POD/LCB Disfunction

Staff Report

About a week and a half ago the wrath of the Liquor Control Board and county wide newspaper headlines plagued the Ursinus campus for the first time in years.

LCB agents and Lower Providence Township police raided Pi Omega Delta fraternity's dated party at 10:30 p.m. on Thursday October 2 after receiving an anonymous tip that the brothers sold tickets prior to the party to underage students. The event at the George Washington Golf Club in Audubon was immediately halted and 36 Ursinus students were arrested and charged with underage drinking, a misdemeanor costing nearly $250 in fines.

Within a day Ursinus was lambasted in headlines throughout the county which depicted the LCB raid and listed all students arrested over the age of 18.

According to a memo distributed by Dean of Student Life J. Houghton Kane there have been approximately 10 students cited in isolated incidents in Collegeville in addition to the 36 students cited in the LCB raid in Audubon so far this semester.

Kane said, "This is a problem students have to confront aggressively," about the increase in LCB statewide. "There's no escape like transferring or anything," he added. "Students must address underage drinking aggressively so they can have off campus activities."

In addition, threats of an LCB raid last Saturday night raged through Reimert Complex, as has fear and paranoia in the student body. There were no signs of such officials on campus that particular night. What follows is an account of the raid as provided by the brothers of Pi Omega Delta.

The following is a record of the events of the evening of October 1, 1986 as compiled by brothers of Pi Omega Delta.

The police reportedly viewed and followed the bus chartered for the trip from the college to the country club somewhere between Route 422 and the entrance to the George Washington Country Club.

The evening was just getting underway with people entering and getting situated from 10:05 until 10:20 p.m.

At approximately 10:10 an unidentified male entered and requested to see his "roommate," a person who was not on the guest list nor was it anyone who could be identified by those present. The unidentified person was asked to leave by a fraternity member and was followed out to the parking lot by an employee of the establishment.

At approximately 10:20 the owner of the club told a fraternity member that police cars had pulled up and to get all the underage people out.

The fraternity member said, "All under 21 follow me."

The police entered through the front door with guns drawn and said, "Freeze. You're all under arrest. All exits are blocked. If you run you are resisting arrest." To those in the restrooms it was said, "If you don't come out in two seconds you will be arrested for resisting."

Ursinus 1986 Homecoming festivities kick off at 6:30 p.m. tonight with the Lacrosse Championship Banquet in Wismer Hall. The College's strong Alumni support continues. See complete list of scheduled weekend events on page 4.

Trials near end on the trail to sisterhood

BY ANNMARIE YOUNG
For The Grizzly

Today ends the second week of sorority pledging. The pledge classes will officially complete their pledging activities one week from next Tuesday.

The process of becoming a pledge begins each spring at the Song Fest in mid-May. There, each sorority is given an opportunity to introduce themselves to all interested women. The respective presidents briefly explain their sororities and then present two or three typical sorority songs with the sisters.

Traditionally, each sorority is then given an opportunity to present themselves individually through a party in the Ship Room of Bomberger Hall. At this gathering the sisters present skits and informally allow all those interested to know more about the sorority. However, due to recent renovations

The Grizzly was founded in 1978, replacing the previous campus newspaper, The Ursinus Weekly. It is published by students twelve weeks each semester. The Grizzly is edited entirely by students and views expressed in the paper are not necessarily those held by the administration, faculty, or a consensus of the student body. The staff of The Grizzly invites opinions from the college community and will publish them as time and space permit.

Editorial

As students, faculty and administration triumphantly welcome back literally hundreds of alumni this weekend in another regalia of tradition—Homecoming 1986—I can only ask what are we as a community welcoming alumni back to? Is Ursinus the same college it was 10 years ago, 40 years ago or more importantly the place it was last semester? If upperclassmen were polled in Wismer tomorrow, I'm confident the answer would be NO.

Not too long ago, Ursinus was a place which thrived on inward unity, trust in a positive, LIBERAL administration and freedom of expression. Following the recent invasion by Liquor Control Board officers and police at two off campus social events and the aftermath of the massively negative press coverage which befell the college last week, a spirit of paranoia has invaded our Collegeville home. Fear and doubt wouldn't be bad descriptive words either to summarize on campus reactions now evident. What is wrong with us? Those two "busts" fired fear and hesitancy into fraternities last weekend—a bolt which paralyzed Greek members, who actually thought LCB reps would frequent the prison walls of the Reimert Complex.

Freshmen I have encountered thus far are walking about wondering what the hell is wrong with seniors. Why have these upperclassmen remained at Ursinus for four years? Are they crazy? Haven't the monotony and new rules gotten to them yet? Or are they just harboring weekly weekend road trips for times when getting off campus is a matter of sanity?

