PCOM's Class of 1999...

...On August 23, 1995 we met as a class for the first time...

... Together we struggled through long hours of lectures...

... and countless late nights studying...

...Along the way we built lasting friendships, made many wonderful memories, learned more than we ever thought possible,...

...and laughed a lot throughout the journey...

..Over the past four years we have witnessed many changes at PCOM...

...Not only has our campus been transformed, but on June 6, 1999...

...we, the class of 1999, became doctors.

THE MED SCHOOL NERD SCALE

The following scale has been developed in close cooperation with the psychiatry services. It is designed to test if you have spent too much time in medical school and whether you are having adverse side effects due to prolonged exposure. Score one point for each statement that applies to you.

-taken from Leamon Davenport's scribe on March 13, 1996

1. You have ever said "Netter is God".
2. You can discuss autopsy/anatomy over a meal.
3. You own a 4 color pen.
4. -it just isn't enough colors for you.
5. You use more than one color to take notes.
6. You have used up more than 6 highlighters in the past 6 months.
7. You have ever highlighted something you wrote.
8. You retype handouts given in class.
9. You haven't had a date in 3 months.
10. You haven't had a date since entering med school.
11. You have not been able to remember the normal term for something because you were thinking of the medical term (ie. reflux for heartburn).
12. You get more sleep in lecture than at home.
13. You know the correct spelling for pruritus.
14. You also know what it means.
15. You have ever asked a question in class.
16. The prof. didn't understand the question.
17. -you didn't believe the answer the prof. gave.
18. -you went to look it up to see if they were right.
19. You can't hold a conversation on anything other than med school.
20. You skip class to study.
21. You've said you didn't do well on a test on which you beat the mean.
22. You spend more than 15 hrs. a week on e-mail.
23. You have a callous on your finger from writing.
24. More than one professor knows you by name.
25. When you ask a question, a new professor has said "Oh I've heard of you".
26. You can name more amino acids than past presidents.
27. You use more than 5 acronyms an hour when talking.
28. You actually know what PERRLA stands for.
29. You know all the steps of the TCA cycle.
30. You do not read PTA as parent teachers association.
31. You can remember the muscles in the forearm.
32. You know the structures in the urea cycle.
33. You know the dermatome distribution.
34. You can't remember what you had for breakfast.
35. You can't spell world, much less backwards.
36. You've ever been sexually aroused by the breast shadow on X-ray.
37. You equate "morning stiffness" with Rheumatoid Arthritis.
38. You actually know normal values for plasma Na.
39. -K.
40. Missing class causes you extreme stress.
41. You have seriously asked someone "So how does that make you feel?"
42. You have asked will this be on the exam.
43. -just after the prof. said it wouldn't.
44. You identify with Deb on E.R.
45. You have made a medical joke.
46. -no one laughed.
47. -You figure they just weren't that far in their studying.
48. You wear your stethoscope around your neck on the bus.
49. -you don't even know which way the thing goes in your ears.
50. "SOB" means short of breath to you.
51. You have gone to student health with suspicion of a disease you have studied.
52. -within 3 days of the lecture.
53. You have answered a question in class.
54. -asked by the professor.
55. -it was a rhetorical question.
56. You can quote lines from the movie "Malice".
57. -you believe them.
58. You can flip your pen over your thumb.
59. -with both hands.
60. you do so throughout class.
61. You have corrected a professor in class.
62. -the rest of the class didn't understand the lecture to begin with.
63. You know how to calculate specificity.
64. -positive predictive value.
65. -anion gap.
66. -you can't balance your checkbook.
67. You don't know what the weather was like for the past week.
68. You don't know what the weather is like right now.
69. You actually talk in open ended questions.
70. DIC isn't a slang term for the penis in your book.
71. You think B- is a bad grade.
72. You have stressed about a pass/fail class.
73. You study during most of your meals.
74. You saw nothing abnormal about the Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder.
75. You draw all the slides not already provided in the handouts.
76. -including the cartoons (humorous type).
77. Anatomy makes you hungry.
78. You would even consider saying "Ease back on my finger at your own pace".
79. You know the size of a RBC.
80. -you don't know the size of a football field.
81. Your eyesight has worsened by 10 pts. or more in the last four years.
82. You have the library hours memorized.
83. You have your own seat in the library.
84. You scored more than 95 on the Epidemiology Final.
85. You own more than one white coat.
86. You have debated between giving up sleep or eating in order to find more time to study.
87. You started studying for boards more than 2 months in advance.
88. You have never received a personal invitation to discuss your grades with the dean.
89. A tie is the only addition necessary to what you normally wear when you go to see patients.
90. You wear scrubs to tests.
91. You have made plans to study on a beach during vacation.
92. -You actually did.
93. You have a designated seat in lecture.
94. -You have ever asked someone to move from your seat.
95. You sleep less than 4 hrs. a night.
96. -you think that is plenty.
97. -you have thought about cutting back.
98. You study more than 35 hrs. outside of class.
99. -you think you are a slacker..
100. You think everyone answers yes to most of these questions.

Scale

- 0-20 You're not in Med School.
- 21-35 Either Med School is a breeze or you like the sound of "Senor doctor".
- 36-45 Gotta love that Primary Care.
- 46-60 Well, I never really thought about MD/PhD, but now that you mention it.
- 61-75 Your social life is shot might as well try to earn lots of money.
- 76-90 Which surgery subspecialty did you say you liked?
- 90-100 All hail great Med School Nerd Master.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

To Secure Merit

Foreword

In 1979 I delivered the Commencement address to Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. My remarks, framed in the blended styles of Jonathan Swift's "Modest Proposal" and Aldous Huxley's Brave New World, pretended to impart 20 years of retrospective to the Class of 1999. Ironically, two decades have passed since that day of pomp and circumstance at the Academy of Music, a score of years that now brings the College to its Centennial celebration. And what a century of history it has been!

