Dedicated to:

MORSE

SHEPARD

ALLEN

The Goodwin Professor of English

Shortly after World War I a young assistant professor of English came to Trinity with a Wesleyan sheepskin and a Princeton Doctorate. He had already studied abroad at Oxford, acquired master's degrees from his alma mater and from Columbia, and his few years of successful teaching had shown clearly that he had chosen the right calling. Fortunately for us, he decided at this point that he should practice his profession in New England instead of the Middle West, and thus he arrived on our campus in the fall of 1920 along with the entering class of 1924.

Dr. Allen's contemporaries as Freshmen at Trinity were duly graduated four years later, but Dr. Allen has remained to see the graduation of nine generations of Trinity men, and he has finished one year of his tenth quadrennium. Exactly thirty-seven years; and it would take a book to tell what he has meant to thirty-seven classes of Trinity students.

Patient, gentle, and understanding as a teacher, yet ever firm in demanding of his students the highest standards of scholarship and achievement, Professor Allen has won the respect and affection of the Class of 1958. To take a course with him is a distinct privilege that has been granted to many of us. We recognize that we have gained through his ability to stimulate student curiosity, his sympathy with student interests, his enthusiasm for learning, his accurate sense of values, and his sincere friendliness.

The Class of 1958 is proud to dedicate this Trinity IVY to a gentleman, a scholar, and a great teacher, the Goodwin Professor of English, Morse Shepard Allen.

We hope that these words along with the rest of the Ivy will bring back your college remembrances even though time and distance may serve to take you far away.

Class History

On a fateful day of September, 1954 the 260 members of the Class of 1958 embarked upon their Trinity career with mixed emotions of confidence in their ability and apprehension of what lay ahead in the freshmen year. Quickly, they were assimilated into college tradition which led several to seriously question "Why Trinity?" But with their now broadened outlook on life and the guiding principles of a liberal arts education brought home by President Eisenhower's speech at the fall convocation, they endeavored to make their mark at the Gothic Quadrangle on the top of the ridge. Soon however, the class was caught up in the fervor of an undefeated football season and found other methods of instruction beyond the classroom. Extra-curricular activities and the lost art of conversation in the small hours gained some ground with this class. Perhaps as a result, our academic standing at the end of the semester left something to be desired in the eyes of parents and administration. During the Trinity term however, the class pulled itself up by its bootstraps because some found themselves and others found the library as a useful tool in the learning process. Fraternities became very desirable then because of an expanded social program and a more life-sustaining diet. The end of the year came all too soon, and amid the sighs of relief in the darkness due to a power failure during exam period, were heard cries of: "Wait 'til next year!"

In the second year of realizing their potential at Trinity, the sophomores of the Class of 1958 showed their diversity in having one-half of the class pledge fraternities, some not making the qualifying average, some remaining independents, and a few just not returning. One of the greatest football teams in Trinity's history surprised no one by achieving a second undefeated season as the students were carefully dividing their time between the events of the Soph Hop weekend and the 1955 Convocation, attended by such prominent persons as former Ambassador Carlos Romulo, ex-President Funston, and Judge Harold Medina. The members of the class, having now found new interests, lost some of the zeal for indoctrinating the freshmen to their new way of life. And by this eventful time, we had improved slightly in an academic sense and had channeled our way into positions of future leadership. In addition, the acquisition by many of our fellows of automobiles allowed for more and more frequent journeys to distant places, mainly the likes of Boston, Poughkeepsie, New London, and Northampton.

When the third year of their stay rolled around, the juniors of Trinity College found their great football team gone, but, nevertheless, the Bantams managed to trample Wesleyan and amass a 5 and 2 record. Another group, the soccer team, rose to prominence by winning all their games, as well as the national collegiate championship. At this time, Trinity's Program of Progress was in full swing, and as gifts poured in, so did our hopes rise for a long-awaited Student Center, replete with ballroom. And, while some of us debated majors and explained our ineptitudes in subjects in which we were not doing well, others became officers in various organizations, or deplored the lack of school spirit and the amazing number of losses the basketball team compiled. Our third year closed with the traditional Medusa tapping on the Quad, while ominous portents on the world scene left us somewhat unsure as to what direction our lives would eventually take.

Finally, our class came to the last hurdle on the way to a common goal, a Bachelor's Degree from Trinity College; it had undergone those expectations and events characteristic of a college senior's life. We supposedly knew the pitfalls and, what is more important, the values of a liberal arts education. But before graduation, which came rushing toward us with compelling swiftness, we had to bear up through an epidemic of upper respiratory ailments which swept the country, and an almost winless football season, which only the slim Wesleyan victory salvaged from utter disarray. At the same time, two provoking events shook our complacent heads: the construction of the Downes Memorial Clock Tower which obstructed the path habitually trod by many, and the jarring thought of the first man-made satellites whirring over us on their way around our continually shrinking planet, augmented by all the future implications thereof. And so, the Class of 1958, without ever receiving the traditional lemon squeezer, achieved distinction in other ways, even if obvious only to ourselves. Thoughts of graduate school, immediate employment or otherwise — all these were relative, as we of the Class of 1958 of Trinity College sought to make our lives a well-ordered reality, a concrete example of the objectives we had obtained in four years 'neath the elms.

Some Unfinished Notes For A Commencement Oration

"Plus ça change, plus c'est la même chose."

The more it changes, then, it is the same?
What matters is to know the other name
By which the summer's rose would smell as sweet,
And why two lines drawn parallel will meet
Somewhere beyond the limits we have set
On time and place? Or, though we may forget,
We ought to know, of course, that Plato knew
As much about the beautiful and true
As Scott Fitzgerald learned about the damned
And lovely lost, who had delusion crammed
Like cotton-batting in his tender head
Before he saw his friends stretched stiffly dead
In a big war? And how Blaise Pascal caught
A sense of space as vast as Einstein's thought?

It is the same, the more it changes, then?
What happened once, we say, happens again,
Again, again, again. The present passes
And past, returns, a ghost to haunt our classes,
Like that dismembered voice we sometimes hear
Echoing in the mind from year to year:
"Identify the following . . ." "Define . . ."
Or, "Answer any seven out of nine . . ."
"Compare and contrast . . ." anything at all
With any other thing. So every fall
We make our peace with time and spread the net
In which to catch the knowledge we forget,
As if we did not fish for men with words
Or only tried to take the bigger birds
We most admire: our own ingenious words.
Eclectic in our teleology.
We think we have the truth to set us free,
Truth being what it is in this hard game.
The more it changes, it is not the same.

Senate

The Senate, the governing body of Trinity College, consists of one representative from each fraternity, one from the Brownell Club, and one from the Independent group. Jack Thompson is president, Dusty McDonald is secretary, and Ken Lambert is treasurer. The Senate supervises all class and general elections and all student extracurricular activities.

This year the Senate revised its constitution and began many new procedures. Thus, many of its previous problems have been solved; and there is the expectation that more will be able to be accomplished because of these revisions.

First row: Durstan McDonald, John L. Thompson, Kenneth Lambert, Jack Litton.

Medusa

The Medusa is Trinity's senior honorary society. Each spring seven juniors are chosen to this group by the senior members of the society in the tapping ceremony on the quad in front of Northam. The Medusa has the responsibility of upholding the College traditions and of maintaining discipline among some of the more high-spirited members of the student body.

First row: John L. Thompson, Manown Kisor.
Second row: Franklin Kury, Arthur Polstein, George Bogert, Robert Back.
Absent: Harold Drinkaus.

To the Staff of the 1958 Trinity Ivy:

The pages of this book contain the work, thoughts, and creation of all of you. I hope the chore has benefited you as I am sure it has benefited me. This has been a real opportunity to see what goes into the make-up of a college such as Trinity.