What happened to the days where students looked forward to weekends where they could socialize, make friends and relax from a week of studies? Usually the keg was the focal point—the quarterback in the huddle of this old social life. But the 15 1/2 gallon tin can suddenly became evil last year. Now groups buy 30 cases of beer a night—roughly equivalent to five kegs worth of the "golden liquid" instead of the two keg limit used before. But groups can only afford such endeavors (the dreaded party) once every couple of weeks. The other weeks, we are resigned to watching movies in dorm rooms, going home and/or confining ourselves to the books a little more—all of which have killed the Ursinus social life the classes of '83, '86, '89 and who knows '89 once enjoyed. Welcome back alumni, but no kegs please—it's a different place you see. And although we're forced to travel off campus, it's not advisable. Ask the 47 current students who have already been issued alcohol related citations in off campus treks. And the LCB is lurking, waiting to respond to the next anonymous caller.

Dear Editor,

If you were fixing a house—renovating it—would you patch a hole in the wall right before you were about to tear it down and build a new one? This is, in theory, how they went about renovating Maples (520 Main St.).

At the end of last year, the residents of Maples were charged for damages on a house that was going to be gutted and refurbished.

Each Maples resident was charged a base fee of $32.50. According to Dean Whatley, this fee covered the combined cost of removing a pile of trash from behind the building and reimbursing the college for various unpaid for damages that none of the residents had taken the blame for at the year's end. He said that since the RA did not give the name of the guilty party, everyone had to pay.

There were other charges, such as for individual rooms. These fees ranged from no less than $65, to $500 per room. Remember, they were charging us for damages which they already planned (and undoubtedly, already budgeted) to fix.

They charged us for broken windows. New windows inserts were installed in every window frame. They charged us for nicks and chips in the walls. All the walls were re-plastered. They charged us for a damaged drop ceiling. The

Airing Dirty Laundry

Dear Editor,

Something must be done! I don't know about the laundry facilities at the Quad, but I can tell you that in the Old Men's Dormitory the facilities are sadly lacking

Of the six washers provided for the entire population of Old Men's, two or more do not work on a regular basis. Of the six dryers, one works properly. The other five require 75 cents or more to dry one load of clothing. Even with this investment some of the clothes remain persistently damp.

As alluded to earlier, the cost of laundering one load of wash per week is at least double what it should be. And as an average, unemployed college student, I can't afford this! This is a real problem for us students. Something must be done!

Sincerely,
Eric J. Madison

If he didn't write the letter, off he went . . .

ceiling was ripped out. In fact, that drop ceiling was already damaged before we moved in; and even though we noted this on our room condition report, we were charged anyway. I guess that was just the administration not living up to its end of a contract, though.

Two other residents claimed that they never had a chance to fill out their room contract reports. The RA did it for them, forgetting to note the two broken windows that these two students were eventually charged for.

A few more outrages. One student was charged for a "ruined" desk that, according to Dean Whatley, could not be used again. When asked what was the matter with the desk, Dean Whatley replied that one of the legs was cracked. When asked, "Where's the desk now?" he told us it was in being fixed. (Can't be used again, huh?)

My roommate and I were charged $12 because our blinds fell down! $12 to put up blinds!

Students were charged because their beds had been disassembled. These students lived in a room that is now a lobby—the beds would have been taken apart anyway!

The list goes on, but the point is made. In "The College with a Difference" it seems as if the only noticeable difference from any other school is a less conventional way of squeezing the students for their last pennies.

Signed,
Keith Miller

We Value Our Pledges

Dear P & J,
How can you blame the sisters of Omega Chi for asking unfamiliar visitors to leave? Please consider the last unexpected visitor we had during pledging. He earned the honor of having his face plastered all over Collegeville with "WANTED" printed over the artist's composite. We apologize if we came off as abrupt, but we value our pledges.

Respectfully,
The Sisters of Omega Chi

The police and Liquor Control Board agents then divided the people into three groups in different areas of the room. They were told exactly where to sit and were not allowed to interact with the other groups. Some individuals were taken from a table, which was clear of alcohol and told to sit at a table with alcoholic drinks on it to answer questions and fill out forms. Those who were identified as being over the age of 21 were told to leave the premises when they tried to inform those under the age of 21 of their rights and options.

Only those with Pennsylvania Driver Licenses were initially permitted to leave if they were over 21.

Those with valid Pennsylvania licenses over age 21 were situated in one area, those under 21 were in another area, and those under 18 were taken to another section of the room.

Identification was asked of some but not all of the guests.

Approximately 45 minutes passed before the officers and L.C.B. agents decided on what course of action was to be taken against those present.

Identification and/or badges were not shown by the officers and agents to all of those present. The rights of a number of persons were not read to them before questions were answered or after the questions were answered or before or after the forms were filled out. Some people were given their Miranda rights approximately one hour after the initial entrance of the officers.

One police officer was heard asking an L.C.B. agent, "What should we do? Let them go or keep them?" The agent responded, "Bust them all for underage drinking."

