FAREWELL ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1907

Brothers and sisters of the class of 1907, we have been speaking of our citizenship in the country of God's elect. I say our citizenship, for I believe that each of us has the assurance that we are members of the Heavenly State, in that we have sworn allegiance to the King of Kings, the Lord of Hosts, and are endeavoring by our lives to serve its highest interests.

We have, most briefly, reviewed the rights, privileges and duties of the members of the heavenly commonwealth and considered their eternal value to us as individuals. Time does not permit us to compare the increasing joy which takes possession of the citizen of the heavenly state with the disappointments which come to the man who is only a citizen of this world. If it did, I should attempt to show you how the world is trying to satisfy its devotees with false hopes of mere illusions, which lead into grievous error, surprising and disappointing its dupes for time and eternity.

As ambassadors of the heavenly Commonwealth, you have a message to this world from the King. In whatever field He has called you to work, whether as a professional or business man, your message is the same and I beg of you not to fail to deliver it.

Honor your heavenly citizenship by your personal obedience to the laws which govern in the heavenly Commonwealth. Strive to realize in your own lives all that is wrapped up in that word righteousness. Honor the uniform with which Christ Himself hath clothed you. The time will come when every victory over self and the world will be a joyful contemplation.

Show by your conduct toward others that you are followers of the Prince of Peace. However blameworthy the man of the world may be who indulges in gossip, in stinging sarcasm or caustic criticism, surely such conduct is not becoming in one who should seek the peace of Zion. We have allied ourselves to the Prince of Peace. Let us manifest His spirit among our fellows, contented to be known as servants of the most High, examples rather than judges for others. In this way we shall woo men to do their best, rather than sow in their hearts distrust of themselves and hasten their failure. If you see in another life weakness, first, be absolutely sure of your friendship for the brother before you attempt to correct him and then go to him with the desire only to make him stronger and more able to do the work God manifestly sent him into the world to do. The Prince of Peace says nothing of the past, but puts a new spirit in us for the future and so ties us to Him with chords of love that never shall be broken. Let us imitate Him.

Then too, the citizen of the heavenly Commonwealth has no right to be a narrow man. The language of heaven is a universal language. It is the language of love, understood by all humanity wherever it is spoken. The citizen of heaven should be able to reach out in his sympathies to the ends of the earth to men and women of every nation and in whatever state of degradation. We fail to understand how any man or woman who call themselves Christians, are uninterested in missions.

And finally, as citizens of the heavenly Commonwealth we owe it not only to ourselves, but also to all other citizens bound to that kingdom to associate ourselves with the visible church in the community to which we go, and begin at once to bear the burdens and share the joys of world conquest. We should not be ashamed of the flag under which we fight nor the division of the army in which we enlisted. We should defend the flag from every indignity, and strive to increase the effective service of the company in which we serve because of our presence. We should be willing to bear our full share of the expense of world conquest and be glad to let it be known that we have enlisted, not only ourselves, but also all we possess in the King's service.

As citizens of the heavenly Commonwealth I urge you to be loyal to all its aims and purposes. Stand for it, stay by it as a good soldier of the Lord Jesus Christ!

FAREWELL COMMUNION

An Impressive Service

Sunday morning at 9:30 Memorial Chapel was the scene of the annual farewell communion, and it was an unusually impressive and beautiful service. The old custom of having a member of the class which graduated ten years before preach the sermon, was followed. Rev. Paul R. Hickok, '97, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Delaware, O., preached a most powerful and eloquent sermon from the text, "The love of Christ constraineth us."

The communion service which followed was conducted by Dr. Compton and Rev. Hickok and was an occasion which will not soon be forgotten by those who participated in it, and by the Seniors in particular.

ANNUAL ADDRESS

Before the Y. M. C. A.

Sunday evening Dr. Edward Mack of Lane Seminary, Cincinnati, gave the annual address before the Christian Association on Christian Opportunities and Christian Power. He pictured the difficulties of living the Christian life and enumerated the conditions of true success, chief among them being love for others and faith in God.

Pres. Black of the Y. M. C. A. presided, and a large audience was present to hear Dr. Mack.

Miss Zillah Garrett, West Point, Miss., a teacher in Mary Holmes Seminary and Miss Norma Garrett, Dover High School, are visiting their sister, Mrs. J. H. Dickason.

Smoke the Pipe of Peace

Once more peace reigns among the warring tribes on College Hill. No longer do the arrows fly and tomahawk flourish. The terrible war whoop has given place to song and fire dance.

