Books Received

GENERAL

- THE BOSTON MASSACRE, by Hiller B. Zobel. New York: W.W. Norton & Co., 1970. Pp. xi, 372. Cloth: $8.50. Subject: The story of one of America's great historical encounters from its earliest beginnings through the King Street incident on March 5, 1770, the trials of the British soldiers and John Adams' role in their defense. The author describes the legal strategy employed by Adams, who avoided embarrassing the Sons of Liberty while at the same time striking an occasional blow for the radical cause.
- DEFENDING BUSINESS AND WHITE COLLAR CRIMES: FEDERAL AND STATE, by F. Lee Bailey and Henry B. Rothblatt. Rochester, New York: The Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Company, 1969. Pp. xxviii, 740. Cloth: $35.00. Subject: A treatise dealing with the tactical and substantive problems involved in the litigation of business and white collar crimes. Examined are tax evasion, bribery, conspiracy, corporate criminal liability, embezzlement, false advertising, monopoly and anti-trust, and securities offenses. The book will be kept current by annual pocket-part supplements.
- DEMOCRACY, DISSENT, AND DISORDER: THE ISSUES AND THE LAW, by Robert F. Drinan, S.J. New York: The Seabury Press, 1969. Pp. viii, 152. Cloth: $4.95. Subject: A two part (Current Dissent and Disorder—Law and Morality in a Democracy) exploration of the basis on which law commands obedience. The author contends that forceful application of the simplistic demand for "law and order" is inadequate; rather he argues that without a growing consensus on moral values, law enforcement cannot resolve the crises that threaten national existence.
- THE DEMOCRATIC POLICEMAN, by George E. Berkley. Boston: Beacon Press, 1969. Pp. x, 232. Cloth: $7.50. Subject: A study of the policeman's role in a democracy, including police organization and administration, recruitment and education, the policeman at work, policing the police, and interactions with the public. The author examines the structures of many European police forces, and he suggests that the American system might be improved by using certain foreign police procedures.
- ECONOMIC POLICY AND THE REGULATION OF CORPORATE SECURITIES, edited by Henry G. Manne. Washington, D.C.: American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, 1969. Pp. xxiv, 385. Cloth: $8.50; Paper: $3.50. Subject: The proceedings of a symposium cosponsored by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research and The National Law Center of The George Washington University. Areas discussed include economic values, the functioning of securities markets, imperfections in the securities market, and securities markets and corporate behavior.
- ESSAYS ON THE CIVIL LAW OF OBLIGATIONS, edited by Joseph Dainow. Baton Rouge: Louisiana State University Press, 1969. Pp. xii, 313. Cloth: $10.00. Subject: The proceedings of a symposium sponsored by the Bailey Lecture Series and the Institute of Civil Law Studies at Louisiana State University Law School. In part one the lectures deal with the development, problems and challenges of the civil law of obligations, while in part two several commentators explain the concepts of subrogation, unconscionable contracts, and specific performance under the civil law.
- 1970 EVERYMAN'S INCOME TAX, by CCH Editorial Staff. Chicago: Commerce Clearing House, Inc., 1969. Pp. 80. Paper: $1.50. Subject: An aid for the average taxpayer covering such questions as which forms to use, when to itemize deductions, how many deductions are allowed, and how to handle business and personal losses.

