First Home Game Won. — Good Playing.

In the first home game of the season, Trinity trimmed the New York University team by the score of 3 to 2, on Trinity Field, Saturday afternoon, before a fair-sized crowd which was kept on edge all the afternoon. The home team was noticeable for the great amount of live fighting spirit it displayed, and which characterized every throw and movement of the players. As a result, many snappy plays marked the contest.

The nine gave every appearance of coming up to the standard of the team of a year ago. Those who scented a defeat on Saturday afternoon were happily disappointed, as at no time was there a display of ragged and loose playing. The team gives every promise of finishing the season with a good record.

Trinity outplayed N. Y. U. at every stage of the game Saturday. Sayres, on the mound for Trinity, allowed the N. Y. U. athletes but five scattered hits and at all times held the game in his hands by tightening up in the pinches. Moore, on the other hand, was banged for six hits, two of them being for extra bases. Trinity was the first to score, the run coming in the second. Brainerd hit to short and beat a wide throw to first, taking second on the error. Bleecker laid down a perfect bunt, pushing Brainerd ahead to third, Ahern singled past first base and Brainerd crossed the plate for the initial run. In the third, with one down, L'Heureux drove a fly to Hamilton, but the latter dropped it, and Trinity's backstop took second. Turner swatted a clean liner to left center, scoring L'Heureux.

The fourth inning failed to furnish much interest, but in the first of the fifth the New Yorkers tied it up. Green and Henneberger singled and worked a double steal. Gollupier hit to Turner and the latter threw home, but too late, and the run scored. L'Heureux threw to first to nail Gollupier, but Brainerd dropped the ball and Henneberger came home with the second run. It was in the sixth that Trinity got back the lead and won out. Horan was passed and Carroll's out at first put him on second. Brainerd went out at the initial sack, Horan taking third on the play. Bleecker knocked a pretty single, scoring Horan. Ahern followed up with a single, but was forced out at second. The remainder of the game was snappy, Moore getting into difficulty many times but managing to extricate himself. Sayres, by fine headwork and superb pitching, kept the visitors well in hand for the rest of the game.

TENNIS TEAM DEFEATED.

Williams Takes All Six Matches.

In Williamstown on Saturday the Trinity tennis team was defeated by Williams, 6-0. There were four singles and two doubles matches played.

Although the match was a clean sweep for Williams there was some very close play in many of the sets, and the Williams team was pressed hard to win at all stages. For Trinity Burgwin and N. S. Pulford played the best games, while Oakley excelled for Williams.

The most exciting match of the day was between Burgwin and Oakley. The Trinity player started in strong form, winning four games straight. Oakley then braced and brought the set to deuce, finally winning 8-6. The passing of Burgwin in this set was remarkable, although at times he sent many drives to the net. The second set was an easy victory for Burgwin, 6-2, but Oakley finished strong and won the third 6-3.

In the Pulford-Conger match both were within a point of the match several times before it finally was secured by Conger. The playing throughout was extremely brilliant, three sets being required to finish the contest.

Williams won the third and fourth singles with little trouble, as Captain Nelson and A. L. Pulford did not play up to their usual game.

In the doubles Oakley and Conger had little trouble in winning from Nelson and Burgwin in straight sets. S. Pulford and A. Pulford played a fighting game against the second Williams doubles team, but lost out in two close sets.

On Thursday and Friday of this week Massachusetts Agricultural College and Brown will be met upon the local courts. There will be a shift in the doubles teams, as Burgwin will play with S. Pulford. It is believed that this arrangement will be extremely beneficial. The summary of the Williams match follows:

Oakley, (W) beat Burgwin (T) 8-6; 2-6; 6-3. Conger, (W) beat S. Pulford, (T) 6-12; 4-6; 10-8. Cobb, (W) beat Nelson, (T) 6-3; 6-2. Thurston, (W) beat A. Pulford, (T) 6-2; 4-6; 6-3. Oakley and Conger, (W) beat Nelson and Burgwin, (T) 6-3; 6-2. Thurston and Doyle, (W) beat S. Pulford and A. Pulford (T) 8-6; 6-4. Total, Williams, 6, Trinity, 0.

Sunday Chapel.

Professor Brenton preached at the service held in the chapel yesterday morning. He used as his text and subject the part Pilate took in the crucifixion of Jesus Christ, and compared Pilate's weakness of character to men of today. He said, "What you are tomorrow depends entirely upon what you are to-day, and it is man's past actions which govern them in later years."

For the offertory the quartet sang the hymn, "Tarry with me, O, my Savior."

SMOKER A SUCCESS.

Sophomores Entertain a Large Crowd.

Last Saturday evening there was held in Alumni Hall one of the biggest events of the year,—the sophomore smoker. Early in the day the prospective students and other guests of the college began to appear, and when the hour set for the smoker arrived, over three hundred students and visitors were assembled to partake of the hospitality of the sophomore class.