The guests were then processed with forms by L.C.B. agents and the police. However, the L.C.B. agent or the police officer was usually the one filling out the form, not the individual. The agents and officers told several people, "I'll tell you what to write." The guests were also led into questions in manners such as "You did do . . ." "You have done . . ." People were also told that phone calls might be

CAMPUS MEMO

Ursinus lends itself to powerful Homecoming pull.

COMING HOME: I know a lawyer and his wife in Florida who appear now and then on campus unannounced. They just walk the place and only tell me afterward they were here. In recent years, they have brought their small kids with them. I know a doctor who for years has visited the campus in the summer. He grew up in Reading many years ago and now lives far away, but when he comes home to Reading he also comes home to Ursinus. He likes the feel of the greensward under his feet.

Such graduates feel a pull that most Ursinusites come to feel after they have received their diplomas. They relinquish "their" campus to the next generation of students. But they cannot remove it from their memories and affections. Our campus, after all, is the scene of four intense and change-filled years in their lives. It is no wonder that ordinary buildings and trees and walkways—even pieces of sculpture—become personally significant. They come to seem a little larger than life in the mind's eye.

And so alumni return to remember, to restore, to reconnect with years that meant much. Saturday, October 11, is set aside as a special day for them to return. And we welcome them with enthusiasm!

Most of the alumni who come back for Homecoming Day, though, are not just here on a nostalgia trip. You will find that most of them take some active part in the current life of Ursinus. Many serve on Alumni Association committees or are Friends of the Library. Others are members of the Bruin's Club. Others stay in touch with professors and provide expertise and advice from their perspectives in a variety of businesses and professions. A great many make an annual gift to Ursinus and thus sustain an essential flow of funds that keeps the operation of Ursinus healthy. Many are parents of current students and are reliving the Ursinus experience a second time.

Alumni, in short, have as much to do with Ursinus in 1986 as they did when they were students. Their involvement helps make Ursinus the lively College we all know and enjoy. Because of that, let us redouble our welcome to them tomorrow when they come home.

ONE MORE WALK AROUND THE TEMPLE: A group of RA's visited our home a couple of evenings ago. One asked me to explain the decision to place the "temple" where it is. I told the group that we reached the decision after consulting with the architect, Peter Saylor, who designed our campus master plan and who is responsible for the design for the Residential Village. After that meeting with RA's, I showed Mr. Saylor the Grizzly editorial of last week and other comments and asked if he had a comment.

He replied, "It appears that the Temple is not under attack, but rather its location. I've thought about our decision to place it near Bomberger, and I still believe it is an exciting as well as an appropriate juxtaposition."

Mr. Saylor took special note of the Grizzly editorial's stand against an appearance of an Ursinus dichotomy. "It is precisely against that reasoning," said Mr. Saylor, "that I favor the location and the Temple's insistence on artistic contrasts against an architectural context. I find the relationship of the Bomberger and Union shapes compatible and complimentary to the sculpture."

At about the same time, I received a letter from an alumnus who lives in the area. He wants us to move the piece from his campus. And so Ursinus thrives.

The Private Eye

By A.M. SALAS
Of The Grizzly

There are times when it seems that I'm writing into a void. I write this column, essay exams, research papers, applications and so on and so forth. Everything meshes together, and since I get very little feedback, aside from an occasional "Liked the column, A.M.," or "I don't think that last paragraph really added to your discussion", nothing really serves to differentiate one piece of prose from the next, in my mind. I merely write what I feel is important, and hope that it provokes people to thought. Provokes, not antagonizes. Well, not always.

With that explained, I'm sure you can understand how surprised and pleased I was to receive a thick manilla folder full of journal entries - responses to the Bob Dylan quotation (He who is not busy being born is busy dying) I had used in the column printed in the 9-25 edition of the Grizzly. These journals had been written, under threat of death, no doubt, by a couple AP English classes at Conestoga High School. I'm sure these students had recently read

The Great Gatsby, because the comments made, which applied the Dylan quote to Gatsby, were very well-based, and showed, almost without exception, what I consider to be an excellent grasp of the novel.

The arrival of these comments was well-timed. I'd just finished reading and writing about something called "Premature Pragmatism", which seems to be endemic to college campuses lately. While reading these high school student's responses to the quote, I ran across certain thoughts they seemed to have in common. In general, they admired Gatsby's idealism and industriousness, but deplored the fact that he sought material gain as the sign of success. He was perceived as being a tragic hero who let his ideals be twisted and distorted.

One student wrote: "The statement made by Bob Dylan ... encompasses the whole human race", another, "Optimism is the ultimate virtue... One must continue "being born" regardless of what age they are...strive for more. Dream of the unlivable, as Gatsby did of Daisy... He created a vision, which in his mind became a reality." Still another comment was "...in a sense, we all want something from life; either money, love, security, power, etc."

