SEVENTY-EIGHT MILLESTONIE

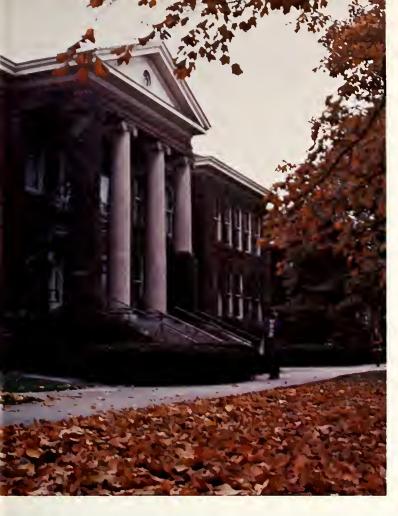

Eastern's campus was more than a collection of buildings across the rolling landscape. It was an environment in which people with diversified interests and talents could come together for self-improvement and experience. Rather than an environment of physical growth which highlighted the 1960s, the University proved to be a setting in which people grew emotionally as well as intellectually.

Because each person is different, each student came to Eastern for a special reason. However, all were unified in a unique manner. Each came in search of a commitment, an involvement with their school and the world around them. It is this commitment to excellence over the years that has become one of the outstanding characteristics of Eastern Kentucky University.

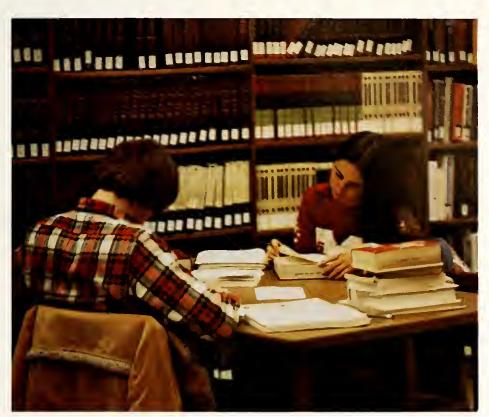

"In all areas the job before us is to deal with improvements in the quality of what we are doing..."

— President J. C. Powell From an Interview with The Alumnus Editorial Board October, 1976

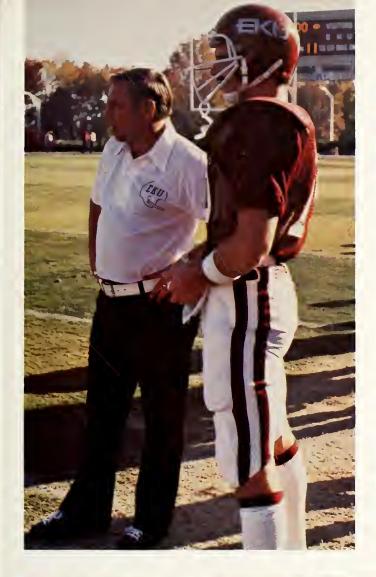

"Lord, Thou givest us everything for the price of an effort." —Leonardo Da Vinci A constant pursuit of improvement, fulfillment, and dedication was sensed throughout the entire University community personifying the principle of doing more than what is merely required. Learning was a shared experience. Both students and teachers gave generously of their time and knowledge. This quest for knowledge was not always easy, but the rewards made the sometimes wearisome tasks worthwhile.

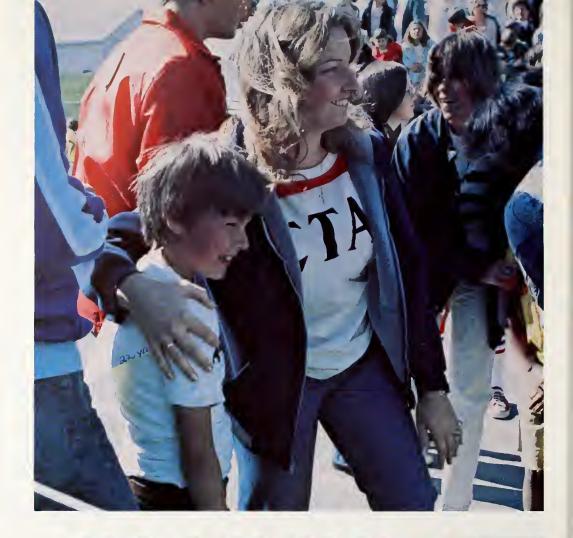

The pursuit of excellence did not exclude a time for relaxing. People who work hard often play hard, and in their "socializing", Eastern's students discovered friendships and experiences that could benefit them throughout life.

The satisfaction and delight of helping others, and giving freely of valuable time and energy to benefit their fellow man, drew many of Eastern's students and faculty into service activities. Students spent long hours aiding others, and strangely enough, found that in serving others they grew and learned from the experience.

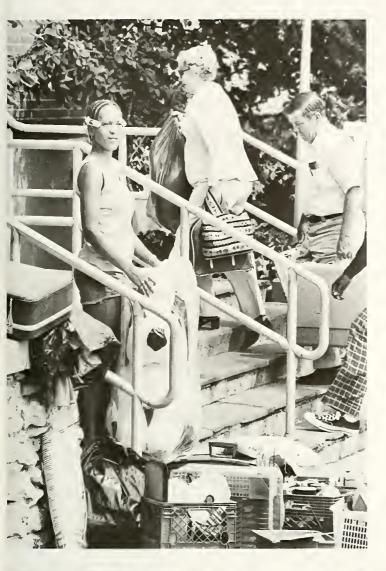

MOVING IN: Everyone Is Put To Work

August brought nearly 7,000 students back to live on Eastern's campus. A helping hand, whether to carry a heavy locker or point out a misplaced building, was always available and welcomed. As students once again moved away from home, taking most of it with them, every one pulled together in order to make the situation move along smoothly.

BELOW: A member of Eastern's Military Police company finds herself busy helping students and their families to find their way around campus. The M.P.'s were also responsible for helping to direct traffic on campus during the hectic days before classes started.

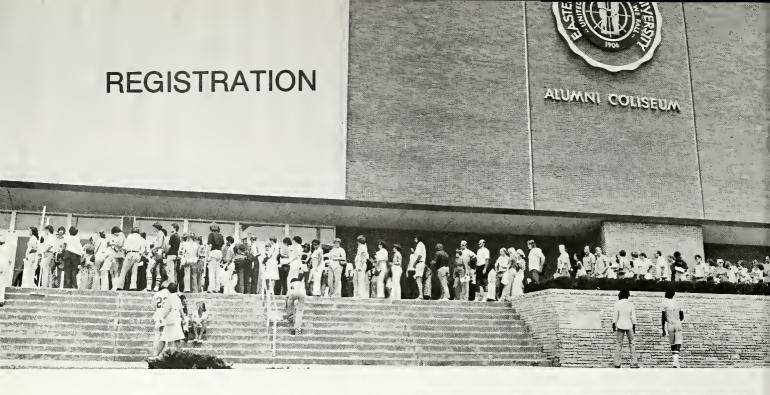

ABOVE LEFT: Newly-arrived students sometimes found it necessary to wait with their belongings while friends and relatives carried even more belongings up to the room. Over 13,500 students enrolled at Eastern in the fall. And although at times it seemed as if they were all enrolling in the same class at the same time, students still managed to survive registration week.

Many students found that the lines moved faster this year. This was due to some changes in the registration process at the Alumni Coliseum. Student's financial aid desks and the check-out registers were moved down on the gym floor in order to relieve the congestion in the coliseum corridors. Even with these improvements, students, registration workers and advisors alike were glad to see registration over and a new semester begin.

Adjusting To Life At Eastern

First Weeks On Campus Provide New Experiences

The first few weeks of the school year proved to be hectic for most students. Last minute room assignments, dorm keys, and roommate schedules were given out amid a frantic rush for textbooks and class supplies. Despite the rigors of adjustment and relocation, one or two students found time after classes started to unwind downtown. Others chose to meet new friends and otherwise socialize by remaining on campus. Regardless of where or how they spent their spare time, students will remember those first hot weeks in August as a unique, if demanding, experience.

LEFT: At the University Store, this student tries to match the classes she is taking with the signs on the book racks. By referring to textbooks by the classes using them, the University Store saves a great deal of time and trouble every year for Eastern's students. BELOW: The colorful and distinctive T-shirts and jackets at the University Store are very popular with students and faculty alike. Along with books and other school supplies, the bookstore carries a full line of shirts, jackets, sporting clothes and glassware, all individualized with Eastern's symbols and designs.

Signs On Campus Demand Request And Plead

From the day they arrive as freshmen until the day they depart, EKU students are directed, restricted, commanded, and sometimes even informed by the profuse array of "signery" pasted across the campus.

The first sight many freshmen have of their campus is the "Welcome" signs hung by fraternities and sororities on the fence of the intramural ball field. After this innocent-enough beginning, however, the new arrivals are subjected to numerous, varied sales pitches, commands, and announcements which conspire to boggle the mind.

It is not long before this onslaught jades the students so that they must resort to one of the few defenses available—selectivity in obeying the directions.

Summer Tempo Lingers On

The lazy days of summer continued into much of the fall semester. Tests, meetings, lectures, studying— none were as important as just a little more time to relax. Whether on a squeaky sofa in the Powell building, the sunny rim of a campus fountain or oiled and basking upon a beach towel, rest and relaxation seemed almost a necessity during those hot, endless afternoons of summer.

RIGHT: Coeds from Martin Hall, in an attempt to keep that "perfect tan" that they worked so hard on over the summer, succumb to one of summer's last beautiful afternoons. BELOW: Bob Varney, a Senior from Belfry, Kentucky, and Kathy Tackett, a Junior from Dorton, Kentucky, take time out between classes for relaxation and small talk at the Smith Park fountain. Hot summer days drew many students outdoors to spend their free time.

The slow-moving days of late summer tended to fill the sofas in the Powell Building with sleeping bodies.

Students Enjoy Second Crafts Fair

The second annual Crafts Fair was held in the center of the campus on September 8th. Craftsmen from all over Kentucky set up booths on the main concourse between the Powell Building and the Wallace Building. The 33 exhibits included such items as woodwork, weaving, leather goods, plants, pottery and dolls.

Sponsored by the Student Association, the fair raised $360 for the Scotia Disaster Memorial Fund. The fund provides a $500 scholarship at Eastern for a descendant of a Kentucky miner killed in a mine disaster.

RIGHT: One release from the tensions and the increasing pace of campus life is the series of concerts, sponsored by the Office of Student Activities. Presented early in the first semester, the concerts were held in the ravine and Brock Auditorium.

Pace Of Campus Activities Increases

As the school year moved on, slowly, but inevitably, the pace of activities at Eastern began to increase. People began to walk a little bit faster to classes, rooms in the Powell Building set aside for organizational meetings became booked up and everyone took school a little more seriously. One reason for the increased seriousness on the part of the students was the increased interest in tests shown by teachers.

However, it was not only an increase in scholarly pursuit that marked this phase of the semester. Football practice became a little more serious and a little more physical as the season's first games approached. The first semester pledge period began for the sororities and Greek mixers and parties became an every weekend affair.

All other campus organizations began to organize further, with fund raising and social activities increasing. The Office of Student Activities scheduled a series of concerts on campus as activities increased to allow students a little time off from classes and other worries.

Helter ... Bugliosi Sketter

Vincent Bugliosi, the chief prosecutor in the Charles Manson case, spoke to an overflow crowd at Brock Auditorium on September 26. Bugliosi, author of the best selling book "Helter Skelter", described Manson as "an evil sophisticated con man" who turned relatively harmless young people into mass murderers. Manson convinced his followers that after a war between whites and blacks, the Manson family would control the world.

Bugliosi stated that he has now turned his attention away from the Manson case and has called for a reopening of the Robert Kennedy assassination investigation. His second book on the Manson case, "Till Death Do Us Part" was published recently. At the end of the lecture Bugliosi answered a number of questions from the audience. Even though he thinks Manson is not insane, Bugliosi believes him beyond redemption and feels the killer should never be paroled.

Nimoy Enlightens And Entertains

The University Centerboard presented Leonard Nimoy, star of the phenomenally successful "Star Trek" television series, Broadway actor and television personality, in a lecture appearance on February 16. Held in the Hiram Brock Auditorium, the free program contained a brief lecture and an extensive question and answer period. Nimoy discussed such diverse topics as U.F.O.'s, the problems of communicating in modern society, chances for a revival of the "Star Trek" science-fiction program, the responsibilities and opportunities for actors, and his present nationally syndicated series "In Search Of ...". Nimoy's easygoing style and frank responses created a relaxed atmosphere and provided for an entertaining evening.

For the Eastern student, the campus is the world he experiences 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It is here that he studies, attends classes, makes friends and relaxes in the company of friends — professors and classmates.

It is here that life's fondest memories are formed. It is here that he finds love, happiness, sadness, anxiety, satisfaction, and some disappointment. Combined, these make up the college experience.

in all seasons . . .

What makes Eastern so richly different? Eastern is a state of mind as well as a place with thousands of people gathered in a compact community. To every student there is something that is typically Eastern. It may be a tower, an arch, a stately column; it may be a building that has seen the passing of a century, or one that is just beginning its years of service.

An invigorating Indian Summer replaced the usual drab autumn as warm weather seemed to last forever. Almost overnight, the campus was electrified with colors. Crisp, bright leaves hung desperately onto their branches as students headed outdoors to take advantage of the wonderful weather. The ravine, with its tall trees and soft grass, was a favorite resting place, ideal for studying, cycling or squirrelwatching. Nevertheless, the rains came at last, and leaves, no longer part of a spacious canopy, matted into a soggy, cold carpet for students hurrying to midterm classes.

1977 Sigma Chi "Boogie Derby"

Capping a week of celebration and activity, the annual Sigma Chi Derby opened the greek fair season with a day of fun and excitement. This year's derby was more of a weekly event, with a "watermelon bust" competition on Tuesday night, a fireworks display on Wednesday night, window decoration judging on Thursday and the Derby Chase melee on Friday. Rounding out the week was an all-greek mixer at the ΣX house on Friday night.

Titled the "Boogie Derby" this year, the derby allowed Eastern's greek community a welcomed chance for fellowship. On Derby Day seven sororities vied for the ΣX Spirit Award in events such as "Milk My Baby" and "The Slippery Hole Chase". First place went to the sisters of Chi Omega and Kathy Cole of Alpha Delta Pi was crowned the Derby Queen.

GREEK The Spirit of Unity FAIRS The Fun of Competing

Lambda Chi's Initiate A New Campus Tradition

Held on September 22nd, the Lambda Chi Alpha "Watermelon Bust" competition brought a new and novel concept to campus. Competing in games using watermelons were over 60 teams of greek and independent coeds. Some of the games included the watermelon rolling contest, a greased melon relay, a watermelon eating contest and a search through a haystack for a watermelon. Almost 300 watermelons were consumed, one way or another, in a day that left the "Seed Spitters" from Clay Hall victorious, if queasy.

Booths And Events Draw Crowds . . .

Cloudy skies and the threat of rain did nothing to dampen spirits at the eight annual Sigma Alpha Epsilon County Fair. The fair was held this year on September 28th. Twelve fraternities and six sororities competed in SAE sponsored events and a number of booths were sponsored by fraternities and sororities.

Among the SAE events were a checkers championship, a stiltwalk, a cider chug, arm wrestling and a cigarette rolling contest. Events based in booths included a swing sponge booth, a basketball toss booth and a rope walk booth. Winning the overall sorority trophy was Alpha Gamma Delta; Delta Upsilon won the fraternity trophy.

Eastern Prepares For Homecoming 1977

The spirit of excitement and participation which peaked at the Homecoming game did not just appear from thin air. For weeks beforehand many organizations planned and prepared for the week's festivities. The returning classes of 1967 and 1972 were contacted, concerts and bands were booked and the various student organizations began work on their floats. Like all other campus decorations, the floats were suggestive of this year's homecoming theme of "Turn On With TV". They all featured characters from television programs and commercials.

Students in residence halls also got into the homecoming spirit. The dorm's pillars and front walls were decorated with colorful posters and signs.

Over 250 students braved a cold Thursday evening and joined the cheerleaders and the Pep Band as they saluted Coach Kidd and the football team. The nippy weather had little effect on the crowd, who seemed to rekindle a sense of school spirit that had not always been evident during the year. As Coach Kidd and several of the senior team members completed their reflections on what a victory over Western meant, the crowd dispersed with perhaps a new understanding of what competition and homecoming mean at Eastern.

Homecoming Spirit Parades Through Town

Homecoming is often the most exciting time of the school year. Old graduates come back to campus, Lancaster Avenue's trees are at their most colorful and the annual homecoming parade draws large crowds to watch the floats and listen to the bands. Good weather prevailed at Homecoming '77 and the parade drew an unusually large crowd. Monetary prizes were won by the Kappa Delta Tau-lota Epsilon Tau float

"MASH Western" (Most Original) and the Baptist Student Union float "Let's Cream Western" (Most Beautiful). Clowns from the Shriner's Club entertained everyone with their antics and costumes, while passing out balloons to children in the crowd. The high point of the parade was the appearance of the group of fifteen campus beauties who were the finalists in the contest for Queen of Homecoming for 1977.

GULDEN GAME

Eastern was the showplace of the Commonwealth during Homecoming '77. Student interest and school spirit soared to new heights making for a week of unparalleled excitement and the creation of many cherished memories.

