TUESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1829.

The Senate assembled.

Mr. Samuel Fulton, a member of the Senate from the counties of Nicholas and Bracken, and Mr. Robert Wickliffe, a member from the county of Fayette, appeared and took their seats.

Mr. Wickliffe produced a certificate of his election, and took the several oaths required by the constitution of the United States and the constitution and laws of this State.

Mr. McConnell presented the petition of Jesse Corum, jailor of Greenup county, praying that a law may pass giving him further time to renew his bond of office.

Which was received, read and referred to the committee of propositions and grievances.

The following bills were reported from the several committees appointed to prepare and bring in the same, to-wit:

By Mr. Hardin—A bill to change the time of holding the Spencer circuit and county courts; and,

By Mr. Fleming—A bill authorizing certain advertisements to be inserted in the Kentucky Intelligencer, printed in Flemingsburg.

Which were each read the first time and ordered to be read a second time.

And thereupon the rule of the Senate, constitutional provision and second and third readings of the said bills having been dispensed with, and the same being engrossed;

Resolved, That the said bills do pass and that the titles thereof be as aforesaid.

On the motion of Mr. Hardin—Resolved, That a committee be appointed to examine the room occupied by the Senate last session, and report at what time the same can be prepared for the reception of the Senate—also, to ascertain at what time the Senate chamber in the capitol will be completed.

And Messrs. Hardin, M'Connell and Wingate were appointed a committee conformably thereto.

After a short time Mr. Hardin from the said committee reported in part:

That they have inspected the room occupied by the Senate at the last session, and are of opinion that the same may be prepared for the reception of the Senate by to-morrow ten o'clock, A. M. They submit the following resolutions, viz:

Resolved, That the door keeper be directed, forthwith to make the necessary repairs to said room.

Resolved, That when the Senate adjourn on this day they will adjourn to meet in said room.

The said resolutions were twice read and concurred in.

On the motion of Mr. Wickliffe, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted, viz:

Resolved, That the Senate of Kentucky is deeply impressed with the loss, which not only the Senate, but the State of Kentucky, has sustained by the death of Col. Andrew Muldrow, late a member of this body, and that the Senate will, as an evidence of their high estimation of the memory of the deceased, wear, for one month, the usual badges of mourning.

Resolved, That the badges be furnished by the Sergeant at Arms, to the members, at their respective chambers.

On the motion of Mr. M'Connell, leave was given to bring in a bill to amend the law in relation to opening and repairing the public roads; and Messrs. M'Connell, Edwards and Green were appointed a committee to prepare and bring in the same.

On the motion of Mr. Green, leave was given to bring in a bill to amend the laws in relation to crimes committed on the Ohio river, and Messrs. Green, Cunningham, Thompson and Hardin were appointed a committee to prepare and bring in the same.

A message in writing was received from the Governor, by Mr. Crittenden, Secretary of State.

The rule of the Senate having been dispensed with, the said message was taken up and read as follows, viz:

Fellow-Citizens of the Senate,

And of the House of Representatives:

THE seasons having performed their annual revolution since the date of my first official communication to the Legislature, it is with feelings of unbounded gratitude to an all-wise and benevolent Providence, for the innumerable blessings which, in common with the rest of our fellow-citizens, we have been permitted to enjoy through the intervening space, that I again attempt to discharge that part of the duty reposed in me by the Constitution.

With but very inconsiderable sectional exceptions, the past season has been truly propitious to the husbandman. In all the variety of his crops, he has been signally successful; and he is abundantly surrounded by the fruits of his labor. His intercourse, social and commercial, with his brethren of the sister States, and of the world, remains uninterrupted; and next to the Author of his being, he looks with confidence to the representatives selected by himself, for a continuance of that prosperity, which by his own persevering industry and economy, he endeavors to deserve; and however complicated our system of government may be, it is nevertheless so ingeniously organized, its powers and duties so happily blended and divided, that nothing less than the most intolerable misrule on the part of those who give direction to, and control the action of the Government of the Union, or an unhappy failure of the several departments of the State Government to co-operate in the discharge of their respective duties, can for a moment arrest the march of National, State, and individual prosperity, which is so plainly indicated on the map of this flourishing confederacy.

With entire confidence in the wisdom and virtue of the Legislature, and an unwavering determination to discharge my duty according to the best lights of my understanding, allow me briefly and respectfully to submit the following views for your consideration.

You are fully aware of all the circumstances, which led to the existing vacancy on the bench of the Court of Appeals, as well as of the difficulties which occurred during the last session of the Senate, between that body and the Executive, in consequence of which, the vacancy was not filled at the close of the session. It is sufficient for me to say, that under the peculiar circumstances of the case, I did not think it expedient to fill the vacancy during the recess. Whether an appointment pro-tem. to that office, would have been acceptable to any one qualified to fill it, I cannot pretend to assert, as I did not think proper to make the experiment—the provisions of the constitution not appearing to me imperatively to enjoin the exercise of that power; but only permissively to grant it, to be exercised or not, as a sound discretion under all the attendant circumstances might seem to dictate.

The only visible effect of my declining to fill the vacancy, has been, in the obvious increase of labor thereby imposed on the two Judges now on the bench. But I am happy in the belief that by extraordinary efforts, they have succeeded in giving general, if not entire satisfaction to the public.

In looking at the present, and contemplating, with anxious anticipation, the future condition of our country, the mind necessarily turns to the subject of education as one of primary importance.

No fact can bring to the heart of the American patriot, a stronger assurance of the permanency and prosperity of these States, than the general exertion upon this great subject throughout our extensive country. The effort is ardent, persevering, and worthy of the high object. The States having the means, have invoked in this wise and philanthropic undertaking, the sages of the land, and have poured forth their treasure with a generous profusion.

Virginia, our mother State, has exhibited to us a proud example. To her son, the darling of his own State, the benefactor of his Nation and of mankind, the venerable Jefferson, she confided with command of funds, almost unlimited in amount, the task of rearing and organizing her "Centre College."

To this good work, he, the same of whose wisdom was not bounded by oceans, devoted the latter days of his honored and well spent life.

The Congress of the United States has, by liberal donations for similar purposes to several of the younger sisters of the confederacy, announced their opinion of the value and importance of the end desired.

The States around us, are in action upon the subject; or preparing for it. Kentucky too, owes this debt to posterity, to her own elevated fame, and the security of her rights. She has felt it; and under the influence of this conviction, she has been making her arrangements, and maturing her plans. She has adopted Transylvania as a State Institution, and made advances, which but for unforeseen and ruinous misfortune, would have placed, beyond the reach of doubt, the prosperity and usefulness of that University.

It is known to you that the Trustees of Transylvania had, some years since, at the expense of about thirty thousand dollars, erected a valuable and splendid edifice. It is also known to you, that that edifice, lately so valuable and splendid, is now a heap of ashes, involving in its conflagration, the destruction of far the greater portion of an extensive and costly Library, and much of the apparatus essentially necessary in an establishment devoted to science. The building was insured to the amount of ten thousand dollars; but it will take that amount, or much the greater portion of it, to replace the Library and apparatus, thus making something like the entire loss of the edifice. This, it is confidently believed, with the materials not destroyed by the fire, can be replaced with the sum of fifteen thousand dollars. There are in the Academical department, one hundred and thirty-five students. Under these circumstances, the fate of the Institution is probably placed entirely in your hands.

A failure on the part of the Legislature to sustain it now, in its adverse and struggling condition, may well be considered as a final abandonment. To your better judgment I submit it, whether such should be the course adopted. Yet I cannot refrain from the indulgence of a hope, that the Legislature in its wisdom may be able to devise some plan of relief adequate to the object. Kentucky is now a great and a wealthy State. The sum necessary is comparatively small.

Will the Legislature sit idly by and see that University, the adopted one of Kentucky, wither and sink under the stern visitation of calamity, for the paltry consideration of a few thousand dollars? If the Legislature should, however, decline to make an unqualified appropriation, it occurs to me barely to suggest as a substitute, the application of a part of the school fund to this purpose, the interest of which should be reimbursed in the education of poor youth, to be selected in such manner, as you may designate. That fund is now idle. It may long remain so. In the plan suggested it is put into immediate action. And it would not be difficult to make that selection fall upon the impoverished posterity of those, to whom for their toils and services, and dangers in the fields of their country's renown, we owe a debt of gratitude beyond our power to pay. But this latter appropriation I candidly own is not free from objections in my own mind. Yet I submit it to your better judgment; and shall be gratified if one, less liable to objection, can be devised. The subject of education in its every form and aspect is certainly of the highest importance. None is more so, in all the range of human concerns and interests. It mingles alike with the feelings of the father, the patriot, and the philanthropist. It involves the felicities of home; and fills all the circle of patriotism—for it is alike the basis of domestic happiness and national prosperity. It is the ornament of society. It is the strength of liberty, and when possessed by the christian, it is awfully terrific to the enemies of his religion.

To this interesting topic, I have given here but a passing notice. For a more ample exposition of my views, I must beg leave to refer you to my communication of the last session, where it will be seen that Transylvania stands not alone, as an object of my peculiar regard, among the various colleges and institutions of learning in our State. If I have, on this occasion, pointed to her with more than ordinary anxiety, it is no more than I would have done in behalf of any one of the rest, had a similar calamity, unfortunately befallen it.

Since the adjournment of the last Legislature the wall around the Penitentiary has been raised about seven feet above its former height; and the invaluable improvement of a separate cell, or night room for each convict, has been provided. The penitentiary system has recently become a subject of deep interest to the friends of a humane and benevolent policy, not only in this, but in several other of these States, as well as in Europe. It attracts the attention, and excites the purest sympathies of the most worthy of the sages and matrons of our land. For it may be assumed as a melancholy fact, that out of the multitude of prisons of this description in Europe and America, not one of them has, until within a few years past, been even partially successful in the reformation of the convicts. On the contrary, their history confirms the afflicting truth, that without a solitary exception, they have been so many schools of vice; mere dens of iniquity, in which all the ingenuity of depraved and wicked men, has been successfully exerted, to receive and impart lessons of immorality, and concert dark schemes of the most abominable and atrocious villainy. The advantages resulting to society from the temporary seclusion of this unfortunate portion of its members, have, it is believed, been more than counterbalanced, by the extraordinary mischiefs produced by their occasional liberation. The inmates of those sinks of deep and appalling moral degradation, have been let loose upon society, the most desperate, dexterous and hardened villains; contaminating every thing within the scope of their deleterious influence, until again detected, condemned and returned to the same, or to some other prison. Add to this cheerless fact, that prior to the recent improvements of the system not a single instance can be cited, of a public prison, the expenditures of which, have not greatly exceeded the income from the labor of the convicts, and it is no matter of surprise, that the efficacy and justice of this mode of punishment, should be doubted. For what can be more unjust towards the virtuous part of any community, than the impositions upon them of heavy burdens to support the most profligate, who are immured in prisons, in lieu of merited inflictions of a more sanguinary character.

But a brighter and a better day appears to have dawned upon those abodes of darkness, and hitherto, nurseries of crime. The defects of the system are detected and exposed; and remedies applied, which are now in full and successful operation. The reader of the reports of the "prison discipline society" whoever he may be, will unhesitatingly acknowledge the facts as stated. We are mainly indebted to the benevolent fathers composing that society, aided as they have been by some other powerful minds in this country, as well as in Europe, for nearly all the lights we have on this subject, so deeply interesting to every civilized and Christian community. This society was organized in 1825. Its avowed object, was the improvement of public prisons. How far this noble purpose has been marked with success, let Auburn, Sing Sing, Weatherfield, and some other public prisons attest. Stimulated by the purest motives, that ever animated the bosoms of the benevolent, that society has at great expense and trouble, procured and disseminated more useful information, within the short term of its existence, than had been previously obtained, in relation to this matter, from the time of the establishment of the first public prison in this or in any other country. Hard labour by day, and solitary confinement by night, allowing no avoidable conversation with each other, or with any one else, except the keeper or by his consent, and carefully furnishing moral and religious instruction may be considered as an outline of the plan proposed by the society. From this very brief, but general view of public prisons, allow me to draw your particular attention to the one over which the Legislature, under high and solemn responsibilities, has immediate and direct control.

This establishment has within a few years past undergone every great and striking improvement; commencing and progressing almost simultaneously with the improvements of the other prisons alluded to; but from a cause entirely different, except so far as that cause has been instrumental in introducing and bringing into action, the principles of the "prison discipline society." I refer to the employment of a keeper whose pay for his services is made to depend entirely upon the net profits of the establishment. This idea has its novelty; and will, by many, be viewed as utterly erroneous. Indeed I am aware, that among speculative and fanciful theorists, it will have to encounter the most formidable opposition. It will, nevertheless, stand the test of experience; and will, in the end, have to be engrafted on the improvements suggested by the prison discipline society, to complete the system.

This plan furnishes the strongest imaginable guaranty, that the convicts shall not become a burden to the State. It ensures the strictest economy, and it is now fully conceded, "that in prisons, where there is most moral improvement, there is least expense"—that economy and moral improvement, are not adverse, but congenial principles, and must co-operate to produce any very favorable results. The interest of a keeper employed on our plan and that of the Commonwealth, are precisely the same. It is his interest that the work of every description should be executed in the best manner; and that no unsaleable articles shall be allowed to accumulate on hand. His interest directs his attention to the health of the convicts. He taxes his ingenuity to provide for them, the most profitable employment. He varies that employment to suit the times and the market; and he is constantly awake to all the pecuniary concerns of the establishment. He is interested in their moral improvement, and it is against his interest that the convicts should be improperly abused, or cruelly treated.

It is to be hoped that this institution will never fall under the control of a superintendent, whose only motive is, cold calculating gain. But should it unfortunately so happen, we have much less to fear from that circumstance than from the employment of a keeper, the reward of whose services is not contingent, on the pecuniary management and success of the establishment.

Assuming the ground that a rigid economy is as essential to moral improvement, as it is to ensure common justice to the virtuous portion of the community, and it may be asked, whether the cost of criminal prosecutions added to the expense of rearing public buildings, is not as much as ought to be imposed upon the law-abiding and upright portion of society, for the purpose of mitigating the punishment of lawless and high handed offenders? In proportion to our population, the number of commitments to this prison, is certainly not considerable. That an average population of about a half million annually, should in the last thirty years, furnish but six hundred and thirty of that unfortunate class, is by no means extravagant. And yet it is known that the cost of criminal prosecutions in many of our counties, some of them ranking among the most populous and wealthy, greatly exceeds the amount of revenue they pay into the Treasury. To guard against an increase of this burden upon the Commonwealth for the support of the convicts, is thought not to be unworthy of the consideration of the Legislature. That increase is effectually guarded against by our mode of employing a superintendent. And assuming the ground that an equal moiety of the net income of the establishment is an ample reward for his services (and he ought to be amply rewarded,) it follows of course, that the State's moiety of the net income will be sufficient to make provision for their moral and religious instruction, to employ competent teachers of Sunday schools, and to make such alterations and improvements in the buildings as may from time to time be deemed expedient. At this time the most striking deficiency in the establishment is, the want of a Hospital; and it is respectfully submitted to the Legislature, whether it will not be well to procure for the use of the State, copies of the reports of the "prison discipline society," with such other valuable information, as it may be convenient to obtain in relation to this interesting subject.

On examination of the Reports of the conductors of public prisons generally, it will be seen, that due and proper notice is taken of the female convicts. On this head, I have nothing to communicate, except to express the pleasure which is derived from the fact, that we have not for several years had a single individual of that sex confined within the walls of the Penitentiary.

Connected with this subject in some degree, is that of a "house of refuge," for juvenile delinquents. Houses of this description having been recently constructed, are now in successful operation in several of these States. They are probably entitled to the first rank, among the humane and benevolent institutions of this, or any other country—reflecting upon the authors the highest honor, and insuring them imperishable renown. The heart that chills at the sight of a youth of tender years, immured in a prison with none to instruct him, but the most hardened offenders, will rejoice at the establishment of an institution, in which the youthful delinquent is to be placed under the fatherly and matronly care of the pious and sensible, where the restraints imposed, and instruction given, are at once preventive and remedial of crime, and tend so admirably to qualify these objects of charitable regard for all the useful purposes of life.

Under the provisions of an act of the last session of the Legislature, incorporating the Maysville and Lexington turnpike road company, that road has been commenced at the former point, and is now in progress towards the completion of the first five miles. It is to be hoped that this road will not be permitted to stop at the termination of that distance. It is a road of great importance both in a national and sectional point of view, and if not neglected by the State, will doubtless receive the co-operation of Congress, as well as individuals in making it. The importance of improving the roads leading from the appropriate points along the Ohio and other navigable rivers, into the strong settlements of the interior, to enable our farmers to convey their produce to market, and to return with such other bulky and ponderous articles, as they are in the practice of supplying themselves with from those rivers, at less cost and trouble, begins to be more than ever seen and acknowledged.

The individual enterprise of the citizens of Lexington, Versailles and Frankfort, stands conspicuous for the exertion which it is making to locate and construct a road from Lexington in a direction to Louisville, and I trust they will receive the countenance and support of the Legislature.

By the exaction of a revenue to be expended upon works of this character, it is not possible to oppress the poor, or injuriously to affect the interests of any portion of the community. Our revenue is derived from the property of the country and not from individuals. By the expenditure of revenue upon durable public works of this description, the value of property is enhanced to the owner greatly beyond the amount which it has contributed to the object, and in addition to numerous other almost incalculable advantages resulting to the owners of property, they are enriched by such expenditure when judiciously applied. To the poor, it gives certain and profitable employment—as for instance the wages of labour at this time in Pennsylvania are said to be nearly double what it was a short time since, in consequence of the Canal and other public works, which are in progress there. Besides the Schuylkill and Lehigh Canals, and that of the Chesapeake and Delaware, about four hundred miles of the Pennsylvania Canal is expected to be in full operation, early next summer. And this great State, when her other resources are found to be inadequate, borrowed and continues to borrow, to the amount of millions, sooner than for a moment to be obstructed in her improving march to the high destiny that awaits her. Pennsylvania rightly understands her best interests, and so did the great State of New York as evinced by the public spirit which she has displayed in executing works of this character. Indeed, he is no political economist, who does not perceive that revenue raised and judiciously applied to the improvement of a country, tends to enrich and not to impoverish its inhabitants.

It is my duty in compliance with the request of the Governors of the States of Georgia, South-Carolina, Virginia and Mississippi, to communicate to you the resolutions which they have respectively adopted, in opposition to the Tariff, and with the exception of those adopted by the Legislature of Mississippi, denying the power of the General Government to make Internal Improvements, and one from the Legislature of South-Carolina, denying the power of Congress to “patronize, or direct appropriations for the benefit” of the Colonization society. In performing this duty, I will superadd, that also of expressing my deliberate conviction, after mature and full examination of the power of the General Government to adopt and of the wisdom of the policy, and justice of those measures; and instead of their being abandoned, the prosperity of the Union, and of this State, in my judgment, requires that they should be steadily maintained, and carefully improved, in all cases respecting the tariff, where the degree of protection which it affords, is inadequate to the object; and in all cases of Internal Improvement, where the magnitude and importance of the work to be executed, is sufficient to demand it, as a National measure, and also to patronize and aid the Colonization society. In some of those resolutions and remonstrances, a tone is assumed, and a temper manifested, which are to be deeply regretted. Every member of the Union has the undoubted right, freely to express its opinion, on any act or measure of the General Government, and may resort to all constitutional and peaceful means to impress that opinion upon the majority of the people and of the States. But here its right stops. It cannot proceed a step farther, and obstruct the execution of the acts of the Union, by acts of its own. Such obstruction, if acquiesced in by the General Government, would amount to a virtual dissolution of the Union—if resisted, would lead to civil war. These were the principles upon which Kentucky and her parent State acted at the memorable period of 1798, and I do but act upon the same principle, in thus expressing my dissent from the doctrines avowed in the accompanying resolutions, and in submitting to the Legislature as I am now about to do, the views which I entertain, in opposition to certain other acts of Federal authority.

The intimate connexion which happily exists between the governments of the Union, and of the several states, and the mutual influence which they exert upon the community and upon each other, render it proper and necessary that a guarded attention should be constantly applied to the measures adopted, and the principles asserted and acted upon by both. But this is essentially requisite in relation to the General Government. Whilst the operation of the measures of the State Government is principally limited to its own territory, that of the Federal Government is co-extensive with the whole Union. The injury flowing from the adoption by a State of an erroneous policy, or its pursuit of pernicious principles, is confined chiefly to itself, and that injury may even be of great magnitude and of long duration, without disturbing the harmony, or impairing the prosperity of the parts of our confederacy. But the case is otherwise with the General Government, whose acts and proceedings immediately extend throughout the whole, and to every part, and as they are marked by wisdom or indiscretion, promote the happiness, or occasion the distress of all. This quality of the acts of the Federal Government, makes it the duty of the chief magistrate of the Commonwealth, under the injunction contained in its constitution to notice any of them from time to time that he may deem injurious in their tendency. And accordingly, my predecessors have, at various times, called the attention of the General Assembly to particular acts of the Federal authority, which in their opinion bore that character. A similar usage prevails in most, if not all of the other States composing the Union.

Upon the termination of the late Presidential contest which had been during the whole of it characterized by uncommon warmth and acrimony, it was the interest of all, and is believed to have been a general inclination, to consign to oblivion, unpleasant incidents which had attended it. The will of the majority of the nation had been constitutionally expressed, and it was the duty of those who differed with that majority to submit to its decision, and in deference to it, as well as in justice to the distinguished individual who had been elected, to give a fair and impartial consideration to the acts of his administration. After having conformed to that duty and deliberately examined these acts, with all the candor and freedom from bias of which I am capable, I feel constrained to express my serious apprehensions of the dangerous tendency of the principles on which the patronage of the government has been recently administered. The present administration exhibits the first example under the General Government of the exercise of that power in numerous instances by dismissing officers at home as well as abroad, on no other ground than that of difference of opinion as to the person who should be entrusted with the Chief Magistracy of the country. And it has exhibited the first example also, of the recall, at great and unnecessary expense, of several of our foreign diplomatic agents without the slightest intimation of any fault in the performance of their duties. Without dwelling upon the injury to the public from the dismissal of able, honest and experienced servants; or upon the injustice of punishing those servants by a sudden privation of their means of subsistence, for no other reason than difference of opinion, there is much cause of alarm in the practical consequences of a principle which assumes, that the President of the United States may rightfully expel all who ventured to oppose his election whatever may be their merits in other respects.

