Foreword

AS we grow older, we realize that there were things in the past which we would have with us always: happy faces, happy incidents, strong friendships, youthful successes. There were also things which seemed dark and unpleasant, tending to make us at times lose faith.

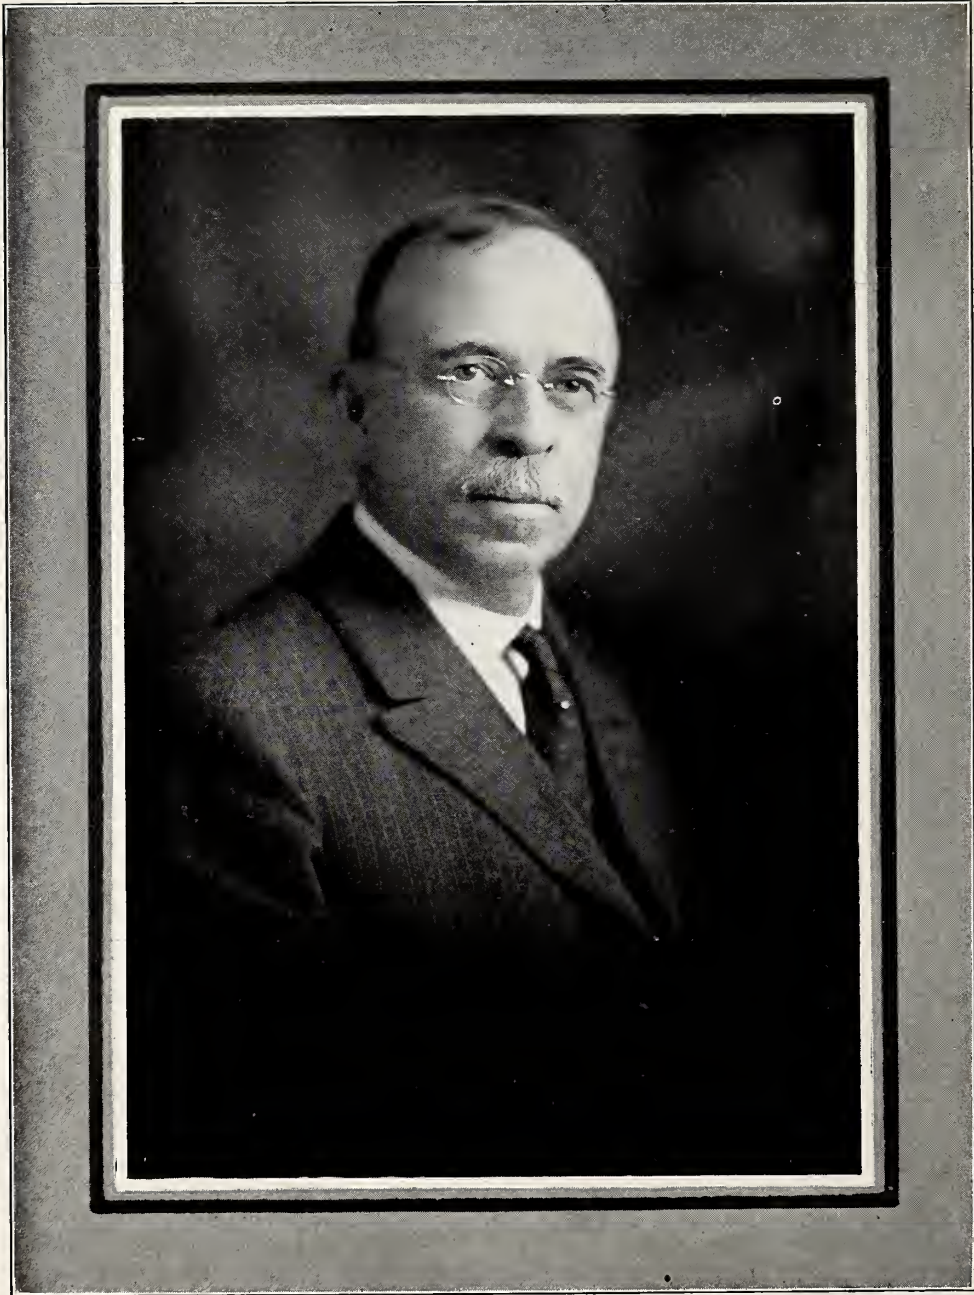

If this booklet enables the reader to bring back these faces and events once so closely connected with the University; if it can in some way link these together to form associations of fun and work; if it can bring back a smile, perhaps a tear, with that queer glow of warmth around the heart—if it can do that, the utmost hopes of this staff will be realized.

Class of 1924

ONCE MORE, as in years past, the seniors have crowned themselves with glory. Never before in the history of our University has there been a more enterprising, energetic and enthusiastic class of students, all of whom have been ardent supporters of the U. of O.

The Class of '24 has been active during the whole year, under the efficient leadership of the following officers: President, Ruth Arlander; Vice-Pres., Agnes Undeland; Sec.-Treas., David Robel. The class has been filled with remarkable talent and genius. With this marked characteristic, the seniors have put across all they have attempted, including special assemblies, senior day, skip day, etc.

The class has contributed whole-hearted support to all student activities and has supported all enterprises undertaken in the University. Although comparatively small in numbers, the seniors have filled the gap with quality, good spirit and continual boosting for the best interests of the school.

In taking their departure from the U. of O. the seniors express to all the student body and friends of the University their best wishes and a spirit of goodwill which they trust will last eternally.

HERBERT FISCHER

Class of 1925

THE third lap has been completed. One more to go. The bunch can hardly wait until fall to start the last hard grind before the attainment of their much coveted sheepskins.

In numbers we are somewhat dwindled but not in spirit. We are the same lively bunch that wandered bewildered around the good old halls of Omaha University three short years.

The annual hare-and-hound chase staged jointly by the Junior and Senior Classes came off according to tradition shortly after the opening of school last fall.

The Junior prom, although it nearly bankrupted the members of the class, was pulled off with great pomp and ceremony on the 26th of April and according to many it was the "best little party I ever went to."

The officers that have lead the class through the troublesome third year have been: Benjamin Mead, president; Elizabeth Pressly, vice-president and Herbert Fischer, secretary and treasurer.

—H. W. F.

Juniors

HERBERT FISCHER

The busiest man at the Uni. Does more work well than any one else we know.

FLORENCE JENSEN

As the best looking girl in the class, it is only natural that she should receive the greatest variety of masculine adoration.

ESTELLE LAPIDUS

She is a typical college girl. Not only is she talented along many lines, but she is one of the most congenial girls in O. U.

BEATRICE MILNAMOW

Peppy, unaffected and ambitious are the three adjectives that so well sum up the qualities of this girl. Dependable and above all the possession of a sterling character she is a universal favorite around the school.

BENJAMIN MEAD

The energetic president who ably makes up for lack of masculine members of his class by his untiring work and enthusiasm.

Juniors

ELIZABETH PRESSLY

A girl who can look cute and accomplish things at the same time, whether she is slinging speedy basketballs through the loop or pulling a good recitation in class.

HELEN REIKES

Helen's three years at U. of O. have revealed to the faculty and students her friendliness and her willingness and ability to work.

MARTHA THORNTON

Although she is quiet and modest, she has a neverfailing supply of optimism and is always ready to lend a helping hand.

MYRTLE RING

Her cheerfulness and industry have impressed us in the one year that we have known her.

MARY TYSON

Among the new arrivals this year one of the most dependable and popular is Mary. She has attained a creditable record in her studies and starred as guard of the girls' basketball team.

Juniors

EUNYCE KINGSTON

*Big of heart, queenly of spirit, we cannot help
but love her.*

ELIZABETH WESTERFIELD

*Sweet tempered in spite of the color of her hair.
A "math shark" (sometimes).*

The Class of 1926

THE "YEARLINGS" of the passing year may well be credited with being perhaps the liveliest group of young men and women that the university may hope to have in its second year class. Individually, and as a group, the members have distinguished themselves. Athletics, dramatics, debating, scholarship, singing and every other activity has claimed the Sophomores. It was a Sophomore who gained the university's only point at the state track meet; three were on the basketball team; the Sophomores were a close second in the inter-class meet. The Gateway Annual is edited by a Sophomore, while the Gateway Weekly was also, although by another sex. The members of the class have been leaders, as has been seen in their first year's record, and by the fact that already many hold important positions for the coming year. There is no doubt but that the university will long feel the inspiring effect of the passing of the Class of '26.

The Class of 1927

THE freshman class this year has been like a mischievous child—it was into everything. We had some members on the basketball team. Many of the track team were first year lads. The plays and musical programs that have been given couldn't have been nearly so good without the freshmen. In debate, we proved that no matter how young we are, we certainly can talk convincingly.

Outside of school, we freshmen had a great deal of fun together. Early in the year we held a hike that some of us will never forget. Then there were our Leap Year party and our St. Patrick's Day party which were both very jolly affairs, due to the unfailing exuberance of the class. One thing is certain, if anyone came to school on "Sneak Day," it wasn't a freshman.

Upper classmen, if it has seemed at times that we yearlings were hopelessly irresponsible and given to frivolity, try to imagine us as we will be in the future—teachers, ministers, doctors and lawyers. And we'll probably be as disconcertingly staid and sensible as any professor who frowns on us now.

The School of Law

As yet the Law School of the University of Omaha is a night school. Its classes meet in sessions from 6:15 to 8:00 every night in the week except Saturday and Sunday. All classes in the Law School are held in convenient downtown quarters, except one class a week, the latter meeting at the University Buildings. Its course is a four-year one. Such subjects as Logic, Argumentation and Public Speaking, the Psychology of Evidence, Brief Making and the Use of Law Books, are included, and compulsory. With preliminary qualifications of 32 High School credits and one year of college credits, the student becomes a candidate for a degree of Bachelor of Laws. A combination of text-book and cases is the method of instruction employed. The instructors are all well-known practicing attorneys of the Omaha Bar or Judges.

