Inefficiency Challenged In Showalter Hall Siege

By Brenda Starr

Four-armed men entered Showalter Hall early Monday and held everyone in the three-story building hostage for seven hours.

Identifying themselves as officers of the Cheney Organization and Efficiency Army, the men, dressed in business suits and full-face masks, took over the offices of the president, registrar and general advising.

At 3:30 p.m., the Cheney S.W.A.T. Team, headed by Sgt. George Patton, entered the building and overtook the men. No one was injured.

"It was just horrible," one freed hostage said after the incident. "They kept laughing, and saying, 'we'll get this place organized if it's the last thing we do,' and 'someday you'll thank us for this, it's what the world is coming to.'"

Another employee said, "They insulted us the entire time. One man, whose mask resembled the crayon-drawn face of one of the S.O.B. members, kept chanting, 'efficiency' over and over."

The men, who ranged in age from 45 to 60, and have yet to be identified, overtook the building wielding machine guns, portable filing cabinets and dust mops. They are being held in the Cheney City Jail without bond.

"They made us submit to outrageous acts," another employee, who wished to remain anonymous, said. "One man held us at gunpoint, while one of the other men showed us how to correctly file students' transcripts and organize the office. I'll never forget it."

Showalter Hall has been a landmark of the EWSC campus since it was built in the early 1900's and has housed the administrative offices for the college and the president's office for a number of years.

"It was a terrible ordeal for all involved," said Dr. H. George Frankenstein in an interview after the incident. "Catastrophic inefficiency has been a trademark of Showalter Hall for many years, and it's just terrible, terrible, that persons such as these would try to destroy it. I'm sure, though, with the expertise the employees have developed in this area, we'll be back to normal in no time."

It has been disclosed that an unidentified source called the Cheney Police and said that this is not the last incident of this type which is planned to "create efficiency and organization in administrative matters of the campus."

No one was available at the time to comment on this.

17-Hour Commencement

Grads To Face Obstacles

By Brenda Starr

In an emergency meeting Monday, Ken Doll, assistant to the president, explained revised graduation procedures and clarified misunderstandings about the new ceremonies.

The new schedule will be conducted as a "five-level" graduation, which includes a convocation, commencement, 20-mile "Grande Marche," mountain climbing and bicycle obstacle course races.

The convocation will be conducted by a School (or College) and provides opportunities for the distribution of flu shots (actually swine flu) and allows for some contact between veterinarians and students.

"Grande Marche" Planned

After the convocation, a 20-mile "Grande Marche" will take the graduating students, faculty, hitchhikers, and speakers to Davenport, where the commencement will take place.

At the commencement, a four-year-old child will present the degree candidates, followed by the spanking of each by the child. Opportunities for special recognition of apathetic students is also provided at graduation. The usual president's bath will not be held this year.

There have been complaints that the ceremonies will take too much time (17 hours or more). This is not true, according to Doll. With the elimination of the president's bath, it may take less time, 16 and one-half hours.

A rumor has spread that faculty members would be forced to attend the ceremonies. In a "Communistique," Dr. H. George Frankenstein wrote, "Faculty members, like students, may attend, but have a free choice. Of course, there will be no cookies and milk for faculty members who choose not to attend." To remedy the misunderstanding, Doll said, "We cordially invite everyone, but for those who don't attend, it just means more cookies for us."

Another complaint was that there was no student input into graduation plans.

Jeff Tomdaughter, A.S.S. president, said that Frankenstein had asked his opinion on the choice of cookies.

Recipes Needed

Bunker and Doll said the students could have contacted the Commencement Committee had they wanted to contribute recipes. Doll also said that it would help if a graduating senior, along with a student appointed by Tomdaughter, were to help bake cookies with the committee.

Bunker and Doll plan to circulate a "Communistique" to notify students that they may contact either of them to suggest recipes. At this time, only chocolate-chip and oatmeal cookies are planned.

Rainiers Storm Library

By Lois Lane

The John F. Kennedy Memorial Library was extensively damaged Tuesday evening when a herd of wild Rainiers stampeded through the three-story building.

According to the eye-witness reports, the herd was about 3,000 in number and raced through the library, overturning shelves and tables. One witness said that some of the Rainiers even stopped to chew on some of the more tastier volumes, although this is doubtful.

"It is so dreadful, just pathetic," said head librarian Chuckie Bowman. "Look at that mess. Whatever made those Rainiers think they could ransack my library and get away with it?"

