Foreword

One of the truest measures of life is growth—either an external expansion or an internal change. The dynamic growth experienced here at Eastern, both externally and internally, is proof of the vibrancy of the college's academic life.

As buildings become taller, so the staff reaches higher toward expanded knowledge and better methods of bringing this knowledge to those who come to learn.

As the population of learners increases, the challenge becomes keener and this challenge creates an atmosphere for learning.

This challenge is not concentrated in the classroom. As the student body becomes larger, it also becomes more sophisticated and heterogeneous. The diversified interests make necessary a broader scope of opportunity for cultural and social accomplishments.

As this challenge is met, academically, culturally, and socially, a sense of pride ensues. The source of this pride, the college, generates a feeling of loyalty.

One other element is necessary to complete this vibrancy—a sense of tradition and thereby, retention of that part of the past that is good and beautiful.

As buildings grow taller . . .

No matter what one builds, whether a house or an idea, he must begin with a framework. In a sense the buildings of Eastern are an external structure which is united and made purposeful by all the other elements necessary for a college—faculty, students, books and laboratories.

Within the past five years every major facility at Eastern has been either renovated or newly-built. In the 1965-66 school year alone, ten projects have either been built or begun. These include five housing projects, a new library, three classroom buildings, and an observatory. This expansion has provided the facilities for a larger faculty and has allowed the college to accommodate the growing number of learners. Growth in all these areas—facilities, faculty, and students—is bringing closer the dream that Eastern will soon become a university.

... the faculty reaches higher ...

This expanded structure opens the door to a larger and better qualified faculty. Eastern's faculty has more than doubled in the past five years with the number holding doctorates today, twice as high as it was in 1960.

In order to reach higher, the teaching staff must probe deeper; thereby, teaching not only facts but correlating concepts. The professorate has assumed the role of a counselor guiding students toward becoming the creative leaders needed in today's world.

... toward expanded knowledge and better
teaching methods.

A better qualified faculty encourages an elevated search for knowledge and truth without fear and without reproach. At Eastern knowledge is pursued in sixty-three different fields ranging from anthropology to zoology. Within these areas lie challenges for a lifetime of learning.

Interest is the key to learning—the professor's interest in the student and, reciprocally, the student's interest in the professor and the subject matter he presents. Enthusiasm for learning can be conveyed to the student through the professor's use of up-dated teaching devices and personal contact. Eastern's acquisition of a more endowed professorate throughout the years has insured the use of these teaching techniques.

An atmosphere for learning is created.

Within this educational structure, the most important facilities used in the quest for knowledge are the minds of the students. Learning is a process of incorporating facts and theories to form applicable concepts. As theories are learned and concepts are applied, a challenge grows and makes in itself a more open and ready atmosphere for learning. The student must accept this challenge; and seek not only what is taught in the classroom, but find that knowledge which he alone can acquire—an understanding of himself.

The challenge is also social and cultural.

As the student body becomes larger, the diversity of personal tastes requires that the College provide new social situations. Eastern's growth from a local institution to one incorporating elements from all over the world demands a more heterogeneous social environment. The College must provide not only dances but lectures, not only movies but live theater. Students must have the place and opportunity for development of their special interests whether it be music, art, drama, or philosophy. A part of learning is learning to enjoy the vast cultural opportunities that the centuries have proved to be the higher arts.

As this challenge is met . . .

In 1965 and 1966 the administration at Eastern has shown an enthusiasm for meeting this challenge. The President's Anniversary Ball was converted into a jazz concert by Count Basie and his band. A place has been provided for art exhibits, and exhibition tours featuring well-known artists have been booked. Eastern's Little Theater has provided fine student productions such as LOOK HOMEWARD ANGEL, while the desire for intellectual discussion has been met by events such as a visit from England's Cambridge University debating team. Student response to all these efforts has proven the need for a continuation of varied cultural events.

. . . pride and loyalty ensue.

As this challenge is met, a sense of pride and loyalty is generated and heightened. The diversity of tastes among the individuals remains, yet each student experiences delight in his college's achievements whether they be social, athletic, cultural, or academic. The students as a collective body are then drawn together homogeneously—each finding within some aspect of the College, an objective for a common feeling of pride and loyalty.

This pride and loyalty is made apparent by Eastern students through the use of symbols—a Homecoming bonfire, symbolic of pride in outstanding athletic endeavors; a rebel flag, symbolic of loyalty to the southern tradition behind the College; the Homecoming Parade, symbolic of pride in the College's youth and energy; the American flag, symbolic of a pride in Eastern's contribution to the outside world; the Student Union Building, symbolic of the pride in friendship found at Eastern.

A sense of tradition remains and thereby . . .

. . . retention of that . . .

And yet, though the buildings grow taller, though the populace comes and goes, there remains that inherent part of the personality of the College that individualizes it from all other institutions. There is in every generation particular sentiments that can only be expressed with the pageantry of crowning a new queen, with the dignity of a ceremony such as the Hanging of the Greens, with the ringing exultation of the voices in the Messiah Chorus, and the pulsating movements of modern dance. In the yearly presentation of these and other sentiments lies the traditional character of Eastern.

Aside from the expression of sentiment, tradition is also manifested in the genuine love of service. Eastern serves its students by preparing them to take a purposeful, prosperous part in the life they will begin upon graduation. It aids the youth of our state through activities such as speech and drama festivals, science and music clinics, senior day, and band day.

. . . which is good and beautiful . . .

Another integral part of the manifestation of tradition is the genuine love of beauty. The stately beauty of the white columns of traditional architecture, the natural beauty of the flowering trees, the heartfelt beauty of a warm atmosphere—all lie beneath the gently unfurling Eastern flag.

... completing a vibrant college life.

The juxtaposition of all these—an expanding structure, higher standards, greater cultural opportunities, pride, loyalty, and tradition—is necessary for the completion of a vibrant college life.

Morning Brings Life to the Campus

For a college student morning brings many things. It can be an utterly disgusting experience or an utterly beautiful one. After late hours of study, an alarm clock jars one to the awareness that a new day has begun. He must leave the warmth of his bed to face the cold of the morning, the quiet of the air. He begins the slow process of preparing to face the activities of a seemingly never ending day of classes and clamor and rushing and waiting.

The sun does shine sometimes, and it shines more beautifully on the newness of morning. Morning can also bring the student to a fresh awareness of the beauty that surrounds him—the radiant colors of autumn, the amazement of snow, the dew on the spring grass, the symmetrical floral arrangements, the grandeur of the trees, and the architectural artistry of buildings. All this faces the sleepy-eyed student as he makes his way through the first hours of the day.

The splash of cold water revives the senses and lets one see the morning more clearly.

College Life Can Be Frustrating

Although a gaiety week, Freshman Orientation also contained several unpleasant aspects—the confusion and disappointment of registration, perpetual lines in the book store and cafeterias, and hour upon hour of brain-scraping tests. New students were introduced to the work and tension of college life as well as to its pleasures. The freshman began to see, after only a few days, that in order to find time for everything he wanted to do, he must budget his days carefully. He learned that for dormitory life to be bearable, he must observe the rights of others and stand up for his own. The freshman makes the discovery that college life is, as life anywhere will be, a mixture of both good and bad.

Orientation Week Initiates Freshmen

More than 3,000 freshmen were introduced to college life during a week of excitement filled with dances, talent shows, rat courts, and beanies. Upperclassmen and college personnel supervised activities running from morning till night consisting of college tours, informative movies, pep rallies, and jam sessions in an effort to help new students find friends and discover themselves to be a part of Eastern. Leading the welcome committee was a group of sophomores (still young enough to remember their first days) who were designated the "Go, Go Group." They filled freshmen in on college tradition and abounded in free advice about how not to make the same mistakes that they, as freshmen, had made.

Freshmen groups competed for recognition as the "peppiest" during Orientation week activities.

School Year Begins With Fun and Frolic

“Lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer” end in a splash of fall color. Students take advantage of the last warm days for trips to the beach and hikes through crisp fallen leaves. Characterized by the reopening of school, fall is a time to make new acquaintances, to reminisce about summer fun, to prepare for classes, and to begin a new football season. For students it is the beginning of activity, for nature, the beginning of rest.

While seasonal changes affect the campus, certain facets of student life remain unchanged.

Quiet conversation is the product of a tranquil autumn day as students pause between classes.

High School Musicians Flood Eastern's Campus

Throughout the years Band Day has become, for visitors and students alike, a truly worthwhile and enjoyable tradition. Despite chilly weather, this year's Band Day was a complete success. Bandsmen from high schools throughout the state found the day rewarding, but exhausting. The young musicians paraded through downtown Richmond, toured Eastern's campus, watched a college football game, and provided a capacity crowd with halftime entertainment—a schedule to make even an active teenager welcome an afternoon nap.

Excited by the game and the events of Band Day, this majorette eagerly awaits the half-time performance.

After drilling, marching, and performing, it's fun to relax and enjoy the game.

Even the excitement of the game wasn't enough to keep this Glasgow Scottie awake.

Library Use Leads To Cultural Awareness

Characterized by hushed tones, the library opens the door to unknown worlds. In its corridors and stacks of books, there lies an abundance of knowledge awaiting discovery. Inquiring students can fathom previously unknown depths of ideas with the power of an Aeschylus, Machiavelli or Ibsen or innovations of a Hobbes, Darwin, or Sigmund Freud. Such acquaintance with the humanities often provides a diversion from the student's major field and helps create a culturally aware, as well as, a technically trained graduate.

The seclusion of the stacks provides a satisfying atmosphere for research.

Moving the stacks was one of the necessary evils to be performed before beginning construction of the new library.

Learning Takes Place Within

Learning reaches out and touches upon many factors within the active classroom. It is much more than attentively listening to lectures, attempting to catch every word for one's notes, or even one's striving for excellence in his spoken or written communications within the classroom. Learning is, rather, the opening of the mind to broader fields of reasoning and new concepts of intellectual growth. Eventually, ignorance gives way to new-found knowledge and the student awakens to find himself no longer in the darkness of the cave. Thus, through the light of that knowledge, he becomes capable of contributing his ideas and opinions to classroom discussions so that others may benefit and grow intellectually along with him. By each member of the class participating in this manner, before long, active classroom discussions will result in active knowledge.

Dormitory Study

Necessitates Will Power

Telephones ringing, pencils being sharpened, typewriters pecking, and chairs scraping blend harmoniously as the dorm is at study. The struggle between mind and book is often challenged by the temptation to play cards or talk with friends.

A student must develop a tremendous amount of will power and intense powers of concentration in applying himself to his tasks. No matter how hard he may try to accomplish these, time, or the lack of it, tends to be the villain. Sleep never comes to the entire campus for at least one student sees the hours of night fade too quickly into the day.

As the night creeps slowly away, a bleary-eyed student finds it increasingly harder to concentrate on his studies.

Teacher Training Involves 456 Students

Student teaching, the climax of the teacher education program, allows future instructors to put into practice concepts that they have learned. In one semester, students experience six weeks of classroom training in methods, theories, and fundamentals of education. They are then given the opportunity to apply these theories for twelve weeks in a practical classroom situation.

The student teacher discovers that as much effort is required in preparing to teach as in studying for actual classes. Long hours are spent writing lesson plans, reading outside material for lectures, and constructing visual aids such as posters, pamphlets, and bulletin boards. Time is also utilized by practice teachers in organizing projects and evaluating the work of students.

Fall-Colored Greeting

Smiling faces, vibrant conversation and colorful fall scenes extended a warm greeting to everyone as the fall semester began. The falling leaves signaled as well that it was time again to store away the carefree attitude of summer and pick up the books-in-hand air of the student, to begin anew where he had stopped the preceding spring and to continue mapping-out the all important plans for the fulfillment of goals he has set for a lifetime.

Climaxing the perfect homecoming weekend, Eastern soundly whipped Western 28-12 for the first time at a home game since 1957.

Homecoming Is Largest In Eastern's History

Homecoming weekend signifies the end of months of careful planning and weeks of hard work put into building floats and dorm decorations. Studies are neglected; thoughts center only around the excitement-filled weekend. The alumni return to reminisce about post-college experiences and to cheer for their alma mater in the Homecoming football game.

Officially beginning this festive occasion is the presentation of the queen candidates at the annual Homecoming Dance. Saturday is highlighted by the crowning of a queen and a thrilling game watched by the thousands of fans in Hangar Stadium. As the weekend comes to a close, only the memories of work, excitement, and fun remain as the student once again resumes his normal schedule.

Dormitory Living Provides A New Way of Life

Activity is the word that best describes dormitory life! It is here, among peers, that the student establishes his home away from home. Studying, of course, must play a big part in this life, but such things as television, personal hygiene, an occasional trip to the refreshment center, and general goofing off help add variety to the day's routine. Nighttime brings the clamor of conversation, antics in the halls, and of course, more long periods of study. But, as the night creeps to an end, sleep usually overcomes all until the sound of an alarm clock commences a new day.

Miss Cheerleader Chosen In All-Campus Election

Sarann Shepherd was selected as Eastern's "Miss Cheerleader" in an all-campus election sponsored by the Progress. Sarann, a sophomore business education major from Versailles, will represent Eastern in the Miss Cheerleader U.S.A. Contest this spring. She was selected on the basis of her attractiveness, her winning personality, and her ability to lead cheers. Eastern's own Diane Hendricks presently reigns as Miss Cheerleader U.S.A.

A winning personality and a flashing smile have gained Mike Campbell many friends and the title of "Mr. Popularity."

In addition to his extra-curricular activities, Mike, as a math major, is required to spend a large amount of time studying.

Mr. Popularity Is Mike Campbell

For displaying the charming qualities admired by all who know him, Mike Campbell was elected by his fellow students as the 1965-66 "Mr. Popularity". Mike, a senior math major from Louisville, has worked diligently toward the betterment of Eastern by serving as a member of the Student Code Committee, the Homecoming Committee, and Chief Justice of the Student Court. Besides these worthwhile endeavors, Mike still finds time to actively take part in the orchestra, band, music club, and Sigma Chi Delta. Holding a major office in each of these organizations evidences the outgoing versatility demonstrated by Mike.

Miss Popularity Is Ann Howard

Congenial Ann Howard, a senior from Frankfort, was chosen by popular vote in an all-campus election as this year's "Miss Popularity". Lovely Ann, an art major, who has been for the past two years a homecoming queen candidate, was chosen first runner-up in the Miss Richmond contest and named "Miss Congeniality", and is presently the sweetheart of Sigma Chi Delta. In addition to being counselor of McGregor Hall, energetic Annie finds time to participate in Student Council, Kappa Delta Tau, and Kappa Kappa Sigma.

The true meaning of Christmas is renewed each year with a moving campus presentation of Handel's "Messiah."

"Messiah" Revives the True Meaning of Christmas

"Christmas Kaleidoscope", a program presented to the freshman assembly by Drum and Sandal, interpreted Christmas music in modern dance.

With the traditional Hanging of the Greens, Eastern's holiday season began.

Reminding students that it is a Holy Season, the Hanging of the Greens, the "Messiah," and the Drum and Sandal show began the annual holiday season. Christmas carols echoed cross the campus, evergreens were trimmed with tinsel and ornaments, dorm doors donned festive attire, and holiday dances brought students together in an atmosphere of highest holiday spirits. Students spent long hours studying for pre-vacation tests and participating in numerous dormitory parties and club programs. Everything on campus seemed to smile a "Merry Christmas".

Many students join the choir in making up the "Messiah" chorus for this one performance of the year.

As evening comes Eastern turns into a "Winter Wonderland."

Sliding on ice provides fun and excitement to those who are brave enough to try it.

Along with snow comes creativity and some imagination!

Snow adds beauty to the campus but it also brings hardships to students hurrying to classes.

The playfulness of students is brought out as the snow mounts on the ground.

Only One, But It Was Fun

With the coming of winter the anticipation of the first snow mounts. Overnight the campus is covered with a blanket of white. It is a time to revel at the beauty and wonder of nature, but yet a time to be young and carefree. Spirits soar and the campus teems with activity. Forgetting the untouched stacks of books waiting on the desks, the students' minds turn to thinking of the mass snowball fights and the hill to be challenged on a sled disc. As the snow melts, they reflect upon the joy and serenity of the world of white. Their activities return to normal, while in the back of their minds is the never quite submerged longing for yet another cascade of white.

It isn't the North Pole, but it may as well be. This young couple feels just as alone with nothing but snow and darkness all around.

A trying day of registration begins.

Help on a conflicting schedule is given by an obliging coed.

During the registration rush, bewilderment sets in as students find needed classes closed.

Pre-Registration Tested Second Semester

As an attempt to provide a faster, more effective means of registering for classes, pre-registration was introduced for the spring semester. Under the new system, students who had received no more than one unsatisfactory at mid-term, were allowed to register before leaving for semester break.

Despite the heavy snowfall during the ten-day semester break, regular registration was performed with greater efficiency because of the elimination of long lines by pre-registration. At this time, the faculty was able to help the forlorn collegians who had difficulty scheduling their classes.

Little Theatre's Excellence Wins Invitation to France

Receiving one of the highest honors bestowed upon a college drama organization, the Little Theatre this year was selected as the official entry representing the United States in the World University Theatre Festival in Nancy, France. Remaining active all year around, the group presented The Mouse Trap, an English mystery, during the summer, and a fall production of Look Homeward, Angel, a dramatic biography of Thomas Wolfe. Working to promote an interest in dramatics, the Little Theatre sponsors programs, scrutinizes outside performances, and participates in various campus speech and dramatic activities.