The Night Law School will eventually be recognized as the equal educationally of any great American Law School.

With a full faculty, obtainable from a choice of the entire Omaha Bar, thus securing a specialist for each subject, and a more mature student body, the practical advantages of the Night School over the day school are worthy of serious consideration.

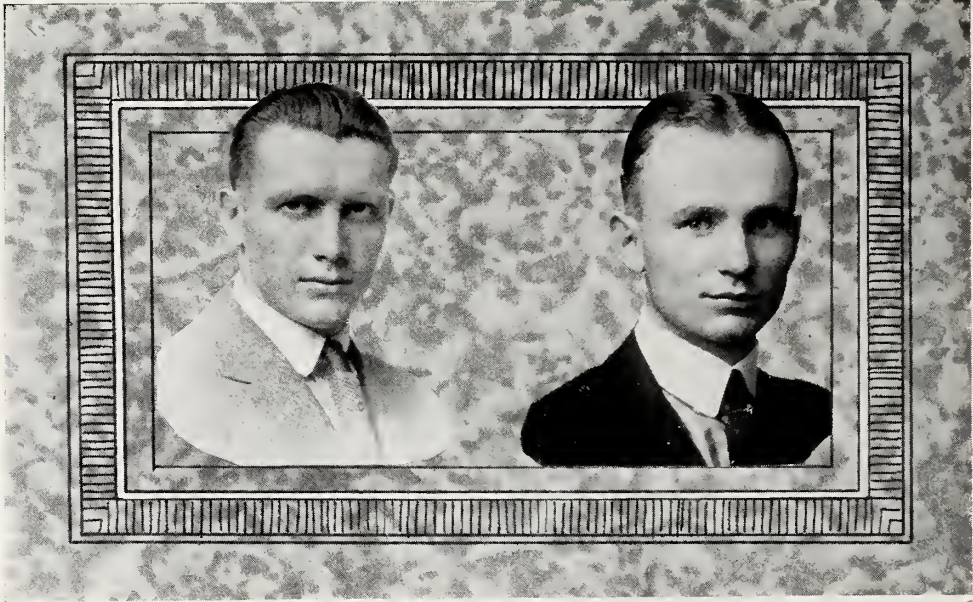

Tell the world about Omaha's booming Law Department.

ERNEST ADAMS, *Coach*HOWARD ANDERSON, Business Manager

Basketball Season

UNDER leadership of the lanky captain, Wade Reeves, the team, composed mostly of green men, has been a credit to the University and to its coach. Reeves was declared ineligible, and then re-instated near the end of the season. However, the team had a wonderful floor-leader in Slater, who has been honored with next year's captaincy for his noble effort and fighting spirit.

The season opened with two hard fought games, which were lost by close margins to the strong Yankton team. Eligibility rules then robbed the team of Reeves, later reinstated, Clements and Konecky, a veteran.

This left Adams with a set of green men, and his own personal determination not to be doomed. He worked hard and his efforts showed results. Although they did not win a majority of the games on the schedule, the men of the varsity team, spurred on by Ernie's spirit, and the training with his "ponies," emerged with the moral satisfaction of having been clean and hard fighters, and of having gained a wealth of experience to be used for a banner season next year.

—C. R. M.

Basketball

WADE REEVES

The skipper fought while he was with us, and if he could have played the whole season the story of scores would have been different.

HOWARD ANDERSON

As manager Anderson worked hard, and on the floor he had a mean eye for the hoop.

FLETCHER SLATER

The most altruistic man on the team. "Duke" is a fighter, a great leader, and has the endurance of an army.

Basketball

THEODORE DRDLA

*At forward "Cub" worked hard and consistently.
He fought even to the point of losing his teeth!
No, girls, not his false ones.*

EDWARD THOMPSON

The horse shoe can't make both ends meet. Still Tommie won't tell us how he stands at one end and sinks 'em at the other.

BENJAMIN MEAD

Benjamin H. was a scrapper and could puzzle any five men.

Basketball

EDWIN NIELAN

Ed missed his "marks" but as a guard he was impassable.

JACK BOLZENDAHL

"Bozo" starred at running guard, and displayed the fighting instinct of a sturdy Minnesota viking.

LESTER MEEK

It was worth everything to see the "Sheik" bend over the crowd and drop them in.

Basketball

HARRY PETRIE

"Petey Boy" was full of fight, and showed the greatest persistency of all.

WILLIAM CHRISTY

Christy had a late start, but showed a fine, aggressive spirit.

Retrospection

PRAISE is due once more to Coach Ernie Adams for a great year in athletics.

Football fell through, after a 7-7 tie game with the veteran Tabor team, because of the lack of material, but Adams continued to work, and turned out a marvelous basketball team from green men. After the basketball season was over the men began training for track, and without entering dual competitions, Adams sent a team to the State meet where a great showing was made.

The most signal feature of this year has been the entrance of the University once more into the ranks of the State Conference. Through the untiring efforts of the University's faithful coach, and through his spirit of persistency, the State authorities were convinced that Omaha had once again reached the point where she deserved the association of the other Nebraska colleges.

After the entrance again into the conference, Adams turned out a fine basketball team and made a wonderful showing against the more experienced teams in the state.

Encouraged by this year's success, Ernie is working hard for a victorious year starting next fall. With such leaders as Bolzendahl in football, and Slater in basketball, and with the greater interest shown by the men in the school, there is no reason why Coach Adams cannot be recompensed for his hard work in the past, by a year of championships in every line of sport—football, basketball and track.

Girls' Basketball Team

AS FAR AS SCHEDULED games were concerned, life for the basketball girls this year was just one darn thing after another. In the first place many of them started late. Then came trouble in getting recognition from a faculty committee already overharassed with following the basket-shooting course of the school's lords of creation. There was trouble over time of practice, over practice itself, over everything under the sun and the roof of the gymnasium.

But to enthusiastic and amateur cagettes, trouble is the spice of teamlife. A dozen girls turned out regularly for practice and, under the snappy coaching of Mrs. Ring, spent long hours acquiring technique, bruised knees, exercise, and fun.

For the more rocks in the road, the more determinedly the girls displayed a cheerful unconcern over anything less than earthquakes or a personal interview with fate. In fact, every time fate did step in, they got quite a kick out of it, even semi-occasionally meeting the old gentleman half way.

An experience which they intend to cash in next year, solidifying a team that will hurl a direct challenge, as the basketball girls request the rest of the world to eat their dust.

—H. S.

The Track Season

THE TRACK SEASON was fairly successful, considering the lack of material and facilities for practice.

Adams worked hard to send a team to the State meet to represent Omaha in her first year after being readmitted to the conference.

Slater, Margolin and Christy made the trip to the meet and Slater emerged the single point getter, placing fourth in the pole vault.

Some hard work was done on track this season, and next year Adams hopes to have a fine team from the men who have been working out, to send to the State meet.

On Gala Day the track meet for inter-class title was held and won by the freshman class. Good time was made in the events, considering the wet grounds, and a fight was made for individual honors between Slater, with 22 points, and Margolin, who lost by 1 point.

Carson, Thompson, Reiss and Petrie made good showings for their classes, and many of the college inter-class records were broken.

Results of inter-class meet:

100 yard dash—Margolin, F.; Thompson, F.; Carson, F.; 10:2.

High jump—Margolin, F.; Borcharding, S.; Mead, J.; 5.6.

Shot put—Slater, S.; Bolzendahl, F.; Nielan, F.; 32 ft. 6 in.

880 yard run—Slater, S.; Fried, F.; Christy, S.; 2:13.

Javelin—Bolzendahl, F.; Slater, S.; Nielan, F.; 117 ft. 2 in.

220 yard dash—Carson, F.; Margolin, F.; Petrie, S.; 24:0.

Broad jump—Petrie, S.; Margolin, F.; Slater, S.; 19 ft. 10 in.

Pole vault—Slater, S.; B. Thompson, F.; Strong, F.; 10 ft. 6 in.

440 yard run—Margolin, F.; E. Thompson, F.; Petrie, S.; 50:2.

Discus—Reiss, F.; Slater, S.; Mead, J.; 102 ft. 3 in.

Mile run—Halmberg, S.; Slawsson, F.; Christy, S.; 5.05.

Weekly Gateway Staff

THE WEEKLY GATEWAY STAFF takes this means of thanking the students and faculty of Omaha University for their splendid co-operation and help towards the publishing of the school paper.

The year just passed was beset with many difficulties but we feel safe in saying that the weekly edition was a success from every angle and that the student body duly appreciated our efforts toward that end.

We sincerely hope that next year's school paper will be bigger and better than ever and we are more than sure that this prophecy will come true inasmuch as the well known efficiency of Mr. Herbert Fischer, next year's editor, is an established fact.

Los Sabios

VIVAN Los Sabios! Or in perfectly sane English "Long Life to the Wise Ones!"

One of the many factors which have united to make this club an institution is its cabinet of officers: President, Fletcher Slater; vice-president, Helen Neff; secretary, Beth Barnes; treasurer, Jane McConnell. Duke Slater's presiding at all the meetings has ever been a source of entertainment though not of instruction, because of his apparent anguish at not being able to pour his thoughts into the mold of the prescribed language. However, let it be said in his favor that his popularity among his fellow members is attested by the fact that he has served as President of Los Sabios ever since the organization was effected.

Miss Zozaya must be placed in a foremost position among the factors contributing to the success of the club for it was she who thought of having such an organization for social and intellectual benefit and it was she who took the initial steps towards its inception.