An investigation of the matter is now underway. Campus Hazards said they believe that the attack was brought on after a student carelessly left a pile of beer cans inside the men's bathroom.

"When the Rainiers got wind of that scent of beer, they headed straight for it," said one officer. "And I don't really blame them."

But we have to find that guy who did it."

No serious injuries were reported during the stampede, although several were taken to the Health Center for treatment of minor sloshing.

Many of the students who were studying in the library at the time were so overcome by excitement that they ran with the wild Rainiers. No trace of these people have been found yet, and it is feared that they may never be seen again.

The President's Office issued a formal statement, saying that it was "a regrettable incident and there must be no further cases such as this. From now on, there will be absolutely no drinking on campus. Beer is too tempting to the Rainiers, and as long as they are somewhere in the area, it is too dangerous to risk another attack."

If anyone has information on students who are known drinkers of that particular brand, please contact Campus Hazards immediately. All identities will be protected.

Is It Really A Loss?

By Jimmy Olsen

The A.S.S. Legislature has allegedly committed suicide, according to a letter found Monday in the A.S.S. office.

The letter, written as a poem, reads as follows,

"Our doctor has made a prognosis,

That intercourse leads to Thrombosis.

But we would rather expire Than be forced to retire,

Which would surely lead to psychosis."

It was signed by the entire A.S.S. Legislature.

Physician of the legislators, Dr. Feelgood, said, "This is indeed a strange case. I have never before seen a single person contract the disease by playing with him/herself, let alone a group that large."

When shown the suicide pact, Feelgood said, "The letter is contradictory in several places. In the first place, they certainly did not get the disease from having sex, and secondly, they were already psychotic."

When Cheney police chief, Buford Steeltoe, was asked as to what action was being taken, he replied, "None."

The bodies of the missing legislators cannot be found, but there is no need to worry, as, according to Dr. Frankenstein, "They have always been difficult to find when something important comes up."

So far, no investigation is under way, no relatives of the missing legislators have been contacted, and, according to a student survey, nobody cares.

Editorials

We're So Glad It's Over

By Brenda Starr

Although this issue of The EASTERNER is composed primarily of parody, this editorial is to be taken in absolute seriousness.

Being a member of a college newspaper staff is often misrepresented as being a difficult task. Needless to say, it is not.

It takes a certain kind of person who is willing to devote a few minutes once a week in research, interviewing, writing and actual production of the newspaper, among other duties.

Not everyone who attends college is willing to sacrifice the few activities offered by campus life to work on a newspaper.

Being a member of a newspaper staff does have its disadvantages, however. Being constantly told how well one is doing and how well the newspaper is representing the campus community, opportunities to view concerts, films, and plays, meeting and interviewing interesting persons, and gaining a sense of irresponsibility, illiteracy and lack of skill, which members can often use as a guide to past endeavors.

The past quarter in the EASTERNER Office has been one of transition. The staff, which numbers a big 20, has had to work less and less to produce an ample amount of uninformative copy each week for The EASTERNER, along with attempting to investigate boring topics the college community probably don't want to know about. Not a difficult task at all.

The staff members are young, most are freshmen, with a sophomore and senior thrown in here and there. They have shown their incompetence, both individually in their few accomplishments, and as a group, working so poorly together in the vast expanse of The EASTERNER Office.

I would like to thank individually:

Shirley Temple, managing editor; associate editors; Olive Oil, copy; Rona Barrette, entertainment; Lois Lane, news; Casper Milktoast, photography; and the man of the office, Scoop Sportsworthy, sports.

I would also like to thank all the staff writers and photographers who have contributed more than the credits they earned as being a member of The EASTERNER staff. For their well-being, however, I won't. They each know how little they have contributed to each issue, and deserve thanks for those few contributions.

Now, it's time to say good-bye, and wish everyone of the staff the best of luck in the future. They won't need it, however.

To the students, faculty and administration, the best of luck, for they will need it. I hope The EASTERNER has bored, angered, and at times, even hinted at the truth at EWSC, if not, it wouldn't be unusual.

Pragmatic Courses Offered

By Olive Oil

Showalter will release the course list for next fall June 2. Included in the list will be new classes made available under the recently passed Practical Courses Bill.

"We are attempting to offer more practical courses in accordance with Senate Bill 119988765432," said A. Heel, head of the Registrar's office. "We've given almost every department the chance to open at least one new class."

The Sociology/Criminal Justice Department leads the list, being one of the few departments to receive more than two new courses.

