LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

Trinity College

Hartford, Conn.

To the Trustees of Trinity College:

In accordance with Section Three of Title Fifteen of the Statutes of the College, I submit herewith the report of the Librarian for the year ending June 30, 1919.

The Library, as heretofore, has been kept open fifty-four hours per week, and the usual statistics in regard to attendance are given. During a part of the S. A. T. C. period, the Library was also kept open Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, in addition to the usual hours.

ATTENDANCE ANNUAL SUMMARY.

Year	1912-13	1913-14	1914-15	1915-16	1916-17	1917-18	1918-19
	16,737	20,685	19,645	14,851	11,390	10,545	15,399

Owing to the fluctuating number of students and the required attendance during part of the S. A. T. C. period, it is difficult to draw any inference of value or interest from a study of the attendance this year as compared with other years. Yet taking 200 as the average number of students for the year, and making allowance for the short period of required library attendance, it would seem that the average attendance in the Library has been considerably higher than for several years past. Perhaps this is but another indication of the gradual return to normal conditions, and just what we should expect. In any case, it is gratifying, for the Library must needs play a large part in the proper doing of the work of a college student under modern conditions. In fact, it is hardly too much to say that the use of the Library is a barometer indicating as accurately as any other sign the state of academic health of the student body. If this be so, the year just ending, in spite of its many abnormalities and failures, compares very favorably with any other of recent years.

INCREASE OF THE LIBRARY.

There have been added to the Library during the year two thousand one hundred and twenty-seven volumes, two thousand eight hundred and forty-five pamphlets, and ten maps, a grand total of four thousand nine hundred and eighty-two items. Of these two hundred and sixty-three volumes were purchased, and one thousand nine hundred and sixty-four volumes and all the pamphlets and maps presented.

Included among the purchases are one hundred and six volumes of unbound periodicals, four volumes paid for from the appropriation of the Department of Civil Engineering and Drawing and one volume paid for by the Department of Mathematics. Of the volumes added to the Library fourteen hundred and ninety-eight are bound and six hundred and twenty-nine unbound.

Again, owing to the small income from our Funds and the state of the book market, the purchases have been fewer in number than usual. Among the more important purchases may be mentioned "The Chronicles of America, A Series of Historical Narratives," published by the Yale University Press in fifty volumes, of which twenty have been delivered, and a complete file of the American Journal of International Law, with all Supplements and the Proceedings of the Society. The latter is the first large purchase made with the income from the Thomas Balch Fund, the most recently founded of the Funds for the benefit of the Library, and is an indication of the great usefulness of the Fund in the future.

GIFTS.

Appendix II contains the names of donors of the year; to these should be added the names of donors of current periodicals given at the beginning of Appendix I.

Some of the gifts of the year call for particular mention.

In November, J. Cleveland Cady, LL.D., of the Class of 1861, presented to the College his very valuable architectural library. The collection consists of about three hundred and seventy-five volumes and nearly two thousand superb photographs. The volumes are handsomely bound and are very valuable. They are largely folios and quartos and consist in good part of plates and drawings with text accompanying. Through an appropriation by your body, special shelving has been provided for the books and a special cabinet for the photographs. The books were collected by Doctor Cady during a period of more than forty years, and have been beautifully bound by the best binders of Europe and America. Altogether the gift is one of the most important ever received by the Library.

It is purposed to print a list of the Cady books in a number of the Bulletin, and so no extended list need be given here; but one may mention such works as Pugin's Specimens of Gothic Architecture; Street's Gothic Architecture in Spain; Hill's Organ Cases and Organs of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance; Gotch's Architecture of the Renaissance in England; Brindley's Ancient Sepulchral Monuments; Viollet Le Duc's Dictionnaire de l'Architecture; Uhde's Baudenkmalen in Gross Britannien; Stuart et Revett's Les Antiquities d'Athenes et l'Attique, and Revoil's Architecture of the Renaissance in England.

American Colonial architecture is represented by some of the best books on the subject. Many important books on such subjects as Hospital and Theater Construction are included.

Not the least notable part of the gift is the collection of photographs. Almost every item was selected by Doctor Cady for some peculiar excellence, and the result is a collection containing nothing common-place or insignificant. Though the great cathedrals of England and the Continent are not neglected, yet the parish churches, particularly those of England, are especially well represented. Many unusual photographs of the notable secular buildings, particularly of the dwelling houses of England, the chateaux of France, etc., appear. Such a collection would be a source of pride to any Library, and Trinity may take particular pride in it because of its association with one of her honored sons.