It has been said that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link and further that an organization is no more active than its laziest member. To that test we put Los Sabios gladly with no fear or trembling.

—H. S. A.

Der Deutsche Verein

MEETINGS, banquets, hikes, and picnics have been the bill of fare at the German Club this winter. The first meeting was held the second week of school and the enthusiasm evidenced at this first meeting was carried throughout the year. A Valentine party featured with German Valentines was held at the home of Fraulein Rozella Swenson on the 14th of February. The biggest event of the year was the annual banquet at the Bethany Presbyterian Church, of which Professor Kuhn is pastor. The boys were going to do the cooking but as usual it ended up with the girls doing most of it. We have a great outlook for next year due to the large number of beginners in German who will be back next year.

The officers the past year have been: Fraulein Margaret Greeing, president; Fraulein Louise Rathsack, vice-president; Herr Johannes Kuhn, treasurer and Herr Herbert Fischer, secretary.

Y. W. C. A.

SOME Y. W. C. A. years start out with a bang. This was not one of them. The year started out quietly, and went on quietly accomplishing things, more things than usual in a year of more publicity. But the Y. W. had a quietly accomplishing person at the head of it, and some other real workers in the cabinet, all of whom started out on their Y. W. task of making their organization the most "universal" in the school, and succeeded in it.

Among the first magnitude stars in the Y. W. crown of this year are the mixer, held in honor of the basketball boys at the end of the season, and the Y. W. lawn fete, the last number on their school program. Other phases of their work, their weekly assemblies and their general solid stand behind all school activities, kept their place on the campus high.

Then, two Y. W. girls went to the Indianapolis convention to represent the university's girls. And a larger number of them went to University Place for the state convention. This summer two of those who attended the state convention are representing the school at Estes Park.

The Y. W. this year has carried its lighted candles high, and placed them a little farther up on the mountain. Their last achievement is electing for next year a president who will carry them still higher. The Y. W.'s work for this year is done, but the members have made so many plans for next year, and so many preparations, that it seems as though next year's work was well begun as this year finishes.

Sigma Omicron Society

THE Home Ec Club, later to become the Sigma Omicron Club, was formed last fall, and has as its president, Cecile Perkins. Its purpose is to bind together the girls of the Home Economics Department and to uphold the Department's standard. During the spring the Club affiliated itself with National Home Economic Association. Numerous social activities were taken up and a special May party, honoring the faculty, given May 10th.

The Club assisted in preparing the annual school dinners and especially gave its assistance in putting on the Athletic Banquet.

Two initiations were held during the year and the Club now has fifteen members. Those belonging are: Mildred Anderson, Esther Eaton, Eva Ericson, Miss Gavin, Sponsor, Margaret Greeling, Louise Hillman, Frances Johnson, Eleanor Madgett, Cecile Perkins, Thelma Perry, Edythe Prouse, Leota Sullenger, Ruth Smith, Mary Watenkamp, Mrs. Wells.

The "Bi" Club

THE "BI" CLUB of the University of Omaha started its second year of existence with a bang at the home of Mildred Dunham, October 29, 1923. Officers were chosen and plans laid which made the club one of the most active and wide-awake organizations on the campus.

The following officers were elected: Gerald Hogan, president; Rhoda Musgrave, vice president; Harold Stine, secretary, and Mildred Dunham, treasurer. The election of officers was followed by a Hallowe'en party, which materially reduced peace in the neighborhood, all the available supply of cider, doughnuts and pumpkin pie—in the order named.

Other meetings were held at the homes of Gerald Hogan, Lois Niles, Ida Lustgarten and Rhoda Musgrave.

Initiation of fifteen new members took place at the last meeting of the year which brought the membership up to 26. Pins were secured and every preparation made to make this club a permanent organization and it is to be hoped that it will be reorganized next year and enjoy even greater success that it has in the past year.

“Y” Boosters

OF ALL the organizations of the University, this one can rightfully be classed as the most democratic, and the one most instrumental in promoting a feeling of friendship among the men, as well as boosting all of the activities of the school. Under its auspices many prominent speakers have come to speak in chapel. It also co-operated with the Chapel committee in bringing other worthy speakers here. Hikes and parties have been held for the men, while a big “blow-out”, a campus bonfire, eats, etc., was promoted in conjunction with the Y. W. C. A. The officers in charge of the “Boosters” for the past year have been exceptionally capable. Kenneth Baker, the president, now graduating, is well known on the campus as a whole-hearted booster. Mead, Bolzendahl, Munson, all have been persistent and tireless workers. Much credit is also due to Dr. Vartanian for his time and effort spent in making the “Y” Booster year a successful one. One of the acts of the Boosters this year was to elect two men to represent the University at the annual Y. M. C. A. Rocky Mountain Conference at Estes Park. Slater and Neilan went, and will return, no doubt, with new inspiration to present to the school. Another great event sponsored by the Boosters and the girls of the Y. W. C. A. was the International Convention of Youth, held at Indianapolis, Ind. Joe Houston, the president-elect for the coming year, and Ken Baker went, to return with much knowledge and enthusiasm. It would be difficult to relate the many instances of the influence of the Club in forwarding the best interests of the University, in its attempt to spread democracy and high ideals, as well as clean and wholesome fun. But those who have been reached in some way, appreciate its presence, and work toward its continued existence. Others, reached indirectly, will soon realize its importance as a potent factor in the development of the school.

The Kindergarten Girls

IN THE HANDS of these girls lies the first instruction some little tots will receive after they leave their mother's hands. The first lessons and the gradual change from play to work will be deftly and gently directed by these students who have learned the theory out of books and have had practical experience under expert directors.

They have learned to do all the things the little children will do and have studied from the adult and child point of view, in order to be able to more wisely and practically teach the primary grades.

The course of study includes a study of child psychology, which enables them to understand the child mind and to reach the sympathy and interests of children. The lectures and recitations deal with pedagogy as a science and the practice teaching in the public schools, under regular teachers and supervisors, gives them the practical experience so necessary to become efficient and capable.

These girls made a special study of all the parts of kindergarten work, including music, games, handwork, story telling and projects. When these primary department students graduate all they lack as teachers is years of experience—and they have had more than a semester of that.

"13"

THE Mystic Thirteen" was the title appended to the young men and women who compose this group of boosters. They were elected at large by the school body, to push the activities of the University. The belief was held that if the thirteen most active members could be selected to cooperate and concentrate on some interest of the school, that certain activity would be carried through successfully. The results have been very gratifying and have shown that systematic promotion was necessary to accomplishment. The "Thirteen" promoted successfully the "Gateway Annual;" the "Weekly Gateway"; the Operetta by the Music Department; "Wedding Bells" by the Player's Club; special speakers at the Chapel, and other events that needed energetic publicity. The members hold their office for one year.

Pan Hellenic Council

THE long-looked for and much hoped for ambition of many of the members of the sororities and fraternities of the school became a reality this year in the formation of the Pan Hellenic Council. Professor Cameron, chairman of the Pan Hellenic Committee of the Faculty and chairman of the joint committee of Faculty and students deserves a very great amount of credit for steering the group through the troublesome times of organization and seeing that the council started off on the right foot. Many sessions were held late in the afternoons after the majority of the students had left school and a young but strong council organized for the purpose of promoting better harmony between the sororities and fraternities is the result.

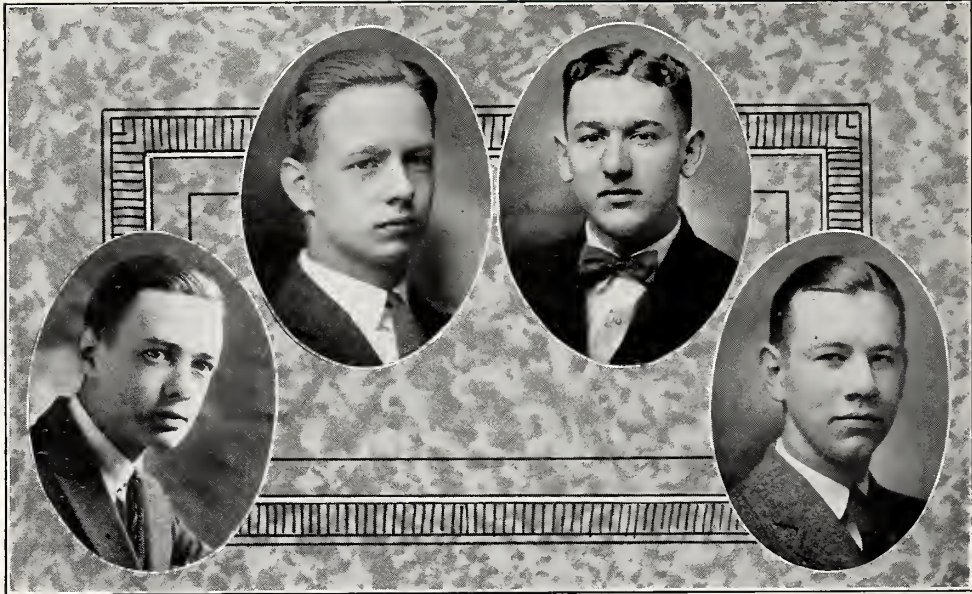

The influence of the council was first felt at the mid term semester when rules and regulations for rushing and pledging were laid down by the preliminary committee and were lived up to by the fraternities and sororities by a "gentleman's agreement."

A set of rules and regulations in regard to rushing, pledging, and initiating new members have been adopted and will be put into force and effect in the fall semester.

The members of the preliminary committee were: Roy E. Cameron, Nell Ward, Marlowe Addy, Mrs. L. F. Johnson and Dean James, faculty members and Eleanor Madgett, David C. Robel, Helen Searson, Ann McConnell, Herbert Fischer, Gwendoline Cheek and Kenneth C. Baker, student members.