In 1889 two newly trained osteopathic physicians from the Midwest introduced a new school and philosophy of medicine to a city known as the birthplace of American medicine. Philadelphia's rich legacy of health care started in 1751 with the founding of the nation's first hospital, Pennsylvania Hospital. With the opening of the University of Pennsylvania's Medical Department in 1765, the city also assumed the lead in medical education. By the time Drs. O.J. Snyder and Mason W. Pressly first advertised the Philadelphia College and Infirmary of Osteopathy, a well-established medical culture was already in place.

Philadelphia's first osteopathic institution fought its battles and, in time, proved its efficacy. From its inception, the College championed the notions of holistic medicine and preventive health care, which since have become accepted goals for the medical profession at large as it approaches the 21st century. Through struggles to obtain specialized training, D.O.s have also earned recognition beyond the sphere of primary health care.

Despite criticism from my fellow M.D.s, I lectured on pediatric surgery at PCOM's 48th and Spruce Streets campus in the 1950s, and in 1976, began rotating osteopathic surgical residents through the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia's training program in pediatric surgery. PCOM graduates proved to be among the best. Without a doubt, in the 100 years now being celebrated, PCOM has earned its position among those institutions that have assured the preeminence of American medicine.

FOUNDERS

Dr. Andrew Taylor Still

In 1874 Dr. Andrew Taylor Still, a frontier physician, announced his theories about a new system of structural therapeutics that he called osteopathy. His revolutionary theories rejected traditional medical practice (allopathy) that relied heavily on drugs. Instead, Still associated disease with disorders of the musculoskeletal system which, through mechanical correction, could be prevented or treated. His system of medicine soon attracted supporters. It also elicited opponents who labeled the new alternative medicine quackery, cultism and charlatanism. In so doing, these naysayers fueled a long history of struggles for the osteopathic profession, a struggle mirrored in the 100-year history of Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine.

After Still founded the first school of osteopathy in Kirksville, Missouri in 1892, his students went on to found other osteopathic schools. These were primarily in the American Midwest, the exceptions being the Pacific School of Osteopathy in Anaheim, California (1896) and the Boston Institute of Osteopathy (1897). In the summer of 1898, O.J. Snyder and Mason W. Pressly, both students at the Northern Institute of Osteopathy in Minneapolis, decided it was time to create a second osteopathic institution in the East. After considering several large cities, they selected Philadelphia and in 1899 opened the doors of the Philadelphia College and Infirmary of Osteopathy (PCIO)-later known as Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine (PCOM).

Mason W. Pressly, D.O., 1859-1942

Mason W. Pressly, D.O., was a Presbyterian minister from Coddle Creek, North Carolina. He held pastorates in several states before visiting A.T. Still at the American School of Osteopathy (ASO) in Kirksville to investigate osteopathy as a means to help his invalid wife....while at Kirksville, Pressly developed a close relationship with Still, he served as associate editor of the school's Journal of Osteopathy, as professor of physiology and as pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. In January 1898 Pressly was elected to chair physiology and hygiene at the Northern Institute of Osteopathy in Minneapolis where, at the age of 39, he received his D.O. degree... While at the Northern Institute, Pressly became acquainted with fellow student and teacher, O.J. Snyder. The two agreed to form a partnership and Pressly came to Philadelphia in 1899 to secure office space for the practice and school they planned to start...When PCIO admitted its first students, Pressly was the only teacher.

O.J. Snyder, D.O., 1866-1947

Born in St. Louis, Missouri, and raised in Wisconsin, O.J. Snyder, D.O., began his career as a teacher, then entered federal government service as a special examiner in the US Pension Bureau. But when his sister's sight was restored after osteopathic manipulative treatment, Snyder pursued his studies in osteopathic medicine. He enrolled at the Northern Institute of Osteopathy in Minneapolis where he also taught clinical microscopy. Snyder graduated from the Northern Institute in 1899, by which time he and Mason W. Pressly, D.O., had formed their plans to found an osteopathic institution in Philadelphia. Snyder joined Pressly in Philadelphia in May 1899, starting 48 years of continuous involvement with the College.

"It is not Mysticism; it is mechanism. It is not prayer; it is physics. It is not faith; it is work. It is not christian science; it is common sense. It is not faith cure; it is fact cure. It is not magnetic; it is vivific. It is not massage or manipulation; it is the mastery of the matter and motions of the body by trained hands and brains. It is not mental; it is mechanical. It is not pharmaceutical; it is physiological. It is not artificial; it is natural. It is not ideal; it is real. It is not hypnotic; it is dynamic. It is not destructive; it is constructive. It is not trance; it is truth. It is not spiritualism; it is animism. It is not hallucination; it is health."

OSTEOPATHY IN PRACTICE

“Release of the intrinsic healing of the body can happen when we use manipulation, our birthright modality.”

- David Heilig, D.O.

In PCIO's clinic [during WW II], free service was given to men rejected by the draft boards because of correctable physical conditions, restoring many for military service.

“Every patient in the Hospital got an osteopathic treatment twice a day, regardless of what was wrong, and you were the ones who did it - the students”

- F. Munro Purse, D.O. (1932)

Jean L. Sheperla, a nurse in the Osteopathic Hospital [of Philadelphia] and later a D.O. (1926), remembered, “During the flu epidemic in 1918 we had 56 cases. We used Osteopathic treatments, using our Osteopathic students to treat them every two hours, concentrating on the chest and lung areas.” When the pandemic was over, it helped place the osteopathic profession in a more favorable light with some of its critics as patients receiving osteopathic manipulation care developed fewer complications of the flu and hence better mortality statistics.

ADAPTING TO PROGRESS

In 1929 the AOA passed a resolution permitting osteopathic colleges to teach supplementary therapeutics (pharmacology), reflecting the broadening scope of osteopathic practice.

