JCU catches Cleveland's 'plum fever'

by SHERYL SAZIMA

plum (plum) n. something choice or desirable

— Webster's New World Dictionary

Bumper stickers, T-shirts, buttons, and now John Carroll University, in an effort to promote and familiarize its students with the city of Cleveland, is sponsoring "JCU — We're Plum Crazy" — a Cleveland Appreciation Week from September 6-13.

A few years ago, Donna Byrnes, assistant director of housing, decided to introduce JCU students to the fine cultural and social attractions in Cleveland. Thanks to the efficiency of Katy Uhler, departmental secretary of the Dean of Students, Sue Beatrice and Anne McGinnis, both student secretaries in the office of the Dean of Students, Cleveland Appreciation Week will get underway this Sunday.

The new dean of students, Richard T. McNally, is credited with the slogan "JCU — We're Plum Crazy."

Both on-campus and off-campus activities will be offered. Students are not excused from class in order to attend a particular activity, however.

As indicated in the day-by-day schedule of events (see page 3), students wishing to participate in any of the off-campus activities must register in the Dean of Students Office, located on the Second Floor of the SAC Building. Most of these off-campus events are limited to a specific number of students because of transportation, so any student wishing to participate in a certain activity should register early.

TRANSPORTATION for off-campus activities is as follows. Students are to meet in the SAC Lobby at the designated time. Once assembled, students will be transported to the Rapid station via the JCU van where they will take the rapid to their designated activity. Students will return by the Rapid and will be brought back to campus by the van.

For the Auto Tours of Cleveland (University Circle on Sept. 10 and the Flats on Sept. 11), the Dean's office is looking for students who are familiar and knowledgeable about Cleveland to serve as tour guides. They are also looking for drivers, who will be reimbursed for gasoline.

One last note concerning the off-campus activities: students should make sure they bring their John Carroll student I.D. along with them. No tickets for any off-campus event will be sold in advance. Students pay at the door, not when registering in the Dean of Students Office. In support of our Cleveland Appreciation Week, several of these off-campus activities have special rates for JCU students, but only with valid ID's.

STUDENTS UNABLE to attend any of the off-campus events should take advantage of the many scheduled on-campus activities. The Airport Lounge, located in the SAC Building, will host speakers and demonstrations all week. Before each activity in the Lounge, an 8-minute film, "Cleveland: The North Shore City," will be shown. The film, put out by the Cleveland Convention Center, is narrated by former-

Cleveland Phil Donahue. (The Dean of Students Office is looking for people to run the projector for this 16mm film.)

Also included in the week's agenda is a no-fee raffle. Students attending any event in the Airport Lounge will be eligible to register. The raffle drawing will be held after Mass on Sunday, September 13, in the Airport Lounge. Prizes include gifts donated by The Artist's Nook, Arthur Treacher's, Women's Federal, Bike and Ski Center, and others. Grand prize is a $50.00 Gift Certificate from Higbee's Department Store.

A complete listing of the week's events is found on page 3.

Israeli dig gives grounds for deep Biblical studies

by LISA BERENSTEIN

An introduction to religious studies is likely to be an introduction to the ins and outs of archaeology as well for those enrolled in the courses taught by Dr. John Spencer, who recently returned from an 8-week expedition to Israel.

"The experience of an archaeological dig gives me a good foundation for teaching biblical material," Spencer said.

During the excavation, The Tel-Hesi Expedition (as it was called) found Moslem burial sites, an early bronze age wall dating back to 2600 B.C., fortifications from the Iron Age dating back to 1000-500 B.C., bone tools from Persia, bronze jewelry, and hieroglyphic stamps.

"The findings themselves must remain the property of Israel, but they can be taken from the country for short periods of time to be studied," Spencer said. He has brought back a few of the pieces of pottery they found.

SETTING UP camp close to the digging site, 120 people participated in the excavation. Forty were regular staff members, and 80 were volunteers. The volunteers included JCU graduate students Grace Carroll and Father Tom Sebian as well as the new Religious Studies department head Father Kevin O'Connell.

A typical day for the four JCU participants and their fellow workers began with a light breakfast at 4 a.m. By 5 a.m. they were at work in the fields, staying there until a larger breakfast was served at 8:30 a.m.