All the complexities of putting together an annual are realized by few people. To me, it is comparable to the running of a small business with a marked differentiation of administrative departments. The Ivy owes its success to all the people who donated their time and energy. Even though the list of actual staff members may be small, the donations of many people were necessary for its conception.

I hope also that the experience has been a pleasant one and that those of you who are not graduating, next year will take an interest in future annuals—your experience and knowledge will be sorely needed.

The old saying "There's always room for one more" certainly holds true for an organization such as ours. Arousing interest and seeking talent should be the responsibility of all of you. There will be a great many positions open and many more available for interested people.

Gentlemen, I give you my sincere thanks and appreciation for all that you have done for the Ivy.

JERRY K. MUIR, '59
Editor-in-Chief

First row: John Drago, James Hawe, William Schacht, Charles Blumstein, Jerry Muir, Dean Uphoff, Michael Schacht, Grosvenor Richardson.

Trinity Review

The Review, the College literary magazine, edited by Rem Rose and Rolfe Lawson, attempts to raise the cultural standards and literary taste of the Trinity students. Each of this year's three Reviews contained an article by a member of the faculty; one of the issues was devoted to the "Trinity Review Lecture," an annual lecture sponsored by The Review.

The Review has an enviable reputation among eastern colleges as being one of the finest publications of its type. The issue on the "Trinity Review Lecture" promises to be a collectors' item among students of contemporary American literature.

First row: Remington Rose, Rolfe Lawson.
Second row: Clymer Long, William Schacht, Michael Schacht.

Glee Club

First row: Don Seastrom, Eugene Lindemann, David Belmont, Fred Mauck, Dr. Clarence Barber, James Flannery, Bankson Riter, David Moore, Vincent Onslow, Craig Ford.

Second row: Peter Reinthaler, Michael Washington, Philip Carter, William Cressey, Martin Dagata, Harvey Lerman, C. Terry Johnson, Carter Horsley, Rowland Ricketts, Herbert Draesel, Douglas Fitzsimmons, John Peters, Edward Seibert, Allen Cowley.

Third row: Bruce Headle, Charles Middleton, Laurence Muench, Edward Wiener, Thomas Swift, John Romig, Peter Kreisel, Peter Itsou, William McNulty, Chad Hughes, John Swift, W. Howard

Mayo, George Mackey, Robert Rodney.

Fourth row: Marco Psarakis, Peter Knight, David Smith, Wesley Morris, Peter Wachtel, David Garre, James Harrod, Theodore Gregory, Mark Lyndrup, Charles Hawes, Frank Morse, Arnebert Englehart, Bruce Coleman, William Hunter, Lamont Thomas, Eugene Refalvy.

Fifth row: Robert Reay, Clark Phippen, Frank Gleason, William Evenson, Neboysha Brashich, Peter Postma, Albert Mayer, William Hankins, Stuart Coxhead, John Joseph, Dale Peatman, Ridgway Satterthwaite, Richard Stroud.

The Glee Club this year, under the direction of Dr. Clarence H. Barber, a noted musicologist, had an active membership of over seventy-five men, almost half of them enthusiastic freshmen.

The choristers started their season early by appearing at the Parents' Day program in October as a co-attraction with the Jesters. A church concert in Whitinsville, Massachusetts, followed a month later. The high point of the club's activity during the Christmas term was a joint concert with the Vassar College Glee Club at Poughkeepsie in celebration of their glee club's 75th anniversary. Randall Thompson's The Peaceable Kingdom was presented by the combined clubs as well as individual selections by both groups. The social hour after the concert with birthday cake, punch, and mobs of Vassarites made the hours of rehearsal well worthwhile.

Concerts with women's colleges are always popular with the Glee Club men, and there were enough to keep the singers busy during the remainder of the year. The Club presented combined concerts with the Pembroke Glee Club on the Trinity campus in February, two concerts with the Connecticut College Glee Club, both here and in New London featuring the Fauré Requiem as the main work, and finally Vaughn William's Dona Nobis Pacem with the Wellesley College Choir on that fair campus in the spring.

In addition to the joint concerts, the Club had its customary spring tour during spring vacation, making stops in New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia, Washington, and Richmond. The concluding program of the year was, as in the past, an informal concert with the band in Funston Court.

Officers of the Glee Club this year included James Flannery, president; Fred Mauck, manager; Bankson Riter, vice-president; Dean Uphoff, secretary; and Eugene Lindemann, treasurer. Faithful accompanist David Belmont was assisted by James Harrod and Dean Uphoff.

Chanticleers

Edward Wiener, Allen Cowley, Eugene Refalvy, Bruce Coleman, Albert Mayer, Mark Lyndrup, Douglas Fitzsimmons, William Cressey, Philip Carter.

The Chanticleers are a freshman octet organized under the auspices of the Glee Club and are directed by senior Rolfe Lawson. The group appears as one of the attractions at secular concerts by the Glee Club and is invaluable for post-concert entertainment with women's colleges. The Chanticleers have entertained at a number of parties and dances during the year. They also sang at the Annual Charity and Dinner Ball of the Pestalozzi Foundation in the Sert Room of the Waldorf-Astoria in February.

First row: Mark Healy, Reed Brown, Marryn Perry, Robert Perce, Rolfe Lawson, David Hardman, Remington Rose, Howard Mayo, Mr. George Nichols.
Second row: Tristram Colket, Warren Haynie, John Schulik, Michael Robbins, Robert Wilcox, Richard P. Hall, Stanley Lipson, Del Shilkret, Lawrence Bouldin, Charles Shaeffer, Stephen Leiser.
Third row: Fred Mauck, Joseph Albano, John Swope, James Brown, Robert Hopkins, Frederic Berglass, Lee Kalcheim, Lawrence Steiner.

Jesters

Successfully emulating their forerunners of the past, the Jesters got off to a flying start with their production of Anouilh's play, Thieves' Carnival. Well acted and presented, it was received with enthusiasm by the student body.

At the very successful "Parents Day," they presented If Men Played Cards As Women Do for the benefit of parents and guests whose generous applause proved the players' reward.

In the Spring, aspiring to Shakespearean height, they plan to produce Hamlet which will not only be presented to the student body but also to outside groups.

The success of this year's Jesters, as well as those of former years, is still greater when one realizes the handicap under which they rehearse. The barn-like atmosphere of Alumni Hall is certainly not conducive to bringing out the humor of comedy nor the oratorical greatness of Hamlet. The excellent direction of Mr. Nichols and the willingness and ability of the student actors apparently overshadow the lack of proper facilities of the theater.

Sophomore Dining Club

The Sophomore Dining Club, in one of Trinity's finest honorary traditions, is official host for the College. Founded in 1857, it has been for the past one hundred years the spark and sponsor of all organized rallies for the campus.

As hosts to all visitors, members of this honorary society play an important part in the public relations of the College and, thus, it is an especial credit to the personality of the man chosen in his sophomore year to join its ranks.

Few people realize the importance of this organization, as it operates without benefit of publicity and financial support. This society operates information centers at home athletic events, conducts tours, acts as ushers at meetings, and is responsible for the comfort of visiting sport teams as well as any other visitor.

First row: Neboysa Brashich, Grosvenor Richardson, Stephen Kellogg, Jon Widing, William Johnson, Michael Wallace, Robert E. Scharf, William Ward

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council, led by Bill Kilty as president, Mike Wallace as vice-president, and Pete Ferrucci as secretary-treasurer, consists of one delegate from each fraternity on campus. Having the ultimate goal of serving the fraternities, the College, and the community, the I.F.C.'s immediate functions are governing the rushing procedures, encouraging harmonious inter-fraternity relations, and promoting the welfare of the fraternity system within the College.

The I.F.C. sponsors many annual social events, the highlight being the I.F.C. weekend. During this gay weekend, there is a formal dance and a stunt night. Last year an extremely successful Heart Fund drive and a Muscular Dystrophy drive were conducted, and the money raised from the Soap Box Derby was given to help underprivileged children. The I.F.C., the backbone of the fraternity system at Trinity, thus helps greatly in creating an admirable college community.