"Due to the increase in interest we've chosen to add 'Radical 101' and 'How to Hang a President in Effigy'," said Dick Tator, Sociology professor, who will also be teaching the classes.

Home Economics has also included a new class due to popular demand. According to Angel Cake, professor of Public Relations, "How to Become a Prostitute in Ten Easy Steps" will include make-up, dance, voice and design lessons with the last three sessions being spent on the job. "The final grade will depend on how quickly the student obtains a job," she said.

Also new to the department is "Finite Dusting".

Future History

History also announced a new class offering, "Future History 501". "This course is designed for those students who have finished the general past history of the world and are ready to tackle the future," said C.U. Later, class instructor.

"Fertility Rites—Do They Really Work?" will be the topic of N. Andy Thal's advanced Anthropology class.

The Sciences also have several new additions. Geology will be presenting "Spelunking" taught by I. Sage, while Biology has included "Amphibious Anatomy" taught by EWSC newcomer Sal A. Mander.

Mathematics is offering a course for those students interested in unusual math procedures. "From Here to Infinity" is for any non-oriented student," said Cal. Q. Lus, professor.

"Watermelon Eating 101" is also a cultural enrichment into Black American's past," said a member of the Black Segregation Program, of which the class will be a part.

Foreign Language is also attempting cultural enrichment by

Planets' Customs Vary

By Merry X. Mass

ATTENTION students entering the student exchange program this fall! Dr. H. Being will be coming to EWSC for a three-day seminar on life styles of the foreign lands students will be traveling to.

"I think this will be an important seminar," said Dr. Being. "People don't realize how important social customs are. For example, when entering a Venetian home, you always take your gravity boots off, and leave them on his walls. On the other hand, if you were to take your boots off when entering a Martian home, it is considered a challenge to a duel—much like slapping

Letters

Obnoxious Odor

Dear Editor:

This may seem rather obnoxious, but I would like to get something off my chest that has been bothering myself, and other students, for a long time.

Farting in the library is not only rude, it is just plain smelly. It is also very distracting. One incident comes distinctly to my mind. My thesis statement, which I had literally sweated blood over for hours, was right on the tip of my tongue when it was entirely blown away by some idiot's uncontrollable urge to fart.

If these people are not apprehended soon, by Campus Safety or others, several students, including myself, are going to flunk out during finals week this quarter.

The least these degenerates can do is walk outside and aim it toward Tawanka, where it can be put to better use.

Jim A. Hole

(Editor's Note: Are you kidding?)

Union Needs Help

Dear Editor:

The budgets that were approved two weeks ago by the A.S.S. are a farce, and indicative of the A.S.S.'s apathetic attitude.

While over $6,000 was allotted for next year's 8th of May, not a cent was given to the White Males Union. I consider this lack of support to be a gross insult to white men everywhere.

While funding in the past has been supplied by the Ku Klux Klan, these funds have been cut off since we have started accepting Catholics. With no money coming in, the time-honored traditions of bigotry and male supremacy cannot last long.

Our organization has recently had to leave our former offices, due to nonpayment of rent, but we have been fortunate enough to procure working facilities from the Black Segregation Program, (B.S.P.).

We now plead to all students to send money contributions, liquor, and any unneeded rifles and ammunition to the WMU, care of the B.S.P.

Beaufort "Bull" Connor, Jr.
(Editor's Note: Are you kidding?)

A Real Letter

Dear Editor:

We are writing this open letter as an expression of outrage at the injustices done to faculty and students by the political games played by the administrators of this institution.

We, the students, complete a teacher evaluation form at the end of every quarter, with the mistaken impression that what we say has some bearing on the promotions of faculty members. However, it has come to our attention that our Spanish professor, Dr. Perry Higman, has not been promoted, in spite of the fact that he is one of the best professors at this college.

We are of the opinion that a gross injustice has been done to a man who is a teacher in the fullest sense of the word, and whose abilities is recognized and appreciated by his students, but obviously not by the administration.

It is perplexing that a professor whose reputation is upheld by his students is denied a promotion, while other professors who have reputations as poor teachers are promoted because they are willing to play the administration's games.

If EWSC rewards poor teachers as it penalizes its good ones, the college will lose its credibility, and the state of Washington and the students will lose out in the long run. We reiterate our support of Dr. Higman. We only hope that the administration realizes that it is denying a justly deserved promotion to one of the best teachers it has.

