First in a series of three short courses on "Controllershship-- the work of the accounting executive" will begin at the University of Dayton Monday evening. Eight sessions will be included in the course, designed for accountants preparing for supervisory or administrative positions in the financial areas of industry.

Course instructor is Albert S. Watson, plant accountant at the Standard Register Company. All sessions will be conducted in Wohlleben Hall on the campus.