The officers that have been elected for the coming year are: Herbert Fischer, president; Georgia Street, vice-president and Helen Searson, secretary and treasurer.

Unoma Debating Society

THIS SOCIETY was organized at the beginning of the first semester, in an attempt to fulfill the gap in the school organizations. The collection of high school debaters prompted the action. Business started with the first meeting. A constitution and by-laws were drawn up and plans made for an active year. Several parliamentary drills were held, and a team picked by competitive try-outs. Out of eight contestants, the following four were chosen: I. Changstrom, Roman Hrushka, J. F. Kutak and Joe Houston. The question debated was that "The United States should enter the World Court of International Justice." The other members of the club are: Leo Fried, John Kuhn, Richard Blissard, Carl Stromberg, Walter Munson, John Horton and Edward Neilan.

The Student Council

No man is born into the world whose work
Is not born with him; there is always work,
And tools to work withal, for those who will;
And blessed are the horny hands of toil.

—James Russell Lowell.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL being ready for work and anxious for it found it presented in various and sundry forms. The Council conducted a propaganda campaign to obtain better order in both the classroom and assembly and its efforts were rewarded by a noticeable improvement. The Council held the usual elections of the Annual Editor and Business Manager, the Central Committee Chairman, and the Gateway Editor; and in addition innovated the elections of the three classes returning next year, the Y Booster Club, and the Pan-Hellenic Council members. The election of the Annual Editor was held earlier than has been customary in past years in order to give the staff additional time for the performance of their arduous tasks. It was thought best to hold the elections of the class officers of the Y Booster officers in the spring so that there need be no delay in the Fall occasioned by the necessity of organizing but that the organizations would all be prepared to function at their highest efficiency.

Verily, this Student Council has done a noble work and blessed are its "horny hands of toil."

La Causerie

SPONSORED by Miss Zozaya, this Club has made much advancement in encouraging the use of the French language. Another purpose has been to keep high ideals and enjoyment in the Club activities. It has established a custom of purchasing French books during the year, and then leaving them to the school library. Ann McConnell has been president for the past two years. She has done much toward bringing the students together and making the meetings pleasant and educational. The Club intends to carry-on with its activities during the coming summer, having already planned picnics and outings. With the possibility of increasing the membership during the summer, and with the certain increase again in the fall, the Club has a suggestion of a bright future.

—J. F. K.

Public School Music Department

TWO years ago, this department was formed with the four girls in the front row, under the direction of Johanna Anderson and has since then grown to its present size.

The Seniors of this department have been doing practice teaching of music in the Omaha schools. The demand for their work has been greater than Miss Anderson could supply even though she has used three members of the Junior class for this purpose. They have also had experience as substitutes, taking the places of regular teachers when the latter have been absent.

This department sponsored a big concert given by Mr. Letovsky and Mr. Spillman last fall. They gave a full evening radio concert February 28, assisted by the Men's Glee Club and also a musical program in May featuring the operetta "The Riddle of Isis," besides singing at several smaller functions.

Glee Club

THE University of Omaha Glee Club has completed the most successful year that it probably has ever experienced. At the beginning of the school year about twenty men of the University turned out, most of them inexperienced, but all willing to work their hardest to give Omaha University the best glee club possible.

The Glee Club was then fortunate enough to secure Hugh Wallace as director and it is largely through his efforts that the club has met with the success it has had.

Several concerts have been given at various churches during the year and the club has appeared at W. O. A. W. twice.

Howard S. Anderson is president of the organization.

Assembly

1924

Assembly

If nothing else can be said of Assembly, yet the fact remains that it is growing in influence as shown by the increase in attendance year by year. It can reasonably be said that the average attendance this year has averaged somewhat above a hundred.

Certainly this manifestation of interest in the daily assembly has its underlying causes. This is the one time and place where the entire student body may meet in common accord. Here community spirit and cheerful fellowship spring forth; all race, class, and fraternity distinctions are obliterated in the religious atmosphere, which is devoid of any sectarianism. The high calibered programs presented this year have been of sufficient variation to create suspense and interest. Also each program has been of the type suited to the college student—appealing to the best in him. Indeed, assembly this year has meant social and moral improvement in the student's lives which time alone will reflect in the life of our communities and nation.

Due to the benefits received from the institution of chapel the students take the opportunity to express their appreciation to Dr. Vartanian, who has been largely instrumental in arranging for the year's splendid program.

The following list of speakers and artists speaks for itself:

Mr. Holland, Advertising Manager of Orchard & Wilhelm Company.

Dr. Samuel Horton, England—League of Nations.

Rev. Mr. Ernst, Lowe Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Program by Music Department.

Bell Telephone Company.

George Campbell.

Dr. Walter Judd.

The Players Club

THE PLAYERS CLUB took the initiatory step this year in giving two performances for the annual play instead of one. "Wedding Bells" was given on Friday, May 11, and Saturday, May 12, both nights playing to full houses.

Thus we can say that the Department of Expression is not only keeping pace with the rest of the departments of the University, but is two or three steps ahead.

The Players Club of the University of Omaha has just completed the most successful year in its history. Anyone who was fortunate enough to see the presentation of "Wedding Bells" will readily agree that the talent displayed on the part of every one taking part was commendable, not only as superior amateur ability, but also a production that would have made Selwyn himself feel jealous. (The fact of the matter is that Mr. Selwyn came to Omaha to see if he couldn't secure some of the leads of "Wedding Bells" for his Chicago appearance this fall.)

Central Committee

TO THOSE WHO viewed the wonderful pageant and then that par excellent entertainment the evening of May 23, at Jacobs Hall, no doubt the question arose as to who the persons were that put such a stupendous undertaking across in such great style. Here they are: Helen Neff, the senior representative, has the coronation ceremonies in general charge of which the Pageant of Spring was a part under the direction of Mrs. L. F. Johnson; Benjamin Mead, junior representative saw that the stage was properly taken care of, assisted by Ken Slawsson, stage manager and his crew of able helpers; Alice Ruf, sophomore representative took care of the publicity and programs, assisted by the University reporters for the three Omaha papers; Thelma Marks, freshman representative, had charge of Open House; Herbert Fischer, chairman of the committee, deserves much credit for the work he did in co-ordinating the work of the others and in seeing that everything went off with smoothness and dispatch; Dr. James, faculty representative, helped the committee with many suggestions for the entertainment. The committee has worked hard and have accomplished a Gala Day that will go down in history as one of the greatest ever held at Omaha Uni.

Gala Day

RAIN, RAIN, and then some more rain marked the Gala Day festivities this year. The committee, frantic as to what to do in order to hold the pageant and coronation ceremonies in spite of the rain, finally decided to hold this part of the festivities in the gym and by hard and fast work on the part of the stage crew the gym was converted in about a half hour's time from a theater to the ball room of the queen's castle with her throne upon the stage. At six o'clock the people began to fill the balcony and the edges of the gym. Fully three hundred people witnessed the pageant and the crowning. Music furnished by Ken Baker's Omahans kept the people in good spirits until the pageant was ready to begin. The tripping fairies, led by Carmen Longman as Puck, tripped lightly to and fro and then formed a pathway for the queen and her array as they ascended the throne. Many people stated that they thought that the pageant was even prettier than if it had been held in the park.

At eight-thirty, after the gym had again been converted into an auditorium, the people again filled it and the curtain went up on the Eleventh Annual Gala Day Entertainment. The queen and her attendants were the first thing on the program. The results of the Gala Day contests were announced in a proclamation from the queen, read by Eleanor Madgett, herald, and Russell C. Mattson, president of the freshman class was presented with a banner and Fletcher Slater with a gold medal.

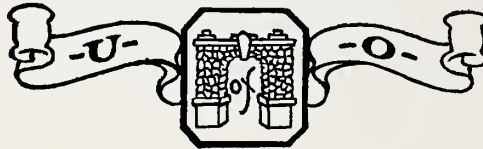

Amid the tumult of a railroad station, milk cans and mail trucks, the Harmonious Phi Sig Phor opened the bill with a bunch of lively harmony. Russ Mattson and Homer Schleh in the Dark Mystery kept the audience in an uproar with their clever line of gags. A beautiful scene, In a Lotus Garden, was presented by the Sigma Chi Omichron Sorority. Rave Dobel and Ben Kaker, as the two noble nuts, surprised the audience with an act that was different. A pretty act of novelty dances was presented by four girls of the Kappa Psi Delta Sorority, under the direction of Ruth Betts. Herbert Fischer, as Henri Sapriste, fooled them again and also furnished some amusement with a demonstration of his first act as a magician. A piece of real drama was presented by the Theta Phi Delta Fraternity, the Idol's Eye. The Red and Black Lassies of the Phi Delta Psi Sorority made quite a hit. The seniors, so solemn and staid, took the audience's breath away when they discarded their solemn robes and presented a number entitled "Every Day is Dancing Day for Us." Edwin Nielan, as Hiram, Kenneth Slawsson, as his Paw, and Joe Houston, as a woman impersonator, presented a little playlet that was quite unique, entitled "Double Crossing Hiram." The entertainment closed with a play, "Betty's Butler," presented by the sophomore class, under the direction of James Doty.

Such was the Eleventh Annual Gala Day. Everybody had a good time and everybody agreed that it was the best Gala Day ever held. May next year's Gala Day and those to come further raise the level of perfection that was set this year. Thanks are due to all the students who worked so hard and ceaselessly in bringing about this—the best ever.