The program of the evening was opened by H. N. C. Christie, president of 1911, who introduced Mr. Robert H. Schutz, '89, as chairman of the evening. Mr. Schutz then took charge, and after welcoming the guests in behalf of the sophomore class, introduced President Luther as the first speaker on the program. President Luther gave an optimistic sketch of how the attendance at colleges in general is increasing yearly, saying that this age is becoming pre-eminently a college age. He expressed satisfaction over the success of Trinity's various organizations, touching on each one separately. Finally, after giving the guests a hearty welcome, saying that for the evening at least they were Trinity men, he closed his address by charging the students to do all in their power to make the college count for something. After some selections were sung in a very creditable manner by the glee club, the chairman introduced as the next speaker, C. C. Barton, Jr., '93, the youngest trustee of the college. The subject of Mr. Barton's speech was college spirit. He said that college spirit is not born of a single enthusiastic meeting, but by association in the dormitories and success in athletics. The burst of applause which had succeeded the address of the first speaker was due, he said, to acknowledgment of the ability of President Luther to "push on." He urged each man to get out and do something for the college, commending The Tripod for its splendid efforts to obtain an indoor athletic ground, and thanking Hartford for its interest in the college in the recent campaign for the half-million dollar fund.

The mandolin club then rendered some selections, after which George D. Howell, '82, spoke on the seriousness of the college work. He informed the visitors that whatever the faculties may be at other colleges, there is not a college that can offer a better lot of instructors than we have here at Trinity. Big colleges depend a good deal on their athletic records, too, but even there Trinity need not be ashamed. He said that when the college gets the new building The Tripod is working for, there is no reason why, with the existent spirit, we should not beat any college in New England.

Manager W. S. Marsden, '13, of the track team, then praised the spirit of the track men in their faithful work, especially commending the captain.

After a short recess, during which refreshments were served, Prof. Flynn, '97, spoke of the baseball schedule. The recent lack of success he attributed to the difficult schedule and the lack of practice. He said that there was every chance that our team would brace up for the rest of the season if the men were given loyal and enthusiastic support.

Captain Ramsdell of the 1910 football team then commended the work of Prof. Gettell for his fine coaching and the team for its clean playing, and spoke favorably of next fall's prospects.

Little, Baridon and Moore, '14, then rendered some instrumental trio selections, after which Captain Carroll of the baseball team expressed his appreciation of Prof. Flynn's offer to help in the coaching.

Some piano selections were then played by Adam, '14, among them being the "American Girl Waltz," composed by

NEW TRUNK MYSTERY.

Bishop Figures in New Police Case

On Friday morning chapel started almost five minutes late. The reason was quite obvious to those who loitered outside the well-trodden steps of that well-known and sacred place. The Bishop was the cynosure of all eyes, and those who customarily argue with Robert over the correct time as portrayed on his too-faithful Ingersoll merely for the sake of an extra "drag" on cigarettes discarded by some early risers, were on that morning relieved of the painful duty. Robert himself was so wrought up that he even failed to notice how often the "makings" changed hands after the organist upstairs was most ready and willing to desist from his labors.

But he could have been hardly more embarrassed than our poor Bishop, who had not received so much attention since the last "tea party." The theories circulated among each group of his admirers were many and varied.

"Was it true that the faculty, previously so partial to that inactive member of the college body, had refused to accept his excuses and were decided to see him depart from our midst for six weeks?" "Or was the venerable prelate disgusted over the general state of affairs existent upon the "rocky hill?" The trunk so deftly swung from his extended arm was quite large enough to hold his Bible and academic robe, and yet a certain indecision marked his attitude—as if he were awaiting the result of a faculty meeting.

Conjectures were rife during the day, and even the sub-freshmen present generously imparted of their wisdom some most plausible suggestions. Robert soon relieved the Bishop of his burden, and thereby discovered the hitherto unrecognized fact that his non-de-plume was L. T. L., Portland, Conn.

The same night 1913 gave its sophomore smoker, and after the skit was over, all anxious minds were at rest and the final and true theory was accepted: the smoker committee had thus decorated the Bishop to insure an original and fresh joke for its play,—and it made a hit.

This was followed by a farce, "Dorothy Vernon of Jarv's Hall," written by W. Marsden, '13.

TIME—Commencement, 1911.

"Dick" Pierce found himself in the double predicament of having an economics exam. to study for, with slim chances of passing it, and a charming cousin whom he had never met, coming to visit him. One other student wished to prevent the cousins from meeting, and planned to have Baker disguise himself as a lady and pass himself off on Pierce as his cousin, Miss Vernon. Naturally, when the real Miss Vernon arrives, the conspirators get into trouble, and the impostor finds it necessary to use all of his wits to keep above water. At last, however, the plot is discovered, Baker apologizes to Miss Vernon, and they immediately become engaged.

