UD ENGINEERING PROFESSOR RECEIVES AWARD FOR WORK WITH ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENT

DAYTON, Ohio -- Dilip R. Ballal, adjunct associate professor of mechanical and aerospace engineering at the University of Dayton, will receive the 1993 American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics Energy Systems Award August 11. The award recognizes significant engineering contributions made to the energy systems field, especially those contributions related to the production, storage, distribution and conservation of energy.

Ballal was cited "for distinguished contributions as a teacher and researcher in experimental and theoretical techniques, developments and applications in the field of combustion and environment." The award includes a bronze medal, certificate of citation and a rosette pin which will be presented to him at a luncheon during the 28th Intersociety Energy Conversion Engineering Conference in Atlanta, Ga.

Ballal is a resident of Kettering.