Doctor Cady designed and had engraved an appropriate and handsome book-plate to be used in the books of the collection, a thoughtful act adding much to its completeness and individual character.

President Luther, in addition to the usual gifts from the President's Office, gave to the Library some three hundred volumes from his Library, the most important single item being a long "run" of the "Transactions of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers," handsomely bound. He gave also a large number of volumes of magazines, not included in the count of gifts, many of which will be useful in filling gaps in our sets. Though only one of many generous and thoughtful gifts to the Library on his part, yet it deserves particular mention and appreciation.

Mr. Frederick R. Honey, so long instructor in Drawing, also gave a number of volumes of periodicals, likewise not included in the count of gifts, that will be useful in completing our files.

J. Pierpont Morgan, LL.D., 1918, gave to the Library a copy of the rare and beautiful edition of the "Gospels of Matilda, Countess of Tuscany, 1055-1115." The volume was printed by Mr. Morgan for presentation to the Roxburgh Club in fulfillment of the intention of his father, the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who was elected a member of the Club in 1912. The book contains nineteen plates in gold and color and twelve in monochrome, reproduced by a photographic process from the MS. in Mr. Morgan's Library. The work is chiefly remarkable for the scenes from the life of Christ; they are very important for the study of early Italian Art. The volume is an interesting and valued addition to the collection of reproductions of manuscripts in our Library.

Mrs. Henry Ferguson has added one hundred and eleven volumes and ninety-eight pamphlets to the gift of books from Professor Ferguson's Library, previously received. These books also have to do with Economics and Political Science, and of course are a most welcome addition.

Doctor J. Ackerman Coles of Newark, New Jersey, a friend of Bishop Williams, presented to the Library in consequence of that friendship, a beautifully printed and bound edition of the English Prayer Book for Altar use and an edition of the Bible printed in London in 1653.

A. H. Loomis, Esquire, of Upper Montclair, a native of Hartford, during the year has presented some fifty volumes to the Library. These books have to do chiefly with financial matters. The most important single item is the reports of the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York from 1907 to 1916 in thirty-five volumes.

The Rev. William C. Beardsley, '87, gave us three books on bookplates. As they are the only books we have on the subject, and as they are the best, the gift is particularly welcome.

The Rev. Robert A. Benton, '64, has during the year, added three new Translations of the New Testament to the collection of versions in English he has given us.

Dr. William Simpson Hubbard, '88, presented a set of the new Biograph of Audubon by Francis H. Herrick. Because of our collection of Audubon's works, the gift is particularly appropriate and greatly appreciated.

Doctor Victor C. Pedersen, '91; the Rev. Wilson Waters, '88, and the Rev. Doctor Lorin Webster, '80, have presented to the Library copies of works written by themselves; these gifts are of course particularly appreciated.

Otis S. Hill, Esquire, of Washington, D. C., has added sixteen volumes to his valued gift of a few years ago.

Charles D. Hine, Secretary of the State Board of Education, has sent to the Library his annual gift of bound reports of Connecticut towns—nine volumes.

The Case Memorial Library gave us some sixty chemical dissertations, a welcome addition to our collection of such publications.

Henry Campbell Black, LL.D., '80, presented a copy of Thornton's "An American Glossary," the most important work on "Americanisms," so called.

Useful and valued gifts have been made by Professors Kleene, Perkins, Riggs, Shepard, Swan, Barret, Knowlton, and Adams. Their interest and kindness are much appreciated.

We again acknowledge gratefully the gifts by the Carnegie Institution, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, the Smithsonian Institution, and the Government of the United States of their valuable publications.

THE STAFF.

Much to the regret of your Librarian on June 20, 1919, Miss Elizabeth H. Thompson severed her connection with the Library. Miss Thompson had served faithfully and efficiently as cataloguer since 1915—three years and a half. The record of what has been accomplished during that time is a proof of her industry and capacity. Our best wishes go with her in whatever work she next undertakes.

Miss Mildred Helen Lawson, B.A., B.L.S., a graduate of the New York State College for Teachers and of the New York State Library School has been appointed to Miss Thompson's place. Miss Lawson has had wide experience in Library work, including three years in the Cataloguing Department of the New York Public Library and a year in Camp Library work under the American Library Association.

Miss Edith M. Pratt has continued to serve efficiently as an Assistant to the Cataloguer.

The Student Assistants were Nelson Frederick Adkins '20, Robert I. Parke '21, Clapp '23, England '23, Graham '23, Myers '23. Owing to the conditions obtaining during the S. A. T. C., period it was difficult to obtain student help at all, and difficult for the Student Assistants to do their work well. Everything considered, the work of the Student Assistants was of as good a quality as could be expected. Certainly the spirit in which the work was done was most commendable.

CATALOGUING.

As was predicted in the last report, the number of books catalogued this year was smaller than in any year since Miss Thompson began her work, though the Cady gift has been fully catalogued. The reason is that the work of cataloguing the accumulation of uncatalogued books in the Library has been measurably completed. From now on, the work of the cataloguers will be, in addition to cataloguing the accessions, the replacing of the old cards and the recataloguing of books where found necessary. The importance of this work is only slightly less—if less at all—than the cataloguing of the material uncatalogued. The old part of the catalogue is little more than an author catalogue at best, and much work is needed to bring the cataloguing of the older part of the Library up to the present standard. One cannot predict how many years it will be necessary to spend in this work, but certainly a not inconsiderable number.

In figures the work accomplished during the year may thus be tabulated:

Number of books catalogued	5,905
Number of pamphlets catalogued	313
Number of books recatalogued	1,351

Number of pamphlets recatalogued	15
Number of books reclassified	148
Number of pamphlets reclassified	8
Total of items handled	7,740

Reviewing the work of the last three and one-half years, we have the following statistics:

Number of books catalogued	23,437
Number of pamphlets catalogued	758
Number of books recatalogued	3,947
Number of pamphlets recatalogued	135
Number of books reclassified	4,237
Number of pamphlets reclassified	147
	<hr/>
Total of items handled	32,661

New cards added to catalogue	47,426
New cards added to the shelf list	14,057
Number of old cards altered	11,511
	72,994

This is to say, nearly twenty-four thousand volumes, never before catalogued, have been added to the resources of the Library; some four thousand books removed from the Reading Room to the stack have been reclassified and fitted to their place according to the system used there; some four thousand books have been recatalogued; and substantial progress has been made in the work of revising and amplifying earlier cataloguing. Some forty-seven thousand cards have been added to the public card catalogue, some eleven thousand of the old cards amplified or corrected. Altogether more than seventy-two thousand cards have passed through the cataloguer's hands. The value of all this in contributing to the usefulness of the Library can hardly be overestimated. As the work progresses year by year, the possessions of the Library will be more and more readily used by Faculty and students, and more and more the richness and value of the Library will be revealed and realized.

BINDING.

Owing to a lack of funds, no binding has been done the past year. Your Librarian would express his appreciation of the generous appropriation of five hundred dollars for binding for the coming year. This sum will enable us to bring down to date the binding of periodicals currently received and to bind more of the material that has been waiting so long and that so much needs it.

FUNDS.

The Canfield, the Northam, and the Sheffield Funds still remain unproductive, though their ultimate restoration to their original amounts and their usefulness can be counted on. The income from the Pynchon Alumni Library Fund has this year been of the greatest help in meeting pressing needs. But it should not be forgotten that we are buying only the books most imperatively needed, and that the Library cannot maintain its standard of usefulness to Faculty and students without considerable additions to the Funds for the purchase of books. We are not keeping the literature of the several departments up to date, and each year the inadequacy of our resources becomes more apparent. As your Librarian has pointed out before, even at their maximum our book funds are only about one-third the amount of the funds of Wesleyan, Amherst, Williams, or Bowdoin, while our Library is not greatly inferior to these libraries in size and quality and certainly not in its needs. Additional funds, the income of which may be used for the purchase of books is the greatest need of the Library, and your Librarian would again express the hope that generous friends of the College may soon be moved to provide them.

THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

To President Luther and Professor Riggs, the resident members of the Committee on the Library, the Librarian would again express his grateful appreciation of their ever ready helpfulness whenever he has appealed to them. Your Librarian will miss greatly the unfailing interest, kindly sympathy, and wise counsel of President Luther.

CONCLUSION.

This year, as all the others since it has been the privilege of your Librarian to serve the College in that capacity, has been one of progress in the Library. The gain made in cataloguing is particularly gratifying. If only the funds for purchases were more nearly adequate, we could look toward the future more confident of being able to keep pace with the demands. Even as it is, the new Balch Fund and the income from the Pyncheon Alumni Fund, not received before this year since Doctor Hart's death, help materially, but we shall not be able to meet the proper demands of those dependent on the Library till our funds are materially increased. We can only trust that this, as other needs of the College, will be met.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ARTHUR ADAMS,

Librarian.