Action in LOOK HOMEWARD, ANGEL requires daily rebuilding of the set.

Trio Sings to Weather-Weary Crowd

Despite snow and ice Peter, Paul and Mary arrived at Eastern to give a polished performance. Singing before a weather-weary crowd, the veteran trio lightened the spirits of the audience with beautiful song and laughter. Often they invited the spectators to participate in a variety of old and new folk songs. Because the trio had performed at Eastern before, the audience expected a tremendous show and was not disappointed.

Appreciative fans swarm around Mary as she signs autographs.

The many emotions expressed in the group's songs are reflected on Paul's face as well as in his voice.

Mary's personality is vibrantly projected throughout her singing of traditional as well as composed folk songs.

Peter's distinctive tenor voice is balanced by the trio's pulsatingly alive inflections.

Count Basie, world-renowned jazzman, performed in concert to the delight of many Eastern students in the Alumni Coliseum.

Making an intricate orchestral direction seem most commonplace is only one of the difficulties Count Basie must face during each performance.

Students eagerly seek autographs after the Count Basie concert in the Coliseum.

Jazz and Folk Artists Perform on Campus

Internationally acclaimed Count Basie and his orchestra rendered a November concert celebrating the fifth anniversary of Robert R. Martin's inauguration as president of Eastern. A versatile piano-organ artist, Basie has headlined most of the major jazz festivals in recent years. The musician, who has played for audiences all over the world, including the Queen of England, considers the highlight of his career performing at the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy.

Also appearing in concert at Eastern was Billy Ed Wheeler, well-known composer of folk music. As well as composing popular folk material for such groups as Peter, Paul, and Mary and the Kingston Trio, he has made appearances on national television and has also recorded several albums and single discs.

Sharon Tudor Is Mardi Gras Queen

Fast becoming a tradition at Eastern, the Mardi Gras Dance provides a different type of entertainment for Eastern students. Patterned after the world-known Mardi Gras in New Orleans, the campus event offers masks, noise makers, streamers, and delightful music in an atmosphere of gaiety, and excitement.

Thirty-one campus organizations nominated queen candidates for the affair sponsored by the Newman Club. The queen was selected by suspending thirty-one balloons from the ceiling. Each candidate's escort then jumped for a balloon hoping to receive one of the three that contained a ballot denoting the queen or one of her court.

Students find the conversation as interesting as the dancing.

The beauty of the dance is found in the Queen, Sharon Tudor, and her court, Jane Cairnes and Mary Slattery.

As always, graduation is the traditional combination of happiness with a few tears.

Graduates exchange final farewells before assuming positions of leadership in their respective communities.

Graduation Begins a New Phase of Life

Remembering the beauty of the campus, the Homecoming celebration, the sports activities, the campus movies, the noisy grill, the trips to the beach, and the walks in the ravine, the new alumni are now ready to become society's young leaders. Bidding farewell to his fellow classmates and alma mater, the graduate is brought to the realization that this day is the end of his college life.

But the end brings a beginning. Offering new opportunities, graduation is the commencing of a different phase of life, involving many new experiences. It is the time to make and utilize plans, to meet people, and to broaden basic concepts. Tears may cloud the day, but the future remains bright.

A proud graduate views the symbolic fruits of his many years' labor.

Expectant graduates march into Alumni Coliseum to receive their degrees.

Summer Session Brims Full of Activity

Air-conditioned buildings, an overcrowded swimming pool, beach parties, walks in the ravine, convertible rides, concerts in the amphitheater, square dances, summer institutes, graduates returning for Master's work, water sprinklers, baseball games, hikes to the pentacle, snake hunts, and car washes all characterize the fast pace of Eastern's summer session.

Women students can achieve physical fitness through Eastern's rigorous athletic program.

Water sprinklers prevented the usual gathering of students around the flower garden located in the student plaza.

Walking from one building to another provides a refreshing break between classes.

Square dancing in Martin Hall's parking lot ranked high in participation among the outdoor activities enjoyed during summer school.

The two week summer visit of eleven students from France added an international flavor to the campus.

Charlie Parris, one of Eastern's top-ranked divers, practices diving during time off from his duties as a lifeguard at Eastern's outdoor pool.

Outdoor Pool Adds to Summer Fun

With the end of the day's classes, the faculty and their families enjoy a refreshing afternoon swim.

The camera catches a sparkling water cascade as an Eastern mermaid comes up for air.

A trickling stream of water tickles as it trickles down her nose.

After an afternoon's romp in Eastern's swimming pool, this exhausted little girl watches playmates as they splash around still enjoying the fun.

When beloved Alma Mater
Memory recalls
Other days of youth and laughter
In thy gracious halls;
When thy sons and daughters scattered
Turn again to thee,
Still thy lamp is brightly lighting
Us afar, that we may see.

Campus Royalty and Beauty

Homecoming Queen

Loveliness is Carol Ann Fritz, reigning Homecoming Queen for 1965. Carol Ann, a senior from Madison county, combines beauty with talent and leadership ability. She is an active member of the Baptist Student Union and has demonstrated her singing talent as a member of the choir and in several college and community performances. Carol also served as ROTC Brigade Sponsor in conjunction with being elected Queen Athena for the school years 1965-66.

Queen Athena

Presenting Jeanne Ridnour who will reign as Queen Athena and ROTC Brigade Sponsor during the school year of 1966-67. Jeanne, a junior elementary education major from Tyner, recently received a national military honor by being chosen First Regimental Sponsor from among representatives from 17 colleges in the Tri-State area of Kentucky, West Virginia, and Ohio. The distinction included the honorary rank of colonel.

Recipient of one of the most coveted titles bestowed upon an Eastern coed, vivacious Pat Taulbee wears the crown as the 1966 Miss Eastern. Pat, a junior English major from Campton, was chosen on the basis of beauty, poise and charm in an all-campus election. Under auspices of the Milestone, six candidates were selected from the nominations made by campus organizations, and were presented to the student body for a vote. The winner represents Eastern in the Mountain Laurel Festival held at Pineville in the spring.

Pat, a ROTC sponsor representing Scabbard and Blade, is an active member of Kappa Delta Tau.

Beauty is an aggregate of qualities in a woman which gives pleasure to the senses or pleasurably exalts the mind or spirits. It can imply that which pleases by its delicacy, grace or charm. It may connote nothing more than healthiness or physical attractiveness or it may apply to that which gives delight because of its purity, flawlessness, or freshness. All women may not appear beautiful to everyone, but everyone must find some quality of loveliness in these Eastern beauties.

Academics

With the reorganization of the College into schools, has come the opportunity to present faculty members in action as a part of these schools. Eastern is proud of its expanding and highly qualified professorate and its well-equipped and diversified curriculum. Here we attempt to show the basis for this pride.

Edward Thompson Breathitt, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Governor Breathitt Supports Education

During his second year as governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Edward Thompson Breathitt has continued working for stronger educational programs for the state. Expanding many of the existing programs, his administration supported the higher education bill which was put before the legislature in January. The bill has transformed four state colleges into universities—among them Eastern Kentucky University—and provided for additional graduate programs.

A graduate of the University of Kentucky, where he received both the bachelor and law degrees, he served three terms in the House of Representatives before his election as chief executive.

During his administration, Governor Breathitt has been instrumental in procuring appropriations for construction for education. The 176 million dollar Bond Issue, destined to benefit Kentucky's growth and development, was passed by a wide majority of voters, providing funds for the benefit of education at all levels.

Governor Breathitt greets Eastern's Young Republicans at the Governor's Mansion in Frankfort.

Governor and Mrs. Breathitt are frequent guests of honor at various formal social events throughout Kentucky.

New Member Appointed To Board of Regents

Senator Durham Howard, left, is administered the oath of office as a member of the Board of Regents to succeed the late Judge Thomas B. McGregor, by Judge H. O. Porter.

Throughout its history, the Board of Regents has worked consistently with the President for the advancement of Eastern. Appointed by the Governor for four-year terms, members of this policy-making body have diligently strived for the progress and development of Eastern.

The Board consists of six prominent men, all successful in their respective fields throughout the Commonwealth. Dr. Harry M. Sparks, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, serves as ex-officio chairman of the Board and Earl B. Combs, Richmond, is Vice-Chairman. The College community was saddened by the death of Judge Thomas B. McGregor, of Frankfort, who served Eastern well during his ten years on the Board. Senator Durham Howard of Pineville was appointed to fill the vacancy.

President Robert R. Martin Directs Unparalleled Growth

During his six years as president of Eastern, Dr. Robert R. Martin has untiringly worked for the development of an institution of higher education second to none. Under his astute guidance, the college has grown in every imaginable area. Enrollment has increased 133 percent since 1959; the academic programs have been greatly broadened and the building program is unsurpassed in the history of Kentucky.

During the past year, President Martin has seen the realization of many academic objectives: the College has been reorganized into separate schools and many new departments have evolved within each of the new schools; the faculty has grown, both in quantity and quality; the graduate program has been expanded; and the many public services provided by Eastern have been extended far beyond the campus.

Part of the unparalleled construction program which has totaled 35 million dollars in just over five years has been completed this year, including dormitories, classrooms and other facilities, and plans have been made for still other additions to physical plant.

All of these additions and improvements have helped to make Eastern one of the most respected multi-purpose institutions in the South and have laid the foundation for the College to acquire University status.

President Robert R. Martin surveys the changes on campus that he has initiated in his six years as president.

President and First Lady Take Active Interest

To President Martin and Mrs. Martin being Eastern's First Family means participating in the activities of the College. Throughout the year they attend various functions such as concerts, teas, basketball and football games, and dinners as well as entertaining in their home.

Although the demands of the office are numerous, the President and First Lady always find time to attend academic and social activities. Their presence at these events is an excellent example of their interest in the Eastern community.

Often entertaining in their official capacity as President and First Lady of the College, Dr. and Mrs. Robert R. Martin are always gracious and cordial hosts.

President-emeritus Dr. W. F. O'Donnell and his wife after 57 years of marriage still make a charming couple.

Dr. O'Donnell is seen by many students and faculty getting his mail from the Administration Building.

President-Emeritus O'Donnell Remains Active

President-emeritus Dr. William F. O'Donnell, who continues to be both friend and advisor to students and faculty, actively participates, with his charming wife, in most campus activities. During his administration, from 1941-1960, longest of any Eastern president, Dr. O'Donnell watched Eastern grow from 981 students to nearly 3,000 at his retirement.

In the closing months of his administration in 1960, he initiated the early stages of the building program which developed into one of the most expansive in the nation.

During frequent visits to the campus, he is greeted warmly and is always remembered by the students. Dr. O'Donnell shall always remain a beloved part of Eastern.

Executive Assistant Has Varied Duties

Mr. John L. Vickers, Executive Assistant to the President and coordinator of Student Financial Assistance, is a man whose value is evident in many diverse ways. Working closely with the President in administrative matters, he helps to expedite many important projects in Eastern's vast expansion program. Mr. Vickers performs numerous executive duties of the College, including direction of the state-wide extension program, apportioning of financial aid to students, and assisting in the recruitment of future students, from Kentucky's high schools.

Assisting in administering the student loan and work-study programs is Miss Lois Colley, who goes over applications with Mr. Vickers.

A wealth of experience and knowledge of Kentucky public education, Mr. John L. Vickers wears a warm smile in working with students, faculty, and visitors.

Mr. Vickers lays the cornerstone for the new Vicker's Village, a housing complex for faculty, as Mrs. Vickers and son, David, look on.

Executive Dean Oversees Fiscal Affairs

Occupying the newly-created position of Executive Dean, Mr. J. C. Powell assists the Office of the President in administrative and fiscal affairs of the college. His duties include preparation of both the internal college budget and external budget requests which go to the Council on Public Higher Education. Mr. Powell also is responsible for supervision of the internal audit, and assists the President in administrative matters, including utilization of academic facilities. An alternate member of the Kentucky Commission on Higher Education, Mr. Powell is recognized as one of the outstanding financial authorities for education in the state. His superior qualifications are displayed in the efficient operation of his office.

Mr. J. C. Powell examines blueprints of the addition to the Crabbe Library.

Mr. Neal Donaldson, Dean of Business Affairs, formulates the financial policies of the College.

Mr. Lawrence O. Martin, Division of Food Services, and Col. Alden O. Hatch examine the new food preparation facilities in the Clay Hall Cafeteria.

Office of Business Affairs Manages Financial Matters

Conducting the financial and service affairs of the College is the function of the Office of Business Affairs, directed by Mr. Neal Donaldson, Dean of Business Affairs, to whom the President looks for the proper administration and cooperation of all phases of the business activity of the College.

Included among the responsibilities of this office are: accounting and budgetary control, building and grounds, purchasing auxiliary services, which consists of all campus food services, college farm, the college bookstore, and affairs of the Student Union Building, Athletic Department, and student publication.

Also in this office is the Division of Campus Security, responsible for protecting the safety and property of the campus and the Division of Housing, which has responsibility of housing for students, faculty and staff.

Mr. G. M. Brock, Comptroller; Mr. William F. Smith, Director of Accounts and Budgetary Controls; and Mr. Billy A. Grubbs, Division of Purchases and Stores review the College budget.

Campus Security, Mr. Phillip Cuzick and Division of Building and Grounds, Mr. James Murphy inspect a map of Eastern's campus.

Office of Student Affairs Advises Student Activity

Coordinating the student services program is the concern of the Office of Student Affairs, headed by the Dean of Students, Dr. Henry G. Martin. The functions of this office include admissions, registration, housing, health services, orientation, advising, social affairs, counseling, and assisting students to perform at optimal levels on campus.

Admission of students and the proper registration and recording of their academic progress while enrolled at Eastern is the responsibility of the Dean of Admissions and Registration, Dr. Charles F. Ambrose.

Miss Evelyn A. Bradley, as Dean of Women, serves as Chairman of the Social Committee. She and her staff coordinate the social activity program for all students. Mr. Paul L. Seyfrit, Dean of Men, assists in counseling, advising, and orientation.

Dr. Charles F. Ambrose, Dean of Admissions and Registrar, is responsible for the enrollment and the records of every Eastern student.

Maintaining general supervision over all student personnel matters is Dr. Henry G. Martin, Dean of Students.

Mr. Paul Seyfrit, Dean of Men; Miss Evelyn A. Bradley, Dean of Women; and Miss Pat Allison, Assistant Dean of Women, coordinate the social activity program for all students.

Directors of dormitory life, room assignment and counseling are the responsibilities of Mr. Robert Hayes, Mrs. Marian Royal, and Colonel William Stoll.

Coordinator of Public Affairs Projects Image Of Eastern

Publicity and publications, college-community relations, and alumni affairs are some of the various forms of communication employed by the Office of Public Affairs in promoting Eastern. Coordinating the programs of this office is Mr. Donald R. Feltner, Coordinator of Public Affairs, who also serves as editor of The Eastern Alumnus magazine, and advisor of The Eastern Progress and the Milestone.

Newspapers throughout the State help to present Eastern's story through services provided by the news bureau. Outstanding high school students are recruited by the Division of College-Community Relations, while the Placement Bureau acts as a center for job opportunities for graduates. The graduate's main contact with his Alma Mater is maintained through the Office of Alumni Affairs.

Mr. Henry Pryse and Mr. James Thurman discuss the enormous amount of mail which comes into the Public Affairs office each day.

Eastern is well known nation-wide due, in large part, to the efforts of Mr. Donald Feltner, Coordinator of Public Affairs.

Dr. Smith Park, who replaced Dr. W. J. Moore as Dean of Academic Affairs, holds the longest tenure of any active faculty member.

Office of Academic Affairs Directs Instructional Program

General responsibility for the coordination of all phases of the educational program is the Dean of Academic Affairs, Dr. Smith Park. As chief educational officer of the College, he supervises the instructional activities of the administrative staff and faculty. Dr. Park requisitions staff needs and assists in acquiring qualified personnel. In addition, he serves as chairman of the Council on Instruction and the Curriculum Committee. As director of these policy-making bodies, Dr. Park directs the activities of the instructional program and interprets curricular requirements.

Included in the Office of Academic Affairs is the Dean of the Central University School, Dr. Clyde J. Lewis. He is responsible for the two-year general education schedule and coordinates the freshman and sophomore advisement program. Also working with Dr. Park in the instructional program are the Director of Library, Mr. Dick Allen, and Director of Research, Dr. Dean Acker.

After being chairman of the History Department, Dr. Clyde Lewis accepted the position as Dean of Central University.

Director of Research, Dr. Dean Acker, supervises the research being conducted on Eastern's campus and assists teachers in the preparation and administration of tests.

Mr. Dick Allen, Director of Library, surveys the extension to the Crabbe Library.

Dr. Frederic Ogden, Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences directs the largest School in the College.

School of Arts and Sciences Directs Various Departments

The School of Arts and Sciences, with Dr. Frederic Ogden as the dean, groups under a new administrative banner fifteen different departments and some two hundred instructors.

Including the entire field of liberal arts, these departments provide fundamental instruction for all students in the liberal arts and natural sciences. In addition, the School provides pre-professional training in medicine, law, dentistry, engineering, the ministry, and medical technology. This year the Department of Anthropology and Sociology and the Department of Speech and Drama have been added to the School's curriculum.

Dr. Frederic Ogden, who holds an A.B. degree from Tusculum College, and a Ph.D. degree from John Hopkins University, is guiding the School toward a better fulfillment of its purpose.

Various laboratories and facilities are instrumental in carrying out the work of the School of Arts and Sciences.