Thursday evening came the Big Chief West of '08" followed by his faithful tribe at the bidding of Old Man Shupe and all the warriors and maidens of '07 to smoke the pipe of peace and bury the hatchet.

First went they to the Great White Tepee and there drank the soothing Sweet-water and ate the meal cake.

Then to the great war-plain did they go and slow and measured was their tread. Here around the great fire they gathered, chiefs and squaws, young men and maids and listened to the words of peace and cheer that fell from the mouths of their warriors. Old Man Shupe—he the silent, spake his message of peace through Chief Silver Tongue Lehmann who spake words of wisdom and gentleness—words of peace to '08 from '07. He then lighted the great peace pipe and passing it to Chief Gentle Voice McSweeney and assured '07 of the undying love of '08 for that great tribe. Chief Shupe then smoked the pipe and passed it in silence to Chief West who accepted it and renewed the promise that until the leaves refuse to grow on the trees, until the rivers cease to flow to the seas the war hatchet would ne'er be lifted again between these tribes. Then they did all smoke. Then with songs did they dance around the great fire and peace and quiet filled all hearts.

Then with soft words of farewell they did slip away through the darkness to their own camping grounds.

"SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER"

Class Day a Great Success

On Monday night the City Opera House was packed with an enthusiastic, representative Wooster crowd to see the Class of 1907 present "She Stoops to Conquer." And the crowd was certainly justified in their enthusiasm for the production was without doubt one of the best ever given by any graduating class in Wooster for many years. Every character seemed specially fitted to his or her part, the costumes were very appropriate and under the skillful management of Carl B. Lehmann and direction of Professor Resser everything moved along without a break.

Every character is worthy of mention but the work of the principals was such as to deserve special attention

A. W. Moore as Young Marlowe was easily the star of the evening. His work was well nigh faultless. His strong easy manner among men—the perfect anguish when "a woman of modesty" was around, his transition from the imperious bold young gentleman while he was under the delusion that Harcastle was an innkeeper and Kate was a barmaid, to the confused, stammering, bashful fellow when he found his mistake were splendid pieces of work.

Miss Margaret Pomeroy as Kate Harcastle was charming and effective. Her work was uniformly good but her best scenes were in Act II where she tried to make the modest, reserved Young Marlowe feel at home, and again in the last act where she refused to marry Marlowe because he had shown to her as a barmaid that only "his station," kept him from marrying her. Her natural beauty and grace added to real effective work made Miss Pomeroy a Kate that won the hearts of the entire audience.

Carl Anderson as Tony Lumpkin was "simply great." He showed that he is a natural comedian, keeping the house in an uproar from his first appearance until his "last word," to his mother, "Horse-Ponds"! There was not a dull moment when he was on the stage. His pranks, movements, voice and appearance were certainly those of the part—"a wild, wilful, blundering bumpkin, who was breaking his dear mother's heart."

Miss Catherine Vance as Constance Neville and Frank Cowles as Geo. Hastings were all that the parts demanded, playing them with ease and grace and adding much to both the mirth and serious moments of the play.

Miss Ruth Martin as Mrs. Hardcastle and Floyd Barr as Mr. Hardcastle gave perfect interpretations of those eccentric characters. Miss Martin was especially strong in her scene with Hastings in which she was hearing from "about town" and in her fits of passion at Tony and when she discovered the theft of her jewels.

The minor characters all filled their parts with credit and the entire production was an unqualified success, reflecting great credit on the committee and Class of '07.

JUNIOR ORATORICAL CONTEST

Won By R. K. West

Last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in Taylor Auditorium was held the annual Junior Oratorical Contest. The contest was fairly well attended and much interest was shown up to the last. Tho Mr. R. K. West who won the prize of $25 was given the first place by all five judges, yet the contest was close and spirited. Music was furnished by Marie Collins and Lera Avison who gave a piano duet and Mr. S. G. Hart who sang a solo.

There were six contestants. Mr. D. Coe Love opened the contest with his oration "Gettysburg—The Turning Point of Our Nation." He did fairly well though laboring under much difficulty with his voice.

Mr. M. E. Chapin then followed with his oration: "The Social Force of Gravitation." This was one of the best orations of the evening and was well delivered. Many thought that with a little more forceful presentation Mr. Chapin would have won. As it was he was given second place.

Mr. Francis E. Rees came third with his oration, "The Parallelogram of Forces." Mr. Reese did very well and with a little practice can become a forceful orator.