Second row: Frederic Berglass, Benjamin Williams, John McGowan, Bruce Gladfelter, Harold Drinkaus, Michael Zoob.

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges

Each year at Trinity, as at other leading American colleges and universities, a faculty committee chooses the outstanding members of the senior class to represent the College in the publication Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. A biography of each of the persons chosen is published in this book. The eighteen Trinity seniors elected to this honor were selected on the basis of their character, leadership, athletic ability, and extracurricular activities. Those not pictured are: Robert Back, George Baxter, Frank Kury, Peter Lowenstein, Roy McIlwaine, Richard Noble, Arthur Polstein, Clifford Terry, and Fred Werner.

First row: John Thompson, Durstan McDonald, Gary Bogli, Hubbard Segur.
Second row: Remington Rose, Manown Kisor, George Bogert, Rolfe Lawson,

Junior Advisors

The program of Junior Advisors, conceived four years ago, was designed to make the adjustment to college easier for the incoming Freshmen. Junior Advisors are a group of juniors chosen by Dean Clarke and certain faculty members to live with the Freshmen in the Freshman Dormitories and to help them become acquainted with Trinity. This position is one of great honor and is based on the character, integrity, intelligence, and general likeability of the man. During the year, the Junior Advisors are continually called upon to help the Freshmen with their problems. Even when there is not a specific problem, the Freshmen and the Advisors spend many hours just discussing the different aspects of college life. The program is especially valuable in that it helps to prepare the Freshman for his next three years at Trinity.

First row: Donald Seastrom, Frank Fineschriber, Curtis Case, Robert E. Scharf, Herbert Moorin, Fred Mauck, Phillip Jacklin, Robert Olton, Brendan Shea.

Phi Beta Kappa

Phi Beta Kappa, one of the more hallowed honor societies, has been 'neath the elms since 1845. Men are elected to this group on the basis of grades at the end of either six or seven semesters of work.

In honor of the Christmas term initiates, the Moore Greek Lecture is presented for the edification of the whole College. This year Dr. Bernard M. W. Knox of Yale spoke on "Time and Change: The Ajax of Sophocles." In the spring the Phi Beta Kappa Lecture is given in recognition of those who have attained the highest academic honor conferred upon undergraduates.

First row: Charles Blumstein, Remington Rose.
Second row: Borden Painter, Robert Back, David A. Smith.

Borden Painter, Durstan McDonald, Robert Back, Lawrence Bouldin.

Pi Gamma Mu

Pi Gamma Mu is a national social science honor fraternity. Elections to membership in it are held once each year to admit both juniors and seniors who have met the qualifications of an 87% average in the social sciences with diversification. The Trinity Chapter, Connecticut Alpha, was chartered in 1936.

Philosophy Club

The Philosophy Club holds monthly meetings to discuss contemporary philosophical problems. Guest speakers are featured occasionally, while at other times faculty or student papers are read and discussed. The club acted as host for the autumn meeting of the Connecticut Valley Philosophical Association, which was attended by students and faculty from Connecticut College for Women, Wesleyan, and the University of Connecticut. In co-operation with the Lecture Committee the club presented Professor Errol E. Harris of Connecticut College, who spoke on "Teleology and Teleological Explanation." The lecture was an occasion for recognition of Dr. Blanchard W. Means, chairman of the Department of Philosophy, on his twenty-fifth year as a member of the faculty.

First row: Lawrence Bouldin, Phillip Jacklin.
Second row: Frederic Berglass, Durstan McDonald, Philip Crowe, Martyn Perry.

Psi Chi

The newest honor society on campus is Psi Chi for those students who have attained distinction in their work in the Department of Psychology. The group, an outgrowth of the active Psychology Club, was formed in October, when the members announced their intention to petition the national society to establish a local chapter at Trinity. Dr. Robert Meade is the group's faculty advisor.

First row: Charles Blumstein, Thomas Barrett.

Chapel Cabinet

The Chapel Cabinet is an inter-faith council which is composed of representatives of the four religious clubs aiding the Chaplain in matters of concern to the entire campus. It is the uniting body for the religious clubs. During the year as part of the "Embassy Plan" of the cabinet, several clergymen visit the campus and address student groups. Members of the cabinet are responsible for planning the program for Brotherhood Week. Committees have been formed to look into such matters as the Chapel credit system.

First row: Chaplain Thomas, Wayne Hazzard, Philip Corn, Remington Rose, James O'Reilly.
Second row: Paul Mills, George Baxter, John Norris.
Third row: Michael Lieber, Charles Hawes, Michael Wallace.

The Canterbury Club

The purpose of the Canterbury Club of Trinity College is to serve as a mission of Christianity in higher education and to forward the work of the Episcopal Church on this campus. In studying the various parts of the Church, members of the classes study different phases. Seniors study missionary work, Juniors learn about the Book of Common Prayer, Sophomores discuss the worship of the Church, and Freshmen learn the basis of their faith as taught in the creeds. During the year members of all four classes met for such events as the Fall Dinner Meeting at which Mr. Walter "Red" Barber spoke. Other activities of the club include sale of Christmas cards and participation in discussions and conferences with other groups from the New England area.

UPPERCLASSMEN

FRESHMEN

First row: Charles Shaeffer, Frederick Pringle, Edward Vallone, Robert Reay, Bradford Ketchum, Thomas Reese, Victor Refalvy, Thomas Olin, Arthur Wiley.

Carilloneurs

This rather select group remains a traditional and, at the same time, anonymous body of students whose function it is to announce the chapel services by tolling the 30-bell Plumb Memorial Carillon. Either through apprehension of the consequences or a certain arrogance in their exalted position or both, these students remain tight-lipped about their talents, but never fail to make their musical presence known to the surrounding area. Although some may deplore their cacophony at certain hours, who is to say that the emotional yearnings of the carilloneurs as expressed in their playing would not be missed if these energetic souls were forbidden to tread upon that spiral stair? At any rate, a carillon adds immeasurable distinction to a small, liberal arts college in a metropolitan area.

James Hawe, Dean Uphoff, Robert Olton, Rolfe Lawson, Arthur Perrow.

The Hillel Society

The Hillel Society was founded in 1947 for the Jewish students at Trinity. The society provides cultural, religious and social programs of interest to its members. Guest speakers are invited to visit the Hillel meetings and discussions are held. All of this helps the Jewish students to have a deeper understanding of the meaning of their faith. The Hillel Society is sponsored by B'nai B'rith of Hartford, and Rabbi William Cohen is the advisor.

First row: Stanley Lipson, Richard Rader, Dr. Stanley Zimmering, Jack Litton, Philip Corn, Leonard Baskin, Bruce Stone, Edward Waxler.

The Newman Club

The Newman Club is an organization for Roman Catholic students on the Trinity Campus. The club program includes religious and intellectual discussions and social events for its members. Discussion helps the member to understand the faith and to deepen his knowledge of the Roman Catholic heritage. The club's yearly activities also include a retreat to the Holy Name Monastery in Farmington. Father Robert L. Callahan of St. Thomas Seminary is the Club advisor.

Senior Lay Readers

The Senior Lay Readers are a group of students chosen by the Chaplain to encourage greater student interest and participation in the Chapel services. Each fraternity is represented, as are the independents. The Lay Readers conduct the Saturday morning services, leading the reading of the office of Matins.

First row: Bruce Headle, Lawrence Muench, Durstan McDonald, Douglas Coleman, Carl Peterson, Robert Kaufhold.

The Protestant Fellowship

The purpose of the Protestant Fellowship is to give members of the various denominations a good chance to discuss their beliefs and to integrate them with life on the campus. During the year members of the faculty and local religious leaders address the group and help the members to understand Christianity. The club's program includes lectures, discussions, and social events, which are designed to be of interest to all. By studying them closely, members hope to broaden their ideas and increase the scope of their religious life.