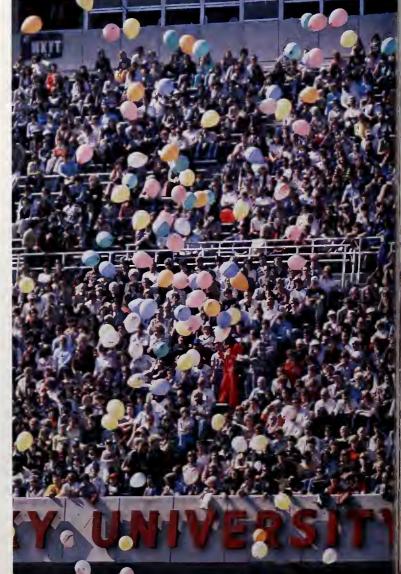

The homecoming theme, "Turn On With TV", could not have been more appropriate. As a regional television audience tuned in to the first live telecast of a college game originated by a Kentucky station, Eastern's Colonels turned on before 25,000 fans to soundly defeat cross-state rival Western, 35-10. The contest was lauded the "Golden Game" marking the 50th meeting between the two schools, and in the minds of every true Eastern fan, the game was a work of art. Only a last minute Hilltopper score prevented the Colonels from claiming their largest victory margin since the Eastern-Western series began.

Everything about Homecoming '77 was special. The weather could not have been more beautiful for the colorful parade of floats, bands and lovely queen candidates, and the festive mood of the annual Homecoming Dance on Friday made it a night to remember for all who attended.

It was, indeed, a very special weekend.

Thousands Turn On To Homecoming

Jenny Henson Crowned Amid Autumn's Beauty

A bright, beautiful fall day set the stage for Eastern's largest football crowd to witness the crowning of the 1977 Homecoming Queen. Jenny Henson, a senior from Somerset, was crowned in pregame ceremonies by President J. C. Powell. Miss Henson, an English major with a 3.8 G.P.A. and a Presidential Scholarship, plans to go on to graduate school. Her career plans include teaching college level English and writing a novel. Jenny is a member of the Sigma Tau Delta English honorary, the Kappa Delta Tau service sorority, and the Beta Theta Pi fraternity little sisters organization. She is also a majorette with the E.K.U. Marching Maroons.

Jenny was selected as the Kentucky representative to the All-American Homecoming Queens competition at the Orange Bowl Festival in Miami.

Starbuck Leads Off Concert Season

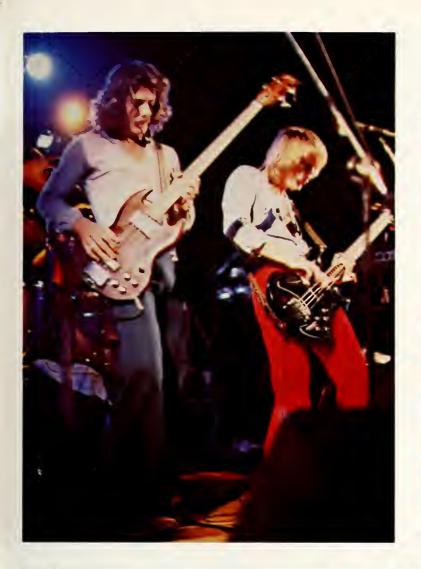

The mellow, southern rock and roll sounds of Starbuck opened the University Centerboard's major concert season. This year's first concert was held on September 22 in Hiram Brock Auditorium. The overflow crowd which filled the auditorium was entertained by such hit Starbuck singles as "Moonlight Feels Right" and "I Got to Know".

Starbuck, a band that opened the Seals and Crofts concert at Eastern last year, incorporated Africian instruments, marimbas and flutes into their lyrical compositions, creating a blend of relaxing, exotic music. The versatility of their music's style and content added greatly to the evening and the audiences enthusiastic response.

Love For Love Captures Style Of The Period

The Eastern Theatre Department opened their season with William Congreve's Restoration comedy Love For Love. The flavor of the period was captured well as the silks and satins of the costumes rustled against the polished wood finish of the set.

Centered around the apparently non-existent romantic involvement of Angelica and Valentine, the play spun a complicated web of misfortune and trickery. The lovers were eventually united but not several interferring characters suffered from their meddling.

MEDEA — A Tale Of Love And Revenge

A fascinating bit of Greek mythology was recreated for Eastern audiences in February with the staging of Robinson Jeffers' Medea. The production was an American adaptation of Euripedes' Greek tragedy which spins the tale of a betrayed woman who seeks revenge on the people who turned against her.

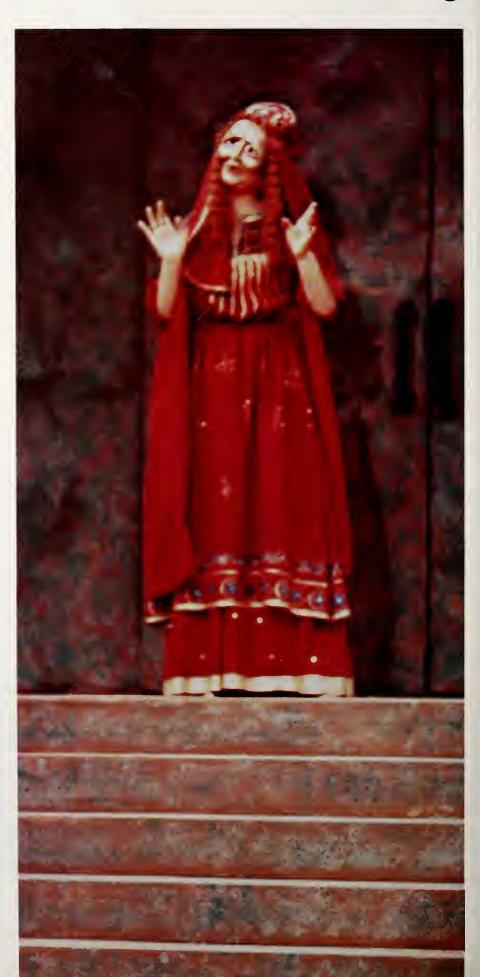

After being assisted by Medea in his quest for the Golden Fleece, her husband Jason leaves her for the daughter of another king.

Medea begins her vengeful plans by killing Jason's future wife and father-in-law. She then makes her vengence complete by killing her two sons.

The spirit of Greek theatre was well presented with the help of the outstanding costumes and expressive masks worn by the cast.

The character of Medea is thought by many to be one of the most dynamic female roles ever written. Sophomore Leslie Stokes did a splendid job of portraying the powerful character of Medea.

RIGHT: After being betrayed by the man she served and loved, Medea (Leslie Stokes) sets out to destroy him utterly and completely.

Guthrie Concert Is Simple And Relaxed

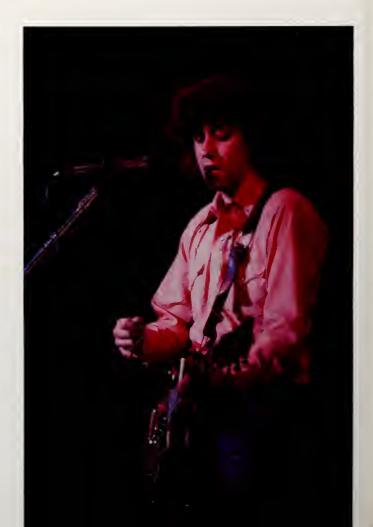

Delighting the crowd with his music and philosophy, Arlo Guthrie, along with his band Shenandoah brought his own special brand of entertainment to Brock Auditorium on March 6th.

The son of the late singer Woody Guthrie, Arlo Guthrie carried on his father's folksinging tradition in a concert of ballads and folk-songs mixed with more contemporary music.

Accompanying his music with stories and jokes, Guthrie seemed to entertain his listeners on a personal basis.

By the end of the concert audience members were caught up by the presence of the charismatic singer.

The Christmas Spirit hit campus shortly after Thanksgiving break, bringing students and faculty together in the celebration of the birth of Christ.

The University offered a number of traditional Christmas activities and celebrations for the students and the local community. The Department of Music sponsored an Elizabethan Madrigal Feaste on December 8 and 9, complete with a seven course dinner and Elizabethan dancing and music.

Several campus organizations, including the Collegiate Pentacle and Eastern's social fraternities and sororities, presented the 48th Annual Hanging of the Greens on December 11.

The same evening, the 46th performance of Handel's Messiah took place. Under the direction of David Wehr and Earle Thomas, the EKU Concert Choir, University Singers, and Symphony Orchestra provided the entertainment.

In a sense, it was also a traditional Christmas observance by Eastern students. Throughout campus, dorm rooms were decorated with lights and ribbons, while many dorms and fraternity houses had tree decorating parties.

Winter's Heavy Snows Beautify Campus

Eastern and Central Kentucky received more than their share of the nation's record breaking winter weather. The winter was characterized by large snow accumulations, stiff winds and icy conditions. Classes were cancelled for two days in January when roads became treacherous and icy.

Snow lay on the ground from December until well into March, while students slowly learned to adjust to the restricting weather. Regardless of all the discomfort and inconveniences it brought, everyone had to admit that the snowy beauty of the winter of 1977-1978 was breathtaking.

Students Adjust To Record Snows

Though the snow created a beautiful campus scene, most students would agree that it also left a lot of headaches behind. For those who tried to drive, the result was more often than not a battery jump from a friend or a wrecker. And if you were lucky enough to have a battery that started, you were faced with the rather difficult task of scraping off the car windows.

For those who tried to walk around campus, the going was not much easier. Icy sidewalks created problems galore. Snow plows made the scene in February, but not in time to save many of the slips and falls.

These setbacks, however, did not keep the spirit of Eastern's students down for long. The snowball fights and snowmen that came with the bad weather showed the ability of people to enjoy life, even in times of adversity.

Cooperation Prevents Major Problems

On January 26, a near disaster occurred at Telford Hall. At 7:15 P.M., fire struck room 1043 of the dormitory. As smoke billowed out of dorm windows and fire engines sat uselessly below, women calmly evacuated their living quarters. The eerie scene could be seen from downtown Richmond, and momentarily created anxieties in the city.

The problems of the fire brought out the best in students. Helping hands, extra clothes, and an overnight roommate were common stories for weeks in the grill and around campus.

Room 1043 was a total loss. Fortunately, fire and water damage in the dorm were the only losses. No one was seriously injured in the blaze, though some minor frostbite cases were reported.

Quick thinking by many averted a major disaster.

Flu Season Takes Its Toll On Campus

Accompanying the winter weather to campus this past year was an almost epidemic of influenza.

Whether the bug that invaded Eastern was the Russian flu or just the everyday Richmond strain, it hit campus like a blitzkrieg.

The infirmary was overrun with students seeking help. Lines were long and hours shortened, as nurses were unable to maneuver on the ice-covered roads of Madison County.

Doctors countered the cold and flu season with a variety of pills and syrups, but for many, the flu still restulted in missing classes. Though some students undoubtedly enjoyed a couple of days off from class, the miserable feeling that accompanies a 103 temperature left many others suffering and in bed.

Physical Fitness Is Important To All

One of the most obvious concerns around campus the past year was personal physical fitness. From around every corner and in every racquetball court, students and faculty could be seen trying to get into shape.

Thousands of students participated in a variety of campus activities. Intramural sports for both men and women offered organized and structured play for everyone. Racquetball and the free swim program met with phenomenal success, while weightlifting and jogging offered individuals privacy during periods of exercise.

Though most students failed in their efforts to become the perfect physical specimen, many did succeed in improving their overall physical fitness.

Hidden World Supports Eastern's Activities

Hidden behind closed doors or secluded in some remote corner of campus are the people and machines that keep things working. Few students ever see these behind the scenes people but without them, operations of the University would soon come to a grinding halt.

From furnace operators to communication directors, these people are the life support system of the campus. Without them, classrooms would be cold, football games would not exist, and communications would cease. Think about what may be behind those locked doors next time you journey across campus.

Campus Movies Revived

The Office of Student Activities revived the campus film series during the Fall '77 semester, showing films seven days a week in the 137-seat Pearl Buchanan Theatre.

The films were successful enough that plans were made to continue the series indefinitely. Among the reasons for the program's success were the facts that the films were well advertised, shown regularly at the same location and at the same low cost. Monday night special showings, at which time foreign, cultural vintage, or classic films were shown, also contributed to the series' good fortune.

Pamela Martin, a sophomore social work major representing the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity won the 5th Annual Miss Ebony Pageant. Held on February 2, the pageant was hosted by Wilbert Goatley and Karen Bearden. Miss Martin performed an interpretive dance set to African music in her talent portion of the pageant.

The Alpha Kappa Alpha sponsored event also included competition in the areas of sports wear, swim wear, and evening wear. Delphia Davis, representing the University Gospel Ensemble, took the runner-up title. Bobbie Jean Finnel and Trinia Dixon, both sponsored by the Phi Beta Sigma Sweetheart Club, took second and third runner-up respectively.

EXAMS: A Moment Of Anxiety . .

Finals — the last hurdle in a semester of hard work. For some it was an opportunity to show what had been learned after months of concentrated study. For others, it was finally time to sober up and face the gloomy specter of possible failure. No matter how prepared (or unprepared) the students were, their faces always reflected the work, concentration, calculation and eventual relief or despair that resulted from their efforts.

A Breath Of Relief

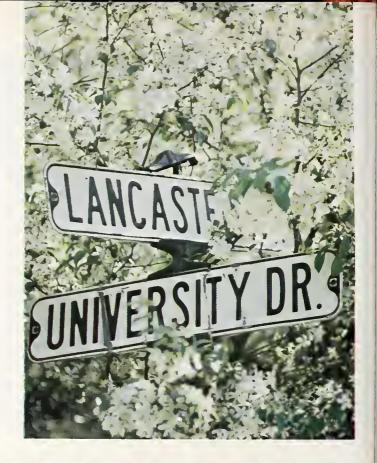

Spring Beauty: Renaissance Of Nature

The annual renaissance of the beauty of Eastern returned to campus during the second semester as Nature seemed to blossom everywhere. The pinks, greens, reds, and whites of flowers and trees replaced the dirty brown snow as the dominant colors of the campus.

Though some streets lost their identity to flowering dogwoods, the campus itself retained its appropriate nickname — the campus beautiful.

Overlooking all of Nature's splendor was one of Eastern's most beautiful landmarks, the clock tower of the Keen Johnson Building.

Eastern Rediscovers The Outdoors

Accompanying the beautiful colors of spring to the campus out of doors was Eastern's population.

Students flocked to various campus locations to bask in the bright sunshine or to simply take time out for a moment of peaceful tranquility. The ravine was again the center of most springtime activities. Offering a combination of beauty and solitude, the ravine, as much as anything else on campus, was the symbol of our exultation with nature.

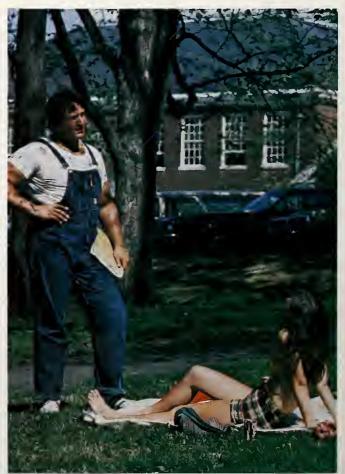

Many students gathered on the square by the bookstore while others found a quieter location by the back entrance of the library.

Regardless of where they gathered, Eastern's community was taking time out from busy schedules to stop and enjoy the first days of a renewed campus.

University Woodlands: A Giant Classroom

The "classrooms" at Eastern are not merely the buildings wherein classes are held. They are anywhere that students and teachers can learn and study. One example of this is the series of nature preserves controlled by the University.

These natural woodlands, Lilly Cornett Woods in Letcher County, Maywoods in Garrett and Rockcastle Counties, and the Spencer-Morton preserve in Powell County, act as a classroom for environmental education studies and as protective preserve for animal and plant species.

These preserves provided undergraduate and graduate students with invaluable information about the ecological structures in a forested setting. The woodlands also acted as recreational areas for the public, with hiking paths, bird watching and photographic opportunities, recreational areas, and public walking tours, held from April to October and guided by biology students.

Graduation: An End, Yet A Beginning

After years of study and learning, graduation from college took only a few hours. Eastern's graduates looked at commencement and graduation as not an end to their learning but rather as another beginning. They looked forward with anticipation and a little anxiety to their futures. Eastern had given them the tools and skills for survival in an increasingly complex society. What they did with the promise of Eastern's gift was totally up to the individual graduate.

For many, this meant summer weddings and the beginning of a new family, while others would continue their education in graduate or professional programs. Whatever Eastern's graduates decided upon, they all realized that their future was now in their hands.

Graduation Changes Improve Ceremonies

The university itself had learned over the years about graduation. In an effort to alleviate certain problems surrounding this memorable day, Eastern revised its graduation ceremony.

Baccalaureate was moved to Brock Auditorium with less fanfare. Commencement would continue in Alumni Coliseum but with several changes. And for the first time, students were recognized as "candidates" for degrees rather than as "graduates".

But regardless of the changes, seniors faced one more line before leaving their campus. One line that would take them into a world that awaited their new ideas.

Julian M. Carroll

Dedicated To Education

The Honorable Julian Morton Carroll, now in his fourth year as Governor of the Commonwealth, became known as an "education governor" during the 1978 session of the Kentucky General Assembly.

The Executive Budget presented by Governor Carroll to the State's lawmakers gave priority to education, specifically to teachers' salaries of elementary and secondary schools. Kentucky's teachers now look forward to salaries that are equal to, or better than those in surrounding states. Funding for cost-of-living increases and modest growth at the regional universities were provided by the budget while the Universities of Kentucky and Louisville received special consideration in the distribution of state funds.

A native of Paducah, the Chief Executive has been a frequent visitor at Eastern for ground breakings, building dedications and other special events.

Under his aegis, the Council on Higher Education directs Kentucky's system of higher education.

Board Approves Reorganizations

The Board approved a biennial budget request for state appropriations amounting to over $60,000,000 for the two year period. The budget was based on program continuation as well as new and expanded programs and was supported by the application of formula factors to each as provided by the Council on Higher Education.

Several reorganization plans were also approved by the Board including Career Development and Placement. The Division was reorganized to allow for a new thrust in recruiting the recruiters and preparing the student for his job search.

The most extensive reorganization approved was the establishment of nine colleges from seven under the previous design. Under the new plan, the School of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics was elevated to college status. Other new colleges created were the College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences, College of Social and Behavioral Sciences and College of Arts and Humanities.

