

DEVELOPING UNDER PRESSURE:
EXPERIENCING ISSUES RELATED TO PERSONAL, PROFESSIONAL AND MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT IN LONDON'S PUBLIC PARKS

MARY ELIZABETH WORRALL

A submission presented in partial fulfilment of the requirements of the
University of South Wales/Prifysgol De Cymru for the degree of Doctor of Business Administration

September 2017

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study is to develop an understanding of issues related to personal, professional and management development of a small number of people working in London's Public Parks and Green Spaces sector. The study takes a dialogic perspective (Deetz, 1996), using Interpretative Phenomenological Analysis (IPA) (Smith, Flowers and Larkin, 2009), which is in contrast to a positivist, HRD/sector/organisational research perspective. IPA is concerned with exploring people's 'lived experience' of a phenomenon from the perspectives of the participants, rather than studying the phenomenon through the use of a predetermined or abstract theoretical framework.

Through the IPA analysis, a number of Master Themes are developed. Most participants report having found themselves working in the sector by chance. Once in office based, supervisory or management roles, some participants found their line managers to be at best unsupportive, and found exposure to micro and office politics to be a challenge. The study identifies that for the participants who participated in the research, working in the sector is certainly not a 'walk in the park'. The study also highlights a disconnect between some participants and their line managers on development issues, which is in contrast to the expectations of mainstream HRD practice. Possible causes for the disconnect are explored in the discussion, including line managers' concerns for their own job security. Based on the findings from this study, a substantive model 'Managing under Pressure in London's Public Parks sector' is offered, which contrasts with Mintzberg's (1997) model of 'Managing on the Edges' at Banff National Park, Canada.

The study concludes by offering a range of potential implications and possible interventions for parks and green space practitioners, their managers and HRD practitioners working in London's public parks sector. These include recognition that Green Flag Judging can contribute to professional development, coaching at a sector level and provision of confidential support for public sector parks managers who are faced with learning how to handle organisational and party politics.

CONTENTS	PAGE
CHAPTER ONE: INTRODUCTION	1
1.1 The reasons this study was undertaken	1
1.2 Structure of the Thesis	2
1.3 Introduction to London and the UK's public parks sector	5
1.4 Research context	7
1.5 Research aim, objectives and primary research question	7
1.6 Summary	10
CHAPTER TWO - THE UK PUBLIC PARKS AND GREEN SPACES SECTOR	11
2.1 Introduction	11
2.2 UK public parks organisations and demographics of the sector's workforce	11
2.3 Profile of organisations and employment in the sector	14
2.4 Qualifications held by employees in the sector	15
2.5 Parks and open space typologies	16
2.6 Histories of England's Public Parks and Green Spaces:	17
2.7 Public Parks Consequences of Structural Changes in London Local Authorities	25
2.8 Chapter summary	32
CHAPTER THREE – MANAGEMENT AND SKILLS DEVELOPMENT IN THE PERFORMANCE OF THE UK ECONOMY AND PUBLIC SECTOR ORGANISATIONS	34
3.1 Introduction	34
3.2 The modernist organisation and the role of management	35
3.3 National performance and the skills agenda	38
3.4 Managing and Performance in the Public Sector	43
3.5 Human Resource Development: Personal, Professional and Management Development	56
3.6 Chapter summary	62
CHAPTER FOUR - PUBLIC PARKS SKILLS RESEARCH	64
4.1 Introduction	64

4.2 Skills research in the parks, recreation and urban forestry sectors	66
4.3 Green space sector professional learning preferences	70
4.4 UK Public policy research into parks and green space skills requirements	71
4.5 Chapter summary	76
CHAPTER FIVE: METHODOLOGY AND METHODS	77
5.1 Introduction	77
5.2 The Research Question and Aims	77
5.3 Metatheoretical Foundations	81
5.4 Dialogic Research	83
5.5 The Use of Interpretive Phenomenological Analysis (IPA)	85
5.6 Sample Selection	89
5.7 Interview Style	92
5.8 Being a Practitioner-Researcher	93
5.9 Data Analysis	96
5.10 Details of the Analysis Process	98
5.11 Ethical Considerations	101
5.12: Limitations, Strengths and Quality of the Study	106
5.13 Conclusion	110
CHAPTER SIX- INTRODUCTION TO THE FINDINGS AND ANALYSIS OF THE SINGLE CASE	111
6.1 Introduction:	111
6.2 Context for the single case:	111
6.3 Overview of the themes from the single case	112
6.4 Emergent Theme SC1 - 'Being a Suit -a thin veneer that's incredibly vulnerable to a scratch'	115
6.4.1 Being a manager, being a suit	116
6.4.2 Getting into supervision - a slippery slope:	117
6.4.3 Some things are beyond measurement	119
6.4.4 They wanted a recipe – becoming critical of management education	122