Spanish Club

For every meeting, the Spanish Club has a speaker native to a Latin American country who discusses various subjects on his country. Following the speech there is a question and answer period.

The highlights of the club include a full-length Spanish film, which is open to everyone, and a play done in Spanish by members of the club.

The club provides members with a chance to come in contact with the Spanish language, culture, and literature.

First row: Luis Rincón, William Saunders, Mr. Andrew Debicki, Timothy Baum.
Second row: Martyn Perry, John Swanberg, Edward Vallone, Theodore Franz, Bruce Gladfelter.

First row: Borden Painter, Stephen Kellogg, Michael Wallace, Lawrence Bouldin, Remington Rose.

The Campus Chest

The Campus Chest drive is the only charity drive held on the campus. Four organizations receive portions of the money raised. They are: the World University Service, which is an international organization; the National Scholarship Fund for Negro Students, which helps students on a national scale; the Trinity Foreign Students Fund, which makes it possible for men from other countries to study at Trinity; and the Hartford Association for Retarded Children.

This year the Chest goal was $9,000.05. In order to raise this money an intense campaign was held December 9-12. The grand finale of the campaign was Thursday evening's activities which included the faculty wives' cake sale, a variety show, and the finals of the "Ugly Man" contest.

Art League

The purpose of the Art League as written in its charter is "to offer to the undergraduates of Trinity College a means of communication and expression in Fine Arts."

This purpose has been fulfilled and surpassed in the past year. The organization has sponsored the talented works of several undergraduates, lectures from visiting critics and specialists, and enlightening discussions concerning Fine Arts, as well as various expeditions to museums and exhibitions.

For any student desiring a liberal education, the Art League offers ample variety in relation with professional fields as advertising, architecture, and design. There is even room for the public relations man, since one of the main objectives of the League is promotion of itself and Trinity among its neighbors and other colleges.

First row: Chandler Bigelow, William Schacht, Michael Schacht, Edward Milholland.

WRTC

WRTC, Trinity's radio station, resumed operations during the middle of November. It had been off the air for more than a year due to action of the FCC.

The station broadcasts on the FM band, presenting to the campus and the people of Hartford programs including music, lectures, and debates. The campus disk jockeys plan the music shows, which run from jazz to the classics. Education-wise, the station plans concerts, debates, and a number of lectures by the faculty members of the College. The facilities of the station are being offered to the public service organizations of Hartford.

The station started out this year with an eight hour day, but has worked back to its original eighteen hour schedule. An AM system for the campus will go into effect second semester.

Third row: David O'Brien, John Schulik, John Swanberg, Charles Marcy, Philip Corn, Peter Strasser, James Haynes, Myron Zitt, Vincent Onslow, John Wilcox, Joseph Cole, Stephen Lazarus.

French Club

The French Club is open to all students who are interested in the French language and in the country as a whole. The club, like all language clubs, stimulates interest in the French language and culture.

The club presented a film entitled Les Amants de Verone. This film was open to the whole college campus.

In addition to the many speakers planned for future club meetings, there will be more films.

First row: Henry Bromley, Dr. Louis Naylor.

Psychology Club

Organized in the fall of 1955 through the joint efforts of the faculty of the Psychology Department and interested students, the Psychology Club fulfills its constitutionally-expressed purpose of creating and stimulating interest in the study of this science. At present, the Club boasts about thirty-five members; the faculty advisor is Dr. Andrew Souerwine.

This year the Psychology Club centered most of its activities around a two-semester series of lectures presented by outstanding psychologists presently engaged in applying psychology to various fields of social endeavor. Six speakers covered topics ranging from "Psychology in Industry" to "Psychology in Religion." These men introduced their listeners to highlights and sidelights of their respective career fields in order to give the students an understanding of the role of Psychology outside the classroom and laboratory.

The Psychology Club also undertook to sponsor the installation of a Trinity Chapter of Psi Chi, a national honor society in psychology, for which six upper-classmen qualified this year.

First row: Frederic Berglass, Philip Corn, Thomas Barrett, Mark Berkley, Flexer Illick, William Warder.

Education Club

In order to make the students aware of the importance of education as a profession, the Education Club has mainly directed its efforts this year to planning and conducting panel discussions on such topics as "Education as a Career."

Ward Edgerton, president, Clements Crowe, vice-president, and Professor Juan Estarellas, faculty advisor, led the organization in its efforts to convince undergraduates that every person who will have a part in society will have an interest in education. The discussions, which were open to all, supplemented the regular education curriculum and were conducted both by educators and by representatives from other related fields.

First row: David Leof, David Rovno, Franklin Kury, Robert Back, Herbert Moorin.

Second row: Jere Bacharach, Gerald Dreler, Gilbert Mackin, Irving LaValle, Paul Rohlfling, Paul Mills, Philip Hughes, Leon Shaw.

Atheneum Society

One of the most dynamic organizations on the Trinity campus, the Atheneum Society, has continued its old traditions by debating serious and interesting topics. "That membership in a labor organization as a requirement of employment should be illegal" was debated by the society in intercollegiate debates with Amherst, Wesleyan and other colleges. The club held its second annual home tournament on the campus, and participated in other tournaments with Albertus Magnus College, American International College, the University of Vermont, and the University of Pittsburgh. A new set of debate topics called "The Age of Danger Series" was inaugurated, considering subjects such as nuclear armament and the United Nations. This series was debated before ten civic and ladies' groups.

Throughout the year the society held continuous practice sessions and had outside authorities discuss the intercollegiate topic. This supplemented much hard research work by the debators and the prodigious efforts of President Franklin Kury.

Bagpipers

The Trinity College Pipes and Drums is a new and independent organization on campus, having been started in the Trinity Term of 1957. During the spring the ground work was laid for its forthcoming public appearances. Students were recruited, outfits and instruments ordered, and systematic practice began. At the beginning of summer, the group included about six pipers and drummers.

During the early part of Christmas Term, 1957, a number of incoming freshmen were enrolled. At Thanksgiving, it was certain that by early spring, a fully equipped and outfitted band of at least eight pipers and three drummers would be able to perform publicly at College functions.

Individual members of the organization have performed at several colleges during the past few months. John Toye appeared on WTIC Television in Hartford during November. Late in September, the band played at Smith College and other similar engagements are being planned.

First row: Charles Weeks, Mr. Henry Hood, Michael Canady, Frank Jago.

Sigma Pi Sigma

Sigma Pi Sigma is an honor society for those who have achieved distinction in their courses in physics. The group has presented several lectures on topics of interest to both physics students and the general student body in this age of Sputnik. Movies and field trips also help to give these men a greater awareness of contemporary problems and developments in the world of physics.

Engineering Society

The Engineering Society is a vocational interest organization set up for the engineering student to acquaint him with a variety of practical aspects of engineering. The Society sponsors guest speakers, trips to industrial plants, movies, and discussions. The highlight of the year is the award to the outstanding member of the year at the annual banquet.

First row: Philip Newman, Philip Lovell, Jerry Barth, Harold Weil, John Wischenbart, Donald Galati.

Corinthian Yacht Club

As a member of the New England Inter-Collegiate Sailing Association, the Corinthian Yacht Club of Trinity College has become very active on the water. The club is formed so that those who are interested in the sport of sailing may learn and practice it to proficiency. As well as sponsoring movies of various races such as the last year's America's Race, the club assists in meets held at various universities.

Due to the fact that Trinity is not located on the water, the club is handicapped in its efforts. Despite this, however, it is a contender for the MacMillan Cup of the Chesapeake Bay for intercollegiate racing.

In the future it is the hope of the club to own its own fleet. At present there are arrangements in the wind about the leasing of a body of water not very far from Trinity.