Mission Statement Developed

ABOVE: Dr. J. C. Powell meets with the Administrative Council to discuss the problems caused by severe winter storms. Registration schedules had to be changed because of poor road conditions.

Dr. J. C. Powell's first full academic year as Eastern's seventh president was highlighted by the recommendation of the University Planning Council which developed a reorganized academic structure for the University under his chairmanship.

In a move that received approval from the Board of Regents, Eastern's academic college structure was increased from seven to nine colleges. The merger of the College of Arts and Sciences and Central University College resulted in the formation of three colleges, and the School of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics was elevated to college status. The reorganization becomes effective July 1, 1979.

Among other significant developments highlighting the year, Dr. Powell appointed a committee which concerned itself with the study of Eastern's compliance under Title IX, the education amendment act that prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex. The University has set a goal to be in full accord with the measure by the July 21, 1978, deadline.

Early this year, President Powell was actively involved in the development of the role and mission statements for Kentucky's public colleges and universities which were outlined by the Council on Higher Education.

Another important development occurred in February involving Dr. Powell who served as president of the Ohio Valley Conference. Perhaps the most important decision in the OVC during his tenure was the action taken by the league presidents to petition for more prestigious status in NCAA football as members of the newly formed Division 1-AA.

Martins Active in University Life

Recognizing that President Emeritus Robert R. Martin's wisdom and leadership abilities uniquely qualified him for continued service even after his retirement as the sixth president of Eastern, his constituents elected him by a wide majority to represent the 22nd District in the Kentucky State Senate.

Senator Martin, whose "Vision of Greatness" and "Think Big" philosophy inspired his relentless efforts to guide Eastern through a period of great growth and development from July 1, 1960 throughout September 30, 1976, continued with the same energetic pace that characterized his presidency throughout the Martin Years. During his freshman year in the State Senate, he served as vice chairman of the Education Committee and member of the Appropriation and Revenue and Health and Welfare Committee.

Observers were quick to admit that "he zealously protected the interests of public education and Eastern, in particular, at all times throughout the 1978 session of the General Assembly.

He and his charming wife, Anne, former first lady of Eastern, continued to be staunch supporters of activities at the University. They kept an eye on the campus to which they were endeared simply by glimpsing out a window from their home on Summit Street, just off the campus.

Budget Developed

Of prime concern among the activities of the administrative staff in the Office of the President was the development of the 1978-80 biennial appropriations request which was submitted to Governor Julian Carroll through the Council on Higher Education following approval by the Board of Regents.

The appropriations request, along with the 1978-79 internal budget were the chief responsibilities of the Division of Budget and Planning which received support from the Internal Auditor and Executive Assistant.

In an effort to maintain a more service-oriented unit and improve officer training, a total reorganization of the Division of Safety and Security was implemented during the year. Also, the position of Safety Coordinator was created in the Division to give more visibility and effectiveness to the University's efforts in promoting student and employee safety practices. The division of Natural Areas continued to develop and coordinate the utilization of Eastern's three preserves—Maywoods, Spencer-Morton Preserve and Lilley Cornett Woods.

Changes Made In Advising System

One of the more extensive administrative offices on campus was the Office of Academic Affairs and Research. Headed by Dr. John D. Rowlett, the Office consisted of several divisions including the Community College Program, Development, Libraries and Learning Resources, the Registrar, Institutional Research, the Graduate School, Undergraduate Studies and the seven Colleges.

One of the biggest changes taking place this year within the Office dealt with a change reviously Central University College coordinated the undergraduate advising and a student was usually transferred to his respective college in his junior year. Under the new system, all advising is supervised through Undergraduated Studies. Now it is possible for students to retain the same advisor during their entire four years at school.

Fire Safety Plans Studied

Dr. Thomas D. Myers, Vice President for Student Affairs, supervised a broad scope of student-oriented programs and services. Under his direction was Student Housing, Admissions, the Student Health Service, Student Financial Assistance, the Ellendale Counseling Center and Student Activities and Organizations.

Dr. Myers worked with representatives from Men and Women's Interdorm through the year in areas such as fire safety and control. A new open house policy was proposed in April.

The Ellendale Counseling Center continued to serve students in areas such as various types of testing and the CRISIS line.

This winter saw a record number of students treated in the Tim Lee Carter Health Service. Eight full time nurses and doctors provided their services to ailing students.

A cutback in funding did not prevent the Office of Student Activities and Organizations from providing the campus population with various types of entertainment. The year was filled with music, drama, dance and lectures.

Business Affairs Adds Division of Communications

Matters involving business and logistical services of the University took up a large portion of time for Neal Donaldson, Vice President of Business Affairs. The Office included the Division of Personnel Services, the Office of the Bursar, the Division of Food Services, the Division of Buildings and Grounds, University Stores and University Farms, the Division of Institutional Services, the Division of Purchasing and the new Division of Communication Service. These offices provided business-related services necessary for the proper operation of the University.

Public Affairs Expands Services

The Office of Public Affairs under the leadership of Vice President Donald R. Feltner completed another fulfilling vear in striving to serve the needs of the University community and Eastern's growing roll of alumni. The year was highlighted by the planning and coordination of the first live telecast of a college football game in the state by a Kentucky commercial television station when the Eastern-Western Homecoming game was beamed across the Commonwealth by WKYT-TV of Lexington. A significant reorganization occurred in the Division of Career Development and Placement, one of the four divisions within the Office of Public Affairs.

The Division of Public Information, under the direction of John Winnecke, was instrumental in keeping the students, faculty, staff and the media outlets informed of campus activities and events. The Division was responsible for all University publications and undertook the reorganization of its publications program. An addition to the Division's professional staff this year was Michael Hardesty, a graphics specialist.

The Division of Alumni Affairs made additional strides this year in serving Eastern's alumni and was the main force behind the scenes in making Homecoming '77 a major success and helping to bring a record number of graduates back to their alma mater.

Although hampered by a record snowfall which played havoc with state high school schedules, the Division of University-School Relations again played an integral part in hosting and supervising workshops, conferences, camps and festivals. A new format for Band Day was introduced this year and the division was responsible for its success.

With the reorganization of the Division of Career Development and Placement under its new director, Kurt Zimmerman, added emphasis was placed on career development and the placement service, which is beneficial to both students and alumni, was stepped up to better inform them of job opportunities and helpful hints in the job search. A dramatic increase resulted in the number of on-campus interviews given by a diverse group of prospective employers.

Sexton Oversees Building Of Planetarium

Under the direction of Dr. William Sexton, the Office of Public Services and Special Programs continued to grow. While overseeing the activities in the Division of Special Programs, the Office of University Computing Services, the Division of Television and Radio and the University Archives, Vice President Sexton continued to supervise the building of the Arnim D. Hummel Planetarium and the establishment of the University Oral History Center.

The biggest advancement and growth within the Office of Public Services and Special Programs was seen in the Division of Special Programs. An increase in conferences, workshops and seminars both on and off campus had over 13,000 participants. Over 70 non-credit special interest courses enrolled over 1200 people.

The Division of Continuing Education once again provided a variety of traditional and nontraditional education opportunities to interested individuals. The Division attempted to meet their needs through extented campus classes, correspondence study, cooperative education, Saturday and evening classes and nontraditional programs.

The Office of University Computing Services had five full time researchers to serve the University as well as a new minicomputer with several across-campus terminals.

The Division of Television and Radio continued to serve the University by providing students with working experience and by producing several special programs viewed in various locations.

The newest additions to Public Services and Special Programs are the University Archives, the University Oral History Program and the Hummel Planetarium. Both the archives and oral history programs have been established and the planetarium is still under construction.

CUC Revamped Into Undergraduate Studies

The Department of Undergraduate Studies, under chairman Joseph Schwendeman, was directly responsible for ensuring that every student completed the general education requirements of the University. All undergraduate records were maintained by the department and plans were made for the computerization of these records within the next few years. The department was also responsible for advising undecided students, who comprise approximately 9% of the 11,000 undergraduates.

In addition to these administrative duties, the Department of Undergraduate Studies oversaw the continual upgrading of programs within each of its individual departments. It also directed the formation and institution of new programs within these departments.

Dr. Wallace Dixon was in a unique position as undergraduate chairman of the Natural Science Department; the curriculum of his department was designed primarily to allow non-science majors to fulfill their general education science requirements. To retain the interest of students without a major interest in science, the department strove to offer courses which demonstrated the relationship between science and current issues. This emphasis was reflected in the number of environmentally and ecologically related courses available to the students.

In addition to dealing with contemporary issues, the Natural Science Department also looked forward to the future. Dr. Dixon feels that within the next five years many non-scientific jobs will demand some familiarity with the operation of computers. In anticipation of this trend, the department increased the number of computer assisted courses in hopes that more students would acquire a basic knowledge of computers and their language.

The General Studies Humanities Department combined complementary studies in art, music, philosophy, literature and religion in a interdisciplinary approach intended to guide students to a fuller awareness of our culture and its background and sources. The curriculum of the department was also designed to allow students to fulfill their General Studies Humanities requirements.

To achieve this twofold purpose, this year the department expanded course contents to include more extensive studies of Eastern and African cultures. In addition, each class required its students to produce a creative project which expressed in a non-verbal media a human or an aesthetic value which the individual student found important to him. Outside of class, students were encouraged to attend three fine arts events each semester to bring themselves into closer contact with the arts.

Learning Skills Department Aids Many Students

Last July the Central University College Academic Counseling and Learning Laboratory was renamed the Department of Learning Skills. This change in names was not a superficial one; it was reflective of the prodigious growth experienced by the department since its inception in 1969. Evidence of this growth was found in the increasing population served by the department. Originally designed to help students on academic probation, the Department of Learning Skills, under the guidance of Chairperson Ann Algier, ministered to self-referrals. faculty referrals, foreign students in need of English fluency training and older students who may have been absent from a formal learning situation for some time.

Another indication of expansion was the variety of courses offered by the department. Besides the non-credit tutorial and refresher courses, the curriculum included two credit courses.

The quanitative growth of the department has not impaired the quality of its programs. A recent study of 300 two and four year institutions cited Eastern as being one of six universities in the nation with exemplary programs.

The Military Science Department, directed by Colonel Charles Phillips, provided training in leadership, management and military skills. About 900 freshmen, 100 which were women, and 250 sophomores were enrolled in courses fulfilling general education requirements. About 100 contracted junior and senior cadets worked on mastering the advanced skills necessary in becoming commissioned Second Lieutenants in the Army. The high enrollment made Eastern's Reserve Officer's Training Course contingent the largest in the nation.

Rural Health Care Stressed By College

The College of Allied Health and Nursing comprises an academic community whose main objective is to train students in the various health fields. A special emphasis is placed upon producing graduates who feel oriented toward rural health care, according to Dean David D. Gale. Since Kentucky has a low ratio of health professionals to population, Eastern has strived to meet this special need felt in the Commonwealth, especially in Eastern Kentucky. The college operated a two-year satellite nursing program in Pikeville as well as a number of extended nursing classes throughout Kentucky.

Continuing education and special projects have extended into a number of programs. This move was primarily oriented to individuals already in the health field who have come back to extend their knowledge and to update skills.

Among this year's graduating seniors were the first graduates with Medical Records Bachelor of Science Degrees. Ms. Everlena Homes, department head, said that the department has also been recommended for accrediation.

New Lab Established In Begley

Under the direction of Mr. Tom Hammack, the Emergency Medical Training program was in its second year. Established in August of 1976, the program offered the only Associate Degree available in the state. Students in this program were trained to respond to the scene of any type of emergency. Upon completion of this program, graduates often go to work for fire and police agencies as well as ambulance services.

The Associate program in Medical and Pediatrics Assisting offered students a chance to gain office and medical skills for future use. To better meet the need of the students, a new medical lab was also established in the Begley Building this year.

Meeting the health needs of Kentucky was one of the main focuses in the Occupational Therapy Program according to Chairperson Dorothy A. Jeffery. A six months field experience helped to meet this need by exposing students to rural settings. During the field training, the students were placed in medical, social and community, and occupational facilities where occupational therapy was practiced. An accreditation team visited this year and the new program may receive accreditation by the end of this school year.

Nursing Works On Evaluation

The Baccalaureate Nursing program worked on a self-evaluation this year to prepare for a visit from the National League for Nursing Accreditation. The Associate program received re-accreditation this year. Both departments worked on revising their curriculum and programs to make it more student oriented and to allow more input from students.

Departmental Enrollments Grow And Expand

Experiencing a steady increase in enrollment, the College of Applied Arts and Technology placed an emphasis on striving for internal quality. Since the college is comprised of departments that deal with applied studies, a special emphasis was placed on Co-op work among students. According to Dean Kenneth S. Hannson, the three departments of Agriculture, Home Economics and Industrial Education and Technology all have students participating in the program. Over 80 agriculture students worked in nurseries and farms from Canada to Florida, while Home Economics and Industrial Education and Technology students were placed in agencies and industries in this region.

The Home Economics Department under the direction of Dr. Betty Powers is rapidly growing and expanding.

Future plans include a proposal that would strengthen the Food Systems Administration and Dietetics programs by providing for the installation of a food lab that would allow quanity food production. A proposed infant and toddler lab and a Master's program in Community Nutrition are also being considered.

Ag Department Works Toward New Degree

Internal evaluation was one of the primary projects in the Agriculture Department this year, according to Chairman Dwight G. Barkley. Course offerings and catalog discriptions were some of the areas worked on. The department was also trying to establish a Bachelor's degree in Horticulture in additions to the B.S. in Agriculture and Associate degree in Horticulture that are already offered. The new degree would offer more diversification to the program and allow emphasis in a number of specialized areas.

Curriculum Is Revamped In Industrial Education

The new Construction Technology program offered by the Industrial Education and Technology Department received a great deal of attention and support from local contractors this year. According to Dr. Clyde Craft, chairman, graduates of this program can become a small residential contractor with two or three years of experience. They would also be qualified for jobs with larger contractors. Certification in the Industrial Education program was recently changed and this year's freshmen are following a different curriculum guide.

TOP: In the face of the energy crunch, the work done by these interior design majors on house plans featuring solar heating seems very timely. LEFT: Learning to remember to wear a safety mask is just as important as learning to work industrial equipment for senior Roy Stewart of Worthville.

Arts And Sciences Adopts New Projects

The role of the College of Arts and Sciences is to provide a liberal education for all interested students, according to Dean Frederic D. Ogden. This year the college adopted new procedures in awarding promotion and tenure to faculty. The changes will allow greater faculty input into the decisions.

The energy crisis was one reason given by Dr. Donald Haney for the increase in geology majors from 40 to 80 in recent years. Dr. Haney, chairman of the Geology Department, said that the department now offered a two year program in Engineering Technology, and added a Master of Science Degree with a Mining Specialization.

New courses in Spanish, Russian, French and German culture were added to departmental offerings this year, according to Dr. Charles Nelson, chairman of the Foreign Language Department. The courses are taught in English and provide students with more options for their Humanities requirements. The department continued to offer a special Spanish class for Law Enforcement majors that was taught differently than other language classes.

The Geography Department was involved with two major research projects this year. Combining their efforts with the Geology Department, they studied the topography of Eastern Kentucky. The department also mapped coal mining areas in Eastern Kentucky as part of a project financed by the Environmental Protection Agency. Throughout the year the department also worked with the city of Richmond by providing planning assistance to the Community Development Department and the Richmond Planning Commission.

Mass Comm Offers New Major

The Department of Mass Communications, under Chairman James Harris, offered a Public Relations major for the first time. The radio lab was moved from the coliseum to the Wallace Building where more room was available. These changes were made to serve the 315 majors within the department — the second largest in the college.

The 44 full-time faculty members of the English Department constituted the largest single department in the university last year. At the freshman level, Dr. John Long, the new chairman of the department, placed a greater emphasis on writing. In the sophomore level humanities courses, the department tried to include other cultures besides the Western in their studies. The graduate program was modified to allow the student to select a major and a minor area of concentration. More writing courses on the graduate level were also available.

Two new faculty members were added to the Psychology Department this year, according to Chairman Russell F. Enzie. Dr. Joan Jackson and Dr. Karen Sinclair joined the staff. They specialized in clinical and child development. Beside offering an undergraduate program, the department offered two types of graduate programs. One program in general psychology was geared to students interested in eventually working on their PhD while the other graduate program dealt with clinical psychology.

Arts Stress Performance

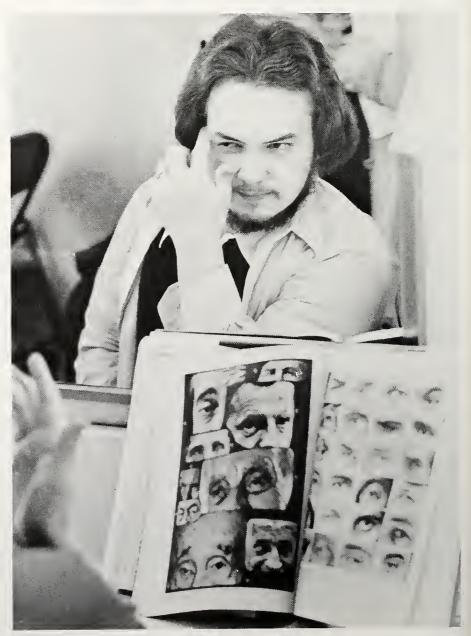

The Art Department under the direction of Mr. Daniel Shindelbower offered curricula designed to develop artistic skill both on the professional level and the educational level. The department offered a degree in Art Education as well as a Fine Arts Degree.

A new degree in Music Merchandising was offered by the Department of Music. According to Chairman George Muns, about 15 students are now in the program. The program combines the benefits of business training and music to produce graduates who will be better able to enter many musical fields. A semester intership with a music firm was included in the program. Two other programs are in the planning stages. The department hoped to eventually offer a degree in Arts Management and a Bachelor of Music and Special Education degree.

The Department of Theatre and Speech offered three programs this year, the newest being a major in Speech Communications and Human Relations. In addition to the four major productions of the year, the department also presented several studio and special project productions.

Classes Study Environment

After recently changing its name to better reflect the departmental offerings, the Department of Mathematical Sciences now offers programs in math, computer science, and statistics. The computer science program is in its second year and is gradually being phased in over a four year period. This fall the department, headed by Dr. Bennie R. Lane, sponsored the second annual Math-Science Day. Approximately 800 high school students attended the event which was set up to better introduce the students to the department and the university.

Two new courses geared to the interest of the general public were offered by the Department of Physics this year. A course in the Science of Music dealt with basic physics applied to musical instruments and sound. Since energy is a popular topic of discussion in the country, a course in Energy For A Technological Society was also offered. The course allowed students to alolyse popular myths and statements concerning energy. Under the direction of Chairman Ted M. George, the department offered a Bachelor's and Master's Degree. A Pre-Engineering program was offered as well as an Associate degree in the Science of Engineering.

Eastern is the only university in this region to offer three environmental degrees, stated Dr. Edwin Hess chairman of the Biology Department. Several of the faculty were occupied with outside studies this year. Dr. Raymond Otero offered several microbiological workshops and Dr. David Mardon recently completed a research project in "oncology", the study of cancer.

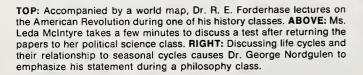

The Chemistry Department served about 2400 students last year, said Dr. Harry Smiley, chairman of the department. Most of those were lower division students whose majors required a chemistry course; others took chemistry as an elective, and a small group of eight were working on their Master's degree.

Computers Used As Teaching Aids

Of the 130 majors in the Anthropology, Sociology, and Social Work Department, most were in Social Work according to Chairman Vance Wisenbaker. Reflective of this majority was the progress made in work toward accreditation for the Social Work section of the department. After four years of work, the department will be eligible for accreditation in the spring of 1979. It will be one of the few accredited programs in the state.

An Oral History program was developed in the History Department this year said Chairman George Robinson. The program was coordindated by Dr. William Berge. The goals of the department include trying to prepare the students for a wide variety of careers including civil service, law, business and politics. This well rounded preparation was important since almost half of the 100 history majors aren't working on a teaching certificate.

Computers came into use in the Philosophy Department last year. Dr. James R. Miller, chairman, had a national consultant who was an expert in the use of computers as a teaching aid to observe the department's logic courses. The use of computers helped students to develop logic skills more quickly and gave them the opportunity to practice their logic on computers. Besides the computer innovation, there is also a trend within the department towards the study of ethics as applied to health, medicine, business and other areas. Interest in religion courses has also increased and possible expansion is being studied.

An emphasis in student envolvement was evident in the Department of Political Science according to Chairman J. Allen Singleton. Through the year interested students participated in a mock United Nations assembly. The trip to New York City was co-sponsored by the department and CIRUNA. A state internship program was also available for qualified students. Each year Eastern is able to nominate three students for the program which enables the students to work closely with the state government in Frankfort, Other student practicums were also arranged on an individual basis. During the year the department petitioned for a chapter of Pi Sigma Alpha—the national political science honorary fraternity.

Business Adds Mining Degree

Dean Howard Thompson of the College of Business directed the planning of a new Coal Mining Administration Program which was started with the Spring 1978 semester. The only comprehensive program of it's type in the country, this total program would prepare students for management positions within the growing coal mining industry. The program will eventually evolve into a four-year B.B.A. degree within the Business Administration Department. Dean Thompson projected an approximate enrollment of 20 in the program by the fall of 1978, with enrollment doubling each semester, finally reaching a maximum of around 150.

The functions of a Coal Mining Administrator would include work in the areas of industrial relations, contract negotiations, budgeting, transportation problems and liaison work with the Federal and State governments for mining expansion and production efficiency. A Coal Mining Administrator, according to Dean Thompson, will be a "combination of a person who knows mining and its terminology, and a person who can make business applications in the coal mining industry."

Other areas within the college also experienced growth, the most rapid growth coming in the areas of Accounting, Data Management, Finance, Insurance and Real Estate.

The Accounting Department, under the guidance of Chairman Claude Smith, provided four separate programs to students majoring in accounting, and offered curricula designed to help business majors to fulfill their accounting requirements.

Along with emphasizing improvement in these programs, the department also worked towards the formation of the Alumni Accounting Association. Comprised of accounting graduates, the Association hoped to aid the department in such programs as the Richards Scholarship Fund. This fund was started by a patron of the University and was maintained by donations from alumni. The scholarship pays the in-state tuition of a worthy accounting student for two semesters.

There was tremendous growth in the Business Administration Department. With a 30% increase per year, the department doubled in size since 1974 and had 950 majors.

Insurance and real estate classes increased because of the interest in these subjects by the general public. Along with this interest came a Master of Business Administration degree.

A new facility, the Management Instructional and Testing Lab, headed by Dr. Norvaline Hale, was formed. It gave instructional help to management students and provided a place for students and faculty to meet and discuss management problems.

Economics Department Seeks Self-Improvement

The Department of Business Education offered a variety of courses designed to prepare students for work in the areas of business teaching or office administration.

Students of business education were offered majors with accounting, secretarial or general business emphasis. Graduates of these programs received teaching certification in business education at the high school level.

In Office Administration, Chairman Alfred Patrick stressed the continuing improvement of the two-year secretarial programs instituted in 1975. In addition to these programs, students who wanted a four-year office administration program without the teaching certification were offered a Bachelor of Business Administration degree.

As chairman of the Economics Department, Dr. Donald Shadoan emphasized not the new programs, but the improvement of current ones. A 15% increase in enrollment in Economic courses spoke well for this approach.

One innovation, however, received some of the department's attention and effort; a push was mounted to gain accreditation for economics teachers at the middle school level in Kentucky. Though the courses of the Economics Department are primarily geared towards preparing students for careers in privately owned businesses and government agencies, the department does offer a teaching minor.

Of the existing areas which Dr. Shadoan intended to improve, his effort was primarily concentrated on upgrading the Economics Education Center.

Educational Foundations Provide Insights

The College of Education continued to look for new and more efficient methods to enable Eastern to produce more and better teachers and educational administrators. This year, the college was under the temporary leadership of Dean J. Linward Doak while Dean Dixon A. Barr was on sabbatical leave. During the year all graduating seniors took the National Competency Examination. The results of this exam will be used as a basis for evaluation of the college's programs.

The Department of Educational Administration, under Chairman Charles Ross, offered specialized curricula to those students intending to enter the area of school administration. Programs were available to students aiming to become school superintendents or supervisors, elementary or secondary school principals and school business administrators. The Department also maintained seven campus extension offices, located throughout central and eastern Kentucky, which served over 260 graduate students.

Primarily concerned with giving prospective educators an idea of what teaching is like, the Educational Foundations Department structured its curricula to provide insights into what Chairman William McKenny called "the why and wherefores of teaching."

Stressing the need for an understanding of the role of the school within the community, Dr. McKenny emphasized study of the "externals" of the classroom.

Graduate programs continued to be the primary concern for the Educational Psychology and Counseling Department, according to Chairperson Lola Doane. Participation in these programs lead on to specialization in the areas of school psychology, rehabilitation, community, industrial and secondary school counseling, or student personnel services in higher education.

Department Produces Quality Teachers

Student enrollment in the elementary education program has been fairly stable over the past three years, according to Chairman William Morris of the Elementary Education Department. This year, enrollment remained stable at 800 students. One minor change in curriculum was necessary this year; student teaching assignments were lengthened to 12 weeks effective this fall. In addition, a project was initiated involving a cooperative exchange of teachers between Eastern and the Franklin County School system. Agenda for the self-study programs for specialist degrees were also written by the department.

The Secondary Education Department, chaired by Dr. Joe Wise, continued to provide the "professional semester" to those majors seeking certification for secondary school teaching. In this semester, the study of teaching fundamentals is supplemented by attention to specific methods of teaching in specialized fields. The department also provided an inservice and consulted help to secondary schools in the region. Advising and administering to secondary education graduates, in cooperation with the Graduate School, was the department's responsibility.

Dr. David Rush, the director, and his Professional Laboratory Experiences staff placed approximately 460 student teachers this year. Many miles were logged by the supervisors of these student teachers, 290 secondary and 170 elementary, as they were scattered throughout 25 Kentucky counties.

Library Science put into practice the program changes needed in order to conform to new certification requirements. Support to the Elementary Education Department was given through the children's literature course. Instructional media classes were another department responsibility.

Competency Exams Established

The Special Education and Rehabilitation Department, under the direction of Dr. William David, had an enrollment of 230 students in its special education program, 115 in the speech program and 30 students in the rehabilitation program. New certification requirements caused the initiation of several program changes. The department also worked with the Elementary Education Department in carrying out the actions necessitated by a new public law which stated that exceptional children will attend regular schools and be taught by regular teachers.

The Physical Education Department enrolled nearly 5000 people in more than 100 co-educational classes. The department was co-chaired by Fred Darling and Ann Uhlir to insure the equal representation necessary in the area of physical education. The major thrust in the department was toward upgrading the existing programs and increasing the number of interesting activities available to freshmen.

The Department of Health greatly expanded in the number of students enrolled in the programs available according to Chairman Herman S. Bush. The department was involved in several community service projects. They set up a model school health system in Boone County, worked on a rodent control project and once more held the annual health fair in the Powell Building.

Twenty-nine courses were offered by the Department of Recreation and Park Administration this year. The department also developed competency-based exams designed to test the accomplishments of graduates. Besides these changes, Chairman James McChesney concentrated on improving current programs within the department.

LEN School Is One of Nations Largest

During its four years with college status, the College of Law Enforcement has grown to be one of the largest schools of its kind in the nation, according to Dean Robert W. Posey. The departments of Fire Prevention and Control, Police Administration, Correctional Services and the Traffic Safety Institute combined to form the college which this year boasted an enrollment of over 2600 majors and numerous minors.

The Department of Fire Prevention and Control, under the leadership of Mr. Dale F. Cozad, was the fastest growing department within the college with 650 majoring students distributed throughout the state at 12 different locations. Future fire investigators, fire fighters and fire service administrators worked toward degrees in two and four year programs. Other prospective firefighters obtained certificates of competency in fire prevention and control for one year of work. The department also provided instruction to ambulance drivers, civil defense members and other personnel who wanted to be certified as Basic Emergency Medical Technicians.

A new four-year program in Security and Public Safety was instituted in the Police Administration Department, which was headed by Dr. Robert E. Bagby. This increased the department's offerings to six degree programs.

An up-to-date crime laboratory, with all the capabilities of a regional lab except for ballistics, provided forensic science students with the opportunity to participate in practically all the facets of criminalistics.

Experts Add Their Skills In Corrections

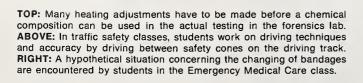

The Department of Correctional Services, directed by Dr. Charles Reedy, continued to instruct students in the skills needed to pursue careers as juvenile or adult probation officers, correctional caseworkers or juvenile counselors. These students received the expertise of a staff which included lawyers, educational psychologists and sociologists who have worked, or done research, in corrections. This was the only established staff of its kind in the state. Although not an established part of the curriculum, the students were afforded the opportunity to do actual field work and receive credit for it.

Motorcycle, Emergency Driving Courses Added To Traffic Safety

Motorcycle safety and driving techniques for emergency vehicles were new curricula added to the program of the Traffic Safety Institute which was headed by Dr. William Browne. The Institute also trained "Head Start" bus drivers, certified secondary education majors in driver education and trained Kentucky breathalyzer operators.

State research projects in which the institute participated were the automated driver licensing program and the youth, alcohol and driving program.

Quality Stressed In Graduate School

As a result of the continued moratorium on the expansion of graduate school programs imposed by the Kentucky State Legislature, the focus within the Graduate School this year was again on upgrading existing programs. Despite this limitation, the school retained its usual high status among similar universities and graduate schools. Dean Charles Gibson and his departmental chairmen continued to review prospective new programs in the eventuality that the legislature rescinds the suspensions.

The Graduate School at Eastern offered eleven degrees and over fifty continuing education programs, some of which have been rated as being among the finest in the state. Joint doctorates were offered in conjunction with the Universities of Kentucky and Maryland and Michigan State University. A degree of change was experienced by the Graduate School; with new personnel taking over the departments of English, Special Education, Home Economics, Geography and Anthropology.

Graduate Students Are Many Sided

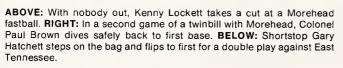

College graduates return to graduate school for a various number of reasons. It is those reasons that help give a graduate student his own personality and flair. Sometimes a new graduate will choose to return to the security of school and begin working on a Master's Degree immediately. Other times professionals are forced back to graduate school by the demands and pressures for more education within their chosen career field. Regardless of whatever reason the graduate student returns to school, it is safe to say that each student has his own unique reason.

Colonel Baseball '77 ...

The Eastern Kentucky University baseball team, under the direction of Head Coach Jack Hissom, struggled through the 1977 season, finishing with an overall record of 10-19 and a 3-9 mark in OVC play.

However, the Colonels did have some bright spots on the year as three players, senior pitcher John Lisle, senior center fielder Erv Leidolf and junior third baseman Kenny Lockett made the All-OVC team.

Leidolf, who made the All-OVC squad for the second straight year, led the Colonels in scoring and hits, while compiling a .345 batting average and only striking out twice in 87 at bats.

Lockett batted .338 and was second in runs scored, third in base hits and was a perfect eight for eight in stolen bases last season.

Lisle earned his OVC honors by striking out 65 enemy batters in only 58 2/3 innings, and compiling a 4-4 overall record, including four complete games and a shutout.

Another fine player was sophomore Greg Ringley, who led the team in batting at .368 and roundtrippers with four.

Coach Hissom said that even though this was a rebuilding year for his team, he believes that next year with the additions of Louisville, Cincinnati and Dayton to the schedule and the added maturity of his young pitching staff, the Colonels could be a team to be reckoned with in the future.

More Bogies Than Eagles

The 1977 golf season could be described as the kind of game your average weekend golfer would have— the Colonels just couldn't seem to be able to get out of the sand traps.

Leading the way for Head Coach Jim Suttie's team was All-OVC choice Richard Clark. Clark placed sixth in the OVC finishing three rounds with a 70-76-73 for a 219 total that was only five shots behind the winning pace, set by Kevin Klier of Murray State University.

Suttie had high praise for Clark's performance, stating that Clark "was the most consistent golfer I had, and he's as good a golfer as anybody I've ever coached."

The Eastern team did have their high points during the year, including first place finishes in the Xavier Invitational and the OVC East Quadrangular Tournaments, and second place finishes in the EKU Spring Invitational and the Tennessee Tech Invitational Meets.

Netmen Cause Racquet In OVC

Highlighting the start of the 1977 EKU tennis season was the dedication of the new Greg Adams Indoor Tennis Facility on the Eastern campus. Greg Adams was a very promising tennis player from Richmond, Kentucky, when his tennis career was cut short by a football injury. The tennis complex was named in Greg's honor. At the time of construction it was one of only five such institutionally owned facilities on a college or university campus in the United States.

This fieldhouse type structure includes four tennis courts and an observation deck which also houses a classroom, office space and a storage area. As well as being used for recreational play it is also used as an instructional center for the tennis team.

Head Coach Tom Higgins and company opened their season with the first annual Eastern Kentucky Indoor Invitational Tournament. EKU finished third out of a strong field of eight teams. The Colonels proceeded to play their way through a tough schedule to a 10-10 overall record. The netters closed their season with a respectable third place finish in the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament, held at Western Kentucky University.

In the spotlight for the Colonels were senior Joe Shaheen and sophomore Steve Alger. Shaheen, a three-year letterman, played in the number one singles position and finished the year with a record of 16 wins and 11 losses. Playing in the number two singles spot, Alger compiled 42 victories. In just two years Alger broke the school record for the most number of wins in four years. In doubles competition Alger and Shaheen teamed up to capture the OVC doubles championship in the number one spot. This achievement marked a first in Eastern's recent tennis history.

Track Team Sets New Records

ABOVE: Kieth Burton strains to get every inch of sand he can in the long jump competition. 1977 was a good year for Burton as he led the team in the long jump and triple jump events.

The EKU track team ran a series of disappointing second place finishes in the 1977 season. Many of the second place finishes were the result of a mere handful of points. However, the experience and grace under pressure learned this year makes the outlook for 1978 very promising.

The Tracksters were runners-up to Morehead and Middle Tennessee, in triangular meets, second to Purdue in a dual meet and took the number two spot behind Morehead in OVC quad.

The OVC Indoors, at Morehead and the OVC Outdoors at Western were different stories. The Colonels stumbled early and never recovered completely, ending up 7th indoors and 6th outdoors out of eight teams.

There were many individual highlights thoughout the year, Gary Moore qualified for nationals with a school record time of in the 110 meters high hurdles. Mike Howell also set a school record with a 6'10" leap in the high jump.

Scott Decandia and Frank Powers were very strong in their respective field events, the shot put and the javelin.

Hustle, Dedication, And Determination

Hard work and a strong feeling of determination helped overcome the lack of experience on the '76-'77 women's track team. The harriers improved over last year's sixth place finish by finishing runner-up in the Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference Championships. The team also placed fourth in one of the largest women's track meets in the nation, the Becky Boone Relays.

The team was paced by several national qualifiers. Denise McCoy, from Louisville, qualified for the nationals in the high jump. Her best effort for the year was 5'6". Also qualifying for the nationals in the 880 was Paula Gaston, from Dayton, Ohio. Gaston was a consistently top performer for Eastern's team. In the pentathlon, Eastern's Teri Seippel qualified and finished third in the country. Seippel, a sophomore from Kettering, Ohio, was Eastern's only place winner in a national competition.

This year's team was young and did have some disappointments as a result of their relative inexperience. Coach Sandra Martin felt that the experience that the team gained over the year will make next year an even more successful season.

Spirit Rises to the Occasion

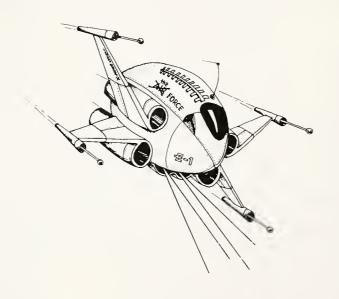

The guidance of first year sponsor Dr. Don Calitri provided a helpful spark to this year's cheerleading squad. One of the many activities Calitri assisted with was a series of fund-raising projects such as selling helium balloons in the Richmond area. These projects helped to earn enough money to purchase new uniforms for the basketball season, as well as enough to buy crowd-pleasing small footballs and bubble-gum that the squad members threw to the crowds.

Skip Daughtery, Eastern's Director of Student Activities and Organizations, also provided assistance to the squad. Mr. Daughtery made sure the cheerleaders had a working public address system and also furnished soft drinks for the visiting cheerleaders.

Captain Vicki Viars led the squad to East Tennessee State during the football season, and to Western and Morehead State during the basketball season.

In a move to create a feeling of hospitality and promote good will, the Commissioner of the OVC, Bob Vanatta, proposed a series of cheerleading contests between schools in the OVC. At the end of the basketball season all the cheerleaders voted on the best squad for the combination of skill and hospitality. As a result of the increased emphasis on the more gymnastic aspects of cheerleading, cheerleading has become more athletic. Because of the increase in physical demands, this year's squad worked and practiced hard in order to master the cheers which it performed.

It was a season filled with frustration, highlighted by disappointment. Eastern was the unanimous choice of all OVC coaches to repeat as conference champs for the second straight year. Head Coach Roy Kidd was starting his 14th consecutive season at the Colonel helm, and with 32 returning lettermen, including last year's All-OVC players, quarterback Ernie House, tailback Stan Mitchell, guard Dean Stucky, Tackle Randy Heaberlin, flanker Jim Nelson and roverback Anthony Miller who had helped lead the Colonels to an 8-3 record last year, made 1977 look even better for Kidd's crew.

Hanger Field was the setting as the Delaware Blue Hens invaded Colonel country to open the season. Eastern was out to avenge a 37-21 loss last year in Newark. Sparked by a 61-yard touchdown bomb from quarterback Ernie House to Jim Nelson, and Scott McCallister, who gained 104 yards in 20 carries, the Colonels romped over Delaware 24-7, and visions of post-season playoffs and the possibility of an undefeated season danced in everyone's head.

LEFT: Under heavy pressure, quarterback Ernie House dumps a pass to number 80 Jim Nelson for first down yardage. This combination of House to Nelson provided many thrills for EKU fans throughout the 1977 season.

The next week took the Colonels to Springfield, Ohio to face Division III powerhouse, Wittenburg. Any kind of an Eastern victory would have given the Colonels a number one ranking in the first Division II poll; except the Tigers of Wittenburg had other ideas.

Whether it was lackluster play on the part of the Colonels, or just the fired up play of Wittenburg, the Tigers totally outplayed the Colonels and it payed off with a 17-14 upset victory. Ernie House's two touchdown passes were the only bright spot on that unpredictable Saturday afternoon when many of the preseason dreams turned into nightmares.

The Colonels road show continued the next week as they opened the OVC schedule at East Tennessee, playing in the Buccaneer's new mini-dome.

the Colonels suddenly found themselves down 34-10 midway in the third quarter. Sophomore quarterback Bill Hughes came in for a slightly injured Ernie House and directed the Colonels to two quick scores. House returned late in the game and with 2:09 to play, Stan Mitchell took a House pitchout and scampered 90 yards for the winning touchdown in a 38-34 miracle comeback victory. For the game, Mitchell had 179 yards in only nine carries and he scored three touchdowns.

Austin Peay journeyed to Richmond to face the Colonels and Coach Kidd summed up the game earlier in the week by saying, "Austin Peay could be the surprise of the season." He was not joking. After trailing 17-0 at half time, the Governors stormed back to score three times, including two in the fourth quarter to stun the Colonels 20-17.

Eastern then traveled to Murfreesboro, Tennessee to take on the winless Middle Tennessee Blue Raiders. Playing without nine starters due to numerous injuries and despite the 102 yards rushing by Stan Mitchell, the Colonels dropped their second OVC game by a 19-10 score, which left their overall record at 2-3.

Second, it marked the first time that a game between two Kentucky schools was ever telecast live, statewide. Channel 27 had the honor with Denny Trease providing the play-by-play. Third, the largest crowd in Eastern history was on hand as an estimated 25,000 jammed into the Hanger Field stands to see history in the making.

After a shaky first quarter that saw Eastern lead 7-0, the Colonels exploded to a 21-3 halftime lead on two touchdown passes from Ernie House to Jim Nelson. The second half was all Eastern's as Stan Mitchell scored three touchdowns. These scores along with House's three touchdown passes accounted for a 35-10 runaway against the Hilltoppers.

In traveling that long road down to Murray, Eastern probably suffered what is known as a "letdown". Despite Jim Nelson's 165 yards in receptions and a school record 49-yard field goal by freshman kicker David Flores, a late Colonel rally fell short and the Racers edged out a 24-20 victory. Ernie House by far had his best day for the maroon and white, passing for 242 yards and two touchdowns.

Tennessee Tech brought a sparkling 8-0 record to Hanger Field, along with the number one offense in the conference and high hopes of a victory over the Colonels to all but wrap up the OVC crown.

However, Eastern stormed to a 21-7 half time lead behind Stan Mitchell's game-high 110 yards rushing and held on to deal the Golden Eagles their first loss of the year, 28-21.

The surprising Dayton Flyers were the Colonels next opponent. The Flyer football program had suffered moneywise, dropping from Division I to Division III, but it hadn't affected the quality of the players. Dayton marched Colonel '77-'78 Basketball Highlights . . .

Winning Basketball: How Sweet It Is!

What a difference a year makes! In 1976-77 under first-year coach Ed Byhre, the Colonels struggled to only an 8-16 slate, but like expensive wine, things get better with age. In Byhre's second season at the Colonel helm, Eastern came through with their best season since 1971-72, ending up with a 15-11 record and eight points keeping them from uping that record even more.

Because of 93-86 and 74-73 losses to regular season OVC champion Middle Tennessee, the Colonels finished in the top four ending in a tie for fourth with Austin Peay at 8-6. The Govs, however, went to the post-season tournament held at Bowling Green due to their two victories over the Blue Raiders.

One of the main reasons for the Colonels' turnabout were junior college transfers, Lovell Joiner and Vic Merchant. Joiner, who came from Robert Morris College, was Eastern's leading scorer and rebounder with 17.4 and 9.6 averages, respectively. He also dished out 111 assists and was named to the 1977-78 All-OVC team.

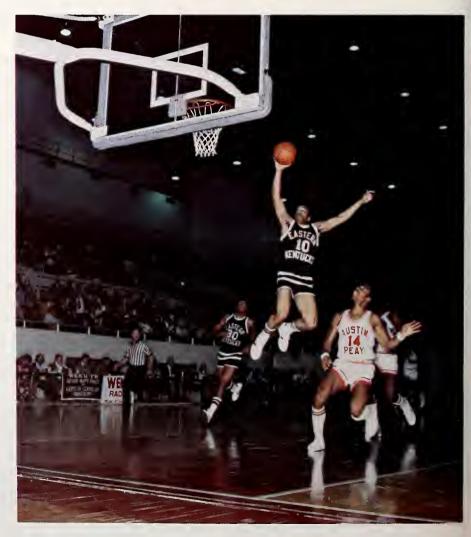

Merchant, from Allan Hancock College, became a starter late in the year and averaged 9.0 points and 6.3 rebounds per game.

and a 61-59 loss to Big Ten runner-up, Minnesota. They also played very well against University of Cincinnati and the 1977 NCAA Champion, Marquette.

Beside Joiner, Eastern Kentucky placed four other men in double figures for the year, as Kenny Elliott was second in scoring at a 14.4 clip, Bruce Jones, Dave Bootcheck, and Mike Oliver all were close behind with their 10.3 averages.

1977-78 saw the Colonels top the century mark twice, 107-65 against Georgia College and 102-76 over Wilmington. Kenny Elliott had the single high game scoring mark, connecting for 34 points against Cleveland State.

Mike Oliver completed his career at Eastern ending up as the Colonels 15th All-time leading scorer with 979 total points, Oliver was also the third leading rebounder with 859 grabs.

With many players returning next year, including four starters, the Colonels look to be definite contenders for the OVC crown and should have the potential to do well in post-season play.

Western Falls In Close Games

The Colonels took special pride in beating Western twice this year. It was the first time the Colonels swept the two game series since 1963-64. It was also a sweet victory because the Hilltoppers made a very strong finish to capture the OVC post season tournament and become the conference representative in the NCAA.

In front of 3,200 fans in the Coliseum, the Colonels triumphed over the Hilltoppers 85-79 in overtime. At the end of regulation it was 71-all, but the Colonels outscored Western 14-8 in the extra period, all on free throws, to give Eastern its first win over Western in the last seven meetings. Lovell Joiner led the Colonels with 23 points. Dave Bootcheck added 14.

Nearly 11,000 jammed into Diddle Arena for the rematch between the two schools. Mike Oliver's layup with only 40 seconds left deadlocked the contest at 65-65 and forced another overtime game. This time, behind Bootcheck's game high 16 and Joiner's and Oliver's 15 points, the Colonels outscored the Hilltoppers 13-9 and walked away with a 78-74 victory.

Dunks: The Crowd Pleasers

Other school's basketball teams may call themselves the "Doctors of Dunk" but in 1977-78 the Eastern Kentucky University Colonels had to have been known as the "Sultans of Slam".

Dunks of all kinds were just some of the highlights during the Colonel's quest through the OVC schedule.

Lovell Joiner, Kenny Elliott, Mike Oliver, Vic Merchant and even Dave Bootcheck were the leaders in the stuff onslaught, which averaged nearly five dunks a game.

There was nothing fancy, just good, solid, smash-the-ball-down-through-the-hoop-basketball which made the Colonels a very exciting basketball team to watch, with the best still yet to come.

Eels Regain Championship Status

"It's really great to have a championship team back at Eastern." These were head coach Dan Lichty's sentiments as for the first time since 1974, the Eastern Kentucky Eels have put another title under their belt by winning the 1977-1978 Midwest Independent Swimming and Diving Championships. The Eels defeated last year's champion Illinois State by a commanding margin as well as four other strong schools in the six-team event.

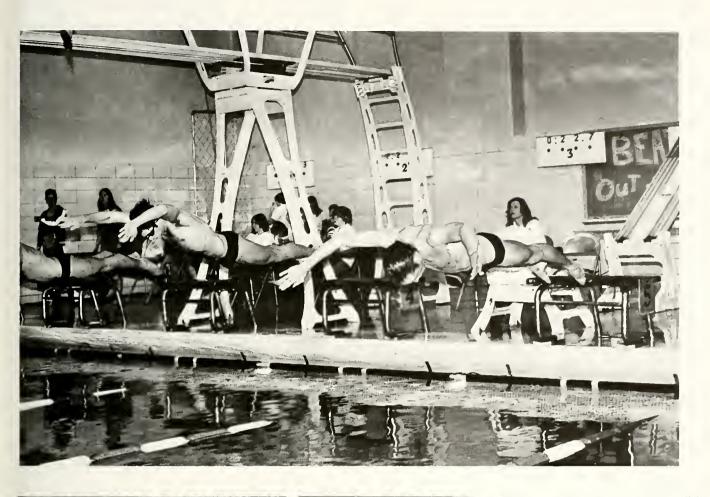

Other highlights for the Eels during the year were, a second place finish in the annual Kentucky Intercollegiate Championship and several victories in regular season dual meets.

Swimmers Chris Gray and John Meisenheimer were the leaders throughout most of the year for the Eels and they set several records in process, including Gray's KISC record of 4:41.179 in the 500-yard freestyle and Meisenheimer's 100-yard freestyle time of :47.641.

The Eels as a team dominated mostly by sophomores and freshmen; however, now with age and added experience, the Eels will soon be ready to make a big splash in the collegiate swimming world.

Young Gymnastics Team Has Impressive Record

Under the careful direction of Coach Dr. Jerry Calkin, the men's gymnastic team completed a very successful season which included several highlights and many records.

Enroute to a 5-6 dual meet record, the team set a school scoring record with a total of 180.65 points in a triangular meet with Ball State and Indiana, and Co-captain Tony Webber set an individual record of 47.80 in the all-around competition.

Other highlights were the first victory ever over Georgia Tech in Eastern's five year history of gymnastics and numerous 40 point or better performances by Co-captain John Harkey and Pat Maloney.

Six freshmen on the roster made this year's gymnastics team a young one and inexperience along with sickness were a few of the difficulties they had to overcome throughout the year, and hardships like these always lead to future successes.

Women Finish Second In KWIC

Mixing a combination of age with youth, (mostly youth), the Women's gymnastics team braved the odds and worked their way through a very successful year, capping the season off with a second place finish in the Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference meet.

The Women tallied 122.30 points, only 18 behind the Louisville Cardinals, who are one of the top-10 teams in the country as well as being the number one team in Kentucky.

Freshman Rhonda Wilkerson and Senior Beth Miles led the Eastern women with continually consistent scores, always performing well on the balance beam, the uneven parallel bars, the vaulting horse and the floor exercise to give the women a winning 5-4 record against some very tough competition.

Because of their outstanding showings, Eastern, as well as individuals Wilkerson and Miles have qualified for AIAW Region II meet upcoming later in the spring.

Foundation Laid for Solid Future

With only two seniors on the entire squad, the 1977-78 women's basketball season looked to be another one of rebuilding, however the lady Colonels stayed close to or were at the .500 mark throughout the entire year as they finished the 1977-78 campaign with a respectable 12-15 mark.

The Colonels defeated such state powers as Morehead, Louisville, and Western and lost by only six to KWIC State Champion University of Kentucky, and had a very respectable game against the number one women's team in the nation, Tennessee.

Junior Peggy Gay sparked the team many times with her incredible outside shooting and led the team with a 19.8 average. Co-captains Gayle Freshwater and Cindy Lundberg were very consistent over the whole year and helped provide valuable leadership and experience both on and off the court.

Ten players, including three starters, return for the lady Colonels next year who appear to have laid the foundation for a solid future as a top contender.

Shooters Tops In Meets

For the second year in a row, the EKU rifle team won both the Xavier Invitational and the Little Camp Perry Shootout and set records in both events. The Colonels topped the Xavier meet with a 585 out of a possible 600, and shot a 578 in the Little Camp Shootout. Eastern also finished a strong third in the National Rifle Association and International Shooters Union meets. In dropping only one regular season meet, the Colonels were paced by freshman Robert Montgomery of Enid, Oklahoma, who shot 290 in the NRA portion and had an average of 578 out of 600. Montgomery was also the top ROTC individual, blistering the bull's-eye at a 575 average. David Terry was the top college shooter with a 571 average. Head Coach Major Bill Fluty said that Montgomery "has the potential to be a top 10 finisher in the final standings of the NRA and could be an All-American." Other top shooters for the Eastern Riflemen include Jay James, Warren Mitchell and Judy Kaufman.

Dual Meets Successful For Runners

Led by seniors Doug Bonk and Dan Matousch, the 1977 Men's Cross Country team capped off a very successful season with a third place finish in the OVC Championships at Bowling Green and an 11th place showing in the NCAA District III Tournament.

In dual meets, the Colonels won all four, beating Aquinas College, Northern Kentucky, Morehead and Wright State, while in Invitationals, the harriers continued to shine, winning the University of Kentucky Invitational and finishing second in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Invitational.

Bonk, was named to the "All-OVC" team, and is the course record holder in the five mile run, being clocked in 25:45. Dan Matousch has two records under his belt, with the four and six mile events, timed in 20:04 and 32:36 respectively.

Head Coach Art Harvey was a bit surprised at the teams performance, but he was pleased with the season, "The team worked very hard and it showed." said Harvey.

See How They Run!

What a difference a year makes! In one short year the Women's Cross Country team went from being unranked to becoming the number six team in the nation.

Finishing sixth in the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, (AIAW) in Georgetown, Texas, the women harriers, under Head Coach Sandy Martin, proved that they are the team of the future, with six girls returning for next year.

Freshman sensation Sue Schaefer from Williamsville, N.Y. heads the list of returnees and was Eastern's outstanding performer throughout the year, earning All-American honors. She finished fifth in the individual section of the AIAW, with a personal best time of 17:37 over the 5,000 meter Texas course.

Other highlights for the year included an undefeated season, a first place finish in the KICC Championships, and being ranked the number one team in Kentucky.

Returning for the harriers next year are, along with Schaefer, Paula Gaston, Peggy Painter, Vicki Renner, Kathy Good and Lauren Geiss.

Losing only Jenny Utz; Coach Martin is optimistic about next year, saying; "Everybody has improved so much since the season began and since we only lose Jenny Utz, we should be very strong when next year rolls around."

Spikers Get Hung Up In Net

For the first time in history, the Women's Volleyball team did not participate in the AIAW Regional Tournament as they finished third behind Northern Kentucky and Morehead in the State Tournament; therefore, not eligible to play.

The spikers put together an overall record of 16-23 and head coach Geri Polvino was full of praise for her young squad. "We played with a great deal of competitiveness and poise in spite of our age. I was very pleased."

Coach Polvino started four juniors and two freshmen throughout the year and all will be returning for next season. This added experience should help the volleyballers, and they should be right back up there battling for all the marbles next year.