Our elections recur periodically after short terms. If the President of the United States elected every four years, may dismiss every official incumbent who took part against him at the preceding election, our country will become a perpetual and distracted theatre of confusion for the offices of Government to the total disregard of the public interest and of all patriotic considerations. The example of the President will be contagious, as to the functionaries of the State Governments invested with analogous powers of dismissal, and terminate in a scene of disorder, strife and turmoil throughout the land without any precedent. But it is not in the exercise of the patronage of the General Government by removal from office alone, that just occasion is furnished for serious reflection and fearful foreboding. The numerous appointments that have been made of members of the last or present Congress, to public employments, far transcending in number, those that had been made during a similar period under any preceding administration, cannot but excite anxious solicitude in respect to the independence of Congress. To that body is confided the duty of watching over every branch of the public administration; of calling for and scrutinizing accounts; and of detecting and punishing abuses, in any of the departments of Government. What guaranty has the public for the faithful performance of this high duty, in respect to the Executive, if an undue proportion of the public offices and honors is conferred upon members of Congress by that very branch of Government: whilst it would on the one hand be improper to exclude them from public appointments farther than they are excluded by the constitution, it must be acknowledged, on the other, that an inordinate number should not be appointed; and that the public should continue to possess adequate security for their fidelity, both in the importance and the limited number of the offices bestowed on them. Through members of Congress in the exercise of their franking privilege, and through the press in subsequently disseminating the intelligence received from them, the greatest mass of political information is distributed to the people. Hence, and on other accounts also, the great importance of a perfect preservation of the purity and independence, both of Congress and of the press. But at the period when we have beheld the disproportionate number of those who now are, or very recently were members of Congress appointed to public offices by the Executive of the United States, we have also seen numerous instances of the appointment of Editors of newspapers throughout the Union, some of whom continue to perform their joint editorial and official duties after receiving their appointments. If Congress and the press are habituated to look to the Executive instead of the people, for promotion, honor and offices, there would be much reason to apprehend that they would in process of time, both prove to be faithless guardians of the public liberty.

Nor are the mischievous consequences of the principle confined to the period which follows the election to the Presidency. It mingles, with alarming force, with the election itself. It calls into the contest every political adventurer, stimulated by the hope of gain, to be measured out to him, according to the violence with which he may advocate the claims of the successful candidate, and the rancor with which he may denounce and vilify an unsuccessful one. Thus thousands are invited by personal interest, to bring back upon us, with the recurrence of every Presidential election, scenes of heat and violence, in the fury of which there is certainly great evil and great danger of error.

Truth is disregarded, and an interest dangerous to the purity of elections, usurps the place of dispassionate inquiry and true love of country. A title is asserted to office not founded upon talents, integrity or services rendered to the country—but upon services rendered to the President in his election. The principle thus strikes at that virtue and exclusive patriotism which is the strength of our country, and without which this government the wonder and admiration of the world cannot long endure.

I refer to these transactions with unaffected regret. But I cannot be deterred from the performance of a sacred duty by any consideration resulting from the number who may approve of them. The history of the State, which has done me the honor to place me in the station which I now hold, demonstrates its warm attachment, and ardent devotion to the cause, and the lasting preservation of liberty; and when at the period herein before alluded to, it believed that liberty to be in peril, the people of Kentucky in boldly resorting to constitutional measures, to sustain and uphold it, did not stop to enquire how many other States were ready to co-operate with them. And it will now be for the people through their representatives to arrest the consequences anticipated before too late. Whether by reducing the pay, and salaries of officers, who rely on the President for appointment and continuance, and thereby to lessen the inducements, and the means of intrigue and corruption, or by the exercise of the elective franchise, or both, are matters worthy of the most serious consideration of every friend of the republic. That a considerable sum may be saved to the country by a reduction of the pay of those officers, not only without detriment, but with great advantage to the public interests, I have not for many years entertained a doubt.

The actual deficit in the Treasury, at the expiration of the last fiscal year, was about thirty thousand dollars less than we had been led to expect from the estimate of the Auditor. This is mainly to be accounted for by the amount saved to the Commonwealth, under the provisions of "an act requiring certain duties of clerks" approved the 16th of January last, and an act approved the 29th of the same month, regulating the pay of venire men.

But the amount of the actual deficit, when added to that which is expected to accrue in consequence of an excess of expenditure, beyond the income of the present year will, according to the estimate of the Auditor, amount to one hundred and two thousand eight hundred and eighty-five dollars, and ninety-seven cents, which, unless provision is made to meet it, will be the balance against the government on the 10th day of October next.

In referring to these facts and estimates, I have only to add, that I have entire confidence in the sagacity of the Legislature to perceive, and in its wisdom to adopt the most suitable mode of drawing from our ample resources the means of supplying this deficiency.

In compliance with the request contained in the resolution adopted by the Legislature on the 29th January last, a correspondence was opened with the Governor of Tennessee, by letters bearing date the 12th of February, and the 1st of May last, to the latter of which a reply was received bearing date the 21st of the same month, giving assurances, that it would be very gratifying to the authorities of Tennessee, to have the boundary between the two States permanently fixed; but that the Legislature had made no provision on the subject, and consequently that no step could be taken to co-operate with us. But stating that should a suspension of operations be directed on the part of Kentucky, until the meeting of the Assembly of that State, it would afford an opportunity for a joint commission which on their part, would be very desirable, as nothing could be satisfactory to the people on the border, unless both parties were represented.

It was under these circumstances determined, that it would best comport with the courtesy and respect due to the authorities of a sister State, and consequently with the views of the Legislature, as well as with the best interests of the border inhabitants, to suspend all operations until the opportunity suggested had been afforded to the Legislature of Tennessee, which it is understood, met on the third Monday of September last, since which time no further communication on the subject has been received.

I will here present to you, a general outline, only, of the situation of the Bank of the Commonwealth, as a report in detail of the affairs of that Institution, will shortly be laid before you by its President.

The whole amount of debt due the Bank on the first day of October last, including notes in suit, and notes under discount not in suit, was $1,018,492 85, which is $118,376 23, less than the amount due at the close of the preceding year. The amount of notes under discount has diminished within the last year $185,270 35. The whole amount of real estate purchased by the Bank is $58,728 52. The Literary Fund remains stationary since the last year at $140,917 44; and the whole amount of stock is $542,558 63. The net profits of the Bank for the last year is $8,291 17 less than the net profits of the next preceding year; and the amount of loss within the last, exceeds that of the former year $24,955 45.

The diminution of profits is a result consequent in part upon the diminution of notes under discount, and in part upon the useless and expensive continuance of the Branch Banks. And the increase loss as before stated, was occasioned by the robbery which was committed during the last autumn upon the Branch Bank at Louisville.

After the most mature deliberation, I have been led to consider it my duty, respectfully to recommend the withdrawal of all the Branch Banks, as soon as may be practicable. By doing so, the risk of losses by fire, robberies, or other accidents, will be lessened in a ratio proportionate to the number of branches—or thirteen to one; and the expenses of the establishment will be considerably reduced. By the appointment of Collecting Agents, in lieu of the Branches, it is believed that the convenience of the debtors, as well as the interest of the Commonwealth, would be consulted.

In making this communication, I have doubtless omitted to notice some of the topics of public interest which will occur to the Legislature. But I am consoled by the reflection, that no evil to the country can result from that omission. The immediate representatives of the people, selected for their intelligence and virtue, from all parts of the State, will readily supply the deficiencies of this communication.

Our country is rapidly advancing in a career of prosperity. Blessed with generous soil, and healthful climate; aided in our commerce, by the facilities of modern invention, by which the age we live in is so eminently distinguished, it remains for us only to be judicious and wise, in the application of the means, so bountifully bestowed by the Author of all good, to render us prosperous, and happy, and powerful. To this end, let us bear back to our homes, when our labors are over, the consolation, of having diligently and faithfully dedicated our whole time, and our humble talents.

THOMAS METCALFE.

DECEMBER 8, 1829.

Ordered, That the public printer print fifteen hundred copies of the said message for the use of the Senate.

On motion of Mr. Wickliffe—Resolved, That the committee of courts of justice inquire into the expediency of amending the laws concerning descents, escheats, dower and devises, and that they report by bills or otherwise.

Resolved, That the same committee inquire into the expediency of repealing all laws allowing licences to keepers of Billiard Tables, and to provide by law for the more effectually suppressing unlawful gaming in this Commonwealth, and that they report by bills or otherwise.

On the motion of Mr. Wingate—Resolved, That the committee of courts of justice inquire into the expediency of amending the laws relating to the trial of the right of property, and that they report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Maupin moved for leave to bring in a bill to take the sense of the people of this Commonwealth as to the propriety of calling a convention.

And the question being taken thereon, it was decided in the negative, and so the said motion was rejected.

PORTER CLAY, Auditor Public Accounts.

Frankfort, October 10, 1829.

Ordered, That the said report be referred to the committee of Finance.

The Speaker laid before the Senate a letter from Henry Wingate and Thomas S. Page, commissioners appointed to settle the accounts of Joel Scott, Keeper of the Penitentiary, enclosing their report; which letter and report are as follows, viz:

Frankfort, December 9, 1829.

DEAR SIR—Please lay before the House over which you preside, the enclosed statement, and oblige,

Yours respectfully,

HENRY WINGATE,
THOS. S. PAGE,

Commissioners.

JOHN BREATHITT, Esq. Lieut. Governor, and Speaker of the Senate.

By an act of the General Assembly, approved 29th January, 1829, appointing the undersigned commissioners for, and in behalf of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, to examine and settle the accounts between Joel Scott, Keeper of the Penitentiary, and the said Commonwealth, from the time said Scott assumed the management of said institution, up to the time of their examination and settlement. The commissioners appointed by said act would state, that it became necessary to fix upon some period to have the accounts closed, to enable them to make out a statement in accordance to said act; consequently, on the first day of February, 1829, the books were closed and the balances made up to that time; a statement of which is herewith reported, viz:

Debts due 1st February, 1829,	$13,620 48
Raw materials on hand same time,	2,676 47
Manufactured articles on hand same time,	2,989 74

	Amounting to,	$19,286 69
Credits standing on the books same time,	1,805 95
Unsettled accounts due to individuals same time,	6,445 53
Advances made by the Keeper up to same time,	5,486 48	—13,737 96
	Leaving,	5,584 78
From which deduct bad and doubtful debts about	945
Leaving a balance due, 1st February, 1829, to the institution, of specie		$4,603 78
Since the above settlement was made, the keeper has settled with the commissioners for rebuilding the State House, by which they fall in his debt $9,766 32, Commonwealth's paper, equal to specie,	8,536 78
Also, for orders not brought into this settlement, $3,240, Commonwealth's paper, equal to	2,835

	Making,	$11,371 78
Leaving a nett balance due the institution on the 1st day of February, 1829, (as all the above named work was done previous to that date,) of		$15,975 51

Out of the above named settlement made with the commissioners for rebuilding the State House, the keeper has settled with the Auditor Public Accounts, the balance due from him for a loan received from the State, at the time he commenced his duties as keeper aforesaid, together with the interest due, amounting to $6,131, Commonwealth's paper, which will be accounted for in a subsequent settlement with him.

We have examined the improvements of machinery, &c. that the keeper has made in the institution, since he has had the same under his management and control, and we calculate its value to be worth, (previous to the 1st February, 1829,) at the least calculation, $5,700; the increase in the tools to be worth $1,000. We have not taken into consideration in this statement, the provisions or fuel, of which there is a large supply.

We would remark, that the settlement of which the foregoing is a statement, has been made as accurate as it can be done, the most of which has been settled after the usual business hours.

It is impossible that a full and final settlement can be made with the keeper, while the institution is in operation, owing to the great number of unsettled accounts, a great part of which are carried on in the way of barter; to make a final settlement so as to ascertain the true and exact situation of the institution, it will be necessary that all business should cease and the accounts closed.

In conclusion, we beg leave to say, that we found the books of the institution in good order and the accounts correctly stated.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

H. WINGATE.

THOS. S. PAGE.

Harrison lieut. colonel of the 1st regiment, have had the same under consideration, and report: That as to James Bradley and John Hibbard, that no consideration was given to induce Francis P. Pennington to resign or E. W. Bowman to refuse to act, and as to Chasteen T. Dunaven there is some grounds of suspicion that he paid Wm. R. Payne some consideration to induce him to resign, but the proof is not sufficient to warrant the committee in saying such is the fact. The committee submit the following resolutions.

Resolved, That the Senate advise and consent to the appointment of James Bradley as sheriff of Christian county in the place of F. P. Pennington resigned.

Resolved, That the Senate advise and consent to the appointment of John Hibbard as sheriff of Clay county in the place of E. W. Bowman who refused to act.

THOMAS METCALFE.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Senate, that general bad character, or general reputation of the commission of any crime, or of conduct dishonorable in its nature, on the part of, or by any person nominated to any office in the militia, is good cause for the rejection of such nomination, without proof of the actual commission of such crime or other dishonorable act; and all committees to whom such nominations have been or may be referred, are instructed to act accordingly.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1829.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, announcing the passage of bills and a resolution which originated in that House of the following titles, viz:

An act authorizing the sale of certain grounds in the town of Russellville.

An act to enlarge the constable's district including the town of Burksville, and for other purposes; and,

A resolution relative to the office of public printer.

The Speaker laid before the Senate the memorial of a number of the members of the Frankfort bar, in favor of the appointment of Daniel Mayes, Esq. as circuit judge of the 4th judicial district.

Which was read and referred to the committee of courts of justice, to whom was referred the nomination of said Mayes.

Messrs. M'Connell, Brown, White, Rodman, Summers, Harris, Wall, Wickliffe and Wingate were appointed a committee on the Penitentiary and Messrs. Edwards, Payne, Fleming, Thompson, Stephens, Owsley and Barrett were appointed a committee on Education pursuant to the resolution adopted yesterday.

The Speaker laid before the Senate the annual report of the keeper of the Penitentiary, which is as follows, viz:

To the Speaker of the Senate:

SIR:—In discharge of the duty committed to me as Keeper of the Penitentiary, I submit through you to the House of Representatives, the following report of the state of the institution over which I preside.

There are now ninety one convicts confined in the penitentiary. Forty have been committed since the first day of November, 1828; thirty-one have served out their respective terms and been discharged; five have received the pardon of the Executive; and one has died. The health of the persons committed to my care, has been, during the present year, unusually good. The average of persons sick during the year, would not much exceed one per day.

The committee appointed by the Legislature to settle the accounts of the penitentiary, performed that duty on the first day of February of the present year. The report of the committee will show a profit derived from the institution of $15,975 51, up to the first of February last, from the time it was entrusted to me, besides improvements made in the machinery, workshops, &c. which amounts to $5,700. They estimate the increase of the tools at $1000. This would make the total product of labors of the convicts during four years, amount to $22,675 51. I beg leave here to observe, that I have been disappointed in the amounts of the profits, although they have far exceeded the expectations of others who have looked to the previous experiments of the institution. My disappointments have grown out of the contract with the commissioners of the State-house. The profits of the great job of nearly $12,000, has only amounted to about $700. The accounts of the office furnish the following exhibit of the condition of the institution:

Debts due to the institution, is	$18,692 65
This sum, the clerk estimates will be reduced by offsets and bad debts, to	10,000

Raw materials on hand at this time,	2,650
Manufactured articles on hand at this time.	3,000
Building Commissioners certificate to Auditor for manufactured articles,	4,672 78
Building Commissioners certificate to Auditor for stone for the State-house,	9,756 32

Since the settlement and my report of last year, I have made extensive and valuable improvements in the establishment. I have altered the old block of brick cells and have made of them two large and commodious workshops, the one for carpenters and the other for weavers. In obedience to the law of last session, I have built the wall six feet higher, and in conformity with the act, have added the flat rocks and the loose stone as a covering to the wall, which makes an addition to its former height, of seven feet nine inches. At the principal gateway, I have projected forward two walls, for the purpose of making a double gate—making the extent of the wall then added, about 120 feet in length and 14 feet high. I have built 34 cells, directed by law, and divided the old ones, the expense of which improvements will be seen by reference to paper marked (B.) I have also provided a Chapel and Sabbath School room, for the convicts, and have built a shed eighty-four yards in length for the manufacture of bagging, and have in operation four bagging looms, and have also erected a hemp house within the walls. The improvements have enabled me to introduce into the institution, the following rules and regulations, which I feel bound to submit to the Legislature as a part of my report, as the economy of the establishment and its prison discipline, are subjects of the most interesting concern to the Legislature and to the community.

A system of silence is made to prevail throughout the whole institution. Conversation is not permitted among the convicts, with the exception, that a foreman of a shop is allowed to give instructions with regard to work in hand. All other communications and directions are to be from the manager who conducts the institution. For the purpose of preserving perfect order in all the operations of the establishment, the convicts are divided into several shop's crews, in which every individual is known by his number; and in proceeding to their business, their meals or their religious duties, they fall into file according to their number.

When the first bell rings in the morning, all hands rise, dress, make up their beds, sweep up their rooms, and as soon as the doors are open, the litter is swept into the alley. The convicts remain in the cells until the second bell rings; then each shop's crew fall into the ranks in order, and march in silence to their shops, and then each takes his proper place, washes and proceeds to work. Each man is required to remain at his own appointed position, and is not allowed to approach that of another without leave.

No man is to look at, or speak to visiting persons without leave:

this rule is not unfrequently infringed by visitors, who we must suppose are ignorant of its existence or importance. When the bell rings for meals, each shop's crew form in single file, every man in his place according to his number, and in silence, march to table, there each takes his seat and remains still until the bell rings, then they eat in silence in the presence of a manager, and at the ringing of the same bell, each man rises to his feet and follows his file-leader to his work. The man that marches behind going to his meal, marches before returning to his work.

When the bell rings at night, the convicts form as above mentioned and march to their cells, where each goes into his separate cell, which is reached by arrangement in order; the number of the cell corresponding with the number of the individual who fronts it in the rank. Each man is held accountable for the quantity and quality of his work according to his skill and ability, and is not allowed to commit waste, nor to suffer waste to be committed in his sight, without giving information to a manager of what he has seen. No man is allowed to go to the privy without a token. Each shop has its own token and its own privy. There is a man in each shop to bring materials and to hand tools; if he is absent, the foreman acts in his stead. When any thing is wanted, the person to be supplied pulls his cord and rings the shop bell for the tender who attends to him and supplies his wants.

The cooks prepare the victuals, attend the table, wash the clothing, sweep the galleries and cut the wood for the fires. If there be any thing amiss in the preparation of the food, the convicts are enjoined to give information of it at meal time.

On Saturday, the barbers shave the heads and faces of the men; when this duty is begun by one shop's crew, all belonging to it are shaved before another is called; each individual when shaved, is required to wash and dress in clean clothes, and return to his place in the shop.

The above is an outline of the conduct prescribed to convicts during the week. Sunday is devoted to the purpose of religious instruction and in the employment of the Sabbath School. A chapel is provided for these objects, and from the time the prisoners are taken from the cells in the morning until night, (meal times excepted,) they are here engaged in religious devotion, or in learning to read, to write, and to cypher. At least one third of those sent to the penitentiary are entirely illiterate, and most of them very imperfect in the rudiments of the education imparted by common schools. The different corps of convicts are marched to the chapel on Sunday, in the order they march to their business during the week, and are placed on benches with their faces towards the wall, when under the supervision of a manager, they prosecute duties prescribed to them throughout the day. From these regulations such only are exempted as are retained in solitary confinement as a punishment for offences committed by them.

Divine service is always attended by the keeper or his assistant, and the most profound and solemn silence and attention required from the convicts. I regret to say that I have not been able to obtain as much religious instruction for the convicts as I desired. I consider the sermons and prayers of pious men, in conjunction with the labours of the teacher of the Sabbath school, as greatly conducive to the reformation of the unhappy beings committed to my care, and I should rejoice to have it in my power to tell the Legislature, that I had been enabled to procure a preacher to perform his sacred functions in the Chapel of the Penitentiary, on every Sunday during the year. This has not been the case, and I am sorry to inform you that only twenty-nine sermons have been preached to the convicts during the last year. This has not been my fault. I have given to the teachers of the Sabbath schools, two dollars per day, and two dollars for every sermon, preached within the walls.

In conclusion, I have to say, that I solicit the attention of the General Assembly, to the management of the Institution submitted to my control. If they should find any thing in its internal arrangement or conduct, which they may consider as having contributed to make this Institution profitable, rather than a burthen to the State, or any thing in the mode of treatment of the convicts, which shall seem calculated to produce a reformation of character and prevent them from returning to the bosom of society with increased skill for the work of mischief, and embodied by association in the Penitentiary in banditti to execute their schemes—much of the praise is due, for the efforts to produce these results, should be ascribed to Mr. McIntosh, and my son John R. Scott. I have found them able and faithful assistants, every way deserving my confidence and thanks. Mr. Belt has satisfied me entirely, as clerk to the institution. He is an excellent officer and a worthy man. The guard I have found faithful and vigilant; and in conclusion, I ask and invite a visit from your honorable body, by committee and individually, as often and as early in the session, as you may find convenient. All of which, is very respectfully submitted, by

Your obedient servant,

JOEL SCOTT,
Keeper of the Ky. Penitentiary.

Given under my hand, this 10th day of December, 1829.

JAMES SHANNON, J. P.

Ordered, That the said report be referred to the committee on the Penitentiary.

Mr. Edwards presented the petition of the officers and members of Russellville Lodge No. 17, praying that a law may pass authorizing them to sell and convey a house and lot in the town of Russellville.

Which was received, read and referred to a committee of Messrs. Edwards, Hardin and Payne.

Mr. Wingate, from the committee of enrollments, reported that the committee had examined an enrolled bill entitled, "an act authorizing certain advertisements to be inserted in the Kentucky Intelligencer, printed in Flemingsburg;" and had found the same truly enrolled; and that said bill had been signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Whereupon the Speaker of the Senate affixed his signature thereto, and said bill was delivered to the committee to be laid before the Governor for his approbation and signature.

After a short time Mr. Wingate reported, that the committee had performed that duty.

The following bills were reported from the several committees appointed to prepare and bring in the same, to-wit:

By Mr. Hardin from the committee of finance—A bill to regulate attachments in civil cases; and,

By Mr. Faulkner—A bill to prohibit the confinement of slaves, purchased by negro traders, in the jails of this Commonwealth, and for other purposes.

Which bills were each read the first time and ordered to be read a second time.

Mr. Hardin made the following report, viz:

H

The select committee appointed to examine the room occupied by the Senate last session, &c. have had the subject further under consideration, and report.

That they have had an interview with the commissioners appointed to superintend the building of the capitol, and, together with the commissioners, have examined the chamber in the capitol, designed to be occupied by the Senate, and from the opinion of the commissioners, together with that of the workmen, are inclined to believe the same can be prepared, at farthest, by the first day of January next, sufficient for the Senate to occupy, although not entirely complete. The committee deem it unnecessary to submit any resolution, and beg leave to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

Ordered, That the said committee be discharged.

Leave was given to bring in the following bills, viz:

On the motion of Mr. Rudd—1. A bill allowing Washington county one additional constable.

2. A bill for the benefit of the heirs of John Head.

On the motion of Mr. Green—3. A bill for the benefit of Isaac Thomas and William Love; and,

On the motion of Mr. Ray—4. A bill to revise and amend the militia law.

And Messrs. Rudd, Thompson, Brown and Hardin were appointed a committee to prepare and bring in the first; Messrs. Rudd, Owsley and Hardin the second; Messrs. Green, Cunningham and Hughes the third, and Messrs. Ray, M'Connell, Allen and Selby the fourth.