First row: Daniel Kenefick, Peter Anderson, Bruce Rockwell, Richard Pickering.

Second row: George Strawbridge, Erik Dunlaevy, Morris Lloyd, Richard G. Hall, Carrington Clark, Benjamin Williams, Howe LaGarde, Charles Mackall.

Third row: I. Jackson Angell, John Flynn, Tristram Colkret, Chadwick Hughes, George Raynor, George Wyckoff, Thomas Grubbs, Murray Morse, Morgan Palmer, William Huffer.

Fourth row: Stephen Perkins, Herbert Hall, Arthur Gregg, Guy Dove, David Fitz-Simons, Curtis Scribner, Roland Bergh, Frederick Gignoux, Robert Spitzmiller.

Cheerleaders

The Cheerleaders, with the help of regular uniforms and the traditional Trinity songs, did a good job of pepping up the Blue and Gold stands this year. The group organized several pep rallies during the football season, the largest and most successful one of which was the traditional torch parade through Hartford climaxing with the pep rally on the capitol grounds.

With the help of the Trinity Band, the cheerleaders kept the spectators cheering, using at times the old well-known Trinity cheers. At this year's Trinity-Wesleyan game, one of the most exciting in history, the cheerleaders, with their unending spirit, put a great deal of enthusiasm into the crowd and into the team.

Bottom: Frank Ganak, Shep Scheinberg, Frank Thorpe.

Middle: Jim Studley, Albie Smith, Joe Biddle.

Top: Dick Krim.

Marching Band

One of the newest arrivals and already one of the best-liked groups on campus is the Marching Band. After several previous attempts at formation, this group really demonstrated how much can be accomplished in a short time, given the incentive to play and a spirited audience to listen to it. They quickly graduated to a remarkably precision-like group which Trinity was proud to have perform under its banner during the football season. The band may not have added to the success of the football season, but it did make the games more enjoyable.

First row: Frederick Hewitt, Charles Weeks, Mr. Willard Green, David A. Smith, Frank Jago.

Second row: Wayne Hazzard, Nicholas Pompei, Lee Kalcheim, Peter Smith, John Stambaugh, Richard Jaffe, Thomas Burdin, Daniel Thurman, Burton Tiffany.

Freshman Executive Council

Acting as the administrative body for the class of 1961, the Freshman Executive Council's seventeen members devoted themselves this year mainly to providing the class with a variety of social activities. A mixer with Oxford and Chaffee schools, a party with Connecticut College for Women, which was postponed because of the Asian Flu epidemic, and a Frosh smoker and dance on homecoming weekend were the main projects planned.

Ken Cromwell, president, and Dean Clarke, administrative advisor, headed the council in its attempts to boost class and school spirit among the Freshmen. The council also organized frosh cheering sections for football games, acted as host to faculty members visiting Hamlin Dining Hall, and worked for better dormitory living conditions. The members are chosen by the Admissions Department on the basis of previous leadership ability.

First row: Paul Devendittis, William Sullivan, John Stambaugh.

Young Democrats

After several years in hiding, the campus Democrats appeared in full force this year, holding meetings with other schools, distributing literature, and generally making themselves known. To fulfill its goal to improve government through the Democratic Party, prepare future party leaders, and help current nominees, the Young Democrats this year heard prominent local and national party leaders speak. They held mixers with similar groups and in the fall helped with Mr. James Kinsella's successful campaign for mayor of Hartford.

President Mike Borus and his crew kept the student body informed of the advantages of the Democratic Party by stocking mail-boxes with literature. This year the Trinity group was host to the Connecticut Young Democrats and was represented at the New England Inter-collegiate convention.

First row: Peter Reinthaler, Irwin Goldenberg, Michael Borus, Leonard Baskin, James Brown.

Political Science Club

The Political Science Club, with Carl Shuster as president, attempts to stimulate political awareness and activity on the Trinity campus by conducting lectures by noted authorities and by having club discussions.

The Club's goal was further reached by its attendance at the Annual Intercollegiate Student Legislature held at the State Capitol, for it was there that the members got a true inside picture of the workings of politics. With Franklin Kury as state chairman, the group conducted the legislative branch of the state government during the three days of the meeting.

The club introduced the Citizenship Clearing House this year, through which politicians have come to Trinity and have held open discussions with the students on current political affairs.

First row: Owen Smith, Shepard Scheinberg, Carl Shuster, George Kroh, Franklin Kury.

Circolo Italiano

The Cesare Barbieri Italian Club has had as guest speakers two faculty members, Dr. Campo and Dr. Naylor, and Mr. Robert Smith, who is from WTIC. Dr. Campo gave a lecture illustrated with slides of his trip abroad. Mr. Smith gave an opera preview of Andrea Chenier.

The club has sponsored an art exhibit on the paintings and drawings of Pietro Annigoni, who painted the portraits of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Mr. Annigoni visited Trinity during the exhibition.

The club is also planning a joint meeting with the Italian Club of Mount Holyoke College which will be a Venetian evening. The program will include music, paintings, and films of Venice in addition to a talk by a Venetian girl.

First row: Robert Larsen, William Saunders, Neil Larkin.

IRC

The International Relations Club had an active year on the Trinity campus helping to provide the student body with a greater awareness and understanding of other peoples, other lands, and their problems. In September the IRC held a reception to introduce the Hungarian student attending Trinity on a special scholarship to the faculty and students. Since then the club has held a number of lectures, discussions, and meetings, attended various inter-college conferences, and has established a bulletin board in lower Seabury devoted to interesting developments and student opportunities in the international field.

Of the many interesting meetings held throughout the year, one of the highlights was the visit of Kamal Mansour, a twenty-six year old Israeli and the son of a Druze sheik, who charmed a group assembled in the Library Conference room with his talk on the Druze civilization and non-Jewish minorities in Israel.

First row: Ridgway Satherthwaite, Laurence Freedman, Bruce Stone, Peter Lowenstein, George Enepekedes, Raymond Enstam.
Second row: David Rovno, Steven Siskind, Myron Zitt, Fred Mauck, Howard Mayo, Robert Mosko, Allen Schneider, Stephen Lazarus.

Young Republicans

The Trinity College Young Republican Club is one of 450 such college groups throughout the nation dedicated to the principles of the GOP. The club's activities include sponsoring social events with other groups, participation in the elections, and bringing visiting lecturers to the campus.

This has been an off year politically, but last year the club was very active in the Presidential campaign and in the election of Connecticut Congressman May. In the coming election in November, the group again expects to be active in the campaign.

All of the Connecticut collegiate young Republican clubs have banded together to form a state organization. Owen Smith, secretary of the Trinity group, holds the office of Chairman of the state organization. Shepard Scheinberg, president of the local club, is a delegate-at-large to the executive council of this group.

First row: Laurence Ward, Shepard Scheinberg, James Crystal.
Second row: Bruce Headle, Harry Jackson, Barry Elliott, John Hunter, Craig Broberg, Roger Dickey.

Sports Car Club

Trinity Sports Car Club has been one of the campus extra-curricular activities since 1955. Members of the club participate in rallies and see films throughout the year with various aspects of sports. The rallies in which the contestants drive a predetermined route in a test of skill, not speed. Last year Harry and Donald Pillsbury won the Silver and Navigator plaques presented by a local automobile firm for driving the greatest number of miles during the year. This year the club is steadily increasing in membership and continues to arouse more interest in sports cars, further mechanical knowledge of them, and make members more aware of the need and technique of safe driving.

First row: Harry Jackson, Neil Larkin, Gustave Heckscher, Donald Anderson.

Chemistry Club

The members of the Chemistry Club this year have gained a new and interesting insight into work in chemistry. Such an increased appreciation of this science was largely due to the highly instructive meetings at which members of the departmental faculty and graduate students reported on recent research they had performed here. At one meeting Dr. Bobko spoke on the problems of chemical research and also presented the theoretical background for a research problem undertaken by some of the organic chemistry students last year. The work of the group was summarized, the problems they faced were pointed out, and the results they obtained were discussed.