Mr. R. K. West in his oration: "The Conscience of a Nation" gave us a well rounded and strongly presented production. He well deserved the place given him by the judges.

Mr. F. R. Reese gave a most excellently written oration. Had his delivery been as good as his oration he might well have expected a place. His subject was "The Architect of a National Destiny," Otto Von Bismarck being the real subject.

The last oration of the evening was given by Mr. J. E. McClelland. His delivery was easy and pleasing but his oration: "Civic Reform" can hardly be said to embody the nature of an oration.

Harrold Fulton Harry Gault, Alfred Stewart and Lawrence Collins left Saturday for Wellsville where they will represent the Wooster Nursery this summer.

VARSITY WINS FROM OBERLIN

In Ten Inning Contest

Wooster trimmed Oberlin on the Congregationalists' own diamond Saturday afternoon to the tune of 7 to 6. Compton was in the box and pitched excellent ball except in the seventh inning when three hits allowed Oberlin, three runs which tied the score. Wooster batted the ball hard until the seventh after which they failed to make a hit, although two runs were tallied. In the first of the ninth Compton drew a base, stole second and took third on Tate's out. The "squeeze play" was called for but Frye failed to connect and there was Compton half-way between base and plate. By good dodging and a dash for the plate, Compton scored what looked like a winning run, but Oberlin also tied the score in the ninth without a hit.

In the tenth, however, Wooster showed she meant business and Herbert gave an excellent exhibition of base running. Herbert walked to first, went to third on a pretty sacrifice, and scored on a passed ball. Foss made two pretty stops in the last half and saved the game for Wooster.

Oberlin's two double plays were made on attempted bunts, going as little pop flies into the air. Frye made the prettiest sacrifice seen this year when he bunted one right off the ground.

The varsity boys were wide awake and displayed all kinds of ginger. Their hitting was good and the base running better. Waters seemed to be the best base runner Oberlin had, but his work behind the bat was not to be compared with that of Frye, who has shown up nearly all opposing catchers this year.

Wooster	1	0	1	1	0	2	0	0	1	1	—7
Oberlin	0	2	0	0	0	0	3	0	1	0	—6

Earned runs—Wooster 3, Oberlin 1. Two base hits—Steele, Foss, Compton. First base on balls—Off Compton 6, off Smith 5. Struck out—By Compton 3, by Smith 6. Double plays—Waters to Bradley, Foss, Tate to Emerson, Smith to Bradley. Passed balls—Frye, Waters. Hit by pitcher—Steele 2, Kelly, Husted, M. Ward. Time of game—2:10. Umpire—Motz of Akron.

WOOSTER LOSES TO KENYON

Eleven Innings Required to Decide

The Kenyon game of Commencement week was a considerable disappointment, to say the least, to the visiting alumni, but the students in general are getting used to it. The game all thru was typical of the whole season's work; there was all kinds of star playing and brilliant individual work, but just enough inconsistent work and bad luck at the critical points to let in a run or two and make the whole team look like a second rate crowd. It did not seem possible that Kenyon could possibly win out in this game when they seemed to be outclassed at every point of the game. But the whole season has been marked by games of this same sort, which will remain a record of unfortunate miracles.

Kenyon scored in only two innings, but each time they piled in three at a time. The home team tied the score in the ninth and brought in another in the eleventh after Kenyon had a lead by three runs. It was also to be remarked that nine Wooster men were left on third base and kept from scoring by a lack of consistent batting.

The pitcher's honors of the game were about equally divided, Compton striking out more men and also allowing more to walk to first. Coupland was playing his last game on the University field and succeeded well in making it a strong one, as he made a two base hit and brought in two runs. His fielding was gilt-edged. Emerson played as good an infield game as has been seen this season and at the bat found three of the ten hits. Kelley is to be credited for a good throw to the plate, cutting off a run.

Summary:

Two base hit—Coupland First base on balls—Off Compton 4 off Gilder 2; Struck out—By Compton 8, by Gilder 6 Double plays—Coupland to Tate. Hit by pitcher—Dunn, Steele.
Score by innings:

Kenyon	0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3	6	9	6
Wooster	1 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 1	4	10	7

KIEFFER CLUB WINS AGAIN

In Inter-Club League

For the third consecutive season the Kieffer Club has won the club base ball championship. The interest in all the games has been great and most of them have been fast and evenly contested.