We strongly protest and denounce the action, or rather non-action, of the administration.

Interested Students of the Spanish Dept.

Campus Hazards

By Shirley Temple

A female dog was found lying in the street after being hit by a vehicle outside of Dryden Hall by resident Kit Kittruncker at 9:40 a.m. May 17.

Campus Hazards responded and transported the dog to the Student Health Center, where it was treated for injuries.

The dog was returned to her room in Dryden at approximately 10:30 a.m.

A plugged toilet was discovered in the men's room of the PUB by Kurt Duff, PUB manager, at 11:55 a.m. May 19.

Campus Hazards, the Cheney Fire Department, four Medical Lake officers and 10 members of the Spokane Police Department responded to the scene.

The toilet was unplugged and flushed at 11:55 p.m., 12 hours later.

When asked why it took so long to unplug the toilet, one officer remarked, "Just try getting 30 men into a bathroom stall with only one plunger."

A cook in Tawanka Commons was apprehended for vomiting in one of the main courses, "Tawanka Surprise", and attempting to pass it off as the real thing on May 22 at 5:35 p.m.

The cook, Ant Chemima, said that Tawanka often runs short of main dishes before the last students receive dinner. She said she was attempting to extend the meat.

Of the approximately 250 residents who ate the dinner unawares, only one complained of the taste being "out of the ordinary."

Jeff Tomdaughter, A.S.S. president, was attacked by a 300 pound she-gorilla during the May 24 meeting of the A.S.S. at 4:10 p.m.

The gorilla, which had escaped from the Primate Research Center in Medical Lake, rushed into the A.S.S. meeting evidently in search of a mate, according to owner Sheila Pubers.

Campus Hazards, alerted by Lack Zueck, legislator, surrounded the PUB with barricades to prevent other students from entering the building.

The gorilla climbed to the top of one of the light fixtures on the main floor of the PUB and proceeded to swing Tomdaughter around her head by one arm.

She then cradled Tomdaughter and attempted to feed him a banana, which the victim refused.

The gorilla then threw Tomdaughter to the ground and proceeded to scream. Tomdaughter managed to drag himself out of the way as Pubers threw a net over the enraged gorilla. The gorilla was secured at approximately 4:45 p.m. in the police van and was transported back to Medical Lake.

Tomdaughter was rushed immediately by ambulance to Spokane for treatment of hysteria and internal injuries.

Zueck, who was heard to say, "I thought they made a cute couple," was fined $40 for impudence.

Dr. H. George Frankenstein, president of the college, reported that his favorite rubber duck was found missing at 9:35 p.m. May 26.

Frankenstein called Campus Hazards, sobbing, at 9:40 p.m. and said that after a thorough search of the house, the duck had not turned up.

The duck was discovered to be missing when Frankenstein went to fill the tub for his bi-monthly bath.

Frankenstein appeared to be very upset about the loss of his duck, and it is recommended by this officer that a thorough investigation for it start immediately, as the well-being of the college may hinge upon the finding of the duck.

The duck was described as being about two feet long, yellow and orange, attired in a green cap and in slightly battered condition.

The Student Health Center was held up by six-armed men May 27 at 2:35 p.m.

According to Kaye Guitar, head nurse, the men came to protest that contraceptives are not offered by the Health Center.

Guitar said the men were all Caucasian, dressed in grey suits, barefoot, and wore large prophylactics over their heads to conceal their appearances.

The men were also armed with rubber phalluses about three feet long which they claimed could shoot bullets.

Guitar said the men told her if contraceptives were not offered to students within 24 hours, they would return the following day and "show her the real use of the phalluses."

Messy Movie Melee

Bags 'N Rags A Remedy?

By Jimmy Olsen

Remember last May's Messy Matinee Melee? You shouldn't, and you can forget any plans to attend one this year, due to a decision by Maibic My Cupstilon fraternity concerning the movies, "Deep Ear" and "The Devil's Food in Miss Jone's Stomach".

Earlier this year, MMM filed a request to show "Deep Ear" in the PUB May 7. Last year, they were unable to show the films due to a ruling that the film cannisters were unsanitary and tended to stick together.

Clean-Up

After filing the request, the fraternity, headed by Mark Byssetter and Lyle Grabmore, met with Nice Resident of Student Services Daryl Hoggy and Assistant Attorney Colonel John Lightshade. The fraternity was told that they could show "Deep Ear" if they cleaned up after the showing.