The tide began to turn at PCO around 1932 when C.D.B. Balbirnie, Ph.D., D.O.(1911), included general principles of prescription writing...Another milestone in the integration of pharmacology into the curriculum dates to 1937 when Samuel Levin Ph.G., D.O. (1935) and Morton Seidenfeld, B.S., M.A., introduced a second-year course called experimental pharmacology [which] "...planned to deal mainly with the pharmacological considerations having to do with antiseptics, antidotes, anesthetics, and narcotics".

"The application of drugs to the treatment of disease has no place in the osteopathic curriculum."

(PCO Announcement, 1930-1931) - C.D.B. Balbirnie, Ph.D., D.O. (1911),
Chairman of the Department of Therapeutics

By the 1950s, the heart-lung machine, ultrasound, the artificial kidney and other innovations were revolutionizing medical care, which in turn was becoming increasingly specialized...For D.O.s in particular, gaining competency in "modern" medicine was integral to the struggle for parity with M.D.s.

In 1976 PCOM's Department of Radiology, under the direction of Robert L. Meals, D.O. (1956), acquired a Varian 4MeV linear accelerator for the treatment of cancer...[the Barth Pavillion] was one of two hospitals in the osteopathic profession to have a linear accelerator...In January of 1979, PCOM obtained a CT scanner...[which] was upgraded in 1980 to include the most advanced scanner technology available, making it one of the most sophisticated in the country.

FATHER OF ANATOMY

His comprehensive knowledge of the subject, his demanding, if stern, teaching and his tireless devotion to osteopathic medicine led his students and peers to declare him the country's best anatomist of the era.

With George S. Rothmeyer, D.O. (1927), as department head, [Angus Gordon] Cathie joined the Anatomy faculty as instructor in 1933. While making his mark as an educator, he pursued his interests as an anatomist/curator. Cathie devoted much of his time to the Anatomy Museum...[He] prepared most of the specimens in the Museum with his own hands. He developed the collection as a teaching tool...But he also used the collection for marketing the College. Specimens from and photographs of the Museum-accompanied by Cathie-were displayed on tours of undergraduate schools and at professional meetings.

Angus Gordon Cathie, D.O. (1931)

"The museum, which made his laboratory unique, and the great anatomy laboratory of the world, was the greatest experience of his creativity, an assemblage of art forms, conceived and created in loneliness."

- Ruth V.E. Waddel Cathie, D.O. (1938)

Around 1944 Cathie...provided each student with a set of bones prepared in the work room of the department. By foot, by car or by trolley, students carried the specimens home in their "bone box". Eleanor V. Masterson, D.O. (1957) recalled Cathie distributing the specimens and admonishing students, "Please do not use the femur to prop up you window, because if I see that, you flunk".

FATHER OF SURGERY

“Dr. Pennock instilled one thing in my mind; he said ‘Always discuss things with a patient. Sit down and talk to them; if they call you and have trouble, talk to them over the phone; do not cut them short.’ ”

- Ernest J. Leuzinger, D.O. (1924)

David S.B. Pennock, D.O., M.D., graduated from the American School of Osteopathy in Kirksville in 1901, immediately after which he joined the PCIO faculty. While teaching at PCIO, he received his M.D. degree from Hahnemann Medical College in 1904. Pennock brought the surgical knowledge he had gained at Hahnemann and through subsequent post-graduate courses to PCIO, where he became the College's "Father of Surgery" and "Uncle Dave" to many students. Because Pennock was a licensed M.D., he could practice surgery and prescribe drugs legally at PCIO prior to passage of the state's Surgeons Bill in 1923, which recognized the osteopaths' right to perform surgery. Pennock organized the College's Department of Surgery and served as chief of staff and chief surgeon of the Osteopathic Hospital of Philadelphia from its inception in 1916 until his retirement in 1947. He served on the first Surgical Board in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and was PCOM's first recipient of the O.J. Snyder Memorial Medal, the highest honor awarded by the college.

INTERNS

The interns worked seven days a week and had one weekend off each month. Their responsibilities included bedside manipulative treatments and laboratory work such as blood counts, urinalysis and sputum analysis.

Through persistence Morton Terry, D.O. (1945), became PCO's first de facto internal medicine resident...After completing an internship at the Osteopathic Hospital in 1946, Terry asked Ralph Fischer, D.O., chairman of the Department of Internal Medicine, for a residency, but was told that the hospital was not big enough and that there would not be enough for a resident to do. Rather than accept "no" for an answer, Terry accompanied the internists on rounds, started running tests for them and covered their patients in their absence. After a few months of working without pay or recognition, he did not show up to work one day. Realizing through Terry's absence the value of this "medical resident," Fischer and the other members of the executive committee formalized Terry's appointment with retroactive pay of $25 per month.

In 1928 PCO had established the nation's first osteopathic residency program in radiology; in the late 1940s the college continued this tradition of firsts with new residency programs in several departments.

- 1928 Radiology
- 1940 Urology
- 1942 Surgery
- 1946 Internal Medicine
- 1947 Orthopedics
OB/GYN
- 1948 Pediatrics
- 1979 OPP

In response to the growing size and rigors of these graduate training programs in the Osteopathic Hospital, Galen S. Young, Sr., D.O. (1935) founded and sponsored the Survivors' Club, which grew into an annual dinner celebration for those who "survived" their internship or residency at PCO.

CLINICS

"One day I was a student, passing tests, and then the next day I was handed charts and told, 'Now you're part of the care-giving team.' I remember the anxiety I had, but also the sense of fulfillment."

- Kenneth J. Veit, D.O. (1976)

"We spent three months in a clinic, and we had our own little cubicles which they referred to as booths and many of our patients referred to us as their 'booth doctors.' We were given our own little clientele, and we followed those patients for three months, and if any of their family members would register in the clinic, we also got those patients."