In about 70 of the 75 comments I received, "being a good person" was a priority. In assessing the quotation as it pertains to their lives, the students wrote that their education was a way of being "born", and perhaps, of helping people in the future. They wrote of leading good lives, of having families, of striving for self-respect and the respect of others. Very few mentioned high-paying jobs as a priority. In fact, by and large, they seemed to deplore the idea of just doing things for money.

"It's strange, I read 75 optimistic, forward-thinking journal entries from high school students, and received comments about practicality and resumes from a lot of my college friends. One might snobbishly argue that these are "just" high school kids, and are thus immature, but I don't think so. I hope they don't change, either.

Are pragmatism and cynicism functions of age and badges of maturity, or might they be, as John Knowles defined "sarcasm" in A Separate Peace, the refuge of the weak?

Musser on the Move A Resident's Recollection

BY KEVIN ADAMS
For The Grizzly

Last weekend Musser sponsored a trip to Washington, D.C. Fourteen people went, not all of which were from Musser. We left at 8:00 a.m. and the trip down, after taking an unexpected scenic route, lasted about four hours.

After quickly finding a parking space, everyone was allowed to go his separate way in the mall of D.C. This includes the Washington Monument, the Smithsonian Institutes, the White House, etc. Gillian Murray especially liked this trip because it allowed her to experience a part of history for free; the museums and the trip down not costing the students anything.

After five hours of viewing everyone's favorite tourist attractions, we crossed the bridge into Georgetown. Because we couldn't find a parking space in town, we decided to visit Georgetown University. Dr. Eaton decided to take us on a tour of the newly renovated buildings, especially one that might have a cafeteria. After searching four out of six floors, setting off two alarms, and almost being locked in one of the buildings by an irate custodian, we decided to brave Georgetown on our own.

After about three hours of shopping and eating, it was time to meet at our appointed rendezvous. When we all got there, it seemed that some of the participants had also imbibed some of the very cultural drinks of Ireland, Germany, and Puerto Rico.

Kirsten Anderson, who visited, among other things, the Washington Monument, the Vietnam Veteran's Memorial, and the National Archives, said about the trip, "The historical sites provided a cultural experience that the Musser program is looking to provide."

Debbie Rempe, who visited the Air and Space Museum, and the Museum of Natural History, said that it was "interesting to get a feel for the variety of cultures that can be found in the U.S."

We hope that more of the campus outside of Musser will come on future trips. Up and coming trips include one to Niagra Falls and possibly one to New York City. Hopefully they'll be as successful as the Washington trip.

Hooking that big 12 incher

BY ANDY STANDEVEN
Of The Grizzly

The Perkiomen Creek waterfalls—a site familiar to past and present Ursinus pledges—yielded an incredible 17 bass to entrants in the Second Annual Ursinus Bass Fishing Invitational Tournament this past Sunday.

Sophomore, Steve Grim, defending champion and heavy favorite, failed to hold off senior, Andy Standeven, who took the $25 first place prize money. To post the upset victory, Standeven hauled in a Fishing Club record 12 inch largemouth bass just four minutes into the three hour competition.

Grim, undaunted by Standeven's early luck, waded to the middle of the stream and went to work. Almost two hours later, after landing a slew of smaller bass, he hooked into an 11 inch largemouth of his own. The fish, which would have been a record just two hours earlier, merely secured Grim the $10 second place purse.

Third place went to Bob Griffin, an Ursinus alumnus whose high hook in the murky water was an 8 inch smallmouth.

Grizzlies Gain Respect in Heartbreaking 30-25 Loss

By BILL CONNOLLY
For The Grizzly

The Ursinus Grizzlies suffered a setback this past Saturday, losing a heartbreaker to Swarthmore, 30-25. The Bears (1-2) battled back valiantly from a 24-0 second quarter deficit, and even took the lead in the fourth quarter, but a 50-yard pass from Swarthmore's Jones to Jackson gave the Garnet the lead with 1:09 left in regulation. The Bears took the game to the wire, driving to the Swarthmore nine-yard line before the clock ran out.

Both the offense and the defense came out flat in the first half and the Garnet lead bulged to 24-0 with 8:54 left in the first half. The Grizzly offense finally got the team or the scoreboard, capping a 69-yard, 12 play drive with a one-yard TD plunge by RB Pete Fazio (9-34, 1 TD). QB Cliff Repetti (17-34-226, 1 TD, 2 Int.) connected with TE Frank Bilotta for the two-point conversion, making it Swarthmore 24, Ursinus 8 with 3:25 left in the first half.

Ursinus came to life in the second half on both sides of the ball. The defense thoroughly stifled the Garnet scoring attack and gave the offense favorable field position.

On their second possession of the second half, the offense plowed 61 yards in ten plays, scoring on a Repetti to Gary McAneny (2-26, 1 TD) strike. The two-point conversion attempt failed.