In an interview, Hoggy said, "If, by allowing an X-rated film to be shown, the school could be messed up, the school would be well advised to prevent such a showing."

Lightshade talked with Spokane County Persecutor Donald "Duck" Sockituum, who told Lightshade that there was no way for the school to avoid sticky floors, and that he (Sockituum) would call a strike of the Janitors Union if the film was shown.

The fraternity then met with Lightshade and Ken Doll, assistant to the President, who told them what Sockituum had said, and that therefore the school would not allow any X-rated films to be shown. They suggested to the Fraternity that they show a film that Sockituum would not object to cleaning up after.

Doll later stated, "We're trying to prevent a sticky situation," and, "We hope we can solve the problem short of the erection of a janitors' strike."

Several days after the second meeting, a fraternity meeting was held, and it was decided not to show any film at all, since they had no desire to clean up after the movie themselves.

Bugeyes

Grabmore stated that his feelings toward this type of censorship were summed up by a statement made by Vincent Bugeyes (persecutor of Charles Meansonuvabich), which reads, in part— "... as for censorship, well no matter how impenetrable a censor is, sticky floors are infinitely worse.

"Sticky floors contain the seeds (and God knows what else) of a totalitarian regime. The U.S. Tennis Court, which seeks to prevent sticky floors, says we have to bring about a certain cleanliness tone in this country, and we therefore have to either prohibit obscene material, or provide film viewers with plastic bags and wash cloths. My response is that if we start providing plastic bags and wash cloths, we will just end up picking up messy bags and rags, along with giving floors a good scrubbing. I think sticky floors are just the grossest thing imaginable."

Bizarre Tests For Frosh

By Shirley Temple

Incoming freshmen next fall will have to put up with "more than the usual hassle" to gain enrollment at EWSC, according to Dean of Student Services Al Hogden.

Both male and female initiates will be required to completely shave their heads and wear diamond studs embedded in their lips spelling out "I Love EWSC."

The cost of the studs will run the student approximately $10,000, and Hogden said he hopes this will not drastically cut next fall's enrollment.

To meet enrollment requirements, students must also be able to pick their noses, place the substance obtained in a pea shooter, and shoot it a distance of 25 yards.

"We feel athletic ability is very important at this institution," Hogden explained.

Hogden also said parking permits will only be issued to those students who can maneuver their cars to the top of the John F. Kennedy Library flagpole in a 50 m.p.h. wind.

Dorm residents face an unusual test, Hogden said.

"Those residents who wish to purchase a Tawanka meal ticket will be suspended about 20 feet above the cafeteria's salad bar by a rope placed under the armpits. The student must then spit down onto the head of a cockroach placed inside a bowl of cottage cheese."

Students who manage to hit the head of the cockroach will be awarded a meal ticket good for the full academic school year, for, of course, the regular price. Those students who only manage to spit on the main body of the cockroach will receive a meal ticket good for three days a week.

If the student misses the cockroach completely, the student will be forced to eat the cockroach.

The final test of eligibility will be the student's ability to plan a class schedule in 10 minutes from course listings entirely in Greek.

What is the purpose of all this? "There isn't one," said Hogden. "We just like to make it hell for students."

Shady Bake-Off

Come one, come all to EWSC's First Annual Prostitute Bake Sale today on the main floor of the PUB.

Cherries jubilee will be the featured dish served by these lovely ladies of the evening.

"We were really hard-up for help until the EWSC athletes offered us their support," said Cindy Tush, chairperson.

The girls are all from Spokane, Tush said. Proceeds from the bake sale will be used for the purchase of new bed springs.

It's New, It's Wheatfind

By Scoop Sportworthy

Well, believe it or not, the Eastern Washington Athletic Department has added yet another sport to its multi-faceted program. The new sport being introduced is called Wheatfind.

It's really not a very simple game, and according to first-year Wheatfind Coach Zale Schwartzite, it requires a certain kind of person to play the game.

"Well, you see Wheatfind is a game played in a Wheatfield," said Schwartzite, "and you have to hide your players very strategically in the wheat, so it takes a crafty and oft-times gutsy player to play this game."

Now one might ask why it takes a gutsy player, so Schwartzite elaborated a little further.

"Okay, after the players are hidden in the wheat (16 players in all are hidden in a 150 acre plot of land) the opposing team rides their combines (which are painted in their school colors) through the field in search of the hiding players. Now when a combine driver finds a hiding player he has to yell HARVEST before he can proceed to eliminate the hider by running him over. But if the driver does not yell HARVEST before he runs the opposing player over, the initial kill is nullified and the driver and his combine must go to the penalty barn for twenty minutes," he said.

"So you see," said Schwartzite, "this is no sissy sport, you have to really get down to earth or you're through."

Schwartzite also commented on the type of team and players that he will be coaching next year.

"We (Cheney) is a farming community and I think this should help us as far as recruiting and fan support," he said. "I'm really pleased with our recruiting thus far, we've got some nice thin kids who'll hide real nice in the wheat along with a couple of transfers from Walla Walla State Prison to drive our combines."

Indeed it does look as though the Eagles may have what it takes to be outstanding in their field especially with the strong nucleus they will have next year.

Probably the most important or maybe the key job on the team would have to be that of the combine drivers. But a combine driver's job can even be more than it seems because while he is in search of hiding players he can also pick up the minimum wage for farm labor in the field.

"Don't kid yourself," said Schwartzite, "these kids are not out here for nothing. They work the land for their just rewards."

When asked what he thought his team will do next year the Wheatfind mentor replied; "We have the good strong wheat squad and of course that strong combine squad with that awesome eyesight and intuition, combined with those hidiers who lie like indoor-outdoor carpet in those wheat fields. I just think we have a fine nucleus for a first-year team. We should do really well if we can stay well hidden."

And just in case the Eagle Wheatfinders do not keep their ears to the ground, there will be nothing to fear as far as losing too many players because of the flawless Wheatfind rules that say although a player has already been "found", his body may be used as long as possible or until his family claims it.

So be watching next year for the debut of that zany new sport here at Eastern called Wheatfind.

"We're dying to get started," said Coach Schwartzite.

Marble Team To Nat's

By Dennis La Menace

Eastern Washington State College will be sending a three man contingent to the AAU Marble Championships to be held in Chicago June 3-5.

The Marble Club nearly made a clean sweep of the district meet but early leader Biff (Cat Eye) Johnson sprained his thumb just prior to his final toss.

EW piled up 47 of the 64 possible marbles, while Central Washington finished a distant second with 11.

Using some brilliant California drop and Rainbow toss and shot maneuvers, Eastern's own "Steely" Dan Fenwick shot his way to the individual title. But not before he was locked in a sudden death dual with Central's Lance Fleenor.

Fenwick made short work of the number one ranked Fleenor in the one-on-one playoff.

The Eagle star's first shot hit a tree and bounced back to within a mere two feet of the start line. But, Fleenor, in his most important shot of the season, fudged, giving the title to Fenwick.

The other placers for the marble club were freshman sensation Tad Tamson, who used a revolutionary new clearie marble to finish third behind Fenwick and player-coach Chad Allen.

"I'm very satisfied with our performance," commented Allen. "It's just too bad that Cat Eye can't go. He was using a boulder and I guess he was getting tired towards the end and the weight got to be too much for him."

Although the marble club is not a sanctioned team here at Eastern,

Allen has high hopes of becoming a member of the NAIA next season.

"We can give Eastern a winning program. The club supported Jeff Tomdaughter in the election because he said he would try to help us out if he was elected president. So we're pretty confident that we'll go NAIA next year."

Commenting on the upcoming national meet, Allen had this to say.

"I'm confident that we can finish among at least the top three, but at nationals they play for keepsies and all year long we have been playing just for funsies."

Heavy Booters

By Jimmy Olsen

Three Eastern soccer players were killed and many others injured Monday in a bizarre game played with a 16-pound shot because the soccer balls had been stolen.

When team manager Dinky Dipstick could not find the regular balls, Coach Brat Along told him to "grab the next best thing." There were problems from the beginning. On the kick-off, two players suffered broken toes before a booter with a steel-toed shoe managed to get the shot in the air. An Eastern player downfield tried to head the shot, he, consequently was the first fatality.

The two last fatalities occurred when a pair of booters tried to head the shot at the same time, and died soon after.

Coach Along said that Dipstick will be fired from his position, and, "Next time, we'll use something a little softer, like a watermelon."

Production Promotes Problem

By Rona Barrette

The EWSC Department of Drama will be presenting a new production of "Life With My Professor", which is a true-to-life autobiography written by one of EWSC's students after a brief affair with her Physics teachers.

"I wanted to tell the real story of what it's like to get extra help after class," said the author who wished to remain anonymous until the showing of the play.