Over the course of the season, Eastern managed victories over Louisville, Kentucky, Morehead and over State Champion Northern Kentucky but could not put it all together when it counted, mostly due to the inexperience of Polvino's young team.

GAME, SET, AND MATCH

Relying mostly on underclassmen, the Women's Tennis Team under Head Coach Martha Mullins, fielded a strong squad which finished its 1977 season with a second place finish in the OVC Tournament.

The Women also placed third in the KWIC Large College Tennis Championship, and had a regular season record of 8-5, which at one point included seven wins in a row.

Returning for the netters next year are No. 1 seed Mary Hockwalt; No. 2 Mendy Jackson; No. 6 Nancy Elder and reserves Kim Powell and Lynn Sabin, all of whom are freshmen, along with junior Kathy Lisch.

Senior Nancy Coppola was the most consistant player on this year's team, compiling a 15-1 record and winning her No. 3 seed in the KWIC Tournament.

Mullins is looking forward to the spring schedule and the summer tournaments so the girls will get that added experience that they will need when they return in the fall.

The Women's Field Hockey Team, state champions in 1976, suffered through a very upsetting 1977 season as they compiled only a 3-8 record and lost the opening round of the '77 State Tournament to eventual champion, the University of Louisville.

Head Coach Peggy Stanaland and Graduate Assistant Chris Archer are both looking forward to next year's season, along with the many underclassmen that comprised the squad, claiming this past season was "building for the future."

Season highs for the women included a victory over powerful state rival Centre College, on the heels of a loss at the hands of Kentucky. "It proved that our girls could come back," said Archer, "and it showed what our athletes are made of."

Housing ... Fraternity ... Independent ... Super ... These were just some of the leagues in the many sports that were offered as part of Eastern's intramural program.

The overall schedule of events and different sports were designed to suit everyone's taste, and the traditional sports, such as basketball, flag football, and softball were, as usual, the most supported, with many teams playing for the University championship.

Athletic fields all over the campus were crowded with sports events, as many students who could not become involved in varsity athletics used intramurals to stay active and have fun.

Steve Frommeyer Named To Hall of Fame

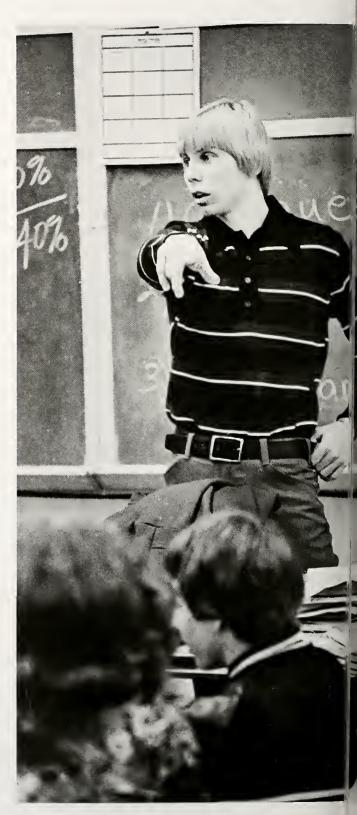

Steven J. Frommeyer is the 17th recipient of EKU's top academic honor, the Hall of Fame. After receiving nominees from each college, a secret committee of faculty and administration made the final choice. The final selection was based on high academic achievement, social standards and service to the University.

Majoring in Sociology and minoring in English, Steve maintained a 3.958 academic average. Based on his high academic achievement he was elected to Phi Kappa Phi, Kappa lota Epsilon and Collegiate Pentacle. Steve was also a member of the "E" Club, President of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and President of the Newman Center.

Steve received high recognition in other areas also. Attending Eastern on a four year athletic football scholarship, enabled Steve to participate on two OVC Championship football teams.

Wide interest in the University prompted Steve to serve on several committees. He served on the Equal Athletic Opportunity Committee, the Academic Grievance Committee in Education and was nominated for the Teacher's Education Committee.

In February Steve was the recipient of still another award. He was selected to the 1977 Football Academic All-American team as voted on by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Colleges Name Outstanding Scholars

The College of Law Enforcement selected Nicolette Marasa for the Honor Roll. Nikki has a major in Police Administration and a minor in Corrections. While at Eastern she was active in Alpha Psi Sigma, Collegiate Pentacle, Kappa Delta Sorority and Panhellenic. She received the Outstanding Junior in Police Administration Award, Who's Who and a Senior Citation in Law Enforcement as well as being chosen Outstanding Greek Woman.

Patrick W. Skees received Honor Roll recognition from the College of Business. Pat maintained a 4.0 while majoring in accounting. He was a member of Sigma Tau Pi, Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Beta Lambda. He also served as treasurer of the Accounting Club. Pat received a Freshman English Award while attending Elizabethtown Community College and the Wall Street Journal Award.

Nominated from the College of Applied Health and Nursing was nursing student Kathleen Flesch. She was active in the Student Nurses Association and served on the Evaluation of the Dean's Office Committee and the BSN Admissions Committee. Kathleen also participated in the Young Democrats and People Who Care.

Honor Roll Recognizes Achievement

Charlene Watts was nominated by the College of Applied Arts and Technology as its outstanding senior for the 1978 Milestone Honor Roll. Charlene, a Home Economics major, graduated with a 3.804 grade point average. During her senior year, she served as President of the Student Section of American Home Economics Association and the Student Chapter of the National Education Association.

Charlene took an active role in several organizations including Phi Upsilon Omicron, Collegiate Pentacle, and Kappa Delta Pi. She was the recipient of the Robert B. Bell Scholarship, a Presidential Scholarship and the Kentucky Future Homemakers of America Scholarship. Upon, graduation Charlene hoped to pursue a career in teaching.

The College of Education nominated Physical Education major Gayle Freshwater for the Honor Roll. During her three year stay at Eastern, Gayle maintained a GPA of 3.65. She was active in Kappa Delta Pi, Collegiate Pentacle and served on the Equal Athletic Opportunity Committee. A member of the Women's Basketball Team, Gayle also held membership in several physical education organizations. She was a member of Delta Psi Kappa, the Physical Education Majors Club, HPER Council, the Women's Officiating Service as well as being the recipient of the Hood, Hughes, Presnell Scholarship.

Graduating with a 3.86 GPA in Political Science, Mark Samples planned on eventually teaching at the university level. While at EKU he was President of Delta Sigma Rho and a member of the Debate Team. He also received the Weaver Oratory Award.

An avid interest in history and politics led Mark Girard into working toward a B.A. in History. While at Eastern Mark was very active in the Student Senate. He also served as Student Regent and Chief Justice of the Student Court. Mark was a member of Collegiate Pentacle and was awarded a Senior Citation for Student Government. Upon graduation, Mark planned on entering law school.

Michael W. Duggins maintained a 3.6 GPA while earning his B.A. in Political Science. Upon graduation he wanted to uphold his philosphy of life to strive on improving the world by getting involved and learning from his mistakes. Mike served as president of the Student Association and as Student Regent as well as being involved with Collegiate Civitan, the French Club, the Young Democrats and the Barrister's Club.

Hard Work Brings Recognition

An interest in all forms of communication led Tina Schoewe into Speech Communications and Human Relations. Graduating with a 3.83 academic average, Tina was active in several organizations. They included Delta Sigma Rho, Delta Omicron, Phi Kappa Phi and Collegiate Pentacle. She was on the student staff of WEKU-FM and acted as Arts Editor of the Progress. Tina also recipient of the Keene Oratory Award.

Being conscious of people and their opinions, Deborah Eskridge chose to major in Drama and Speech and Journalism in order to better communicate with others. She received the Gifford Scholarship for drama and was awarded a Senior Citation for Student Publications. Debbie was a member of Alpha Psi Omega and the University Players. She also acted as Managing, Academics and Student Life Editor of the Milestone

Laura Hayden graduated with a B.A. in Speech Communications and Human Relations. While maintaining a 3.9 academic average, she was active in Colliegate Pentacle and Phi Kappa Phi. This year she acted as President of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority as well as Sigma Nu Little Sisters. She was selected Sigma Nu Sweetheart and was the recipient of a Panhellenic scholarship.

Students Make Plans For Future

Graduating with a GPA of 3.368 and a B.S. in Therapeutic Dietetics. Martha Lynn Miller hoped to become a registered dietitian. She felt this field related to her philosophy of life which dealt with helping people by understanding their feelings and life styles. Martha received numerous awards and honors including the Kentucky Home Economics Club Student Member Award, the Kentucky Home Economics Scholarship in 1977-78, and the Food and Nutrition Club Scholarship in 1976-77. She was also involved in Phi Upsilon Omicron, CWENS, the Food and Nutrition Club, Explorer Post 634, and the Home Economics Club.

Wanting to help people live better lives because of increased knowledge in home economics was a goal of Ethel Charlene Watts while she attended Eastern. Majoring in Home Economics Education, she graduated with a 3.8 grade point average. She advised others to "live up to their expectations—not everyone else's."

Ready to meet new experiences in her life ahead, Home Economics major Mary Jo Baumann planned to "live life to its fullest." While achieving a 3.7 GPA, Mary Jo also found time to take advantage of Eastern's various activities. During her four years at EKU she was actively involved with Collegiate Pentacle, Steering Committee on Student Retention, CWENS (presently the Lambda Sigma Society), Phi Upsilon Omicron, Newman Club, Kappa Delta Pi, American Home Economics Association, the Student National Education Association, and the Human Development and Family Relations Club.

Service Projects Keep Honorary Busy

Fostering leadership, scholarship, fellowship, and service among college students was the purpose of Lambda Sigma Society. This honorary kept itself busy throughout the year helping with various campus activities. Special olympics, cannedgood drives, receptions at nursing homes, Kentucky Regional Day, decorating Keen Johnson Ballroom for Homecoming, working at Homecoming and student elections were among the various activities performed throughout the year. Their help did not stop there. At registration the youthful faces ready and willing to assist belonged to the members of Lambda Sigma Society. The Society encouraged friendship and scholarship among its members as well as a desire to serve the University and community.

The honorary Psi Chi worked to advance the science of psychology and encourage, stimulate, and maintain scholarship. It took field trips to mental hospitals and listened to speakers from various mental health agencies. The honorary gave the annual research award to an undergraduate and served at the Kentucky Psychological Association as guides and registration workers.

The music honorary Delta Omicron received, for the 3rd consecutive year, the Chapter of the Year Award. The fraternity created fellowship, and aroused and encouraged music appreciation. It presented two musicals during the year and gave $100.00 towards a scholarship for music majors.

The International Geographic Honorary Society of Gamma Theta Upsilon promoted interest and discipline of Geography. It sponsored various field activities, special interest, lectures, and presentation; offered student loans and scholarships on a competitive basis; and provided a medium for recognition of academic research. The honorary provided field trips and special interest seminars.

Sigma Tau Alpha was recognized in December of 1976 and instituted in March of 1977. In its first year the service honorary has promoted fellowship and sisterhood. A Dance-A-Thon for Cystic Fibrosis, 10,000 meter minimarathon for charity, the Red Blood-Mobile. Thanksgiving favors for Kenwood Nursing Home, and Halloween candy bags for the Telford Center were some of the services rendered by them in the course of the year.

Delta Sigma Rho, an honorary fraternity, sought to recognize achievements by students in collegiate debate and individual speech events. The honorary promoted open communication and dialogue throughout the University community. Yearly activities included participation in intercollegiate debates and individual events tournaments.

The honorary Sigma Tau Delta provided the highest honor available at EKU within the English discipline. It recognized students who maintained a cumulative GPA of 3.0. Recognizing English superiority in scholarship, the honorary made available interaction between those people who enjoyed discussing literary subjects outside of the classroom. Activities for the year included a British dinner, a picnic, and an annual Actor's Theater trip to Louisville.

Group Stresses Educational Growth

The honorary business fraternity, Sigma Tau Pi, was open to all business majors and minors who had excelled with a 3.0 GPA. The organization promoted a feeling of unity and fellowship among its members and provided opportunities for social and educational growth in the business society. Field trips, social dinners, and a fund raising candy sale were among the activities held during the year.

Honoraries Stress Scholarship

For the first time, the senior honorary Collegiate Pentacle, which requires members to have a 3.0 GPA and to be active in at least two other campus organizations, senior men were eligible to become members. Once a senior women organization only, the co-ed group sponsored speakers such as Mr. Kurt Zimmerman, Career Development and Placement Service; and Dr. Emogene Hogg, motivation of self and others; at monthly meetings.

The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi had as its primary goal the recognition and encouragement of superior scholarship in all fields of study. Phi Kappa Phi was unique because it recognized scholastic excellence in all fields of academic endeavor rather than restricting its elections to a specific or limited field.

Requirements for this organization are to be a second semester sophomore and have an over-all GPA of 2.3. Every two years, two delegates representing EKU are sent to a national convention.

Recognizing worthwhile achievements in Physical Education, developing interest, and promoting greater fellowship in fields of activity, the national professional fraternity of Delta Psi Kappa served those involved with Physical Education. It gives members settings to develop organizing, practical, and leadership skills while serving the Department of Physical Education. The honorary benefited its department members by providing speakers for graduate programs, picnics, Parents' Day and information booths at girls' high school basketball and volleyball tournaments.

Honorary Promotes Greater Activity

Service And Scholarship Stressed

Phi Alpha Theta is an international honor society in History. Its membership is composed of students and professors elected to membership upon the basis of excellence in the study of the writing of history. The objective of the society is the promotion of the study of history by the encouragement of research, good teaching, publication, and the exchange of learning and thought among historians. It seeks to bring teachers and writers of history together both intellectually and socially.

With the help of student members, local businesses. and real estate practioners, Rho Epsilon, a fraternity for students and professionals in real estate, painted an elderly woman's home free of charge. The encouragement of fraternal fellowship; high standards of service, knowledge, and integrity; professional exchange of ideas between members and professionals in the field of real estate and honoring individuals who have distinguished themselves in real estate, are among the purposes of the fraternity. Members were benefited with speakers, a placement service which makes job contacts with businesses all over the country, and due to generous donations of a local realtor, it awarded two scholarships to Rho Epsilon members.

The Varsity E-Club is composed of members from Eastern's various athletic teams. It worked towards the improvement of conditions for athletics and aided studentfaculty relations in athletics at the University. They ushered and sold programs for the girl's state tournaments and home basketball games, had a donkey basketball game for local charities, and provided speakers with the help of the FCA. They also sold ball caps at home football games.

Forming saber arches at Homecoming, at ROTC Day and at the Military Ball were some of the ways the National Military Honorary Society, Scabbard and Blade, served the Eastern community. The purpose of the organization is to raise the standard of military education in American colleges and universities and to unite in closer relationship their military departments. The honorary also encourages the essential quality of good efficient officers and promotes friendship and fellowship among the cadet officers. Scabbard and Blade, also participated in the National Rifle Marksmanship competition.

Catalina Performs "On Tour"

Catalina Club's purpose is to provide creative experiences involving aquatic skills, rhythm, and design with opportunities for all participants to develop leadership, fellowship, cooperation, and incentive.

In September, tryouts were held for any interested swimmers. Before tryouts, two workshops were held for prospects to learn various stunts and strokes used throughout the year.

This past year, Catalina Club was active in their region by attending the National Institute of Creative Aquatics Symposium held in Gainsville, Georgia. Eight members participated to increase the proficiency of their skills and to introduce them to new ideas.

To produce their annual spring water show, many months of practice and hard work were required of all the members with the aid of their advisors, Dr. Kirkpatrick and Miss Baretta. This year the theme of the show was Catalina "On Tour!" The numbers performed pertained to themes of travel around the world. This exciting production was written and choreographed by the members of the club.

The Art Student Association traveled to Cincinnati to view the Contemporary Museum of Art and the Taft Museum of Art in the fall. They visited Chicago again after last year's successful trip when they saw the exhibit of King Tut's Tomb.

The association is a combination of students from all fields of art. These students hope to create interest in art on this campus. They also try to help the University in many ways that help promote the art culture.

Eastern Dance Theatre held many dance concerts throughout the year. Early in the semester they held a Fall Concert for the public. Later, they traveled to Sue Bennet College in London, Ky. for a Christmas performance.

The dance club offers its members the opportunity for creative dance study, composition and performance. It also tries to stimulate interest in artistic creative dance, and to fasten standards of performance appreciation.

Clubs Explore Health Related Problems

Stimulating ideas and developing additional interest in all areas of the medical field is the main purpose of the Caduceus Club. To achieve their goals the club sponsored many speakers who made the members aware of the different occupational and educational fields of medicine. These speakers were recruited from various institutions of medicine and gave the club members a better insight into the health professions. The Caduceus Club consists of pre-medicine, pre-dentistry, pre-pharmacy, nursing, medical technology majors, and all other medically related majors.

Besides meetings, the club was involved with such projects as the campus bloodmobile drive, the special olympics, booksales and an annual trip in the spring.

The E.K.U. Student Chapter of the National Environmental Health Association makes its members more aware of health related problems. During the year the organization participated in the rodent control program in Richmond. The association also helped with local paper clean-up drives throughout the year.

Social Atmosphere Provided by Clubs

Members of the German Club gained experience in the use of the German language by participating in the International Festival in Lexington, Kentucky and an International Day on campus. Together with the French Club, a Franco-Prussian dinner was sponsored.

In addition to the social activities, the club members were available for tutoring students in the introductory courses.

Organized to further interest in the field of dietetics, the Food and Nutrition Club also fostered leadership qualities in its members.

Guest speakers were frequently in attendance at banquets and meetings during the school year. Money-making projects included selling cookbooks, working the concession stands for Student Activities and Organizations, and sponsoring movies. Along with promoting National Nutrition Week, the organization assisted the honorary home economics organization, Phi Upsilon Omicron, with their November Home Economics Forum.

Advancing through scientific knowledge in manufacturing engineering, the Society of Manufacturing Engineers keeps its members abreast of current information and techniques. Speakers from all positions in the manufacturing world related their knowledge and experiences to the members. Field trips were often taken to plants and factories to enhance their learning experience.