Anthropology and Sociology Form New Department

Reviewing the past, studying the present, and projecting the future are the purposes of the newly-created Department of Anthropology and Sociology.

Interest in this department, headed by Dr. William H. Gulley, has grown through the endeavors of devoted teachers. To further interest in this department, a laboratory and museum is planned for the near future.

Courses offered provide a valuable background for persons wishing to pursue careers in sociology, social work, law, teaching, and government or private research. Adding further diversifications to the School of Arts and Science, the Department of Anthropology and Sociology provides a scientific approach to understanding social relatives and cultures in America and other societies.

Mr. Joseph Mouldous compares the availability of addicting and non-addicting drugs for his deviant behavior class.

Art Department Goes Modern

With Mr. Daniel N. Shindelbower as its director, the Art Department is endeavoring to go into various phases of art. The tentative plan for the department is to offer a major in art with right of teaching; but the department is working toward a program offering the Bachelor of Arts without teaching preparation.

A completely revised program in this department is presently being implemented. This semester, for the first time, a metal enameling course is being offered which will help broaden the crafts program. The Art gallery, fully remodeled last fall is now in use. The department is presently developing a program in graphics, including block printing, lithography, and cerigraphy.

The department offers one of the most comprehensive programs in the state, as well as having one of the largest staffs. It is hoped that the general increase of interest in art will continue.

Miss Agnes Bratlee, Mr. Willard McHone, and Mr. Randolph Dozier examine students' paintings in the department's art gallery.

Mr. Daniel Shindelbower shows a student one of the modern concepts in chalk drawing.

Students in Mr. Wellington Madenfort's Public School Art class feel the texture of paper before beginning their projects.

Speech and Drama Extends Curriculum

Under the competent leadership of Dr. Robert G. King, the newly organized Department of Speech and Drama instructs students in the art of persuasive public speaking and stage presentation.

Through participation in Little Theatre productions, debating tournaments and oratorical contests, students are given a chance to display their talents. This year, in addition to contests with major American colleges and universities, debates were held with two teams from England. Awards were presented to the winners of the Weaver Oratorical Contest for men and the Keen Oratorical Contest for women. The major dramatic production was "Look Homeward, Angel," an adaption of the famous Thomas Wolfe novel.

In the future the department plans to include a revised and expanded curriculum and the initiation of work in the fields of radio-television and speech improvement.

While a student presents her speech to the class, Mr. John Weldon listens attentively.

Dr. Robert King, Chairman of the Department of Speech and Drama, gives individual attention to Miss Yayol Kaki, a member of his voice and diction class.

On the stage of the Little Theatre, Mr. Joe Johnson instructs students in the skill of acting.

Skillfully directing the ever-expanding scope of the Biology Department is Dr. H. H. LaFuze.

Biology Emphasizes Research Programs

Utilizing the latest laboratory facilities and classroom materials, the Biology Department, under the guidance of Dr. H. H. LaFuze, encourages the understanding of living organisms. The Department has nineteen faculty members and approximately one hundred sixty-five majors.

New facilities have been installed including a radiology laboratory permitting the use of tracer elements in studying the functions of plants and animals. Among the research being done by various professors in the department is a biological and ecological survey of Tight Hollow in Wolfe County, an area previously undisturbed by man. The project is being conducted by Dr. Branley Branson and Dr. Donald Batch, and five biology students under a research grant.

Plans have been formulated for a graduate program in biology leading to a Master of Science Degree to begin in the near future.

Mr. A. L. Whitt uses models of the different phases of mitosis to explain the principles of cell reproduction.

Mr. John Cheek uses the skeleton to illustrate the importance of the body's bone structure.

Chemistry Brews Progress

Realizing the importance of science in the modern world, the Department of Chemistry continues to expand its programs and facilities to meet the increasing demand for proficient chemists. Under the capable guidance of Dr. Thomas C. Herndon, this field of training prepares the student for pre-professional and industrial opportunities as well as teaching positions.

Prospective plans for the department include occupation of the new science building, expansion of the faculty, addition of new equipment, and augmentation of library facilities. Plans for a graduate program in chemistry and increased research work add further incentive to this challenging area of scientific training.

Deep concentration by Dr. Thomas Herndon is required when dealing with highly reactive chemicals.

Dr. Darnell Salyer illustrates the evaporation of liquids for his laboratory students.

Dr. John Meisenheimer introduces a liquid sample into a gas chromatograph to obtain information that will be of great help in his research project on the synthesis of biologically active organic compounds.

Revamped Curriculum Available to English Students

Under the chairmanship of Dr. H. Edward Richardson, enrollment in the English Department has grown to nearly 4,700 students who were exposed to an almost entirely new or revamped curriculum. Revisions and additions in the course offerings involved all undergraduate and graduate classes from basic English composition to complex graduate studies. This revision was the result of the great demand created by the establishment of the new Master of Arts Degree in English program with both graduate and research assistantships available to those who meet all the graduate school admittance requirements.

As well as working to provide the best possible curricula for Eastern's English students in the classroom, the department also strived to develop the literary gifts and abilities of its students through sponsorship of the Canterbury Club, a student organization of English majors and minors above the sophomore level who have maintained a "B" average in their English courses. Further exposure to the "literary life" was provided by the famed Kentucky author Jesse Stuart as Eastern's author-in-residence and by the annual creative writing conference held last summer at which time a nationally noted dramatist, author, and poet lectured informally under the English Department's sponsorship.

Above: Dr. H. E. Richardson, head of the English Department, enters the Combs Classroom Building to start another busy day. Right: Jesse Stuart author-in-residence of Eastern shows a warm interest to every person he meets.

Stimulating students to do their own critical thinking is an important objective in classes taught by Mr. Phillip Brooks.

Chaucer's literary genius is expounded upon by Dr. Byno Rhodes in his exciting lectures.

Languages Promote Cultural Understanding

As transportation and cultural barriers among nations are shattered by human understanding, the study of foreign language increases in importance in the liberal education programs.

Striving to equip the student with applicable knowledge, the Foreign Language Department directed by Dr. J. Hunter Peak offers practical instruction through the use of a modern language laboratory and opportunities for study abroad. New laboratory equipment and faculty additions will further extend the language curriculum.

Dr. Hunter Peak illustrates that before we can efficiently learn the language of our neighbors, we must first understand the geography and culture of their countries.

Mr. Ladd demonstrates that learning proper phonetics of a language can be fun.

Dr. Eugenie Woronin directs classroom practice, an important aspect of language study.

Miss Dorothy Carter, French and Spanish instructor, prepares tapes which help students better comprehend and speak foreign languages.

Mathematics Parallels The Rapid Growth Of Science

In this age of advanced technology and precision, the role of the mathematician is extremely important. The Mathematics Department, under the direction of Dr. Smith Park, strives to provide vital training for the teaching profession and industry. The Smith Park Observatory, housing an eight-inch telescope, assists in the study of astronomy, a division of the Department of Mathematics. Paralleling the rapid growth of science in the modern world, the mathematics curriculum continues to expand its offerings.

Below: Mr. Robert Lathrop displays a land relief map to his advanced geography class. Right: Pointing out a geographical location to his Principles of Geography class is Mr. Wayne White.

Serving Eastern since 1928, Dr. L. G. Kennamer, a profound lecturer, has seen rapid growth in the Department of Geography and Geology.

Students in Mr. Adams' Geography and Geology of Kentucky class acquire a broader concept of their state.

Lectures are better emphasized by Miss Vera Raleigh through the use of instructional materials made available through NSF grants.

NSF Aids Geography and Geology

An enlargement of the staff and a broadening of the program through new facilities fulfills the goal of the Department of Geography and Geology to promote more interest in and a richer understanding of these fields.

Under the direction of Dr. L. G. Kennamer, one of Eastern's most honored professors, the department provides its students with a better understanding of the world about them. The department produces competent graduates much sought by schools and government agencies.

A National Science Foundation grant given to the department last spring provided funds for the purchase of new instructional equipment and additional support is anticipated.

Dr. Fred Darling stresses the importance of health, recreation, and physical education in one's community.

Miss Dorothy Kirkpatrick explains to her swimming class how to use the kick board to help build leg muscles.

Multi-Purpose Facilities Serve Health and Physical Education

Alumni Coliseum, with its multi-purpose facilities, the remodeled Weaver Health Building, the new Gertrude Hood Women's Athletic Field, and additional tennis courts provide Eastern students with a physical education plant unsurpassed in the South.

Featured in a publication of the President's Council on Physical Fitness, these facilities, together with a highly-trained faculty and well-organized curriculum, give Eastern a solid program of health and physical education.

The physical fitness test provides a basis for comparison with other college freshmen throughout the nation, enabling both the student and the staff to recognize deficiencies. Increased activity in intramurals and gymnastics has caused the department to add a full-time director of intramurals.

Past head of the P. E. Department, Miss Gertrude Hood is still actively teaching classes to Eastern students.

Students in Mr. Bentley Hilton's social science classes are often required to prepare research for class discussions.

Grading endless numbers of blue books is an exhausting but necessary task for dedicated professors like Mr. Walter Odum, who feel that a student's concept of history can best be shown through an essay examination.

Mr. George Robinson, head of the History and Social Science Department, clarifies a point concerning American social problems during the twentieth century.

History and Social Science Project Past, Present, and Future

Tracing the development of men and nations from prehistoric to modern times is the objective of the Department of History and Social Science. Headed by Dr. George W. Robinson, the department provides diversified training in the social institutions of man. Through the use of detailed charts, maps, and other teaching aids, the conflicts and struggles of mankind are brought to life in the classroom.

Future teachers learn that history and social science can be made interesting; while future statesmen discover that the past and present hold an important key to what lies ahead. A Masters of Art in history will be offered for the first time this spring.

Military Science Prepares Leaders

Under the directorship of Colonel E. N. Smith, the Department of Military Science endeavors to develop college-trained officers for both the Reserve and the regular Army. Striving to develop such qualities as leadership, citizenship, and patriotism, the department hopes to instill within these young men a better understanding of the democracy upon which our country was founded.

An excellent practical field application in summer camps, rifle matches, and drill meets have resulted in Eastern's cadets consistently ranking among the top schools in the Northeastern United States. It is these high calibre performances that have earned for Eastern one of the most respected reputations for producing outstanding junior officers for the U.S. Army.

Captain Ronald Coffman and other members of the Military Science faculty feel that frequent testing is necessary in order to evaluate the student's comprehension of military subjects.

Dr. Andrew J. Broekema coordinates the varied aspects of the Music Department's vast program.

In enabling students to cultivate an appreciation of fine music, Miss Blanche Seevers considers the phonograph an invaluable tool.

Music Advances Student Cultural Awareness

Functioning as an educational and service unit, the Department of Music intends to instill in Eastern's students a responsibility for maintaining the highest principles in their work, for continuing to build a general cultural awareness in the communities, and for encouraging the pursuit of music as a career in talented students. With an ever-expanding scope of activities on the campus, the Department of Music continues to be a vital contributor to the cultural life of students and friends of the campus. The department seeks to prepare students for several types of careers in music, including the public schools, colleges and universities, private teaching studios, and church music programs.

In keeping with the broad campus expansion, the Music Department is planning new degree programs, as well as a new foundation for graduate study.

College professors such as Dr. Dwynal Pettengill need to take a few minutes from their busy day to relax and mentally prepare themselves for their next lecture.

Mr. Se Jin Kim directs an animated discussion in his Principles of American government class.

Political Science Aims for Better Informed Citizenry

Offering course work for teaching in secondary schools and for positions in government or business, the Political Science Department under Dr. Dwynal B. Pettengill furnishes a basis for learning more about government and citizenship.

In order to offer a more varied and interesting program, the department plans to revise the introductory courses to political science, present politically-orientated programs, and utilize audio-visual facilities and tape recordings of political speeches.

The oscilloscope is essential apparatus in the Physics Department, headed by Dr. Ted George.

Mr. Earl Sexton conducts an experiment in measuring the frequency of sound waves.

Dr. J. G. Black uses a simple laboratory model to demonstrate the principle of the vacuum tube.

Physics Department Adds Electronics Laboratory

The Physics Department, under the direction of Dr. Ted George, is striving to incorporate more of the newer physics in its laboratories in order to broaden its program. The department hopes to expand the Special Problems Laboratory, where students and teachers work together on problems of mutual interest. Plans are also being made to institute new junior-senior level classes in classical mechanics, electricity, and magnetism, and more offerings in modern physics.

This year the Physics Department, which has a grant from the National Science Foundation, has instituted an electronics laboratory. In addition, the department has recently added a nuclear magnetic resonance spectrometer.

The department is expected to undergo an expansion including several new laboratories, one of which is the optics laboratory now being completed. These new facilities are steps toward raising the level of sophistication and understanding of physics as a profession to an advanced level.

School of Business Expands

Headed by Dr. Joseph H. Young, the School of Business has expanded to meet the demands of over 1,500 commerce majors. The department is housed in the modern Bert Combs Building and has twenty-eight instructors, a specialized shorthand laboratory, and a wide variety of business machines.

Four departments comprise the School of Business. They are the Departments of Accounting, Business, Business Education, and Economics. New offerings include two-year programs in data processing and executive secretarial science has been added. Future plans include a graduate program in Business and bachelor degrees in marketing, management, and finance.

Mr. Claude Smith spends many hours checking required accounting practice sets.

Explanations of income tax problems often require enlarged 1040 tax forms in Mr. R. R. Richards' Federal Income Tax class.

Accounting Stresses Accuracy

Efficient record keeping is a necessity of any business firm. The Accounting Department under the acting chairman, Mr. Claude K. Smith, endeavors to teach the basic accounting principles that can be adapted to any future accounting requirement. Basic courses give the beginning student a sufficient background for advanced training through the study of accounting statements and the analysis of different business transactions. In addition, students are required to do practice sets and work papers for practical experience in using these principles. After the student has completed these courses, he is prepared to enter specialized accounting fields such as cost accounting, income tax accounting, and auditing.

Business Education Offers Vast Occupational Opportunities

Headed by Dr. Alfred L. Patrick, the Business Education Department prepares a student for the fields of teaching or secretarial work. A certificate in Secretarial Science is given upon the completion of a two-year Executive Program or a special one-year program. Some courses are designed to train professional secretaries by providing experience in secretarial skills such as filing and letter writing; while others train the student to use various computing machines. Accounting courses enable the student to learn the various principles and procedures of record-keeping.

After receiving instruction in various business areas, the prospective teacher is equipped with different methods, techniques, and devices for teaching business courses. For those students who wish to further their training, a master's degree in Business Education is offered.

The ditto machine and the photo copier enable Mrs. Gertrude McGuire and Miss Jo Nell Jones to give students supplementary material which will aid them in better understanding business fundamentals.

Mrs. Coetta Combs supervises the making of a carbon pack for the bookkeeping machine.

After adjusting the main controls in the shorthand laboratory, Mr. Ellis Broughton listens to check the speed of dictation.

Mr. George Rothenbach offers expert advice to a student in his data processing laboratory.

Dr. Emogene Hogg outlines the major elements in the schools of management thought for her Principles of Management class.

In Business Law, Mr. Jack Yarbrough leads a discussion concerning statutes which require real estate contracts to be in writing.

Business Department Prepares Executives

Students in the Business Department learn the fundamental factors that influence the American business world. The future business executive acquires the general principles of good management, business organization, and marketing essentials for a successful business enterprise.

Plans are being made for the installation of new IBM equipment in the School of Business next fall for use in the two-year data processing program.

Problems in Introduction to Business are made easier by assistance from Miss Janet Hibbard.

Dr. Donald Shadoan supplies his Money and Banking class with a basic knowledge of the United States' monetary system.

Topics involving economic decision-making receive considerable discussion in Mr. Fred Engle's Business Cycles class.

Mr. Karl Kemp explains the economic principles of supply and demand.

Demand Curve

Increases for Economics

Economics, with Dr. Donald Shadoan as chairman, is a newly-formed department this semester. The main objectives of the department are to give the student a thorough understanding of the economy, how our economic system works in comparison with other systems, and to encourage interested students to carry their study to the graduate level.

Two majors are offered in the Economics Department. One is incorporated with the School of Business and another is under the School of Arts and Sciences which offers a minor in economics as well.

Future plans are to participate in the National Business Administration and to initiate graduate work contributing to a master's degree in Business Administration in the fall of 1967.

School of Education

Molds Teachers

Headed by Dr. Dixon A. Barr, the School of Education directs the teacher-training program of about seventy-five percent of all Eastern students. Among the improvements in the program is the establishment of the new reading clinic, to prepare better specialists and teachers of reading who will pass their skills on to their students. The college students will be offered diagnostic service as well as speed reading classes. There are now two masters programs in reading—one at the elementary level and one at the secondary level.

The courses in education introduce the student to the field of education and teaching. The aim of the professional education courses is not only to acquaint the student with the role of public education, but also to help him analyze his own personal fitness for teaching, to become acquainted with the nature of the teaching profession, and to help him choose intelligently a teaching field.

As Dean of the School of Education, Dr. Dixon Barr heads the largest area of Eastern's broad academic program.

The newest facility added to the School of Education is closed-circuit television.

Dr. Newton lectures to a class on behavior patterns studied in Psychology.

Mr. Willis Parkhurst shows the study of psychology is important from all angles.