Then it was back to work until 11 a.m. Free time, lunch, and a rest period lasted until 3:30 p.m. The group returned to work for two hours, then ate supper, and heard lectures. Lights out was at 9 p.m.

Participants ranged in age from 18 to 60. Most of the volunteers were college students. The expedition was supervised by a staff of directors including professional archaeologists, botanists, geologists, and osteologists.

John Carroll was part of a consortium of nine schools which helped to finance the expedition. The group will be returning to the site in 1983, and participation is open to all interested JCU students.

Berry goes west to study East

By LISA MOORE

Most individuals would consider wearing an Indian sari a considerable hindrance while playing tennis, but while on a visit to India, English professor Dr. Margaret Berry observed a nation of Indian women doing just that, and superbly in addition.

"Almost two decades ago I became involved in a Ford Foundation Grant for the study of China and India, a year study of each. This prompted my interest and I started to really care. I consider myself a contributor to the East and West dialog in an effort to make students more aware of themselves as citizens in the world," Berry explained.

She received a Fulbright Grant to travel to the Far East, as well as a postdoctoral grant to study South Asia at the University of Pennsylvania and obtained her degree in South Asian Studies there in 1968. In 1973, she researched South Asian literature for two months in India.

A National Endowment for the Humanities enabled Berry to study this summer with nineteen other scholar-professors at the University of California at Berkeley. The main concentration was on the literature of Japan.

Dr. Berry will be on a panel October 2nd and 3rd at the Middle West Conference on Asian Affairs at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri. She will give a paper entitled Two Contemporary South Asian Novels. October 16th and 17th Dr. Berry will be attending a conference, Middle Atlantic Association of Asian Studies, at the University of Maryland. Her topic will be Murasaki Shikibu; Introduction to Japan.

Dr. Margaret Berry has taught at John Carroll University for sixteen years. In addition to Eastern Literature she teaches literary criticism, literature of the Victorian Age, literature of the Romantic Era and creative writing.

Dr. Berry has two books to her credit. Mulk Raj Anand, published in 1971, is a critical biography of one of South Asia's leading present day novelists who writes in English. In 1980 Pegasus Over Asia was published. It includes studies in East and West comparative literature. Pegasus Over Asia consists of articles which had accumulated over approximately four years and was compiled in six months.

Lisa Moore is a freshman from Lakewood where she served on the staff of the award-winning newspaper, the TIMES.

TAKING ONLY FOUR classes this semester? What a breeze compared to the summer schoolers enrolled in two courses per term. That meant three hours of class, five days a week, for 10 weeks! You call that summer break?

New year brings new staff faces

By CHRIS MILLER

"We're all in our places with bright shiny faces" is a phrase which usually refers to students at the beginning of a new school year. However, this year brings many new shiny faces to the JCU faculty and administration as well as to the dorms.

Richard T. McNally has been appointed to replace Kenneth E. DeCrane as Dean of Students. A 1959 graduate of Carroll, McNally was a teacher and administrator for both the Cleveland and Beachwood school systems.

Rev. Kevin O'Connell, S.J., succeeds Rev. Frank Costa, S.S.S., as chairman of the Religious Studies Department. Fr. O'Connell was previously an Annual Professor of the Albright Institute of Archaeology Research in Jerusalem. Fr. Costa will remain as a Professor of Religious Studies. Also in the Religious Studies Department, Rev. Joseph Nearon, S.S.S., has returned from last year's leave of absence in Africa.

Dr. E. Bruce McClean succeeds Dr. Thomas L. Pearce as chairman of the Biology Department. Dr. Pearce has gone to the University of Virginia.

Col. Douglas C. Ely replaces Col. Wilbur Shirey as Professor of Military Science. Also gone from the Military Science Department is Major Bert Millikin.

Other faculty and administrative changes include: Timothy Baab as Basketball Coach; Susan D'Orazio as Coordinator of Academic Counseling; Kevin Sullivan as Dean of Admissions; Emily Kelsey as Assistant Director of Admissions; Sophie Kus as Academic Counselor; Joann Morrissey as Assistant Director of Admissions; Dr. John Carrabine as Chairman of the Chemistry Department; and Drs. John F. Michael and Alain Remly-Post as chairmen of the Department of Business Administration.

In addition, there are 25 new faculty members and 19 new graduate assistants.

Chris Miller is a junior who served as News Editor for last year's Carroll News.

