General Statement

A Law School was first established in Richmond College in 1870. From the beginning there were able professors, but financial support was uncertain. In 1890 the family of the late Mr. T. C. Williams, who had been a devoted and useful trustee, donated $25,000 as the nucleus of an endowment for the Law School. In recognition of this gift, the name of the School was changed to the T. C. WILLIAMS SCHOOL OF LAW. At various times the School has received further generous gifts from members of the family of Mr. Williams. The largest of these gifts came through a bequest from Mr. T. C. Williams, Jr., who like his father, was long a trustee of Richmond College, and for twenty years was the efficient chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board. As a result of these several benefactions the endowment of the T. C. Williams School of Law now amounts to $272,000.00. The Law building and lot are valued at $84,700.00 and the equipment at $30,000.

The T. C. Williams School of Law is now firmly established as an integral part of the University of Richmond. The degrees in law are conferred by the corporation of the University of Richmond.

AN ACCREDITED SCHOOL

In December, 1928, the American Bar Association, after careful examination of the equipment, courses of study and regulations of the T. C. Williams School of Law, placed the School on the fully accredited list of American Law Schools.

The University of Richmond, of which the Law School is a component part, is on the accredited list of the Association of American Universities.

LOCATION

Since the close of the World War the Law School has occupied "Columbia," the original building of Richmond College. The location is on the old campus of Richmond College, at Lombardy and Grace Streets. In 1921 additional rooms were added, but the growth of the School induced the trustees to plan further building in 1924. A large wing fronting on Lombardy Street, and containing the library, six lecture-rooms, and necessary offices, was completed in September, 1924. The architecture is Colonial and conforms in all respects to the original building. With this new building the Law School can accommodate in its classes about 250 students.

Richmond is the seat of Virginia's government. The State Legislature and the City Council hold frequent sessions. All types of State and city courts sit here, some of them continuously. The Federal Dis-strict and Circuit Court of Appeals hold regular terms in Richmond. These opportunities afford unsurpassed practical ways of law study by observation, in addition to library, classroom, and home work.

COURSES OF STUDY

The Law School is organized in a Morning Division and in an Evening Division. The Morning Division offers three years, and the Evening Division four years of work leading to the degree of LL. B. Regular attendance, satisfactory classroom recitations, and approved written examinations in all of the subjects of each class are required for graduation in either Division. No degree candidate is permitted to advance from one class to another without having successfully completed the work of the preceding class, either in this School or the equivalent thereof in some other accredited law school.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS FOR DEGREE CANDIDATES

All applicants for admission must be at least eighteen years of age. Students applying for admission as candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Laws must present a certificate of graduation from a college or university of approved standing, or a transcript from the registrar of such institution showing fifteen college entrance units and the successful completion of at least two years of college work leading to a Bachelor's degree in a standard college.

Prospective students, especially those living outside of Richmond, are advised to settle the matter of admission by correspondence with the Secretary in advance.

ADVANCED STANDING

The adjustment of credit for law work completed in any other law school is determined by action of the law faculty after consideration of the facts in each case. Credit granted is always conditioned upon the successful completion of a year of successful work in this law school.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

The degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL. B.) is conferred upon regular students in the Morning Division who have completed three years of resident law work and have received credit in subjects amounting to seventy-two semester hours, including the required subjects. This degree is also conferred upon regular students in the Evening Division who have completed satisfactorily four years of resident law work and received credit for seventy-two semester hours, including the required subjects. Students who have been regularly admitted to advanced standing in either division must have been in residence at this school during the last year of their study of law and must have completed satisfactorily at least twenty-four semester hours in this law school.