Gala Day Track Meet

FLETCHER SLATER, sophomore, won the honor of being the high point man with 22 points in the second annual Gala Day Track Meet, held in Kountze Park on the morning of Gala Day. Harold Margalin, freshman, ran him a close second with 21 points. Competition was keen between the freshmen and sophomores for class championship with but a feeble resistance on the part of the juniors and none at all from the seniors. It just so happened this year that the two upper classes were blessed with but few athletes. The freshmen won the championship with 59 points; the sophomores receiving 39 points and the juniors 2 points.

- Zero—Nothing.

Gateway Annual Calendar

1924

- Sept. 13, 14, 15—Registration, mostly freshmen at first, with a nonchalant arrival of upper classmen on the afternoon of the 15th. Sophomores are latest, most bored, most sunburned. Freshmen catch the spirit so that by Friday afternoon the only ones possibly mistaken for freshmen are seniors.
- Sept. 22—Floods of assignments. Even the sophomores are studying. Rushing and pledging going full force.
- Oct. 6—A green U of O grid team plays a 17-letter Tabor College group to a 7-7 draw. As a sample of the spirit with which they did it, Omaha points to Albert Bell, who broke his head in football practice and didn't know it for three days.
- Oct. 8—Y. M.-Y. W. mixer, in which the salt of the earth appears with lots of pep.
- Oct. 20—Y Booster pep meeting around campus bonfire. Perry's fire is so good that when the flames roar above the gym roof, an uninsured neighbor turns in a fire alarm. Plenty of hot dogs and apples for the firemen, too; so everybody gets an extra thrill out of it.
- Oct. 31 and thereabouts—Numerous Hallowe'en parties, best that of the Biology club which had a head start on gruesomeness anyway.
- Nov. 1—The school takes breath and surveys the fall attack of clubitis and elections, noting three new clubs: Home economics, sociology, debating; noting also a flock of new presidents: Mattsen, freshmen; Borcharding, sophomore; Mead, junior; Arlander, senior; Anderson, glee club; Changstrom, debating; Barnes, Y. W. C. A.; Perkins, home economics; and Baker of Y-Boosters, Players' club and Sociology club. The language clubs also elect, Los Sabios deciding Slater best represents the superwisdom of their name, La Causerie electing Ann McConnell, and the German club of the unpronounceable name electing Margaret Greeling.
- Nov. 1 also—Football becomes a subject for elegy.
- Nov. 3—Headline in the Weekly Gateway: "Sophomore Girls Enjoy Class Hike to Utmost." Wonder what clogged the joy for Slater and Kutak, men of the class who condescended to come along!

- Nov. 5—Jane, Lois, Lewis Lee and Ben see who can tell the ghostiest ghost story around the campfire of the annual Hare and Hound chase.
- Nov. 6—You can't keep a good school down. Twenty fellows sign up to show the town that if winter comes to football, basketball is close on it dragging in spring by the neck.
- Nov. 10—Alpha Sig fall initiation.
- Nov. 15, 16—Everybody falls in love with Dr .Matilda Hunt, "the little Anglo-Indian lady."
- Nov. 16—Sophomore party a success.
- Nov. 21—Home Ec club serves luncheon to student council. At-a-boy, girls!
- Nov. 26 and ensuing Mondays—U of O settles World Court question.
- Nov. 28—Girls catch the spirit and go out for basketball, somewhat to the disgust of a superior male team, but getting quite a kick out of it themselves.
- Nov. 30—Thanksgiving, no school, lots of dinner, good resolutions to study Friday cancelled on account of the triple alliance, turkey, cranberry sauce and pie.
- Dec. 13—Alpha Sig Christmas party.
- Dec. 16—Kappa and Phi Sig formal initiations.
- Dec. 18—U of O enters State Conference.
- Dec. 19—Christmas vacation. Everybody saying Merry Christmas, grinning and piling up books to take home in case the holidays are too much for their consciences and they do decide to study.
- Dec. 21—Kappa dance at the Blackstone.
- Dec. 25—Christmas, also the Sig Chi dance.
- Dec. 26—Pi Omega Pi Christmas dance.
- Dec. 28—Theta dinner dance and Phi Sig holiday prom.
- Dec. 29—Phi Delt dance. All sorority dances at the Blackstone.
- Dec. 28 to Jan. 1—Joe, Pauline, Ken and Mildred fill notebooks full of Indianapolis.
- Jan. 2—School is resumed. Annoying, but true.
- Jan. 12—Bobsled party, skate and dance at Hanscom Park. Glorious time, snow, thrills, spills. co-operative uphill pulls and good orchestra afterwards.

- Jan. 10, 11—Yankton wins 17-14, 16-15. The 16-15 is the heartbreaker.
- Jan. 16—Three men ineligible, team goes to Wayne and loses a hard fight.
- Jan. 17—Plays Midland at Fremont. Busload of rooters goes down and escorts a losing but triumphantly unlicked team back.
- Jan. 18—Fremont going students startle assembly by hurling new yell of defiance at fate: "One-a-zippa, two-a-zippa, three-a-zippa, zam; We got beat but we don't give a———!; Rip Van Winkle or a little yellow pup! Omaha Uni never gives up." Spirit of athletics leans out of Heaven and remarks, "That's the old fight." U of O seconds the motion—it surely is.
- Jan. 19—Annual election, McConnell and Changstrom.
- Jan. 21—Temporary Pan-Hellenic council meets. Pan-Hellenes roll up their sleeves and start in on a constitution.
- Jan. 23 to 26—Exams. Profs harden their hearts to the tune of "Yes, we have no compassion."
- Jan. 27—Pi O formal initiation.
- Jan. 29—Midyear rushing begins, governed by a gentleman's agreement of the frats that, much to the surprise of skeptics, proves we are honest and succeeds.
- Feb. 1—Frosh leap year party—girls do the dating.
- Feb. 3—Sig Chi initiation at Madge Rossiter's home.
- Feb. 7, 8—Wayne and Kearney win.
- Feb. 9—Theta initiation.
- Feb. 12—Omaha wins over Midland 19-15. Roof of the gymnasium upstarts three feet at the initial yell of the pep meeting after the game, hangs in quivering vibration of suspense and doesn't dare to settle until 3 a. m.
- Feb. 15—Kappa Valentine dance at Prettiest Mile club house.
- Feb. 16—Doane joins Midland with 16-5 against them.
- Feb. 17 to 20—State Student Volunteer convention, also Foster, Cherrington, Collins. Carl becomes interested in Miss De La Porte and the Marshall Islands.
- Feb. 20 and 22—Chadron and Dana defeat Omaha.
- Mar. 6—We beat Grand Island 12-8. End of season.
- Mar. 7—Mixer in honor of the team as the Uni tries to tell the fellows how proud she is of a team that wins victory out of what ought to be dead loss.

- May 21 and 22—Seniors take last flare of juvenality, dress like kids, stage private skip day, and burn their books.
- May 23—Gala Day starts with a track meet that even mud, drizzle and cold weather couldn't deter. Freshmen win with 58 points. "Duke" Slater upholds the honors of the sophs by winning the most individual points, 22. Margolin, freshman, is second with 21. Angry at such persistence the drizzle starts to try to be a flood. Gala Day obligingly moves inside and the May Queen, Cecil Perkins, is crowned, the pageant given in the gym. Evening that follows helps make the 11th Annual Gala Day one of the best chronicled.
- May 26—Y. W. Lawn Festival in honor of the seniors also staged inside to accommodate the weather.

Freshman's Guide

There has been a long-felt need for a reliable source that would give the genuine, undiluted low-down on the different boys' and girls' frats at the University of Omaha. We have endeavored, in this little work, to do this to the best of our ability. Let the Freshman peruse these pages with care, remembering that that which is most strenuously denied is most apt to be true.

PHI SIGMA PHI

This is the oldest fraternity on the campus—they announced it to the world in their ad in the Gala Day program. They also said it was the best—we're glad somebody thinks so. The fraternity was founded goodness knows when by Slop Heel, Lo Rated and Knotso Good, and was first known as the A. T. C. club, meaning, "All the Crocks." You see when they were without competition they had no difficulty in securing all the crocks on the campus. When the Thetas started the name A. T. C. was felt to be no longer appropriate, and the brothers thought they ought to have a Greek name. They knew but two Greek letters, so they decided to make the Phi do double duty and called themselves Phi Sigma Phi, which stands for Phast Swinging Phusser, a type that some of the boys fondly imagine themselves to be. One of the principal officers in the fraternity is called the Shiek. (No connection with Louis Lee McKibben.)

The fraternity pin is a confused jumble of three letters, and it is very hard to make out just what it is supposed to be. The same is true of the fraternity. They also have pledge pins, which they pass out in carload lots at the beginning of every semester. Over half of the pledge pins find their way back to the fraternity vault before two weeks have elapsed. The fraternity colors are purple and gold, gold in memory of the money that changes hands at the fortnightly poker meetings, and purple because it is a royal color—the symbol of the royal flush that every member aspires to hold some day.

The crest of the fraternity bears a dragon sitting on its heels, because the brothers are always draggin' heels to the fraternity dances. These last are invariably given in the slickest places—sometimes they assess the members as much as three dollars apiece. The fraternity song is "Thank God for the Garden." Their pin will get you into Krug Park or Roseland free any day.

The Phi Sig grip is the same as the Sig Chi, and many of the members have inter-married, showing that they came to grips early in life. Among the well-known members of this collection of original types are: Harry Petrie, the best-dressed boy in school; Don Swigart (he goes with the editor) and Stuart Kelley, the champion endurance orator and humorist. Ken Baker is also one of the brothers, but most of them don't know it, he only comes to meetings when there is something extra to eat. By the way, they expect to have a house-building association, they expect to move into their house about the time the University finishes its new building.