Eleanor V. Masterson, D.O. (1957)

Under the supervision of their instructors, juniors and seniors examined patients in the "noon-day clinics." made diagnoses and recommended treatments. During the two years in the clinic, each student handled roughly 1,200 patients, following through with those who needed to see physicians in the specialty clinics.

An important milestone in the history of PCOM's clinics took place in the early 1950s with the acquisition of Women's Homeopathic Hospital at 20th and Susquehanna Streets and its renovation into the College's North Center Hospital. The clinic here handled a plethora of cases from this North Philadelphia neighborhood.

To promote an awareness of health care and comfort with medical procedures among children, Oliver Bullock, D.O. (1978) created a program of puppets, videos and activity books to take into the public schools. The staff initially carried out the school programs, but Bullock then passed the torch for that responsibility to the students rotating through the Center.

STUDENT LIFE

For as long as there has been a Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine, there has been a spirited student life to go with it.

Customarily, the Dean sponsored a catered supper in the college auditorium for Freshmen and their instructors. The Admission Committee members were also present to get a second glance at the mistakes they made.

- 1950 Synopsis

Reported in the Summer 1968 Osteopathic Digest as the "Great Sideburn Confrontation," it pitted the administration against the long-haired generation. Vice President and Director of Admissions Thomas M. Rowland, Jr., disturbed by the unprofessional look of many of the students, identified 20 of the worst offenders and insisted that they get haircuts and trim their sideburns to a specified length or not return to class. The students complied, but the incident reached the news wires as far as Hawaii and Alaska.

In the 1950s, students started an annual Christmas Show... resurrecting the song and dance talent that had flourished in PCO's performing arts in the 1920s and '30s - only this time laced with satirical humor. The Christmas Show... evolved into the Flounders Day Follies (eventually "Follies"), which premiered January 25, 1980.

SPORTS

The 1920's was a peak decade for the growth of organized, competitive sports at PCOM. This was a trend consistent with the history of athletics at home and abroad in the years following World War I.

Among the PCO tennis legends were the Fischer brothers, Herbert (1923) and Carl (1925)...[Carl] brought PCO victory in the 1923 Intercollegiate Tennis Championship where he won the singles event in a tournament with Yale, Harvard, Stanford, the University of California, Oxford and Cambridge. In 1924 he was invited to play at Wimbledon...where he played doubles with Australian Norman Brookes...Fischer and Brookes made it to the finals, but lost to the Australian doubles champions.

"It is the duty of every student to think of mind, body and attitude. Sports will assist tremendously in developing necessary character traits for future us, especially in the field of practice."

- Dr. M. Francois D'Eliscu, director of athletics and student welfare, 1935

With the exception of track and field...by the late 1930s the pressures of academia curtailed the emphasis on organized, competitive athletics at PCO. Intramural football and softball games were the norm. And then the outbreak of World War II clearly impacted the student experience...Athletics at PCO began to make a comeback in 1950 with the enthusiasm and efforts of Assistant registrar Thomas M. Rowland, Jr...His basketball squad soon became known as the PCO basketball team...[and] competed for one year at the intercollegiate level.

The next major resurgence of organized athletics at PCOM - again, attributable to Rowland - took place in the 1970s. In 1973 he organized a fledgling rugby club...In its first year, the team captured first place in the Eastern Pennsylvania Rugby Union Collegiate Tournament.

WOMEN & MINORITIES

“There is a place for the fair sex in the practice of Osteopathy - a place as high and noble as that occupied by men.” - O.J. Snyder, D.O.

Snyder and Pressley followed Still's thinking when they founded PCIO in 1899. One of the two graduates of the class of 1900 was a woman, Gene G. Banker, D.O. Despite her small stature, Banker became known for her osteopathic treatments.

Dr. [Gene G.] Banker brought to her practice a cheery optimism: faith, humor, and a zest for living that sustained her to the end. She was little more than five feet tall, thin of face, with lovely graying hair. But she was wiry, and with strong fingers and wrists she administered the treatments. She never became wealthy, because her services were frequently contributed when patients couldn't pay. She was an old-fashioned, but wonderful family physician.

- letter from grateful patient.
Mrs. Marion W. Jenks, 1969

The most significant gender shift at the College started with the Class of 1940... Between 1950 and 1969, only 40 women graduated... In his "Report of the Dean" for 1946-47, Otterbein Dressler, D.O., wrote,

It is not the policy of the Committee on Admissions to refuse admissions to female students, but it would be just as well if we did not encourage it, for even those females who have come to us with the avowed intention of careers in the healing arts, have sometimes shown the least service to society by way of practice.

...the percentage of women in a graduating class reached a two-digit number (11) again in 1978 for only the second time since 1939... By 1986 women comprised 28.7 percent of the PCOM student body... The trend increased... with an all-time high of 45 percent in the graduating Classes of 1997 and 1999.

Fifty years into its existence, PCO had only four African-American graduates, three of whom were women... In 1990 PCOM established the Meta Christy Award for exemplary practice of osteopathic medicine and community service to honor the College's first African-American graduate [Class of '21].

MILITARY

The story of the military and PCOM is virtually one of absence for two-thirds of the College's first century. It was not absence by choice, but rather by discrimination.

Despite FDR's acceptance of D.O.s, the Armed Forces was not ready to embrace them as commissioned officers. Instead, the draft board gave osteopathic physicians 2-A deferments to care for the civilian population whose M.D.s had gone overseas. Ironically, this discrimination served to boost the osteopathic profession. Many patients of allopathic physicians came to D.O.s and their hospitals for the first time, and having experienced osteopathic care, decided to stay with it.