On the motion of Mr. Taylor—

Resolved, That the committee of courts of justice be instructed to inquire into the expediency of so amending the penal laws as to make it larceny to steal slaves out of the possession of persons, other than their owners, and annex the proper punishment to the offence.

On the motion of Mr. Edwards—

Resolved, That the committee for courts of justice be instructed to inquire into the expediency of amending the laws in relation to the jurisdiction and duties of justices of the peace of this Commonwealth.

And thereupon the rule of the Senate, constitutional provision, and second reading of the third bill having been dispensed with, it was committed to a committee of Messrs. Brown, Stephens and Fleming.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision and second and third readings of the first, fifth and sixth bills having been dispensed with, the first being amended,

Resolved, That the said bill do pass and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Mr. Wingate from the committee of enrollments reported, that the committee had examined enrolled bills of the following titles, viz:

An act to enlarge the capital stock of the Louisville and Portland canal company; and,

An act to change the time of holding the Spencer circuit and county courts;

And had found the same truly enrolled: and that the said bills had been signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Whereupon the Speaker of the Senate affixed his signature thereto and they were delivered to the said committee to be laid before the Governor for his approbation and signature.

After a short time Mr. Wingate reported that the committee had performed that duty.

The Speaker laid before the Senate the following report of the Auditor of Public Accounts, viz:

AUDITOR'S OFFICE, KY.

Frankfort, 12th December, 1829.

DEAR SIR:—By a resolution of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, approved 29th January 1829, it was made the duty of the commissioners to be appointed for the purpose of taking in the lists of taxable property for the year 1829, to ascertain the number of children over 4 and under 15 years of age, designating the number at school in their respective counties, for the purpose of enabling the present Legislature to adopt some practical plan in relation to the commencement of a system of general education, and said commissioners were required to make out a fair list of the children as aforesaid, and certify the number to their respective county courts, who should require their clerks to transmit a copy of such certificate to the Auditor of Public Accounts, with the commissioners books, and that the Auditor be required to report the same to this General Assembly, within the first week of its session.

Upon an examination of the commissionsrs' books returned, I find only a few that contain the certificate required; other books contain the list of children only, and others, no account taken whatever.

My report therefore cannot be considered as giving a correct view of the subject, owing to the failure of proper returns not being made.

The following taken from the best information in my possession, is respectfully submitted, which you will please lay before the House over which you preside:

The Speaker laid before the Senate the annual report of the President of the Bank of Kentucky; which report is as follows:

BANK OF KENTUCKY, }
December 11, 1829. }

HON. JOHN BREATHITT:

SIR—In the execution of the trust reposed in me as President of the Bank of Kentucky, and in conformity with the original charter, I have the honor to transmit herewith, a general statement of the condition of the institution on the 10th inst.

The State of Kentucky now holding an interest in this institution superior to that of individuals and corporate bodies collectively, (exclusive of the residuary interest) renders it in my estimation, peculiarly proper, that a more minute detail of the condition of the bank, than has heretofore been annually furnished, should now be submitted for your information.

It will be seen by reference to the report herewith submitted, that the "current profits" since the first day of January last amounts to the sum of $39,816 88, and the current expences for the same period, to the sum of $10,341 43, leaving an excess of clear and nett profits which have accrued on the operations of the institution, since the first day of January last, of $29,475 45, which sum will, on the 31st inst. be carried to the general account of surplus profits.

It cannot be anticipated that the profits of the ensuing year, will equal those of the present, or that the expences of the institution can, to any considerable extent, be lessened; but it is confidently believed, that with proper exertions on the part of the President, Directors and Officers of the Bank, the business will be so far diminished the ensuing year, as to admit a corresponding diminution of expences. It may be proper here to remark, that the President and Directors have pressed the collection of debts due the institution, as far as the law regulating the calls on notes under regular discounts will allow: and for those due on decrees, judgments and replevin bonds, exertions have been, and are still making, to close them, having first, a just and proper regard to the ultimate safety of the debt; and secondly, of not compelling unfortunate individuals to make ruinous sacrifices to meet them.

The institution has, since the first day of January last, cancelled by payment, notes under the seal of the corporation, bearing interest and given for the redemption of notes payable to bearer, $36,131 41, in silver; and the President and Directors have cancelled and burnt in the presence of the Auditor and Treasurer, notes payable to bearer, the sum of $2,964, leaving in circulation $38,065 24, for the redemption of which they are now paying silver on presentation.

I have great pleasure in reporting, that we have discharged by payment, the debt due to the Treasurer of the United States, amounting to $27,363 12 in silver—and that the aggregate amount of payments made in silver since the first day of January last, is $63,494 53.

The real estate which belonged to the institution, and sold within the current year, notwithstanding the great depression in value, amounts to $67,394 67, nearly the whole of which sum was made payable in gold or silver, or notes of the corporation, while that acquired by sales under execution, decrees in chancery, or compromise, is very small in amount, though not yet precisely ascertained.

The loss sustained on the sales of real estate, made since the first day of January last, is as nearly as can be estimated, $22,502 65, which sum has been carried to the debit of "surplus profits."

It is highly gratifying to be able to state, that notwithstanding the amount of real estate disposed of this year, such has been the effect of the policy pursued by the board of directors, in relation to this important branch of our interest, in causing the property to be put in good repair, and the securing and collecting of rents, the profits to the institution derived from that source, are more than equal to that of either of the two preceding years.

The stock now held in this institution, by the Commonwealth and individuals conjointly, is 11,755 shares, of which the State of Kentucky owns 5,967 shares, amounting nominally, to the sum of $238,680; and individuals own 5,788 shares, amounting to $231,248.

It will be seen by reference to the report, that there is now in the hands of the Cashier, in silver, and notes of solvent specie paying banks $10,153 95, which fund is daily increasing, and will, in all probability, enable the President and Directors, at no distant period, to make a distribution of silver to the State and individual stockholders, without endangering the ability of the Bank to redeem its notes in silver, when presented—but by an act of the General Assembly, approved the fifth December, 1822, the President and Directors are restricted from making "a division of the specie funds until the notes shall be redeemed." This event will never happen, as all must admit, the loss and destruction of the notes of the Bank by various casualties, incident to the wide extent of their circulation, to be more or less; and I hazard little in saying, that the gain to the institution from that source, will fall little if any, short of $20,000. This opinion is corroborated from the consideration, that great efforts have been made during the present year to ascertain the individuals in whose possession the notes of the institution if any were to be found, with a view to their redemption, has resulted in the collection of $2,913 50 only, which were redeemed accordingly.

It is, therefore, respectfully submitted to the consideration of the Legislature, whether the restriction alluded to, be longer necessary or expedient.

It is further respectfully submitted, with a view to facilitate the final closing of the concerns of this Bank, whether any, and if any, what course should be adopted to induce the holders of the notes of the Bank to present them for payment.

I have the honor to be, most respectfully,
P. DUDLEY, President.

Hon. J. J. CRITTENDEN, Speaker House Rep.

H. BLANTON, Clerk.

Ordered, That the said report be referred to the committee of finance.

And then the Senate adjourned.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1829.

The Senate assembled.

A message was received from the House of Representatives announcing the passage of bills which originated in that House, of the following titles, viz:

An act making further provision for the sale of the lands and slaves of infants.

An act to authorize the trustees of the Rittenhouse academy to transfer and convey the property, both real and personal, belonging to said academy, to the trustees of the Kentucky Baptist Education Society, located at Georgetown.

An act to divorce Mary Drysdale from her husband, Reuben Drysdale.

An act to authorize the several county courts in this Commonwealth, to extend the districts of town constables beyond the town boundaries; and,

An act for the benefit of Mary Pedigo.

And the disagreement by that House to bills which originated in the Senate of the following titles, viz:

An act allowing additional constables to certain counties; and,

An act for the benefit of Jesse Corum;

And that they had concurred in amendments proposed by the Senate to a bill from that House, entitled, "an act to establish an election precinct in Green county."

And that they had received official information that the Governor had approved and signed an enrolled bill which originated in that House, entitled, "an act to enlarge the capital stock of the Louisville and Portland canal company."

Mr. Hardin, from the committee of finance, made the following report, viz:

The committee of finance, to whom was referred a resolution for the purpose of inquiring into the expediency of dispensing with the printing and binding of the private and local acts of the Assembly, have had the said resolution under consideration and respectfully report:

That in the opinion of the committee, the right of much property, particularly that of many tracts of land in the southern part of the State, depends upon those acts; that if those acts were not to be promulgated with the general laws, those whose rights depend upon them, many of whom are poor people, residing at a distance from the seat of Government, would be at the trouble and expense of procuring a copy of the particular act upon which his interest depended; and that in case the Secretary's office should be unfortunately consumed by fire, there would remain no evidence of the passage of said acts, except where office copies had been taken out; that as the printing, binding and carrying of the general acts have to be done, the evil consequences arising from the exclusion of those acts, would much overbalance the small saving in the expence, which would be effected by excluding those acts from the annual volume: Wherefore, your committee submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is not expedient to dispense with the printing and binding of the private and local acts of Assembly.

Which was twice read and concurred in.

The following bills were reported, viz:

By Mr. Hardin from the committee of finance—1. A bill to reduce the number of directors in the Bank of the Commonwealth, and for other purposes.

By Mr. M'Millan, from the committee of propositions and grievances—2. A bill to add part of Ohio to Daviess county; and, 3. A bill for the benefit of Anner Taylor.

By Mr. M'Millan, from the committee appointed for that purpose—4. A bill to authorize the insertion of advertisements in "the Winchester Republican," printed in Winchester; and,

By Mr. Faulkner, from the committee appointed for that purpose—5. A bill to allow an additional justice of the peace and constables for Garrard county.

Which were severally read the first time and ordered to be read a second time.

Whereupon the rule of the Senate, constitutional provision and second and third readings of the third and fifth bills having been dispensed with and the same being engrossed,

Resolved, That the said bills do pass and that the titles thereof be as aforesaid.

Leave was given to bring in the following bills, viz:

On the motion of Mr. Cunningham—1. A bill for the improvement of the navigation of Rough creek and Pond river.

On the motion of Mr. Rudd—2. A bill altering the time of holding the circuit court of Washington.

On the motion of Mr. Payne—3. A bill to incorporate the trustees of the Union Meeting House in Warren county.

On the motion of Mr. Campbell—4. A bill to establish a warehouse at the mouth of Jonathan's creek in Calloway county; and,

On the motion of Mr. Ray—5. A bill to amend the forfeiture law in relation to occupant claimants of land, so as to give actual settlers the benefit of all the forfeiture laws, to the extent and boundary of their patents, founded upon warrants issued previous to the first day of December, eighteen hundred and twenty-nine.

Messrs. Cunningham, Green, Townsend and Summers were appointed a committee to prepare and bring in the first; Messrs. Rodd, Ray and Hardin the second; Messrs. Payne, Townsend and Maupin the third; Messrs. Campbell, Summers and Payne the fourth; and Messrs. Ray, Edwards and Hardin the fifth.

On the motion of Mr. Rodman—

Resolved, That the committee on Internal Improvement, be instructed to inquire into the expediency of constructing a road from Frankfort to Milton, on the Ohio river, by way of Newcastle in Henry county.

Mr. Harris moved the following resolution, viz:

Whereas it is a subject of great importance to the State of Kentucky, to have a free intercourse with her sister States; and whereas the State of Virginia has opened and contracted to be opened, a great highway, from Richmond, the seat of government of said State, to the line between that and this State, which road reaches the boundary of this State at the mouth of Big Sandy river; which road, if met by a corresponding one from the seat of government in this State, would afford great facilities to the citizens thereof, in their intercourse with the seat of the general government, and many eastern cities, and in the transportation of the mail from Washington City to the western country, Therefore,

Be it resolved by the Senate, That the committee on Internal Improvement be instructed to inquire into the expediency and propriety of appointing engineers to survey and mark the most practicable route from the mouth of Big Sandy, by way of Lexington, to Frankfort, and devise the most practicable plan of opening the same, and report to this House by bill or otherwise.

Which being twice read,

On the motion of Mr. Fleming, the said resolution was amended by striking out the words "by way of Lexington."

The said resolution was then adopted.

On the motion of Mr. Faulkner, the message received from the Governor on yesterday, was taken up and read as follows, viz:
Gentlemen of the Senate:

I nominate for your advice and consent, George Robertson, as Chief Justice of this Commonwealth.

In making this nomination, I will add the remark, that I once entertained a strong hope, that by the time of the meeting of this Legislature, intelligent public sentiment would have concentrated upon some one individual, of undoubted qualifications, for this office; and that that sentiment would have manifested itself through the immediate representatives of the people, so as, in some degree, to aid the constituted authorities in making a proper and satisfactory selection.

But in this expectation I have been sadly disappointed. I see nothing before me; I hear of nothing around me, but division and subdivision, in relation to this matter.

So very ample are the materials happily abounding in our State, that our perplexity arises in the difficulty of making a selection from among the numerous personal, political and sectional favorites of their respective advocates. And thus it is, that walking in the blaze of light, we seem to have lost sight of our beacon.

In this dilemma, it is nevertheless my duty to act; and this I will do, with becoming independence, and with the more confidence, as I am fully aware of the sound discretion of the Senate; and of the entire disposition of that body to approve or disapprove of all nominations, with a single eye to the country's good.

The unsuccessful attempt heretofore made to restore the old Judges, having reduced me to the necessity of presenting to your consideration, for the office of Chief Justice, a lawyer of no experience on that bench, or the senior Judge, I have no hesitation in embracing the latter alternative; especially, as the reason signified for the rejection of that officer at the last session, was the union of his nomination with that of another to fill his vacancy, which is now withheld, my continued conviction of the fairness and frankness of that course, and the fact, that the father of his country, when acting as President of the United States, had set the example, notwithstanding. With this explanation of my views, the matter is submitted to the Senate, with due deference and with a determination on my part, cheerfully to acquiesce in its decision.

THOMAS METCALFE.

December 14, 1829.

On the motion of Mr. Hardin, the said nomination was laid on the table until to-morrow.

Mr. Hardin moved the following resolution, viz:

Resolved by the Senate, That the Governor be respectfully requested to transmit to the Senate all letters, recommendations, and papers, now on file in the Secretary's office, or in his possession, of and concerning the nomination of George Robertson as Chief Justice of Kentucky: Provided, the Governor may withhold any communication which he may consider confidential, or improper to be communicated.

Which was twice read, and on the motion of Mr. M'Connell, laid on the table till to-morrow.

Mr. Brown, from the committee to whom was referred, a bill from the House of Representatives, entitled, "an act to allow the Independent Banks in this Commonwealth further time to settle their concerns," reported the same with an amendment;

Which was twice read and concurred in.

Ordered, That the said bill, as amended, be read a third time.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision and third reading of the said bill having been dispensed with,

Resolved, That the said bill, as amended, do pass and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Mr. Wingate from the joint committee of enrollments reported, that the committee had examined enrolled bills of the following titles, viz:

An act to amend an act entitled, "an act appropriating fines and forfeitures for the purposes of promoting education."

An act to incorporate the Lewis Pottery Company for the purpose of manufacturing Queensware and China at Louisville.

An act for the benefit of Ann Angel, relict of William Angel deceased.

An act to provide for the appointment of trustees to the Lancaster seminary.

An act to authorize the Lexington White Lead Manufacturing Company to close and dispose of said establishment.

An act to authorize the sale of certain ground in the town of Russellville; and,

A joint resolution relative to the public printer;

And had found the same truly enrolled: and that the said bills and resolution had been signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Whereupon the Speaker of the Senate affixed his signature thereto and they were delivered to the committee to be laid before the Governor for his approbation and signature.

After a short time, Mr. Wingate reported that the committee had performed that duty.

A bill to compel litigants to give security for costs in certain cases,

Was read the second time and amended.

Ordered, That the public printer print one hundred and fifty copies of said bill for the use of the General Assembly.

An engrossed bill entitled, an act to regulate attachments in civil cases.

Was read the third time and committed to a committee of Messrs. M'Connell, Hardin, Thompson and Thornton.

Mr. Harris was added to the committee on Internal Improvement and Domestic Manufactures.

A bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act to continue in force "an act for the benefit of the headright and Tellico settlers;" was read the third time.

Resolved, That said bill do pass and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

A bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act for the benefit of Edward M. Holden,"

Was read a second time and ordered to be read a third time.

A bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act to take the sense of the people as to the propriety of calling a convention," was read the first time as follows, viz:

Whereas it is represented that many of the good people of this Commonwealth are desirous of having an opportunity of voting, in regard to the necessity and expediency of calling a convention, to consider of amending the constitution of this State: Therefore,

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That it shall be the duty of the sheriffs and judges, at the several places appointed to hold the annual elections in the year 1830, to open columns in their several poll books, for qualified voters to vote for a convention; and it shall be the duty of the several sheriffs aforesaid, to make a true and faithful return to the Secretary of State, within thirty days after the close of the polls, of all the votes which may have been given within their respective counties, for a convention, to be by said Secretary, laid before the General Assembly at their next annual session, within the first week thereof.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That any sheriff failing to transmit by mail, his official statement of the votes given as above provided, shall be subject to a fine of six hundred dollars, to be recovered by action of debt, by any person suing for the same, in any court having competent jurisdiction thereof, and shall also be subject, upon conviction of such failure, to removal from office.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the several sheriffs, to read or cause to be read, this act, at their several places of voting in their respective counties, at the opening of the polls on each day of the next annual election; and in case of failure so to do, the said officer shall be subject to the same penalties which are above prescribed for his failing to transmit his official statements.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That the public printer shall, upon a separate leaf or sheet, print twelve hundred copies of this act, and furnish them to the Secretary of State, who shall send to each county, at the time of forwarding the acts of Assembly, &c. forward to the clerks office of the county court of each county in this State, ten of these copies; and the Secretary shall take a receipt of the carriers thereof, who shall take the receipts of the respective clerks to whom he may deliver them; and the respective clerks of county courts shall deliver the same to the high sheriff of his county and take his receipt for the same, a copy of which shall be by such sheriff, delivered to each of his deputies, to be by them read at their several precincts as required by this act.

And the question being taken on reading the said bill a second time, it was decided in the negative, and so the said bill was disagreed to.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Hardin and Faulkner, were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrett, Campbell, Edwards, Fulton, Gibson, Green, Griffin, Harris, Hughes, Maupin, M'Connell, Payne, Ray, Rodman, Stephens, Townsend and Wood—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Brown, Cunningham, Faulkner, Fleming, George, Hardin, M'Millan, Miller, Owsley, Rudd, Selby, Summers, Taylor, Thompson, Thornton, White, Wickliffe, Williams and Wingate—19.

And then the Senate adjourned.

Mr. Hardin moved to amend the said section by adding thereto the following proviso, viz:

security for costs, if it shall appear to the court that they are unable to give such security; And provided further, Such lessor, demandant or complainant shall be a citizen of this State.

A message in writing was received from the Governor, by Mr. Crittenden, Secretary of State.

The Speaker laid before the Senate a letter from R. H. Chinn, enclosing a report and petition of the trustees of Transylvania University, which are as follows, viz:

Frankfort, December 17, 1829.

DEAR SIR—I am charged with the annexed report and petition of the trustees of Transylvania University.

They desire that you will lay the same before the body over which you preside.

Very respectfully,

R. H. CHINN.

At a meeting of the trustees of Transylvania University, December 11, 1829, a petition to the Legislature was presented and unanimously adopted as follows:

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The trustees of Transylvania University, mindful of the duty which they owe to the institution over whose destiny they have been called to preside, and aware of the deep interest which the people of Kentucky feel in the prosperity of every thing calculated to advance the cause of learning, and to perpetuate our republican institutions—sensibly impressed that the members of the General Assembly participate in those feelings—and remembering that they constitute a body, whose peculiar province it is, to watch over, guard and protect this institution; beg leave to report its present condition and prospects, and most respectfully to suggest some of its wants.

Since the session of the last General Assembly, it has pleased Divine Providence to visit Transylvania with a calamity of a most serious kind.

The destruction of the principal building by fire on the night of the 9th day of May last, was to the friends of the institution, a deplorable event. Not only the destruction of a tasty and spacious edifice, that had cost the State upwards of thirty thousand dollars, but the whole of the law library, containing about 600 volumes and a part of the academical library, together with the furniture and clothing, &c. of the students, were enveloped in the devouring flames.

The philosophical apparatus suffered much damage in the hurried efforts to remove it to a place of safety; but little, however, was entirely lost. That, together with the principal part of the academical library, was saved by extraordinary and hazardous exertions made by the citizens of Lexington, who, in common with the good citizens of this Commonwealth, feel the liveliest interest in the perpetuation and prosperity of this valuable institution.

By the liberality of the trustees of the town of Lexington, manifested as well in this, as on former occasions, under the approbation, no doubt, of their constituents, the trustees of the University were enabled, some years since, to effect insurances upon the building, to the extent of $10,000. These insurances were, through the munificence of the same body, happily continued to the period of the destruction of the edifice; and the trustees have the gratification of saying, they have received the money, and have temporarily vested it upon loan with ample security, rendering an interest to the institution of six per cent.

The calamity arose at a period inauspicious for the work of rebuilding, and the funds were regarded as insufficient. Hopes were entertained, that during the present fall or winter, the estate of the late Col. Morrison, would be so far settled as to enable the trustees to ascertain whether any thing would arise out of the residuary bequest contained in his will; and if any thing, that they might be enabled to realize the same, in time for commencing the work early next spring. This fund, (if sufficient) it will be recollected, is, by the will, directed to be expended in the erection of a college edifice in the town of Lexington. These considerations induced the trustees to effect the loan of her funds, which they trust will meet the approbation and concurrence of your honorable body.

It was also hoped, that an appeal would not be made, in vain, to the liberal and enlightened members of your body, for aid in rebuilding the edifice, and enabling the trustees to appropriate the $10,000 saved by the munificence of the town, in repairing the philosophical apparatus and supplying lost books, purchasing additional ones, or in the endowment of a professorship. Whilst we are in the rear of our sister and junior States, in the works of art, or in those public works which adorn a country and enrich a people, we trust the day will never arise when we shall be compelled to acknowledge an inferiority in all those public works which adorn and ennoble man. Virtue in our people, and wisdom in our councils, have been the boast of Kentucky. These are to be preserved and perpetuated by fostering institutions of learning, and promoting the cause of science. By these means also, are our happy and free political institutions to be forever perpetuated.

Until there shall be a termination of some suits against the estate of the late Col. Morrison, particularly one in which a large amount is claimed, it will be impossible for the trustees to anticipate the expected fund, without the aid of the Legislature.

Although the destruction of the principal building was, for a moment, appalling to the friends of the institution, the trustees are happy to inform the Legislature, that the course of instruction was not, for a single day, impeded. Other buildings were immediately occupied, and although at considerable inconvenience to the pupils, yet the increased energies and exertions of the officers, went far towards compensation.