Psychology Department To Offer Major

Providing an opportunity for students to acquire a thorough basic understanding of psychology is the major objective of the department. Dr. Darwin Newton, head of the department states that this could be an important opportunity for pre-professional students in other fields, for majors preparing for graduate study in psychology, for terminal psychology majors wishing to use their training for vocational employment, and for students who are interested but do not plan formal use of their knowledge.

Of the many professions which may be entered in the field of psychology, the basic ones are teaching, research, industry, and counseling. Countless numbers of assistantships and fellowships are open to students in various locations.

Plans are now in effect to offer a major in psychology beginning next September, and a master's degree the following year of 1967-68.

A determining factor in strengthening the ability to read is vision, which is tested by Dr. Robert Byrne in the reading clinic.

Inability to hear well, which is often a problem in learning to read, can be detected by the audiometer as demonstrated by Miss Imogene Ramsey.

Education Department Adds Reading Clinic

Professional education courses are offered to prepare students for the teaching field. The beginning course is especially designed to introduce the students to the basic concepts of education and teaching. The upper division courses are more specialized and emphasize the necessity of understanding human growth and development in order to become a successful teacher. For the student preparing to work at the elementary level, there are courses prerequisite to student teaching which provide the fundamentals for teaching grade-school math and science. Through the introductory and advanced courses, the student is able to become acquainted with nature of the teaching profession.

Many advancements have been made in the Education Department including the reading clinic, directed by Mr. Robert L. Byrne. This clinic is organized to provide teachers with a background from which they will be able to draw in order to help their students with all reading problems.

Eminent education professors such as Dr. Florence Stratemeyer, Eastern's first Distinguished Professor of Education, feel that individual consultation and guidance are of great importance in choosing a teaching career.

Library Science Plans NDEA Institute

To all upper-division students who have shown an excellent scholastic standing and an interest in library work, the library science program is available. An area formed for the purpose of helping library science students is the Youth Collection located in the Crabbe Library.

Those students who are receiving a bachelor's degree in education are completing required library science courses, may be approved for validation as librarians and are certified by the State of Kentucky. Graduate courses are offered leading to an M.A. in education with emphasis in library science.

A National Defense Education Act Institute is planned for thirty selected elementary librarians from Kentucky and the Appalachia area this summer. This institute will benefit libraries throughout the state.

New horizons in the world of books are opened to students in Miss Betty Hatfield's library science class.

Mr. James Harris explains the procedures in using an overhead projector to his audio-visual class.

School library problems are solved by active group participation in Miss Margaret Roser's School Library Management class.

Area Schools Provide Teacher Training

Practical training for students planning to enter the teaching profession is provided by the campus laboratory school and affiliated public schools. The laboratory school enrolls approximately 530 students and has thirty-one full-time faculty members. Through the use of closed-circuit television, education students have the opportunity to observe real classroom situations. A 43,430-square foot addition is currently being added to the Donovan Building, which houses the laboratory school. Students also participate in practice teaching in other area schools.

Students looking for teaching positions in Kentucky are assisted by Dr. Robert Grise.

Dr. J. Dorland Coates, Associate Dean for Teacher Education, looks over a student's application for admission into the teacher education program.

Dr. Charles Ross offers encouragement to students as they develop teaching skills.

Mrs. Mabel Jennings finds that practice in preparing bulletin boards is of great benefit to practice teachers.

Students clamor to participate during Mrs. Peggy Garrett's third grade music hour.

Explaining the next step in the class project of papier-mache is Mr. Daniel Dean, instructor of art.

During Mrs. Anna Starks' busy day, she always finds time to help individual students in her fifth grade class.

Million-dollar Expansion Program Underway at Model Laboratory School

Model Laboratory School located in the Donovan building, is directed by Mr. Walter Marcum. It employs thirty-one full-time teachers and has an enrollment of approximately 530 students. Pupils attending this school come from the city, county, and surrounding communities.

Students observing at the Laboratory School through the College's professional education program will soon be able to do so through closed-circuit television. Through this program a more accurate study of the child's behavior can be recorded.

A million-dollar expansion program is presently under way at the Model Laboratory School. The plans include a nursery, kindergarten facilities, radio-television studio and six new classrooms. This increase in facilities will expand enrollment, promote modern teaching methods, and create a better atmosphere for learning.

Visitors to Model Laboratory School see this familiar classroom scene every day.

Mr. Walter Marcum in his role as principal of Model Laboratory School encourages students to come to him for assistance.

Mr. John Chisholm instructs students in making stick puppets for the upcoming puppet show.

Dr. John Rowlett reviews blueprints for the proposed home economics nursing building that will be located across from the Fitzpatrick Arts Building near the Foster building.

School of Technology Fosters Technical Education

Designed to provide training in practical industrial subjects, the School of Technology is equipped with modern laboratories and equipment. Encompassing the fields of agriculture, home economics, industrial arts, industrial technology, nursing, and law enforcement, this School offers a complete program in technical education.

Two year programs, leading to associate degrees in industrial technology and nursing are now being offered. These courses emphasize specialized technical preparations to prepare the students for gainful employment.

Guiding this important School is Dr. John D. Rowlett, who holds a B.S. and M.S. from North Texas State College and the Ed.D. from the University of Illinois. In addition, he has done graduate work at North Texas State College and Southern Methodist University.

Practical experience in hospitals is an important phase in Eastern's nursing program.

This year "Eastern Baroness Anne," a Holstein on the Agriculture Department's farm, has been placed on Kentucky's all-time leaders list of high-producing cows.

Eastern's agricultural farm reaches new heights under the directorship of Mr. J. Lester Miller.

Mr. William Householder performs the final stages of an important soil test.

Eastern's Farm Offers Practical Experience

In cooperation with the University of Kentucky, the Department of Agriculture headed by Mr. William A. Householder offers preparation for vocational teachers and students planning careers in agriculture. This two-year curriculum is planned to be transferred for a major at the University. In addition, upper division courses are offered for the convenience of the students who plan to graduate from Eastern. A minor is available for students in other fields of study.

Actual experience is provided through participation in the College farm. For those who desire specific training in certain skills, two-year programs are available in animal husbandry and agriculture-business.

Future occupational opportunities include farm managers, sales and service men for feed, and inseminators for artificial breeding associations.

Agriculture students listen attentively as Mr. James Stocker lectures about the importance of agriculture in our community.

Making the classroom situation an enjoyable experience, Miss Willie Moss conducts a lecture on the study of infant development.

Future teachers and homemakers learn the correct method of cutting meat in Mrs. Mary Carroll's Introduction to Foods and Nutrition class.

Home Economics Facilitates Better Living

Under the direction of Dr. Marguerita Barra, the Home Economics Department initiates a full program for those interested in pursuing a degree in this field. Those who enroll find themselves involved with the study of foods, clothing, housing, and child development.

Eastern participates in a cooperative program with Merrill-Palmer Institute of Human Development and Family Life, Detroit, Michigan, for selected second-semester junior students in Home Economics. This program focuses on the multidisciplinary approach to the study of human development and behavior.

Present classes are housed in the Fitzpatrick Art Building, but construction of a new home economics building will begin in the near future.

Dr. Marguerita Barra, before grading a garment made by one of her students, examines each seam, dart, and buttonhole carefully.

Miss Evelyn Slater, through close supervision, assists students in learning fundamental sewing skills.

Technical Problems Solved Through Industrial Technology

Prepared to meet the needs for technicians in an age of expanding industrialization, the Department of Industrial Technology offers training in the areas of drafting and design, electricity and electronics, and woodworking and metalworking. This program is designed to provide the individual with a versatile knowledge of technical problems. Practical laboratory experiences and theory courses are provided. For those students who wish to prepare themselves for gainful employment in two years, an associate degree program is offered.

Beginning a class project for Industrial Technology requires much explanation and preliminary drawing by Dr. William Sexton.

Close supervision by Dr. Daniel Torbett is essential in instructing students in the basic principles of drafting.

Mr. Ralph Whalin examines different types of fixtures used in projects by Industrial Arts students.

Mr. Thomas Myers demonstrates the method of etching on copper plates to a student in his crafts class.

Assisting students in the process of assembling woodworking projects is Mr. Jack Luy.

Mr. J. Homer Davis gives a detailed explanation of the parts on a welding torch before his Arc and Oxyacetylene Welding class can begin a project.

Students in Mr. Dale Patrick's Fundamentals of Applied Electricity class receive assistance in setting up and testing an experimental circuit on the oscilloscope.

Industrial Arts Trains Teachers and Craftsmen

Designed to prepare teachers of industrial subjects and craftsmen for industry, the Department of Industrial Arts, under the direction of Mr. Ralph W. Whalin, is equipped with laboratories and modern machinery. Upon completion of the home economics-nursing building the department will further expand and broaden its programs.

A comprehensive area or specialized curriculum may be chosen. The comprehensive courses cover various phases of graphic arts and metalworking, while the specialized curriculum allows specialization in a particular area of industrial arts upon the completion of the basic courses. Students desiring to advance in Industrial Arts may enroll in the graduate program.

Nursing Completes Initial Year

Headed by Major Bertha J. Fanjoy, a two-year Associate-Degree Program in Nursing was begun this year as part of the expanding curricula of the School of Technology. Twenty-two students were selected from twice as many applicants for the new program. After completing the two-year Associate-Degree Program, students have the opportunity to take the State Board Examination to obtain a registered nurse certificate.

The program is designed to help the student develop her potential as an individual contributing member of the nursing profession and to train her to care for patients in hospitals, clinics, doctor's offices, or homes.

As a practitioner of nursing, a graduate of this program is prepared to draw upon a background of scientific and humanistic understanding in administering nursing care. Rather than focusing upon the hospital service, the Associate-Degree Program is based on academic and clinical education of the nursing student.

Learning proper care of newborn infants is one of the most exciting experiences shared by nursing students.

The Nursing Department makes use of two new station wagons which take the students to area hospitals for the practical training part of the program.

Major Bertha Fanjoy heads Eastern's new nursing program.

Law Enforcement Training Established

Established for the development of effective police service, the newly-created Department of Law Enforcement offers a two-year associate degree. Beginning with an introductory course in the philosophical and historical aspects and continuing through more specific courses covering traffic, criminal investigation, and juvenile procedure, the curriculum offers versatile training for police personnel and students planning a career in law enforcement. A four-year program, leading to a B.S. degree is now being planned. This is presently the only program of its kind offered in the state.

Officers study to improve the quality of law enforcement in Kentucky.

Lt. Robert Posey initiates the study of law enforcement at Eastern.

Law enforcement officials as well as students benefit from classroom exposure to criminal problems.

Graduate School Readies For New Programs

With the recent granting of university status, the graduate school is preparing to further expand its programs in academic fields. Beginning next fall programs at the masters levels will be offered in English and history. Several additional graduate areas are being developed to begin the following year contributing to Eastern's further diversification on the graduate level.

The graduate program, which has been in existence since 1935, is designed to provide advanced training for elementary and secondary teachers, administrative personnel. In addition, Rank I qualification and leadership certification programs at both the fifth and sixth year level are continually being expanded.

This school is directed by Dr. Clyde L. Orr, who received a B.S. degree from Lincoln Memorial University, an M.S. from the University of Tennessee, and an Ed.D. from the University of Kentucky.

Above: Friendly, expert advice is given by Dr. Orr to Carl Sword, one of Eastern's graduate students. Right: Working under a graduate assistantship in the Public Affairs Office, Doug Whitlock is earning his Master's Degree in Education.

Dr. Clyde Orr encourages continuing education through graduate studies.

Honors

Eastern's honor program is designed to give credit where credit is due—whether academic or extracurricular. A system of honoraries extending from the sophomore to the senior year and special programs, such as Who's Who and Milestone Senior Citations, recognize those students who have maintained high scholastic standards and have contributed their leadership ability to campus organizations.

Joyce Ann McQueen, 1966 Hall of Fame selection.

Hall of Fame

Membership in the Hall of Fame is the highest honor awarded a graduating senior. The 1966 Milestone presents this year's award to Miss Joyce Ann McQueen, a business major from Eubank.

Graduating honors are not new to Joyce. She was valedictorian of her high school class and a member of the national honor society. Demonstrating her outstanding leadership abilities on campus, Joyce is a top academic student and an active member of Collegiate Pentacle, Pi Omega Pi, Kappa Delta Pi, and Wesley Foundation. She has also served as Freshman counselor in Sullivan Hall.

Nominations for this award are submitted by the senior honoraries, Omicron Alpha Kappa and Collegiate Pentacle, and the Student Council. A secret committee of faculty members appointed by the President makes the final selection.

Serving as president of Pi Omega Pi, Joyce plans a series of organizational tours to business firms.

Joyce works with other members of Wesley Foundation in preparing a schedule of the year's activities.

1966 Milestone Honor Roll

Albert Glenn Spencer, Technology

Patricia Parr, Business

Barbara Ross Owens, Education

Sharon Teague, Arts and Sciences

Four students displaying outstanding scholarship were chosen to represent the four academic schools of Eastern Kentucky State College. Each of these students had the highest grade standing within their division which qualified them for this recognition. Because of their hard-earned achievements, we proudly dedicate this page to the members of the 1966 Honor Roll of Seniors.

Who's Who

Representing Eastern in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges are thirty-seven seniors who were nominated from the four academic schools. Outstanding scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship, and a promise of future usefulness serve as the prime requisites for eligibility. Each nominee will receive a certificate of membership and will have his name and activities listed in the annual Who's Who publication.

Athletics—Eddie Bodkin and Bill Walton (not pictured) are recognized for their outstanding and diversified skill on the basketball floor. Larry Marmie and Fred Malins have served Eastern ably as members of the Varsity football squad.

Larry Whalen has received wide-spread recognition for his many achievements on the track field, while Johnny Warren is honored for his accomplishments in diving and swimming on Eastern's championship teams.

1966 Milestone Senior Citations

Although the Milestone Senior Citations Awards were initiated only last year, the need for an award honoring outstanding student participation was made clear by its complete success.

Nominations for the award are taken from all student participation activities including athletics, speech and debate, music, religion, publications, drama, student government, and military. Final selections are made by a secret committee of administrative and student personnel.

Selection is based on three qualifications. The student must be a graduating senior or a terminating junior whose curriculum is completed in three years. He must have demonstrated outstanding leadership and ability in his chosen activity and have an above average standing.

Military — William Thorpe, Michael Pitman and Sidney Johnson are cited for outstanding achievement in the Military Science Department and leadership in the organizations connected with the department. Cadet Col. Thorpe and Cadet Lt. Col. Johnson are both associated with Pershing Rifles, while Cadet Lt. Col. Pitman is associated with the Counter-Guerrilla Raiders. All three are members of the military honorary, Scabbard and Blade.

Speech and Debate — Linda Ward and Kathy De Jarnette participated in forensic debate for two years. Both are members of DSR-TKA and Miss De Jarnette has served as secretary and treasurer of both Alpha Zeta Kappa and DSR-TKA. Brent D. Cornelius has also served the debate team for two years, winning numerous awards including best debater for 1964 and 1965 and a first place speaker award at the 1965 Emory Invitational Tournament in Atlanta, Georgia.

Religion — Betty Alexander Wilson, Barbara Owens, Joyce Ann McQueen and Jeanie Gail Ashe are recognized as religious leaders by their fellow students and by their membership in the campus religious organizations. All four of these girls, as members of CWENS and Collegiate Pentacle, have displayed outstanding scholastic achievements.

Music — June Carol Bonny is recognized by the student body and the music faculty for her many appearances in student assemblies and recitals displaying her varied musical accomplishments. Miss Bonny is also a member of Sigma Chi Mu, a national music honorary which promotes musical and other cultural activities for the students.

Student Government — Peggy Carter is cited for her contribution as vice-president of Women's Interdorm and as a representative of the Student Council. Sylvia Ramsey and Hugh Burkett are honored for their outstanding leadership and active participation in Student Council, while Mike Campbell is recognized for his service as Chief Justice of the Student Court.

Drama — Albert Allison, known for his portrayal of Eugene Gant in "Look Homeward Angel", has appeared in every major Little Theater presentation for the last three years. David Bond, as producer, manager, and actor in many productions, has helped make campus plays a highlight of student life. Both are members of Alpha Psi Omega, the national honorary dramatics fraternity.

1966 Milestone Senior Citations

Student Publications — Cited this year for their dedication to the award-winning student publications of Eastern are four editors who have a combined service record of thirteen years. Four years of endeavor for the Progress are culminated this year for Gerald Maerz as he fills the position of editor-in-chief. Norris Miles is honored for three years of service to the Progress during which he was a reporter, assistant news editor, and managing editor. Linda Ward and Kem Manion, co-editors of the 1966 Milestone, are recognized for their distinguished work on the yearbook. Kem served in the capacity of associate editor for last year's Milestone, and Linda was senior editor.

Members of OAK discuss future programs to be presented at upcoming club meetings. An informal atmosphere characterizes the OAK honorary.

Omicron Alpha Kappa fraternity is an honorary organization for Junior and Senior men who have a 3.0 standing and who have attained distinction in the classroom and in campus activities.

OAK has gained recognition for sponsoring prominent men speaking on topics pertinent to Eastern and Kentucky. They look to the future of Eastern by making suggestions for the academic curriculum and to the future of their own members by becoming acquainted with available assistanceships and scholarships and with the procedures for gaining admittance to graduate school.

Collegiate Pentacle

New members of Collegiate Pentacle are officially initiated in the traditional capping ceremony.