Starring in the show will be various professors from the college who have expressed their opinions about starring in such a controversial production.

"...I think it's great... anyway, we're getting $3,000 to do it... so, why not?" said one excited professor. Possibly, the reason he was so excited was because the performers are required to act in the nude.

One disgusted student expressed her opinion of the nudity situation, saying "I don't think it's right for the pros to go nude because everytime I walk into class, I won't be able to stop laughing."

Most of the professors are planning to lay out in the sun to improve their pale complexions, so as one said, "we won't stand out so much on the stage."

The set for "Life With My Professor" is unique, to say the least. The whole stage will be covered with mattresses on which most of the action takes place.

"I like the idea of using mattresses on the floor," said one professor. "One thing we'll have to be careful of is not making a mess on the mattresses because we have to use them again for the next performance," said another professor.

Another interesting twist to the play is that all activities will be shown in explicit detail with a T.V. screen erected above the stage for those who want to take a closer look.

"The only part I'm worried about is reaching my peak every night for the three-week performance," said one concerned professor.

"We hope to send this play to various college campuses and see if it will catch on," said the anonymous author.

Porno Review

It was a audience that at last Friday's showing of the famous X-rated movie, Deep Ear. Audience participation gave the theater a and which made it hard to see. The famous star Inda Loveface gave a , which proved to be a and performance.

Throughout the show there was plenty of and , but the best part was when she after . The level of in this film is by far , since everyone thought was impossible.

It was good fun and I plan to see it again and again if they or else in my seat.

The Crap Trap

Big news for all you Twins fans! Dr. H. George Frankenstein, president, wants to get married. What's got to do with the Twins, you ask? His fiancée is a shoe-in for his wife. What a pair! Well, if the shoe fits...

Another big name who's about to tie the knot is Gloria Stonem, head of the Women's Commission, who won't reveal her hubbie-to-be, but proudly admits, "I'll do anything for that man!"

Speaking of the Women's Commission, Percy Ray, illegitimate son of Governor Dipsy Wee Way, joined the organization last week. He said it's about time somebody added a woman's touch to the place.

A confidential source has revealed that a new sport will begin next Fall. It's called Snowballing. It oughta' be fun, if it's coed.

Received some interesting news about the fieldhouse fire. The Polish Freedom Fighters (their spelling), want to claim responsibility for the blaze, or so says a letter which also states, "We will continue to destroy important landmarks until our demands are met. Rumor has it that the gutted ROTC building is next.

One more item on our beloved President Frankenstein who has recently had his mansion barricaded to prevent autograph hounds from pestering him. Armed guards have already shot 12 students suspected of trying to get signatures. Frankenstein had a good explanation, though. "Sometimes," Frankenstein said, "discipline must be exercised."

Bad news for the health department. Rod Weedland, A.S.S. legislator, has suffered a concussion caused by an angry constituent who ran up from behind Rod and booted him. Rod was in an extremely vulnerable standing position at the time.

Jeff Tomdaughter, A.S.S. president, may have to step down from office. An investigation is currently underway to follow up charges that he has hired several "secretaries" out of Dryden Hall. Tomdaughter has denied the charges, stating, "Their services were strictly voluntary."

Some people have complained that the money used for athletics should be used for educational purposes. I have news for those people. There are no educated athletes.

One final tidbit, for all you raisin-loving fans. Quincy Kellogg, of the cereal company, has stated conclusively that rabbits are NOT used in the production of Raisin Bran.

McCartney Is Cancelled

By Rona Barrette

As was guaranteed by Concert Chairman Jipp Williams, a fantastic concert was in store for EWSC students Friday night in the Lack of Performing Arts Pavilion.

Scheduled was Paul McCartney and Wings, who just returned from an around-the-world tour, with back up group, Three Dog Night.

Because of poor ticket sales, the concert was cancelled. When asked how many tickets were sold, Williams replied, "Well, we had just enough to take Paul McCartney out to lunch at McDonald's."

Sounding a little disturbed, Williams went on to say, "It's not fair...I just got this job and these nasty things had to happen to me."

Ex-SARB Chairman Fart Martian commented on the poor ticket sales. "He should have known not to schedule a concert on the same night as a dance."

To this Williams replied, "Does this mean a cut in my salary?" Martian reassured Williams that his job was not in danger but reminded him next time to check his calendar before scheduling any more concerts.

In an exclusive interview with McCartney, The EASTERNER asked him about the mixup. "It was a mixup," he said.

