verrazano Narrows Bridge, is on its fifth complete painting.

Each paint job is done completely by hand brushing, using successive coats of red lead primer, intermediate brown and its public face, international orange.

The outer color is a reddish-orange hue that sometimes deters tourists who expect a golden color. Orange was selected from the start because of superior visibility, durability and harmony with surrounding hills of green and brown. The bridge's name was taken from the harbor entrance, the Golden Gate.

The bridge's appeal draws far more applicants than can be used in the painting crew.

"Our men have been on the job an average of 15 years," Sharrett says, "so you see we don't have many vacancies. But we get about two new applicants a day."

The supervisor, a 19-year veteran who worked up from rookie painter, says he can tell in a day whether a new man is scared.

"I think it's fair to say one must have 'iron nerves' for this job," he declares. "We have had would-be painters freeze on the railing."

Besides iron nerves, the painter must also have two years' experience as a journeyman painter and one year of painting structural steel or bridges at considerable heights.

The jobs, which pay $800 a month, are demanding mostly because of "terrible weather — foggy in summer and windy in winter," Sharrett says.

Despite painting eight hours, five days a week — covering 1,200 square feet of flat surface or 400 square feet of cables on an average day — the men don't feel bored.

"It's a long way from being a dull job," Sharrett asserts. "There's something different every day. We've had wrecks, fires, jumpers — anything can happen on the bridge."

"There have been several instances where painters have rescued would-be suicides," says Sharrett's boss, the maintenance superintendent, R. D. Mullins.

"If the painters see the suicide on the railing," Mullins said, "maybe we can get there in time, since the jumper usually goes over the railing and stands on the beams underneath, then jumps."

Sharrett again assumed a look of surprise when asked what thoughts run through his mind at the top of a tower, 75 stories above water, even though he is protected by a safety belt, an emergency net and good sense from a plunge to certain death.

"Nothing — you think of nothing up there," he said.

"Painters do think, he said, it's in terms of safety, not danger.

"We have an excellent safety record. Not one painter has fallen to his death."

A worker is automatically fired if he isn't wearing his safety belt on the job, Sharrett said. Large rope nets follow the men as they work.

The nets are similar to the type that caught and saved the lives of 19 workmen when the bridge was being built. Ten workers were killed near the end of construction, however, when a scaffold gave way and ripped a safety net apart. Two other workers, not painters, died under similar circumstances a decade ago.

The bridge itself was built to withstand earthquakes, a matter of vital importance in a city that still measures all earth tremors by its great earthquake of 1906.

The bridge also is designed to withstand a side sway totaling 27.7 feet and an up-and-down sway of 11.8 feet. It rode out its most severe test, a 69-mile-per-hour windstorm in 1951, with an up-and-down buckling of about 10 feet.

The bridge was closed nearly three hours then, the only time it has not been in full operation.

Heat on Again At Dawson Creek

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (AP) — The heat was on today in Dawson Creek and nearby Pouce Coupe. And the 16,500 residents of the two northeastern British Columbia communities figured it was about time.

For more than 24 hours, some of the time in near-zero weather, they had been without fire in their furnaces because of a break in a natural-gas pipeline. Schools and most businesses were shut down and residents bunched up and clustered around electric heaters.

Late Monday night, after two earlier efforts ended in cave-ins, crews of Westcoast Transmission succeeded in digging 30 feet down to cap the pipe near the break 14 miles north of here. This enabled gas to be brought in from an alternative source.

The outer color is a reddish-orange hue that sometimes deters tourists who expect a golden color. Orange was selected from the start because of superior visibility, durability and harmony with surrounding hills of green and brown. The bridge's name was taken from the harbor entrance, the Golden Gate.

The bridge's appeal draws far more applicants than can be used in the painting crew.

"Our men have been on the job an average of 15 years," Sharrett says, "so you see we don't have many vacancies. But we get about two new applicants a day."

The supervisor, a 19-year veteran who worked up from rookie painter, says he can tell

Great Changes in Santo Domingo

By ROBERT BERELLEZ
SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—"In Trujillo's time," the man said, "the streets were immaculately clean, the grass trimmed, the trees pruned."

