

The Messenger

Volume 2018
Issue 1 The Messenger, 2018

Article 40

2018

It ends with me trying to be flowers

Samuel Craig

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarship.richmond.edu/messenger>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Craig, Samuel (2018) "It ends with me trying to be flowers," The Messenger: Vol. 2018 : Iss. 1 , Article 40.
Available at: <https://scholarship.richmond.edu/messenger/vol2018/iss1/40>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by UR Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Messenger by an authorized editor of UR Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact scholarshiprepository@richmond.edu.

It ends with me trying to be flowers // Sam Craig

It starts with me trying to draw flowers

but the petals don't look right and the stems don't look right and I don't have an eraser

so I crumple the paper into trash

and I try again

I draw hearts and eyes and spaceships and nothing at all

But the petals don't look right and the stems look even worse

so I crumple them into trash

and I try again

I crumple forests into trash and hands into fists

and stomachs into fists

and faces into fists

and lungs into fists

and hearts into fists

I try

and I try again

and again

When I grow weary of it

I plant my feet in the ground and allow my legs to sink into the dirt then my stomach my chest my head except for my hands

those tight little fists

like flowers poking through the dirt