There are now connected with the institution, 80 pupils in the college proper, 56 in the preparatory department, and 200 in the medical department, besides those attached to the law school.

Under all the vicissitudes attending institutions of learning, none, it is believed at this time, have higher claims to public confidence than Transylvania. All the departments are filled with instructors, whose fame, attainments and devotion to learning, may safely challenge competition.

The medical department did not suffer by the conflagration. A separate building, which had been constructed for the purpose, by the citizens of the town of Lexington, contained every thing peculiarly dear to her. Her march is, emphatically, upwards and onwards: drawing annually upon our sister and elder States for a large amount of money that would otherwise be expended beyond the mountains; imparting Kentucky's habits, feelings and endearments to a large, respectable and talented number of individuals, and sending them forth learned, enlightened and adorned, who will, in turn, reflect honor upon their alma mater.

Since the last session of the Legislature, the professorship of law has been conferred upon the Hon. John Boyle, who has accepted the appointment, and who is now organizing the department, and commencing a course of instruction. It would be an act of supererogation, to speak of the prospects of this department, after having announced the name of the professor.

It will appear from past reports, (to which we beg leave, generally, to refer your honorable body) that college proper, is now mainly sustained by subscriptions of individuals in the town of Lexington and county of Fayette. This resource is limited, by the terms of the subscription, to two years after the present, nor can we hope for its continuance beyond that period. Unparalleled exertions have been made by the citizens, and by the town in its corporate character, to advance its interests and ensure its prosperity and usefulness; in large subscriptions to procure the emigration and services of medical professors of eminence, during the infancy of that department; in constructing an expensive edifice for its accommodation; in advancing a large sum towards the procurement of a library and anatomical museum; in a subscription of $3,500 annually, for four years, with the privilege of tuition to its extent; in the insurance of the principal building against fire; in liberal donations of books; and last, though not least, the endowment of a professorship by a single individual; and the donation of the residuum of his estate, which may amount to a sum beyond $50,000.

It is the present policy of the institution, to render instruction as cheap, as universal, and as profitable as possible. To these ends, simplicity and cheapness of dress is enjoined. Almost all subjects of human learning are taught, and the president and professors make their lecture rooms their offices, where they are, at all times, accessible to each other and to the students.

Such are its present condition and prospects.

Its wants can be enumerated in a few words. The leading one is suitable buildings.

An accession to the library, and a small addition to the philosophical apparatus, are most devoutly to be wished for.

For the first, hereafter, an ample fund may be realized; for the present, aid in anticipating it, may save the institution from ruin, and preserve that fund which may otherwise become a lapsed legacy.

For the two latter, we must rely upon God and our country; to the one, we offer our supplications; and to the enlightened and liberal representatives of the other, this, our petition for the perpetuation of the blessings of this institution, to our common country.

Resolved, That Messrs. Chinn, Hickey, Hall and Breckinridge, be appointed a committee to present the foregoing report to the Legislature of Kentucky, now in session.

A true extract from the records of T. U.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1829.

The Senate assembled.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, announcing that they had received official information that the Governor, on the 16th instant, approved and signed enrolled bills which originated in that House of the following titles, viz:

An act for the benefit of Temple and Sally West.

An act to establish an election precinct in Green county; and,
An act for the regulation of the town of Cadiz.

2. Mr. Williams presented the petition of sundry citizens of Montgomery county, praying that the laws concerning the public roads may be amended.

3. Mr. Green presented the petition of sundry citizens of the counties of Breckenridge and Ohio, praying that a law may pass adding a part of said counties to the county of Hancock.

4. And also a petition counter thereto.

Which petitions were severally received, read and referred; the first to the committee of courts of justice; the second to the committee of Internal Improvements; the third and fourth to the committee of propositions and grievances.

Mr. Hughes presented the annual report of the managers of the Louisville Hospital, which was received and read as follows, viz:

To the honorable the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, assembled.

The period has again returned, when it becomes the duty of the managers of the Louisville Hospital to present to your minds, the true state of this institution.

In conformity with the provisions of the act establishing the Hospital, there have been received within the last year, one hundred and forty-four sick and disabled boatmen and mariners, as the statement of the Stewart and resident Physician marked A, which is hereunto annexed, will more minutely explain. Of this number, one hundred and eleven have been discharged as cured, twenty-two have died, and eleven remain in. During this period, the receipts of the Hospital fund from auction sales, were $3,604 23 1-2, and the expenditures for the support of the sick $3,704 94.

Your honorable body will perceive that its disbursements have necessarily greatly increased, in the ratio of the number of the invalids received into the Hospital; and while this continues to be the case, calls for greater exertion to meet the growing demands arising from the sufferings of that active but useful portion of our fellow beings, who are necessarily exposed, by their occupation, to the vicissitudes of heat and cold, and the pestilential atmosphere of a southern climate. Further protection is required—more money is wanted—additional apartments in the Hospital must be fitted up for their accommodation. For let the Legislature bare in mind, one half of the centre building still remains unfinished; a good supply of medicines are much required; surgical instruments wanted; and the Hospital grounds are not protected by a good and sufficient enclosure; all these things it is utterly out of the power of the managers to do, without using the funds left in their hands for other and more legitimate purposes. Your managers feel it a sense of duty to set these matters before you in their true light, that you might be better able to apply the proper remedy. Five thousand dollars will happily relieve all the wants arising from these sources, and place this institution upon a permanent basis. And while we feel it an imperious duty to make this statement, we would not withhold the expression of that satisfaction we have felt, in common with our fellow-citizens, in the great and lasting benefits which have already been realized by those who have left this asylum and are once more restored to the blessings of health and restored to the bosom of their families and friends.

Your managers feel it their duty also, to say that as far as they are capable of judging, the attending Physicians and Surgeons have discharged their arduous duties with great success, skill and perseverance. While the patient, kind and attentive duties of the resident Physician and Stewart, demand and receive their proper acknowledgments.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the Louisville Hospital, on the 12th December, 1829, the above report was made, which was concurred in by the board and ordered to be certified to the honorable the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

A true copy from the minutes.

(Signed,)

WM. S. VERNON, Secretary.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That in any suit brought for an infant, by his or her next friend, it shall be lawful for the defendant to state by affidavit, that he believes such next friend is insolvent; and upon such affidavit being filed, the court shall enter up a rule on such next friend, to show cause why he shall not give security for the cost, and upon his failing to satisfy the court of his solvency and failing to give security for cost, said suit shall be dismissed.

Gentlemen of the Senate:

I nominate for your advice and consent, Richard A. Buckner, Esq. as Judge of the Court of Appeals of this Commonwealth, to fill the existing vacancy in that court.

In making this nomination, I have only to assure you, that among the several gentlemen, whose names have been mentioned for that office, each of them, in such high and flattering terms, by a limited circle of acquaintances and friends, and who stand second to no men in my estimation, for their moral worth, no one seems to me, to combine in an equal degree, the confidence of all; no doubt, because his character and legal attainments are of most general notoriety. But with this admission, I still consider it my duty to offer Mr. Buckner for your consideration. My own conviction of the propriety of this step, arising from a long and intimate knowledge of his character, has gained no considerable strength from the fact, that I have not, in a single instance, heard either his integrity or legal attainments brought into question; although his name has stood conspicuous before the public for nearly one year.

In making this nomination, I have respectfully to inform the Senate, that the county court of Monroe, did, at their last November term, recommend Edward Maxey and Jonathan Newman, as fit and proper persons, one of whom to be commissioned as successor of the present sheriff. But in making this recommendation the court, as I conceive, omitted to pay a "just regard to seniority in office and a regular rotation," and consequently, the duty of appointing to that office, devolves upon the Executive and Senate.

It appears from the files of this office, that Abraham Enyert is the senior justice of Monroe county, and he is returned as such, on the list furnished by the clerk of said county court, of all the justices of the peace of that county, bearing date the 9th of June, 1828. It furthermore appears that the said Enyert has acted as a justice of the peace for said county, and that his acts have been received and himself recognized as such, by the said court, even up to the date of their order of recommendation before mentioned. But yet the court omitted to name Mr. Enyert, in their recommendation, on the ground that he was not a justice of the peace of that county. And this they infer from the following acts of the Legislature, to which I refer the Senate.

First: "An act to establish the county of Monroe," approved January the 19th, 1820. In pursuance to the provisions of this act, James M'Millan was appointed to run the line between the counties of Cumberland and Monroe, and did run it, so as to leave Mr. Enyert in the latter county, in and for which he was commissioned a justice of the peace on the 18th day of September, 1820.

By an act approved the 11th day of December, 1822, evidently predicated upon the presumption that M'Millan's line had not been correctly run, Caleb H. Ricketts of Adair county, was appointed to run and mark the said line, which he proceeded to do, leaving said Enyert in the county of Cumberland.

And on the 11th day of January, 1825, an act was passed establishing the first, or M'Millan's line, as the permanent boundary between the two counties, thereby fixing the residence of Mr. Enyert in the county of Monroe.

This is a case, it must be confessed, which presents to the mind considerable difficulty. And the Executive would have been more at a loss to decide upon the legality of the proceedings of the court, but for their recognition of Mr. Enyert as a justice of the peace, their omission to name him in their recommendation for sheriff, forming the only exception to such recognition, with which the Executive has been made acquainted. It is believed that a decision in this case, conformable to the proceedings of the court heretofore, in receiving the official acts of Mr. Enyert as such, and thereby acknowledging him to be a justice of the peace of Monroe county, will have a tendency to prevent unpleasant controversies hereafter. For if the ground now assumed by the court be correct, all the acts of Mr. Enyert, whether as a member of that court or singly, must be void; and he deprived of that compensation for his services, which the constitution contemplated. On the other hand, a postponement for two years, of the office of sheriff, for the other justices respectively, will be the only effect to be produced by a decision favorable to Mr. Enyert.

THOMAS METCALFE.

The Senate, according to the standing order of the day, resolved itself into a committee of the whole house on the State of the Commonwealth, Mr. Allen in the chair; after some time spent in committee, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Allen reported that the committee had, according to order, had under consideration "a bill to amend the law in relation to opening and repairing the public roads," and had gone through the same, and made sundry amendments thereto, which he handed in at the clerk's table.

The said bill is as follows, viz:

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That at each annual election for members of the House of Representatives, it shall be the duty of the several sheriffs, judges and clerks, of said elections, to cause to be opened a poll at each place of voting, for three road commissioners of that county, and the three persons who shall, upon a comparison of the polls, have the highest number of votes for road commissioners, shall receive from the high sheriff of the county, or in case of his absence from the county, or other cause, preventing him from giving it, then from one of his deputies, a certificate of his election of the following import; "———county, sec. 1, A. B. high sheriff of said county, do hereby certify, that at an election of the qualified voters of said county, holden in August, in the year ——agreeably to law, C. D. E. F. and G. H. of said county, were duly elected road commissioners for one year, and until a successor be duly elected and qualified." And if the certificate be given by the deputy, he shall vary it to suit the case.

The sheriff giving the certificate, shall preserve a duplicate of said certificate, which he shall produce in open court, at the next term of his county court, and said court shall cause the production thereof to be noted on a book to be kept for that purpose by their clerk, and the certificate shall be filed with the clerk for safe keeping, and a copy thereof properly certified by said clerk, together with a copy of the notice taken thereof on the record, shall be competent evidence in all cases in which the same may become material.

Sec. 2. The said commissioners so elected, shall, at the next county court after their election, in open court, respectively take the following oath or affirmation, to-wit: "I, A. B. do solemnly swear (or affirm as the case may be) that I will fairly and impartially, to the best of my skill and abilities, perform the duties of road commissioner during my continuance as such, according to law," which oath shall also be noticed on the book of the said court, kept for that purpose, and said commissioners shall, at the same term of the court, enter into bond with good and sufficient security, to be approved of by said court, in at least — dollars, payable to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, conditioned for the faithful performance of his or their duties as commissioner or commissioners, and on which bond any person considering himself aggrieved, may sue, and one recovery shall be no bar to another suit or suits; and no commissioner shall act as such until he shall have taken the oath and executed the bond as aforesaid.

Sec. 3. The said commissioners, or a majority of them, shall proceed to lay off the several roads in their respective counties, into as many precincts as they shall see proper, and appoint an overseer over each precinct, whose duty it shall be, to cause said roads respectively to be improved and kept in repair agreeably to law, and the direction of the commissioners if they shall choose to direct the same; and the said commissioners, all being present, may compound with any individual liable to work on public roads, for certain improvements and repairs to be made on one or more parts of any road, and to be kept up by such individual in lieu of such, his liability for any number of years that may be agreed upon, and such contract shall be reduced to writing and filed with the clerk of the county court for safe-keeping; and in case the obligor in said contract shall own land upon which he resides in said county, and shall transfer the same, then the said contract shall pass with the land, and the transferee shall be entitled to all its benefits, and liable to all its obligations, and a lien shall at all times exist upon said lands for the performance of said contract, and proceedings may be had thereon in the circuit court of the county, either by suit or by motion, ten days previous notice having been given, and the circuit court may, upon rendering judgment against the defendant for a breach of said bond, enter an order vacating and setting aside the said contract, as to all time to come, if good cause be shewn, or with the consent of both parties thereto, in case the court shall be satisfied that the public interest will be promoted thereby, and no jury shall be necessary in the trial of any proceeding on such contract unless one of the parties thereto shall require it.

Sec. 4. The said commissioners shall be considered a body corporate, and by the name of "the Road Commissioners" of that county for which they were elected, may sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, defend and be defended, answer and be answered, and by the name and style aforesaid, may contract and be contracted with, in relation to any of the objects direct or incidental, for which they were elected, and they and their successors, shall be considered in law as a body existing in perpetuity, and they may receive, by gift, subscription, devise or contract, any estate, real or personal, choses in action, securities or other thing for the use and benefit of the public roads of such county, and shall in all cases where the purposes or intent of the donation, subscription, devise or contract is specifically set forth or manifested, appropriate the thing thereby received according to such specific direction or intent: Provided, however, that any person injured, may, and shall, for the malfeasance, trespasses, or conduct incompatible with the powers granted by this act of incorporation on the part of any one or more of said commissioners, have the right to sue such commissioner or commissioners, and his or their security or securities in their individual right, and in that character shall they be alone liable for the said wrongs herein before last enumerated.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That when any thing is subscribed in aid of improving or repairing any public road, or building a bridge, the same shall be paid agreeably to the terms of the subscription, and on failure, the commissioners shall have the right in law, to recover the thing so subscribed, or the value thereof by the appropriate action, and the improvement, addition, or repair contemplated, shall be deemed in law, a valid consideration for the subscription.

Sec. 6. Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county courts of the respective counties in this State, within ten days after the return to them of the books of the commissioners of the revenue, to make out for the road commissioners, a complete copy thereof, and furnish the same on request—and it shall be the duty of the road commissioners, forthwith to furnish each of the overseers by them appointed, with a transcript of so much of said commissioner's book as will embrace all the persons and property within the bounds of his precinct, shewing in an appropriate column, the amount of revenue to be paid by each individual within his bounds, at a rate to be fixed by said commissioners, not exceeding six and a fourth cents on the one hundred dollars, and add to that revenue, a poll tax upon each white male inhabitant within their county, not over ——— nor under ——— years of age; and upon each male amongst the free negroes and mulattoes within the same ages, within their county, not exceeding one dollar, nor under fifty cents; and each overseer shall, from time to time, as occasion shall make it necessary, call upon the individuals so within his precinct to work upon the particular road of which he is overseer, until each person liable to a revenue or poll tax as aforesaid, shall have worked upon the public road, a length of time equal to one day for every fifty cents to which such tax shall amount; and this estimate shall determine the quantity of work due upon the road by each person liable to the same: Provided, however, that the county court of the county may, for good cause shown, exempt any person whatever from the whole or any part of the labor which would be due by the aforesaid estimation, but such exemption shall only operate during the time to be limited by such court, and shall not be retrospective in its effects: And provided further, That the labor to be performed, may, at all times, be done with one or more able bodied industrious substitutes, and it shall be the duty of the overseers to dock any individual at the rate of ten cents per hour for every hour he shall, when attending to work on the public road, wilfully idle away, or to dock him for laziness and neglect of duty, or disobeying legal and reasonable commands or instructions in relation to the work, but any person docked shall be informed of it on the same day of his delinquency, and of the extent of the sum for which he is so docked, and the commissioners shall have power to strike out or continue against the individual, the sum or sums for which he was so docked, as they may think justice and the public good requires.

Sec. 7. Be it further enacted, That on the first Monday in December in each year, the overseers of roads shall deposit with the clerks of their respective county courts, for the road commissioners, a list of all the delinquents for the preceding year, and the said commissioners shall, on or before the first Monday in January in each year, make out a connected list of said delinquents, and furnish the high sheriff of the county, or one of his acting deputies therewith, whose duty it shall be to receive and receipt to said commissioners for the same, and it shall be the duty of the respective sheriffs, to collect the amount of said delinquent list from the respective persons named therein, in the same manner and within the same time that by law they are now required to collect the county levy, and account for, and pay over the same to the said commissioners, on or before the first day of October in each and every year, and return a list of delinquents to the county commissioners, who shall examine the same, and allow such as they are satisfied could not have been collected by reasonable diligence on the part of the sheriff, and charge the sheriff with the residue; and on failure of the sheriff to receive the lists when so tendered, or to collect or pay over the same, he and his securities shall be liable to said commissioners for the amount of said list, with fifteen per centum damages thereon, to be recovered by motion in the county or circuit court of that county, ten days previous notice having been given, or by suit on the bond as the commissioners may elect; and the sheriff shall be allowed seven per cent. for collecting, on the monies actually collected by him.

Sec. 8. Be it further enacted, That the commissioners shall, when they place the list of delinquents returned by the overseers, in the hands of the sheriffs again for collection, also place so many of the delinquents returned by the sheriff as are not hopelessly lost, and take his receipt therefor, with the others which the sheriff shall collect, if possible; and the sheriff shall return no person a delinquent, unless he has actually demanded of him the amount, and levied on his property, if any he had or has, in his county at the time of offering to make such return: Provided, however, That any individual who has been returned a delinquent, the first time, may at any time when his overseer shall be engaged with the other hands, go upon the road with the necessary tools, and discharge the amount for which he was so returned delinquent, by labor on the road, and upon doing so faithfully and honestly, the overseer shall give him a certificate to that effect, which, when presented to the road commissioners, they shall receive, and give to such person a full discharge for the amount, which receipt or discharge shall be respected by the sheriff.

Sec. 9. Before the road commissioners deliver to the sheriff the list of delinquents in each year, they shall present to the county court, a statement of the amount of the whole of such delinquencies, which the court shall cause to be spread upon their records, and when the sheriff shall have settled with said commissioners, he shall report to the court the whole amount of money paid over to the commissioners, and the amount of his delinquent list allowed, which shall also be spread upon the record, all of which shall be evidence against the sheriff or commissioners, and said commissioners shall keep a true account of all monies by them expended, and for what particular improvement or repair, and to whom paid, and shall present in open county court at their April or May term in each year, a full and fair copy of said account of expenditures which shall be evidence against said commissioners and prima facie evidence for them, subject, however, to be rejected when relied upon by the commissioners, by extraneous evidence.

Sec. 10. Upon the election and qualification of new commissioners, the former ones shall deliver over to them, all books, papers and records, and all tools and implements which belong to the public, or which were purchased with the monies of the public, and all other things pertaining to them, as road commissioners, and take an inventory or schedule of the same, which they shall also file with the clerk of the county court after the same shall have been signed, as well by the old as the new commissioners.

Sec. 11. The road commissioners shall, whenever the funds in their hands will justify it, procure any necessary tools or implements for improving or repairing the roads of their county, and hold the overseers who may receive them for use, to a strict accountability for their preservation and return, and to that end shall take a receipt for all tools so furnished. Said commissioners shall keep a book noticing all their appointments of overseers, and the amounts in their respective precincts in each year, to be paid for in labor, and such other matters in relation to their duties as shall be considered necessary.

Sec. 12. The commissioners shall, when the funds in their hands will enable them, determine what roads, and what particular parts of roads, shall be improved, and in what manner and to what extent, and advertise for receiving proposals for the work specified, either by inserting a brief statement thereof in an authorized newspaper, if one be published in their county, or by causing it to be written in a plain hand, and causing one copy to be posted up on the door of the court house, and another in the most conspicuous place in the clerk's office of the county court, there to remain, and be preserved by the clerk until the time therein limited for receiving proposals shall have transpired; and they shall enter into written contracts, taking security for the faithful performance of the work where necessary, and they shall never receive any work so contracted for, that is not faithfully performed, of good materials and in accordance with such contract except as to time, and they may for good cause shown, extend the time once if they shall see proper, and the commissioners in making improvements by contract, shall give preference to the main roads of the county, or some one or more of them.

Sec. 13. Overseers of roads shall be liable to presentments and fines as heretofore, and the commissioners or any of them, in addition to their other liabilities, shall for a failure to discharge any of the duties required of them, be liable to presentment or indictment, and to be fined at the discretion of a jury, and for failing to pay over to their successors, any monies in their hands, they may be proceeded against by such successors, by suit or motion on their bond or bonds respectively; but no commissioner shall be liable in such proceeding, except such one or more as may be found delinquent, and in rendering judgment for such delinquency, the court shall award fifteen per centum upon the amount which may be found due.

Sec. 14. All fines and forfeitures which by any of the penal laws of this Commonwealth, are directed to be paid into the public treasury, or to be applied to lessening the county levy, shall be paid over to the road commissioners of the county in which the offence was committed, in aid of improving the public roads; and the commissioners may proceed to the recovery of the same from any collecting officer, who has received such fines or forfeitures, and his security or securities, by motion either in the circuit or county court, ten days previous notice being given, by such commissioners, or may sue upon the bond of such officer, and in every instance of a recovery on the part of the commissioners by either mode of proceeding, the court shall award judgment for twenty per centum upon the amount so recovered; and every person paying over money to commissioners, under the provisions of this act, shall not be discharged or acquitted thereof, unless he shall cause to be filed with the clerk of his county court a copy of the receipt of such commissioner or commissioners as received the same; and it shall be the duty of each of said clerks, at the April or May term of their courts in each year, to present to said court, an account of all monies so paid over to each of the commissioners, shewing the amount received by each commissioner; and the court shall cause a notice of the several amounts to be entered on their records.

Sec. 15. In all motions or suits brought by the commissioners, under the provisions of this act, the attorney for the Commonwealth, if in the circuit court, and the county attorney, if in the county court, shall ex-officio prosecute the same, and the clerks, sheriffs and other officers, shall charge no fees unless judgment be given against the defendant or defendants, and then the costs in the execution shall be for the benefit of the officers rendering the services, and for the witnesses and others who have a right thereto; and the officer collecting the same shall pay the same over to the persons entitled thereto.

Danville, December 30, 1829.

SIR—We have the honor to present to you, and to the honorable body over which you preside, the annual report of the trustees of the Kentucky Institution for the tuition of the Deaf and Dumb.

