GLA SPOTLIGHT

Library & Instructional Technology Center Georgia College & State University Milledgeville, Georgia

The Georgia College Library & Instructional Technology Center is an integral part of the campus and the liberal arts mission of Georgia

College & State University (GCSU), located in historic Milledgeville. By identifying, collecting, and providing access to resources, developing learning-centered services and providing instruction and expert support in a learning-rich environment, GCSU's

Library and Instructional Technology Center (LITC) prepares inquisitive academics to thrive in an information-intensive and diverse global community. LITC faculty and staff seek to impart the skills necessary for academic and professional success by creating a culture of innovation and a space for collaboration and development. The LITC also prides itself on providing innovative outreach programming as well as technological support to university students, faculty, and staff.

With unique resources such as a museum, Special Collections department, and Instructional Technology Center, the LITC fulfills traditional academic roles as well as discovering and creating new ways to be of service to the institution and to the local and regional community. With a beautiful facility of 139,732 square feet and a collection that spans over 208,500 volumes, the LITC consistently acts as an instrumental and vital component to the academic community of Georgia College & State University.