For further involvement in the business world, a new organization, the Masters Business Administration Association was formed. The members of this new club must be pursuing a Masters of Business Administration degree and must have a 3.0 grade point average.

The purpose of the MBA is to stimulate new interest and exchange ideas among people already in the professional world and interested students. The members believe the informal setting of a meeting room instead of a classroom will encourage and promote new and revelant ideas among our future business leaders.

Professional Clubs Emphasize Careers

In order to broaden their knowledge of the accounting profession, the members of the Accounting Club took field trips to various accounting firms. The club acquainted its members with the many duties and obligations of the accounting profession. and helped the members to develop the professionalism required in this field. Throughout the year the club provided a tutoring service to beginning accounting students and offered a free income tax service.

Attending state and national meetings developed the ideas of the year for the Association of Childhood Education. Some of the projects held this year were panels of children discussing the qualities they like in teachers, and regular monthly programs focusing on working with children. The club was also very active with book fairs with particular attention given to the International Book Festival.

Desirable conditions, programs and practices for children from infancy to early adolesence was the main purpose of the organization.

SNEA Strives for Teaching Profession

Membership to the Student National Education Association requires enrollment in the education field. A person may join regardless of his classification and no specific grade point average is required. The aim of the club is to develop an understanding of the teaching profession among prospective teachers, through various programs and speakers.

The SNEA entertained many speakers throughout the year, one of which was Dr. Rush, speaking for the placement office. He spoke on the need of understanding how to work with and help problem students.

Other areas touched by the SNEA were different programs like mainstreaming elementary and secondary schools. The problems and advantages were looked into.

Members attended the Fall Leadership Conference Workshop at Western Kentucky University from September 30th to October 1st. During this workshop the students learned many new ideas. Highlighting the year, the club sent members to the state convention in the spring.

ALE Produces Film

Any student of Eastern enrolled in a law enforcement related class is eligible for membership to the Association of Law Enforcement. This organization sponsored a Career Day in Criminal Justice. They also wrote, directed, and produced a thirteen minute film highlighting the facilities and opportunities for education at the College of Law Enforcement.

Speakers at the Associations social functions included such famous Kentucky lawyers as John Y. Brown Sr.

Purposes of the Student Social Work Association are multifold. The club provided students in social work with information about professional opportunities, increased communication among students, and insured student voice and active participation in social work programs. The members are a part of the Kentucky Education of Student Social Workers and they attend annual conferences at different schools. This year the conference was held February 3rd and 4th, at Morehead State University. The club also had representatives to the National Federation of Student Social Workers conferences which was held February 22-25 in New Orleans.

Crowds At Halftime

Once again, the Marching Maroons added excitement to EKU's football games. The band performed at each of Eastern's home games and traveled to both East Tennessee and Morehead State Universities. Under the direction of Robert Hartwell and field commanders, Leslie Berkshire and Kim Hiles, the two-hundred member band practiced daily to bring each show to perfection. The band did a different halftime show at all home games consisting of themes such as movie theme songs and television commercials. During Homecoming Weekend the band marched in the annual parade and made a special salute to alumni by having the Alumni Band perform.

Little Colonels Work At Frisch's

The Little Colonels drill team performed at Eastern's home football and basketball games. The members entertained the crowd with their precision drill and dance steps. The girls had a new routine weekly that was designed by cocaptains and lieutenants.

To raise money, the drill team took over Frisch's. Members worked as waitresses and dishwashers for three days. As an aid to the press, the squad distributed statistics to the press table during home games.

Creative Routines Add Color To Field

Practicing daily with the Marching Maroons, the EKU Majorettes performed at all home football games and two away games. The squad had many creative dance shows along with precision twirling. Routines pertaining to the theme of each weeks show were presented. The majorettes also marched in the Homecoming Parade.

The 1977 Flag Squad added color to the field by performing with the band at football games. Different routines were written to each week's theme by the squad's captains.

Groups Insure Smooth Dorm Operations

Women's Interdormitory Board had a very busy year improving the living conditions on Eastern's campus. Being composed of each dormitory's House Council President and one more member for each two-hundred girls in the dorm, the council worked closely with Men's Interdorm. During the year, the members worked on such things as custodial services, fire safety, and open houses. Also, a parking lot committee was established to help improve the parking conditions on campus.

Socially, the women's and men's interdorm cosponsored an all-campus Halloween Bash and a Las Vegas night in the university grill.

Monthly, activities were scheduled in the dorms for the students. Such activities included movies, speakers, and films.

Bible Study Offered by Maranatha

Fellowship for Christians on campus, with emphasis on Christian maturity was provided for the student body by Maranatha. The center provided a regular Bible study program as well as films, music groups and other sponsored activities. Films shown included Mystics and the Corrie Story. Debbie and Ernie Rettinso, Praise, and Scott Wesley Brown were a few of the groups that added to a successful music program. Mark Hunter, a member of Maranatha, was honored with the title of Student Senator.

As a recognized student government body, Men's Interdormitory Board, along with the Women's Interdormitory Board, has equal say with the Student Senate. They also helped bring together all of the occupants of each dorm and work toward betterment for all.

Men's Interdorm initiated many new ideas and changes for their residents. Some of the new programs concerned the fire safety system, a weekend check cashing policy, and keeping lobbies open later each night. Along with helping improve the living conditions on campus, the organization gave its members the opportunity to show their qualities of leadership and responsibility. Wesley Foundation Adopts-A-House

Organized for the purpose of maintaining a Methodist ministry to the campus community, the Wesley Foundation provided students and faculty with a well-balanced program of fellowship and religious training. The Wesley Foundation held many different weekly activities for this growth and fellowship.

This year the city of Richmond sponsored the Adopt-A-House project. A house owned by a needy family was taken over by the foundation. In the past year the members renovated this house in their spare time.

The members were in great demand during the year to sing at various area churches. Nursing homes and shut-ins were regularly visited by the group as they testified to the teachings of Christ.

BSU Trick Or Treats For UNICEF

Established to lead students to the commitment of Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior, the Baptist Student Union provided activities on campus for worship, discussion, Bible study, social life, witness and ministry.

The students were led to give themselves in service to the community through being involved in nursing home visitation, comprehensive care center visitation, leading girl scouts, staying with elderly people, and assisting in morning devotions in Richmond high schools.

Highlights of the year included trick-or-treating for UNICEF, a chili supper for foster children, choir performances, and a sign language team for the deaf. Additionally the BSU had revival groups, banquets and experienced involvement with the International Students organization.

Groups Serve Campus and Community

Now in its twenty-second year, the Perishing Rifles participated in money-making projects for the University and the community. The projects included the annual homecoming mum sale. The Pershing Rifles participated in numerous drill meets resulting in the first place award in the national championship exhibition drill. They were also honored with the John Archer Memorial award. In the Queen City Meet they received first batallion, I.D.R. squad, platoon, exhibition squad, and exhibition platoon. In the first Regiment Meet the Pershing Rifles retired the honor trophy because they had won it three consecutive times.

The female version of the Pershing Rifles is the Valianetts. The Valianetts is a precision drill team that also exhibits sisterhood and has many social affiliations. The Valianetts have held their own with the Pershing Rifles as they were picked National Champions last year at the National meet at Ohio State.

They have also traveled to Purdue and Tennessee. They helped usher at football games and were very active in guard duty during E.K.U. homecoming.

Members Attend National Convention

Educating its members of the need for a strong army is the prime purpose of the Association of United States Army. This organization provided a form for the exchange of professional ideas on current trends in the Army. Outside speakers covered current topics of interest pertaining to the Army and national defense. Each year the club sends students to Washington, D.C. to attend the National Association of United States Army Convention. They also sold programs at home football games, and sponsored the annual military ball on February 24th.

MP's Collect for Heart Fund

Eastern's police company serves the University, community, and the military science department through traffic control, colorguard and other specialized duties. The company directed traffic during peak-traffic hours every morning on Lancaster Avenue in Richmond, Kentucky. They served as Eastern's official colorguards for all parades, football games, and basketball games on campus. Annual field training exercises were held to teach new members the basic military tactics. This live exercising has aided students in their academic theoretical applications. The organization offered a very rewarding brotherhood and sisterhood relationship to its members. The club also collected money for the Red Cross and the Heart Fund, as well as assisting the Red Cross in setting up their annual Blood Drive on campus.

I.S.A. Sponsors International Dinner PBL Attends Conference

The main purpose of the International Student Association was to provide an experience in cultural exchange for American students as well as for foreign students. Several parties were held throughout the year for international students who were here on the weekends. The main activity of the year was the International Dinner which was held in the spring. The dinner exhibited the food, culture, customs, and entertainment from several countries. From this, people from the community as well as students obtained an experience in our culture exchange.

Phi Beta Lambda is a professional business organization with the purpose of helping college students develop vocational and career supportive competencies and to promote civic and personal responsibility.

This year PBL traveled to the Fall Leadership Training Conference at Ken-Bar Resort Inn, in Gilbertsville, Kentucky. They also attended the Southern Region Conference which was held in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

PBL worked closely with Free Enterprise and worked on a campus wide survey to promote their project.

In March, members competed against other colleges and universities. The State Conference was held in Louisville, Kentucky.

Association Strives To Achieve Goals

Eastern's Student Association prides itself on being a member of the Student Government Association of Kentucky. The Student Senate election had the largest voter turnout in six years and more students than ever before ran for positions to fill the Senate.

Library hours were extended from 10:30 p.m. to 2:00 a.m., which marked a stepping stone in Student Association efforts. The Association also proposed to have dormitory lobbies open 24 hours. Additionally, the UNITY platform held a presidential workshop, made a list of off-campus housing available to students, and offered 129 new courses through the Free University for students, faculty, and administration.

Student Court was used as more than a traffic court. It heard a major case dealing with constitutional interpretation and continued to hear cases of constitutional clarification.

The Survival Handbook was distributed to students — a first at Eastern. The Association introduced a revision in room inspection policy and an extension of cafeteria hours. The student book exchange increased over 400 percent. The Arts and Crafts Fair and a Mini Fair were held to raise money for the Scotia Mine Disaster Scholarship, A Florida display appeared in the Powell Building. Between all of these various activities. members found time to go door-to-door in residence halls to inform students on the progress of EKU's Student Association. Another new Association accomplishment called for minutes of each meeting to be posted in the lobby of each dormitory.

Service Functions Sponsored by KDT's

As a service sorority, Kappa Delta Tau functions as a facility through which female students can contribute to the growth, improvement, and sustenance of the campus community.

Participating in athletics along with social, cultural, and intellectual activities, KDT combines the overall enhancement of education. These experiences broaden the responsibilities and improve leadership abilities among the members. At the same time a feeling of sisterhood is fostered within the sorority.

During Thanksgiving, they conducted a canned goods drive to aid the needy families in the Richmond area. KDT's sponsor an American Indian child annually.

The sisters served at campus banquets, helped with the student elections and the Hanging of the Greens.

In recreational activities, the sorority participated in intramural sports and campouts. Socially, the KDT's held a winter and spring formal.

Circle K Helps Local Charities Aurora Sponsors Honors Day Award

Circle K Club gave experience to the youths in the community service field. This club is annually involved at EKU's Homecoming game by selling peanuts. The money raised was given to various charities of the community. They also had a Thanksgiving party at Shriners. Visits to Kenwood were frequently made and assisting Kiwanians with fund raising projects for charity was another of their services. Circle K was a very active club not only with fund raising projects, but with cookouts, banquets, best pledge awards and other gatherings.

Aurora, the student literary magazine, was founded in 1935 as Belles Lettres, and the name was changed to Aurora in 1968. The magazine is composed of creative writing by Eastern students, poetry, short stories, short plays, and essays, and is edited by a student staff and an advisor from the English Department. Aurora is published every spring and a cash award is presented on Honors Day to the best poetry and the best prose for that year.

Young Staff Learns Skills

Under the editorship of Allen D. Engle the 1977-1978 Milestone staff worked diligently throughout the year to produce the fifty-fifth volume of the Eastern Kentucky University yearbook. The staff's year began with learning new skills and techniques, especially for the seven novice section editors. Delmar Publishing Company visited EKU in the fall, offering any help to make the yearbook a success. Cooperation among staff members and photographers was necessary to make the final copy.

Pictured here are the EKU students who have made the 77-78 school year come alive and remain alive through the photographs and printed words of the Milestone. These are the students who have turned memories into permanent records.

After many long hours of dedicated work, the staff brought the year to a close by distributing the yearbook to the students. The annual awards banquet was held and the official university copy was presented to President J. C. Powell. Outstanding section editor, staff member and photographer awards were also given.

Progress Elicits Readers Views

As the University's official student newspaper, The Eastern Progress worked hard this year to continue to expand its coverage of campus events, as well as state and national issues. Increased emphasis was placed on readers' views with the introduction of the weekly "People Poll" and "Forum", presenting two sides of an issue in the news.

Some things never change in newspaper work, however. Deadlines constantly pushed editors and staff writers to produce their best work in a short time and the Wednesday night paste-up sessions often left staff members emotionally and physically drained. Thursday's finished product, eagerly grabbed and read by faculty and students alike, was the workers greatest reward.

It was a good year for The Progress. Transitions and changes were achieved smoothly and the news, exciting and ordinary, was covered with best attempts at accuracy and efficiency.

Greek Life At Eastern: A Commitment To Involvement

Entering the world of Greeks at Eastern is a commitment to involvement and a promise of fulfillment resulting from that involvement. With a spirit of camaraderie as their foundation, Eastern students who elect the life of a fraternity or sorority build their futures through working toward (and ultimately beyond) the goals they set for themselves as freshmen.

Whether the initial goals were oriented to academics, altruism, athletics, or the arts, these students have found a place to grow, both individually and collectively. This growth is at the center of Eastern's Greek Spirit.

ADPi's Achieve High Honor

Epsilon Phi Chapter of Alpha Delta Pi began an exciting year during the summer by achieving the Diamond Four Point Award at their National Convention. This award is given to the ADPi Chapter with high scholarship, leadership, activities and talents.

Social events for the chapter included taking 2nd place in the Sigma Chi Derby, winning 1st place in the Theta Chi volleyball tournament and participating in the SAE County Fair and the TEKE basketball tournament.

In November they sponsored their annual racquetball tournament and their Parents' Day. A banquet was held in Lexington at the Ramada Imperial for the parents.

Throughout the year the chapter had many service projects, including collecting for UNICEF and the Heart Fund. They also held a joint Halloween party with the KA fraternity for the Shriners' Hospital.

Eastern's Alpha Gamma Delta Chapter has been active through the year with a number of Greek activities. The members participated in the Sigma Chi Derby and Beta Theta Pi football tournament. They also took part in the Theta Chi volleyball tournament, the Teke basketball tournament in which they placed second in both, and in the SAE County Fair in which they placed first in the sorority division.

To raise money for their international altruistic project,

Alpha Gams sold candy bars. They also had many local service projects.

Ending the semester, the sorority held their annual Parents' Day on November 5th. Parents attended the Eastern Kentucky versus Tennessee Tech football game. A banquet was held at the Holiday Inn immediately following the game. In December the chapter held their annual Christmas Formal in Lexington at the Sheraton Inn.

The spring semester began with the installation of new officers. Also, the chapter held their 10th International Reunion Day with other Alpha Gamma Delta Chapters on Saturday, April 15th, and their annual softball tournament.

Ending the year, the members held their spring formal in Fairfield Glade, Tennessee.

AKA's Strive To Serve Mankind

Alpha Kappa Alpha is a nationally incorporated organization with the motto of "Service to All Mankind". Eastern's Zeta Nu Chapter fulfilled this motto during the year by helping with many service projects. The sorors helped with canned food drives and contributed to the Martin Luther King Fund and the National Council for Negro Women. The sorority also sponsored their annual Barbara Hunter Scholarship. This scholarship is given to a Richmond Youth by paying his way to Model School. The scholarship is in honor of Barbara Hunter, the first black student and first woman to receive a Masters in chemistry.

Beta's Visit Shriners Hospital

The brothers of Beta Theta Pi had an exciting year. Beginning the year, the fraternity sponsored their annual football tournament for both sororities and fraternities. Along with placing first in this tournament, the members also placed third in intramural football.

Parents Day was also held in the fall. Parents attended an EKU football game and were treated to a dinner in the Keen Johnson Building.

Together with Kappa Alpha

Theta, the Betas visited Shriners Hospital in Lexington. Short skits were performed for the patients. Socially, Homecoming formal was held at the Houdini's in Lexington and spring formal was held in Gatlinburg, Tennessee.

Being busy with these events the brothers were still able to study. Pledges were first in overall grade points while the fraternity placed second.

Chi O's Take Sigma Chi Derby

The Gamma Theta Chapter of Chi Omega started the year by capturing first palce in the Sigma Chi Derby, the ADPI racquetball tournament doubles competition and taking second place in the SAE County Fair.

In the fall the Chi O's held their annual Parents' Day. Parents attended the Eastern Kentucky — Tennessee Tech football game on Saturday November 5, 1977. On Sunday the parents were treated to a banquet. To end the semester the sorority held it's annual Christmas formal at the Diners Play House in Lexington.

Throughout the year the Chi O's had many service projects for the community. Among these were donating food and clothes to flood victims and selling candy to raise money for the Kidney Foundation. Ending the year, the sorority held their annual spring formal.

DU's Double In Size

The 1977-78 school year started off as a tough one for the men of Delta Upsilon. The chapter returned to campus in Austust knowing they needed a good rush to maintain a good-sized chapter. The chapter succeeded with a rush of twenty-one men, the second strongest rush on campus.

The highlight of the semester was Delta Epsilon's victory in the SAE County Fair. Also, Homecoming formal was a big event for the chapter as many alumni returned for the occasion.

