Noche en los jardines de España por Manuel de Falla

Durante un tiempo largo, he admirado la música del gran y famoso compositor español Manuel de Falla. Su música es extraordinaria: es muy interesante, brillante, complejo, pero todavía muy agradable y fácil de escuchar. Sobre todo, y lo que más interesante, es el hecho de su música suena a España. Es decir, su música es esencialmente reconocida como música española. Sin embargo, Manuel de Falla no es simplemente un compositor regional con influencia limitada ni especializada. Él es uno de los grandes compositores modernos.

Luchando por lo que nos merecemos!

Tener un hermano con necesidades especiales ha sido siempre algo que es difícil. Todos los días mi familia se enfrenta a un nuevo desafío. Ha sido especialmente duro para encontrar una buena escuela para él. Fue a una escuela pública cuando era más joven, y ahora se va a una escuela privada para niños con necesidades especiales. Fue una lucha para ponerlo en esta nueva escuela. Después de muchas quejas a su escuela, y contratar a un abogado, la escuela pública decidió que pagar por Nicolás para ir a una escuela especial.

Me pone triste saber que hay muchos niños con necesidades especiales que no reciben una buena

The main post is titled 'Post on March 16 2010' and was posted by Joseph Sacramone on 3/16/2010 at 12:44 PM, EDT. The author tags are 'None'. The post content reads: 'What I liked most about this group was Joe's description of what Odysseus did in the 20th and 21st books. I believe he did a very good job in describing what happened in the books and made it easy to understand. Also his presentation was very good and I think it was a great idea to insert a clip from the movie into the blog to help visualize what happened. I also enjoyed David's description of the cultural competition in the Odyssey. I think he did a very good job describing the culture of the Olympics and how the games were an important part of civilization. I think this was a good assignment for us to complete as a class. I thought it was a very good idea to break up the books and each person focus on a different aspect or characteristic of each book. This made it easier to learn about different aspects of of the book through our peers and also didn't overload us with information at the same time. I enjoyed working with my group and I think they did a good job explaining each part of their own blogs.'

The right sidebar contains 'Filters' with 'Deleted Entries: Hide' and 'Author Filter: Anyone'. It also lists 'Recent Entries' with 'Post on March 16 2010' (4 years ago, 3/16/2010) and 'My Reaction to the Righteous Bow-3/5/10' (4 years ago, 3/5/2010).

THE BRIGHT EYED SEERS

It was an early Tuesday morning, in Professor Hulme's ENCC-102-LN class. Dawn had long past awoken from her slumber. Esther, Frank, Garcia and Lauren had come together by the hands of fate (trust us, it was fate).

Frank and Garcia are both biology majors. Esther is double majoring in business administration and accounting. While Lauren is nursing major.

El Oso de Nikki

Cuando estaba pensando en un tema para mi blog, empecé a pensar en cosas que son importantes para mí y de repente, me di cuenta de que en enero, era el décimo aniversario de la muerte de mi prima, Nikki. No quiero escribir una entrada muy triste, y no será. Aunque mi prima se murió a la edad de 15, su vida estuvo llena de felicidad e inspiración.

Nikki era cinco años más que yo y cuando ella se enfermó con cáncer, yo solo tenía nueve años. No comprendí mucho de su enfermedad, pero, sabía que estaba muy mal y que a ella no le quedaba mucho tiempo para vivir. Después de seis meses, su lucha contra el cáncer terminó, y Nikki se murió el uno de enero del 2002.

A la edad de nueve, yo nunca había visto a alguien morir a una edad tan joven y no podría comprender porque algo así pasó. Pero, ahora yo sé que la vida puede ser brutal, pero todo que pasa, nos enseña una lección importante.

¡Muchas gracias por tus palabras tan simpáticas! Espero que sus estudiantes les gusten esta historia y puedan encontrar inspiración de mi prima. :)

I learned a lot from this group and their blog. Throughout all the posts they used many quotes to back up what they were trying to explain. I liked the pictures a lot too because they did a good job having it describe the quotes and when the book was about. From the blog I learned a lot about these two books and what Odysseus had to go through to prove to the suitors that he was the Great Odysseus. The most interesting thing to me was how they showed a video from the actual movie and it showed us a great representation of how the suitors treated him when they thought he was an old man and then after he strung the bow how they treated him when they knew who he was. Showed how conniving they really were. The pictures also for the geography really stuck out for me because they showed what some of the rooms would look like from the palace. Also the floor plan picture was something really nice to see. I think that they did a really great job presenting as well. They showed much interest and enthusiasm in presenting that it made it more interesting to listen to and pay attention too. I liked being able to create a blog with my group since I have never done it before it was a good thing to learn.

I always tried looking for different and interesting aspects of the Odyssey that I could include in my blog that hadn't been talked about yet. This also forced me to pay closer attention to my reading, and research Greek culture, characters, etc. on my own time to ensure a more informative presentation.

Yes, I found myself looking for a deeper, more obscure meaning in many of the symbols used in the Odyssey in hopes of finding something new that the class would enjoy.

While reading the Odyssey I made sure to pay close attention to what was going on in order to write an intelligent and informative blog.

Blogging definitely kept me engaged me with the text

I think blogging helped engage me in the text more because at times the readings can be somewhat difficult, therefore when we see what others write it becomes easier to understand. Blogging at times brings out new ideas about the text which enlightens me with new thoughts and feelings about the texts.

Does it meet our instructional needs?