PCO responded to the war-time emergency and its role as home front physicians... Beginning in September 1943, the four-year course of study was condensed into three years that included summers. The curriculum itself was modified to include courses dealing with war and post-war topics such as tropical medicine, industrial and war injuries, and gas casualty treatments.

Then in 1966, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara issued a directive ordering the military to accept qualified D.O.s who volunteered for active duty commissions in the Medical Corps...the AMA House of Delegates, which had always fought the inclusion of D.O.s in the draft, unanimously supported the notion. The first 111 D.O.s were drafted in February 1967 - Hugh P. Scott, D.O. (1964), promoted to Rear Admiral in 1990, was among them...

LEAVING A LEGACY

H. Walter Evans, D.O., 1890-1970

Evans was known not only as a teacher, but also as a leader... His dedication was evidenced by his work on the development of the 48th St. campus, his efforts to help PCO survive the Depression and his assistance in guiding the College's program during the post-war years. But Evans' greatest contribution very well may be the pivotal role he played in the planning and construction of the City Avenue campus.

Emanuel Fliegelman, D.O., 1915-1998

Fliegelman who had volunteered his teaching time at 48th Street in the 1960s, left his mark at PCOM with his dynamic lectures on OB/GYN and human sexuality, his classic orientation talk and his compassion.

"I love to be around students. And it would seem that the students and I have a very good rapport. I'm a bit of a ham, and when you're a teacher, you have the opportunity to put on some of your techniques of acting and drama...when I get up and give a lecture, I'm euphoric. I should pay them to let me do it."
-Uncle Manny

David Heilig, D.O., 1914-1998

Heilig, who possessed a gentle demeanor, was known for an effective style of teaching that emphasized question and example. He not only taught OMT at the College, but also was its advocate through years in which the emphasis on specialization drew students away from more traditional osteopathic practice. ...[he] rekindle[d] the light of OMT among PCOM students and practitioners.

Robert L. Meals, D.O., 1928 -

In his first year on the PCO faculty as a lecturer in 1962, Meals earned the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching. He rapidly advanced through the ranks...[becoming] chairman of Radiology, Nuclear medicine and radiation Therapy, a post he held from 1973 to 1991.

Thomas M. Rowland, Jr., D.O. (Hon.), L.L.D. (Hon.), 1924-1984

[Rowland] began his career at PCO in 1950 as assistant registrar...The Class of 1954 awarded Rowland an honorary D.O. degree. Between 1959 and 1973, he rose through the ranks from President Barth's administrative assistant to executive vice president. From 1973 until his death in 1984, Rowland served as PCOM's fourth president.

Frieda O. Vickers, D.O., 1909 - 1998

"I told my mother that I was going to Philadelphia and was going to Women's Med. On the way, I was in a trolley, and I saw at 48th Street 'Philadelphia College of Osteopathy.' I said, 'Homeopathic, osteopathic - they're all schools of medicine.' So I got off the trolley, walked in there and got myself registered. And I'm not sorry."

- Frieda O. Vickers, D.O. (1939)

Galen S. Young, Sr., D.O., 1912 -

Continually advancing the cause of osteopathy, Young generously has given his time and support to the profession and PCOM. For 18 years he distinguished himself on the AOA board of trustees. As its president during 1959-60, he helped steer the osteopathic profession through the California session crisis.

To Secure Merit CAMPUSES

Philadelphia is the centre of culture for medicine and surgery. Here are the best men and here is the highest grade of instruction. If Osteopathy wins favor it must be by culture, not by invidious comparisons. We are not depreciating other facilities; we are simply appreciating our own. Osteopathy must not become a 'laughing-stock' in Philadelphia. Nothing can save it from the ridicule of the savants of the medical profession but merit. To secure merit is our aim.

Philadelphia College and Infirmary of Osteopathy (PCIO)

1899-1900

PCIO opened in two rooms in the Stephen Girard Building, a new 13-story office tower at 21 S. 12th Street.

1900-1903

February 1, 1900 PCIO's second downtown location- the newly built Witherspoon Building at Juniper and Walnut Streets. For three years, PCIO occupied the entire south end of the sixth floor with classrooms, clinical facilities and "new and modern laboratories."

1903-1908

The first move from downtown was to 33rd and Arch Streets in the suburban Powelton Village Section of West Philadelphia.

1908-1912

PCIO migrated to yet another site in 1908 in search of more adequate facilities for the growing classes, which would soon start a four year curriculum. The College rented a brownstone house at 1715 North Broad Street.

1912-1916

The city's first osteopathic hospital came to fruition when the College moved into Philadelphia's Society Hill neighborhood at 832 Pine Street. The Osteopathic Hospital of Philadelphia was established in a building at 410 S. 9th Street located around the corner from the college.

1917-1929

Shortly before the United States entered World War I, PCIO moved into new quarters in Philadelphia's Fairmont Section. A successful $60,000 fund-raising campaign enabled the College to purchase, build and equip buildings, including a hospital.

January 24, 1921, PCIO officially changed its name to the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy (PCO)

1929-1972

The objectives of obtaining the new building [at 48th and Spruce] were to grow the student body from 240 to 500, to improve research facilities in the laboratories and to allocate space for a pathological museum.

1973- present

On March 3, 1973, PCOM officially left its home at 48th and Spruce Streets for the modern classroom, laboratory and library building on the City Avenue Campus, although two basic science departments stayed behind until the 1980-1981 academic year.

1982-present

Although the City Avenue campus was envisioned for a larger student body, it could not meet all the space needs for PCOM, which in 1975 had a first-year class of 200. Those students shuttled back and forth between City Avenue and 48th Street, where the Anatomy and Physiological Chemistry Departments remained. A solution to the problem presented itself in the almost empty five-story building adjacent to the campus, located at 4190 City Avenue.