The final event of the fall semester was Delta Upsilon

Super Week, a week full of work and fun for the brothers. The most memorable event of "Super Week" was the annual active-junior active "Mudbowl". The pledges beat the old men 30-6.

After a long cold winter Delta Upsilon continued to move forward with a fine rush and all brothers enjoying the strength of a good chapter.

As service projects, the brothers assisted in the Special Olympics, helped in the dismantling of the Arts and Crafts display, and sold products for the benefit of the Kidney Foundation.

Ending the year, the brothers held their annual Spring formal in Bardstown, Kentucky.

Theta Chi's Win Superstars

The brothers of Theta Chi had a very prosperous and fulfilling year. Rally Week, sponsored by Theta Chi, raised $600 for the Easter Seal Society. A fifties dance was also sponsored in which the brothers raised another $300 for charity. The brothers were the only fraternity to sponsor a Homecoming float. Their Homecoming dance was held at Diner's Playhouse in Lexington.

The Theta Chi Fraternity excelled in sports. The brothers were undefeated during regular season football. Theta Chi won the Sigma Pi — Pi Beta Phi Superstars competition as well as placing first in intramural track. A volleyball tournament was sponsored for fraternities and sororities.

A 2.8 overall gradepoint was attained by the Theta Chi's, placing them 2nd in fraternity grade point average. Theta Chi has not only excelled in academics and athletics on Eastern's campus, but has abided by it's motto: "Alma mater first; Theta Chi for alma mater!"

They held a Halloween party at the Shriners Children's Hospital and helped collect for Multiple Sclerosis.

They also participated in other activities such as: SAE County Fair, Pi Beta Phi — Sigma Pi Superstars, and the TKE basketball tournament.

Some of the year's outstanding events were the Homecoming Dance at Danville in the fall and their annual "KA Old South" ball held at the Jenny Wiley State Park. Theta's Win Football Tournament

The sisters of the Delta Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta had an interesting and busy year. They participated in all of the Greek activities and also participated in community service projects.

The Theta's, after weeks of practice, carried away the first place trophy for the Beta Theta Pi football tournament. They also won first place in the Theta Chi Rally Week for the 1977 school year. In the annual SAE County Fair, the Theta's placed third.

In the area of service, the sisters of Kappa Alpha Theta were always working. They continued to support their foster child, and also their philanthropy, the Institute of Logopedics. In October, they had a joint Halloween party with the brothers of Beta Theta Pi for crippled children at the Shriners' Hospital in Lexington.

The Theta's also lent their support to the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation.

KD's Collect For Cystic Fibrosis

Members of the Delta Omicron Chapter of Kappa Delta were very busy with their monthly philanthropy projects. These projects included such things as helping Eastern's campus with the Blood Mobile, having paper-bottle drives, collecting canned goods, and collecting $1,000 with Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity for Cystic Fibrosis. For their national philanthropy the KD's helped the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Virginia. They also ran a football to Morehead State University with Sigma Nu's.

Nikki Marasa was honored as "All Greek Woman".

While at their Biennial National Convention in Miami,

Florida last summer, they received a progress award and honorable mention for scholarship.

KD's also entered in social activities such as the SAE County Fair, the Sigma Chi Derby, and KA Old South. The Kappa Delta pledges also held their annual dating game in the fall.

Lambda Chi Alpha, the newest fraternity on campus, colonized at Eastern in the spring of 1977. The fraternity had a great emphasis on service projects. During the year the brothers helped the Red Cross Blood Mobile, ran the carnival at Special Olympics, served as Big Brothers for orphans and collected money for Crusade for Children. Lambda Chi's sponsored many educational programs such as speakers, tutors, trips and studies.

Being here only for the year, the fraternity sponsored their first Annual Watermelon Bust. This event was held in the fall and was open to any EKU student.

Phi Delt's Acquire House

After a long hard struggle, the Phi Delt's acquired their Fraternity house. The house is located three miles off campus and the brothers were able to move into it on January 1, 1978.

During the year the chapter participated in the United Way Campaign, ushered at football games and helped finance charity movies.

During the fall, the fraternity had two social dances, both held at the Officers Club at the Blue Grass Depot.

In the spring semester the chapter held its annual softball tourney. They ended the year with their spring formal held at Houston Woods in Ohio.

Phi Mu's Sponsor Swim-a-thon

The sorority of Phi Mu, Delta Chi Chapter, was very active this year. The sisters entered various Greek sponsored activities. They placed honorable mention in the Lambda Chi Watermelon Bust. They placed second in the Beta Theta Pi football tournament, and participated in the TEKE basketball tournament, Sigma Chi Derby and SAE County fair.

The Phi Mu's sponsored their annual Swim-a-Thon in February. Money raised from this event was sent to their national philantropy, the Project Ship Hope.

Socially, the sorority held their annual Parents' Day, the fall formal, and spring formal.

Pi Phi's Capture TEKE Tourney

Eastern's Chapter of Pi Beta Phi started an exciting year by participating in many Greek activities. They placed 3rd in the Sigma Chi Derby, 1st in the single division of the ADPi racquetball tourney, and 1st in the Teke basketball tourney. They also entered the SAE County Fair. Along with entering these events, the chapter co-sponsored with the Sigma Pi Fraternity the Sigma Pi Phi Superstars.

Pi Phi's contributed to the Cardinal Hill Hospital, gave canned goods to Kappa Alpha Psi and helped sponsor a charity movie.

The sorority held their Parents' Day on November 5. All parents were invited to the Eastern game and on Sunday a brunch was held in the Powell Building.

In addition to having many social events, the chapter stressed high scholarship and was able to maintain the highest overall sorority average for the past two semesters.

Pike's Place 1st In TKE Tourney

The brother's of Pi Kappa Alpha had a very busy year, participating in a number of activities on campus. The Pikes began the year by circulating their Dream Girl Calendar, participating in intramural football, and taking victory rides on their traditional fire truck.

Pi Kappa Alpha participated in many sporting events, finishing victorious in the TKE basketball tournament and placing number one in intramural volleyball.

During the spring, the brothers sponsored Pike's Peak Week. Such events as fraternity and sorority bowling and the pledge basketball tournament took place. The highlight of the week was the Dream Girl Pageant in which the beauties seen on the Pike Calendar were chosen.

SAE's Become Largest Chapter

Founded October 27, 1973 Kentucky Delta Chapter

President Kurt Heyer

Secretary Dave Qualls

The brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon had a verv fulfilling year. They became the largest chapter on Eastern's campus in the spring of 1978. Athletically, the brothers used their members to participate successfully in many events. They won intramural tennis and the Phi Delta Theta pledge basketball tournament. The SAE's took second place in the TKE basketball tourney as well as taking second in the intramural golf and volleyball.

The brothers were also busy working on various service projects. Eastern's SAE's donated money to help replace a burned chapter house in Tennessee. They raised money for Muscular Dystrophy by riding a bike to Riverfront Stadium. The SAE's sponsored a dance marathon and set up a road block along with Kappa Delta which raised $1,000.00 for Cystic Fibrosis.

The SAE's sponsored the 8th Annual County Fair. Their Homecoming dance was held in Louisville at Ramada-Bluegrass Convention Center. In February, the brothers held their preference dance at Lexington's Holiday Inn with the Kappa Alpha Order.

Sigma Chi's Sponsor "Boogie Derby"

This year, as always, the brothers of Sigma Chi began the year by sponsoring their annual Sigma Chi Derby Week, held September 12 through the 17th. Also, the fraternity sponsored their haunted house at Halloween. The proceeds of the event go to their national charity, Wallace Village in Boulder, Colorado. This charity helps children afflicted with minimal brain dysfunction. The Pond Christian Church and the fraternity work closely together through maintenance in exchange for the use of church facilities.

Sigma Chi's held their annual winter formal at Winchester Country Club and their spring formal at French Lick, Indiana.

Socially, Sigma Chi's participated in the Beta Theta Pi football tournament, Theta Chi volleyball tournament, and the Teke basketball tournament.

Sigma Nu's Run Game Football

The brothers of Sigma Nu Fraternity saw another year through with great success. In cooperation with the sisters of Kappa Delta, they ran the game football to Morehead for the Colonel-Eagle gridiron battle, taking pledges for each mile run. With the spirit of good will and Christmas, they participated in the Hanging of the Greens ceremony. Socially, Homecoming was better than ever, with a dance in Lexington and a fall formal was held in Gatlinburg.

During the spring semester, the members participated in the Phi Mu Swim-a-Thon and Greek Week. Additionally, Parents' Day was held during which the parents were treated to a cook-out at the fraternity house. Closing the year was their annual spring formal.

Sigma Pi's Receive Charter

Sigma Pi Fraternity was recognized as a colony at EKU on March 11, 1977, and was given a charter in April 1978. Being an old fraternity on the campus, it was not hard for them to get a new start.

In social events Sigma Pi's placed 1st in the Theta Chi volleyball tourney and 2nd in the Beta football tourney as well as winning the intramural campus flag football championship. They also sponsored the Sigma Pi Phi Superstars with the Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Among Sigma Pi's many activities, they have placed special emphasis on service projects. Among these were egg hunts for the mentally handicapped, collections for various charities, blood donations, distributing food baskets at Thanksgiving and giving parties for the elderly.

During the spring semester the fraternity held their annual spring formal and their Pig Roast which included a softball tourney with neighboring chapters.

The Brothers of the Mu Beta Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon have been active throughout the year, participating in Greek activities and helping with many service projects. Events such as the Pi Beta Phi — Sigma Pi Superstars, Theta Chi Volleyball tournament, and SAE County Fair were a few which the Teke's entered. Beside entering outside activities, the brothers also sponsored their annual basketball tourney in December. As service projects the fraternity helped park cars at White Hall State Shrine during Labor Day weekend, took youngsters from the Lexington Big Brothers organization to football games, and helped clean air-raid shelters. Social events consisted of their annual fall formal held at Hospitality Inn in Lexington and their annual spring formal.

Omega's Emphasize Community Service

The Brothers of Omega Psi Phi began the year with an emphasis on community service. Beside their annual sickle cell testing drive, the fall semester was highlighted by the brothers' first blood drive. Responding to the need for blood in the central Kentucky area, the program was a tremendous success. The chapter was awarded a certificate of appreciation from the Central Kentucky Blood Center in Lexington.

With the start of the spring semester and inclement weather, the brothers responded to the community needs by initiating a Winter Aid Program designed to provide youthful service to the elderly victimized by the harsh weather. This often amounted to shoveling snow off walks or doing someone's grocery shopping.

In addition, the brothers participated in the Kentucky Interfraternity Council meeting, held an Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored church services and made continuing contributions to the NAACP and their scholarship fund for a Model High School student. The year was climaxed by the brothers' Omega Week and Omega Ball.

Governing Bodies Sponsor Greek Week

Panhellenic and the Inter-Fraternity Council were the governing bodies over the Greeks on EKU's campus. The councils were made up of members from each fraternity and sorority on campus.

In addition to making guidelines for the Greeks to follow, they also sponsored many activities. Together they sponsored Greek Week held in April. Panhellenic held a Halloween party for faculty children, sent fruit baskets to local nursing homes and sent Christmas cards to patients at Patty A. Clay Hospital. IFC participated in many different philanthropic endeavors. They also published the Greek Independent, a quarterly newsletter which covered items of interest to the Greek community.

ABOVE: With guitars and music in hand, Matt Toftness and Carl Kamphans find the ravine a quiet place to explore and share their musical interest.

Editor's Note

What you have been looking at is the culmination of thousands of combined hours of effort. The challenge of trying to capture the feelings, events and actions of an entire school with plastic and paper is staggering. Many things were left out and many things did not get the coverage that they deserve, but the book has a limited number of pages and my job was to edit the material, so that is what I did.

It is quite obvious that this year's book is smaller than last year's book. The problems of funding and rising costs are an old story, but unfortunately they are very true ones in this case. In hopes of partially making up this deficit, you should also notice that there is much more color photography in this year's book than there ever has been before.

I started in on this job back in August and knew that we had troubles. We returned four people from last year's staff and had a new adviser. On top of this, our budget problems necessitated the reduction of the book by 100 pages. Over the course of the year we had a number of problems. Several of the section editors I had chosen did not work out and my Managing Editor, Debbie Eskridge, had to take over. She never complained and really saved my life on more than one occasion. My section editors that stayed on were the best group of people that I have ever worked with. Matt Davies, our Sports Editor, did a very difficult job and made a tricky section turn out just right. He had never been on the Milestone staff before, and even though he did most of his work in the dead of night and deposited the pages mysteriously in our work box, we didn't think he was too weird. Another newcomer was Shelley Steele, our Classes Editor. She was always ready to help anyone out and did her section correctly and on time. Our Organizations Editor, Meg Hiles, put up with a lot of foolishness from both the organizations she dealt with and yours truly. Meg was reliable and a real perfectionist. Jill Secrest, our Index Editor, wore her fingerprints off indexing all (hopefully) the organizations and individuals in this book. Although she had a tendency to scream when problems arose. Jill usually did her screaming after office hours so no one from the surrounding offices would get upset.

As I mentioned before, Debbie Eskridge acted as Managing Editor, she was also our Academics Editor, Honors Editor and contributed to the Student Life and Sports Sections. Our Business Manager, Cliff Taylor, kept all the books straight and took care of the picture sales program.

The English majors reading this will probably be wondering just who is this "we" that one person is talking about. Well, the other half of the "we" is Mr. Larry Bailey, the Adviser to the Milestone. This book is as much his product as it is mine, and would never had been produced without his hard work and technical expertise.

This leads us (inevitably) to Mr. Paul Lambert, University Photographer. Paul took a large number of the photographs appearing in this volume and put in long hard hours in the printing room and the film room.

I personally would like to thank the following people: Mr. Donald Feltner, the person I was always able to go to with any questions or problems. Mr. Feltner knows more about the publications field in general than I thought humanly possible. Jack Frost, Karl Park, and John Winnecke from the Office of Public Information, executive secretary Beverly Burrus, administration expert Doug Whitlock and Mike Hardesty, graphics specialist.

Finally, we would like to thank all the professionals down at Delmar Printing: Chairman of the Executive Committee Jack Renfro, Plant Manager Bob Anderson, Production Supervisor Sam Dixon, Artist and Renaissance Man Ralph Van Dyke and our Account Representative Becky Alexander. All of the memories we have of Delmar are happy ones, well almost all.

The university experience provided a multitude of opportunities for interaction. The confidence and self-assurance resulting from this interaction was as much an educational experience as anything learned in the classroom.

Society is, indeed, a contract...
It is a partnership in all science, a partnership in all art, a partnership in every virtue and in all perfection.

-Edmund Burke

An aim of self-improvement does not mean the sacrifice of one's individuality. Rather, self-improvement is an attempt to strengthen those individual characteristics that create the wide-ranging diversity of Eastern's population.

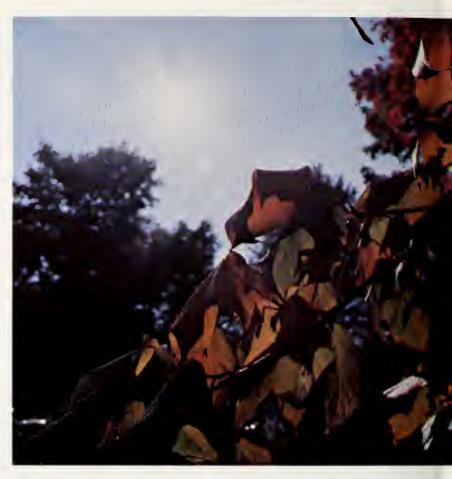

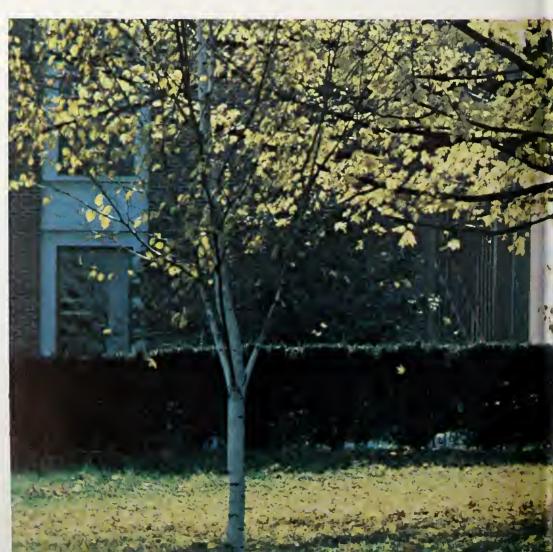

Every individual has a place to fill in the world, and is important in some respect, whether he chooses to be so or not.

-Nathaniel Hawthorne

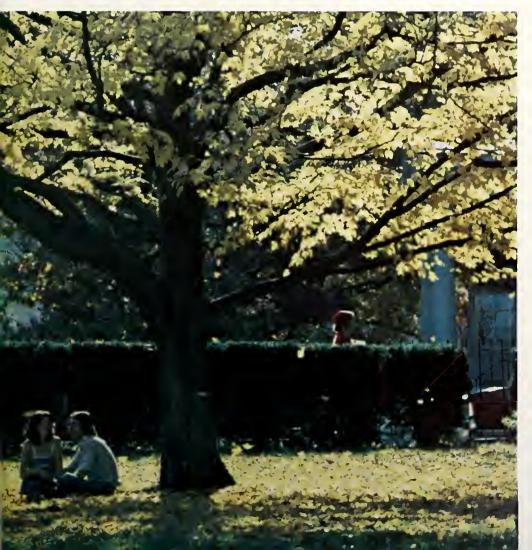

There is no point high enough that one can say, "This is the peak."

—Jascha Heifetz

The growth and maturation process does not end with graduation. Old goals were achieved, new ones have been set. The lives of all who successfully encountered the worlds which are Eastern will continually reflect the University's philosophy of excellence in all their endeavors. The University has been changed by our presence. All of us will be richer for following Eastern's dictum of going beyond what is merely required and striving toward Excellence.