On their next possession, the offense again travelled 61 yards, this time they settled for a 32-yard field goal from sophomore Dave Lockhart. This made it Swarthmore 24, Ursinus 17. Halfway through the fourth quarter, the offense took advantage of good field position and went ahead by a point with Joe Zirpolo's three-yard TD run

Although Repetti struggled in opener vs. F & M, against Swarthmore he was impressive, completing 50% of his passes and nearly bringing the Grizzlies back from a 24-0 halftime deficit.

Bear Booters Losing Games and Players

By TOM BROWN
For The Grizzly

Not only has Ursinus lost its last two soccer games, the Bears have also lost two pivotal players in the process.

Senior defender and co-captain Brad Young suffered a fractured metatarsal in his left foot in a 4-1 loss to Scranton, the top rated Division III team in the nation. Then, to make matters worse, junior midfielder Chris Hoover tore ligaments in his ankle as Johns Hopkins topped U.C. 3-0. It is not yet known whether either player will return this season.

Against Scranton, the Bears held their own for the first 35 minutes of the game and even had the better of the play during that time. After giving the first goal, U.C. tied the game on a Rob Walder goal.

However, The Royals' depth proved to be too much for Ursinus, as waves of fresh Scranton players effectively drove U.C. into the ground. A late first half goal proved to be the game winner and Scranton added two insurance goals in the second half. Two bright spots for U.C. were the performances of Walder and senior goalkeeper Jim Barnes.

After losing Young, Coach Walt Manning had to scramble his line-ups to find a winning combination against Hopkins. Unfortunately, that combination was not found. After a scoreless first half, the Blue Jays exploded for three goals in the second half to defeat U.C. Sophomore Bob Carmignani turned in an impressive performance at sweeper in the Bears scrambled egg line-up.

Ursinus improved their record by beating Lebanon Valley Yesterday. On Homecoming Day tomorrow the Bears will host Delaware Valley.

Lady Bears suffer their first shutout then beat Lafayette in OT

By JILL THEURER
Of The Grizzly

The Lady Bears suffered their first shutout of the season this past Tuesday as the University of Pennsylvania edged the varsity squad, 1-0.

Yesterday Ursinus met Lafayette and took it to them in double-overtime winning by a score of 3-2. Lafayette stunned the Lady Bears with a goal just three minutes into the first half. However, U.C. retaliated as Ginny Migliore fired one in on a great assist by junior Sue DeCoursey. Bingaman also added one later in the game to break the 1-1 deadlock.

Ursinus had 29 shots on goal while Lafayette had 16. Fields had several saves and also had the opportunity to take a penalty stroke that just missed the cage. Ursinus now stands at 5-4.

Today, varsity hosts California's San Jose while tomorrow they play the alumnae for homecoming at 10:00 a.m.

Helferich Gym's floor has been taking the beating of the men's team.

and Russ Perry's reception on the two-point conversion try.

After the Garnet took the lead (30-25) with 1:09 left in the game, Chuck Odgers brought the resultant kickoff out to the Bears' 40 yard line. The offense's last drive, sustained by catches by John Hodge and Kevin Ross (5-82), unfortunately fell short.

After the game, Coach Sterling Brown expressed pride in the team's valiant comeback. "We should have won the football game. No doubt," the coach intoned. "But we played hard and came back with heart. Not one of my players should walk off this field with his head down," he concluded. Alluding to their second half resur-rection, the coach stressed to his team the need to play hard for sixty minutes, not just thirty.

The Bears hope to even their record this Saturday (Homecoming) when they face the Blue Jays of Johns Hopkins. Game time is 2:00 p.m.

NCAA Champs Honored at Homecoming Dinner

Ursinus College will honor its women's lacrosse team, NCAA Division III champs in 1986, at a special Homecoming dinner Friday, Oct. 10 in Wismer Hall.

The team, winner of three Division III titles in the last four years, will receive a championship banner and individual championship rings from the Bruins Club, the Ursinus booster organization.

Back on May 17, Ursinus battled back from a 7-4 halftime deficit in 95-degree heat to dump defending champion Trenton State, 12-10, in the NCAA title game at the University of Maryland.

The Bears captured the Division III title in 1983 and again in '84, but in 1985 they fell to Trenton

Four Bears were voted to the all-American squad — senior attackers Devin Murphy and Donna Wurzbach and sophomore defender Bobbie Sue Copley (1st team), and senior goalie Paula Fronchowiak (2nd team).

Betsy Meng Ramsey won Division III coach of the year honors (from the Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Coaches Association) for the second time in her three years at Ursinus. She also won the award in 1984.

The Bears (14-3) played eight Division I teams last year and beat five of them — Old Dominion, Rutgers, Drexel, Lehigh and Lafayette — by a combined score of 60-23.

Impressive Performances Power X-Country to 2-0

By DEAN LENT
For The Grizzly

The men's cross country team enters the midpoint of the season with a 2-0 record and with some very impressive performances in invitationals.