In tandem with the new building, the institution took on a new name advertised in bold letters across the top of 4190: "The Osteopathic Medical Center of Philadelphia." Although the board of trustees adopted the name on June 3, 1980, the official corporate name remained Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. The reason for the name change to OMCP (abandoned for PCOM again in 1990) was to clearly identify the institution as a medical center consisting of the nation's ninth largest medical school, a full-service 250-bed hospital, a school of allied health and four health care centers.

THE PCOM COMMUNITY IN 1999

With most of the campus renovations completed, PCOM has seen the light at the end of the tunnel with its Master Facilities Plan. The beautiful, landscaped campus and redesign of Evans Hall have resulted in a more centralixed campus. The PCOM community eagerly awaits the construction of the Student Activities Center, which will mark the completion of the Master Facilities Plan.

CONVOCATION & CENTENNIAL OPENING CEREMONY

AUGUST 24, 1998

This was a very special convocation ceremony at PCOM. Not only did it mark the beginning of the academic year and welcome a new class to the PCOM family, but it was the start of the much-anticipated Centennial celebration.

June 1998

Dear Class of 1999:

Your year is our College's 100th birthday, and you have played a role in its history. You are the 108th graduating class of which I believe is the most prestigious college of osteopathic medicine. Many positive changes have occurred during your four years at PCOM, both in academia and in facilities. As we prepare to enter the 21st Century, you and your alma mater can look forward to an exciting future with many challenges and opportunities.

PCOM has provided you with clinical training in the ambulatory setting far above others. This, along with the osteopathic philosophy regarding the maintenance of health and the prevention of disease, will serve you well. As you embark on the next phase of your career as an osteopathic physician, I know you will serve our profession well.

As a member of the PCOM Family, you are always welcome, and encouraged, to return and take advantage of what our beautiful campus has to offer. Wherever your career path leads, remember you will always be part of our PCOM Family and our best wishes go with you.

Congratulations upon receiving your Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree. My hope is that you will enjoy the great satisfaction that this wonderful profession, osteopathic medicine, provides and that each of you will achieve your goals.

Fraternally,

Leonard H. Finkelstein, D.O.,
M.Sc., F.A.C.O.S.

Dear Colleagues,

"Hear ye, hear ye, all who enter these halls, if you do not have compassion ... turn back now..." On a hot, sticky August day almost four years ago, the class of 1999 listened to that call from Dr. Emmanuel Fliegelman. By choosing to enter Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine that day, you joined a tradition that began in a two-room suite in a downtown Philadelphia office building in 1899. As the Dean of PCOM, I can assure you I have been most impressed with your answer to that call. During the course of your education you have faced new and complicated challenges – from finding a way through the construction into Evans Hall to singing in radiology lectures to answering questions during grand rounds - with curiosity, enthusiasm and sometimes even correct answers. I am unceasingly impressed by your willingness to become one another's teachers. I know your most important discoveries about medicine and about yourselves do not happen in a lecture hall or even during formal grand rounds. You have given each other examples of what it means to be responsible, compassionate, and to uphold the highest ideals of the medical profession.

During graduation, the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine will formally grant you the privilege of being called doctor. However, remember there is no single moment when one becomes a doctor. Your class – both collectively and individually - earned this privilege in the midst of your daily struggles and outstanding accomplishments. Somewhere between nervously entering the anatomy laboratory, spending long hours in the library, donning the white coat, and carefully listening to a patient, you all became doctors.

I sincerely hope that you will remember and cherish your experiences within the hallways of Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. Thank you for allowing me to become part of your experience – it is an opportunity for which I will always be grateful. As you continue your journey down the halls of medicine, know that there are countless others who await your energy, sensitivity, and dedication. Serve them well. We will miss you.

I wish you, the Class of 1999, all the congratulations that each of you so rightfully deserves. Enjoy fully the privilege of answering the challenge extended to you by our never to be forgotten friend, Manny Fliegelman.

Sincerely yours,

Our 4%

of the century

The Pledge of an Osteopathic Physician

I am grateful that I have been admitted to the Class of 1999. I am ready to enter this noblest of professions and take upon myself the obligation of becoming a caring physician. I shall try to learn Anatomy, Pathology, Cardiology, Urology and Gynecology. My primary goal will be to develop my sense of humanity and compassion, along with the scientific facts presented to me by the faculty.

I pledge my willingness to help my classmates and fellow students whenever there is a need.

When I graduate four years hence, I hope to have accomplished these aims and make those who have extended themselves proud of me.

All Ye Who Enter here....

...pause and remember that you are entering a profession that depends on your understanding of human compassion. If you feel you are unable, for whatever reason, to lend emotional support to human beings, then turn around and go away.

We buy the required and most of the recommended books = 661.85

- 28 Our first medical school lecture — Introduction to MCBM by Dr. Mochan.
- 28 Dr. Nicholas' OMM lecture ("Layer by Layer Palpation") ...attendance is at an all time high.
- 29 Dr. Gimpel = TOPPS (still, not sure what that stands for).
- 31 First OMM lab — no one wanted to touch each other, let alone go shirtless — we didn't know anyone!

September 1995

- 6 Cal Ripken, Jr. plays in 2131 consecutive baseball game, breaking Lou Gehrig's record of 2130 consecutive games.
- 7 Kazdan and Jaffe decide to sit together in lecture...class will never be the same again.
- 8 Adele Tayoun met Jason Kindt and has been smiling ever since.
- 13 Alter scribing Dr. Pease's "Formation of Endogenous Fuel Stores" lecture, John Tortu resigns from scribe service.

- 20 Ginsburg Auditorium dedication.

- 21 Our first bout with Biostats/Epidemiology with Dr. Kovach.
- 22 Dr. Fogel reminds us that Pathology is not a correspondence course.
- 28 Mike Oakes and Dave Johnson discover Pitcher's Pub.