In addition to the exquisite bliss of arising at four o'clock in the cold grey dawn of the morning and in addition to the fun and jolly times during the games, there has been, no doubt, a great amount of good work accomplished in training men for the Varsity. The Kieffer Club as a team have played good ball and deserved to win, altho the others have given them a good run for the pennant. How they stand:

	P	W	L	PCT
Kieffer	6	6	0	1000
Young	5	4	1	800
Home	4	2	2	500
Phi Gams	4	2	2	500
Myers	5	2	3	400
McKinney	6	2	4	333
Bender	4	1	3	250
Roth	4	0	4	000

PARADISE AND THE PERI

Presented by Oratorio Chorus

Tuesday evening the oratorio chorus presented in masterly fashion Robert Schumann's great work, "Paradise and the Peri." The argument of the theme is as follows:

"The Peri, a beautiful Spirit expelled from Paradise, stands at the gate of the abode of the blessed, lamenting her exclusion. The angel who guards the gate promises her she shall be re-admitted if she brings to the portal "the gift that is most dear to Heaven." The Peri goes forth to seek this gift and brings successively the last drop of a hero's blood, shed for liberty, and the last sigh of a love that has sacrificed life itself for the beloved one,—but these gifts are rejected as insufficient. At length she brings the first tear of penitence shed by a softened sinner. This is accepted as the gift most dear to Heaven, and the gates of Paradise are unbarred to the triumphant Peri."

Miss Caroline Z. Hudson, who made such a favorable impression here in "The Rose Maiden" a year ago, more than upheld her reputation, her rendition of the role of the Peri being well nigh faultless, her beautiful and sympathetic voice lending itself perfectly to the part, rising to a magnificent climax in the final "Welcome," sung with the chorus. The other soloists, Prof. Harold G. Hutchins, tenor, Miss Ethel Rockey, mezzo-soprano, Miss Sara Baker, alto, Mr. Samuel G. Hart, tenor, and Mr. Samuel E. West, baritone, all showed to excellent advantage and are to be congratulated on their work. Prof. Erb deserves great credit for his excellent and painstaking work with the chorus and the masterly way in which he conducted the whole work. Miss Ethel K. Foltz and Miss Mary T. Glenn played the piano and organ scores most excellently, and all in all, it was truly a great concert and a fitting close to a successful year along lines musical.

“Vale”

With this Commencement edition, Volume XVI of the VOICE is complete and we lay down our faithful blue pencil and give place to others ready and willing to carry on the work begun to a fuller completion than we have been able to attain. “The old order changeth, giving place to new,” and to our successors of 1907-'08 we extend not only our congratulations, but our most sincere wishes for a most successful year in all that goes to make up success. They will have a lot of hard work, a most valuable experience and we are sure that at the end of their term of office they will have the consciousness of a duty well done.

These are reminiscent days. It is as easy now to look back over the year and to see its faults as well as its successes as it was last fall to look forward and plan for what was to be. It has been a good year. The University has kept on in its rapid strides of progress in every direction. Her great opportunity has come this year in the offers of a greatly increased endowment which shall establish her for all time, and is there one who doubts that the efforts now being made by consecrated men to meet the conditions necessary will be crowned with a rich measure of success and that by the first of April 1908, Wooster will be where she deserves to be in the matter of endowment?

The “Altogether for Wooster” spirit has been decidedly manifest. No one who loves college traditions and realizes the true college atmosphere would do away with the friendly rivalries incident to life in the college community, but in the larger things it has been “Altogether for Wooster” with a vengeance. And this old slogan which we sounded at the beginning of the year we would now leave as a parting word for future generations of students,—Altogether for Wooster!—now and forever!

We wish at this time to express our appreciation of the work of the staff thruout the year. In the main we have been blessed with a hard-working and efficient corps of assistant editors who have performed their duties with care and dispatch, and to them is due a large part of whatever measure of success we may have attained to in making the VOICE a weekly newspaper. No one has a more thoro appreciation of the fact than we that the VOICE has not been perfect this year. We knew our own limitations far too well to expect perfection. We have had some hard knocks and our path has not been entirely strewn with roses, but all in all, our faults have been borne with and an appreciation of our efforts has been expressed which has gone far to make us feel that our work has not been in vain. For our successors we ask the same courtesy and the same forbearance with which we have been favored.

And so we say our "Vale,"— to the VOICE, to Wooster and to all that goes to make college life precious, with the hope and trust that as the years go on the old Alma Mater shall go on and up to a fuller realization of the ideals for which she stands than we at present can dare to dream. Vale 1906-'07! Hail 1907-'08!