On Saturday, September 20th, the team competed in the 2nd Annual Baptist Bible Invitational. Senior Mike Griffin led the Pack's charge with a 2nd place in a field of 80 runners. His 27:54 over the 8000 meter course marked a personal best (and an Ursinus record) for that demanding course. Three other Bear runners finished in the top 20: Dean Lent (12th), Vince Leskusky (15th), and Rob Hacker (16th), all were personal bests. These efforts surged the Bears to a 3rd place finish and team trophy.

The next task was a tri-meet against MCCC and Phila. Pharmacy, on Parent's Day. Running in strong winds and driving rains, the Pack took form of the top five finishes, with all scorers being freshman. John "Zippy" Melody won his first collegiate meet in a time of 29:52, a stride behind was teammate Walt "Iggly" Neibauer. Jim Doyle and Jason Brehouse took third and fourth, respectively. Brian Shulman completed the scoring in a 6th place finish. The result was a resounding triumph - 16-44 vs. MCCC and a 15-50 shutout vs. Pharmacy.

On Saturday, October 4th, the 1st Annual Susquehanna Invitational was the site of the Bear's toughest meet. The young Bear squad was unsure of what to expect from perennial powerhouse Susquehanna, but they were out to win whatever they faced. In a race between packs, the Crusades won the invitational and the Bears earned the 2nd place trophy. Once again, Mike Griffin ran a spectacular race, covering the 5 mile course in an average 5:05 mile for a 25:25. His second place finish was Mike's fourth medal in as many meets.

Other Ursinus runners in the top 20 were: Vince Leskusky (9th, 26:52), Dean Lent (12th, 27:10), Rob Hacker (13th, 27:13) and Jim Doyle (18th, 27:19), with personal bests. Walt Neibauer (27:43), Dal Lent (28:04) and John Melody (28:07) also set personal marks. Tomorrow the teams compete at the Dickinson Invitational in Carlisle, PA.

Athlete of the Week Runner Mike Griffin

medal at the Baptist Bible Invitational.

In 1984 Griffin finished 10th in a field of 167 at the NCAA Midwest Regionals, becoming the only Ursinus runner in the past four years to qualify for the NCAA nationals. That year the Bears lost only one dual meet and took second in the 26-member Middle Atlantic Conference.

At Springfield High, Griffin led the cross-country team to the Bicentennial League title in his junior year, finishing second individually. In track, he took third in the Bicentennial mile as a senior and sixth place at the District 1 championships.

Cross-country runner Mike Griffin, former senior class president and track standout at Springfield (Montco) High, has been named Ursinus College Athlete of the Week after winning a silver medal Oct. 4 at the Susquehanna Invitational, his fourth medal in four meets this year.

Griffin, a senior dean's-list student from Erdenheim, covered the 5-mile Selingsgrove, Pa. course in 25 minutes, 25 seconds, leading Ursinus to second place behind host Susquehanna.

Running again after a year off to concentrate on academics, Griffin returned to cross-country with a vengeance. On Sept. 6 he took a bronze medal at the Philadelphia Metro Meet on Belmont Plateau. A week later he finished fourth at the Lebanon Valley Invitational, and on Sept. 20 he won a silver

Lady Runners Keep Shining

The lady runners continue to shine as they move into the heart of their fall season. Their third meet of the year, finished like their first meet, a top place finish for running "Bear Pack."

Gwen O'Donohue led the way by capturing the individual title and setting a new course record (19:21). Sue Haux ran to a strong third place finish, and Kristin Volk sealed the victory by placing eighth on Baptist Bible's wet, hilly course in Clark's Summit, PA.

The following week, the ladies traveled to Carlisle, PA to compete in the Dickinson Elite Meet. With some of the top individual Division II runners and teams in the country competing, this field held up to its name. Our team finished 10 out of 13, behind schools of such running stature as Navy, Shippensburg and IUP. The team made a strong showing for Division III colleges and gave the young runners a great deal of experience. O'Donohue, again, led the way with an impressive 8th place finish out of nearly 100 runners. A great effort was given by freshman Dorothy O'Malley who placed among the top five for Ursinus.

Just this past weekend, the lady Bear Pack went up against Cedar Crest, MCC, Beaver College, and Lehigh at home. The women showed their talents by beating 3 team and losing only to Division I Lehigh by a mere 8 points.

This meet had plenty of highlights. Gwen O'Donohue cat and moused her way not only to a victory (20:04), but also, to smashing the home-course record by nearly 60 seconds. Sue Haux had a tremendous race, also breaking the old mark by nearly 25 seconds. Mary MacDonald, Judy Spangler, Dorothy O'Malley, and Debbie Rivers all ran well to earn U.C. the three victories. Watch out for this Pack!