He nodded toward the seaside walk, littered with scraps of paper and fruit peels. Piles of loose sand hugged the curb. Dead leaves drooped from the palm trees.

"There was also law and order," he snapped, looking sternly at two jaywalkers.

Santo Domingo isn't a very clean or orderly city and hasn't been since dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo was slain in May 1961. The jails are less jammed, however, and free speech is a way of life, not a possible prelude to political exile or a prison term.

Still, many people, especially the older ones in this country of young folks, like to look back with a sort of knowing, I-told-you-so air.

The transition from 31 years of Trujillo dictatorship to representative democracy has been rocked by continued violence. One would have to look close today, though, to find the signs of last April's revolution, one of the most explosive in Latin-American history. Emotional scars are fading faster than most foreigners here thought possible.

The other evening Col. Francisco Caamano Dena, amiable chief of the rebel army, sat with friends in a popular restaurant. The place was crowded with people from the other side of the political fence. Some waved at Caamano. He smiled, waved back. Six months ago the two groups likely would have been shooting at each other.

Physical scars are disappearing in a flurry of construction and repair projects that have helped thin the ranks of unemployed. Even surprised Dominicans are asking: Where's the money coming from?

The United States has put more than $80 million into a major rehabilitation effort. More is on the way. The 9,000-plus foreign troops stationed in the country are spending at least some of their salaries here.

Scores of privately financed low-cost homes are going up on state land in the city. With an emergency grant of $2 million from the Alliance for Progress and $24,000 from the Organization of American States, the government is completing an aqueduct to end a chronic water shortage.

The most dramatic infusion of American help has come through the distribution of U.S. surplus foods. Catholic relief services, Church World Services and CARE gave away 63 million pounds — about 18 pounds per Dominican — of cornmeal, flour, powdered milk, cooking oil and oatmeal in the period between the start of the revolution, April 24, and Aug. 31. Food distribution is being stepped up with the emphasis on children of school and preschool age.

Gambling casinos and most night clubs have reopened. Even hope has gotten a boost with the reopening of the national lottery. Anti-Yankee fervor is on the wane, but not because Dominicans feel different about the American armed presence here.

"It isn't that we don't like Americans; we do," says Bonaparte Geautreux, 31, a young businessman. "It's just that we don't want foreign troops on our soil."

Framed against this background is an ugly little nocturnal

"war" between diehards of factions involved in the revolution. The tempo is dying down but occasionally the night silence is broken by a grenade or machine-gun fire.

Lights burn late in the homes of some right-wing extremist political figures known, says President Hector Garcia-Godoy, to be conspiring against the government. Among them are those who measure peace and progress mostly in terms of clean streets and pruned trees, a la Trujillo.

Japanese Fishing Boat Is Missing

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese fishing boat manned by a crew of 24 was reported missing and feared lost today in stormy seas near the Soviet-occupied northern Kuriles. The Maritime Safety Agency said the 236-ton Eijo Maru radioed Monday afternoon she was taking water and her crewmen were about to abandon the ship.

Search by four Japanese vessels nearby failed to locate the ship or any life raft, an agency spokesman said. Two Japanese patrol ships were sent to join in the search.

Czechs Seek New Markets in West Europe

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist regime is scouting Western Europe in search of new markets and supplies as it enters a new era of profit-making and economic decentralization.

The Prague government also is seeking to stem a wave of panic buying touched off by rumors that under the economic reform plan prices of such basic foods as sugar, flour and potatoes are earmarked for sharp increases and that the currency will be devalued.

Called the "New Economic Model," the scheme has been propagated for two years by the Communist party as a long-overdue remedy for faulty planning, lack of consumer goods, and poor quality of export products which even the Soviet Union and other European Communist countries have refused to buy.

The plan virtually abolishes two traditional maxims of Communist ideology — rigid government control over the economic process from top to bottom, and government-subsidized prices in certain key sectors.

Many Communist officials have long opposed these methods as unrealistic leftovers from Stalinist times. Many others are reluctant to see them disappear.

Like neighboring East Germany and Hungary, the Czechoslovak regime has decided to pay attention to quality rather than emphasize quantitative output as the yardstick of economic development.

Glowing Predictions for Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A splat-ter of rising economic statistics and glowing predictions for 1966 form the background for the Senate-House Economics Com-mittee investigation of the Fed-eral Reserve Board's interest rate increase.

While Federal Reserve Chair-man William McChesney Martin Jr. was explaining why he thought the hike was needed to keep the economic upswing moderate and safe, government officials and corporate execu-tives were busily painting a pic-ture of bigger and better things in the year ahead.

Administration spokesmen say that the tightening of money isn't needed to hold the expan-sion in line and might even cause it to stumble. They con-tend that the statistics they are releasing now, and the predic-tions for further gains in 1966 are still well within the limits of moderation — and below the boom-bust danger line.

The latest flood of figures in-clude:
Construction spending will increase by 6 per cent, com-pared with a 4 per cent gain this year. The Commerce De-partment says higher costs account-ed for most of this year's gain over 1964, but that higher prices will play a much smaller role in next year's larger rise. The de-partment puts this year's spend-ing at a record $68.5 billion and estimates 1966 outlays at $72.7 billion. Private construction ac-counted for $47.9 billion of the total this year and should grow to $50.3 billion in 1966.

In the field of new investment in plant and equipment by busi-ness, the prediction is for a 13.5 per cent rise in 1966 to $58.8 bil-lion from this year's record $51.8 billion. The estimate is based on a government survey in late October and November of business intentions.

In the here and now, the Commerce Department reports that retail sales hit a seasonally adjusted record of $24 billion in November, up 11 per cent from last year. Current reports from merchants around the nation indicate that December sales are topping this easily as con-sumers spend freely and buy more expensive articles.

Nonfarm payrolls also have risen to a record for the 13th month in a row. The Labor De-partment puts the November total at 61.6 million. This is 2.4 million higher than a year ago.

The average factory work-week was 41.4 hours, the highest November level in 21 years. And the average weekly pay was a record $109.30, or $5 more than a year ago.

Car and truck sales, including imports, are now estimated at 10.8 million this year, up 13 per cent from 1964. And industry spokesmen are predicting that sales next year should be at or above this year's record.

The steel industry, which has been having its private slow-down since the early September reaching of a labor contract, reports that at last some of its customers are through living off the stocks they built up as a hedge against a strike threat.

New orders, especially from the construction and railroad cus-tomers, are coming in briskly. January shipments could well be larger than estimated ear-lier.

Predictions of even better business ahead also are beginning to pour in now from leaders in many other indus-tries.

Will higher interest rates put a brake on this? Or will they keep things rolling smoothly? That's what the congressional investigators are trying to find

TV Education Centers for State Questioned

ST. PAUL (AP) — Proposed educational television centers for Robbinsdale and Osseo school districts—at a cost of nearly $350,000 in federal funds—have gotten a skeptical eye from the State Board of Education.

At Monday's meeting, the board decided to write federal authorities declaring its members "strongly question the advisability" of the project. It amounted to a rebuke of earlier action by the Department of Education in calling for the centers despite adverse recom-mendation of an advisory board.

The board also voted to notify federal officers whenever it dis-agrees with a recommendation by the department on other future projects under Title III of the 1965 Elementary and Sec-ondary Education Act. Title III provides for federal aid for edu-cational services and centers, including educational television.

Board member Joseph T. Mc-Dermott of St. Paul said he was shocked at the recommendation because the Osseo-Robbinsdale project represented such a large share of the $2 million available to Minnesota under Title III funds; because it would involve capital spending, which he said is frowned upon by federal offi-cers, and because the project represents "nothing new or novel."

Commissioner of Education Duane J. Mattheis said the recom-mendation was made partly because some members of the advisory board were interested in rival TV projects and partly because it was thought the plan could win acceptance in Wash-ington.

Department officials said these other projects were also recommended
Planning grants for a chil-dren's center at Austin, $24,100; a supplemental educational services center at Duluth, $38,000; a data processing service at Edina-Morningside, $36,225; learning camps, Glenwood, $98,990; Curriculum development, $42,783, and community guid-ance center $1,984, both at Hop-kins; cultural opportunities center, Marshall, $32,900.