6.4.5 Conclusion of 'being a suit' theme (SC1)	125
6.5 Emergent Theme SC2 - Uncertainty and unpredictability interesting isn't it!	126
6.5.1 I don't know if I have, you can never judge it yourself, I like to think I may have	127
6.5.2 Unpredictability of people, nature and social science – I quite enjoy that	131
6.5.3 I'm not sure that I am, I don't think I can ever tell, I can't answer that- speaking in equivocal language	132
6.5.4 I've been lucky, but I don't think I deserve it	133
6.5.5 Fascination of the dilemmas of educating and managing people	134
6.5.6 Conclusion of the uncertainty and unpredictability theme (SC2)	135
6.6 Emergent Theme SC3 - 'Important Appreciative Relationships'	136
6.6.1 Getting on well with my seniors – being prepared to be growled at	137
6.6.2 A lovely man, he listened to me and didn't interrupt me - Mentors	138
6.6.3 The loneliness of what I do is now offset a little by working with friends	140
6.6.4 Lack of trust or synergy between academics and parks practitioners	141
6.6.5 Conclusion of 'The Importance of Appreciative Relationships' theme (SC3)	143
6.7 Emergent Them SC4 - Living with High Aspirations – I can do better than that	143
6.7.1 Parental aspirations – come what may	143
6.7.2 Early working experiences- the highest standards	145
6.7.3 Aiming at the very best – the paper chase of academic challenges	146
6.7.4 The Consequences of being principled	148
6.7.5 Working as a consultant – I don't do 'gun for hire' now	149
6.7.6 Best intensions and disasters: Giving people advice about their development	151
6.7.7 Conclusion of the 'living with high aspirations' theme (SC4)	152
6.8 Super-Ordinate Theme: Ed - Public Pride, Private Regrets	153
6.9 Conclusion of the Single Case Analysis – the self employed consultant	154
CHAPTER 7: ANALYSIS OF FINDINGS FROM THE MIDDLE MANAGERS	156
7.1 Introduction	156
7.2 Brief introduction to the middle managers' backgrounds	156

7.3 Overview of the super-ordinate themes from the middle managers' interviews	159
7.4 Super-Ordinate Theme MM1: That's what engages me - green spaces are very important to people for varying reasons	161
7.4.1 Gardening, Family and Sports - Links to childhood interests	161
7.4.2 Plants, Projects, People, Protection and Puzzles - Site based work:	163
7.4.3 Managing in green spaces - it's not like it should to be	166
7.4.4 Conclusion of Super-Ordinate Theme MM1: That's what engages me – green spaces are very important to people for varying reasons	170
7.5 Super-Ordinate Theme MM2: Working my way up in dead men's shoes - pursuing job progression and promotion	171
7.5.1 Dead men's shoes	172
7.5.2 'Sort of' careers:	174
7.5.3 Barriers or opportunities – steps, doors, junctions on the path	176
7.5.4 Conclusion of Super-ordinate Theme MM2 - Working my way up in dead men's shoes – pursuing job progression and promotion	181
7.6 Super-Ordinate Theme MM3 - Shock - Experiencing Unexpected, Uncontrollable Criticism	182
7.6.1 Shock	182
7.6.2 Keeping quiet and getting on with it:	185
7.6.3 Conclusion of Super-Ordinate Theme MM3: Shock - Experiencing Unexpected, Uncontrollable Criticism	189
7.7 Super-Ordinate Theme MM4: The Ways I Like to Learn	189
7.7.1 Appreciating a structured, practical grounding in horticulture	189
7.7.2 An ongoing drive for learning	192
7.7.3 A need to be pushed	193
7.7.4 Management, Development and Staffing	195
7.7.5 Ways of learning	197
7.7.6 Conclusion of the Ways I Like to Learn	199
7.8 Chapter Conclusions: Analysis of the middle manager accounts and comparison with the single case	199
CHAPTER EIGHT – ANALYSIS OF FINDINGS FROM THE SENIOR OFFICERS GROUP	202