The parts were very well acted, and a number of good take-offs were made

"NOW THEN—TRINITY!"

EDITORIAL.

The new board undertakes its work fully aware that to maintain the standard of the past year will be in no wise a task comparable to that of passing the "cinch courses" of which we hear so much and see so little. But with the examples of industry and devotion that we inherit from our predecessors we hope to make the next year of "The Tripod" more than ever worthy of the support it has so long enjoyed.

The enthusiastic commendation by two trustees, Mr. Barton and Mr. Howell, of The Tripod's plan for an indoor athletic field, and the hearty reception given their remarks by the undergraduates and alumni at the smoker, demonstrated the soundness of our belief in the importance of such a structure. That the undergraduates so strongly desire it and that the alumni recognize the force of the appeal are strong indications that it must come. The Tripod will not cease to support the movement until the cornerstone is laid.

To those who fear that the expense of erecting it may prove prejudicial to the securing of donations for other purposes, we can only restate two fundamental propositions, which, it seems to us, should strike every mind as axiomatic: (1) Successful athletics are an indispensable advertisement for a college to-day, and are indeed the foundation of its success in every other direction. (2) The more money we raise, the easier it becomes to secure further donations. Benefactors are not fond of giving money to dead institutions. They want their names and their money to be associated with progress and enterprise.

When this "practice court" is an assured fact, as it soon must be, we intend to go right on advocating the raising of funds for other and almost equally worthy enterprises. The only way to get anything is to go after it. Are you ready?

Communication.

To the Editor of The Tripod

Dear Sir:

The following paragraph from a Hartford newspaper tells its own story: "Trinity's cheering section was lame. Two cheers were given at the start, one for each team, and from that on until the ninth inning, it retained an unexplained silence. It had opportunities to work overtime, but it didn't."

The reason for this state of affairs is the lack of grouping of those members of the college body who attend home games.

Two cheer leaders can hardly hope to draw a large volume of cheering from the college body, when its members are scattered over a large stand.

The conditions Saturday were peculiar in that most of the students had guests, but in the future there can be no excuse for poor cheering.

The remedy, it seems to me, lies in the concentration of the students in as small an area as possible. At base ball games, for instance, it might well become a recognized custom for the college body to sit in the east end of the bleachers, close to the grand stand. This position offers a good view of the game, and if the custom once was started, it would be unnecessary to rope off or reserve this section.

Why not begin next Saturday, with the Trinity-Wesleyan track meet, Mr. Editor? The best position on the track is the section of the stands near the finishing line of the dashes and runs. If every student would try to obtain a seat in this section of the stands, we would accomplish the double result of giving visitors a favorable impression of our loyalty to athletic teams and of helping our own track team to do better than it knows how against Wesleyan.

Hopeful.

(It has always seemed to us that organized cheering at base ball games was an anomaly. We invite further correspondence on this subject.—Ed.)

Clock Moves to Northam.

The hall clock which was presented to the college some thirty years ago by George Eggleston of New York, became dissatisfied with its old quarters in Boardman Hall, and has taken up its abode in Northam Towers. No longer will the biology students have a witness that the professor was not on time, and many a man will roast in the laboratory who might have spent the afternoon in any of the many pleasurable pursuits which these May days offer.

But it is an ill wind that blows nobody good. Imagine the joy of the sweet-voiced "hello" girl when she discovers that she will be no longer disturbed while reading the society column, whenever "Nick" Walsh wants to know if the dinner hour has arrived. No longer need a man get to recitation two or three minutes early, as formerly occasionally happened, and if he does, it will be his own fault.

It has been proposed that a large magnifying mirror be erected in the center of the campus, opposite the clock, in order that the men may be able to tell the time from under the different trees, and from their bed-rooms when they awake in the morning. Some of the more studious men are opposed to the plan, however, agreeing that the mirror would reflect a glare upon their books as they sat studying in their window seats. However this may be, it must be admitted that the clock in its present location fills a long-felt want.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company,

Hartford, Conn.

Why should I insure my life?

Because it is a debt you owe to those who are dependent upon your earnings for their support.

You admit that it is your duty to supply their needs from day to day, but forget that it is equally
your duty to provide an ever ready and sufficient equivalent for your earning power, which your family stands in constant jeopardy to lose by your premature death.

Guard your family against disaster
and yourself against dependency
in old age.

When should I insure my life?

Now! The cost will never be less, and to-morrow you may not be able to obtain insurance at any price.

Even if others are not now dependent upon you, take time by the forelock
and you will be the better able to meet future responsibilities, and at a smaller premium.

Where shall I insure my life?

In a purely Mutual Company.
In a company that earns, declares,

In a company that is doing a
conservative business.

Such a Company is The Connecticut