COMBINED ACADEMIC AND LAW DEGREE

Students in Richmond College, the college of arts and sciences of the University of Richmond, may so combine their work in that school with the work in the T. C. Williams School of Law as to receive in six years the two degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws. In the Evening School the time required would be seven years. Students who wish to make this arrangement must matriculate in the law school at the beginning of their fourth or senior year and must take such courses in the law school as may be assigned by the law faculty. Students who complete successfully their first year of assigned work in the law school will receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts and will then receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws upon the completion of two additional years in the Morning School. Students desiring to make this arrangement should confer with the Dean of Richmond College and the Dean of the Law School before matriculation.

RULES OF ATTENDANCE AND SCHOLARSHIP

The passing mark is sixty.

Attendance at all class exercises is required. Excuses for absences are not accepted. Students absent from more than 25 per cent of the recitations in any subject will not be permitted to take the examination.

A first-year student may not register for more than the required work of his division. The required work for the Morning Division is twenty-four semester hours, and for the Evening Division eighteen semester hours.

A student in the second or third year of the Morning Division may, in addition to the required work, register for subjects which he has previously taken, but the examinations on which he has failed to pass. These subjects may not exceed six semester hours in any session. A student in the second, third, or fourth year of the Evening Division may, in addition to the required work, register for work on which he has been examined but failed to pass, but not to exceed four semester hours in value.

A student who fails to gain credit on two-thirds of the work for which he has registered shall not be permitted to take in the following year more than the required work of the division in which he is registreed, including the subjects on which he failed to pass. Students who fail to pass as much as 51 per cent of the work for which they are registered shall not be permitted to matriculate again in this law school except by special action of the faculty.

No special examinations are given. A student who, with the consent of the Dean, does not take the final examination in a subject with the class in which he is enrolled may take the next regular examination given in that subject. A student who receives a grade of forty-nine or less or fails to complete the subject within the following year will not be permitted to take a subsequent examination in that subject without again attending the class.

EMPLOYED STUDENTS

Richmond offers opportunities for employment to students who are obliged to be self-supporting while pursuing their law studies. The Evening Division is designed for such students. The student employment committee of the faculty, while it does not promise to find employment for students, is ready to assist students in their search for outside work.

In order that the first object of the student, success in the study of law, may be attained, the faculty reserve the right to supervise the amount of law work that such students may attempt in a session.

Students in the Morning Division who devote a substantial part of the afternoon or evening to outside employment will not be permitted to register for as much as twenty-four semester hours of law subjects. Students in the Evening Division who are engaged in outside employment that does not, in the opinion of the faculty, afford them sufficient time to prepare their class work will not be permitted to carry as much as eighteen semester hours of law subjects. All students are required each year upon registration to submit a signed statement setting forth in detail the nature and extent of the employment they will have for the year.

LIBRARY

The law library occupies a large, well-lighted room in the law building. It contains some 8,000 volumes covering over 15,000 reports and embracing the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States; the decisions of the lower Federal Courts; the United States Code Annotated and other Federal codes and compiled statutes; the reports of all the state courts of last resort save one prior to the Reporter System; the complete Reporter System; the American Digest System; the select case series of annotated reports including American Decisions, American Reports, American State Reports, Lawyers Reports Annotated and American Law Reports; a collection of many law encyclopedias including American and English Encyclopedia of Law and Procedure, Ruling Case Law, Corpus Juris-Cyc, and others; the leading legal periodicals, law reviews, reference books and treatises; the codes and Acts of the Virginia Assembly from early times to date; the codes of neighboring states. In addition, the library contains the full English Reprint; the English Law Reports; Halsbury's Laws of England.

Students have access to the main library of the University, the State Law Library, and other public libraries.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Those who are unsuccessful in some parts of a given year's work, or those who wish to lighten a regular session's work, or those (particularly in the Evening Division) who desire to complete the degree requirements in less than four regular sessions, or those who care only for some special branches of the law, will find it of advantage to enter the summer school.

Summer courses were first offered in 1921. In 1930 a course comprising two terms of seven weeks each will be offered. A bulletin covering the summer school is published each spring.

Attendance at one full summer session will be deemed equivalent to one semester's residence where eight or more semester hours have been taken during such session.