Collegiate Pentacle seeks senior women for membership who demonstrate scholarship, leadership, and citizenship through academic and extra-curricular activities. After considering faculty and administration recommendations, personal interviews, and the social record of each girl, the active Collegiate Pentacle members select the new members on the basis of service, a 3.0 standing, and character.

This year's organization has contributed such services as guiding during Freshman week, welcoming transfer students with a tea, and giving food baskets at Thanksgiving and Christmas. For the third consecutive year, the Emma Case Scholarship, was awarded to the outstanding sophomore girl.

Kappa Iota Epsilon is the sophomore men's honorary fraternity. Membership is offered to second-semester freshmen who have attained a 3.0 standing who have received a certain number of faculty votes, and who are approved by a majority of the KIE members.

KIE is active as a service organization. Its members serve as guides at many college functions and in any other opportunity that they are given. The fraternity is dedicated to encouraging high standards of academic achievement, to improving living conditions for all male students and, to counseling any student in need of aid.

Dennis Burrows serves as sounding-board and counselor for students needing help with personal or academic problems.

Since 1935, when the Delta Alpha Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi was instituted on Eastern's campus, this highly selective education honor society has sought to encourage high professional, intellectual and personal standards. Each prospective member must be in the upper fifth of his respective class, have more than sixty credit hours completed, be known to members of the society as a campus worker, and also be pursuing a professional education curriculum.

Among the activities in which Kappa Delta Pi participates are conducting educational panel discussions and sponsoring an underprivileged two-room school in Manchester. Scholarships are given annually to the two highest ranking sophomores planning to enter the education field.

Kappa Pi

Alpha Alpha Psi Chapter of the national art fraternity, Kappa Pi, recognizes outstanding students in the field of visual arts and promotes potential and professional ability. This honorary conducts art exhibits of works of the professors and of the students of the Art Department, and helps to bring art exhibit tours to the campus. Tours are made throughout the year to art centers and museums within the state to study the works of well-known and contemporary artists.

Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha, a national forensic honorary, promotes intelligent and responsible speech among its members and the college community as a whole. In order to qualify for membership a student must be in his second year of forensic activity and above average scholastically.

DSR-TKA, a newly-installed honorary, sponsored in its first year at Eastern intramural discussion and debate. Members of DSR-TKA helped organize and participated in the state-wide debate tournament held on Eastern's campus this year.

Polity Society

Polity Society represents a select group of students who have achieved excellence in the field of political science. Codifying membership requirements for Pi Sigma Alpha, the national political science fraternity, has been the primary activity of the year. The Society frequently entertains political science majors and faculty members at departmental teas in order to acquaint these individuals with the functions of the Society. Open discussion sessions on timely world topics and campus events are held throughout the school year.

Students in the upper one-third of their class, having completed twelve hours of political science, three hours of which are upper division, and possessing a 3.0 standing in all political science classes, are eligible for membership consideration.

Pi Tau Chi

Nominations for membership in Pi Tau Chi, a national religious honorary, are made by all religious denominations on campus with invitations extended to those selected. Zeta Chapter of Pi Tau Chi recognizes outstanding Christian leadership among college students, supports student programs of religious organizations, and prepares prospective students for Christian service. Pi Tau Chi members are taught that their recognition in the realm of Christian achievement is no more for what they have done than it is for what they have yet to do.

Pi Omega Pi

Pi Omega Pi is a national honorary fraternity for outstanding students who are interested in teaching business. The aims of Pi Omega Pi are threefold: to create, encourage, and promote scholarship in business; to aid in civic betterment in colleges and universities; and to encourage and foster high ethical standards in business and professional life.

To be eligible for membership, business education students must have completed 15 hours in business and education and rank in the upper 35 percent of their class.

Members of Pi Omega Pi put finishing touches on a bulletin board lining up courses offered in business.

Bottom Row: Patricia A. Parr, Judy A. Jones, Carol A. Sandy, Jeanie McGinnis, H. Marlene Wesley. Second Row: Joyce A. McQueen, Jane T. Penland, Vera L. Morgan, Arlene Warner. Third

Row: Jeanie G. Ashe, Margaret H. Moberly, William M. Botner, Earl Clemons, Brenda Samples.

Scabbard and Blade members constructed a saber arch through which queen candidates walked when presented at pre-game ceremonies during the 1965 Homecoming.

Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard and Blade, a national honorary society for outstanding men in the military departments of American universities and colleges, strives to preserve and develop the essential qualities of efficient officers; and to prepare its members for active participation in the military affairs of the communities they serve.

Nominees for membership are based upon the overall scholastic average, exceptional leadership, and military bearing. In addition to entertaining many distinguished military leaders, Scabbard and Blade forms the saber arch for the crowning of Queen Athena at the Military Ball.

Daniel Webster, Phillip Hathaway, William Thorpe, Michael Pitman, Richard Franklin, Gary Coleman.

Bottom Row: Suzanne C. Ankrum, Leah S. Scott, Mary V. Slattery, Betty S. Pennycuff, Gail C. Marsee. Second Row: Jerry M. Smith, Al B. Allison, Dave Bond, Bill Peyton, Gordon W. Jennings. Third

Row: Joe M. Johnson, George E. Proctor, Larry R. Measle, Winston D. Roberts, W. Jon Currans.

Alpha Psi Omega

Alpha Psi Omega, a chapter of a national dramatics honorary fraternity, was established to recognize students who have made outstanding contributions to the theatre, either through performance, costuming, or technical activity.

Students who participate in dramatics are awarded points on the basis of the types of role, the length of the play, or the hours of technical work. Membership in Alpha Psi Omega is conferred for life.

Backstage before a presentation of LOOK HOMEWARD ANGEL, four Alpha Psi Omega members are involved in an important preparation for a play, the application of makeup.

Seniors

Never again in one's lifetime will the chances of losing be so fearful nor the chances of winning so great as when, with diploma in hand, one begins.

The script calls for Seniors to the front and center of this great stage—the world—and, if the performance is a good one, the player will find happiness and success his rewards. Society has cast him in the part of a leader and is giving him the chance to prove his worthiness for the part. Using the words of Rogers and Hammerstein, a Senior must “Climb every mountain. Search high and low; follow every rainbow, every path you know . . . till you find your dream.” Never again in one’s lifetime will the chances for winning be so great, nor the chance of losing so fearful as when, with diploma in hand, one begins.

Organizations

Whether one is seeking fellowship for social, recreational, cultural, professional, or intellectual reasons, he will find on Eastern's campus an organization to fit his particular needs. The sixty-four organizations do much to create a lively atmosphere and an active student body.

Student Council

Hugh Burkett, president of the Student Council, conducts business at the group's weekly meeting.

Designed to aid in developing policies affecting student life, the Student Council functions with the needs and desires of the student in mind. Guiding their goals toward worthy traditions, a richer cultural experience, and providing a larger opportunity for the practice of democratic principles, the Council fulfills its executive intentions.

Composed of members elected from each of the four classes and one representative elected from each campus organization, the Student Council is the medium through which students are able to present their problems and needs. The voice of a better Eastern is expressed through this student representative government.

Life dictates that we must give a lot while praying that others won't take so much.

Student Court

Consisting of twelve justices appointed by the Student Council, the Student Court acts as the judiciary body of Eastern's student government. Led by Chief Justice Mike Campbell, the court serves as a liaison between the students and administration. As a comparatively new organization, the court is looking forward to a more effective charter. A part of the pending student code proposal calls for expanded court jurisdiction.

Presently the court deals largely with student traffic violations and regulations concerning construction of Homecoming floats.

The majority of cases handled by the Student Court concern student traffic violations such as this one being given by Security Police officer Bill James.

Providing a medium of understanding between the administration and students, the Inter-Dorm Councils study existing conditions affecting campus residents and suggest possible solutions whenever needed. To aid in the development of other aspects of student life, the Councils sponsor social events throughout the year.

In addition to helping in Orientation Week and aiding the Student Council in its blood drive and class elections, Women's Inter-Dorm was in charge of an all-campus Fall Style Show and the White Rose Formal for freshman women.

Men's Inter-Dorm acquainted new men students with the college and dormitories, co-sponsored the Fall Style Show with its sister council, and correlated various Homecoming and Christmas activities among the dormitories.

Kappa Delta Tau, Eastern's service sorority, enables women students to contribute to the growth and improvement of the campus community. Presently consisting of 56 members, the organization participates in numerous projects which include serving at school banquets, being guides and hostesses to guests on campus, working on fund-raising drives, and acting as a welcoming committee for freshmen during Orientation Week.

In order to qualify for membership, a pledge must have a 2.3 over-all academic standing, be at least a first-semester sophomore, not be on social or academic probation, and possess good character and leadership ability. Highlighting this year's pledge period was an over-night camping trip at Levi Jackson State Park. The KD's also sponsored a dance to provide weekend entertainment on the campus.

Sigma Chi Delta

Although Sigma Chi Delta has been a campus organization for only three years, it is an integral part of Eastern life. A service fraternity for campus leaders, it seeks to broaden social and cultural opportunities for Eastern students.

During Orientation Week, Sigma Chi Delta took part in the annual Powder Puff football game and later in the fall visited the Governor's mansion to support the bond issue voted on in the last election. By sponsoring a number of weekend dances, the Sigma Chi's successfully provided opportunities for fun and entertainment so vital in completing the well-rounded college life.

Pershing Rifles

National Honorary Society of Pershing Rifles was founded at the University of Nebraska in 1894 by General of the Armies, John J. Pershing, to help develop the highest ideals of a ROTC cadet with emphasis on superior military scholarship and superb drillmanship.

Company R-1 established itself well not only at Eastern but in the First Regiment and the nation. Under the command of H. Ricky Tatum, R-1 attended the Regimental Drill Meet, Battalion Drill, Queen City Drill Meet, as well as a major trip to Detroit, Michigan, to participate in the Title Invitational Meet. While in Columbus, Ohio, Miss Jeanne Ridnour, Company R-1's sponsor at the 1st Regimental Convention, was elected as 2nd Battalion sponsor there, enabling her to become a semi-finalist for the First Regiment. Competing with seventeen colleges over the tri-state area of Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia, lovely Jeanne was elected sponsor and presented with the rank of honorary Colonel.

KYMA

KYMA Club promotes school spirit by demonstrating enthusiastic support at all campus athletic events. As the largest and most representative campus organization, they are called on to give an Eastern welcome to freshmen and to Band Day visitors every year. KYMA Clubbers man the freshman information booth and help class spirit through the selling of "E" beanies and providing orientation week entertainment.

The club planned and co-ordinated the 1965 Homecoming activities which included a kick-off bonfire, a beautiful parade, an exciting dance, and the selection of a Homecoming queen—all with a bubbling Homecoming spirit as the result.

Circle K

Established in 1963, Circle K International has become one of the leading men's clubs on campus. A branch of Kiwanas, the organization gives its members an opportunity to serve the college as well as to learn.

Augmenting the education of its members, Circle K provided a number of service activities this year. Among these were printing call cards of campus telephone numbers, a donation to the United Fund, and painting campus cross walks.

YMCA

Serving the college in various capacities, the Young Men's Christian Association purposes to harmonize religious and social aspects of the lives of Eastern students. Among the beneficial activities of the organization are being ushers at various college functions and acting as guides during Orientation Week. The main projects of the club, done in conjunction with the YWCA, are the "Hanging of the Greens" during the Christmas season and the Easter Sunrise Service.

World Affairs Club

Composed of geography and geology majors and minors, the World Affairs Club endeavors to further its members' understanding of international relations, in order that they may grasp the foreign policies of the United States and other nations. Guest speakers who have traveled widely are sources of enlightenment to the organization.

Social undertakings of the group include participation in Homecoming activities and the annual spring banquet.

Young Democrats Club

Throughout the year the Young Democrats Club tries to encourage student participation in elections and to arouse more student interest in politics. This year's campaigning was limited mainly to the bond issue, which the club supported by inviting an assembly speaker to discuss the bond issue and by publishing informative articles in the Progress. Through attending a breakfast and work session at the Governor's Mansion, a club delegation obtained much helpful information which they made available to fellow students. The club closed the year's activities with a spring dance and picnic.

Young Republicans Club

Following the lead of the national party, Eastern's Young Republican Club experienced a year of rebuilding. The first step in renovation was a membership drive during first semester registration netting eighty-four members.

In support of the bond issue, representatives of the club attended a breakfast at the Governor's Mansion last fall. Also on the lengthened list of activities were a Young Republican Day on campus and the election of Mr. and Miss Republican, chosen from members who have rendered the most service to the club. The annual Young Republican banquet climaxed an active year.

Behavioral Science Symposium

The Behavioral Science Symposium is a small organization for students interested in bringing an intellectual atmosphere to the campus.

Many round table discussions and guest lectures were planned for the year ranging from current topics of every day interest to discussions centered on some phase of the social sciences. Among the topics discussed were: "Is There a Teenage Culture?" and "The Survival of the Two-Party System in America." The final outing was the club picnic in the spring.

Collegiate Council for the United Nations exists for the purpose of promoting a better understanding of the role of the United Nations and its allied agencies on Eastern's campus. It also assists the Peace Corps team and promotes a better knowledge of the people of the world by examining their foreign and domestic policies, as well as cultural and social institutions.

CCUN hopes to accomplish this by a variety of means: through literature provided by the CCUN national office; through the use of films and other program aids furnished by the information agencies of the various countries; and by the intelligent discussion of the world situation.

As well as providing educational experiences for its members, Accounting Club dinner meetings promote an exchange of ideas among students.

Accounting Club

Insight into the various fields of accounting and other business endeavors which cannot be learned in the classroom are provided by the activities of the Accounting Club. The members tour interesting business firms in the metropolitan areas near Eastern, applying classroom principles to actual situations.

The club provided further learning experiences with after-dinner speakers and discussions by outstanding persons in the fields of accounting, law, politics, and banking at regular dinner meetings.

ACE

ACE members participate in a physical education demonstration of games used in elementary schools.

Organized at Eastern in 1964, the Association for Childhood Education aspires to help its members increase their knowledge and understanding of children and gain practical experience in working with children. The projects of the club include weekly visits to Telford Community Center and a children's reading hour on the local radio station. Social activities of the club are a punch party in the fall for prospective members and a Christmas dinner for the actives.

Agriculture Club

Successful farmers, men in farm-related professions, and teachers from other educational institutions are brought to the campus each year by the Agriculture Club as a means of stimulating interest in agriculture as a profession. As a departmental organization, the members of the Agriculture Club try to make their meetings and activities a learning as well as a fun experience. Each year the club makes at least one visit to a prosperous dairy or beef farm in the neighboring community. They also hold a fish fry in October and contribute an interesting float to the Homecoming Parade.

Both sides of the Agriculture Club float depict natural beauty.

Alpha Zeta Kappa

Concerned with the development of a high level of skill in all phases of forensics, Alpha Zeta Kappa has become one of the leading organizations on campus for the furtherance of a particular interest. More often called simply the Debate Club, it cultivates respect for and appreciation of free speech.

Composed of approximately thirty-five members the organization constantly strives to reach a high level in speaking ability, not only in pursuit of individual progress but for over-all campus recognition.

Throughout the year, the debate teams travel out of state to meet competition from all over the country, as well as sponsoring their annual "Pioneer Invitational Debate Tournament." It is also helpful in co-ordinating the annual high school debate festival. This year Alpha Zeta Kappa along with Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha sponsored the Kentucky Inter-Collegiate Debate Tournament. In December the Cambridge University was the guest of the Speech Department and Alpha Zeta Kappa for an elite appearance on our campus.

Debate experience can teach one that listening well is just as important as speaking well.

AUSA

Association of the United States Army, a national organization, works toward improving ROTC students' knowledge of military discipline and helping them to decide what branch of the Army they would like to enter. Programs usually consist of movies or guest speakers providing information about the Army.

Two social events which have become a tradition with the organization are a Christmas banquet and a hay ride. In the Spring, the AUSA sponsors one of the biggest formal occasions of the year, the Military Ball. After being chosen by AUSA, Queen Athena, one of the highest honors for which a girl can be chosen, is presented at the Ball.

General Benjamin J. Butler speaks to AUSA members during his visit to Eastern.

Biology Club

Regardless of his major, anyone interested is welcome to join the Biology Club. Their purpose is to stimulate a greater awareness of the biological sciences. The club meets twice a month and for each meeting a program is planned.

Annual activities of the Biology Club are a fall outing which is for the purpose of introducing freshmen and prospective members to the club, guided field trips, and guest speakers who lecture on the various facets of biology.

Organized to help chemistry majors and minors learn more about the scope of the field of chemistry, the Chemistry Club this year engaged in several activities to fulfill its purpose. Films from such sources as National Aeronautics and Space Administration and Bell Telephone, informed speakers from on and off campus, and trips to chemical plants in the area provided first-hand insights into the major interest of club members. Through its affiliation with the American Chemical Society, the club reaps the benefits of guidance from a professional organization.

Caduceus Club

Caduceus Club is composed of students who are pursuing a pre-medicine, pre-dentistry, pre-pharmacy, nursing, medical technology, or pre-veterinary medicine curriculum. Under the leadership of the executive committee, the club attempts to stimulate and promote interest in medicine and its allied fields.

Special club endeavors include learning activities such as tours of medical institutions, service projects such as campus blood donations, and social ventures such as a banquet and dance. Throughout the school year, speakers are scheduled to provide interesting and stimulating talks about their medical lives and experiences.

Canterbury Club

Composed of sophomore, junior, and senior English majors and minors who have achieved a "B" standing in their English curriculum, Canterbury Club fosters fellowship among its members and promotes the enjoyment of English on the campus.