The soft-spoken McCartney went on to comment about the mixup. "These mixups really mix me up."

Even though EWSC students missed this great opportunity to hear some real talent, those attending the dance scheduled for the same evening did not feel disappointed.

"I thought the group was really good...and it was cheaper than a concert and not as far to walk," one individual said.

More In Store

Though Williams was unhappy with his first experience of scheduling a concert, he has high hopes for the next one.

"I plan to bring in David Bowie for a one-night performance, possibly in the PUB," he said. "Bowie seems to have a lot of fans and his music is pretty good...we should be able to sell at least 50 tickets," he continued.

In comment to the appearance of David Bowie, Martian expressed his disapproval of the choice.

"You seem to forget that EWSC students don't buy tickets...your best bet is to stick with somebody more popular, like Bobby Vinton...at least the faculty would show up," he said.

What have you thought of The EASTERNER this quarter?

Edey Jenkins, Editor, 1953. Other than a picture being worth two words . . . ho hum, who cares, so what!

Sheri Bayley, Managing Editor, 1957. Umm . . . Ummm . . . What was the question again? I mean, what do you mean? I mean, uh, I don't think I understand the question.

Gretchen Glass, Entertainment Editor, 1958. I feel that the EASTERNER has been a great addition to EWSC and should continue to operate in the best interests of the staff. It doesn't matter what you think, we still put what we want. In the future I hope to see more columns by that great writer Gretchen Glass . . . oh, that's me . . . sorry!

Karen Caddis, Copy Editor, 1958. Personally I think the Easterner was exquisitely handled. Especially the copy-reading, no mistakes.

Brien Lautman, Sports Editor, 1958. I thought it was a picture of awesomeness, that was too awesome for words.

CLOSER LOOK

By Rona Barrette

For a change of pace, The EASTERNER has decided to take a Closer Look at one of the most outstanding individuals on campus.

Not only has she participated in absolutely nothing at EWSC, but, she has also managed to keep a healthy .1 grade point average throughout the year.

Freshman Mary Karenot has failed to turn in at least 20 assignments in each class but does attend one lecture a week.

When asked what she thought of the educational process at EWSC, Karenot replied, "It's really boring . . . there's nothing to do." It was suggested that she might try going to class, but Karenot commented, "My tuition is being paid for by the government and I have an unlimited amount of time to finish school." She added, "Why spend time in class when all you dummies out there are paying for me to have a good time?"

Karenot hopes to finish college by the time she's 30, and plans to have a degree in basket weaving. "If I can't get that, I would like to major in underwater sculpting," but, she added, "I'd have to learn to swim."

Possibly, one of the reasons Karenot is so unenthusiastic is because she pops downers at least three times a day. "It keeps my head together," she said.

One thing Karenot has been found good at is supplying a list of all the weekend parties on and off campus, and in England. "England has some really good parties if you can afford the trip over," she said.

Karenot hopes to start a club next year for students who have nothing to do during the day. "I want to provide something for everybody," she said.

Karenot plans to set up beds in the commuter's lounge for "those who take daytime naps," she said.

During Karenot's first class she listens to classical music in her room, "except on Wednesday when I go to get my assignment," she continued.

Elvis Presley is Karenot's favorite pop singer, though she admits, "I like his tight pants more than I do his voice."

Money Madness

By Rona Barrette

At a recent Sadist Organization for the Biased (S.O.B.) meeting, an A.S.S. Legislature-approved budget allotting $1 million for next year's Eighth of May was approved by the S.O.B. members.

Jeff Tomdaughter, A.S.S. president and Jipp Williams, concert chairman, explained the need for the budget.

"It's a reasonable amount for what we have planned so far," said Tomdaughter. "Of course, some of it will be for our miscellaneous fund also."

One of the activities planned is a mini-concert featuring local talent from Cheney and, later in the evening, fireworks. The main event of the 12 hours will be the long periods between entertainers setting up on stage.

Williams plans to organize an all-paid trip to Hawaii late in August for those who will be working on the celebration. "It will give all of us time to relax and maybe do some advance work for the Outdoor Intercourse Day events," he said.

Protests from various clubs, who received minimal amounts from the A.S.S., attempted to debate the issue at the meeting.

"How are we supposed to separate ourselves from the rest of the college with only $5?" Jessie White, director of the Black Segregation Program, asked. "What the BSP is looking for is a necessary $3 million to build our own campus adjoining EWSC where we could all live together in a 'more colorful' society."