October 1995

- 1 Tabatha Jeffers elected class chairperson — it had nothing to do with the sweater she was wearing, right guys?
- 3 Los Angeles jury finds O.J. Simpson not guilty of murder charges.
- 13 Dave Johnson receives his first set of buckteeth.
- 15 Andrew Raider passes out in Dr. Mochan's lecture ...Do you know CPR...Call 911.

21 PCOM participates in Walktoberfest and helps raise money for the American Diabetes Assoc.

21 Janie Orrington marries Benjamin Myers III in GA.

30 Mike Oakes and Fran Quigley become known as "Frick & Frack."

November 1995

- 4 Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin is slain by Jewish extremist at peace rally.

27 The new Anatomy Lab is revealed following a ribbon cutting ceremony.

27 Dr. Becher tells class of '99 to use Tabatha as liaison since he doesn't want to be bothered by "stupid questions"!

28 Member of Class of 1999 asks Dr. Becher first stupid question.

28 John Spitalieri unveils his orange anatomy jumpsuit.

29 Dr. Coughlin introduces us to his "Bag of Bones".

December 1995

- 4 Class of 1999 bids farewell to Rebecca Saltzberg - ALOHA!
- 7 Dr. DiLullo lectures us on the forearm (for the first time).
- 18 Class of 1999 takes an incredibly easy CPR certification exam (easy, that is, if you bothered to check your scribe notes the night before).
- 19 A member of the Class, who didn't think the test was so "easy," complains to the department head.
- 20 This classmate decides to call up the AHA.
- 21 AHA calls up department head, department head assures AHA that what he has in store for the Class of 1999 would outweigh their punishment.
- 22 Class of 1999 is laughing stock.

January 1996

- 1 Mike Oakes breaks Becky Souder's camera in attempt to remove blackmail photos.
- 2 Blizzard of the Century paralyzes East Coast for 6 days, PCOM closes for 2 days, Class of 1999 - lab on the ear is cancelled.
- 7 Dave Cavanaugh and Todd Kazdan perform the "ask a question" and "I have absolutely no idea" skit for the class in Histology lab.....Mindy George laughs.

Can you match the Lecturer with the Quote?

- | | |
|------------------|--|
| • Dr. Kornberg | - "D's = D.O." |
| • Dr. Meals | - "I don't want stupid questions!" |
| • Dr. Becker | - "There is nothing worse than a loose vagina" |
| • Dr. Fliegelman | - "The lady in the back with the ponytail" (unknowingly referring to John Verrechio) |
| • Dr. Kenney | - "tell me what you see in the bird cage" |
| • Dr. Coughlin | - "bradycardia is exactly like tachycardia except slower" |

22 Rotation Group Lottery- the last pick goes to Sheri Moore.

THE TOP TEN REASONS IT DOESN'T MATTER WHICH ROTATION GROUP YOU GET (10/22/96)

Jeanne Gimple

10. No matter where you start--you still know nothing when you get there.
9. You will probably counsel a second year next year with 101 reasons not to pick your rotation group!
8. It doesn't really matter if your 4th year vacation is in July, or October, or January -- you will still sleep for a month!
7. You've been told where to go and what to take for 2 years - why not 2 more??
6. Rest assured that Docs will make you look like a fool 12 months out of the year --whether your friend is there or not.
5. Any schedule is better than 8 to 5 Monday-Friday, and "study call" every night and weekend!
4. You can't ALL be with me, so quit fighting!!
3. Some of you WILL HAVE TO BE with Ed Tori.
2. Everyone actually has the same schedule--it is just all switched around!!--COOL!
1. No matter if you start with Cardiology, or OB/GYN, or Psychiatry -- someone will still walk up to you in 6/99, saying "Excuse me, Dr." --and they will be talking to you!

25 Dr. Broady exhibits his collection of rare X-rays of foreign objects lodged up people's rectums.

Now it's time to play a game we like to call: Match the Med Student
 Below you will find a series of names of people in our class in one column and a brief description in the second column. Your mission, should you chose to accept it, is to match the name to the description. Fill it out and send it along with $5 to:
 Match the Med Student, P.O. Box 2198732, Philadelphia, PA 19131

just kidding. Just put your name on it and drop it in my note file. I'll randomly pick one out of all the correct responses and the lucky winner gets a commemorative plaque with their name on it.

DEAR IVORY,

I WAS PURCHASED ABOUT 3 MONTHS AGO. APPARENTLY, MY OWNER'S MOTHER WAS CONCERNED ABOUT HER SON'S HYGIENE. HIS NAME IS JOHN MUEAS. AND, GUESS WHAT?! HE HASN'T USED ME ON HIS SKIN SINCE HIS MOTHER BOUGHT ME! THE GUY DOESN'T WASH! IT'S BEEN 3 MONTHS!

HE DID USE ME ONCE, THOUGH, BUT THAT WAS TO WASH THE FEGALITHS OUT OF HIS UNDERWEAR.

WRITE BACK SOON,

May the road rise to meet you. May the wind always be at your back. May the sun shine warm upon your face. the rains fall soft upon your fields. And until we meet again, may God hold you in the palm of His hand.

Irish Blessing

I must first thank God, for without His blessings of family and friends, none of this would have been possible. Mom, I cannot begin to thank you for all of the love, support and never-ending sacrifices you have given me for the past twenty-seven years. You have helped me grow into an independent and strong woman just like yourself. I am so proud to be your daughter! You have always been there to keep me going when I didn't think I could, never once doubting that my dream would become a reality. You have given me wings and let me fly! I couldn't have done this without you; you are truly the wind beneath my wings! I love you!

Dave, My life would not be half as wonderful had I not met you. You make my life complete..putting a smile on my face and making me laugh, sometimes so hard that I cry. I am a better person because of your love. I look forward to many years with you by my side. You are my best friend, my life, my love.. I can't wait to drive on the road of life with you. I love you.