"Belles Lettres," the campus literary magazine, containing exceptional student writing, is published under the auspices of the club each spring. The annual Chocolate Hour, held in the fall to welcome new members, and an Awards Banquet honoring the senior man and woman with the highest academic averages are other functions of the organization.

New and old members of the Canterbury Club become better acquainted with each other and with the English faculty at the Chocolate Hour.

Belles Lettres

Each year Canterbury Club elects a publication staff which is responsible for editing and publishing Belles Lettres. Shortly after the beginning of second semester, the editor and assistant editor start reviewing material submitted by advanced composition students and others who write for pleasure.

After consultation with authors, typing, editing, and retyping, the final consolidation of short stories, plays, and poems is ready for publication and eventual circulation among the student body. Having provided a means of expression for its contributors and literary enrichment for Eastern students, the Belles Lettres staff presents four awards at the Canterbury Club Awards Banquet. A winning composition is selected from each of the following categories: overall composition, best article, best poem, and best short story.

Drum and Sandal

Fostering standards of performance, appreciation, and understanding of dance as an art form, Drum and Sandal offers its members an opportunity to study creative dance and its composition. Throughout the year, the club members displayed the product of intensive work engaged in at weekly meetings. The freshmen were entertained with a modern dance exhibition during Orientation Week, and the entire campus was charmed by the club's "Christmas Kaleidoscope."

One of the highlights of the yuletide season this year was Drum and Sandal's "Christmas Kaleidoscope."

E Club

Working toward the betterment of conditions for athletes, E Club has become an integral part of Eastern's campus organizations. The traditional letterman's club sponsored Dad's Day at a football and basketball game, ushered and sold programs at all home games. An E ring is awarded to all members who have earned three or more letters in intercollegiate sports and who have been active members of the club.

No home ball game, football or basketball, would be complete without E Club members selling programs.

Home Economics Club

Eastern's Home Economics Club is expressly for future teachers of home economics. Although its primary function is to promote leadership and provide for teacher development in this field, it also acts as an organization of fellowship for young women.

Activities throughout the year include a contribution to the AHEA International Scholarship Fund, preparation of a homecoming float, and speeches by visiting home economists.

Industrial Arts Club

The work paid off with this lovely Homecoming float.

Through a program planned to broaden students' knowledge of vocational skills, the Industrial Arts Club strives to instigate professional interest in and promote fellowship among its members. Its activities, aimed at achieving this goal, include having representatives from industry as speakers, demonstrations from craftsmen, and field trips to local industries. Participating in Homecoming and having an annual picnic were high points for the club this year.

Kappa Kappa Sigma

Kappa Kappa Sigma, Eastern's synchronized swim club for women, provides opportunities to help its members gain proficiency in swimming.

Each year the organization presents an annual water show displaying the creative talents of the girls. This year's production of "KKS on Broadway" was a panorama of selections from well-known Broadway plays. The members devised and choreographed the numbers featured in the presentation, as well as designing their costumes.

Judy Lawler expresses astonishment at Dave Bond and Al Allison during the rehearsal of a scene in the Little Theatre's summer production, "The Mousetrap".

Gary and Connie May, husband and wife team, rehearse for Little Theatre's production, "Look Homeward Angel."

Little Theatre

Receiving one of the highest honors possible for a college acting group, Eastern Little Theatre was the official United States entry in the World Theatre Festival this spring. The festival, held in Nancy, France, is world-wide competition with an outstanding dramatics group from each of the nations represented.

The organization consists of thirty-three members who have exhibited an interest in dramatics and a desire for membership. In addition to plays on campus, the group, headed by Joe M. Johnson, traditionally aids in managing speech and dramatics festivals. "Look Homeward Angel" was the major production presented during the year.

PEMM

An enjoyable Christmas week event was an informal dance sponsored by the PEMM Club.

Better understanding and broader knowledge of physical education are presented to members of the organization for Physical Education Majors and Minors through skits, speakers, and movies at bi-monthly meetings. Twice monthly during the school year physical fitness nights were held, with members participating in swimming, volleyball, basketball, and gymnastics. The Cerebral Palsy drive, intramural teams, and an annual picnic at the end of the year were other activities engaged in by the club.

Photo Club

Promoting an exchange of ideas among Eastern students, the Photo Club stimulates individual and campus interest in amateur photography. Using the club's darkroom and equipment, members are under supervision while gaining practical experience.

Each year the group makes and sells pictures of the Homecoming parade and couples at the Junior-Senior Prom. A social outing in the spring completed the year.

Physics Club strives to promote a greater interest in physics among the majors and minors in that field. During the bi-monthly meetings, films were shown and programs presented which featured speakers from the faculty and from various industries.

Throughout the year, the club's members acted as ambassadors to various high schools in the state encouraging students interested in physics to attend Eastern. Other activities of the club were: a trip to Oak Ridge National Lab, collecting money for the Heart Fund, and constructing exhibits for the display located in the Science Building.

Polymathologists Club

Meeting twice a month, math majors and minors in Polymathologists Club discuss the value and purpose of mathematics in the modern world. Program topics ranging from abstract algebra to the role of mathematics in music help members gain mathematical proficiency beyond the classroom. Activities of the organization this year were a visit to the computing center at the University of Kentucky, a Christmas banquet, a square dance, and a picnic in the spring.

Polymathologists Club members and their guests enjoy an evening of square dancing.

Sigma Tau Pi

Sigma Tau Pi promotes a better understanding of business conditions and the changes that are continually taking place in the business world. Social-educational exchanges among students in the field help them gain insights into their chosen career.

A highly amusing initiation of new members began this year for Sigma Tau Pi. Pledges were required to wear ridiculous costumes about the campus and in the SUB Grill before being accepted into the club. Well-planned field trips to a variety of Kentucky industries and social events, including a spring banquet, were activities in which the group participated.

SNEA

Members of the Student National Education Association, which helps to guide teacher preparation, belong to a state education association and the National Education Association with all the rights, privileges, and responsibilities of associate membership. SNEA deepens the interests of capable students in teaching as a career, guides persons admitted to teacher education programs, and contributes to a reasonable balance in teacher supply and demand.

Its program is to provide opportunities for personal and professional growth; developments of leadership skills; understanding of the history, ethics, and programs of state and national organizations; and participation in professional activities at local teachers' associations and student education associations.

Presenting interesting and informative speakers at club meetings, sponsoring panel discussions, and holding spring and fall workshops, the club helps to promote professional enthusiasm among members.

SNEA observed American Education Week by presenting a program to the freshmen assembly emphasizing the values of education.

Following the November SNEA banquet, Mrs. Mamie Scott, Dr. Dixon Barr, Nida Smoot, Dr. Helen Reed, guest speaker and professor of education, and T. L. Arterberry, discuss Dr. Reed's teaching experiences abroad.

WRA

Two Orientation Week activities were held under the auspices of Women's Recreational Association, the annual Rat Races and a big-sister program for freshmen physical education majors. The objective of the big-sister program was to help freshmen women become acquainted with the organization and with campus life by placing them under the guidance of an upperclassman belonging to the club.

Designed to promote interest in recreational activities among Eastern women, WRA planned entertainment for club members each month. In December they decorated the Christmas tree in Weaver Health Building, played games, and sang Christmas carols.

Broken nails, bruised fingers, scratched hands, and long hours of hard work produced a third-place winner in Homecoming float competition.

Baptist Student Union

In its 37th year on Eastern's campus, the Baptist Student Union has become an integral part of the lives of many college students. The Baptist Student Center has for many students become a home away from home where they can find fellowship as well as spiritual and moral guidance.

Many activities are offered by the BSU. These include weekly Vesper Programs, a choir, the Young Women's Auxiliary, and two classes in sign language. Occasional discussion groups are held on current problems in international relations and theology.

Song fests around the piano are a part of the informal atmosphere of the BSU.

Christian Student Fellowship

Christian Student Fellowship stimulates students' ideas through worship programs encouraging religious thinking and living. The organization strives to provide Christian leadership and recreational opportunities for students while at college.

Each Sunday evening the group has a dinner meeting at which they discuss current world problems and theological issues. Other activities include a Christmas banquet, visitation to homes for the aged, and retreats.

Before their weekly worship program CSF members prepare to enjoy a delicious meal that they cooked themselves.

Newman Club

Established to broaden the knowledge of Catholic students on campus, Newman Club provides social and intellectual programs as well as religious ones. Social events this year included the all-campus Mardi Gras dance, a Homecoming queen and float, a spring picnic, and a Chili supper. Programs at club meetings provide educational opportunities in the form of guest speakers, current problem discussions, and theology lectures. Retreats, communion breakfasts, day of recollection, and the inter-faith council help members strengthen their spiritual understanding.

Westminster Fellowship

Under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church, Westminster Fellowship provides a church home away from home for students of all denominations. Comprising first semester activities were a fall retreat at Camp Burnamwood, a Thanksgiving banquet, construction of a Homecoming float, and Christmas caroling. A children's party at Telford Community Center, another retreat, the annual spring convocation, and a banquet honoring seniors rounded out a busy year for Westminster Fellowship.

Margie Mitchell, Westminster Fellowship's Homecoming queen candidate, is introduced at pre-game ceremonies.

Wesley Foundation

Wesley Foundation offers any student, regardless of religious ties, an opportunity for spiritual growth in an environment of concern. Numerous hikes, picnics, and parties are a part of their regular schedule. They sponsor a planning retreat, where they renew their purposes and try to direct their organization toward a meaningful year.

Twice a year they join with Wesley Foundation members from all Kentucky colleges to share ideas. They also visit neighboring Methodist churches, presenting various programs to show that the Wesley Foundation at Eastern is alive and interested.

Characterized by an increased and interested membership this year, the Young Women's Christian Association is primarily an organization to serve Eastern and the Richmond community. Highlighting the year's activities were the traditional Hanging of the Greens at Christmas and the Easter Sunrise Service, co-sponsored with the YMCA. Other club projects included visiting a local hospital and aiding in Orientation Week.

The singing of Christmas carols adds to the holiday spirit kindled by the Hanging of the Greens.

Added to Christmas week festivities this year was an all campus sing-along accompanied by the Symphony Orchestra.

Symphony Orchestra

During a busy year, the 55-piece Eastern Symphony Orchestra presented five campus concerts, a concert for the Southeastern Kentucky Community Concert Series in Somerset, and six school concerts in the Louisville area. In addition, the orchestra assisted the chorus in the annual presentation of the "Messiah." For its final concert in May, the orchestra and chorus joined forces to present Mozart's "Requiem." William Prescott was acting conductor for Dr. Robert Oppelt, on leave during the first semester.

The level of performance continued to rise this year. Large works by Brahms, De Falla and other masters were programmed. Of particular interest was the second Annual Student Concerto Program for which six students were chosen to perform after surviving keen competition.

Interest in Eastern's Orchestra is being generated in other states. This year's roster shows student represented from nine states.

Under the direction of Mr. Nicholas J. Koenigstein, the Concert Band of Eastern Kentucky State College is an attraction wherever it goes. Widely acclaimed throughout the state, it annually appears at numerous civic functions, as well as quadrennially performing at the governor's inauguration. Each spring the band makes a concert tour to high schools in one section of the state. This April the Maroons toured high schools in Eastern Kentucky.

During the fall the Marching Maroons performed at home football games and sponsored the fifth Annual Band Day, attended by 58 high school bands. In the spring semester, the campus enjoyed four band concerts, the last of which was a popular music program played in Van Peursem Music Pavilion.

The Wind Ensemble is composed of selected members of the concert band who work on original and contemporary pieces of band music. It also performs at all band concerts.

Mr. Nicholas Koenigstein, Eastern band director, leads 4,000 bandsmen in a combined effort during half-time ceremonies of the fifth annual Band Day.

One of the highlights of every home football game is a well-executed performance by the Marching Maroons.

The atmosphere of basketball games isn't complete without the lively music rendered by the Pep Band.

Mary Jo Holl, feature twirler of Eastern's Marching Maroons, displays her skill with a baton at a football game.

Intense rehearsal is necessary for the high-quality music presented by the Chamber Choir.

Concert Choir

Conducted by Mr. Thomas Lancaster, Eastern's Concert Choir, college students, and faculty, and community citizens rendered this year's presentation of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah." Singing for a fall church music conference and performing Mozart's "Requiem" with the Symphony Orchestra in May were other activities of the choir. In March, the choir presented a series of concerts to high schools and churches in the Louisville area.

The Chamber Choir, consisting of twenty-one members, presents music written for small groups at concerts on and off campus.

Photographers 1965-66

Relatively unknown to most students is the tremendous task required of Eastern's photographic staff. As well as making pictures used in the Progress and Milestone, the photographers are responsible for photographs used in all campus publications and news releases concerning the college. Many hours of hard work result in the top quality pictures seen in every Eastern publication.

Eldon Phillips, one of the most versatile and creative professional photographers in this area, completed his first year as the College photographer. Mike Coers, who worked as a photographer for The Courier-Journal last summer, graduates this year with a record of four years of outstanding service to the Milestone, including two years as photographic editor.

Board of Student Publications

Consisting of four administrative officials and five students, the Board of Student Publications is the official governing unit of Eastern's student publications. The members are the President of the College, the Executive Dean, the Dean of Students, the Director of Student Publications, Co-Editors of the Milestone, Editor and Managing Editor of the Progress, and President of the Student Council.

The primary purpose of the Board, which has the authority to establish policies and procedures for student publications, is to approve final appointments of student editors. Appointments are made after student editorial committees, consisting of the editors of the Progress and Milestone, make recommendations for each publication. Another function of the Board is establishing criteria for individuals involved in campus competitions.

Eastern Progress

Eastern Progress is the second largest weekly publication in the state of Kentucky. A voluntary organization, the editorial policy of the Progress is formulated and based on such key principles as excellence, bi-partisanship, accuracy, journalistic freedom and responsibility. The average weekly circulation this year has been 9,000.

Self-supported through advertising, the efforts of the editors and staff have combined to provide Eastern with a publication which weekly highlights every phase of campus life and the college community.

Such critique services as the Associated Collegiate Press, the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, and the National Newspaper Service recognize the excellence of the Progress by conferring top ratings yearly.

Milestone '66

The editors and staff of the Milestone '66 were faced with the tremendous task of living up to the high standards set by the Milestone '65. Starting last spring, co-editors of the book and editors of each section were chosen and staff positions filled. During the summer the co-editors organized the book, planned the cover, and consulted with a representative of the publisher about technical details. The final stage of preparation was a workshop for editors and staff members in September.

With the onset of the school year, the work tempo increased. Pictures had to be scheduled, layouts drawn, and copy written. Throughout the long winter months, tempers shortened and time spent at the Milestone office lengthened as deadlines approached. Now, approximately a year after its launching, the Milestone '66 is completed.

Military

Providing a basis for the development of future leaders, Eastern's military offers an opportunity for young cadets to display their military bearing, leadership, and ability to give and take orders. The advanced ROTC program maintains a high degree of excellence in its drill teams, rifle teams, and combat and counter-guerilla training.

Colonel Everett N. Smith,
Professor of Military Science

Colonel Broadens ROTC Program

Colonel Everett N. Smith, in his second year as Professor of Military Science, heads Eastern's largest Corps of 2,700 cadets. Continuing his mission of producing officers for the United States Army, he has initiated a program of outstanding academics as well as physical well being. The applicant for Advanced Corps must have a 2.5 overall standing and pass an intricate physical examination at the end of his sophomore year. After passing these rigid requirements, a cadet can look forward to two years of diversified training and practical application in making a young, enthusiastic second lieutenant.

NCO Cadre: M/Sgt. Linvel Ray, S/Sgt. James Baker, Sgt./Major Ivan Steele, SFC Gene Sewell, S/Sgt. George Walker, Sp/5 Alvin Russel.

Cadets await signal from Company Commander to be dismissed from weekly corps period.

Corps Period Reorganized; Three-Day System Initiated

Cadring to the largest cadet corps in Eastern's history, Corps Period has taken a dramatic and necessary step forward. Introduced this year is a system in which each of the three battalions meet respectively on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday to put into practical application the basic 22-5 drill that the cadets are taught as Freshmen.

Corps Period serves as a very necessary facet of ROTC training in giving the cadets and cadet officers a chance to exhibit their qualities of leadership, military bearing, and ability to follow orders from others.

Squad drill gives cadets the opportunity to master the basic movements necessary for coordinated teamwork.

Cadet Robert Osborne, corps bugler, sounds "drill call" to begin Corps Period activities.

Staff Provide Corps Leadership

Organization is always an important factor in any type of activity, but especially in a military unit. It is the responsibility of the Brigade Staff, which is directly responsible to the P.M.S., and its three interrelated battalion staffs, to coordinate and supervise the many diversified activities of the cadet corps. Through this group of outstanding young men, leadership ability and organizing skill is exemplified in each man under their command.

Company R-1 Is Nationally Recognized

Upholding a tradition of winning, in May of 1965, Company R-1 represented their Regiment in the John J. Pershing National Drill Meet. Facing the ten top drill teams in the nation, Company R-1 placed second, losing by a small percentage to Pennsylvania Military College.

Through their extensive and rigorous pledge program, Eastern's PR's acquired a freshman IDR platoon and squad with great capabilities for the ensured continuation of winning. The exhibition units, composed of sophomores, hold promise, especially the "Suicide Squad" which has never failed to place in competition since its formation.

Adding another laurel, the pistol team placed first and the rifle team second in competition against all Pershing Rifle Companies in the United States.

Commander, Donald Rector, awaits the arrival of a few straggling members after completing a platoon assault.

Raiders Develop Basic Combat Skills

In only four years, the Counter-guerilla Raider Company has become an integral component of the training made available to students by the Military Science Department. This year for the first time, membership in the organization was offered to first semester freshmen, with the stipulation that a 2.2 academic standing be maintained. Although physical fitness and practical training in combat skills are greatly stressed by the Raiders, field problems in communications, patrolling, and combat formations are prevalent.

CG Captain Donald Rector and 1st Lt. Lee Grannis congratulate new members of Counter-guerilla Company as they receive their cords.

A Counter-guerilla pledge makes use of a well-deserved rest.

Officers and NCO's of the Raider Company conduct an informal discussion.

Before cadets move to their first field problem, Captain Goff instructs them on the necessary precautions in firing blank ammunition.

Field Training Exercises Apply Combat Theories

Lying in his defensive position, an anxious cadet checks his ammunition as he observes the assaulting force.

Bravo team, of a combat squad, watches for their cue to provide fire support as the maneuver element prepares to assault an aggressor.

Field Training Exercises, supervised by the M.S. Department and conducted at the Blue Grass Army Depot, establish opportunity for corps cadets to obtain practical application of troop-leading procedures and combat proficiency while living in the field for a weekend. This is one of the few occasions that Juniors have opportunity to be exposed to certain activities which they will experience while at summer camp as well as being beneficial to them after they receive their army commission.

Proper control and positioning in combat formations can be obtained only through drill.

Color Guard Denotes Elite

Through the ROTC Vitalization Act of 1964 a program for commending outstanding students interested in a military career was introduced. This bill authorized presentation of four-year scholarships to outstanding seniors in high school and two-year scholarships to distinguished sophomore cadets.

Eastern's Corps has its own means of bestowing honor upon its members. The Color Guard, which represents the elite of the basic corps cadets, demonstrates the respect deemed proper to the colors. They participate in a diversity of activities including parades, football games, basketball games, and honor guards.

The Color Guard members marching in the Homecoming Parade were Daryl Agee, Frank Noel, Richard Thacker, and Dennis Mills.

Col. Everett N. Smith introduces the two recipients of the first ROTC Scholarships, Daryl Wesley and Donald Rector, to Major General Benjamin Butler, guest speaker at an AUSA meeting.

The Color Guard, composed of Larry Wilson, Mark Poole, Frank Noel, and John Tharp, present the colors in preparation for the playing of the National Anthem before a home basketball game.

Band Company prepares to play another march in the Veterans Day Parade.

Band Helps Esprit de Corps

Esprit de corps, an important factor in any military unit, can be enhanced by a capable band. Such is the case with the ROTC detachment. Band Company offers talented cadets a chance to fulfill their ROTC obligation and add to the overall flexibility of the corps. The outstanding performances of this organization can be witnessed on occasions such as the Veterans Day Parade and during the various reviews held in the spring.

Band Practice officially begins with roll call.

Band Company Sponsor, Miss Jeanie Gail Ashe, looks on as cadet Captain Gary McDaniel directs the band in a number to be used in an up-coming parade.

Examining fired targets, "sharpshooters" discover mistakes made during practice.

Dale Jackson, team captain, receives second place trophy from Major Joseph Palumbo, Murray State College, during NRA Rifle Match.

Rifle Team Takes Honors

The Varsity Rifle Team, although greatly limited in quantity, has proven itself again to be top ranking in quality. With outstanding instruction from the M.S. Department, Eastern's firers have outdone themselves against competition from schools in the Kentucky League and the OVC teams. This year the Varsity Rifle Team fired the highest team score in history in compiling a score of 1,317 out of a possible 1,500. With a tally such as this they are confident of capturing again the Kentucky League Championship and improving their OVC records.

Summer Camp Tests Training

Last summer, Eastern's senior cadets proved themselves to be among the best-trained in the United States ROTC camp at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Pennsylvania. For six weeks, they went through an extensive daily routine of barracks cleaning, standing inspections, and physical training. The group studied, through classes and practical exercise, pertinent information and correct procedures to be used as platoon leaders and company commanders. Small unit tactics, weaponry, communications, first-aid and camouflage were stressed. Climaxing the instructional period of camp was a three-day maneuver in the field where, under simulated combat conditions, the cadets were able to test what they had learned.

Cadet Larry Whalen acts as security as the remainder of his patrol searches for an enemy electronic device during a field problem test.

Firing all types of weapons is one of the fascinations of Summer Camp. Here, Cadet Norman Oldham fires the M-79 grenade launcher.

After graduation, another ceremony is held in which ROTC graduates are sworn in as Second Lieutenants.

Second Lieutenants Receive Commissions

Graduation from Reserve Officer Training Corps is more than pinning on the gold bar of Second Lieutenant and the exchange of a leather chin strap for a gold one. It is the termination of four years of extensive training and diligent effort. On completion of the commissioning exercise, a United States Army Officer faces a new and challenging future. It is his duty to go forward and serve in the forces that protect our country and the American way of life.

Athletics

Much of Eastern's campus activity centers around its athletic program. In the wide variety of sports on campus ranging from football and basketball to track, swimming and wrestling nearly every student can find some activity on which to vent his athletic interest.

Coach Roy Kidd, who directed a spectacular late-season comeback as his Maroons rose to third place in the OVC, unsuccessfully tries to fire-up his outmanned Maroons in the loss to Marshall.

Forfeit, Bad Breaks Cost Record-Setting Gridders Title

Coach Roy Kidd's hard-luck Maroon gridders finished the season with a 4-4-1 slate, and third place in the Ohio Valley Conference despite four straight early-season setbacks. A forfeit to Austin Peay, a tie at Murray, and a fumble against Middle Tennessee cost Eastern the league crown.

Even with these bad breaks the Maroons managed to place four players on the All O.V.C. team in Roscoe Perkins, offensive guard, Chuck Sieman, defensive end, Roy Evans, defensive tackle and Buddy Pfaadt, defensive back.

The Maroons set 24 new records and tied three others during the season. Leading the assault on the record book were Larry Marmie, who set seven new marks, and Fred Malins, close behind with five.

Opening the season against Austin Peay, the Maroons exploded for 28 points on Jim Guice's passing in the fourth quarter to defeat the Governors 35-30.

Later, however, Eastern had to forfeit the game, because of using an ineligible player.

Maroons Beat Raiders In Yards, Lose On Scoreboard

After a 28-12 loss to Marshall and a 17-17 tie with Murray, Eastern came home to take a disappointing 14-10 loss to Middle Tennessee. A capacity crowd of 10,000 watched Eastern outplay the Blue Raiders in every statistical department only to lose.

Middle Tennessee scored the first time they had the ball to get off to an early 7-0 lead. Larry Marmie scored on a keeper in the second quarter, and freshman guard Walter Murphy added a field goal to give the Maroons a 10-7 halftime lead. Early in the third quarter Eastern fumbled to give the Raiders the winning touchdown.

Eastern Trounces Western Before Record Homecoming Crowd

Eastern soundly whipped Western 28-12 before a record homecoming crowd of 11,500 fans who saw the Maroons gain their first home victory over the Hilltoppers since 1957.

The fired-up Maroons scored the first time they had possession on a Larry Marmie-to-Jim Ratliff pass. Western's Dickie Moore struck back on a 41-yard draw play, but the conversion failed, giving Eastern a 7-6 halftime advantage over the startled Hilltoppers.

The Colonels came out prepared to put the game on ice early in the second half with Herman Carter scoring on a 31-yard pitchout early in the third quarter. Larry Marmie tallied on an option to give Eastern a 21-6 edge entering the final period. A Western comeback saw quarterback Mike Egan throw a 42-yard scoring pass to end Jim Sprinkle to close the gap to 21-12 but Jim Guice hit Aaron Marsh for a final Maroon touchdown making the score 28-12.

Maroons Finish Strong With Pair of Road Wins

Eastern finished the season with two strong road wins over conference foes Tennessee Tech, 28-14, and Morehead, 38-20, giving the Maroons, generally conceded the loop's best at the campaign's close, a third-place finish in the O.V.C.

At Morehead, the story was much the same. Eastern jumped out on top 17-0 before Morehead could score, and then stretched the lead to 31-6. Morehead came back to close the gap to 31-20, but a last-second touchdown by Larry Marmie settled the issue.

The touchdown gave Marmie nine six-pointers for the season and 56 points, both Eastern records. The lanky quarterback also set marks in passing and total offense for a total of seven Eastern records. Malins established five single-game and season records for pass-receiving and punting, giving the graduating seniors half of the 24 new marks set by the '65 Maroons.

Maroons Lose Title Defense; Scrap for 2nd Place Finish

Eastern's Maroons, trying for back-to-back OVC basketball championships, were derailed by rampaging Western, who swept its conference slate, but came on strong at season's end to nail down second place.

The Maroons had an inconsistent season, marked by success in the early going and in the later games, but sandwiched in between was a period of good games and bad that knocked them out of the championship picture. At one time their won-loss mark fell to 8-7, but they won eight of the last ten games for a 16-9 overall mark and a 9-5 conference record.

Maroon stalwart Eddie Bodkin became the all-time Eastern scorer, breaking assistant coach Jack Adams's 10-year-old record of 1460 points with a 39 point outburst against Austin Peay. He ended the season with a 1,586 point career total and eight other Eastern records.

The Maroons opened their season with a 91-54 win over Transylvania, then dropped games to Dayton, 72-69, and Marshall, 88-75, before rapping Central Missouri 105-69 to begin a comeback that lasted the rest of the season.

Cagers in Two Tournaments; Bodkin Reaps Honors

December saw the Maroons invade Louisville and Detroit for holiday tournaments. In the OVC tourney they beat Austin Peay 86-85, then nipped Murray 79-73, before losing to Western in the finals 83-67. They took third in the Motor City Classic, losing to William & Mary 76-64, in the first round before stomping Harvard 90-76 in the consolation game. Bodkin and Bill Walton made the OVC tourney team, while Bodkin shared Most Valuable Player honors at the Motor City with Detroit's Dorie Murrey.

Five Nips Morehead, Falls to Hilltoppers

Eastern's error-ridden Maroons opened their title defense with a 74-64 win over Morehead at home followed by road wins at Austin Peay 101-96, and Middle Tennessee 98-80, before Western blotted the record 107-88 in Alumni Coliseum.

The Maroons faced a deliberate Morehead team that took advantage of errors for a 20-16 lead, before Eastern battled to a 34-34 halftime tie. The second half saw the teams on even terms at 47-47, but Eastern flashed brilliance jumping out to a 72-61 lead behind Bodkin and Garfield Smith.

Western took the lead for good after five ties at 18-16 and went into the dressing room ahead 43-29 at the half. The 'Toppers went up by 65-38 before Coach Baechtold inserted a pressing team, but the Maroons could never get closer than 19.

Maroons Drop Overtime Thriller, Beat Bucs

Lifeless after their loss to Western, the Maroons dropped an overtime decision to Murray 79-78 at home, and loss at Tennessee Tech 103-93 before winning at Morehead 81-79, and over East Tennessee 83-62.

After Herb McPherson tied the Murray game, Bodkin's off-balance shot failed to make the break with only four seconds remaining. Milt Pitts put the Racers ahead 79-78 with two seconds left in the overtime, and Johnson's last second shot, ripping the net from 25 feet out, was ruled too late.

The loss at Tennessee Tech dumped the Maroons to 3-3 in league play. The Golden Eagles capitalized on the hot shooting of sophomore Henry Jordan and a cold Maroon team to dominate the action.

Featuring a second-half comeback led by Bodkin, the Maroons gained a hard-fought 81-79 victory over Morehead. The continued momentum lead the Maroons to victory over East Tennessee.

Maroons Sweep Three, Bodkin Breaks Record

Staying at home after the East Tennessee win, the Maroons ripped off three straight triumphs, nipping Marshall 93-86, Middle Tennessee 70-66, and ripping Austin Peay 94-65 . . . and Eddie Bodkin became Eastern's all-time leading scorer.

In the Marshall tilt Bodkin led all scorers with a career high 40 points that left him 55 points short of tying Coach Adams' record of 1460 career points. With two more games at home before taking the road again, hopes were high that Bodkin would reach the mark at home.

Against Middle Tennessee, slowdown tactics limited him to 19 points, 36 shy of tying Adams, but hopes were still there. Austin Peay tried the slowdown too, and things looked doubtful with 1:46 left to play and Bodkin still 11 points away from the tie. But, with his teammates feeding him, he got the 11 in only 45 seconds, broke the record with a jumper with seven seconds left to go, added a free throw and had 1463 career points. Stunned fans witnessed an unbelievable 14 points in a minute and 46 seconds.

Eastern Trips Tech; Tops MAC's Miami

After losing on the road at Murray, 101-91, and Western, 72-67, the Maroons came home for a 97-77 revenge win over Tennessee Tech, clinched the OVC runner-up spot at East Tennessee 75-69, and closed their season at home with a 59-52 win over Mid-America Conference winner Miami.

Just as Tech had dominated the first meeting, the Maroons controlled the second, salting away the issue early in the second half. At East Tennessee it was a different story. With Bodkin on the bench with five fouls, the Maroons had to scrap for the win.

In a well-disciplined, but exciting clash with Miami, the Maroons trailed most of the way before Jerry Bisbey engineered a comeback for the team with his alert defensive play and sharp passing.

Cross Country Team

Sweeps OVC

The Eastern Cross Country Team in their second year under Coach Conan Smith compiled a perfect 10-0 record and swept the OVC championship.

In ten meets, only three teams broke the Maroon hold on the point counting places. Iowa took a fifth place, defending NCAA champions took a first place, and a state high school star took a third in the Kentucky Federation Meet. In the other seven meets, the Maroon's swept at least the first five places. This impressive record was set against competition such as Iowa, Indiana, and Illinois.

The crowning point of the season came when the Maroons shut out the rest of the League in sweeping seven of the top places and capturing the OVC crown.

Outstanding members of the team were Grant Colehour, winner of the league individual crown and John Woods, Kenth Andersson, Larry Whalen, and Jan Halth, all in the top five places of the OVC meet.

OVC individual champ Grant Colehour takes an early lead in the dual meet with the University of Kentucky.

Wrestlers Break Even

Beginning the season with a 38-5 victory over Knoxville YMCA and ending it with a resounding 24-8 loss to Milligan College, the wrestling team summarized their up-and-down season. A final record of 3-3 included two other wins over Maryville (32-10) and Marshall (26-11) and two other losses—one in a return match with Marshall and a second to Morehead with a 29-8 decision.

Eastern Matmen blame the disappointing record on the lack of a coach and the loss of a key man, Henry Bivens. His departure after the first two matches, caused the grapplers to forfeit the 123-pound weight class for the rest of the season.

Two matmen, Marty Willigan and Mike McClellan, demonstrated the skill held by the Eastern wrestling team in two national meets during the Christmas Holidays. Mid-Season Rally Boosts Nine to OVC Playoffs

Using a mid-season rally to overcome a shaky start, Coach Charles "Turkey" Hughes' baseballers captured the OVC Eastern Division championship and a league playoff berth opposite Murray.

Expectations were high for the veteran team at the season's start, but the close of 11 games had the batsmen with only a 2-9 record. Then came a comeback sweep of 12 of their last 15 games for a 14-14 record and an 8-4 division mark. The surge continued through the first game of the loop playoffs with Murray, but ended when the Maroon dropped the two final and deciding games.

In the race for the division title, the team was led by catcher Doug McCord, who hit .348 on the season, and outfielder Ron Pinsencham, who reached base 68 out of 99 times at bat. Ron Chasteen, shortstop, and pitcher John Carr were among the nation's leaders in runs-batted-in and strikeouts. Jerry Gill and Dave Price joined Chasteen, Pinsencham and McCord on the OVC's 10-man first team.

Assistant Coach Bob Kupchak takes a strange seat in a tight moment while the Maroons sweep a twin-bill from East Tennessee 8-7 and 6-5.

Athletic Hall of Fame Honors Coach Hughes

"Turkey is one of Kentucky's all-time great athletes, as well as one of her most distinguished great leaders," said former Governor Bert T. Combs as he nominated Eastern's Charles T. Hughes to the Kentucky Athletic Hall of Fame last year.

A four-sport letterman in his playing days at the University of Kentucky, Coach Hughes has been teaching others athletic skills here since 1929, and has eight of the 17 OVC baseball championships since the league was formed in 1948.

Eastern's director of athletics from 1942 to 1964, Hughes also has served the College as head coach in football and basketball in addition to his baseball and other diverse athletic and teaching duties. With all but one player back from his 1965 runner-up squad, Coach Hughes will be gunning for his unprecedented ninth OVC championship.

Thinclads Set Records In Posting 8-2 Record

Coach Connie Smith's thinclads used record-breaking performances as they gained national recognition and zipped to a third-place OVC finish.

Seventeen new records were set, 12 of them coming in the Kentucky Federation Meet and a dual meet at Morehead. New times were established by Jim Beasley in the two-mile run, Ron Benson in the 880, Bill Swanson in the 440, and Carey Guess and Henry Patino in the high and intermediate hurdles, respectively. Records also fell in relay races.

National honors fell on Ron Benson, who finished fourth in the U.S. indoor track competition in the 600-meters, Rick Dyer, cited one of the best high jumpers in the country by Track and Field News, and Patino, rated the third best freshman or junior college hurdler by the same magazine.