8.1 Introduction	202
8.2 Brief introduction to the senior officers' backgrounds	202
8.3 Overview of the super-ordinate themes from the senior officers' interviews	204
8.4 Super-Ordinate Theme SO1: Finding myself working in the sector by chance, enjoying the outdoor work	206
8.4.1 Here through chance	206
8.4.2 Enjoying outdoors:	208
8.4.3 Conclusion of Super-Ordinate Theme SO1: Finding myself working in the sector by chance, enjoying the outdoor work	211
8.5 Super-Ordinate Theme SO2- Expectations of work and experiences of courses	211
8.5.1 Personal quests for enjoyable work or challenges	211
8.5.2 Expectations of climbing ladders	216
8.5.3 Personal insights and tactical uses – being thankful for courses	220
8.5.4 Conclusion of Super-Ordinate Theme SO2: Expectations of Work, Experiences of Courses	224
8.6 Super-Ordinate Theme SO3- Impacts of restructures and management	225
8.6.1 Feeling pressured by changes - restructuring	225
8.6.2 Suspicious of motives - concerns about the legitimacy and impacts of restructures:	228
8.6.3 That's when I felt I wasn't best suited - Considering leaving	233
8.6.4 Working under management	237
8.6.5 Conclusion of Super-Ordinate Theme: Unpleasant Impacts of Restructures and Management	244
8.7 Conclusions to the analysis of the senior officer grouping findings	245
8.8 Master themes for the study as a whole	245
8.9 Chapter conclusion	249
CHAPTER NINE – DISCUSSION OF FINDINGS	250
9.1 Introduction	250
9.2 Comparison of findings with mainstream HRD theory and practice	251
9.3 Discussion of the IPA analysis: a guided walk through the findings	259

9.3.1: Initially here through chance/Career theory	264
9.3.2: Finding myself enjoying the outdoors work/Self schemas & Reversal theory	267
9.3.3 Seeking, making or expecting a career path: Differing foci for work and learning/Reversal theory	269
9.3.4 Experiences of courses and learning	273
9.3.5: Experiencing managers/Communities of practice and domination	276
9.3.6: Experiences in the dark-side under management/learning and working in hostile climates	278
9.3.7 Summary of the discussion of IPA analysis findings	283
9.4 Theoretical model	283
9.5 Summary of the discussion chapter	288
CHAPTER TEN: CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS	290
10.1 Introduction	290
10.2 Contributions to Knowledge	292
10.3 Contribution to Practice	294
10.3.1 Implications for parks and green space practitioners	294
10.3.2 Implications for line managers in the UK parks and green spaces sector	295
10.3.3 Implications for HRD practitioners working in local authorities	296
10.3.4 Implications for UK parks and green space sector lead bodies	296
10.3.5 Implications for Universities	297
10.3.5 Contribution to my own Professional Practice	297
10.4 Contributions to method	299
10.5 Directions for future research suggested by this study	304
10.6 Conclusion	306

Acronyms and Abbreviations used in the thesis

CABE	Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment
CABEspace	CABE's open spaces advisory team
CCT	Compulsory Competitive Tendering
CIPD	Chartered Institute for Personnel and Development
CSR	Corporate Social Responsibility
DBA	Doctor of Business Administration
DTI	Department for Trade and Industry
DMS	Diploma in Management Studies
DTLR	Department for Transport, London and the Regions
GLA	Greater London Authority
GLC	Greater London Council
HND	Higher National Diploma
HR	Human Resources
HRD	Human Resource Development
Int.	Interviewer
ILAM	Institute of Leisure and Amenity Management
ILM	Institute of Leadership and Management
IPA	Interpretative Phenomenological Analysis
LANTRA	Landbased Training Sector Lead Body
LCC	London County Council
MBA	Master of Business Administration
MBW	Metropolitan Board of Works
MCC	Middlesex County Council
MM	Middle Managers
NAO	National Audit Office
NDPB	Non Departmental Public Body
NGO	Non Governmental Body
NPM	New Public Management
OECD	Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development
SA	Single Case
SO	Senior Officers

Definition
Charge-hand	Traditionally : a person who leads a small team of horticultural practical workers and carries out practical horticultural work at the same time, within a local authority or horticultural organisation - nowadays more often called a supervisor

List of Figures and Appendices

FIGURES	Page
Fig 2.1: Parks and Green Space Occupations	12
Fig 2.2: Parks and Open Space Typology	16
Fig 3.1: Model of Management Capability and Business Performance	42
Fig 3.2: Parks Skills Cycles of Decline and Virtuous Circles	52
Fig 3.3: New Public Leadership	53
Fig 3.4: Managing on the Edges	55
Fig 3.2: The HR Profession Map	60
Fig 5.1: Metatheory of representational practices	83
Fig 5.2: summary of the cases included in the analysis	91
Fig 5.3: Process used to carry out the IPA analysis	96
Fig 5.4: Example of initial data analysis table	98
Fig 5.5: Structure of the research analysis	101
Fig 6.1: Diagram of the themes from the Single Case	112
Fig 6.2: Table of the themes from the single case	113
Fig 7.1: Middle Manager Pseudonyms and Generic Job Titles	157
Fig 7.2 Diagram of themes for Middle Managers	159
Fig 7.3: Table of the Middle Manager themes	160
Fig8.1: Senior Officer Pseudonyms and Generic Job Titles	202
Fig 8.2: Diagram of the themes for the Senior Officer grouping	204
Fig 8.3: Table of the Senior Officer themes	205
Fig 8.4: Diagram of the Master themes for the study as a whole	245
Fig 8.5: Table of the master themes for the study as a whole	246
Fig 9.1: Partial listing of courses and qualifications, undertaken by participants	256
Fig 9.2: Metaphorical ' guided walk ' of the discussion	262
Fig 9.3: Selection and choice	266
Fig 9.4: Model linking employee satisfaction with the work environment	269
Fig 9.5: Pairs of motivational states - Reversal theory	271
Fig. 9.1: Managing on the Edges	284
Fig. 9.2: Developing Under Pressure in London's Parks	286

Appendix 1: Table of participants	343
Appendix 2: Mater themes from the study as a whole	344
Appendix 3: Handout given to potential participants	345
Appendix 4: Table of Single Case Themes	346
Appendix 5: Table of Middle Manager Themes	348
Appendix 6: Table of Senior Officer Themes	350
Appendix 7: Examples of Bracketing	351

Acknowledgements

My great thanks are due to the many people for support during the time this thesis has been completed. Firstly, I would like to thank my supervisors, Rachel Mason-Jones and Gideon Calder, without whose support and guidance this thesis would not have been completed.

Many thanks to members of London's Parks and Green Spaces Forum (now called Parks for London) for helping me to make contact with potential participants in my research. Thanks also to members of the International Federation for Parks and Recreation Administration (now part of the World Urban Parks Association) for taking part in my initial pilot study interviews. My thanks as well to the London Parks and Gardens Trust's Research and Publications working group of which I was a member for some years. Research undertaken as part of the CABESpace programme (now part of the Design Council) provided a great launching pad for my study and my thanks go to the government funders of that programme.

Sadly, times change and today, rather than being a focus of government-funded research, London's parks departments (and those across the rest of England) are key services impacted by the UK government's austerity programme on local authority budgets. Parks and green spaces are resilient, helping to make cities and towns attractive and liveable, so it is to be hoped that these challenges will be overcome. My deep appreciation and thanks are due to everyone (paid and unpaid) who has made, and who will continue to make, London's parks and green spaces a credit to the UK's Capital, without which London would certainly be a harsher and less healthy place to visit, work and live.

On a personal level, many thanks are due to my family and to my friends for their support, interest and considerable patience. I owe a debt of gratitude to both my mother and my father for the inspiration, pleasure and insights I have gained each day from our industrial and natural heritage. Very sadly, my father died before the completion of this thesis and so, with great appreciation for introducing me to urban parks and green spaces as an interface between the natural world and life in busy urban areas, this thesis is dedicated to both my parents and to everyone who appreciates the benefits of public parks and green spaces.

Finally, I would like to offer many thanks to the people who participated in this research. Without your input, the insights into managing and working in London's parks and green spaces sector, reported in this study would not have been possible.