Class of 52 Graduates

Last Thursday evening the class of 1907 of the Preparatory Department, 52 strong, received their diplomas at the hands of Principal Dickason. The exercises were at 8 p. m., in Memorial Chapel. The address of the evening was given by Mr. Robert E. Chaddock, '00, who is now doing post-graduate work in Columbia University. His subject "The Evolution of Democracy" was handled in a masterly fashion. He first pointed out the lack of individual liberty among the Puritans, then showed how Jefferson developed it. A matter that brought sadness to college people during the commencement season was the very sudden death, at noon, Tuesday, of Mrs. L. E. Wolfe, the wife of the registrar of the university. Mrs. Wolfe was operated on three weeks ago at the Wooster hospital for an abdominal tumor, and had recovered sufficiently to be sitting up. All danger of the operation had been considered over, and the convalescence was perfect.

Just before lunch, Monday, Mrs. Wolfe was suddenly attacked with acute heart failure, and died within a very few minutes. Mrs. Wolfe was a lovable Christian woman, and was greatly esteemed by all who knew her.

Senior Functions

Tuesday evening, June 4th, Mrs. Thomas and the Seniors of Hoover Cottage were at home to the Senior classes of the college, conservatory and art school and the faculty at an informal reception at the dorm. A very enjoyable evening was spent, at the conclusion of which a dainty luncheon was served.

Friday evening was the annual reception given by Pres. and Mrs. Holden to the graduating class and faculty of the University at their beautiful home on Beall avenue. The rooms were decorated with wild flowers and dogwood.

Saturday morning the class again enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Thomas at the annual Senior breakfast at Hoover Cottage. The long tables were beautifully decorated with ferns and white carnations. A five course lunch was served and the occasion will long be remembered as one of the most enjoyable of the week.

Y. M. C. A.

The Senior Farewell meeting was held Sabbath afternoon, June second, in the Association rooms. Mr. Blocher was the leader. The attendance was good and the number of those who took part in the meeting showed that, notwithstanding it was the closing service of the year, the interest was in no way abated.

The Scripture lesson was taken from the fifth chapter of Isaiah. The verse chosen for the text was the second, which relates the planting and preparation of the Lord's vineyard and the unexpected harvest of wild grapes instead of the true fruit. The college world may be compared to the vineyard, carefully husbanded and protected. Under such conditions should not the harvest be good? Shall we bring forth true fruit and be gathered into the garner of rest or produce wild grapes and be left to destruction and waste? This is the question each student must answer during the four years of his course. Unless it be answered affirmatively within this time the chances are great that it may never be answered.

Dr. Martin preached the Baccalaureate sermon at Canfield College Sunday

A West End avenue man undertook to meet his unknown girl cousin at the station on Tuesday. He approached a young woman in blue and asked:

"Are you Miss Blake?"

"No," said the young woman, "I am not."

"I hope you'll excuse me," he exclaimed. "I am here to meet a Miss Blake. She is my cousin. I have never seen her. My sister Kate is the only member of our family who knows her, and she couldn't come. She told me I would know Jennie because she is so pretty. 'Just pick out the prettiest girl in the station and you'll be sure to strike Jennie,' she said."

The young woman blushed, the young man sighed.

"I don't know who to ask next," he said. "There doesn't seem to be anybody else in the whole shooting match that comes up to the description. I guess Jenny didn't come."

A tall girl in brown sat beside the girl in blue. She got up and glared at the young man. "She did," said the girl in brown.

"Oh, say," said he "are you——"

"I am," said the girl in brown.

SUTHERLAND, IOWA

The scholarly William E. Byerly, professor of mathematics at Harvard, was once asked by a student how to develop a retentive memory. The professor answered that ordinary mental exercise was sufficient to secure a good memory, whereat the student asked if he might test the mental capacity of his instructor. Professor Byerly agreed, and the student asked him to listen to and remember several varied items for a test. He began:

"One quart of whisky."

"Um!" said the professor.

"Six pounds of sugar, a pint of sour milk, three onions, half a gallon of molasses and two raw eggs."

"Um!" said the professor.

"Two green apples, twenty-six peanuts, one and a half cucumbers and four mince pies."

"Um!" said the professor

"A package of starch, sixty-seven cakes of yeast, and the skins of seven bananas. Got that down?"

"Yes," answered Dr. Byerly.

"How does it taste?" asked the student.