In the conference meet Eastern's Larry Whalen won the mile run, Aaron Marsh took the broad jump, Bill McAnelly was victorious in the two-mile run, and the mile relay team of Bill Swanson, Ron Benson, Andrew Cash and Vern Brooks set a new loop record.

Netters Finish With 14-4 Slate

Playing one of the toughest schedules ever faced by an Eastern tennis team, Coach Jack Adams' netters posted a successful 14-4 mark, marred only by a fourth place finish in the OVC championships.

The racketeers started their season with impressive wins over Kentucky, Bellarmine, and Tennessee Tech before a loss to Kentucky in a return match. Mid-season wins over powers Ohio University, the University of Louisville and eventual league champion Western were highlights of the card.

Lettermen Jerry Brown, Jerry Sanders, and Jack Kench were the only experienced members of the squad who returned along with leading scorer Ken Chaflin and fellow freshmen—Mike Jefferies, Sparky Snyder, and Gene Hashem—to give 1966 squad power and experience.

Linksmen Post 11-4 Mark

Ron Roby waits his turn as Edwin Luxon tees off in practice.

After roaring through their regular card with an 11-4 mark, Coach Glenn Presnell's golfers suffered an unpleasant setback in the OVC meet, finishing a surprisingly low seventh.

The linksmen began their season strong, winning five of their first six meets, including topplings of Miami (Ohio), and Wittenburg. From that point on they lost only to Western, Morehead and Bowling Green, winning big against Hanover and Transylvania, and taking squeakers from Bellarmine and East Tennessee.

Coach Presnell considered the team's showing in the loop championships an "off-day", not indicative of the squad's power. Leading the team in scoring were four freshmen, Ron Roby, Edwin Luxon, Jim Martin and Jack Good, all returning this spring with hopes of raising their league standing.

Dr. Barney Groves directs the ever-expanding intramural program.

Interest in Intramurals Necessitates Expansion

Interest in Eastern's intramural athletics program grew markedly during Dr. Barney Groves' second year as director of the program. Although concentrating on the major sports of football, basketball, swimming, track, and field, participation in bowling, tennis, and volleyball broke all records.

A wide variety of sports activity was provided for all students. Each participant benefited from invigorating exercise while enjoying wholesome recreational activities and developing interests and skills in varied sports.

Bill Walton attempts to score with a slam against Jerry Bisbey and Carl Westerfield.

Minor Sports Acquire Greater Popularity

Volleyball continued to be one of the most popular of the minor sports followed closely by bowling and table tennis. Volleyball teams were selected from each floor of every dormitory with nine players comprising one squad. Approximately eight games were played by each team resulting in a round-robin tournament with all the teams.

Because of the wide-spread appeal they hold for both men and women, regardless of their athletic ability, participation in both table tennis and bowling broke all records. Both sports were climaxed by tournaments at the semester's end.

Below: Ron Reed takes his stance in anticipation of the opening serve in the table tennis tournament.

During the excitement, touch football games can often lead to bumps, bruises, and sore muscles.

Intramural Competition Increases

Interest in intramural football continued to grow to necessitate the formation of three leagues this year to accommodate all participating teams. Each team played nine games. At the end of the nine games, a round-robin championship tournament among the top teams of each league climaxed the season's play. The Panthers proved victorious.

Although formerly one of Eastern's minor sports, tennis has rapidly grown in popularity in the past few years. To accommodate the growing number of players, four new tennis courts are planned for the near future. Taking first place in this year's Intramural Tennis Tournament was Alvin Manule.

Providing the student with an opportunity for vigorous competition which develops his sense of respect for his fellow man and teaches him the value of competition is one of the primary purposes of Intramural Swimming. Swimming helps develop timing to a split-second degree of accuracy and disciplines the power of unharnessed muscles. Exerting his well-developed muscles to the limits of their endurance is the only possible means by which a swimmer can win the climaxing championship tournament.

Without effective blocking, that all-important touchdown could never be made.

Popular Sports Climax Winter Season

Requiring more ability than most intramural sports, basketball attracted those students who have lettered in high school and college, as well as those who have never engaged in organized league play.

In order to provide equal competition for all participants, five leagues were formed representing players of varying abilities. A play-off tournament was held at the end of the regular season for each league winner.

Adding variety to the intramural athletic events, handball and wrestling were enjoyed by those few students who like the body-building exercise provided by these sports. Three teams, the football representatives, the Worms, and the Nuts, entered the wrestling competitions. The season ended with the footballers in first place followed by the Nuts and the Worms in anchor positions.

Skill And Speed Spawn Victory

Augmenting regular intramural activity, Eastern's karate class, taught by student Terry Collis, provides an ideal means of exercise as well as excellent training in a superb form of self-defense. Since brute strength is not required in karate, it is popular with both men and women. Many women become expert in karate because it places the emphasis upon speed and technique rather than brawn.

It is in track and field competitions that brawn comes into its own. It is here that the power behind contracted muscles wins the laurel and provides first-rate exercise along with expertly conditioned bodies.

Women's Sports Programs Varied

Women's sports offered opportunities for Eastern coeds to improve their sports skill as well as participate in healthful activities. Both intramural and honor team programs in hockey, volleyball, basketball, and softball were organized under the direction of the Women's Health and Physical Education Department. Other activities included such minor sports as tennis, ping pong, bowling, and archery. The Kappa Kappa Sigma and Drum and Sandal organizations provided creative outlets for girls having special abilities in the areas of swim and dance.

Hockey Extramurals

Dominate Fall Sports

A carefully selected honor team represented Eastern in women's intercollegiate hockey competition this year. Girls on the honor team were chosen according to their ability and potential by Miss Elaine Summa, sponsor and coach of the women's hockey team.

Seeing action for the first time this season in the University of Kentucky Play Day, the Maroonettes tied two games with Centre and Transylvania and lost to the host team, U. of K. Later in the season, they again met and defeated Centre and Transylvania on the Gertrude Hood Women's Athletic Field. The two remaining losses on their record were both to Berea in close matches.

Ground—stick! Ground—stick! Ground—stick! The bully for the ball marks the beginning of the hockey game.

Coeds Active in Indoor Intramurals

Inclimate weather found many Eastern coeds participating in a variety of indoor activities. Volleyball intramural teams were organized into a single elimination tournament, with sixth floor McGregor Hall capturing the championship. The volleyball honor team defeated Berea in their only intercollegiate competition.

As a project for an intramurals class, a women's intramural swim meet was organized by Janice Huffman. Girls competed in diving, relay, form, and racing events, which resulted in victory for Burnam Hall.

Ann Howard assists in tabulating the results during the Women's Intramural Swim Meet.

Basketball proved to be the most popular sport for Eastern's women. Two intramural leagues were set up in order to include the large number of girls who wished to participate. The basketball honor team, coached by Miss Pat Allison, met teams from Berea, Morehead, and the University of Kentucky.

Minor Sports Encourage Individual Participation

Throughout the year, the women's sports program provided various activities which encouraged individual participation. These activities were designed to enable girls to develop skills for use in future leisure-time recreation. Individual sports intramurals included badminton, table tennis, archery, and bowling.

Spring Brings Softball And Tennis Intramurals

With the arrival of spring to the campus Eastern girls turned their attention to vigorous outdoor activities. Softball teams from each girl's dormitory competed in intramural competition for afternoon fun, while the more skilled honor team played games with various Kentucky colleges.

Tennis enthusiasts also found intramural tournaments for their recreational interests. Dr. Ann Uhlir, Head of the Women's Health and Physical Education Department, coached the tennis honor team, which was organized for girls with outstanding tennis abilities.

Drum and Sandal Takes Modern Approach

Drum and Sandal, Eastern's interpretive dance club, provided a creative medium of expression for girls interested in the field of dance. This season Drum and Sandal presented three shows for campus enjoyment. Their annual Christmas show, "Christmas Kaleidoscope," deviated from the traditional aspects of interpretive dance and demonstrated a more modern approach. For the first time folk music was used as a background for the girl's expressive choreography. The Spring Show consisted of a variety of types of music and dance, including a number from "Thunderball." A preview of this show was presented for halftime entertainment during the Eastern-Miami basketball game, featuring an interpretation of "Slaughter On Tenth Avenue."

Kappa Kappa Sigma Presents "On Broadway"

Girls possessing a variety of aquatic skills and certain artistic talents were eligible for membership in Eastern's synchronized swim club, Kappa Kappa Sigma. Composed of twenty girls, this organization began preparation for their annual spring show immediately after fall tryouts. Mike Campbell, Phil Stoffey, Gene Petit, and Marvin Fisher assisted KKS in their production entitled "On Broadway." Throughout this year's performance, the members demonstrated their talents and ingenuity in designing costumes, constructing scenery, and synchronizing natagraphy. Music for the show was taken from several Broadway musical hits including, "The Sound of Music," "West Side Story," "The King and I," and "My Fair Lady."

Underclasses

A friendly campus—Eastern welcomes its freshmen and allows them through their sophomore and junior years to become a true part of the campus. Underclassmen and seniors alike live in the same dormitories, participate in the same activities and belong to the same organizations. The underclassman is accepted on the basis of what he will achieve rather than on the criteria of what he has been.

Though now juniors, these young men and women have grown only as they have made the ground of knowledge, from which they have taken so much, a little more fertile. They have learned to appreciate the give and take of learning for what it is—life's greatest dividend. They, having experienced the trials of finding a direction, along with the joys of self-realization and recognition, hope now to take their place as seniors without short-changing education, or taking life for granted.

This new arrival on campus found protection from the rain and lots of friendly people at the freshman information booth manned by upperclassmen.

Class of 1968

Standing: McConnell, Spurlock, Glass. Sitting: Stultz, Cash, Rader.

President	Barry Burke
Vice-President	Bill McConne
Secretary	Darlene Cas
Treasurer	Ken Spurloc
Reporter	Becky Rade
Student Council Representatives	Wayne Glas Libby Stult
Sponsors	Mrs. Vera Bucho Dr. Sanford Jone

With brows furrowed only a little and having realized the importance of emphasis on academics, the sophomore begins to reap the benefit of what will prove to be broad-minded specialization. They have in their first two years enriched their fundamental learning and laid the basis for border thinking. Along with academic growth has come social awareness—increasing acquaintances and cultivating true friendships. The sophomore begins to see more clearly that he is working toward a goal and to realize that honest effort will result in success.

The contrast between the traditional and ultra-modern is nowhere on Eastern's campus more clearly exemplified than by the concrete edifice of Todd Hall towering over the congenial structure of Stateland.

Dr. Robert N. Grise

A student's first year in college is often the first opportunity given to sow seeds of thought and reap the harvest, be it good or bad. Education's rich soil will allow steady growth, but it requires the watering of ambition, the strengthening food of sustained study, and the ability to adapt to a new environment. These youth have had to root their feet deep in the well-tilled soil of Knowledge. They have matured, taken the bruises sustained by apprehension and adjustment and are ready to face a new year with more discerning minds—minds more able to separate the mortal chaff of confusion and mistake, from the wholesome grain of direction and accomplishment.

On Sunday, September 12, 1965, a friendly, but wet, campus greeted nearly 3,500 Freshmen.

After the first good-bye to parents a touch of homesickness daunts the spirits of this beanie freshman.

Beanieless freshman, Cathy Helen, was hauled into Rat Court where she carried out her sentence—a public "Helen" rendition of the old song and dance routine.

At the first dormitory floor meeting, Freshmen discover that rules are as much a part of college life as they are of home life.

Do not bend, fold, spindle . . . nor tear up
 . . . nor stomp on . . . nor make paper airplanes of . . . no matter how much you may want to do so.

Freshmen plan strategy on the steps of the Weaver Health Building before entering the registration arena.

Male students in Todd Hall spend much of their relaxation time in the recreation area watching television. A good program can take your mind off the test you are having in psychology the next day. We call it escapism.

In keeping with the 1965 homecoming theme, Kentucky Homecoming, Allan Muncy portrays a Kentucky mountaineer as he rides the Pershing Rifle's float.

Time shared is time to be remembered and this couple share a few minutes of time outside the Combs building that may be remembered for a lifetime.

Lt. John B. Hanlon, a 1964 graduate of Eastern, wears the Silver Star which was presented to him in ceremonies at the Veteran's Administration Hospital, Cincinnati, for heroism in Vietnam.

In Memoriam

Judge Thomas B. McGregor

We at Eastern are saddened by the passing of a great Kentuckian and a valued member of our Board of Regents as well as a loyal friend. Judge McGregor has served his profession and his state well in many capacities. His life was an inspiration.

Statement by President Robert R. Martin

From the Two of Us

To the students of Eastern Kentucky State College: This book was prepared by you, for you, and about you. It is our sincerest wish that you will enjoy it now and for many years to come.

If given the opportunity to edit this yearbook again, we would only ask that we be given the advantages authors have in a second edition to correct some faults of the first, and that we should receive the same kind of loyal support and cooperation that we have from the many who have put a part of themselves into the Milestone '66. We wish to express our deepest appreciation to these people.

A Special Report

University Status Granted

University Status Recommended for Eastern

On Friday, January 14, 1966, a report by the Governor's Commission on Higher Education recommended that Eastern and the other large state colleges be renamed state universities. The recommendation also included plans for expanded graduate programs, the development of appropriate research and service programs, and the expansion of a comprehensive two-year community college program.

Faculty, students, and alumni of Eastern expressed strong support of this recommendation. Dean of Faculty, Smith Park, commented, "University status would enable us to attract new staff members and give prestige to those we already have." Mr. James Thurmon, Director of Alumni Affairs, said, "For a long time now, our alumni have been asking 'when'. They realize that Eastern qualifies." Dr. Henry Martin, Dean of Students, said of university status, "I think the students are far more excited about this than the alumni or the faculty. This is true because they are an active part of the rapid changes taking place on campus." The student body displayed its excitement by making mention of everything from graduate school to social life.

Eastern students avidly followed the developments concerning the proposed university status.

The Alumni Association, after endorsing a statement supporting University Status for Eastern, displayed this sign in Alumni Coliseum before the Eastern-Western basketball game.

Governor Breathitt addresses a joint session of the historic 1966 Kentucky General Assembly. Among the many major programs passed into law was the Higher Education Bill.

Osborn Introduces University Bill in House

Representatives Bob Leeds and Ted Osborn, two sponsors of the bill for higher education, discuss the bill's support in the House.

House Bill 238, to rename Eastern and the other three large state colleges as state universities, was introduced in the House of Representatives February 10, 1966. Sponsor of the bill was Representative Ted Osborn of Lexington. The higher education bill polled an overwhelming 83-0 vote and was sent on to the Senate. The Senate passed the bill by a 29-6 vote on February 25, 1966. The final recommendations included university status for Eastern, Western, Murray, and Morehead state colleges.

Governor Breathitt discusses some of the points in the bill with a few of the college presidents attending the State Capitol ceremony.

Governor Signs Higher Education Bill

Governor Edward T. Breathitt called it "a great day for higher education in Kentucky," as he signed into law the University Bill. In an historic ceremony on Saturday, February 27, 1966, Governor Breathitt signed House Bill 238 less than twenty-four hours after it had been passed by the Senate. The Governor praised the sponsors of the bill and said, "It serves the best interests of public higher education in Kentucky." Eastern's own President Robert R. Martin was one of the most effective supporters of the bill.

President Martin, in a brief response, called the measure "the most significant event in the history of higher education in Kentucky." He praised the General Assembly and Governor Breathitt for their wisdom in passing the Bill. Eastern's Board of Regents met and agreed upon July 1, 1966 as the date for the change in status.

President Martin and Governor Breathitt review the important house bill just after it had been signed into law.

An atmosphere of pomp and dignity prevailed during the Founder's Day Program which commemorated Eastern's 60th anniversary and university status.

Governor Breathitt praised the leadership of Eastern and asked that the new university accept its new challenges in the major address of the Founder's Day celebration.

Founder's Day Signals Eastern's Seventh Decade

Eastern began a new era Monday, March 21, 1966, as it entered its seventh decade of educational service. The College took note of the historic occasion in Founder's Day ceremonies jointly commemorating the 60th anniversary of the School's founding and the granting of university status.

Since its founding on March 21, 1906, as Eastern Kentucky Normal School, the College has passed through progressive stages. In 1922, Eastern became a four-year institution known as Eastern Kentucky State Normal School and Teachers College. The name was changed twice more—first in 1930 to Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College and again in 1948 to Eastern Kentucky State College. With the election of Dr. Robert R. Martin in 1960, the College began its growth and reorganization toward the goal of university status. On July 1, 1965, the College was reorganized into six schools—the final step in the requirements necessary for the renaming of the College once again as Eastern Kentucky University.

New Student Government For University

With the new university status came a change in student government. The election of the KEG (Keep Eastern Growing) Party members Bill McConnell, Jerry Stewart, Pat Taulbee, and Bob Hughes, in a vote involving more students than ever before in any student election may give a new strength to student government. Student Council officers voiced big plans at the inaugural banquet. In his acceptance speech, President McConnell announced that "the Student Council this year plans to help the students meet the needs of a new society." McConnell stated "We feel that this can be done through reorganization of the representatives of the Council, selecting them on a dormitory basis." He also threw his full support behind the Student Code. "Completion of the Code would be a great step in making Eastern more than a university in name only."

President Martin in a congratulatory speech expressed the wish that they would bring to him the true feelings of the students and trust him to respect and consider these opinions.

Student Council represents the student feeling of pride in University status with this banner floating above the student plaza.