We are, respectfully, your obt. serv'ts.

D. G. COWAN, }
J. BARBOUR, } Committee.

HON. JOHN BREATHITT, Lieut. Gov. and Speaker of the Senate.
To the honorable, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The trustees of the Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb, respectfully report: That during the past year the pupils of the Institution have enjoyed good health, and, under a faithful discharge of duty by the Superintendent, Matron and Teachers, have made satisfactory progress in the acquisition of useful knowledge.

The accompanying list of Pupils will exhibit the number received during the year, the number discharged and the number now under instruction, with the dates of reception and discharge, with their ages, &c.

From the statement of our Secretary herewith, (who also performs the duty of Auditor,) it will be seen that since our last report, no further sums have been received from the sales of our Florida lands, although we are advised by our agent there, (Col. Richard C. Allin,) that he has on hand $1,000, awaiting an opportunity for transmission, and he has in all probability, collected by this time further sums.

It will be recollected, that by the terms of our grant from Congress, we are bound to sell those lands within five years from the date of the law, which period will expire on the 6th April, 1831. We are assured by our agent that owing to the depressed prices of the produce of the south, and consequent scarcity of money, that the interests of the Institution will suffer, if sales are forced within that period.

A petition to Congress for an extension of time, will be presented at its present session, which we hope will be successful.

The trustees are gratified by the attention paid to this Institution by the General Assembly, in sending a committee of their body to examine into its progress, management and utility, which we hope may be repeated as often as may be found convenient; and as that committee will, no doubt, report the result of their observations, both as to the progress of the pupils and their comfortable condition, it will supercede the necessity of a more detailed one from this board.

When our funds shall have been increased from the sale of our lands, we will be enabled to reduce the price of tuition and to obtain by purchase, some land conveniently situated, upon which male pupils can be employed a portion of their time, in labor, not only for purposes of health, but for the procurement of necessaries for themselves and the acquisition of habits of industry.

All which is respectfully submitted, by order of the board.

JAMES HARLAN, Sec. B. T.

Mr. Hardin from the committee of finance, to whom was referred, a bill for the benefit of Isaac Thomas and William Love, reported the same with the following resolution thereon, viz:

Resolved, That the said bill ought not to pass.

Which was twice read and concurred in, and so the said bill was rejected.

Mr. Maupin presented the following letter and report, viz:

Lexington, December 31, 1829.

ROBERT D. MAUPIN, Esq.

DEAR SIR—Herewith you will receive the report of the commissioners of the Lunatic Asylum, which we must ask the favor of you to submit.

Respectfully,

Your obt. humble servt.

JOHN W. HUNT.

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

In conformity to your act, the Commissioners of the Lunatic Asylum, Report: That in the annexed paper, marked (A,) you will find a list of the patients, their disease, age, date when received, from what county; also, the number that have been admitted since this humane establishment was founded by your honorable body—shewing, that since then, seventy-eight have been restored to society, and their friends, out of two hundred and forty that have been admitted.

In the paper marked (B) you will find an account of the monies received and disbursements made, shewing a balance in the Chairman's hands, of thirty-two dollars sixty-five cents. It may be proper to state, that this account exhibits the expense for the last thirteen months, and that the expense of the new building exceeded our expectations. When the plans were submitted, and estimates made, it was found that a trifling additional expense would add a third story, and give thirty rooms, which were wanted, and to perfect which, we have been unable to complete the payments. The additional expense of the new wing, and the accounts running thirteen instead of twelve months, have left us in debt about eight hundred dollars; and furniture will be required for the new wing. Therefore we take the liberty of stating, that it will require at least eight thousand dollars to pay the debts and defray the expences of the institution for the ensuing year.

All which is respectfully submitted.

By order of the Board,

JOHN W. HUNT, Chairman.

A resolution fixing a day to elect public officers;

With an amendment to the latter resolution.

Mr. Hardin from the committee of finance, to whom was referred, a resolution from the House of Representatives directing the President and Directors of the Bank of Kentucky to pay to John D. Hay, a certain sum of money, made the following report thereon, viz:

The committee of finance has had under consideration a joint resolution from the House of Representatives directing the President and Directors of the Bank of Kentucky, to pay to John D. Hay the same proportion of $3,100 that the interest of the State in said Bank bears to the whole amount of stock, and report thereon:

The petition of Mr. Hay alleges that on the 21st of January, 1814, his house in Vincennes and store, were consumed by fire; that he had on hand $3,100 in notes on the Bank of Kentucky, which, with a large amount of other property, were destroyed by the conflagration, and prays the Legislature to afford him relief.

The evidence of the petitioner of a competent character, proves the destruction of the house and store as stated, and the further afflicting loss of the three infant children of Mr. Hay, also, that Mr. Hay was, at the time, a merchant of high standing and great respectability; that Kentucky paper was, at that time, very plenty in Vincennes, and that Mr. Hay was in the habit of dealing in it; there is no proof besides the affidavit of the petitioner, that he then had any Kentucky paper on hand, and that the same was destroyed by fire; the opinion of persons that he had, seems to be predicated upon the statements of Mr. Hay. It is further in proof, that he has made, at different times, application to the Bank for payment, which has been refused. The first question presented for the consideration of the committee, is the affidavit of the petitioner admissible and competent evidence? The committee are unanimous in the opinion it is not. That this is the settled law of the land, none can doubt for a moment.

The next question is, shall that rule of law be violated in this particular case. The committee are of opinion it ought not. What is to distinguish this from any other case, when a person of good credit swears to the loss of Kentucky or Commonwealth's Bank paper? The committee can perceive nothing. The misfortunes of Mr. Hay, although they may awaken and enlist our sympathies, add very little to the strength of his claim over any other, that depends solely upon the oath of the applicant. If Mr. Hay has lost the paper, our courts of justice are open to him, and why does he not go there? The reason is obvious; he has no proof that would be received in court, because no court will permit a man to swear in his own case, nor ought the Legislature to hold out such a temptation to the consciences of men.

If this claim should be paid, do we not make proclamation to the world, come and swear to the loss of either Kentucky or Commonwealth's paper, and you shall be paid, as long at least as any paper of those banks shall appear to be out. The precedent is too dangerous a one to be set.

The committee have felt some embarrassment from this further consideration; the resolution obviously appropriates the money of the State. Whether that money be in a Bank of the State, or in the Treasury, makes no material difference; and by the constitution, the money of the State can only be appropriated by law, and to give any act or resolution the force of a law, it must be read on three several days, or the reading dispensed with, which was not done in the present instance.

The committee submit the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the petition of John D. Hay, be rejected.

Resolved, That the resolution lie on the table until next June.

Which was twice read and laid on the table.

The following report was received from the joint committee appointed to visit and examine Transylvania University, viz.

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

The joint committee of the General Assembly, appointed to visit and examine into the condition of the Transylvania University, have performed the duty imposed upon them by your resolution, and directed me to report: That with feelings of the most poignant regret, they beheld the mass of ruins to which that stately edifice, lately the abode of learning and science, had been reduced by a recent conflagration. They feel that this is a calamity which must be sincerely deplored by all who are the friends of learning, and looked upon as a catastrophe, bearing with it, not only much pecuniary loss to the State, but depriving her of one of the proudest monuments of her glory—an institution, at once deserving and exciting the admiration and praises of all visitors to our country, and conferring upon her an honorable standing among our sister Republics.

Aware that much prejudice exists, not only in the country, but in the legislature, against this truly unfortunate institution—a prejudice most sincerely believed by them, to be unfounded and unjust, your committee, for the purpose not only of complying with the duty prescribed to them, by your resolution, but with a view of laying before you and the people, a fair and just exposition of all the concerns of that institution, have devoted great attention to the subject, and hope the facts they are enabled to detail, will place the University in a situation to claim from the legislature, and a people always just and generous, that protection and encouragement, hitherto withheld, but now most pressingly needed by the institution, and most earnestly demanded by the cause of humanity and learning.

The buildings consumed in the conflagration referred to, cost near 30,000 dollars, upon which insurances had been effected to the amount of $10,000, which have been received by the trustees. For the purpose of placing the University in a situation which would enable it to accommodate the students who might rationally be expected to resort to its halls, with a view of attaining the benefits to be derived from science and literature, it is particularly needful, that the building destroyed by the fire, should be replaced by a new one, which should contain a chapel, a library, a room to contain the philosophical apparatus, and several rooms for lectures and recitations. This building, with the materials preserved from the ruins of the one destroyed by fire, could be erected for the sum of $25,000. As already stated, the trustees have in their hands, $10,000 to be appropriated to this object, and will need from some beneficent source, the sum of $15,000 as a donation or loan. If a loan should be made to them for that purpose, it will appear from the facts hereinafter detailed, that in all probability, they will have it amply in their power to repay that sum, and at all events, should it, contrary to the hopes and expectations of all the friends of the institution, fail in the resources looked to, the legislature will have power to receive back the loan in tuition, by connecting the University with the system of public schools, which it is to be hoped will be adopted at the present session, and educating there, a suitable number of young men of talents and probity, at the expense of the State, with a view to their becoming teachers in the public schools. The loss to the philosophical apparatus could be remedied with the sum of $200; the value of the present apparatus is estimated at $1,500. The loss to the academical library, was about 250 volumes, which has been already more than replaced, by the voluntary and benevolent donations of individuals. The law library, consisting of about 600 volumes, and valued at about $3,000, has been entirely destroyed. There are now in the library of the college proper, 2,350 volumes, which are estimated to be worth about $5,000. The real estate belonging to the University, consists of the lot and the buildings saved from the conflagration in the town of Lexington, worth about $10,000; and a claim to land in the county of Caldwell, from which it is supposed little or nothing will ever be realized. In the treasury of the University, there is about a sufficiency to pay the salaries of the officers, and the incidental expences of the institution.

The present resources of the University, exclusive of the monies arising from tuition, consist of a subscription made by the citizens of Lexington and the vicinity, near 18 months since, of the annual sum of about $3,500 to continue for four years from its commencement, with a reservation of the right to the subscribers, of the privilege of taking out the amount of their subscription in tuition, at the usual rates; of which privilege the subscribers generally avail themselves, by sending to the University, youths who are unable to educate themselves. The University also receives annually, a sum between $100 and $200, arising from fines and forfeitures, and taxes on sales at auction. In the grammar school, there are two teachers and 56 students, at an annual fee for tuition of $25 each. In the college proper, there are four teachers and 80 students, who pay each, $30 per annum for tuition, and an admission fee of five dollars. The teachers in the grammar school and the college proper, with the exception of the Morrison professor, are paid by the above named subscription of $3,500, and by the tuition money received from those students who pay tuition fees.

In the law department there are nineteen students, who pay $25 for tuition, and one professor, whose salary is entirely contingent, and dependent on the tuition received from the students who attend his lectures. There are six professors in the medical department, whose salaries are also contingent on the fees paid by the students attending those lectures. In this department, there are 200 students who pay for admission to the anatomical lectures, $20, and to each of the other professorships $15.

The whole number of students attending all the departments of the University, is 357, of whom, 63 have their homes in Lexington, 126 come from other parts of the State, and 168 from other States and Territories. Upon the most accurate calculation which can be made of the expences of each student, from another State or Territory annually, it is considered a very moderate estimate to place it at an average of $200. From this calculation, it will appear, that during the present year, the sum of thirty-three thousand and six hundred dollars have been brought into, and left in this State, by foreign students, attending the various departments of the University. In the year 1826, when the institution was enjoying the patronage of the State, and was under the direction of that able and much persecuted man, whose remains now lie buried in the silent ocean, lamented by those in whom learning and talents are calculated to excite admiration, there were from other States, 228 students, who contributed to the wealth of the State, the sum of forty-five thousand and six hundred dollars. If, under the direct tion of its very amiable, intelligent and learned President, unaided by public munificence, in her present deplorable condition, the University is drawing to her, so many youths from foreign States, it would not be extravagant to say, that with even a moderate patronage from the State, there would attend the University annually, 200 students from other States, which would make an annual income to the State, of forty thousand dollars, drawn into it by the University. To this sum may be added, a saving of ten thousand dollars, kept in the State by the University, which, on the most moderate calculation, would be carried from our country by the sons of residents, who would be sent to foreign colleges, if there were no institution of that character in this State—so that it will appear, that the existence of the University in the State, under circumstances of even moderate prosperity, adding together the sum thus prevented from being exported, and the sum thus imported, is a clear and apparent annual addition to the wealth of the State, of fifty thousand dollars.

The late Col. James Morrison, in his last will, devised to the University, the sum of $20,000, to be invested in some productive fund, and the proceeds to be appropriated as a salary to a professor in the institution, or the whole to the purchase of a library. The trustees have constituted the professorship of mathematics, the Morrison professorship in the University—loaned out the money at the rate of six per centum per annum, upon real security, deemed amply sufficient, and apply the proceeds to the payment of the professor of that science, agreeably to the wishes of the liberal donor. Besides the above sum, the same individual bequeathed the whole residuum of his estate, after paying certain legacies, to the University, which residuum, it is believed by those who are best acquainted with the subject, will amount to 50 or $60,000; but as there is a life annuity of $2,000, and a contingent legacy of $2,000 to be paid from this residuum, and some suits depending, the trustees are not, at this time, and may not be for some years, able to avail themselves of the munificent donation of Col. Morrison, and are compelled to look to some other quarter for the means necessary to re-instate the buildings which have been destroyed; for, if they should not be enabled to obtain that sum from some source or other, it is greatly to be feared, that the University may be compelled to suspend its operations, the liberal bequests of Col. Morrison, which may probably amount to 75 or $80,000, become a lapsed legacy, and be lost to the cause of literature and humanity, and to the State, (for it must always be borne in mind that the University belongs to the State, and is the property of the people, together with all its wealth, certain and expectant,) and the State lose an annual income of $40,000, and be drained of an annual expenditure of $10,000 besides. To whom shall she look in the hour of her misfortunes? To whom shall science appeal for protection, and aid, and comfort, when her abode is burnt to ashes, and she is a wanderer in the land, without a home to shelter her? To whom, but to a free and magnanimous people, renowned for their bravery, and that noble quality that always adorns the brave—that open handed and open hearted generosity and sympathy for the distressed—that liberal spirit of kindness and devotion in the cause of humanity and learning? When the prodigal son returned in distress to his father's house, instead of meeting him with rebuke, his father invited his friends and kindred to a banquet, and rejoiced and wept over him with all the endearments of affection. And should it be true, as it is by some charged, though without just cause as we believe, that the University has been prodigal of the kindnesses heretofore extended to her, and that her concerns have been badly managed, does it therefore follow, that the people should do nothing more to promote the cause of education, and leave the future millions of this country in ignorance, or to struggle for the lights of knowledge, unaided by legislative interference? Does it follow, that what has been done by the State, should be lost? That the liberal and munificent donations to the institution, should be sacrificed and pass into other hands? That the large property of the people in that institution, should be suffered to go to ruin and desolation? That our State should be drained, year after year, of its resources, in the education of her youth in foreign States, and become tributary to others who are more alive to their interests and the cause of learning?

It is often said that large funds have been lavished on the University, and that they have been extravagantly expended. For the purpose of correcting an impression, believed by your committee to be erroneous, they beg leave to submit a few facts, from which they think that the conclusion must necessarily result, that the State has at one time done that institution much injury, and though at a late period, the hand of munificence was extended towards her, the sums appropriated were by no means large, when compared with the donations of other States to their literary institutions; and further, that the munificence of the State, heretofore extended, has not been improvidently expended or wasted, but appropriated strictly to the objects intended.

In the year 1780, the State of Virginia established the Transylvania Academy, and endowed it with twenty thousand acres of escheated lands, lying in Kentucky county. In the year 1795, an association of gentlemen, desirous of promoting the cause of education, endowed another literary institution, called the Kentucky Academy. These two institutions subsequently, in 1798, became united, and were the origin of that now called the Transylvania University. After Kentucky was erected into a State, laws were passed, exempting lands from escheat, the effect of which laws was, that the Transylvania Seminary only received eight out of the twenty thousand acres of land, with which she had been endowed by Virginia. No advantage was derived to the institution from this interference of the Kentucky Legislature, but on the contrary, an actual and serious injury, to the amount of about thirty-five thousand dollars; which sum, the twelve thousand acres of land, she was deprived of by the State of Kentucky, it may fairly be presumed, would have yielded to the institution, inasmuch as the eight thousand acres yielded to her thirty thousand dollars. The funds derived from the sale of these lands, were vested in the stock of the Bank of Kentucky. The legislature repealed the charter of that bank, and a loss was here again sustained by the institution, of about twenty thousand dollars. Thus far, the public patronage, instead of giving life and energy to this valuable institution, cut off her resources, cramped her energies, and blighted her prospects.

What then is the reparation which the Legislature of Kentucky has made for the injuries thus inflicted by it on this institution? And what are the large appropriations which the people have been lead to believe, have been lavished upon her? Simply these: The legislature gave to the University, the bonus of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank, amounting to the sum of $3,000; in 1820, the sum of $5,000 was appropriated to the medical department, to be expended in the purchase of books and apparatus, to be held as the property of the State, for the use of the University; in 1821, $20,000 in notes of the Bank of the Commonwealth, equal to $10,000 in specie was appropriated; and a sum not exceeding $2,000 has been derived by her from duties on auctions, and from fines and forfeitures. So that the legislature of Kentucky has altogether, donated to that institution, about the sum of $20,000 specie, from the commencement of the government to the present day. These funds, instead of being extravagantly used, have been expended according to the intention of the legislature, in the purchase of a philosophical apparatus and books, and partly in the payment of debts contracted for those buildings consumed in the late conflagration.

It is not pretended, that the State is not entitled to credit for these appropriations, in the furtherance of the cause of learning; but, on the contrary, all the honor to which they are entitled, is most cordially yielded, and it is cheerfully granted that they have done much good. Your committee only contend, that the people have been deceived as to the amount of the appropriations which have been made, not as they would hope, from any disposition on the part of any person, to misrepresent to them the true state of the case, but from a want of information on the subject; as they could not believe for a moment, that any man could be found in the community, who would be so lost to all moral principle, as, by a designed misrepresentation, to deceive the people on a subject so vitally important to the welfare of the country, and to the permanence of our free institutions. Your committee, having thus succinctly shown the real amount of patronage which the Transylvania University has derived from the legislature of Kentucky, will submit for your consideration, a few facts, for the purpose of showing that the patronage heretofore extended, instead of being extravagant, as has been misrepresented, is comparatively speaking, very moderate, and by no means as much as the institution would have a right to expect from the representatives of a liberal and generous people. When we examine into the history of our sister republics, we find that they have uniformly fostered and encouraged their literary institutions, by extending towards them, a liberality highly honorable and commendable. Most of the States have made liberal endowments to their Colleges and Universities. Among them, we find that the State of New-York, besides appropriating to her common schools, more than $2,500,000, has given to those institutions devoted to the medical science, $83,100, and to her Academies and Colleges, the sum of $1,265,579. The State of Pennsylvania has bestowed on her University and Dickenson College, more than $300,000. The State of South-Carolina has granted to Columbia College, in various kinds of property, $400,000, and that College now receives an annual grant of about $19,000; and last, though not least, our parent State, Virginia, has bestowed on her University at Charlottesville, about $400,000, besides an annual endowment of $15,000. Your committee believe these facts sufficient to establish the position they have assumed, and will conclude this part of their subject by reference to another fact, which they deem honorable to the enlightened age in which we live, and an evidence of the irresistible march of mind, and of the importance attached to the subject of education by those less civilized than ourselves, and less able than we are, to give it an enlightened consideration. By a treaty in 1822, the Choctaw nation of Indians, made a reservation of $120,000 for the education of their youth, and in furtherance of their views, the sum of $6,000 is annually appropriated from that sum to the support of a very flourishing Academy, located in our own State, where, at this time, 91 Indian youths are receiving all the benefits and blessings to be derived from education. Subsequent to the above appropriation, an additional school fund was created by the Choctaw chiefs, arising from the sale of some of their lands. The Creeks and Potawatamies, in late treaties, have also made large reservations, destined to the same laudable object. When our sister republics have done so much upon this subject, and when even the savages who remain in our country, have made such liberal appropriations in the cause of education, it cannot be believed, that Kentucky, whose sons are always ambitious to be foremost in whatever is liberal, or productive of those improvements which tend to the perpetuity of our republican institutions, will think that the $20,000 she has given to her University, is a lavish and useless appropriation of her funds.

Your committee are aware, that there is an opinion very prevalent in this community, that the Colleges and the University are institutions which are exclusively for the benefit of the rich and aristocratic portion of the people; that the poorer classes derive no advantages from them, and therefore, that the legislative patronage should not be extended towards them. Your committee believe, that this opinion is totally erroneous, and can be made to appear clearly so, if a little calm and unprejudiced consideration be given to the subject. It is true that the rich send their children to these institutions, but it is also, equally true, that it is a matter of but little importance to them, in a pecuniary point of view, whether such institutions exist in the State or not—if they do, they will avail themselves of the opportunity of educating their children near to their homes—if they do not, they will employ private teachers, or send their children to the Colleges and Universities in other States, where the policy of the government is wiser; and those children will return home, after having acquired a foreign education, foreign principles, and foreign habits, and with a fancied or real superiority over the youths educated in the country, calculated to excite distinctions and feelings dangerous to republican institutions. Your committee do not believe, that a University or College is, or ought to be, exclusively beneficial to any portion of the community. The rich can readily do without them—their existence in the country, is more for the advantage of the poor man, who, if he do not have them in his own country, must do without them entirely; for he has not the means of sending his children to a foreign country, to obtain their education; and thus, the children of the poor would be deprived of that fair and honorable competition for distinction, which, with equal education they would enjoy, because they cannot find the means of going abroad for the improvement of their minds. Your committee believe, that the opinions here given, will be fully verified by an examination of the history of the Transylvania University, and a knowledge of the young men who have been able to avail themselves of the opportunity afforded them, by its location and encouragement in the State, of obtaining an education, which otherwise they would have been entirely deprived of.