Gram, Thanks to all your love and sacrifices, your granddaughter is finally a Doctor! I love you and thank God that you are sharing this special day with me.

Uncle Joe, Aunt Cathy, Aunt Mary, Aunt Anne, Aunt Pauline and Uncle James, You have all gone beyond the duties of aunts and uncles..you have been parents, advisors and friends. I love you all. Thank you for today..it would not have happened without you.

Joe, Chris, Matt, Sarah, Michael, Colleen, My "brothers and sisters"..You hold a special place in my heart. I love you and am very proud of all of you. Do good things in life!

Carolyn, We've made it!! All those nights of "hooked on a feeling" finally paid off. Thank you for being a terrific roomie and a best friend. I'll miss you next year! I know you'll do great! Go save lives!

The Zambos, Thank you for welcoming me into your family..Now there's two Dr. Zambos!

To all my PCOM friends, You have made med school fun! I wish all of you happiness and success in your future. Linda, thank you for setting up that blind date. I owe you a big one! Lisa, you're finally out of Philly!! I can't wait to visit you in Pittsburgh.

Family and friends, Thank you for believing in me and helping this day become a reality. I love you all!

Mom and Dad: Words cannot express how grateful I am to have you as parents. You have been my ultimate source of inspiration, motivation, and support. Everything you have done for me has made this incredible dream of becoming a physician possible. Mom, thanks for always listening to and comforting me, and providing all of life's "little" necessities. Dad, thanks for your words of encouragement and knowledgeable advice. . . I'll never forget my Urology rotation. I love you.

Philip, John, Jeanne, and Peter: What would I have done without all of you? Growing up together has been awesome and fun. Throughout our lives we've always been there for one another, and we always will. You have molded me into the person I am today.

Sam, Helen, Lori, Kimon, Jenny, and Argy: I am the luckiest girl in the world to have all of you as friends. You have provided immeasurable amounts of support, entertainment, and fun. We've all had some pretty hilarious times. We've also experienced many challenging situations. . . to say the least. However, knowing that we're all true friends, as well as colleagues, has pulled us through medical school, and will help us through our future.

To my parents: Thank you for always believing in me. You taught me that being happy is more important than anything else. This degree is as much yours as it is mine, as I owe all of my accomplishments to you.

To Murray, Arlene & Jeff: I cannot thank you enough for your love and support. I could not ask for a better family. You have made me feel at home in Philly, and have made medical school a little less painful. Next week, sushi is on me.

To my grandparents Sidney, Lucy & Jack: It was from you that I learned kindness & laughter. I wish that you could be here today to share in my joy.

To Nana: You are the standard by which I judge the quality of a person. Thank you for your constant love and support throughout my life.

To Mar: You know you are the love of my life. I would never have made it this far without you. I am finally a doctor, but will always be a husband first. Do not let me forget that. I love you.

Mom and Dad: I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your love and unconditional support throughout these past four years. You have provided me with the strength and motivation to make my dream a reality. In this time, our lives have changed dramatically but I know in my heart this will only make us stronger. I love you very much and no matter where this path may lead, you are always in my heart and I am always here for you!

Brian: Hey Bub, you have always been there when I needed you most. I could never ask for a better brother. It was your support and encouragement that helped me through my toughest times. I love you big brother!!

Aunt Dee Dee, Uncle Bob, and Nessa: I love you all very much! Thank you for all of your confidence and support.

Shannon: We have done some strong work in the past four years!! Your strength, confidence, and friendship are second to none. Love ya!!

John: You have been my voice of reason, my financial adviser, and most of all my best friend! Thank you for always being there for me!! You're the best!

This page is dedicated to my grandparents and my Aunt Linda, who I know has walked with me in spirit for the past ten years.

Mom and Dad: The two of you have been my strength throughout my life. And even now at the age of 26, I still look to you for your support and guidance and belief in me at times when I often lose belief in myself. I have worked so hard to get to this point in my life, but I realize none of this would have ever been possible without my two biggest fans cheering me on. Thank you for all you have done for me; it has never gone unnoticed even though I may not have always said the words "thank you". You have helped make my dream come true. I love you so very much! Minnie Mouse

Lisa and Lori: It seems like only yesterday the three of us were living under mom and dad's roof arguing who was going to use the phone next. I realize now how much I cherish the two of you and the memories we have shared not only as sisters but as best friends. And although we each live in separate states and may not see each other as often as we would want and hope for, I want you to always remember how much I love you both. You are my best friends. Pegleg

Erin and Meg: To my two beautiful nieces, who make me smile even at the toughest moments in life. I love you. Aunt LaLa Grandpop Aquilino: You are an inspiration to the entire family. I love you!

Ellen: Stopping on 76West at 2:30 am to pick up my shoe. "DBS". free hot dogs from the Carousel, trips to Wawa for chili cheese dogs, the "sticky compartment" in your car. The Rockets...for all of these things and some of the best times of my life. I thank you. You are my best friend.

Jen: Thank you for being one of my dearest friends and for all of the trips to Baskin Robbins for a late night snack.

Eileen (Kenny): You have been a tremendous support to me over the past two years. Thank you for always making me laugh whether it be your imitation of Puff Daddy or moonwalking across the floor.

Blitz, Jaffe, Bob, Kristina, Howard, Kaplan, Acconzo, Stacy, Tammy, and the million other people I would love to mention: Thank you for being there for me and always making me laugh.

To My Classmates and Colleagues: I would not have wanted to experience the ups and downs of medical school with any other class. Best of luck to you all!

Because the newer methods of treatment are good, it does not follow that the old ones were bad; for if our honorable and worshipful ancestors had not recovered from their ailments, you and I would not be here today.

Are you crazy going into medicine today? I can't tell you how many times I heard this while applying to medical school. At times throughout medical school I thought I was going crazy. