MEMORANDUM

DATE: 6/29/87
TO: Tim Coggins
FROM: Sally Irvin
SUBJECT: SEALL Newsletter

I received your report on the newsletter today and agree with all your recommendations. I would like to continue with the WESTLAW column if this is all right with you as it has been a most enjoyable experience. We are currently adding a number of computer-based training exercises in WESTLAW which I am writing this summer and perhaps one column could discuss the new trend to train via such CBT exercises.

I know that we do not need outside advertisements per se, but I appreciate the fact that this money helps pay the mailing costs. I am not advocating cessation of such advertising, but I wonder if you would consider putting all ads on a separate page or center insert. They can sometimes make it difficult to follow the articles. The Lawyers PC newsletter has such an inside insert and it makes for a very smooth publication. End of suggestions, personally I enjoy the newsletter and my part in it and support you in whatever you do.