IT'S THE SIGN of the times, surely not the name selected for the new dorm completed this summer. Our photographer wondered, though, when she couldn't find any other designation.

Cleveland hosts a variety of sights and sounds

By ROBERT L. BAZZARELLI

Upperclassmen have been reunited with old friends at the Rat while freshmen are still trying to find out exactly where the Rat is. Academia has settled in and everyone is looking for some type of diversion.

What's there to do? The answer, discover Cleveland — the city on America's North Coast. Cleveland is the more than 60 ethnic groups which comprise a total population of nearly three million people. Cleveland is the culture, the entertainment, the theater, the industry and the nightlife which makes it the ninth largest consumer market in the nation. Cleveland is you.

With this in mind, the Carroll News presents its Things To Do, Places To Go and People To See guide of Cleveland.

Most events are within easy access of public transportation (or your roommate's VW). The Regional Transit Authority (RTA) provides bus and rapid transportation seven days a week. To obtain a schedule, get more information, or just find out how to get from Point A to Point B, call RTA at 621-9500.

•Arcade, 401 Euclid Ave. across from East 4th Street, 1890 mall-like architectural landmark unique in the United States, stores and offices, 621-8500.

•Goodtime II Cruise Line, 825 East 9th Street Pier. Featuring boat cruises on the lakefront and down the Cuyahoga River. Daily departures and weekend evening cruises, 531-1505.

•Soldiers and Sailors Monument, SE quadrant of Public Square. Memorial to Clevelanders who died for their country, small museum open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, 621-3710.

•Terminal Tower, 50 Public Square. Cleveland landmark featuring escorted observation deck tours, weekends noon to 5 p.m., 241-3131.

•USS Cod Submarine, North Marginal Drive between East 9th Street and Burke Lakefront Airport. Tour one of the 236 fleet submarines built during World War II, non-profit organization, Mon.-Wed. 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sat. & Sun. 1 to 5 p.m., 566-8770.

IF YOU'RE looking for culture, nearby University Circle will provide days of indulgence. In addition to the attractions listed below, take a stroll through the park and enjoy this area's rich heritage.

•Cleveland Museum of Art, 11150 East Boulevard. One of the world's finest and best endowed collections; Tues., Thurs., Fri. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Wed. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sun. 1 to 6 p.m., free admission, 421-7340.

•Cleveland Museum of Natural History, Wade Oval. Mon.-Sat. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sun. 1 to 5:30 p.m., 231-4600.

•Crawford Auto-Aviation Museum, 10825 East Boulevard. Collection of more than 200 vehicles, cobblestone street of shops, Tues.-Sat. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sun. 12 to 6 p.m., 721-5722.

•Garden Center of Greater Cleveland, 11030 East Boulevard, Mon. to Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., 721-1600.

•Western Reserve Historical Society Museum, 10825 East Boulevard. Traces American cultural evolution from the revolutionary period to present, Tues. to Sat., 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sun. 2 to 5 p.m., 721-5722.

AN EVENING on the town may be what you're looking for. Cleveland has everything from live shows to oldies but goodies waiting to satisfy your appetite.

•Evita, Hanna Theater, 2067 East 14th Street. From the authors of Jesus Christ Superstar, a canonization of Eva Peron, Mon. to Sat., 8:30 p.m., Wed. and Sat. matinees at 2:00 p.m., through Sept. 5, 621-5000.

•Cabaret, Music Hall, East 6th & St. Clair. Presented by Berea Summer Theater, Tues. to Sun. at 8:00 p.m., through Sept. 13, 826-2240.

•Blossom Music Center, 1145 W. Steels

Corners Rd., Cuyahoga Falls, 861-5674. Sept. 1 (8 p.m.) — Journey; Sept. 4 & 5 (8 p.m.) — Pat Benatar; Sept. 6 (8 p.m.) — Charlie Daniels Band/Juice Newton; Sept. 7 (7:30 p.m.) — Old Fashioned Band Concert/Fireworks.

•New Mayfield Cinema, 12300 Mayfield Road, 229-3875. Classic movies. Sept. 1 — Johnny Belinda (1948), 7:30 p.m./Kings Row (1941), 9:30 p.m.; Sept. 2 through Sept. 5 — High Sierra (1941), 7:30 p.m./To Have & Have Not, 9:30 p.m.; Sept. 6 — Bordertown (1935), 3 & 7 p.m./Juarez (1938), 4:45 & 8:45 p.m.

OR WHAT can be better than a day at the ballpark? The aroma of hot dogs, peanuts and cold beer along with one of these events:

•Cleveland Indians Baseball Stadium, Boudreau Boulevard (on the lakefront), 241-5555. Cleveland vs. Oakland: Sept. 1 & 2 (7:35). Cleveland vs. California: Sept. 3 & 4 (7:35), Sept. 5 & 6 (2:05).

•Cleveland Browns Football Stadium, Boudreau Boulevard, 575-1000. Exhibition game Sept. 7, Browns vs. San Diego, 9:00 p.m.

Labor Day Weekend is right around the corner. These special events were planned just to celebrate the occasion:

•Cleveland National Air Show, Burke Lakefront Airport (East of 9th Street). Daredevils of the sky perform both aerial and land feats, featuring Hollywood stuntmen, Marine Corps jets and more. Admission $6, children $4, Sept. 5, 6, & 7 — open 10 a.m., show 1 to 5 p.m. For more info call 781-0747.

•Octoberfest, Cleveland Convention Center, 1220 East 6th Street. German food and entertainment at its best, rain or shine

Help the Rapid recover

One of the events scheduled for "JCU — We're Plum Crazy" week is John Carroll's participation in the Rapid Recovery project in Cleveland. Rapid Recovery, Inc. is a non-profit organization aimed at cleaning up the Rapid Transit track in an effort to beautify our city. The drive to clean up the 30-mile long tracks has been in existence since 1977.

JCU will contribute to this project by clearing trash from a 600-foot stretch of the tracks on Saturday, September 12, 1981. After clearing the accumulated waste, JCU hopes to landscape the stretch with trees, shrubs and bushes.

To participate in such a project, however, volunteers are needed. All JCU students are encouraged to participate in this event. Anyone willing to donate his time should register in the Dean of Students Office, located on the Second Floor of the SAC Building. Also, landscaping donations are needed to complete our work. Anyone who — enclosed facility. Sept. 4 (5 to 11 p.m.), Sept. 5, 6, & 7 (noon to 11 p.m.).

IF NONE of the above events meet your fancy, there are things to do just for the fun of it. Why not visit a park, observe the animals at the zoo or do some shopping? Here are some places for starters:

•NASA Lewis Research Center/Visitor Center, 21000 Brookpark Road, next to Cleveland Hopkins International Airport, 267-1187. Displays of space explorations, achievements and applications, Mon. to Fri. (9 a.m. to 4 p.m.), Sat. (10 a.m. to 3 p.m.), Sunday (1 to 5 p.m.).

•Cleveland Metroparks Zoo, Brookside Park off of West 25th Street or Fulton Road, 661-6500. Fifth oldest zoo in country, 125 acres, 1300 animals, featuring air conditioned cat and primate building and Sohio amphitheater. Open year 'round, call for hours.

•Randall Park Mall, Northfield and Emery Roads, North Randall, 663-1250. One of the largest malls in the world, five major department stores, 185 stores and specialty shops, many restaurants, 3 movie theaters.

Whatever you choose to do, make the most of it. Additional listings can be found in Friday's entertainment guides of local newspapers or by calling the Cleveland Fun Phone, 24 hours a day, at 621-8860.

Robert Bazzarelli is a sophomore who contributed many feature articles to the Carroll News his first year on campus.

Editorials

We voice our welcome

It's good to see you. The Carroll News welcomes back all returning students and staff and welcomes anew the freshmen, transfers, grad students, and new faculty and administration members joining us this year.

The excitement on campus is contagious. New dorms, bright paint, an enlarged gameroom, and so many people returning with great ideas to share. Everything is green and growing, and The Carroll News is looking to be a major contributor to that vitality.

And we want you to help. If you are interested in becoming a regular contributor, know that our staff is undergoing a major overhaul. New and old members alike are invited to our organizational meeting Thursday, Sept. 3, at 4 p.m. in the gymnasium classroom adjacent to the Carroll Newsroom.

You're not a journalist, you say? We still want to hear from you. Each week we'll try to bring you information and entertainment, but if you don't like our viewpoint, feel that we are missing something, and even if you agree with us, please let us know by letter. After all, one of the major functions of a newspaper is to give a voice to the people. Let us hear yours.

Acting as Executive Editor while The Carroll News undergoes its facelift is Shari Weiss, a graduate student and Freshman English instructor.

Here's to some local plums

Many community agencies and organizations have donated gifts and services to help make this coming JCU plum-week enjoyable, educational and successful. Thank you to the following companies for helping us appreciate Cleveland: Higbee's, Cleveland Ballet, Cleveland Art Museum, Cleveland Magazine, Cleveland Press, The Plain Dealer, Sun Newspapers, WELW, WERE, WWWE, Bobbie Brooks, Winkleman's, Rent-A-Heap, Northern Ohio Life, City of Cleveland, Mayor George Voinovich, Women's Federal, Artist's Nook, Bike and Ski Center, Arthur Treacher's, Minnesota Fabrics, American Automobile Association, University Circle, Inc., WKYC-Ch. 3, the "Dave Patterson Show" and Playhouse Square.

In addition to receiving support from these many companies, John Carroll is also getting promotion and encouragement for the success of "JCU — We're Plum Crazy." Mayor George Voinovich sent a Certificate of Appreciation to the "Students and Faculty of John Carroll University." Doug Adair, anchorman for WKYC-Ch. 3 News is enthusiastic to do a "We're Proud of Cleveland" spot for the station about our "Plum Crazy" week.

Enjoy this special week by participating in the many activities planned. This is a great opportunity to become acquainted with Cleveland, a plum, choice, desirable city. For information on any of the activities, contact the Dean of Students Office, located in the SAC Building, Second Floor.

Cartoonist Carla Cuelbar is a freshman from Solon who will be majoring in Communications.

Dear returning students:

Welcome back to campus, and welcome to John Carroll for the fresh faces among you. The campus comes to life when you return.

You will see some new things, some improvements, and lots of familiar faces—as well as many new ones, too.

Do try to make this as pleasant and civil a campus to live on as possible. I wish you joy of the year to come, and I hope that your learning and your playing may grow together.

Welcome!

T.P. O'Malley, S.J.
President

Campus Ministry plans projects

Greetings from the Campus Ministry: Welcome to you all, and a special hello to the freshmen. We have planned many functions and projects for the coming year and are hoping to serve you all in some way. In addition to the fall semester schedule included here, two special events are planned for September.

New life is a challenge

By CARLA PRINCIPE

As each day goes by, it gets closer and closer. I realize that I am approaching college with mixed emotions. I am looking forward to meeting the new people, and facing the new experiences, but I'm sure there will also be things I miss about home.

I also wonder about how it will be to suddenly live with someone I had never met before. It could be a challenge after having had my own room for nine years.

No one will tell me to study, and no one will make sure I am up on time. Many things will be my responsibility and no one else's. But I like that.

Today, when John Carroll is just beginning for me, I find myself looking forward.

Carla Principe is a freshman from Holy Name High School.

cial events are planned for September.

First of all, everyone is invited to join the Campus Ministry in music, liturgy, social action, community building, volunteer work, prayer groups, and the Hough projects. Watch the bulletin boards for information about the meetings to be held the week of September 10.

Secondly, all freshmen are invited to the Freshmen Reflective Weekend at the Carrolodge, September 18-20. Call 4701 for more information.

By DENISE GREEN

Allow me to introduce myself. I'm Denise Green, a junior philosophy major-feminist-commuter who plans to write columns for The Carroll News in between studying, bike riding, work at SAGA, and staring out my window. This issue I've got some tips for the freshmen (and all returning students, as well) on HOW TO SURVIVE AT JCU.

To on-campus students:

- 1) Always knock before entering your own room, especially when your roommate is in. I learned this the hard way.
- 2) Wear sandals in the shower to discourage an athlete's appearance below the ankle.
- 3) Study in a different area than you relax in. Relax with different people than you live with.
- 4) If not Catholic, learn to like fish and grilled cheese on Fridays, especially during Lent.
- 5) If in need of wallpaper paste or glue, try the mashed potatoes at Sunday dinner.
- 6) If a preppie asks you to "Gator" don't say "Where's the -ade?"