At other meetings Dr. Smellie informed the group of a problem in physical chemistry on which he has worked recently, and a visiting professor from Yale gave a talk on a subject of current interest.

Tripod

The staff of the Tripod this past year might well have been called Trinity's "Angry Young Men," but the editors managed to channel their discontent into constructive corrals of criticism. Stressing less damning invective and more probing toward possible solutions, the "voice of the undergraduate body" seemed determined to prevent the College from going the way of all mid-twentieth century collegiate apathetic flesh, thus transcending the rubber-stamp, bulletin-board school of so many ivied weeklies.

The Tripod focused its lenses on the question of education at Trinity and what it lacks. The paper organized Freshman Evaluation sessions every Thursday night for two months, in order to give the too often forgotten first-year men a chance to expound on the scintillating surprises and depressing disillusionations of college life; the findings were later published in the paper. The results of a survey undertaken by one of Dr. Herdman's educational psychology classes were also printed — a report which laid bare many of both the strong and weak points in Trinity's curriculum.

First row: Fred Foy, Nathaniel Hathaway, Fred Werner, Clifford Terry, Everett Elting, Hubbard Segur.

Second row: Neil Newberg, John Henry, Conrad Gage, Edward Brink, Sanford Bredine, George Wyckoff, Edward Waggoner, Laurence Muench, Lawrence Bouldin.

Third row: Aaron Fleischman, Allen Goldhamer, David A. Smith, Philip Simshauser, Richard Bowden, James Crystal, John Stambaugh.

The Tripod's editorial comments were often directed toward the fraternity system as a whole. The paper defended one Greek letter society's defiance of its national with these words: "Twice in recent weeks the Tripod has taken the stand that local fraternity chapters should have the privilege and right to choose their members independent of outside pressure. . . . Our remarks have not been made for the cheaply journalistic purpose of stirring up controversy where none had previously existed, but because we have felt that this view, in addition to representing that of many thinking students, is in the best interests of both fraternity men and prospective pledges."

Editor-in-Chief Werner and Executive Board members Terry, Elting, Segur, and Hathaway praised the Senate for putting an end to the Tuesday night "Batman Brigade" in the Chemistry Auditorium. Their opinion was: "The liberal arts college must be a citadel of defense for intellectual activity. That so many students want movies suggests that maybe the walls are crumbling." They breathed a sigh of relief when the I.F.C. finally revised its rushing rules which were "as out-moded as the one-hoss shay." The Executive Board also had a long discussion with Ray Farabee, president of the National Student Association, when he visited the campus and discovered that Trinity's problems were not unique.

The sports pages of the Tripod took on added interest with the debut of editor Segur's column, especially the one concerned with the controversial "Predictions for the Coming Year."

Perhaps the most lively and furthest expanding department of the paper was the features section, highlighted by a succession of well-written articles. Mike Rewa contributed an excellent review of Wallace Stevens' Opus Post-Humous (with an introduction by Trinity's Dr. Morse) and came back with another well-executed offering, "The Need for Excellence." Charles Blumstein carried on as the Tripod's answer to T. H. Parker, as he reviewed The West Side Story as well as performances by the Glee Club and Jesters. Carl Shuster penned a series of articles about his USNSA-sponsored trip to Poland and added an essay on "Anti-Intellectualism." Away from the editorial page, Fred Werner traced the evolution of the Trinity presidency from the Rev. Ogilby to Dr. Jacobs.

Jim Flannery touched off an amusing battle with his "Visit to the Temple of Sideburn" — the State Theatre — in which the senior music critic labelled rock 'n roll as "songs amounting to what appears to be little better than organized noises." Howard Orenstein, defending his younger brother's and his own right to enjoy this kind of music, retorted with "Anyone who came away from Mr. Flannery's article without thinking might be led to the conviction that through guilt by association, my brother was a shrieking, greasy, gross, disgusting animal."

However, the highlight in the paper's activity came when one of its own staff members — Mac Costley — broke into national journalistic prominence with his "Girls and Me" advice to the love-lorn column in Seventeen magazine. Said the Tripod simply, "Dorothy Dix, move over!"

The Class of 1958 is unique in that it is only the third one in the history of the College never to have witnessed, during its undergraduate days, a varsity football loss at the hands of the Wesleyan Cardinals. The seniors returned in the fall of 1957 expecting at least a .500 season. There was no basis for any optimism concerning a third perfect season in four years nor any for a dire prediction of things to come. Twelve lettermen were returning from the fairly good team which won five and lost two the previous year. Even the absence of backfieldman Jack Thompson on doctor's advice and the unfortunate injury to quarterback Reopel failed to significantly dim the team's own optimistic feeling toward the fast-approaching season. Roger LeClerc, the versatile combination of back and lineman, Ed Speno, a fine-running left half, and Peter Corbett, a lineman with experience were all returning to the squad. Coach Dan Jessee was not at all displeased with the contributions made by the Class of 1960, either. Bob Johnson, Tom Wykoff, and Bill deColigny all seemed to add coals to the boiler of the victory express.

Unfortunately, like the first runs of the New Haven's Dan'l Webster, this train never went very far or fast and was derailed too often. The talent bag was early emptied by injuries to key personnel. The conversion of men from one position to another worked as well as could be expected, but this process was never noted for its outstanding success, except when employed by Casey Stengel or Earl Blaik. The team solidarity, unity, and coordination showed inevitable signs of disintegration, especially in the second half of such games as Williams, Tufts, and Amherst, after playing a most spirited and well-fought first half. The three-week layoff and cancellation of the Colby game because of Asian Flu did nothing to improve the caliber of the play. This, in addition to the miserable circumstances of the game itself, more than accounted for our humiliation against Coast Guard on the quagmire overlooking the Thames River.

The true ability of the team cannot be garnered from its overall record. It is a record for which circumstances may be blamed. The injuries, sickness, and lack of depth are all the result of Dame Fortune who was smiling so benevolently on us two and three years ago. For standing up in the middle of all this misfortune, kudos must certainly be awarded to those mentioned previously plus work-horse Bill Lorson and captain Dick Noble who carried the colors of '58 on the field. Next year it is to be hoped that the team, under Coach Jessee and co-captains elect John Kenny and Curt Brown, can raise itself up by the bootstraps and reaffirm the proud name of Trinity in the gridiron wars.

TRINITY 14 TUFTS 26

The Tufts football team came to Trinity with a reputation as fine as that of any small college in New England. Dick Noble registered the first touchdown for Trinity early in the second quarter at the end of a fifteen-yard sprint. Tufts, however, came around to score two touchdowns and gain the half-time lead, thirteen to seven. In the third quarter runs of forty-six and nineteen yards by Noble set up Trinity's second score. In the closing quarter Tufts proved too strong for the home team and added its final score.

Bill deColigny was named to the All East team of the week for his exceptional line play, while captain Noble averaged nearly eight yards per carry.

TRINITY 6 WILLIAMS 25

Weston Field in Williamstown, Massachusetts, was the scene of the first Trinity game of the season. At opening kickoff, quarterback Reopel was sitting on the bench, and halfback John Kenney was converted into a last-minute signal caller. Behind by six points in the closing moments of the first half, Coach Jessee sent in Reopel for one series of plays. Three completed passes to Kenney and LeClerc were climaxed by a one-yard touchdown plunge by Bob Johnson. Starting the second half tied at six all, Williams succeeded in springing their Chip Ide loose for many long gains. A third quarter touchdown spree by Williams was too great a barrier for Trinity to overcome in the closing stages of the contest.