Feature on the feature writer

BY VINCE LESKUSKY
Of The Grizzly

An integral, if slightly anonymous, element of the Ursinus campus is Elliot Tannenbaum, the school's sports information director. Although he performs a sports director's usual functions: coordinating personnel to work events, promoting meets, providing media information, and composing programs, he also excels at feature writing.

Last year he won an unparalleled eight awards from the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA). His accomplishments, deemed by a select panel of journalists, quadrupled the winnings of any other writer from Division I, II, or III. Award winning articles included his preview of the Ursinus men's basketball team, his profile of track star, John Wood, and his historical feature on winning football teams at Ursinus. The awards were presented to Tannenbaum on July 3rd at the annual CoSIDA convention in Nashville, Tennessee.

After seven years with The Philadelphia Inquirer and a position as sports information director at Swarthmore College, Tannenbaum is now in his third year as Ursinus' SID.

Tannenbaum attributes the college atmosphere and his love for sports writing to be the chief attractions in his profession.

Working as a public relations director for the Continental Basketball Association, he took offense to the selfish attitudes and the incessant greed of the men whom it was his job to promote. Believing that a good feature follows a good knowledge of the subject, these unpleasant traits of the pro ball players soured him to this type of work.

Covering the L.A. Olympics, while being exhausting, refreshed him. True emotions and basic humanness pervaded the happening. From the slightly eccentric Dwight Stones, to the joy of Edwin Moses' gold medal (which Tannenbaum briefly wore), to the fear he detected in the eyes of Mary Decker as she tried to escape the crowd before her fatal encounter with Zola Budd; Tannenbaum appreciated it all. That fall, he accepted the job he currently holds.

allowed but certainly weren't necessary. Apparently only two people made phone calls for advice. The questioning was also misleading to many there as they were not aware of any rights or options that they were entitled to.

People were being referred to by the agents and officers as "Criminals."

There was much pressure exerted upon the guests by the officers. Several people were told that if they refused to sign the citation then their parents would be notified: "If you don't sign, we'll call your parents."

Initially a breathalyzer test was not allowed to be given. Guests were told, "If you have a breathalyzer test and you fail, then you are fined the maximum." Those who were already processed but who asked for a breathalyzer test were told, "You are already written up, you don't need a breathalyzer test." However, one and one-half hours had passed between the time the first person was processed and the breathalyzer machine arrived. It should be noted that the machine that did arrive was a Pass/Fail Drunk Driving model (i.e. set to respond to a 0.10 Blood Alcohol content), not a digital BAC readout model.

There was also harassment of several female guests. They were referred to as "Honey," "Sweetie," and "Babe," by some present.

The total process time was from 10:35 to 12:25 a.m.

Tickets were not sold in advance for the event held at The General Washington Country Club on October 1, 1986. No sale of or resale of alcohol was done by the fraternity. Money collected, ten dollars, was for the rental of the hall, the services of a bus to drive the guests to and from the establishment, entertainment in the form of music and a sound system, and snacks provided. Liquor was available but on a cash bar basis only.

It should also be emphasized that there was a bus provided by the fraternity to ensure that those guests that did choose to drink were guaranteed a safe ride home.

in Bomberger, the Ship Room is no longer available for this purpose. This annual event will now be held in Wismer Parent's Lounge.

As with the Bomberger party, the Inter-Sorority Council (ISC) will schedule a date for each sorority to hold a dated party on an invitation basis for all Ursinus women not associated with a Greek organization. These dated parties occur in the week before finals. Unfortunately, dated parties have now become a debatable issue due to the Liquor Control Board (LCB). The LCB arrived at the Alpha Phi Omega party held at Birchwood Country Club, and at the Pi Omega Delta party last Wednesday at the 'Cherry Tree'. 36 citations were given to underage drinkers.

These spring dated parties and functions are organized by a designated sorority member in conjunction with the ISC. However, official rushing does not begin until a Monday morning two to three weeks into the fall semester, when the rushes are sung to by the whole sorority. The rushes are selected from those individuals who show interest in the sorority. Each sorority will rush approximately twice as many women as the number of bids they have to offer. Bids are a formal offer to pledge.

Between Monday morning and the second Wednesday following that day, each sorority hosts another rush party - held in Wismer Parent's Lounge this year. During this period, the women or 'rushes' receive a small present each day until unofficial bids are given out on Wednesday night. By this time the rushes have been approached by the sorority to determine where they want to pledge. Often a person is cross-rushed by two sororities and a bid would be wasted if it was offered to someone who wants to pledge a different sorority. This is a traumatic day for those who are still deciding between two sororities and even worse for those who do not receive bids from the sorority they chose. That Thursday is a day of silence followed by Bid Day on Friday when the rushes officially accept their bids in Bomberger Auditorium.

After accepting their bids, the new pledges gather and sing on the Union steps and then all sorority members join the pledges in a friendship circle on the lawn in front of the Union. Later that night each pledge class is given an opportunity to sing on the porch of Duryea. Pledging resumes again on Sunday night and usually lasts about three and a half weeks. This period has been cut from the original six week term.