THETA PHI DELTA

If Ben Mead were here he could give you a better line on the Thetas than we can. We believe he has it all written down—how many Thetas made letters at Omaha for twenty years back, and how many served on the Student Council and the Y. M. C. A. board, and how many made good fraternities like Sigma Phi Epsilon and Alpha Sigma Phi when they went away to other schools. It is said that the list takes almost two and one half minutes to read. If we are any judge of nationality, the only fraternity some of the Theta alumni could make would be Zeta Beta Tau.

Freshman's Guide

Well, anyway, they were founded as rivals to the Phi Sigs, and they have tried for years to do that successfully. Heaven knows that ought to be a low enough standard for anyone. In former years the war was characterized by spirited attacks on both sides, and much slinging of mud and whitewash (on the Gym), but now they are both so flat on their backs that it is just pitiful.

The Thetas are great rushers. They rush everything, and spike anything they can except their punch. It is a brave sight to see Slater drive up in his Maxwell limousine, with his domestic finish haircut, and haul off the flattened rushee to the smoker, where the cigars, a peculiar perquisite of the Theta order, are passed out lavishly, along with the real dope on the other fraternities. Soon the luckless wight comes out wearing a purple and white ribbon, another pledge to dear old Theta Phi Delta. Some wear their pledge ribbons as long as two days, and of course, there are always a few that are sucked in permanently (you know what Barnum said). The Thetas' pin is shaped like a pillow, quite appropriate for such a sleepy organization. In the upper left hand corner appear a flat tire, in the middle a cipher crossed out, to show that they are rated less than nothing; in the lower right hand corner a pool triangle, just to show how devilish the boys can be at times. Every spring the Thetas give a dinner dance at Prettiest Mile at which Dr. Jenkins speaks. (I don't know, I didn't have my watch with me). Perry always gets a date for this function. He usually starts a month ahead of time.

There are as many heels in this fraternity as on a centipede. The most eminent member, in the estimation of everyone, is David C. Robel, the other senior. Although for many years a confirmed bachelor, he has at last fallen for the charms of a vivacious Kappa, because she is the best looking girl in school, or maybe she is the best looking girl because she goes with Dave—who knows?

Aside from David we have Eddie Thompson. Eddie is noted principally for his unhappy love affairs. He went Theta because his two brothers did, and he has regretted it ever since—audibly.

It is hard to say much about the Thetas because there isn't much to say. One glance at them and you know.

ALPHA SIGMA LAMBDA

Here we have the real fraternity—the boys with ideals. It was founded in a conscious spirit of sanctitude in December, 1919, by three men who have been rushed by the other frats and had found something lacking in their makeup (who wouldn't).

As an outward and visible sign of their inward and spiritual grace they bear on their pin the cross—and the fraternity itself seems to be a cross between the Luther League, the Scandinavian-American Foundation and Phi Beta Kappa. In the upper right hand corner of their pin is a moon, to show that, despite their religious tendencies, they sometimes have moonshine on their picnics. Opposite is a star, for numbered among the brothers is the star perennial long time magic performer. The thing that looks like a bread knife is a broken sword, to signify that no throats will be cut here—anyone can get in. The four rubies at the top of the pin are to warn the brothers away from the red lights. It is our private opinion that they swiped their pin from the order of De Molay, but they are very similar organizations, anyway, although the Alpha Sigs do bar Hebrews. ## Freshman's Guide fraternity at Central High School, the local Alpha Sigs breathe much easier as their namesakes at Central were not the right kind of boys at all, why some of them were even known to smoke cigarettes. We wonder what would have happened if Arthur Douglas Pinkerton Burnham has succeeded in establishing a branch of that order at Uni, as he tried to do in the fall of 1922. The local bunch would probably have succumbed with shame and chagrin.

The Alpha Sigs don't believe in dancing, but they were going to break a precedent and give a Christmas house party, but the fellow at whose home they were going to have it sent back his pin. They have all sorts of rosy plans for the future, they were going to build a house this year, but the man who was going to get the lumber at wholesale resigned from the fraternity. They have a journal they call the lamp—we hope they always keep it lit up—its the only thing about this bunch that ever will be. Their colors are red and black—red because they are all well read, and black because there is at least one black-jack shark among them.

SIGMA CHI OMICRON

This is an organization of nice, refined girls—they are all perfect ladies and they don't care who knows it. Jane McConnell also belongs, but the sisters are trying to live it down. They are the oldest sorority on the campus, and in fact one might say they are so old that they are fast becoming decrepit, accable, spurlos versenkt. Although they still think they are the East wind, between you and me they are already out of trumps in their own hand, and in a year or two will be about three down and one to go. However, they expect some day to petition Kappa Alpha Theta and what could be more fitting—K. A. T. is their middle name.

They were founded the year the rhu-barb froze by Carrie Nation, Hallie Tosis and L. Pinkham. Their pin is an arrow—showing that the girls would like to fly high. It has a very blunt point—most of the sisters are not so keen. On the shaft of the arrow are an X and an O, the X standing as in algebra for an unknown quantity, the popular girls in the sorority; and the O for zero, their general rating around school. The four pearls on the pin represent the really good girls in this queer organization, and recall the scriptures—you know, "pearls cast among swine."

The sisters are very shy and retiring. We make an exception of the recruit from Harlan, Ia. Rumor has it that the proverbial rusty gate has nothing on her.

They object strenuously to having men hang around their meetings. As far as we know they haven't been bothered much in that way, although it is said that Ken Baker does drop in for something to eat now and then. That's probably why they are so down on men in general. They gave a banquet this year, to make a precedent. It keeps the sisters pretty busy making precedents, unmaking presidents and getting rid of the pledges Sister Mullaly spikes without authority. They always have at least two sets of officers every year, you see the girls get along so well together and it is such a pleasure to be in office, they believe in passing it around. Some of them find ingenious ways of announcing their engagements—oh, they are a clever bunch, they admit it.

During rush week they gave a progressive dinner. Its the only progressive thing they have done for a long time. They gave their spring dance out at the Country Club too, Eloise was just worn out explaining how to get out there to the hoi polloi.

Among the prominent members of the Sigma Chi Omicron sorority are: Marie Pellegrin, the near-May-queen (she used to go with Doc Jenkins' son); Katherine Swift (what's in a name—you'd be surprised); Margaret McMillan (yes, she is too engaged—lots of engaged girls act that way); and the Editor (it's a shame to throw that up to her again—after all her troubles with printers and things). The girls have a fraternity song. They sang it at their spring party, and really looked quite good in the dimly lighted room.

KAPPA PSI DELTA

This bunch started under good auspices—they broke off from the Sig Chis and any girls that would do that would certainly rate high in intelligence were it not for the fact that they had allowed themselves to be sucked in first of all. But we live and learn. However, it looks as though the Kappas, like the amoeba, are destined to reproduce by fission—we expect to see the Freshmen split off and found a new order most any time now. It is a well known fact how well they get along together. Sometimes they even meet together, but when they do they never serve refreshments—the girls' mothers have found it much too hard on the crocks (both animate and inanimate). When one smacks a sister's cranium with a coffee cup something is liable to break and unfortunately it is too often the cup.

To look at a photo of the Kappa Freshmen, and then to look at a picture of their alumni, is to be forcibly reminded of the ads run in beauty culture magazines—before and after taking. As the ugly duckling's mother said "What fine birds these eggs have turned out to be." The Kappas are a living example of the truth of the old proverb that a sorority, like bad liquor, sometimes comes up.

Girls, this is the bobbed-haired sorority, and it numbers among its members the two best looking girls in school, the perfect girl, and the best dressed girl. We wonder if Al won her title on that tuition dress. This is the bunch you want to get in if you crave a multitude of dates (thanks to Harry Epperson and the boys across the river). But, oh, they are awfully exclusive—you just can't get in unless you are engaged to somebody's brother or something. This spring "The Kappas pledged Geraldine Swannick, who was the only girl they rushed," as we read in the newspapers. We wonder why.

Their pin is an anchor. An anchor is something that swings on the front end of a ship. Given darkness and a little cooperation, most of the Kappas will swing on the front end of a ship, in the back seat of a car or anywhere else convenient. Around the anchor is a rope, symbolic of the tie that binds the sisters. We notice on the new pins the rope looks a little frayed.

Heaps of prominent people belong to this bunch, including all the class officers for next year, if they come back. The sorority colors are rose and gray—rose for the future and gray for the past.

PHI DELTA PSI

This is a bunch of girls that wouldn't make anything else but as they felt they had the makings of sorority women in them they decided to make a sorority of their own. Behold the finished product. "Now watch us this year" as the president said in her speech in chapel. As far as we can see it is perfectly safe to do so—you won't be blinded by anything spectacular. Like all nouveaux riches they are the most pushing group of people on the campus. They make their pledges commit to memory the telephone numbers of all the fraternity houses in town as a part of the probation week rites. They believe that persistence and frankness win in the matter of getting dates—if they can't rate anyone at one house they call up the next, and usually before the evening is over some luckless wretch is lured out.

They exhibit a marked penchant for matters politic, and usually swing the balance of power in elections. That is about all they do swing—they couldn't swing a date unless they drugged him first.

They have a funny looking pin, but nobody ever sees one because you never see any of the girls around school. They are always off in a corner plotting something dark or telling each other about their sweethearts who are away at college. Oh, yes, indeed, some of the girls have steady men, they admit it themselves.

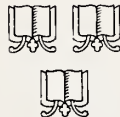

The most prominent sister is Cecil Perkins, the girl from Misery Valley, the May queen and the ex-May queen. It must be marvellous to have a great big strong man come up and tell the faculty where to get off, all for your sake, Cecil. All the same we're glad Cecil won out, it was a fitting crown for her career. When Cecil first blew in from Missouri Valley she didn't know galoshes from overshoes. Hot spit—look at her now.