TRINITY 6 BOWDOIN 13

The Bowdoin game proved to be a closely contested battle, and the final outcome was not decided until the final moments of the fourth quarter. The Blue and Gold highlight came midway in the third quarter with a brilliant forty-yard touchdown jaunt by Dick Noble. A disturbing element occurred when starting fullback Jack Edwards sustained a head injury that was to sideline him for the remainder of the season. John Kenney performed well at quarterback, especially when his lack of experience was taken into account.

TRINITY 7 COAST GUARD 26

New London was the scene of the most unusual game that Trinity played during the season. The contest turned into a seesaw battle on a field of mud under stormy skies. Twenty-five points were scored in the last minute of play by both teams. The sole touchdown for the Blue and Gold was scored during this time by a seventy-yard pass play from Ron Reopel to Barry Royden. Reopel returned to action playing his first full game of the season and was aided by the strong offensive and defensive work of Ed Speno.

TRINITY 6 AMHERST 40

Amherst played host to a Trinity team still in search of its first victory of the campaign. Amherst was noted for its strong defensive play, and the Trinity contest proved to be no exception. However, a one-point deficit at the half cast a shadow of hope in the direction of victory. A murderous second half ground attack by the home team ruined any hope of a Bantam victory. During the last two quarters Amherst ground out 285 yards rushing, a tremendous total to combine with such an adequate defense.

TRINITY 20 WESLEYAN 19

Homecoming weekend proved to be a successful climax to an otherwise sordid season as Trinity's arch rival, Wesleyan, fell victim to a superior offensive display. The visiting team was able to gain only 98 yards from scrimmage, while the Blue and Gold nearly tripled that amount. Bob Johnson climaxed the first Trinity touchdown drive on a thirty-eight yard run. Speno added the second tally to give the home team a two TD advantage. Wesleyan came back to make the score 13-12, creating a very close contest. Reopel added the third Bantam touchdown of the day, and LeClerc successfully tried for the extra point that later proved to be the insurance needed for victory.

First row: Curtis Scribner, Anthony Pratt, Gerard Vaughn, Croft Jennings, John LaMothe, Gary Bogli, Murray Morse, K. Dodd Miles, James Forman, Arthur Judge, John Norris, Jon Outcalt.

ing, E. David Arle, Jules Worthington, John Prentice, Stewart Bentley, Arthur Polstein, Donald Weinstein, Myles McDonough, Brendan Shea, William Lukens, John Bassett, George Truscott, John Crandall, Michael Rhodes, Roy Dath.

The Trinity soccer team, laden with injuries throughout the season, found goings comparatively rough at times. Tufts and Williams were the troublemakers. The team which was dominated by sophomores and juniors, scored its big victories of the campaign over UMass, Union and Wesleyan.

The initial victory of the season at the expense of Coast Guard found Jon Widing all over the field. Widing, who scored two goals, shared the team's glory with the heavy-footed fullback, Myles McDonough and soph Throup Bergh, who parlayed the season's first tally.

In UMass, the booters found what was probably physically their roughest opposition. Although a 4-0 win was registered, center halfback Bill Lukens and one of the Redmen banged heads in the early minutes, an occurrence which typified the action for the remainder of the game. The offense was again led by Widing, who received scoring aid from George Bogli this time.

The 5-0 victory over Worcester Tech took place in the mud. Goals by Gordy Prentice and Dodd Miles in the first quarter put the Ban-tams in the lead to stay. Bill Lukens, Croft Jennings, and Jim Forman put on the finishing touches.

Center forward Bogli turned a hat-trick by banging in three goals in the 5-2 victory against Union. The Trin booters led all the way, scoring four times before Union dented the nets even once.

In the scoreless overtime tie with Amherst, coach Dath exhibited his team's depth. He was able to substitute freely in the latter part of the game and during the overtime periods without spoiling the team's success. Bren Shea and Don Weinstein helped keep the early part of the game in Lord Jeff territory, but the opposition's goalie was up to the occasion. In the overtime periods, sophomores Curt Scribner, Dave Arle, and Croft Jennings admirably filled the starter's shoes.

Captain Art Polstein is the main loss from this year's squad, but with an undefeated frosh team coming up, the future looks bright for the booters.

Freshman Football

Though forced to turn in an unimpressive no wins—one tie record, the yearling gridders were certainly superior to their numerical grade, as was illustrated in their no-decision Amherst scrap. The spirited squad came from behind in the fourth quarter to execute a motion picture finish, annihilating the Jeff lead. While losing to undefeated Wesleyan in their final game, the freshman squad had improved one hundred per cent over the loose September assemblage. Coach Chet McPhee, in his first season at the reins, found unusual talent in his numerous charges.

First row: Frederick Pringle, Lucien Layne, Bradford Ketchum, Gerald Dreller, William Zousmer, Scott Hill, Robert Dinsmore, George Rice, Leon Shaw.

Freshman Soccer

Scoring an impressive twenty goals to their opponents ten, the frosh booters emerged undefeated and untied for the 1957 season. Coached by first-year man, Bob Schultz, the freshman squad established their right to an unblemished record by shearing powerful Wesleyan 3-2, in the final and most spirited battle of the season. Leading the unscarred yearlings was Alex Guild who tallied eight goals in five games. Other stars include Bill Handler, Warren Johnson, John Parsons, Janos Karvazy, Vinnie Stempien, and goalies Archie Thompson and Kerry Fitzpatrick.

First row: Andrew Forrester, Frederick Jacobs, Stanley Lipson, Peter Kreisel, Donald Mills, Archibald Thompson, Richard Phelps, Alexander Guild, Joseph Colen, Edward Weiner, William Kirtz, Vincent Stempien, Chadwick Hughes, John Parsons, Owen Hamilton.

Basketball

First row: Art Polstein, Mac Costley, Jay Dwyer, Brendan Shea, Dave Hammaker, Jim Gavin, Barry Royden.

Second row: Jay McWilliams, Jack Foster, Mat Levine, Ed Anderson, Ken Lyons, Charlie Bergmann, Ted Cass.

The 1957-58 edition of Trinity basketball under the tutelage of its new mentor, Jay McWilliams, has taken many steps towards improvement over last year's squad. After a weak start, during which the team lost its first six encounters, the Bantams came alive and put on better displays with every succeeding game.

Making up for what they lacked in height with hustle and a hunger for victory, a condition which had started its development at the beginning of last year's campaign, the hoopsters conquered Clark and Coast Guard. Once the team got rolling, it came up with impressive performances against strong Union, Colby, and Bowdoin outfits. At this point, four games remain to be played, all of which may be marked in the win column if the team spirit continues at its present peak.

This year's aggregation, which boasts nine Sophomores, has had as its most consistent performers, Art Polstein, Bren Shea, and sophs Jack Foster and Ken Lyons. The fact that Polstein is the only graduating member of the team, along with the emergence of a very successful frosh quintet, leads coach McWilliams to look forward to next season with well founded optimism.

Swimming

First row: Coach Slaughter, Walker Grant, Flex Illick, Jim O'Reilly, Larry Munch, Jack Norris, Peter Onderdonk, Arnold Lieber.

Second row: D. Renard, Lew Snow, Brian Foy, Bob Morgan, George Black, George Backman, Russ Bjorklund, P. Mayo, Charlie Berger.

This year's varsity swimming team boasts an impressive record with the season not yet over. Under the direction of Bob "Rabbit" Slaughter, who took the helm this year, the mermen have walked over Tufts, Worcester Tech, and MIT, while dropping decisions to Bowdoin, Springfield, Coast Guard, and Amherst.

Co-captains Larry Muench, who excels in the 440 yard freestyle, and Jim O'Reilly, whose specialty is the 200 yard breaststroke, have sparked the star-studded team. The brightest of these stars is sophomore Bob Morgan who is the holder of the 50 yard and 100 yard free style records with times of .23:6, and .52:0 respectively. Morgan, along with George Black, Flex Illick, and Brian Foy, make the 400 yard relay team — one which makes the "Rabbit" beam.