- 1970 FEDERAL TAX RETURN MANUAL, by CCH Editorial Staff. Chicago: Commerce Clearing House, Inc., 1969. Pp. xii, 1350. Loose Leaf Binder: $33.50. Subject: Information on how to prepare federal income tax returns for individuals, small businesses and corporations.
- HOW TO USE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS: A HANDBOOK FOR LAWYERS, by Irving Kellogg. New York: McGraw-Hill Book Co., 1969. Pp. x, 505. Cloth: $19.50. Subject: A three part (Introduction, Anatomy of the Financial Statements, Financial Statements in Law Practice) reference work showing how financial statements are constructed, demonstrating how to use such statements to determine profitability, providing checklists to uncover fraud, and discussing what weight should be given to these statements.
- MAKE MAD THE GUILTY: THE INSANITY DEFENSE IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, by Richard Arens. Springfield, Illinois: Charles C. Thomas, 1969. Pp. xxiv, 285. Cloth: $12.75. Subject: An analysis of the test of criminal responsibility as formulated in the case of Durham v. United States. The author discusses the Durham Rule in relation to judicial psychiatry and psychiatric justice, due process and the rights of the mentally ill, and reality and illusion in the insanity defense. Two case studies are presented to illustrate the use of the insanity defense.
- MINIMIZING RACISM IN JURY TRIALS: THE VOIR DIRE CONDUCTED BY CHARLES R. GARRY IN People of California v. Huey P. Newton, edited by Ann F. Ginger. Berkeley, California: National Lawyers Guild Publications, 1969. Pp. xxv, 250. Paper: Trade, $10.00; Student, $6.00. Subject: An exploration of the techniques used by attorneys to obtain juries for the trials of Negro defendants in criminal cases.
- "THE NADER REPORT" ON THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION, by Edward F. Cox, Robert C. Fellmeth and John E. Schulz. New York: Richard W. Baron Publishing Co., Inc., 1969. Pp. xiv, 241. Cloth: $5.95. Subject: A student task force report critical of the effectiveness of the Federal Trade Commission's efforts in the area of consumer protection. This "Nader's Raiders" study contains many graphs and various types of documentation.
- RELIGION AND THE PUBLIC ORDER, edited by Donald A. Giannella. Ithaca, New York: Cornell University Press, 1969. Pp. 260. Cloth: $5.50. Subject: A compilation of articles which examine such issues and institutions as secularization, civil disobedience, and the military chaplaincy. This book is the fifth volume of a series providing an annual review of church-state relations, and of religion, law, and society.
- THE RESPONSIBILITY OF DISSENT: THE CHURCH AND ACADEMIC FREEDOM, by John F. Hunt and Terrence R. Connelly. New York: Sheed & Ward, 1969. Pp. xvi, 224. Cloth: $6.00; Paper: $3.95. Subject: A case study of the conflict between administrators and professors of The Catholic University of America which arose when twenty professors subscribed to a widely publicized "Statement by Catholic Theologians" upholding the right of dissent from Pope Paul VI's encyclical Humanae Vitae, which reaffirmed the ban on contraception. Problems affecting all church-related colleges and universities are investigated, documented, and thoroughly discussed by the attorneys who were counsel to the dissenting theological professors at their appearance before the university's academic senate.
- THE STATES AND THE URBAN CRISIS, edited by Alan K. Campbell. Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey: Prentice-Hall, Inc., 1970. Pp. vi, 215. Cloth: $5.95; Paper: $2.45. Subject: A collection of essays that assess the failure of city, state, and federal governments in resolving urban problems and indicate positive directions for making effective and lasting urban reforms. The articles manifest a belief that a continued "do-nothing" attitude will affect not only cities, but all sectors of society, inhibiting progress and causing more tension, strife, and frustration.

- THE STATUS OF LAW IN INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY, by Richard A. Falk. Princeton, New Jersey: Princeton University Press, 1970. Pp. xvi, 678. Cloth: $15.00. Subject: An effort to bring the outlook, methods, and concerns of the social scientist into closer association with international law. Among the topics discussed are the law-making capacity of the UN, the extent of UN control over nonmembers, the problems of assessing compliance with international law, the application of international law in domestic courts, and the regulation of business abroad. In a final section the author gives his views on the reform of the international legal system by examination of critical challenges to the present system of world order and by exploring the potential for bringing alternative systems into being.
- THE SUPREME COURT AND THE USES OF HISTORY, by Charles A. Miller. Cambridge, Massachusetts: The Belknap Press of Harvard University Press, 1969. Pp. viii, 234. Cloth: $6.95. Subject: An analysis and comment on the use of history by the Supreme Court to decide and explain constitutional law cases. The author employs several case studies to illustrate the value of history in constitutional adjudication, such as the presidential removal power, political expression, the sit-in cases of 1964, and legislative reapportionment.
- THE TRUTH ABOUT BOULWARISM: TRYING TO DO RIGHT VOLUNTARILY, by Lemuel R. Boulware. Washington, D.C.: The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., 1969. Pp. xi, 180. Cloth: $7.50; Paper: $2.85. Subject: A chronicle of the ideas and efforts that went into the Boulware program of labor relations at General Electric Company. The new approach is spelled out step-by-step, interspersed with illustrative data from employee questionnaires, excerpts from distributed study materials and discussion groups held in GE plants and offices and in plant communities, and reprints of company communications to employees, supervisors, and managers.
- UN PROTECTION OF CIVIL AND POLITICAL RIGHTS, by John Carey. Syracuse, New York: Syracuse University Press, 1970. Pp. xii, 205. Cloth: $7.50. Subject: A study of international implementation of human rights obligations. This book, Volume 8 in the Procedural Aspects of International Law Series, concentrates on the practical aspects of existing and proposed implementation machinery—reporting, fact-finding, and sanctioning. It reviews various techniques historically as well as from the perspective of UN practice.
- WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT CONTRACTS, by Robert A. Farmer & Associates. New York: Arco Publishing Co., 1970. Pp. 173. Cloth: $4.95. Subject: A layman's guide to contract law that outlines the requirements for a valid contract, explains how to interpret a contract, discusses dissolution and remedies for breach of contract, clarifies the Uniform Commercial Code, and lists the states where it is in force. There is also a glossary of legal terms and a special section of contract forms.