She has quite out-Kappa'd the Kappas.

And don't forget Thelma Wood. Would she? Well, we don't know for sure, but it is our opinion she would.

PI OMEGA PI

How this bunch has the supreme nerve to call themselves a sorority quite flattens us out. Why they are not sorority types at all, in the generally accepted sense. There is scarcely a girl among them who is conceited, snobbish, argumentative or two-faced. How they ever run their "sorority" without these cardinal virtues is beyond our ken (that is a figure of speech and has nothing to do with the well known Mr. Baker). But they seem to struggle along, all eight of them, and now and then some girl gets a date and there is general rejoicing. They are improving, too. Their allies, the Sig Chis seem to be teaching them a few tricks in the political game. Their pledge pins are horseshoes—to remind the girls how lucky they are they went Pi O. When we think of what they could have gone we realize the fitness of this idea. Yes, the Pi O's are getting better; don't think they are not. "Day by day in every way"—you know the rest. Some day they may be as conceited as the Sig Chis, as congenial as the Kappas, and as up and coming as the Phi Deltas. Give 'em time.

Squire—Did you send for me, my lord?

Launcelot—Yes, make haste, bring me the can opener. I've got a flea in my knight clothes.

Co-ed—Do you believe in love at first sight?

Second Co-ed—Yes, and every other opportunity.

Bright—What is play?

Dumb—A very important thing that school interrupts.

Con—Watch your step, Miss.

Jo—That's not necessary; there are several sapheads behind me doing that.

Jim—I loved a girl once, and she made a perfect fool of me.

Flo—Some girls do leave a lasting impression, don't they?

Speaker at Chapel—And what would we do without women? Answer me that.

Dr. Vartanian (meekly) — As we pleased.

Irate Papa—What do you mean by coming in a 4 a. m.?

Flapper—For heaven's sake, pop, I have to patronize the old roost some time, don't I?

Cameron—You say you lost control of your car?

McKibben—Yes. I couldn't keep up the installments.

George—How's the girl, Harry?

Harry—It's all off. I threw her over yesterday.

George—Why?

Harry—I heard she eloped with another fellow.

The best argument for the styles of the present day is the family album.

Caution—Go Slow!

Lester—Why do blushes creep over the girl's faces?

John—Because if they ran they would kick up too much dust.

Helen—Does she know Grace to speak to?

Second Helen—No, only to talk about.

This summer—Have you an opening for a bright, energetic college graduate?

A moment later—Yes. Don't slam it on your way out.

Laura—Oh Helen, I saw a big fish, that long, under the ice.

Helen—Nonsense. I'm quite sure it was only your reflection.

Swimming to some is deep stuff.

While to others it is merely a matter of form.

Hotel Proprietor—Do you want a room?

Fischer—No, I want to disguise myself as a banana and sleep in the fruit dish.

Dave—Hello, hello there!

Walt—Oh hello, it was so windy, I didn't see you.

Why is your face so red, little girl?

Cause, ma-am.

Cause why?

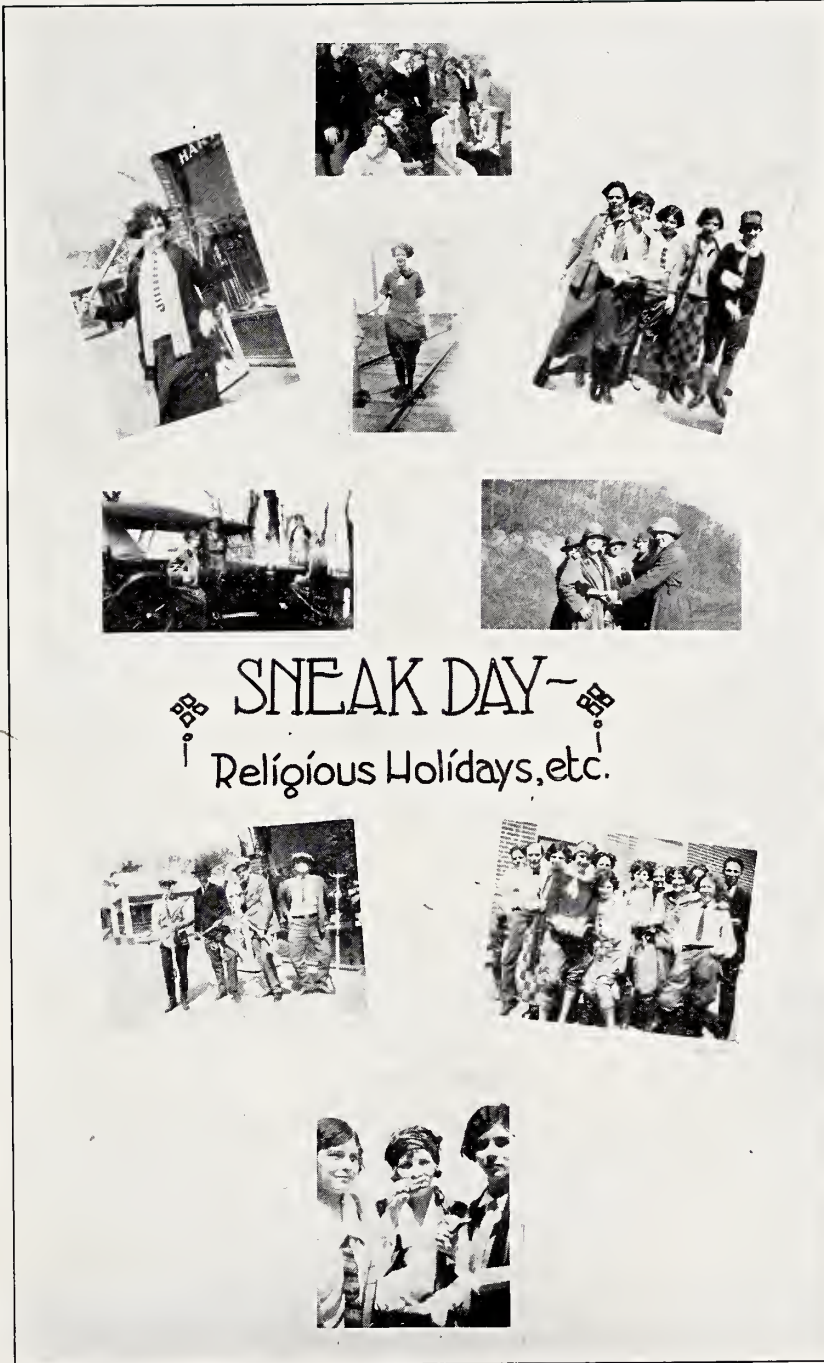

Cosmetics.

Athletic hint—Never play football with your mouth open. When you brush your teeth you might find an extra ear.

Flappers do what old maids think.

Darling, I am growing whiskers, I have three upon my chin, I think I'll go and see a barber, If three whiskers lets me in.

Searle—No. He merely gassed it.

Mary—He said he'd drown himself if I refuse to marry him.

Lois—So he's between the devil and the deep sea.

Betty—What's the matter?

Marie—I wrote an article on fresh milk and the editor condensed it.

He (with great dignity)—Then this is absolutely final?

She—Absolutely. Shall I return your letters?

He—Yes, please. I think they're good enough to use again.

Breaths there a girl with soul so dead who never to her sheik has said—Where do we eat?

Somebody's Dad—Look here, my dear, I don't mind you sitting up late with that young man, but I do object to him taking the morning papers when he goes.

Prof. Sullenger—You should think of the future.

Ken.—I can't, it's my girls birthday and I have to think of the present.

The trouble with some girls who we think are stunning, is that they think so too.

Going Down.

Helpful Hint—If your brains won't get you in print, you can always sign a patent medicine testimonial and grab off some publicity for your stomach.

Bright Student—Judge, I believe you are stringing me.

Ed—I like cheerfulness. I admire anyone who sings at his work.

Tom—How you must love a mosquito.

Flapper—Don't you think that young man is nice, mother?

Mother—I do not, my dear. He looks too much like your father when he was a young man.

Stranger—My man, is your mother home?

Homer—Do you think I'm beating this rug for my health?

Love—Two equals nothing.

Kiss—Nothing divided by two.

Marriage—One plus one equals one.

Divorce—One minus one leaves two.

The Girl—Meet me tomorrow night at the same place at seven.

Kit.—Oh just out on a date.

Mother—With that dirty shirt?

Kit.—Naw, with a girl.

Mable—Tell me quite frankly, do you prefer blondes or brunettes?

Strom—Yes, dear.

First Maid—How did you like working for that college professor?

Second Maid—Aw, it was a rotten job. He was all the time quarreling with his wife and they kept me busy running between the keyhole and the dictionary.

Dean James (In Public Speaking)—Did I ever tell you the story of the actor who could make his audience weep by just reading a menu?

Who had eye-penciled her mouth and lip-sticked her eyes.

Highwayman—Halt! If you move you're dead.

Joe—My man, you should be more careful of your English. If I should move it would be a positive sign that I was alive.

McKibben—You last paper was very difficult to read, you work should be so written that even the ignorant will be able to understand it.

Boz.—Yes sir, what part didn't you understand?

Proud Father—My daughter sprang from a line of peers.

Duke—I once jumped off a dock myself.

Russ—Why did they kick that medical student out of the library?

Pete—Edith caught him trying to remove the appendix from a book he was reading.

Yes, it is possible to kiss a girl while driving, but it takes a lot of co-operation.

Prof. McK.—Have you ever heard of the theory of Necking?

Helen—No, I care for only applied science.

Russ—How much do you weigh?

Co-ed—120.

Russ—With or without complexion?

Meek—I'm from Bermuda.

Mill—You look big and strong.

From the way you handle that brief case it must be filled with eggs.