Freshman Basketball

First year man, Coach Bob Shults, was handed perhaps the best, certainly the tallest, freshman basketball material, of any previous Trinity mentor. Formulating the men into almost unbeatable combinations, the frosh tallied one of the most successful seasons of any yearling five. Undoubtedly the brightest lights of the team were playmaker Kenny Cromwell, jumping-jack George Tattersfield, highscoring forwards, Doug Tansill and Bill Scully, and towering center, Bob Brandenburger.

Freshman Swimming

Unable to equal the showing of the talented '56-'57 frosh tankers, the yearling squad did, nevertheless, offer some impressive performances in their somewhat dismal year. Coach Chet McPhee found high-point men in diver and 100 yard breaststroker Chris Hodges, and Pete Postma of the butterfly and individual medley. Free-stylers Coleman, Layne, Williams, and Nichols added valuable points in the relays.

Squash

First row: Jerome Farnsworth, Daniel Kenefick, Bernard Moran, Bill Ward, Bill Sykes.

Second row: Nick Holland, Croft Jennings, Alex Fava, Bob Spahr, Pete Dunning, Coach Jessee.

Though young and inexperienced, the 1957-58 varsity racketeers displayed remarkable poise and endurance throughout their profitable season. Despite the usual quota of injuries that plague Dan Jessee's courtmen, the team proved to be much more than their numerical record might indicate. The men who have shown themselves to swing the biggest rackets were Bill Sykes, and sophomores Bob Spahr and Jerry Farnsworth. With the prospect of a young, but experienced combination to assemble next year, Dan Jessee should field a squad inferior to none.

Freshman Squash

The yearling squash team was well on its way to a blue-ribbon season as we went to press. In conquering four of their first five foes, the freshmen proved their might, in particular, with their lop-sided victories over Choate, and Williston. Coached by Dan Jessee, the squad revealed unusual talent in Mills, Illick, Hubby, Pringle, and Wiener. The only loss, to date, has been a close 4-5 match with Amherst.

First row: E. Wiener, Don Mills, Christopher Illick, Bob McCammon, Bob Marvel.

Baseball

Though plagued by the departure of a few seniors like Moe Drabowsky, Charlie Sticka, and Ron Kozuch the Bantam nine found the right medicine in five sophomores, and compiled a .714 winning percentage in their first fourteen contests. Supreme pitching by MVP George Case, the big bats of Bill Abeles, John Kenny, and Roger LeClerc, and brilliant, consistent fielding by shortstop Kelleher pushed the squad to victory after victory. In addition to Kenney, LeClerc, and Abeles, the other two sophomores that promise to spark this year's team are Myles McDonough and Jim Canivan who offered some very respectable performances on the mound.

Tennis

Losing only to Springfield and Wesleyan, the 1957 varsity racketeers maintained decisive victories over all their remaining opponents.

The first three rungs were held by Captain Brooks Harlow, Bill Ward, and Dave Beers. George Steinmuller played most of the season in the fourth position with John Hartz in fifth, and Dodd Miles in sixth. Of the seven victories captured by Coach Roy Dath, probably the most important were those over Holy Cross and Bowdoin.

Freshman Tennis

With their hopes for an even season washed away with the rained-out Loomis match, the frosh netmen were forced to be content with a mediocre 2-3 slate. Coach Roy Dath's valuable contributions from his Freshman squad to his varsity squad will undoubtedly include Bob Morgan, George Black, Carrington Clark, and Frank Williams.

Track

Unable to gain the .500 mark for the season, the 1957 varsity track squad turned in a respectable 3-4 record. In addition it secured an admirable fourth position in the Eastern Championships held at Worcester, Massachusetts.

The scoring department was headed by co-captain Hub Segur, weightman Wes Formeister, and ace distance man, Bob Scharf. Segur was outstanding in the 880 and mile, Formeister was almost untouched in the discus and javelin, and Scharf dominated the two-mile run.

Though clogged by injuries, including one which finished the season off for Brian, Karl Kurth managed to turn out victories over Middlebury, Coast Guard, and Worcester Tech.

Freshman Track

Slow in attaining top condition because of bad weather, Coach Art Christ's tracksters unleashed a powerful finish, capturing three of their final four meets. Top credit goes to Bill deColigny, Rick Richardson, and Bob Langen. Langen proved to be the only record-smasher, establishing a new time for the half-mile of 2:03.2.

Second row: Thomas Wickham, Francis D'Anzi, Charles

Webb, Franklin Reeves, Kenneth Lessall, Henry Bromley, Michael Borus, Peter Wachtel, Ian Rawson, Terrell Graves, John Mason, George Weisz, Charles Middleton.

Highlighted by impressive triumphs over Boston University and M.I.T., the 1958 edition of the fencing squad could register a bright four and two slate by the close of the season. Led by co-captains Max Lockie and Ken Lambert, the squad revealed it's high caliber with their moral victory over Harvard, one of only two defeats. Coached by Tom Jarrett, the fencers found able swordsmen in Nick Poschl, Ken LeSalle, Frank Reves, and Terry Graves, in addition to the smooth co-captains.

First row: Stewart Bentley, Robert Spielman, James Studley, Philip Simmons, Jon Reynolds.

Rifle Team

In registering the most successful season of any Trinity Rifle team, the 1957-58 squad has compiled an impressive twenty-three and thirteen record, to date. Led by co-captains Speilman and Studley, the team triggered brilliant victories over Brown, UMass, Holy Cross, and U. of Rhode Island. Under the direction of Sergeant W. G. Barnes, the victorious crew proved to contain many sharp sights, including last year's captain, Phil Simmons. Should the squad continue its winning ways, they will certainly leave a very difficult record to equal.

Freshman Baseball

Though never playing a single inning before coming to Trinity, the freshman baseball team combined individual ability and team spirit into a winning formula. Bright spots in Coach Gerhold's final season were the smashing defeats of Yale and Amherst. Pitchers Al Perlman and Barry Royden did much for the team's success and should prove to be valuable additions to Dan Jessee's varsity team.

Golf

With the impressive showing in the New England Golf Tourney by the Trinity golf team, golf secured a long-awaited recognition as a popular sport on the Trinity campus.

Although failing to place any individuals in the finals of the Williams' New England Tourney, the Trinity golfers registered tenth in a field of twenty-seven.

Though losing Sam Ninness, Tom Barber, and Gordy Prentice, Coach Mitch Pappas foresees a bright future for the golfers.

• • • and won't it be your photograph that you and your grandchildren look for first?

That's a lot of looking ahead, but it illustrates the permanence...
the interest...of a fine photograph. Fine photographs of you are our concern

...a photograph you will proudly give as a personal present...a photograph you will look back on happily years from now.

We hope that when you want a fine photograph taken again,
you entrust it to us—your official school photographer.

For the "Ivy," '58

It's sad that we're not with her
When the earth breathes moist and warm,
And the classic hood of ivy
Cloaks, with grace,
    with green fertility,
The swarthy, timeless sturdiness of stone.
The white of winter strains the tense
And fluid balance she would try,
With constancy,
To keep.
    Sacred — Profane.
    Frogs are rhyming.
    Sophists sleep.
She prays as much and more than we.
Doubly directed: "Let them want!"
    "Desire!"
(Some cynicism perishes in such a wondrous, deep-inquiring fire.)
More than a mere totality —
    Not quite unique;
    Enough, perhaps, and weak,
    She falters —
But her way (the same old way) is good.
She bears her proper burdens:
    Triteness,
    Mere tradition,
    Profit (at what cost? what lack?)
Her misery loves company (she certainly has been an interesting conversationalist),
And somehow most of us will probably be back
And, disconcerted, realize again
She speaks with our own voices
To which she adds an echo.
And we hear the echo
And are glad.