More recent policies from the administration concerning pledging include the banning of drop trips. These trips were designed to drop pledges off at distant points allowing them to devise ways of returning home on their own. As of this year, the sororities must have their pledges off Main Street by 12:00 midnight. Likewise, drinker nights are not permissible this year.

Due to the restricting of indoor pledging, the sororities have been conducting pledging outdoors. So far this has brought the Collegeville Police to the campus due to alleged disturbances. The Tau Sigma Gamma sorority arranged a frat night for their pledges this past Tuesday with Sigma Rho Lambda. This noise originating from behind Helfferich had apparently reached some of the houses on Ninth Street.

In similar incidences on Wednesday night, the Collegeville Police broke up Alpha Sigma Nu and Pi Omega Delta who were pledging on the side of Helfferich which faces Reimert. Phi Psi and Tau Sigma were pledging together on the opposite side of the gym and were told by police that pledging was over for the evening. As well, Kappa Delta Kappa and Alpha Phi Omega were told to disperse by police.

With seven nights of pledging left to go, the sororities will undoubtedly see more of these incidences. Then the campus can rest from pledging antics until fraternities begin pledging next spring.

Extra-Curricular activities The Bicycle Club

BY ANDY STANDEVEN
Of The Grizzly

Ursinus clubs play the important role of bringing together people of similar interests, whether the interest be musical, religious, academic, or purely recreational. The association is beneficial both to members, who share knowledge and experience with each other, and to the campus at large, which enjoys more diverse social opportunities. I would like to begin a series of articles which will focus on different campus groups by highlighting one of Ursinus' more unique clubs, the Bicycle Club.

The Bicycle Club was founded in 1979 with the goal, as stated in the charter, of promoting "the sport of cycling, cycling safety, and good sportsmanship." Current club president, Henry Irion, agrees with these noble objectives but says, "The number one goal is to have fun and get away from school work."

This year Irion is supported by John Amon, vice president; Kim Marx, secretary; and Jenny Otto, treasurer. The club also enjoys the active involvement of its two faculty advisors, Dr. Evan Snyder and Dr. Roger Coleman.

The Bicycle Club usually meets biweekly to plan bike trips—its principal activity. These trips, which take place Saturday afternoons, vary greatly in distance and take the club to such destinations as Evansburg, Spring Meadows and Valley Forge. Any member can volunteer to be "ride captain," planning and leading one of these weekly excursions.

The Bicycle Club's most ambitious venture is a traditional three-day biking/camping trip to Hawk Mountain—fifty miles away—over Funny Monday Weekend.

If meeting new people, relaxing, and keeping fit appeal to you, consider Biking with Ursinus' Bicycle Club.

Four of UC's best To sing at PCC festival

Four Ursinus College students have been selected to perform at the Pennsylvania Collegiate Choral Festival to be held at the University of Scranton from October 16 to 18. After three days of rehearsal, they will perform at 7:30 pm on Saturday, October 18.

Melora McMullen, soprano; Jill Hunter, alto; Andrew Wack, tenor, and Donald Ruth, baritone, will represent the college. All are members of the Meistersingers, a vocal ensemble directed by John H. French, chairperson of the Ursinus Music Department.

During their annual tours, the Meistersingers have presented their diverse repertoire of secular and sacred choral music in nearly every state on the eastern seaboard. The students were selected to participate in the state festival by Mr. French.

Guest conductor for the festival will be Robert Kapirow.

Melora McMullen, a junior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest McMullen of Stony Brook, New York.

Jill Hunter, a junior, is the daughter of John Hunter, Jr., of Norwood, Pa, and Suzann McDyer of Wynnewood, Pa.

Andrew Wack, a senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wack of Souderton, Pennsylvania.

Donald Ruth, a sophomore, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. D. Henry Ruth of Beaver, Pennsylvania.

Mr. French is currently vice-president of the Pennsylvania Collegiate Choral Association, sponsors of the State Choral Festival.

Catch the Big Edsel Band!

BY DAN ELY
For the Grizzly

The Ursinus campus is in for a treat tonight when USGA and CAB bring The Big Edsel Band to Wismar for the homecoming dance. Big Edsel is famous in the area for their weekly appearances at the Bent Elbow Tavern in Ft. Washington, PA. Regionally, they are regulars on the NY-Phila. cabaret circuit Featuring singer Billy Dee, guitarists Art Ebert and Al Wallace, bassist Eddie Ganble and drummer Tom Sesselberg the band's repertoire is composed mainly of 50's pop classics guaranteed to keep everyone on their feet, if not the chairs and tables. If you've seen them at the shore or at the Elbow you know this is a quality cover band. If you've never seen them before this is an opportunity you can't afford to miss.

Only one drawback for this night. The CAB spent the rent on the band so you'll have to remember to B.Y.O.B.