Pete—Egg-s-hell.

Ormond—I'm half inclined to kiss you.

Jane—How stupid of me I thought you were merely round-shouldered.

Ann—What do you mean college boys are so vulgar?

Don—Because they're always pulling off so much rah stuff.

Jo. B.—Is it proper to take a girl walking through Kountze park?

Editor—Yes, if you keep walking.

Jim—How did you happen to win the 100-yard dash?

Bob—Somebody filled the starting gun with turpentine.

Bell—Hello, I want a box for tomorrow afternoon.

What size?

There will be six in the party.

But they only come in single sizes, it will have to be made special.

Is this the Orpheum?

No, Braily and Dorrence, the undertakers.

Ellen—Mac's Hash House—There's a fly in this ice cream.

Mac—That's all right, the cold will kill him.

Jo.—I'm not myself tonight.

Brute—Then we ought to have a good time.

Visitor—What does the Dean do here in chapel.

Ed—Oh, he looks over the student body and then prays for the school.

Barber—You look talented.

Ormond—That's why I want my hair cut.

Carson—Don't interrupt me, my mind is on my work.

Tyson—My, what dirty work!

Miss Winters—What insect lives on the least food?

Ted.—The moth, it eats holes.

Most Anyone—I had an awful good time tonight.

So did I, perfectly awful.

Ormond—I had my nose broken in two places last fall.

Jane—But why do you keep going to those places?

Mill—I'll never get over what I saw last night.

Helen—What's that?

Mill—The moon.

Doty—I'd go through fire for you.

Carmen—What a silly ash you'd be.

Homer, over the phone—What time are you expecting me tonight?

The Only One, icily—I'm not expecting you at all.

Homer, very calmly—Then I'll surprise you.

Hogan—I wish I were a fireman.

Christie—Fire away.

Hogan—Then I could put out all your other flames.

Good will is that intangible asset which makes a man, a woman, or a business of more value to the community than is indicated by mere dollars and cents

It has always been our aim to build Good Will by selling at reasonable prices the best pastries, salads, butter, and eggs we can obtain,

Well, They Sound Alike

Old Smith was busy in his back yard with saw and hatchet while his wife nursed a bad cold in the house, when a neighbor came to the fence.

"Good mornin', Mr. Smith," he said. "How is Mrs. Smith this mornin'?"

"Just about the same," old Smith replied. "She didn't sleep very well last night."

"That's too bad," the neighbor sympathized; and then, as a raucous sound came from the house, he added solicitously: "I s'pose that's her coughin', ain't it?"

"No," old Smith answered absent-mindedly, his eyes still on his work; "it ain't her coffin; it's a new hen house."

—The Ladies' Home Journal.

Louise—Last week Bob gave me a box of candy, saying, "Sweets to the sweet."

Helen—A pretty sentiment. What of it?

Louise—But this week he gave me an ivory hair brush.

Al—Did you get a haze?

Walt—No, I was mist.

Prof. Cameron—Who established the law of diminishing returns?

Boz—My laundryman.

Boz—You sure look classy this mornin'g.

Ed—I ought to—have four straight.

Pete—See you shaved this morning.

Burt—Nope! I cut my face on a bottle.

Kit—What became of that gate you and your girl used to swing on?

Murdock—She gave it to me.

Len—Isn't that porch light dim?

Jane—Well, it has quite a bit of scandal power.

Schleh—I drew my own picture yesterday.

Edmiston—I thought you said you had never made an ass of yourself.

Ormond—I'm not what I used to be.

Jane—No?

Ormond—I used to be a child.

Eddie—Don't you think it's true that opposites attract?

Betty—Of course, dumbell.

Prof. Cameron—What did you say?

Spearman—Nothing.

Prof. Cameron—I know, but how did you say it this time?

Prof. McK.—Russell, use the word "expectorate" in a correct sentence.

Eperson—If you haven't got a car, how do you expectorate?

Stevens—Jonah was a wiser man than Noah.

Prof. V.—How's that?

Stevens—He had more inside dope.

George—That girl's legs reminds of an Indian's arms.

Harry—What do you mean?

George—Bow n' arrow.

How doth the busy college chap improve each shinning minute?

By bulling when he's out of class and sleeping when he's in it.

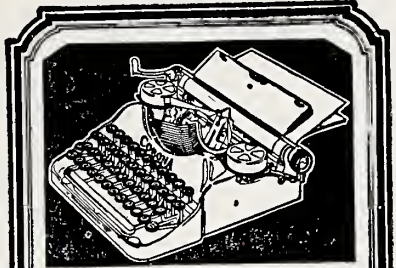

We wish the girls would stop putting rouge on their lips—rather poor taste.

POINTED QUESTIONS

Do ships have eyes when they go to see,
Does a jolly tar flow from a tree,
Can a river ever loose its head,
Are fishes crazy when they go insane,
Can an old hen sing her lay,
Can you bring relief to a window pane,
Can you mend the break of day?

What vegetable is a policeman's beat,
Is a newspaper white when it's red,
Are bakers broke when they're making dough,

Is an undertaker's business dead.
Would a wallpaper store make a good hotel

On account of the borders there,
Would you paint a rabbit on a bald man's head
Just to give him a little hair?

You must pay the policeman a silver coin

For nickles weren't made for coppers,
If a grass widow married a grass widower

Would the children all be grasshoppers,
If you ate a square meal would the corners hurt,

Can you dig with the ace of spades,
Would you throw a rope to a drowning lemon

Just to give a lemon aid?

The Cycle

Acquaintance, friendship, love, engagement.

Marriage, quarrels, ire, enragement.

Lawyers, judges, something phony.

Verdicts, scandals, alimony.

A Rhetoric Theme

The whistle gave forth a number of shrill blasts. Then all of a sudden the train came to a sudden stop, as in great danger. The passengers were very excited; they jumped off the cars, and like wild people, rushed forward to the engine—only to find that the cow-catcher had a calf.

"She's Sleeping in the Valley" (By Request)

The meeting, it was sudden,
The parting, it was sad,
She gave her young life meekly,
'T was the only young life she had.
She is sleeping 'neath the willow,
And she's resting peaceful now,
For that's what always happens
When a freight train hits a cow.

An apricot is a red-headed prune.

Ernie—Why didn't you come out for practise yesterday?

Bill—I had a date, sir.

Ernie—Had a date, did you?

Bill—Yes, sir, but a miss is as good as a mile, you know, sir.

Over the phone—What were you doing when I called before, Harry?

Harry (very red)—Oh, just washing out my er-a-B. V. D.'s, my love.

Central (butting in)—Madam, I'm ringing them.

Mrs. Weber—Why do blues creep over girls' faces?

Russ—Because if they ran they would kick up too much dust.

Prof. Cameron—Name some production in which the supply is greater than the demand.

Tyson—Trouble.

McKibben—I'm getting some rare work from my Eng. Lit. Class.

Assistant—Rare?

McKibben—Yes, not well done.

Prof.—A fool can ask things a wise man can't answer.

Back-row—Is that the reason why I flunked in this subject last term?

Prof. Porter—What is a fraction?

Bud B.—A part of anything.

Prof. Porter—Give an example.

Bud B.—The 10th of May.

McKibben—Define the word deficit for us, Miss Voss.

Louise—A deficit is what you've got when you haven't as much as if you had nothing.

Borch—You know more than I do.

Bake—Of course.

Borch—You know me, and I know you.

Murdock—My father is a doctor, so I can be sick for nothing.

Anderson—My father is a parson, so I can be good for nothing.

Boz—Are you sure your folks know I'm coming home with you.

Walt—They ought to, I argued with them a whole hour about it.

Dean—When were you born?

Schleh—April 2nd.

Dean—Late again.

Dave—May I hold your hand?

Gertrude—Of course not, what do you think this is, Palm Sunday?

Dave—Well, it isn't Independence Day.

George—Did your girl wear your pin?

Francis—No, but she gave me the grippe.

Frenchy—How did you lose that tooth.

Al—Shifting gears on a lolly pop.

Jane—It's only six o'clock and I told you to come after supper.

Len—That's what I came after!

George—Did you see your girl last night?

Jim—No, I got up to her house too late.

Bob—Gee, but this floor is slippery, its hard to keep on your feet.

Louise—Oh, then you are really trying to; I thought it was accidental.

McKibben—Can you spell homicide?

Ormond—I can make a stab at it.

Helen—Do horses bray?

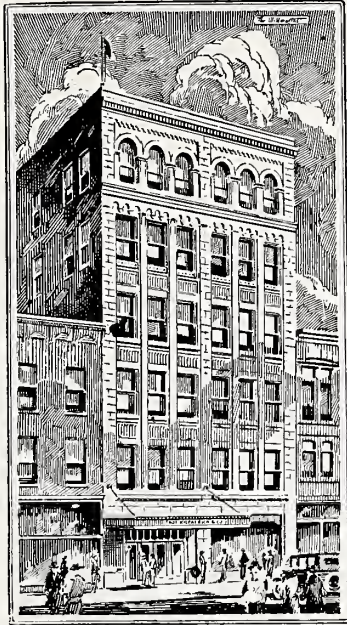

Bob—Neigh, neigh, my child.

Omaha Sheik—I'm in heaven when I dance with you.

Co-ed Flapper—My, but I'm hot.

L'Envoie

Another year is at an end
Its record here we give
To bind the memories of friends
And thus with future time to bind
These joys that long shall live.

We told the tales, they are of you
The things you say, the things you do
The way you work, the way you play
The times you're sad, the times you're gay.
Your days beneath the red and black
And though you wander far away
This book will call you back.

So whether you stay, or whether you go
No matter where leads the path
Be true to the days in the U of O
And the best of life may you always know
Is the wish of Ann's Annual Staff.
