Presidents message

My student years at Avondale gave me intellectual challenge, lifelong friendships, leadership opportunities, spiritual enrichment, and some of the most enjoyable and rewarding years of my life.

Avondale has developed since then. We now have over 1200 students, a highly qualified staff, more than forty accredited courses from vocational education to doctoral degrees, and a growing research program. Thanks to generous government financial assistance, most students pay no tuition costs while studying. We regularly receive top ratings for quality of teaching, staff qualifications, student satisfaction, and graduate employment.

The core values have not changed. If I relived my life and enrolled at Avondale today, I would enjoy great friends, a faith-affirming environment, opportunities for spiritual growth, and unforgettable good times. I would expect to graduate with excellent employment prospects and a vision of service for others.

That's why I would come to Avondale again.

John Cox

editors message

I have no doubt that every 'Avondale experience' is different, mine being no exception. Being from New Zealand (as have the previous four Jac editors!), I initially came to Australia after quitting my job, to visit my brother and sister. A one month visit became two, one thing led to another (after meeting that someone special) and before I knew it, I was a full-time student! I never planned to study at Avondale, and after my sisters two year involvement with the Jac, I definitely never expected to be the Jac editor. I've been faced with many obstacles this year, and been forced to learn when to hold on, let go or just relax and relish the experience. And that's what it's been...a massive learning experience.

So as my 'Avondale experience' thus far has been somewhat reluctant, it has reminded me how much God is looking after me, how He has much bigger plans for me than I could ever plan for myself, and that He's guiding the path in which I walk—that assurance alone makes it all worthwhile.

Unless you've been involved with a venture as big as the Jac, you will never fully appreciate how much is involved and how many hours are expended to produce it—so to those who have helped, in whatever capacity, thank you very much!

We hope to have captured the ingredients and memories that remind you of being a student at Avondale in 2007. As you turn through these pages, now and in years to come, we hope these memories come flooding back with smiles and laughter, and you remember what it is like seeing through students' eyes.

dedication

Jean doesn't worry about formalities; they only get in the way of knowing people better. To any observer, this philosophy is paramount to the way she teaches. If her students have to get up in front of class to play the recorder that they have just learnt, then Jean will be playing along beside them, with a lovely smile and that contagious laugh of hers.

Education Lecturer Dr. Carter is relatively unknown. If someone were to go around the dorms asking for stories about her to use in this dedication, they would be met with confused reactions. If, on the other hand, they referred to her as 'Jean'—well, that's a whole different matter.

Her relaxed nature and caring teaching style make her one of the most approachable lecturers at Avondale. She's not afraid to share herself with students—relating personal experiences in conversations or leading out in worships—telling stories such as how she met her husband Peter, talking about what College was like when she graduated in 1982, or discussing God's influence on her life.

From a very young age Jean demonstrated a passion for teaching—organising her cats and dogs into classes, practising on her sisters and teaching her teddy bears their ABC's. Since then, Jean has taught in classrooms at both primary and secondary schools, she's led Pathfinder groups and been a Principal in many of the schools she has worked at. In her role as a lecturer at Avondale College since 2004, Jean understands and values each student who is taking the course. She doesn't merely teach curriculum and professional development; she also teaches her students lessons for life.

Jean—on behalf of Avondale College, thank you for using your talents to inspire future generations of teachers. You are a wonderful person, and a wonderful teacher who will be greatly missed. It is your passion, enthusiasm and love of teaching which sees the 2007 Jacaranda dedicated to you.

However we each feel about our time here, we've merely been given the tools and shown how they work. It's now up to us to make

POOL PARTY

7.58 am. The first class of my college career was starting in two minutes, and I didn't know where it was! But it was OK. As I've quickly learned, class isn't all that important, and nine o'clock is a reasonable time to get up for an eight o'clock class... isn't it?

It's been good getting used to the relaxed college attitude after being in school. The move from high school to college is pretty easy thanks to the Adventist school system—at first coming to college seemed a little bit like Big Camp. The first weeks of semester one were full of social events; pool parties, pranks, countless dress-up birthday parties, surfing with Americans, open dorms, running races, the aquathon, hanging out with old and new friends. Chaffs were good fun too (although they may have been the last)!

Once the novelties wore off, sport became the focus, particularly basketball. All-Star Weekend was a highlight for me. It was great seeing top players facing off against each other and getting an opportunity to be a part of that. During the season I learned important lessons on the court and off—getting frustrated doesn't payoff!

The Festival of Faith weeks for both semesters have been great, two different speakers, both with inspiring messages. I have been into the Word everyday since Herb was here! 7.28 and RE:GEN are awesome worship programs, I remember the music-focused 7.28 being one of the most powerful spiritual experiences I've had!

Prac teaching, Storm Co. and working at Sano during the breaks... what more could you want? My first year at college has been an awesome experience, and I wouldn't be anywhere else.

FESTIVAL OF FAITH I

TWENTY FOUR

Rez banquet JUNGLE FEVER

It's the unexpected things that make the best experiences Kym Jackson

SPOT the DIFFERENCE!

MIRROR image? hardly!
see how many differences you can find (P.S. COLOURS don't count)

The journey starts once you enter the gates. You drive down the rocky, holy road to Avondale College. You pass the forests of white boom gates and the mountainous speed humps. This is your new home.

First years see Avondale College as a place for branching out, for experiences, for a new start. Graduating students look at their home of three or four years with a sadness at what they will miss when they leave. Those veterans who you see on Homecoming weekend see College as another world, of fond memories and their past.

All these people through the ages see Avondale College in different ways, yet we are all fundamentally the same. We have a shared experience—the Avondale experience.

It is hard to answer a question personally about what Avondale College life has been for me, because it's really all about the little things which make up the whole, interconnected experience. Things like going to Bi-Lo at midnight, pushing trolleys through boom gates (or riding in them as they are being pushed through boom gates), coming together as a community in a time of flood, or walking along girls walk at night when you have never walked the track before.

This semester, my experience has changed since my first year. My work starts to take over and fun and socialising almost become things of the past. A new experience starts. Sitting in the silence of the radio booth, where I have set up my home for the past few weeks, it's easy to feel alone, but my experience of Avondale is that you'll never be alone, regardless of how much you may try. Even in the radio booth, I know the library is breathing above me. You rarely see this side of Avondale because of the hustle and bustle College life creates. This is a much quieter experience of Avondale, it's the spirit of the place, the things that aren't said or done.

Something I have learnt about the world of Avondale is not to be afraid of your experience changing—that it is what it is—a journey. Every semester is different, every time, every place, it is ever-changing.

We've all got a story to tell about this place, it's what we share. That's life at Avondale College.

and TOURS

For three years I sat silently, observing the surroundings of a place that I would gradually come to consider as my 'home'. Within that time, my emotional state has endured a rollercoaster ride of mixed anxiety and pleasure. I say pleasure, because on a personal level I have tirelessly searched for the relevance of God in my life... and found it.

Unfortunately the God that has become relevant in my life has also at times been kept hidden in my heart. Inevitably, I will walk away from this place having never truly revealed the new creation that I have become in Christ. This in itself is a tragedy and has often been the cause of my anxiety.

If only I had the voice and courage to publicly proclaim all the wonders that God has fulfilled for me during my time at Avondale. That would truly be a wonderful day, however, the words on this page are all the courage I can ever muster. Courage has always been my downfall and the greatest enemy of my mind.

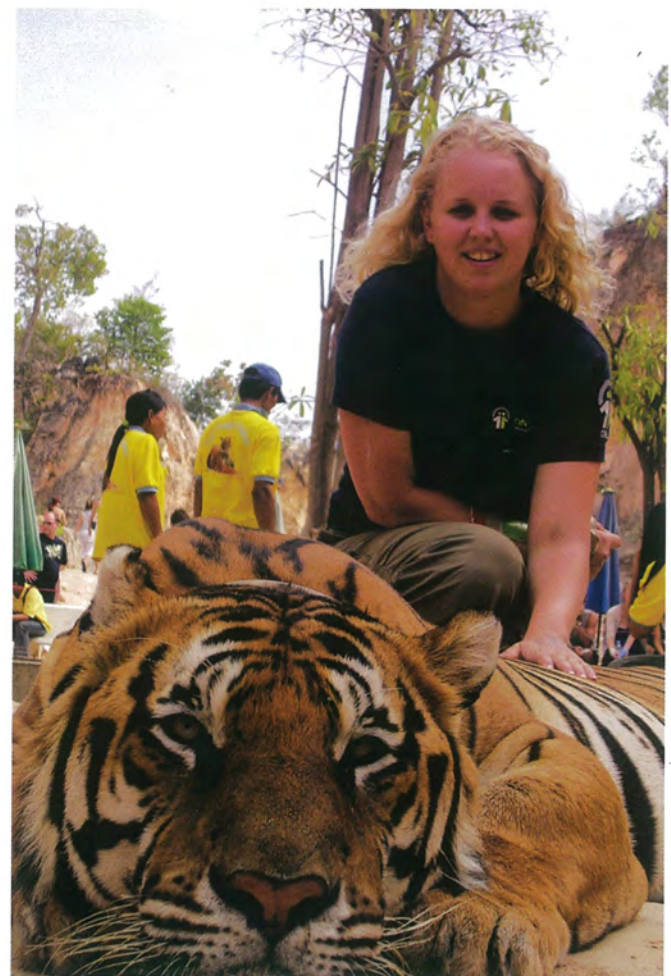

I can remember the first time I attended a Festival of Faith. What a devastating scene that was for me. I kept my lips sealed as students gave their praise to God through music. As heads around me began to drop in prayer, my head was held high. When their eyes were shut in deep communication, mine remained open. In my ignorant state, I craved to have what those around me had. However, I never had the courage or belief to take claim of the authority that they yielded to. "Are they all truly happy"? I wondered with jealous rage and disbelief. And most importantly, "Can I ever have what they have"?

Three years later, and I have found my peace. I can't say that Avondale, as an institution, has transformed my life because it hasn't. On the contrary, Avondale has merely provided me with the first opportunity I have had in a long time... to be still and find my God.

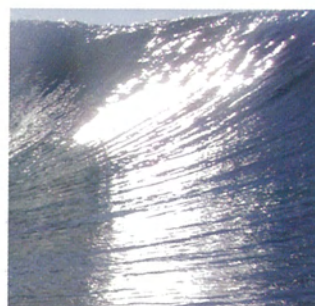

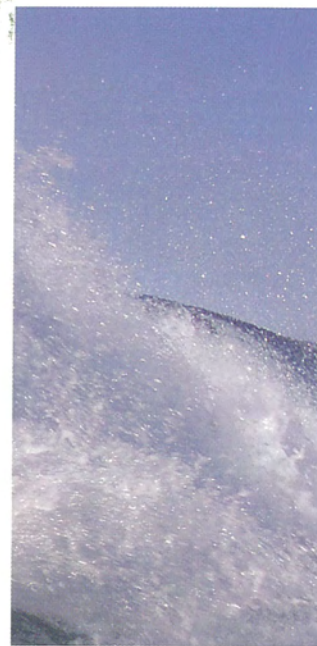

My experience has been very different from many around me. I will not walk away with long-life friendships, but for the first time in my life I will walk away from something with God at my side.

FESTIVAL OF FAITH 2

Giving everything to God only makes life MORE EXCITING Chani Heise

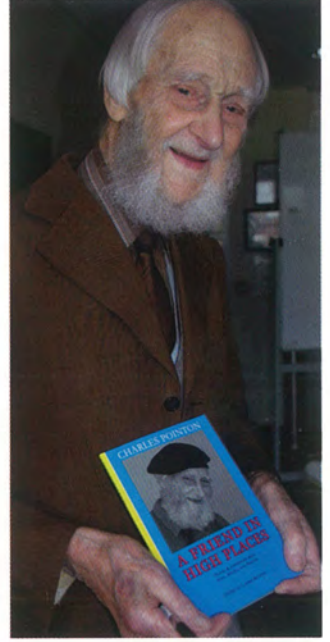

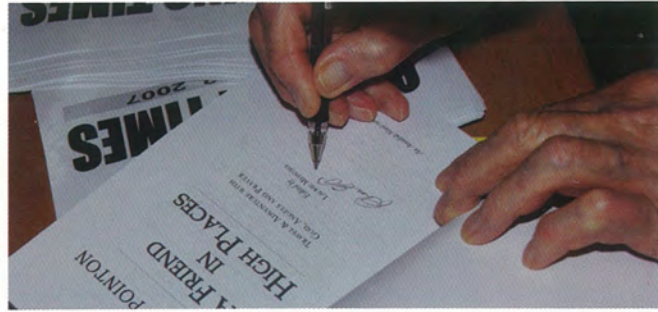

CLOSURE OF the DAIRY

In a few months I will graduate, concluding many long years of academic study. An opportunity exists for me at this moment, to make use of my talents and earn my degree with honour... to achieve my potential at long last. One obstacle lies in my path... attitude. Shall I continue drifting along as I have in the past, putting things off and allowing my weakness to determine my reality? If so, I'll undoubtedly come to regret it. Unless... another option: overcome.

More than ever, I have purpose. I have direction. I've come here to gain an education, and I believe in what I'm learning. The knowledge and skills I'm gaining here at College are certain to empower me as I seek to make a positive difference in this world.

Therefore, I choose to make the most of this and every opportunity given to me in life... to seize the day! I am committed to making the sacrifices of time and energy, to develop integrity as I diligently apply myself to the task at hand. And, to trust God to provide me with the strength, focus and motivation I need, as I journey through this narrow canyon for but a season.

And when I eventually emerge successfully from the other side, and set my eyes upon the eternal expanse of ocean stretching out before me, I will praise my faithful King with joy and delight! I will bask in the warmth of His love as the wind fills my sails, propelling me forth into the waters of limitless opportunity, shimmering in the light of life.

THE LIFE AS!

Today marks the beginning

I wake early for this so-called special day, even though I had been up talking to friends until the early hours of this morning. Opening my door, I saw dozens of boxes. They line the hallways—the hallways which have always served as a quick pathway to my friends' rooms, loud music and laughter. The boxes fade out of my sight and instead I see the times where we would all sit in the hallway, talking to friends over a cup of tea, or rushing into the TV room to watch our favourite show. I smile, remembering how these dorms have always buzzed with life.

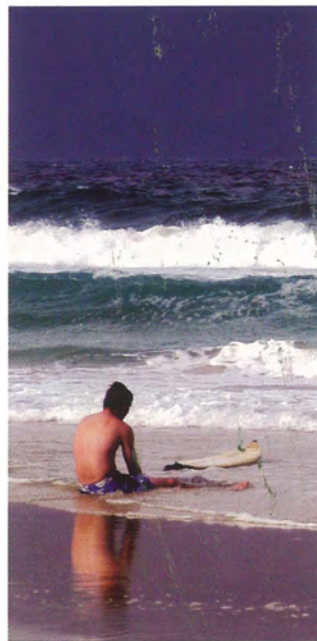

I started this journey with childlike trust and I learnt something with every step. Something new, something different, something absolutely amazing. My journey has taken many turns, leaps, and bounds. It's had it's ups and downs—but mostly ups. My destination has always been a mystery, but in my perception of time, an eternity away.

Today I'm dressed in my brand new white and green dress. It matches the colours on the sash I will wear later today. I sit down on the floor in front of the fan, feeling the humidity that is in the air. I gaze out my securely bolted window. It is the last month of my semi-predictable future, and I am surrounded by many joys—the boys 'chaffing' the girls, exploring new places, planning mission trips, slowly drifting off to class—always making memories that I hope will last a lifetime.

Suddenly, barging in through the doorway are my three best friends. We all sit down, trying to catch the breeze from the small room fan. Our conversation drifts from the confusions of life to wondering about and imagining our lives for the following year. It is all about to change. I realise that we don't know where we are going. But I wouldn't want to imagine my future without these girls.

Our laughter wafts around the room. Too soon, we become aware of the time, which has just flown by. I jump up and put on my black regalia, not entirely sure if I am really ready to step up.

As I push these thoughts away, I pull my best jazz face and smoothly re-adjust my square black cap in front of the mirror. Tomorrow shall bestow more of our dreams, goals and desires.

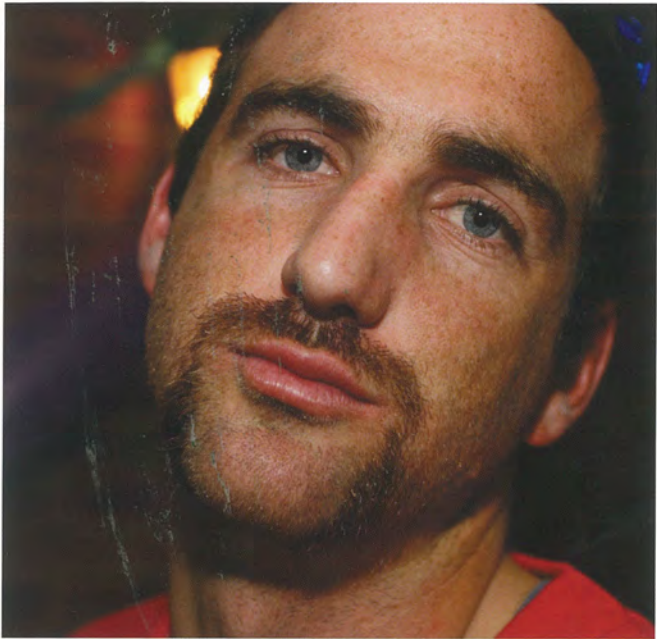

But for today, now is all I know. It is what I have and that in itself is enough.

Larissa Hockley

The word "LEARNING" is written in a bold, black, sans-serif font, slanted upwards from left to right. The letters are thick and blocky. Below the word, there are three parallel, diagonal stripes. The stripes are red with a white border, and they extend from the bottom right towards the top left, following the same slant as the text. The background is white with some faint, vertical smudges or marks on the left side.

my Faculty is great because...

Get Involved In

Long Term Ventures

You generally spend over 3 months away from home. Your assignment is usually overseas. A variety of roles like youth workers, teachers and Bible workers are offered. You could do this during your gap year.

Short Term Ventures

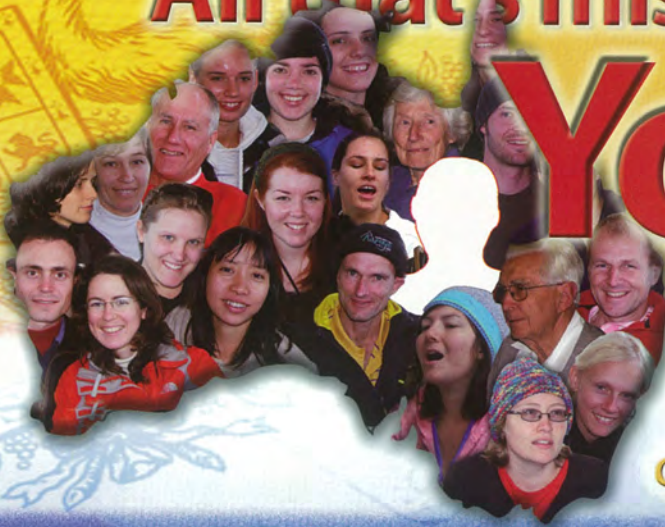

You generally spend less than 3 months away. Your assignment can be local or overseas. Roles like fly'n builds, fly'n preach are excellent ventures.

StormCo

You generally spend up to two weeks away on community service in a local neighbourhood. You come back feeling invigorated!

All that's missing is You!

ADVENTIST VOLUNTEERS

Adventist Volunteers

02 9847 3275 volunteers@adventist.org.au adventistvolunteers.org because the work is far from over ...

Disaster. Hunger. War. Famine. Orphans. Poverty.

These are the words that get thrown around a lot when referring to the third world. But too often these are just words to people. Not to OneMission.

OneMission is a non-government organisation, operated in affiliation with Adventist Volunteers Services (AVS), which aims to mobilise volunteers, by providing carefully selected community development projects within Australia and developing countries around the world. It empowers people with the desire and passion to serve, providing them with the opportunities to do so.

OneMission would like to thank those people that have been involved with mission trips so far (Cambodia, Thailand, Vanuatu, India, Mozambique, Tanzania, Philippines and Botswana) and also those who are planning to be involved in the future. We would also like to extend our thanks to Avondale College as a whole for their continuing support of global mission work.

“Religion that God our Father accepts as pure and faultless is this: to look after orphans and widows in their distress and to keep oneself from being polluted by the world.” —James 1:27 (NIV)

ADVENTIST

Nikki Race

AMN Marketing Intern

"...It is a great opportunity to gain practical experience in my area of study. I have learned a lot of valuable skills during my internship, which I can use in the future."

Adventist Media Network (AMN)

is the combination of the Adventist Media Centre, the Discovery Centre, Signs Publishing Company and the Communication Department.

AMN has been established to serve and coordinate the communication and media needs of the church in the South Pacific.

Web Ministry - AMN

is coordinating the development of a strong Web presence.

Resources for Spiritual Growth - AMN

stocks print and digital media such as books, pamphlets, CDs and DVDs.

Adventist Discovery Centre

Offers people the opportunity to learn about a range of topics in health, lifestyle and biblical subjects.

News and Media - AMN

connects the church through the Record and Adventist News.

Internships - AMN

is working alongside Avondale College to provide students with opportunities for professional experience.

ADVENTIST
MEDIA NETWORK

AMN offers a range of services and products for church members, church leaders and the general public.

Ministry Of Teaching

Teaching is more than a job or a career. It's a calling.

Teachers see the profession of teaching as a ministry as it changes the lives of their students, shapes their worldview, and develops their intellectual energy.

To share the experiences of teachers and hear why they feel called to teaching, go to www.ministryofteaching.edu.au.

The website contains reflections on the ministry of teaching and pathways to enter it.

It also features the current issue of TEACH/JOURNAL.