To commuters:

- 7) You can probably park on the streets around JCU for about two or three hours or even in the school's parking lots without a sticker for a few days without getting caught, but any longer and you're likely to get a ticket, and maybe even towed.
- 8) If sacking out at JCU overnight, try sleeping on one of the couches in the restrooms. Security is less likely to check there than Gatzeman or the Science Center lounge.
- 9) The best sport at JCU and over half the intramurals occur between the "scoopers" and the "scoopees" (ask a preppie for a definition) in the AD basement.
- 10) If your paper is late, tell the teacher one of the below:
- 11) I'll have it done tomorrow.
- 12) Sorry, it blew away when the tornado hit my house.
- 13) Sorry, it burned up with the rest of my room.
- 14) Sorry, ya see, my roommate and his

(her) pals started partying last night and needed some rolling papers and the first thing they saw sitting neatly on top of my typewriter....

15) I was walking across the parking lot to deliver the paper to your office when I saw Alex Haley and said: "Hello Alex, how's the family?"

To anybody:

- 16) Never give advice drunk.
- 17) If female, do not go to any IXXY party alone. (You might lose something, and no one will tell you where to look.)
- 18) Budget your money no matter how little the taxmen have left you.
- 19) Don't mix drugs and depression.
- 20) Never mix wine and beer.
- 21) If the fourth cup of coffee doesn't pick you up, go to bed.
- 22) If caught in a dorm room of a member of the opposite sex, past hours, remember to speak softly, laugh quietly, hide behind the door, and leave if there is a fire drill (with your coat buttoned and shoes on!).
- 23) Moderation in all things (including moderation).

In recognition of our efforts to beautify our city, Fr. Knapke, carpenter in residence here at JCU, will make a sign (in accordance with RTA regulations) recognizing John Carroll University's efforts to clean up Cleveland. The sign will be placed somewhere along our 600 foot stretch of track so that all Rapid Transit riders will be reminded that JCU cares about Cleveland.

WARNING: Long pants, gloves and smiles are a must for this fun-filled day of playing tug-of-war with the weeds, doing deep-knee bends for beer cans (think of how great your waists will look when you're done, gals!) and spending the day among friends. All supplies (rakes, brooms, trash bags, etc.) are supplied by RTA, so just take a break from your studies and treat yourself to a day of fun and good will.

Meanwhile back on campus: How to survive at JCU

To get brownie points from teachers:

- 24) Wear blue jeans and flannel shirts to philosophy classes.
- 25) Carry around a copy of the New York Times.
- 26) Preface a comment with a casual "While I was listening to the opera on WCLV last Saturday, it occurred to me...."
- 27) If male, wear three-piece suits to business classes with a button-down shirt and tie. (If female, forget the shirt.)
- 28) "Tis better to be a half hour early than ten minutes late.
- 29) Go to the Academic Counseling Center for a list of the free student tutors. The tutoring (only) is free.
- 30) Try to get study groups going for each of your classes. If students don't hang together, we'll hang separately.
- 31) Be on your good behavior the first couple of weekends, Homecoming and Parents' Weekends. The RA's and security people have the nerve to enforce rules then. (How dare they!)
- 32) If you draw a blank on an essay test, write down something even if you are sure you are wrong. (You might try a dirty joke; artistic types can draw cartoons.)

33) For intensive study, place yourself in an upright position on a hard chair in a cold, dry room, alone.

34) Remember, no one ever said getting an education would be easy. Nothing sacred ever is.

Phys-Ed gains 11 new staffers, loses 8

By JIM MAHONEY
and TOM WANCHO

The air traffic controllers' strike certainly seems to be a thing of the past — especially if one considers the John Carroll athletic department where arrivals outnumber departures eleven to eight. Of the thirteen faculty and coaches from last year's phys ed department, only five are returning.

The start of this massive turnover began last May when Head Men's Basketball Coach Sam Milanovich resigned to assume a similar position at Dickenson State College (Division I) in South Dakota. Assistant Men's Basketball Coach Tim Baab was named head coach the following week. Baab remains the Head Soccer Coach as well as an instructor in the Phys Ed department.

Then in June, Dr. Ron Zwierlein announced his resignation as Athletic Director and Aquatics Director to become a head swimming coach at Bowling Green State University, his alma mater.

JCU Vice President for Student Affairs Dr. James Lavin announced the appointment of Dr. Gerald Schweickert as the new Athletic Director on July 27. Schweickert will retain his positions as Chairman of the Athletic Department and Head Baseball Coach.

ASSUMING THE head swimming/diving coach duties is Paul Martin who holds a Master's in Physical Education for the Handicapped from Ohio State University. His coaching experience consists of a three-year term with Rocky River High School in Cleveland's West Side. Martin's swimming credits include a state collegiate championship and a victory in the Big 10 Conference Meet, both in the butterfly event.

Assisting Martin is part-time coach Tom McDuffy, who reached All-American status in the one and three-meter diving competition in 1980 and currently attends dental school at Case Western Reserve University.

On the women's sports scene, volleyball coach Sharon Daniels left JCU to accept that position at Clarion State College. Ms. Daniels had been hired for one year as Director of Women's Athletics to substitute for Ms. Kathleen Manning, who returns this year.

Newcomer Art Heston will replace Ms. Daniels as the Head Women's Volleyball Coach. In addition to Heston's six years of coaching and playing credit, he was an A-rated player in the U.S. Volleyball Association.

ANOTHER WOMEN'S athletic personnel change occurred when Tom Zawistowski, JCU

Sports Information Director and Head Women's Basketball Coach, resigned all his positions on July 31 for personal reasons.

Taking charge of Zawistowski's coaching position will be Suzanne Klingenberg, whose experience includes playing at Mount St. Joseph College in Cincinnati, three years head coaching women's basketball at Cuyahoga Community College-West, and a Master's in Physical Education from the University of Cincinnati.

Athletic Trainer Glenn Foster has left JCU for Indiana to enter private business. Foster now represents the All-American Reconditioning Company, a firm which repairs worn-out athletic equipment.

Foster's successor is Gary Hanna, who holds a Master's in Sports Medicine from the U.S. Sports Academy in Mobile, Alabama. Hanna's previous experience includes head training duties for the Bahrain national team during last year's Islamic games in Ismir, Turkey, and the head training job for the Bahrain National basketball team.

Foster's assistant, Angela Bossu, also left to seek a Master's in Athletic Training at Miami University of Ohio.

Assistant football coaches Larry Terry and Tim Brenner have taken jobs elsewhere. Terry has taken charge of the football and track programs at Ripon College in Wisconsin, and Brenner has settled down in Buffalo with his new bride and is pursuing a career in banking.

FOUR NEW NAMES have been added to the football coaching roster. Taking over as offensive line coach is Phil Flanagan, who achieved All-Conference honors and won a MVP award at Ohio Wesleyan.

Mike Rezzolla now coaches the interior offensive line. A 1979 graduate of JCU, Rezzolla was a standout in conference football. His awards include All-PAC conference honors and JCU Lineman of the Year in 1978.

Another Carroll graduate,

Frank Amato, joins the phys ed faculty and will coach the defensive backfield. Amato completed a Master's in Physical Education at Western Michigan University and served as a football coach at Loyola Academy in Chicago for the 1979 and 1980 seasons.

Rounding out the football coaching staff is Steve Nelson, the new offensive back coach. The 1978 Westminster College (Pa.) graduate lettered all four years in football and baseball. In addition, during his junior and senior years, his team won the Division II National Football Championship.

Jim Mahoney helped edit the Carroll News sports pages last year, and Tom Wancho has written for those pages for two years.

Revisions to course schedule

By MO GREENE

Students are advised to consider the following additions and deletions to their Fall, 1981 courses:

Additions:

AC 443 TAX FRAUD

Inst: Anonymous 3 credit hours

Students will learn the very latest ways of insuring that their disgustingly rich clients will pay little or no Federal, State, or Local tax.

ML 100 ELEMENTS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Inst: Staff 3 credit hours

A seminar-type course designed so that students will be able to ask for a glass of water or inquire about the health of near relatives in any foreign country.

CO 246 FAMILY ARGUMENTATION & DEBATE

Inst: Dr. Freeley

(no less than) 3 credit hours

How to persuade your father that you should have access to his major credit cards; how to convince your sister that you are in the right without calling her a "fat ox"; many other topics.

Gym facilities open to Carroll community

By CLAY CERNY

If you are a newcomer to John Carroll you may not realize the extent of the activities offered in the gym and natatorium. These facilities are open to students, faculty, and staff at no charge. They are open every day, but, due to athletic practices and classes, schedules vary for each activity.

The gym offers three racquetball courts, the gym floor for basketball and running, and a weightroom. Across the street from the gym there are six tennis courts which are open to students. To use the racquetball courts a time must be reserved in advance with the equipment manager.

The natatorium features a swimming pool, diving pool, and sauna. As with the gym, this facility is open to students, faculty, and staff.

The athletic department also offers courses ranging from archery to volleyball. Some of these classes still have openings for this semester.

Clay Cerny is a junior majoring in English.

EC 499 SEMINAR: FIELDWORK

Inst: Staff 6 credit hours

Students will explore Cleveland and the Western Reserve to see if they can discover a Free Lunch.

ED 200 SELF-DEFENSE

Inst: Kwai Chang Caine

3 credit hours

A course in the basics of martial arts, especially helpful for those students keen on teaching in public high schools.

PL 103 BASIC PHILOSOPHICAL QUESTIONS

Inst: What do you care?

3 credit hours

Questions such as: If a philosopher was alone in a forest and he fell down, would he make a sound? Is there an afterlife, and if so, is there a cover-charge? and Why buy the cow when milk is so damn cheap? will be considered.

Deletions:

BL 418 HUMAN SEXUAL RESPONSE

BS 230 THEORIES OF BANKRUPTCY

EN 499 SEMINAR: THE DIRTY JOKE IN LITERATURE

MS 304 EFFICIENT KILLING TECHNIQUES

PE 401 THEORY & PRACTICE: CHEATING AT SPORTS

PS 229 ANNOYING PEOPLE WITH PSYCHOLOGICAL HALF-TRUTHS

Mo Greene might offer you more good news next issue, or you can arrange a face-to-face meeting in the English offices at the Ad Building where he is a grad student in charge of the free tutoring service.

Michener featured in Playboy

By SUSAN FORD

Where might a serious, intelligent John Carroll student look to find information on one of today's most popular authors? The library? A classroom? The August issue of Playboy?

Yes, you read correctly. Playboy magazine has a fascinating, in-depth interview with James Michener, author of such favorites as Hawaii, Centennial, The Covenant and Chesapeake. The article not only discusses Michener's work, but it also reveals his opinions on politics, literature, America, and tells delightful stories of the author's life and travels.

The conversation between Playboy contributing editor Lawrence Grobel and Michener discloses much of the author's liberal philosophy. For example, this man who claims to have tried all kinds of drugs, predicts a return to isolationist thinking and feels that "the new Christianity" is one of the world's worst problems. He says he has a "very high sense of social responsibility" and has served as a Democratic leader in the Constitutional Convention.

In response to questions concerning the extreme length of his works, Michener replies that people will be interested in reading long novels if there is a reward. Such statements characterize his positive self-image. He claims to use a style favored by both Chaucer and Dickens. The use of narration is his gift.

Michener has interesting comments on Whitman, Twain, Dickens and other writers. The article does give one a good deal of insight into the mind of one of today's best-selling authors. The August issue of Playboy should prove to be very popular. Not only does it have a Michener interview and an excerpt from John Updike's latest novel, but it also sports a Bo Derek poster.

Much Ado is much fun

By MIKE PRINCIPE

Ask many students what they think of Shakespearian dramatics and immediate thoughts of such required texts as Othello, Macbeth, or King Lear come to mind. For a refreshing break from these unhappy stories, try a Shakespearian comedy with Much Ado About Nothing, now in repertory at the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival in Lakewood.

Director Vincent Dowling's version of the play has been updated to a Little Italy setting in 1918. The sprinkling of local flavor throughout adds to the interest in this oft-produced play.

Though the scenery and costuming are twentieth century, the dialogue is the original poetic diction penned by Shakespeare almost four centuries ago. The language seems awkward at first in this almost contemporary setting, but the strangeness seems to disappear as the play progresses. The timelessness of great literature is certainly evident here.

Much Ado offers so many elements that make theater-going so enjoyable. We see treachery, disaster, comedy, and love; particularly hilarious were the naive antics of the super-sleuth Dogberry.

The comedy remains at Lakewood until September 26. It will then go on tour, appearing as part of JCU's Cleveland on Stage program October 2.

Mike Principe is a senior English major from Cleveland's west side who desperately hopes to graduate in 1981.