Your committee have a full knowledge of the difficulty of removing prejudices of the character of those last alluded to—they have, however, felt it their duty, to attempt it; and have been induced, from the importance of the subject, to say more in relation to the University, than under other cir-circumstances would have been necessary. They will close this report, with one further suggestion: The University is the property of the people—the cause of education is admitted by all, both ignorant and intelligent, to be one of vital importance in preserving the purity of our republican institutions. There seems that a disposition exists in the legislature to do every thing to encourage its general diffusion among the people, both rich and poor, without distinction. The house of representatives have already adopted a system with that view, which it is sincerely hoped will meet with the consent of the senate, and the approbation of the Governor. This system will, however, be incomplete in one very important particular. For the purpose of the general diffusion of education among the people, primary schools are all-important; but these schools without teachers, will be useless, and with incompetent ones, may prove highly prejudicial to the best interests of the country. In them the earliest impressions are to be made on the minds of our youths, which will continue with them, forming and modifying their characters through life. It is essential, therefore, for the perfection of that system, and to ensure it a complete and happy success, to provide them with competent teachers, and to make the employment an honorable and respectable one. A school, therefore, should be constituted for this purpose. The Transylvania University, presents to us a fortunate opportunity for effecting that all-important object. Let the legislature provide by law, for the selection from the primary schools, which may go into operation under the system proposed in the several counties in the Commonwealth, a number of the most deserving and talented youths, corresponding with the number of representatives to the State legislature, to be apportioned among the counties according to the ratio of representation—let these youths be educated at the Transylvania University, at the expense of the State, for the term of four years. This plan will at once connect the University with the system of public schools, and make it an important component part of that system—it will do away much of the prejudice existing against it—it will afford that institution a certain annual revenue, sufficient for its ordinary purposes—it will prevent its ruin, and preserve to the State, an institution, which is not only very honorable, but also very profitable to it—it will create a strong inducement to the several counties of the State, to adopt the system of primary schools, and be an honorable incentive to the ambition of the youths, to excel in those primary schools for the purpose of arriving to that honorable distinction of being selected by their county, for their character, talents, probity and attention to their studies, and will educate a great number of young men, of whom many would devote themselves to the profession of education in the primary schools, and thus keep up a constant supply of competent and well educated teachers. The expense of this plan, would be but the moderate sum of about $3,500 per annum—the advantage to the State and to posterity incalculable.

The suggestions made in this report, your committee beg leave to state, are not made with a view of obtaining, for the University, any appropriation from the present legislature. They are fully aware of the indisposition on the part of many, to make any appropriation. They know that there are others who are placed in a situation in which they cannot act freely on this subject—and again, others who are entirely disposed to do every thing for the University, which in reason could be asked of them, but whose freedom of action is restrained by motives and considerations always important with the republican representatives of a free people. Indeed they are compelled, however reluctantly, to admit, that at this time it might be imprudent in the friends of the University, and lastingly injurious even to the institution itself, to anticipate the public will, and act unadvisedly upon the subject. No! their object is different—they ask only, that the legislature may lay the subject fairly before the people, and enable them to understand it. The people are, under our happy and republican constitution, the source of all legislative power, and legislative benevolence; let them decide the question. There is no doubt they will decide it correctly—there is no fear of the result. The people, in the exercise of their power, when properly informed, are always just—always generous. May the cause of humanity and learning, may the spirit of our republican institutions, may the genius of liberty aid and assist them in their calm and unprejudiced deliberations. We know that there is an all-seeing eye, ever watchful of our fortunes—an overruling Providence, which guards and protects us from stumbling in our path—a power that can draw the light from the darkness, educe good from evil, and convert misery and misfortune into happiness and prosperity. No doubt, that eye has seen some great object to be accomplished, unseen to our limited vision, from this serious calamity. That Providence, and that power, will be exerted to protect a cause in which the human race is so deeply interested, from any serious injury, and the Transylvania University will yet, Phœnix like, arise from her ashes, renovated and endowed with fresh vigor, to be a pride and ornament to our State—a blessing to generations yet to come.

The committee of finance, to whom was referred the memorial of the heirs and representatives of the late Colonel William Steele, has had the same under consideration and report thereon:

In the session of 1824, an act of the General Assembly passed, authorizing the Governor to contract with some suitable and qualified person to begin on the east bank of the Tennessee river, in the line of thirty-six degrees and thirty minutes north latitude, and continue the line due east, to the Virginia line, plainly marking the same.

The object to be effected was to enable the purchasers of treasury warrants to locate the same, and appropriate the land south of Walker's line, and north of the true meridian of thirty-six degrees thirty minutes. Colonel Steele contracted with the Governor to run the line, and commenced the execution of the work on the east bank of the Tennessee river, run and marked a line about one hundred miles, and then struck a block of military surveys, went round them and commenced again on the east side, about twenty miles from where he stopped, and proceeded east, in all about one hundred and thirty miles, marking his line that far, except when he went round the military surveys. From that place he ceased to run and mark the line, but would go on Walker's line fifteen or twenty miles east, and then run south as far as he supposed the true line to be, and give the people notice; and then advance on Walker's line again about the same distance, run out and give notice again. In this manner he proceeded to the Virginia line; this is what he called keying the line.

In 1825, his claim, amounting to near $2,800, was presented to the Legislature for payment.

The committee to whom the subject was referred, refused payment upon the grounds that he had not done his work in a manner to answer the purpose; and even that part which had been marked, they were fearful had been erroneously done. The committee, although they entertained an opinion unfavorable to the claim, yet reported a bill to pay him $1,000, which was between six and seven dollars for each mile he marked. The bill passed and Colonel Steele drew the money.

In 1826 Colonel Steele died. In 1827 and 1828, the representatives of Colonel Steele presented a claim and demand similar to the one now presented, that is, for the residue of his account amounting to — after deducting the $1,000 already paid him; which claim, each of those years, was refused by the Legislature, and the question is, shall the claim now be allowed? The committee unhesitatingly say it ought not. No part of the work of Colonel Steele would answer the purpose for which it was designed. The Legislature, satisfied of its inaccuracy from the representations of its members, who lived in the adjoining counties, determined by resolution, to have it run over again. A Mr. Matthews was employed to do the work, and who was every way qualified. Mr. Matthews did proceed and run and mark the true line, from the Virginia line to the Tennessee river, and found that no part of the line, as run by Colonel Steele, was correctly done.

With the last line as run by Matthews, the people, and also the State of Tennessee, are well satisfied. For this work Mr. Matthews has been paid about $2,800. The work has already cost the State about $3,800, a sum larger it is believed, than the amount which has, or ever will be received for land south of Walker's line.

Upon the principle of express contract, the claim cannot be supported; for Colonel Steele did not do what he undertook to do. Upon the principle of implied contract, arising out of the justice and equity of the claim, the present demand cannot be sustained, because Kentucky derived no benefit from what he did, in fact, paid him $1,000 for nothing.

The committee submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the claim of the heirs and representatives of the late Colonel William Steele be rejected.

Which was twice read and concurred in.

Mr. Harris from the committee to whom was referred, a bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act to change the time of holding the Edmonson and Barren county courts, and for other purposes," reported the same without amendment.

Morrison:

Sec. 1. Be it therefore enacted, That there shall be loaned out of the school fund, to the trustees of Transylvania, twenty-five thousand dollars, at an interest of six per centum per annum, the principal to be repaid out of the said Morrison estate, or such other funds as the said institution may have, so soon as they shall be requested so to do by the Legislature, and the interest to be discharged in the education fees of such poor children as shall be entered as such, by the executive for the time being. The fund so loaned, to be exclusively applied to buildings for the University and the purchase of books and apparatus for the same.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Auditor of Public Accounts, on the trustees of Transylvania filing in his office, a resolution of their board, or on an attested copy thereof, accepting of a loan on the terms aforesaid, to draw his warrant on the Treasurer for the amount, who shall direct the amount to be paid by the President and Directors of the Bank of the Commonwealth, out of the school fund belonging to the State, in said institution, and such order shall be a sufficient voucher to said President and Directors to make the payment.

Mr. Hardin from the committee of finance, to whom was referred the memorial of some of the stockholders of the Bank of Kentucky, and a bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act further to regulate the Bank of Kentucky," made the following report thereon, viz.

The committee of finance to whom was referred, the memorial of some of the stockholders of the Bank of Kentucky, has had the same under consideration and report thereon:

The memorial prays an inquiry to be made into the policy and expediency of compelling the President and Directors of the Bank of Kentucky, to wind up the concerns of the Bank as soon as possible, and to accomplish that object, that they be compelled to sell the real estate of the Bank, upon a credit of two, three and four years.

To that branch of the inquiry, the committee has bestowed every attention in their power. They have had the officers of the Bank before them, and also inspected their books; from the information obtained, the committee submit the following facts: On the 10th of December, 1829, the real estate of the Bank was $347,303 14; this property is situated in different parts of the State. During the last year, the President and Directors sold real estate of the bank, to the amount of $67,394 67, and since that time they have sold $7,100 more. The committee are assured, by those officers, that they lose no opportunity of selling the property of the Bank, whenever a price can be obtained, that would not be considered too great a sacrifice.

The President and Directors are of opinion that should a law pass compelling and forcing a sale within a given time, say six and twelve months, those who were inclined to purchase, would not buy at a fair price, knowing it must be sold at all events within the time fixed by law, even if it should go at one half its value. In this opinion the committee concur and do verily believe such a regulation would greatly injure the interest of the stockholders; even the property sold last year, had to be sold at a loss of $22,502 65. This loss is not a sacrifice of the property to that amount, but the difference between what it cost and what it sold for. Upon the other branch of the inquiry, the committee are of opinion, that the President and Directors should collect the debts due the institution as soon as it can be done, consistent with the best interests of the Bank, and at the same time not to produce too great a pressure upon its debtors.

Representations have been made to the committee, and memorials presented, alleging that the salaries of the President, Cashier and Clerk were too high. They now stand thus, President $800, Cashier $1,200, Clerk $1,000. Those representations alleged that the salaries ought to be reduced to the following sums: President $600, Cashier $750, Clerk $600.

The committee have diligently inquired into the labors of those officers, and find that the duties of the Cashier and Clerk are as great and laborious as ever they were, and that the duties of the President have increased, by the necessity he is under of being one half of his time from Frankfort, in different parts of the State, attending to the real estate of the Bank, to make sales where it can be done, and where it cannot, to rent out the property; also, to attend to the law suits of the Bank and the collection of its judgments.

The committee are of opinion that the salaries are not too high; they consider them only a fair and reasonable compensation, and less than that would be unworthy of Kentucky. But besides, it would be impolitic to pay officers less than what their services are worth; it would produce this effect, incompetent men would get into office, and their necessities imposed upon them by the grinding parsimony of the State, would make them turn rogues and knaves.

It was also alleged that the Cashier or Clerk ought to sleep in the banking house. To this the committee answer, that the Cashier and clerk are men of families, and that the house is not constructed for a family to live in; the committee upon that subject, would further remark, they inquired how, and in what manner the Bank is taken care of in the night, and find that since the act of 1827, a trusty agent, (not a negro, as has sometimes been stated,) but a white man, has been procured by the Cashier and Clerk, and who has slept in the banking house every night, and since then the Bank has been well taken care of.

It was further intimated to the committee, that the Directors had received $100 each, without having rendered services to that amount at two dollars per day. The committee have examined into that subject and find it stands thus: John Brown forty-two days, received $84; James Shannon, twenty-four days received $48; Mr. Wingate, forty-seven days, received $94; Jacob Swigert, forty-six days, received nothing.

The committee has also had under consideration a bill which passed the House of Representatives, reducing the number of agents, and have bestowed upon it every attention in their power, by examining the officers of the Bank, and also the books, notes under discount, and in suit, and all the concerns of the Bank, and they are perfectly satisfied that the number of agents cannot be reduced. Three are now employed, and less than three cannot do the business. Besides, the situation of the Bank is such within the districts of those agents, that none can ever be procured who understands it so well, and many losses would be sustained if they should be dismissed, and their agencies discontinued or changed. A great interest of the Bank is now in suits. None knows the nature of those controversies, and how to prepare them for trial so well as the agents. The Bank has a number of judgments in different courts; some of the debtors are endeavoring to avoid payment by fraudulent conveyances of their property. The agents are well acquainted with these transactions, and know better how to detect those frauds, than any person else. In conclusion, the committee give it as their most deliberate opinion, that the Bank, for the last two years, has been well managed, and its interest ably and vigilantly attended to.

The committee submit the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the President and Directors of the Bank of Kentucky, ought to wind up the concerns of the institution as soon as practicable, by selling the property of the Bank and collecting its debts, guarding at the same time against too great a sacrifice of the interest of the Bank, and not to produce too great a pressure upon its debtors.

Resolved, That the bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act further to regulate the Bank of Kentucky," ought not to pass.

Which was twice read and concurred in; and so the said bill was disagreed to.

Mr. Fleming from the committee to whom was referred, a bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act to incorporate a company to erect a bridge across Licking river, between the towns of Newport and Covington," reported the same with amendments.

One of the said amendments proposes to add to the bill the following section, viz.

Be it further enacted, Should said bridge, either in its progress or after its construction, prove injurious to the navigation of Licking river, the Commonwealth shall have a right, by Legislative act, to have the same presented, and may prescribe by law the mode in which proceedings for that purpose may be had, and before what tribunal; and to add such conditions to the charter of the company as may to the Legislature appear necessary further to secure the navigation of said river from injury, from the further erection and continuance of said bridge.

And the question being taken on concurring in the said amendment, it was decided in the negative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Fleming and Stephens, were as follows, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Barrett, Campbell, Cunningham, Faulkner, Fleming, Fulton, George, Green, Hardin, Maupin, Miller, Owsley, Payne, Taylor, Thompson, Thornton and Townsend—17.

NAYS—Messrs. Brown, Edwards, Gibson, Griffin, Harris, Hughes, M'Millan, M'Connell, Ray, Rodman, Selby, Stephens, Summers, Wall, White, Wickliffe, Williams, Wingate and Wood—9.

The other amendments were concurred in.

The question was then taken on reading the said bill a third time as amended, and it was decided in the affirmative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Fleming and Stephens, were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Brown, Cunningham, Edwards, Gibson, Griffin, Hardin, Harris, Hughes, Maupin, M'Millan, M'Connell, Owsley, Payne, Ray, Rodman, Selby, Stephens, Summers, Taylor, Thompson, Thornton, Townsend, Wall, White, Wickliffe, Williams, Wingate and Wood—29.

NAYS—Messrs. Barrett, Campbell, Faulkner, Fleming, Fulton, George, Green and Miller—8.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision and third reading of the said bill having been dispensed with,

Resolved, That the said bill, as amended, do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, announcing the passage of bills which originated in the Senate, of the following titles, viz:

An act for the benefit of William K. Wall.

And an act to authorize James G. Lindsey of Campbell county to remove his ferry.

With amendments to the three latter bills.

And that they have concurred in the amendments proposed by the Senate to bills from that house of the following titles:

An act for the benefit of the devisees of Benjamin Threlkeld and Plummer Thurston; and,

An act to incorporate the Merchants' Louisville Insurance Company.

The Senate, according to the standing order of the day, resolved itself into a committee of the whole house on the State of the Commonwealth, Mr. Wingate in the chair. After some time spent in committee, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Wingate reported that the committee had, according to order, had under consideration a preamble and resolutions from the House of Representatives, declaring the power of Congress to pass tariff laws, and to make internal improvements within the several States, and had made some progress therein, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to ask leave to sit again;

Which leave was granted.

And then the Senate adjourned.

And that said bills and resolutions had been signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Whereupon the Speaker of the Senate affixed his signature thereto, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the Governor for his approbation and signature.

After a short time Mr. Wingate reported that the committee had performed that duty.

The Senate, according to the standing order of the day, resolved itself into a committee of the whole house, on the State of the Commonwealth, Mr. Faulkner in the chair; after some time spent in committee, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Faulkner reported that the committee had, according to order, had under consideration a preamble and resolutions from the House of Representatives, declaring the power of Congress to pass tariff laws, and to make internal improvements within the several States, and had gone through the same and made an amendment thereto; which he handed in at the clerk's table.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, announcing that they were now ready to proceed to the election of public officers.

Mr. Harris informed the Senate that he was authorized to withdraw the nomination of Messrs. Meriwether and Russell, if Messrs. Dana and Hodges were permitted to be voted for.

in which surveys have been registered since 1792, in good order. The said surveys are tied up in bundles numbered from 1 to 145, neatly labelled with an alphabet. The record of these surveys, together with the record of some grants in 11 volumes with an alphabet, in good order. The grants issued on the aforesaid surveys, are in 19 volumes, to which there is an alphabet in good order. The surveys on Headright claims are neatly registered in 3 volumes with two alphabets (one of which is somewhat worn.) The Headright plats and certificates of surveys are filed in bundles numbered from 1 to 312, neatly and newly labelled and are recorded in 17 volumes with two alphabets, in good order.— The grants issued thereon, are recorded in 28 volumes well bound, with two alphabets, in good order. The original surveys made on said warrants are tied up in 287 bundles neatly and newly labelled and recorded in 16 volumes well bound. The grants issued thereon recorded in 25 volumes, with 2 alphabets, in good order; the said surveys are neatly registered in 3 volumes, with two alphabets, in good order; 3 volumes in which caveats are recorded with alphabets; 11 books of original entries from the county of Fayette, neatly transcribed in 4 volumes, well bound with an alphabet, in good order, agreeably to an act of Assembly approved 5th January, 1824; one book of original entries from the county of Mercer, one from Bourbon and one from Nelson, have been returned by the surveyors of said counties to the Register's Office, agreeably to the requisitions of an act of Assembly, approved February 12th, 1820. all of which books of entries are in order fit to be used. The surveyor of Jefferson county has failed to return the original entries of that county to the Register's Office, as your committee have been informed by the Register. One volume of military grants for land west of the Tennessee river; one volume in which the surveys of that land are registered, and one volume in which they are recorded; the surveys are neatly tied up in 6 bundles, each volume having a separate alphabet; one volume in which certificates of sales of land west of the Tennessee river are recorded; two volumes of grants issued thereon, with alphabets in good order; one volume of Henderson's field notes, (this book is not well bound;) one volume in which surveys of lands south of Walker's line are recorded; two volumes of grants; one volume in which the same are registered with alphabets in good order; the surveys of the lands are tied up in 19 bundles neatly labelled; one volume of the list of warrants south of Walker's line; one volume in which those warrants are recorded; one volume in which the surveys on forfeited lands are registered; one volume of the record of surveys; one volume of grants on the same, with alphabets in good order; 5 bundles certificates of sale of lands west of the Tennessee river, on which grants have issued neatly and newly labelled.

Your committee would here remark, that the alphabet to the Headright Register before spoken of as being somewhat worn, is also so much defaced from common use, that your committee are of opinion that it ought to be transcribed, which matter was by your former committee suggested to this House.

The Register exhibited great promptitude in attending to and assisting us in the necessary examination of his office and afforded every facility therein, that could have been asked. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Your committee are satisfied from the examination they have made, that the business in the Land Office since 1825, has greatly increased, owing principally to the reduction of the price of land warrants and the bringing into market, the lands in the State of Tennessee, south of Walker's line, and the lands west of the Tennessee river. Your committee are also satisfied that the Register pays about nine hundred dollars annually for clerks, owing to the increased labours of the office.

The Senate took up the preamble and resolutions from the House of Representatives, declaring the power of Congress to pass tariff laws, and to make Internal Improvements within the several States.

The said preamble and resolutions are as follows, viz.

The committee on Internal Improvements, to which was referred, those parts of the message of the Governor, relating to the Tariff and Internal Improvements, and communicating the proceedings of certain States in the Union, against particular measures of the general government, which they consider unauthorized and contrary to the constitution of the United States, have, according to order, had the same under consideration, and having selected the proceedings of South-Carolina, as most demanding attention, from their greater scope, as well as from the tendency of some of the principles avowed—the committee recommend to the house, the following answer and resolutions, which, if adopted by the house, should be afterwards transmitted to the other branches of the legislative government for their consideration, and if concurred in by them, will serve as a reply, not only to the State of South-Carolina, but to the other States, which, agreeing with South-Carolina in opinion, have thought proper to communicate their proceedings to the Governor of Kentucky, to be laid before its legislature.

The General Assembly of Kentucky has bestowed upon the resolutions of South-Carolina, all the attention required by their importance, their dignified source, and especially by the consideration, that a member of this Union declares itself to be seriously aggrieved by acts of the general government, which it arraigns and fully believes to be repugnant to the constitution of the United States. That this is the deliberate opinion of South-Carolina, cannot be doubted, since at three different sessions of its legislature, in 1825, 1827 and 1828, it has been repeatedly and solemnly expressed. The measures of the federal government, of which this opinion has been declared, are principally those which relate to the Tariff and Internal Improvements. The State of South-Carolina has confined itself chiefly to a simple annunciation of its opinions and convictions, without entering into a train of reasoning, by which they were formed. It might be sufficient for the General Assembly of Kentucky to imitate the example; but it is thought to be due to the occasion and the interests of the people committed to its charge, that it should state some of the considerations, which have led to the conclusion at which it has arrived.

In respect to the Tariff, the State of South Carolina asserts in its resolution of 1825—

1st, "That a right to impose and collect taxes, does not authorize Congress to lay a tax for any other purposes than such as are embraced in the specific grants of power, and those necessarily implied therein."

2nd. "That Congress ought not to exercise a power granted for particular objects, to affect other objects, the right to affect which has never been conceded."

And 3dly, "That it is an unconstitutional exercise of power on the part of Congress to lay duties to protect domestic manufactures."

By its resolutions of 1827, it asserts, 4thly, "That the constitution of the United States, is a compact between the people of the different States with each other, as separate independent sovereignties; and that for any violation of the letter or spirit of that compact by the Congress of the United States, it is not only the right of the people, but of the legislatures who represent them, to every extent not limited, to remonstrate against violations of the fundamental compact."

5thly, "That the acts of Congress known by the name of Tariff laws, the object of which is not the raising of revenue or the regulation of foreign commerce, but the promotion of domestic manufactures, are violations of the constitution in its spirit, and ought to be repealed."

And by its resolutions of 1828, it asserts, 6thly, "That the measures to be pursued consequent on the perseverance in this system, are purely questions of expediency and not of allegiance, and that for the purpose of ascertaining the opinion, and inviting the co-operation of other States, a copy of these and the resolutions heretofore adopted by this legislature, be transmitted to the Governor of the several States, with a request that they may be laid before the several legislatures to determine on such ulterior measures as they may think the occasion demands."

The General Assembly of Kentucky, finds itself unable to concur in all these opinions. Some of them, indeed, might be admitted, without adding any strength to the conclusion which they are asserted to sustain. This observation applies to the first, second and fourth of the opinions avowed by South-Carolina. Undoubtedly Congress ought to impose no tax for purposes, "other than such as are embraced in the specific grants of power and those necessarily implied therein." Nor ought Congress "to exercise a power granted for particular objects to effect other objects, the right to effect which, has never been conceded" by the constitution of the United States. So far as the resolutions of 1827, declare a right, either on the part of the States, in their sovereign character, or of the people, to remonstrate against violations of their constitutions by the government of the United States, the right is undeniable.

The grant in the constitution to Congress, of the power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, is without limitation, except that they shall be uniform throughout the United States, and except also in the case of direct taxes, that they are to be apportioned among the several States, according to their respective numbers, determined by a prescribed rule. It cannot be pretended that duties, imposed to protect American productions, with which rival productions of foreign nations come in competition, fall within either of those exceptions. Nor, if the qualification were conceded, which is sometimes insisted upon, of this general taxing power, that is, that it is to be exerted to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare, would much aid be derived to the argument, which maintains the unconstitutionality of such duties.

Without dwelling longer upon that particular clause in the constitution of the United States, the General Assembly conceives that another clause clearly grants the power in question. It is that which gives to Congress the power "to regulate commerce with foreign nations." Art. 1. Sec. 8. It is given without restriction or qualification. It ought to have been so conferred upon a government, which, by universal consent, has the exclusive control of our commercial and other intercourse with foreign nations. How, otherwise, would it have been possible for Congress to guard and protect the interests of the United States against the varying and infinitely diversified policy of foreign powers? If equality of commerce and navigation on one side, ought to be met by equality on the other, prohibition on the one side, ought to be countervailed by prohibition on the other. Between the points of perfect equality and absolute prohibition, there are many intermediate shades of difference, discernable in the commercial codes of foreign nations. There is not, it is believed, with a very few exceptions, a commercial nation in the world, which practically offers to the United States perfect equality; whilst many of them, and especially those with which they have most intercourse, measure out to them prohibition after prohibition, to the entire exclusion of some of the most valuable products of the Union. Would it not have been unwise in the people of the United States, to have tied the hands of their government, as to commercial regulations, whilst those of foreign powers should be free to inflict on the commerce of the United States any injury, prompted by their policy, their jealousy or their cupidity? Would it have been possible for the framers of the constitution, to have foreseen and provided for all the exigencies that might arise out of the commercial policy of foreign powers, by defining the precise manner in which the grant of the power to "regulate commerce," should be exercised? If it be said, that the object of protecting the products of American industry, is not specified, as the purpose of the grant of the power to "regulate commerce," besides the answer already given, the further answer immediately occurs, that no other purpose is specified; and if the want of the specification of the object of protection, prevent the exercise of the power to that end, the want of the specification of every other object, would prevent the exercise of the power in relation to any and every other object. And thus it would happen, that the grant of a power unlimited and unrestrained, would amount to a mere nullity; and the general government would be disarmed of many of the powers necessary to constitute it a safe depository of the rights, of the interests, and of the independence of the Union.

But it may be urged, that the regulation of commerce implies its continued existence, and that whatsoever be the nature of the regulation, it must not be such as to destroy the subject to be regulated. If Congress were to attempt to annihilate the commerce of the United States, there might be force in this argument. But no such attempt is made by the laws in question. Commerce embraces a vast variety of subjects. The imposition of protecting duties on some articles, or even the absolute prohibition of them, would not amount to its destruction, nor would the general commerce of the country be thereby ultimately affected. All other articles would remain for commercial operations, and the encouraged industry of the United States would supply additional subjects, counterbalancing those which might be excluded. If the regulation of commerce mean any thing, it must be the prescription of the terms and conditions on which it is admitted and carried on. Congress possessing an unqualified power to prescribe those terms and conditions, is bound in the exercise of it, to guard and protect the prosperity of the United States, or in the language of the constitution, "to provide for the general welfare." And if that object require such a regulation of foreign commerce, as will foster our domestic manufactures, Congress is surely authorized to enact the regulation.

The power in question, in conformity with these principles, has been repeatedly exercised since the adoption of the present constitution; and that too without denial or complaint of the constitutional power of Congress. A large majority of the States and of the people of the Union, including, it is confidently believed, the States of South-Carolina, Virginia and Georgia, sanctioned the exercise of it in the instance of the Embargo, by which commerce with all nations was indefinitely suspended.

It must have been well known to the American Statesmen who formed the federal constitution, pre-eminently skilled, as all admit them to have been, in the history of the policy of the commercial nations of the world, that it was by regulations of commerce that the British government had systematically and uninterruptedly protected and encouraged the domestic industry and manufactures of that country; that such protection and encouragement were prominent and characteristic objects of the policy of that government, and entered into all its commercial regulations, connected with those subjects, the production or manufacture of which it was designed to favor. When, therefore, with this knowledge, they formed a constitution, granting to Congress a general and unqualified power to "regulate commerce," it must have been understood that the power might be used to cherish and foster the domestic industry and manufactures of the States, as it had been elsewhere and every where used. And if it had been intended, to exclude from the general grant of the power to "regulate commerce," the right to exercise it for the common and familiar purpose of encouraging domestic industry and manufactures, that exclusion would most certainly, in some way, have been expressed.

That the constitution of the United States was so understood and interpreted by many of its illustrious framers and their contemporaries, is a fact demonstrable by unequivocal evidence. It would swell the argument unnecessarily on this point, to offer at length the authorities that might be adduced in support of it. A brief abstract of the opinions of some of the most distinguished, is all that will be attempted.

After the adoption of the federal constitution, the first Congress met in April, 1789. Earlier than any other, the important subject of revenue claimed attention. The debates which have been preserved, shed much light on the views of national policy, as expressed by the members of that enlightened assembly.

On the third day of the session, the house being in committee of the whole—Mr. Madison, after a few observations on the great subject of finance and the deficiencies in the federal treasury, suggested the necessity of immediately adopting some meatures upon the subject of national revenue. With this object in view, he produced a resolve, specifying certain articles, upon which an impost was proposed to be laid."

On the next day, the house being still in committee on the state of the Union, "Mr. Madison said, that with respect to the resolve before the committee, his design was to have proposed a temporary system. He, however, perceived gentlemen were much divided. He conceived that very powerful motives existed, to induce the adoption of a plan that should come into immediate operation, &c. He remarked that some of the articles proposed, had reference to the encouragement of our own manufactures."

This resolution of Mr. Madison was subsequently withdrawn, as constituting a temporary system only, and he then moved, "that it is the opinion of this committee, that a committee of the house ought to be appointed to prepare a draft of a bill to regulate the collection of duties on imposts and tonnage within the United States." The motion was adopted, and after some discussion, duties were imposed upon a variety of articles, among them were Jamaica spirits, wines, sugars, coffee, beer, candles, cheese, shoes, unwrought steel, &c. "This article," says the reporter, "caused a long and interesting debate; it being contended on the one hand, proper to encourage the growing manufacture of that article; and opposed, on the other, as a tax on agriculture and all mechanic arts, in which steel tools, &c. were necessary." "Mr. Gilman, from New-Hampshire, moved to have the article of hemp, struck out of the enumeration."

"Mr. Hartley observed, that there appeared to him an inconsistency in the proceedings on the business. The committee had just resolved, that a duty should be laid on cables and cordage, and it was now proposed to tax the principal material of that manufacture. If the object was to protect the manufactures of the country, it was absurd to discourage the importation of raw materials, essential to those manufactures. It was, indeed, of importance to encourage American productions: but was it of higher importance than ship building? It was the policy of all manufacturing countries, to encourage the importation of the raw material. To lay a duty on hemp would be giving a fatal blow to the manufacture of cordage."

Mr. Moore, from Virginia, "conceived it not only the interest of the State he represented, but of every part of America, to encourage the raising of hemp."

"Mr. Heister observed, that the hemp of this season was already sown, so that the farmer would not profit by any encouragement this year. He did not, therefore, wish to render the duty heavy at present. It might be proper in a year or two to increase it."

"Mr. White opposed the motion for striking out the article, and was rather for filling it up with a larger sum. He moved that the blank be filled up with 17 cents."

"Mr. Lawrence imagined, that the article of hemp was not raised at present in sufficient quantities, to warrant any extraordinary duties, which might in the end operate as a prohibition. If the duty on hemp was higher than on cordage, it would be the interest of the merchant to import the latter, to the discouragement of the manufacture here."

"Mr. Scott, from Pennsylvania, observed, that commerce and agriculture were inseparably connected, and that nothing commercial ought to be adopted, which would injure agriculture, on which it so essentially depended. He disapproved of the immoderate zeal in favor of manufactures."

"Mr. Boudinot moved for 50 cents. The question on that sum was taken and carried." (See American Museum for 1789-pp 418. 423-vol. 5.)

The deliberations of Congress on this subject, resulted in the passage of a law, entitled "an act for laying a duty on goods, wares and merchandizes imported into the United States;" the preamble of which was as follows:

"Whereas it is necessary for the support of government, for the discharge of the debts of the United States, and the ENCOURAGEMENT and PROTECTION of DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES, that duties be laid on goods, wares and merchandizes imported: Be it enacted, &c."

It will not escape observation, that this act was not only sanctioned but projected by men, who had aided in the formation of the Federal constitution; and as if to mark its connexion with the memorable event that preceded it, was approved by President Washington, on the 4th July, 1789.

"The immoderate zeal in favor of manufactures" seems not to be confined to the present day, but to have entered into the profound and enlightened deliberations of the fathers of the constitution, upon next to the first act that is to be found upon the statute book of the nation. The conclusion deducible from circumstances like those, cannot be resisted.

The opinions of Mr. Jefferson, are no less unequivocal. He was not a member of the first Congress, nor of the convention that formed the constitution of the United States; but he was deeply skilled in the science of our government, and no man was more jealous of its constructive powers.

In his message to Congress in 1803, Mr. Jefferson said, "The suspension of our foreign commerce, produced by the injustice of the belligerent powers, and the consequent losses and sacrifices of our citizens, are subjects of just concern. The situation in which we have been thus forced, has impelled us to apply a portion of our industry and capital to internal manufactures and improvements. The extent of this conversion is daily increasing and little doubt remains, that the establishments formed and forming, will, under the auspices of cheaper materials and subsistence, the freedom of labor from taxation with us, and of protecting duties and prohibitions, become permanent."

Pardonable as it might be, on a subject of such importance, to array against the positions assumed by South-Carolina, the recorded opinions of those eminent Statesmen, who lived when the government was founded, and who aided in rearing its magnificent structure, recommended as their opinions are, to our confidence, by the purity of their lives, by the elevation of their characters, and by their generous devotion to the cause of independence, one additional authority only, will be adduced, before this branch of the discussion is disposed of. It is the opinion of Mr. Madison, the sole survivor of that venerable body, which composed the convention of 1787.

In a letter to Joseph C. Cabell, dated 18th September, 1828, in which the question "of the constitutionality of the power in Congress, to impose a Tariff for the encouragement of manufactures," was the subject before him, Mr. Madison says: "It is a simple question under the constitution of the United States, whether the power "to regulate trade with foreign nations," as a distinct and substantive item in the enumerated powers, embraces the object of encouraging by duties, restrictions and prohibitions, the manufactures and products of the country? And the affirmative must be inferred from the following considerations:

"1. The meaning of the phrase, to regulate trade, must be sought in the general use of it; in other words, in the objects to which the power was generally understood to be applicable, when the phrase was inserted in the constitution.

"2. The power has been understood and used by all commercial and manufacturing nations, as embracing the object of encouraging manufactures; it is believed that not a single exception can be named.

"3. This has been particularly the case with Great Britain, whose commercial vocabulary is the parent of ours.

"4. Such was understood to be the proper use of the power by the States, most prepared for manufacturing industry, whilst retaining their power over foreign trade.

"5. Such a use of the power by Congress, accords with the intention and expectation of the States, in transferring the power and trade from themselves, to the government of the United States.

"6. If Congress have not the power, it is annihilated for the nation; a policy without example in any other nation, and not within the reason of the solitary one of our own.

"7. If revenue be the sole object of a legitimate impost, and the encouragement of domestic articles be not within the power of regulating trade, it would follow that no monopolizing or unequal regulations of foreign nations could be counteracted.

"8. That the encouragement of manufactures, was an object of the power to regulate trade, is proved by the use made of the power for that object, in the first session of the first Congress, under the constitution; when among the members present, were so many who had been members of the Federal Convention, which framed the constitution, and of the State conventions, which ratified it."

"A further evidence in support of the constitutional power, to protect and foster manufactures by regulations of trade, an evidence that ought of itself to settle the question, is the uniform and practical sanction given to the power by the general government for nearly forty years; with a concurrence or acquiescence of every State government throughout the same period; and it may be added through all the vicissitudes of party, which marked the period."

That a large majority of the Union has hitherto approved the particular exercise of the power now in question, and complained of by South-Carolina, will not be denied. A large majority of the Union believes such an exercise of power, necessary to the prosperity of the whole.

The General Assembly of Kentucky, cannot admit the right of a minority, either of the States or of the people, to set up their opinion not only in opposition, but to overrule that of the majority. And it cannot but view with regret and surprize, the assertion of the State of South-Carolina—"That the measures to be pursued, consequent on the perseverance in this system, are purely questions of expediency, and not of allegiance." The consequences of such a principle, if practically enforced, would be alarming in the extreme. Scarcely any important measure of the general government is ever adopted, to which one or more of the States are not opposed. If one State have a right to obstruct and defeat the execution of a law of Congress, because it deems it unconstitutional, then every State has a similar right. When the dissatisfied State opposes to the act of Congress its measures of obstruction, the alternative is presented, shall the act be enforced within the particular State, or be abandoned by Congress? If enforced, there is a civil war; if abandoned, without being repealed, a virtual dissolution of the Union. As the successful exercise of the power of resisting an act of Congress by one State, would naturally stimulate other States, disapproving other acts of that body, to similar resistance, the practical result would be, that Congress could adopt and enforce no measure whatever, to which any one of the twenty four States might be opposed. It is in vain to say that the tariff is characterized by the most enormous injustice—who is to be the judge of that enormity? Who is to prescribe the limit of enormity, which will au-authorize resistance, and that which falls short of conferring that right? History and the nature of man demonstrate, that when his prejudices are aroused and his passions inflamed, it is not difficult to persuade him, that mild and equitable laws, are fraught with the most abominable injustice.

Nor can the State of South Carolina derive the smallest aid, in sustaining its doctrine of resistance to the federal authority, from the manner in which the constitution was formed; whether it was the work of the people of the United States collectively, or is to be considered as a compact between sovereign States, or between the people of the several States with each other, there is, there can be, there ought to be but one rule, which is, that the majority must govern.

Of course, the General Assembly does not now mean to speak of, or to deny that there may be, acts of government, of such extreme oppression, as to justify, if there be no other remedy, an appeal to arms. When such cases unhappily—and it is fondly to be hoped they never will—arise, they furnish their own laws: And it is the bounden duty of those who believe in the existence of such extreme oppression, to estimate well the probabilities and the perils of forcible resistance. The State of South Carolina is not supposed to have intended to assert, that the system of measures denominated the tariff or the American system, presents a just cause of civil war; but that without producing civil war, that State may lawfully resist the execution of the system within its jurisdiction. It is therefore, the ordinary rule of the federal government, and not the extraordinary cases referred to, which should form the subject of our present inquiry.

The right of the majority to govern, flows from the fitness of things. It is the law of nature, because it is the dictate of reason, applied to human society. A measure is proposed in the legislative halls, to advance the common happiness of a nation. The opinions of the members are divided. Which party is to govern? When the majority of the nation speaks through its constitutional organs, the first principles of the government are lost sight of, unless the voice of that majority is obeyed. The presumption at once arises when an act receives the sanction of a majority of the representatives of the people, that a majority of the people themselves requires and approves it. What is the voice of the majority in Congress, but the voice of the people, speaking by proxy? How absurd would it be, therefore, for the few to impeach the conduct of the many—for an inconsiderable portion of the States to menace the subversion of the government, the dissolution of the Union, because the many demand the adoption of a measure, which, in the opinion of the few, militates against their interests? Previously to the war of 1812, a large proportion of the American people, indignant at the accumulated wrongs of the British government, claimed at the hands of their representatives in Congress, a declaration of hostilities against England. It was an act of sovereignty, the exercise of which, the majority of the people had the constitutional right to demand. The minority that availed themselves of that occasion, to threaten the dismemberment of the Union, was regarded universally, as an unprincipled faction; and the posture in which impartial history will present them to future times, ought ever to operate as an example to deter rather than to be imitated. If the great interests of the Nation are to be promoted by the encouragement and protection of domestic industry, on what principle of reason, or of sound policy, should those interests be abandoned? Does not self preservation—does not national independence—do not the future glory and stability of our institutions require, that the end of all laws should be the advancement of the general welfare? It may be said, that the majority may be mistaken. They may be; and so may the minority. The chance of error is greater with the smaller than the larger number. And even if the majority prove to have erred, they will be more contented to bear the ills of their own making, than those which would be brought upon them, or which they would fancy were brought upon them, by the success of the minority.

But this right of the majority to govern, clear as it is upon the ground of reason and natural law, does not rest exclusively upon that ground. It is expressly secured by the constitution of the United States, in the creation of the Legislative power. By the fifth section of the first article of that instrument, it is provided, that "a majority of each (house) shall constitute a quorum to do business." In some instances indeed, a greater number than a bare majority is required; but those exceptions, the result of precaution, like all exceptions, themselves prove the general rule.

The General Assembly of Kentucky cannot then agree with the State of South Carolina, that the perseverance of the General Government in the American System, leaves that State free to consider that the measures to be pursued, are "purely questions of expediency and not of allegiance." If the majority of the people of the United States in Congress assembled, adhere to that system, by abstaining from its repeal, neither the State of South-Carolina nor any other State in the Union, is at liberty to pass any act to defeat the system. That State and all the other States, are bound by the terms of our constitutional union, to yield obedience to the system.

From the principles now advanced, there has been no deviation on the part of the General Assembly of Kentucky. At a former epoch, when certain acts passed by Congress, called the alien and sedition laws, which were believed to be unconstitutional by the General Assembly, it neither interposed nor threatened the adoption of any measures to defeat or obstruct their operation within the jurisdiction of Kentucky. It expressed, and expressed in very strong language, its disapprobation of them, and its firm conviction that they were unconstitutional, and, therefore, void. There it stopped, and that is the limit which no State should pass, until it has formed the deliberate resolution of lighting up the torch of civil war. Every State, as well as every individual, has the incontestible right freely to form and to publish to the world, its opinion of any and of every act of the federal government. It may appeal to the reason of the people, enlighten their judgments, alarm their fears, and conciliate their support to change federal rulers or federal measures. But neither a State nor an individual, can rightfully resist, by force, the execution of a law passed by Congress.

The State of South-Carolina also asserts, 1st, that Congress "does not possess the power, under the constitution, to adopt a general system of internal improvements, as a national measure." 2d. "That it is an unconstitutional exercise of power on the part of Congress, to tax the citizens of one State, to make roads and canals for another State;" and 3rd. "That Congress has no power to construct roads and canals in the States, for the purpose of internal improvement, with, or without the assent of the States, in whose limits those internal improvements are made, the authority of Congress extending no further than to pass 'the necessary and proper laws' to carry into execution, their enumerated powers."

The General Assembly believes, that Congress is invested by the constitution, with the power to construct internal improvements of a national character, within all or any of the States. The power, it believes to be fairly deducible from the enumerated powers; but this question has been so often and so ably discussed, that it is not aware that any additional light can, or need be thrown upon it. The General Assembly, will, therefore, content itself with an examination of those reasons only, which are brought forward by the State of South-Carolina.

The first is a mere declaration of its opinion. As to the second, it is not known or believed, that Congress has ever, in fact, taxed the citizens of one State, to make roads and canals for another. If that had been done, it would be admitted to be unconstitutional. Congress has applied a part of the common resources of the whole nation, to the execution of works of national improvement, which must of necessity, have fallen within the limits of one or more States; and such an application of them is believed to be strictly constitutional. If the State of South-Carolina meant to assert, that the funds of the General Government cannot be applied to a local object, because that object is within a particular State, it would deprive the government of some of its most important functions. Scarcely any State could suffer more by the adoption of such a principle than South-Carolina, since it would deprive its great port of those costly national works, which are so essential to its defence, and which have been erected at the common expense of other States, and of South-Carolina.

The third reason brought forward by South-Carolina, denies the power, with, or without the assent of the States in which the improvement is situated, because the authority of Congress extends no further than to carry into execution the enumerated powers. The power of Congress consists of the specified grants enumerated in the constitution, and of the further grant to pass all laws necessary and proper for carrying them into execution, as well as all other powers vested in the Government of the United States, or any department or officer thereof. South-Carolina has not attempted, by any argument, to prove that the controverted power is not comprehended within the grants specifically enumerated; nor to show it to be unnecessary and improper as a means of carrying any of them into effect.

The General Assembly believes the power to construct roads and canals, to be granted in the clause authorizing the establishment of post offices and post roads, and the power "to regulate commerce among the several States;" and that the power to make roads and canals is a necessary implication from the military and commercial powers conferred on Congress.

Both of those measures which have been considered, have deep foundations in the convictions and in the affections of the people of Kentucky. Both are believed to be essential to the permanence, and to the prosperity of the Union. Both are sanctioned by the opinions of many of the most venerable and illustrious of our statesmen and patriots, including General Washington, the first President of the United States, and the father of his country.

And the General Assembly of Kentucky cannot omit to avail itself of an occasion so appropriate, to call to its aid, the oft repeated sentiments of their most distinguished fellow-citizen, Henry Clay, whose zealous and able exertions, and whose eminent services in support of both of those measures, have been equalled only by his ardent patriotism and his unbending integrity.

Entertaining these sentiments and views in relation to the subjects embraced in the resolutions of the State of South-Carolina, and in the proceedings of the States of Virginia, Georgia and Mississippi, the General Assembly has expressed them with all the courtesy and respect called for by the relation which subsists between members of a common political family, having a common interest in the perpetuation of the Republic; but at the same time, with the firmness and confidence arising from a consciousness of having truth and reason on its side: Therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That it is a constitutional exercise of power on the part of Congress, to encourage and protect the manufactures of the United States, by imposts and restrictions on the goods, wares and merchandize of foreign nations; and that the acts of Congress, usually known by the name of Tariff laws, are not only constitutional, but founded upon principles of policy, and demanded by the best interests of the people of these States.

Resolved, That Congress does possess the power, under the constitution, to adopt a general system of internal improvements, as a national measure for national purposes.

Resolved, That this report and the accompanying resolutions, be forwarded by the Governor of this Commonwealth, to the respective Governors of the States of South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Mississippi, as the expression of the views of the General Assembly of Kentucky, on the constitutional power of Congress over the subjects of domestic manufactures and internal improvements; and for the purpose of ascertaining the views and opinions of the several States of the United States on the same subjects;

Resolved, also, That the Governor of this Commonwealth be requested to forward them to the Governors of the other States of the Union, respectively, to be laid before the Legislatures of those States, for their consideration.

The amendment reported from the committee of the whole house, proposes to add to the second resolution the following words, viz.

To construct the necessary post roads, and to construct canals, roads and other public works for military purposes, preparatory or incidental to the defence of the nation, or the carrying on of her necessary wars, and for the purpose of executing any other powers granted to the General Government, by the constitution, where the construction of such canals, roads or other public works may be essential to the effectuation of those powers.

And the question being taken on concurring in the said amendment, it was decided in the negative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. M'Connell and Williams, were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrett, Campbell, Edwards, Fulton, Griffin, Harris, Hughes, Maupin, M'Connell, Ray, Rodman, Stephens, Thompson, Wall and Wingate—16.

NAYS—Messrs. Brown, Cunningham, Faulkner, Fleming, George, Gibson, Green, M'Millan, Miller, Owsley, Payne, Selby, Summers, Taylor, Thornton, Townsend, White, Wickliffe, Williams and Wood—20.

Mr. Maupin moved to amend the second resolution by adding thereto the following words, viz.

But in establishing mail routes or roads for national purposes, the General Government cannot constitutionally establish turnpike gates, or exercise any power to prevent the full use of the said roads to the State authorities, or to the citizens of the States:

Mr. Hardin moved to amend the said amendment by adding thereto these words, viz.

"Except so far as is necessary to keep said roads in repair, or to collect a revenue for the Government of the United States."

And the question being taken thereon, it was decided in the affirmative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Fulton and Maupin, were as follows, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Brown, Cunningham, Faulkner, Fleming, George, Gibson, Green, Hardin, M'Millan, Miller, Owsley, Payne, Summers, Taylor, Thompson, Thornton, Townsend, White, Wickliffe and Williams—20.

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Barrett, Campbell, Edwards, Fulton, Griffin, Harris, Hughes, Maupin, M'Connell, Ray, Rodman, Selby, Stephens, Wall, Wingate and Wood—17.

The question was then taken on adopting the said amendment moved by Mr. Maupin, as amended, and it was decided in the negative, unanimously.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Maupin and Fulton, were as follows, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrett, Brown, Campbell, Cunningham, Edwards, Faulkner, Fleming, Fulton, George, Gibson, Green, Griffin, Hardin, Harris, Hughes, Maupin, M'Millan, M'Connell, Miller, Owsley, Payne, Ray, Rodman, Selby, Stephens, Summers, Taylor, Thompson, Thornton, Townsend, Wall, White, Wickliffe, Williams, Wingate and Wood—37.

Mr. Maupin moved to amend the said resolutions by inserting the following as a third resolution, viz.

3rd. Resolved, That the distribution of the surplus funds of the General Government, (after the payment of the national debt,) by distribution among the several States, in the mode recommended in the President's message, to enable the States to prosecute works of internal improvements, would, in the opinion of this Legislature, be a wise and salutary disposition of the said fund

The question was taken by the Senate, whether the said amendment be in order, and it was decided in the negative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. M'Connell and Thompson, were as follows, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrett, Brown, Campbell, Edwards, Griffin, Harris, Hughes, Maupin, Ray, Rodman, Selby, Stephens, Wall, Wingate and Wood—16.

NAYS—Messrs. Cunningham, Faulkner, Fleming, Fulton, George, Gibson, Green, Hardin, M'Millan, M'Connell, Miller, Owsley, Payne, Summers, Taylor, Thompson, Thornton, Townsend, White, Wickliffe and Williams—21.

The question was then taken on concurring in the first resolution, and it was decided in the affirmative unanimously.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. M'Connell and Wickliffe, were as follows, viz.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1830.

The Senate assembled.

Mr. Allen from the committee of Internal Improvements, made the following report, viz.

The committee of Internal Improvements have had under consideration a resolution to them referred, instructing them to inquire into the expediency of constructing a road from Frankfort to Milton on the Ohio river, by the way of New-Castle, and the committee report thereon; that a road from Frankfort, by the way of New-Castle, to King's ferry on the Ohio river, opposite to the town of Madison, would be expedient and highly necessary. Your committee are informed and believe that a route for a State road has been viewed from the territory of Michigan, to Indianapolis, and from thence to Madison. This road, if opened, would greatly facilitate the communication between this State and the State of Indiana, and the territory of Michigan, which object ought always to be desired, and when in their power, ought to be effected by all the States, as it will always be found to be a strong bond of union among the States. Your committee therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Governor be authorized to employ some suitable person or engineer, to view the best route for a road from Frankfort, by the way of New-Castle, to King's ferry, opposite to the town of Madison, on the Ohio river, and make report thereof to the next General Assembly.

Amend the resolution by inserting after the word "Resolved," by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Which was twice read; and the question being taken on concurring therein, it was decided in the affirmative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. McConnell and Gibson, were as follows, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrett, Gibson, Green, Hardin, Harris, Hughes, McConnell, Miller, Rodman, Stephens, Summers, Taylor, Thornton, Wall, White, Wingate and Wood—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Cunningham, Edwards, Faulkner, Fulton, George, Griffin, M'Millan, Owsley, Ray, Selby, Thompson, Townsend and Williams—13.

Mr. Hardin from the committee of finance, to whom was referred, a bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act for the benefit of Thomas Lewis and Minerva Laswell," reported the same without amendment.

Ordered, That the said bill be read a third time.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision and third reading of the said bill having been dispensed with,

Resolved, That the said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Mr. Hardin from the same committee, to whom was referred, a bill to provide for building a bridge across Licking river at West Liberty, in Morgan county, reported the same with a resolution that the said bill be laid on the table till the first day of June next; which was concurred in.

A message in writing was received from the Governor, by Mr. Crittenden, Secretary of State,

Mr. Hardin from the committee of finance, to whom was referred, a bill to provide for employing an engineer to survey and mark the most practicable route for a road from the mouth of Big Sandy to Lexington, by way of Little Sandy Saline, reported the same with an amendment; which was twice read, and the said bill and amendment were laid on the table until the first day of June next.

Mr. Hardin from the same committee, to whom was referred, a bill to improve the road from the mouth of Triplett's creek and from Lewis's mill on Foxes' creek to the mouth of Big Sandy, reported the same with an amendment.

The said amendment proposes to strike out the fourteenth section of said bill and to insert in lieu thereof another section.

The said fourteenth section is as follows, viz.

Sec. 14. Be it further enacted, That to aid the said commissioners in putting said road in repair, there is hereby appropriated out of the public Treasury, the sum of two thousand dollars; twelve hundred of which shall be drawn by the commissioners appointed by the county court of Greenup, and by them expended in improvements on that part of the road which lies between the Fleming line and the mouth of Big Sandy, and the residue shall be drawn by the commissioners appointed by the county court of Fleming, and appropriated on those parts of the road situate in that county; and the Auditor shall draw his warrant upon the Treasurer, in favor of the respective commissioners aforesaid, for the respective sums aforesaid, whenever the county courts of the respective counties of Greenup and Fleming shall certify up to him a copy of the order appointing said commissioners, and also certify that said commissioners have given bonds provided for by this act.

The proposed substitute is as follows, viz.

Be it further enacted, That land warrants to the amount of one thousand dollars, are hereby appropriated to aid in putting said road in repair, to be located upon any vacant lands in the counties of Greenup, Fleming, Bath or Montgomery, three fifths of which shall be drawn by the commissioners appointed for the county of Greenup, and the residue by the commissioners for the county of Fleming, to be issued by the Register without fee therefor, in as many warrants as the said commissioners may direct, none calling for less than fifty acres. The Register shall issue the warrants to the commissioners of the counties to which they belong, by their corporate name, and those warrants shall be assignable by the commissioners and be appropriated in aid of improving said road.

Mr. M'Connell called for a division of the question.

And the question being taken on striking out said section, it was decided in the affirmative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. M'Connell and Fleming, were as follows, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrett, Brown, Cunningham, Edwards, Faulkner, Fulton, George, Griffin, Hardin, Miller, Owsley, Ray, Rodman, Selby, Thompson, Thornton, Wall, White, Wingate and Wood—21.

NAYS—Messrs. Fleming, Gibson, Green, Marris, Hughes, Maupin, M'Millan, M'Connell, Payne, Stephens, Summers, Townsend, Wickliffe and Williams—14.

Ordered, That the said bill be engrossed and read a third time. The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision and third reading of the said bill having been dispensed with, and the same being engrossed,

Resolved, That the said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

A bill from the House of Representatives, entitled, "an act to authorize the county court of Green county so to regulate the constables districts in said county as to reduce the number to nine," was taken up and committed to a committee of Messrs. Allen, Selby and Fleming.

Mr. Green from the joint committee appointed to examine the Deaf and Dumb asylum at Danville, made the following report, viz.

The joint committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, appointed to examine into the condition of the Asylum at Danville, for the instruction of the deaf and dumb, have performed the duty assigned them, and respectfully submit the following report, as the result of their examination:

In regard to the current expenses of the institution for the past year, its pecuniary condition, the number of pupils, &c. more detailed and satisfactory information may be derived from the annual report of the trustees of said institution, which has already been spread upon the journals of your honorable body, and reference to which is here made.

Your committee felt it to be their duty to make a careful examination of the dwelling house, school room, dormitories and other appendages of the institution, and are happy to have it in their power to state, that every thing connected with it exhibited the appearance of prosperity and good management. Too much praise cannot be given to the superintendant, matron, and teachers, for the kind and affectionate solicitude they manifest for their unfortunate but interesting charge, and for the pains they have taken, not only to improve their minds, but to instruct them in the domestic duties and qualify them for future usefulness and respectability. The good order, sense of propriety, and intelligence of the pupils, constitute their highest eulogy.

Your committee visited the school room where the pupils were all assembled, without any previous preparation, for purposes of examination. They were highly gratified at the progress of the different classes, and astonished at the extent, variety, and accuracy of their information. The rudiments of education, viz. Grammar, Geography, Arithmetic, History, the nature and form of our government, &c. have all been brought within their grasp and comprehension. From the result of the examination, your committee are perfectly satisfied that these unfortunates may be made to acquire ideas of every thing within the range of human knowledge, except music and oratory, and that the mysterious dispensation of Providence under which they labor, may be so far meliorated as to qualify them for rational enjoyments, and enable them to become useful and respectable members of society. Your committee are informed, that they acquire knowledge as fast as persons endowed with all the faculties of the mind usually do; and from the advancement of a youth who has been at the Asylum four years, the length of time allowed by law for the education and support of the deaf and dumb, they are fully persuaded of the fact, and believe that time to be sufficient to enable them to acquire a competent education.

From the report of the trustees before referred to, it will be seen that the number of pupils has somewhat increased during the past year; but not in the degree which might have been expected from the importance of the institution, and the qualifications of its officers. Your committee cannot omit the present opportunity of impressing upon the legislature, the propriety of calling the attention of the people to this interesting institution; and wherever they are acquainted with the existence of a mute, of enforcing upon its parents the duty and obligation of sending it to the asylum, and the importance of the benefits which will result therefrom; for your committee are fully persuaded that nothing short of a belief on the part of parents of the impracticability of educating the mute, or ignorance of the munificent provision our country has made for this bereaved part of the human family, can prevent them from availing themselves of its benefits, and of thus elevating their off-spring (doubly endeared by misfortune,) from the level of the brute creation, opening to their benighted minds the wide field of intellectual and social enjoyment, and making them acquainted with the duties and obligations they owe to the author of their being.

Your committee believe that the expenses of the institution might be curtailed, as well as the health of the pupils invigorated, provided a few acres of land was attached to it so as to enable them to work a portion of each day. In this way also, under judicious management, habits of industry and qualifications of usefulness might be given them, which would be of inestimable importance to their subsequent life. Your committee would, therefore, respectfully recommend to the legislature the expediency of directing the trustees of the institution, if ground of a suitable character can be obtained, to appropriate such a portion of the money they now have on hand to its procurement, as may be necessary. Your committee believe, from all the information they have been enabled to obtain, and from all they have seen, that the sum now provided by law for the education of the deaf and dumb, is not more than adequate to the purpose, and that it cannot be reduced without endangering the institution, by driving from it the respectable and well qualified officers who now conduct it. They are of the opinion, therefore, that the legislature should leave the present provision untouched, at least until the liberal endowment of the United States government can be realized, and converted into a permanent fund, for the support of an institution so intimately interwoven with the best feelings of the human heart, and so honorable to the philanthropy of the country.

Mr. M'Connell from the committee on the Penitentiary, made the following report, viz.

The standing committee of the Senate, on the subject of the Penitentiary, submit the following report:

They have examined the institution since the walls have been raised and the solitary cells erected, in pursuance of the act of the last session. The convicts appear to be as well provided for as the nature of their situation requires or admits of, and their appearance indicate health and cleanliness.

There is now kept up a regular and exact discipline amongst the convicts, agreeably to the plan proposed by the keeper, in his letter to the committee last year. They are kept in solitary confinement each night, and so much of each Sunday as they are not engaged in the pursuit of learning, or in attending at Divine service, during the residue of the week they are closely engaged in useful labor, profitable to the keeper and the State, and calculated to promote their health, to give them permanent habits of industry, to learn them, in many instances, useful trades, and at the same time to operate as a severe punishment upon all those who had indulged in habits of idleness and dissipation. The committee cannot forbear to mention an occurrence which took place some time since, in this Penitentiary, by way of shewing the abhorrence with which some of these unfortunate beings look upon labor. One who, as we learn, was not tasked to more than his fellows, but being determined not to labor, procured an axe in the absence of the keeper, and with it voluntarily cut off his left foot and his left hand, with the view of destroying his ability to perform manual labor.

The course of rigid discipline, solitary confinement and Sunday schools, has been but recently introduced. Its effects and results have not, therefore, been fully developed. The committee, however, entertain a firm belief that it will have a salutary influence in correcting their vices and improving their morals, and would, therefore, recommend the keeper steadily to adhere to it. It was not until June last that the Sunday school was commenced, and we are informed that many of the convicts who were then wholly ignorant of the letters of the alphabet, now spell tolerably well, and begin to read. Some of the committee attended at the institution on Sunday, for the purpose of witnessing the course taken in the Sunday school. They could not but admire the silence, the regularity, and the order with which every thing was conducted. The committee are, however, of the opinion that the convicts are not sufficiently furnished with the necessary books to enable them to go on successfully in learning to read, or to produce to them and their country the greatest profit from this improvement of their minds. It is believed that some cheap books that are calculated to impress upon them the importance of virtuous actions and religious lives, would have a salutary effect.

The committee are gratified in being able to report, that the institution is in a very flourishing condition, and indeed they believe it will now compare with any other of like kind in the United States, which has been established and completed at no greater expense.

It cannot be doubted, however, that experience will, from time to time, point out important alterations and improvements to be made in relation to the institution, its management and internal police; but the necessity of further legislation upon the subject, is not now perceived, except so far as is suggested by the resolutions submitted herewith.

The committee have been favored with several pamphlets upon the Penitentiary systems, established in the eastern States, directed to their chairman by the secretary of the prison discipline society of Philadelphia. These documents, however, came to hand too late to allow a full examination of them, much less to justify the committee in recommending any plans of improvement drawn from the facts ascertained, and the observations made by those Philanthropic societies.

It is, however, believed that some of the proceedings of these societies, organized in the eastern States, for the humane purposes of ameliorating the condition of the convicts in Penitentiaries, which are published periodically, and which embody a great number of very important facts in relation to the treatment, discipline, employment, food and punishment of the convicts, and in regard to the number of reforms as shewn by the lives and deportment of the convicts after their discharge, which are produced by the several different courses of treatment, would be an important acquisition to the Chief Magistrate and Legislature of this State. And the committee are informed, from good authority, that the expense of procuring these publications would be but trifling.

The committee regret to be informed that it is with great difficulty the keeper can procure ministers of the Gospel to preach to the convicts. Hence it is that but few sermons have been preached during the past year. The business of appearing before a class of men so degraded in their condition, and so abandoned in their practices, for the sole purpose of instructing them in the principles of religion and of endeavoring to reform them in their lives and habits, is not, to be sure, desirable in itself; of consequence none are willing to devote more than an occasional sabbath in this employment. Those preachers who live in Frankfort and its vicinity, have the care of the churches committed to their charge, and the sabbath is a day usually assigned to preaching in these churches, and of consequence they cannot devote that time in preaching to the convicts. Ministers residing at any distance from this place cannot attend here to preach to the convicts unless they are paid at least their expenses and something for their time. Reform is the object of the imprisonment. This reformation must be wrought in the mind and it cannot be expected that the mind will change its direction, review its course and reverse its resolutions unless it be operated upon by convictions of the importance and necessity of such reformation. Every available means in the power of the Legislature, consistent with the principles of humanity and of justice, ought, in the opinion of the committee, to be resorted to, to effect the purposes of the imprisonment. The committee have a thorough conviction that a very important means of producing this desirable object, is regular preaching at least once a week. The efforts made prove that this regular preaching cannot be had without offering a compensation greater than has been heretofore given.

The committee, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolutions, to-wit:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the keeper of the Penitentiary shall, from time to time, as occasion shall require, under the direction and advice of the Governor for the time being, furnish to the convicts, such books as may be found necessary to aid them in learning to read, and which will be calculated to make impressions upon their minds of the importance of virtuous actions and religious lives.

Resolved, That the keeper of the Penitentiary, with the consent and advice of the Governor, for the time being, make the necessary arrangements for procuring religious instructions every Sabbath day, if such preaching can be had at an expense not exceeding $100, to be charged as a part of the expenses of the institution.

Resolved further, That the Governor of this State is requested to procure for the use of the Legislature, and to be preserved in the Secretary's office, copies of such of the proceedings and reports of the Boston and Philadelphia prison discipline societies as he may think important or useful, and that he report to the next Legislature, as early as convenient, the copies procured and their cost.

The committee have also had under consideration the claim set up by the keeper of the Penitentiary, for services rendered in superintending the quarrying of the stone for increasing the height of the wall and erecting the solitary cells, and have come to the conclusion that the same ought to be allowed, to the extent of ninety dollars; but as this claim can be examined and acted upon when the appropriation bill shall be under consideration, the committee deem it unnecessary to report any resolution or bill upon the subject.

Which was twice read and concurred in.

Mr. Wickliffe from the committee of courts of justice, to whom was referred, a bill from the House of Representatives entitled, "an act further to regulate the Court of Appeals," reported the same with an amendment as a substitute for the bill;

Which was twice read.

Mr. Fleming moved to amend the said substitute by striking out these words, viz. "that so much of every law or rule of said court as authorizes said court to take up and try causes as delay causes shall be and are hereby repealed."

And the question being taken thereon, it was decided in the negative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Fleming and Ray, were as follows, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Barrett, Edwards, Faulkner, Fleming, George, Hughes, Miller, Owsley, Selby, Stephens, Taylor, Thompson, Thornton, Wall, White, Wingate and Wood—17.

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Brown, Campbell, Cunningham, Fulton, Gibson, Green, Griffin, Hardin, Harris, Maupin, M'Millan.

M'Connell, Payne, Ray, Rodman, Summers, Townsend, Wickliffe and Williams—20.

The said amendment reported from the committee was then concurred in.

The question being taken on reading the said bill, as amended, a third time, it was decided in the affirmative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Thornton and Fleming, were as follows, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Brown, Campbell, Cunningham, Gibson, Green, Hardin, Harris, M'Millan, M'Connell, Payne, Ray, Rodman, Selby, Summers, Thompson, Townsend, White, Wickliffe and Williams—20.

NAYS—Messrs. Barrett, Edwards, Faulkner, Fleming, Fulton, George, Griffin, Hughes, Miller, Owsley, Stephens, Taylor, Thornton, Wall, Wingate and Wood—16.

Mr. Wingate from the committee appointed for that purpose, reported a bill to provide for the opening a State road from Frankfort to intersect the State road from Lexington to Ghent, at or near Owenton.

Which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision and second and third readings of the said bill having been dispensed with, and the same being engrossed,

Resolved, That the said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Mr. Wingate from the committee appointed for that purpose, made the following report, viz.

The committee raised to ascertain what furniture is necessary for the Senate chamber, and what alterations can be made therein, which are necessary to the comfort and convenience of the Senate, report:

That they have had several meetings with the building commissioners and the architect, and have come to the following opinions:

The partition wall which now divides the Senate chamber and the adjoining committee room, ought to be removed, and that room converted into a lobby, extending the bar of the Senate chamber to the place now occupied by that partition wall. The gallery ought to be taken away entirely. The lobby ought to be elevated. The committee recommend for the Senate chamber, a number of tables equal to the number of Senators, each one being numbered from one to thirty eight, inclusive. Each table to be made with divisions on the top, for inkstand, sand box, wafers and pens. The remainder of the top to be inclined about an inch, with a small ledge on the edge next the writer, a drawer with a good lock and key and two glass knobs on it, a small shelf under the drawer to hold journals and other papers, the whole exterior to be vaneered with mahogany and properly varnished. The tables ought to be single and of a convenient size for one person. The chairs to be made of mahogany with hair cloth bottoms and stuffed with hair, with rollers on the legs.

From the best information the committee could obtain, this furniture and these alterations will promote, to a greater extent, the convenience and comfort of the Senate and each member thereof, than any other that we can recommend. The committee, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

such person and their descendants, if any; if there be no children nor their descendants, then to the husband or wife of such decedent; and if there be no husband nor wife, then to the father and mother and the survivor of them—the father and mother shall only take a life estate, if there be brothers and sisters of the deceased or their descendants; but in that case the estate, after the death of the father and mother, shall pass to the brothers and sisters, and their descendants, or such of them as be of the intestate.

Sec. 3. First, to the grand-father and grand mother.

But no right of inheritance shall accrue to any person whatever, other than to children of the intestate, unless they be in being and capable of taking as heirs, at the time of the intestate's death.

Sec. 6. And where for the want of issue of the intestate and of father, mother, brothers and sisters, and their descendants, the inheritance is before directed to go by moieties to the paternal and maternal kindred, if there should be no such kindred on the one part, the whole shall go to the other part.

Sec. 7. And in cases before mentioned, where the inheritance pass to the ascending and collateral kindred of the intestate, and part of such collaterals be of the whole blood to the intestate, and other part of the half blood only; those of the half blood shall only inherit half so much as those of the whole blood; but if all be of the half blood, they shall have whole portions, only giving to the ascendants, if there be any, double portions.

Sec. 8. And where the children of the intestate, his brothers and sisters, his uncles and aunts, or any of his lineal ancestors living, male and female, in the same degree come into partition, they shall take per capita, that is to say by persons, and where a part of them being dead and a part of them living, the issue of those have right to partition, they shall take per stirpes or by stocks; that is to say, the share of their deceased parent.

And where any of the children of the intestate or their descendants, shall have received from the intestate in his life time, any real estate by way of advancement, and shall choose to come into partition with the other parcenors, such advancement shall be brought into hotchpot with the estate descended.

Sec. 10. In making title by descent, it shall be no bar to a demandant, that any ancestor through whom he derives his descent, is or hath been an alien; bastards also shall be capable of inheriting and of transmitting inheritance on the part of their mother, in like manner as if they had been lawfully begotten of such mother.

Sec. 11. Where a man having by a woman one or more children, shall afterwards intermarry with such woman, such child or children, if recognized by him, shall be thereby legitimated. The issue of marriages deemed null in law shall nevertheless be legitimate.

Sec. 12. Where an infant shall die without issue and unmarried, having title to any real estate derived by purchase or descent on the part of his father, without mother, brothers or sisters, or their descendants, no part of such estate shall pass to the relations on the part of the mother, if there be living any relations on the part of the father; but the whole shall pass as before directed, to his nearest kindred on the part of the father.

Sec. 13. Where an infant die without issue and leaving no wife, as aforesaid, having title to any real estate of inheritance derived by descent or purchase on the part of his mother, without father, brothers or sisters, no part of such estate shall pass to the relatives of the father; but the whole shall pass to his nearest relatives on the part of the mother, as before directed.

Sec. 14. In making distribution of the personal estate and slaves of persons dying intestate, the estate shall be distributed to the persons entitled to the real estate, in the proportions before directed.
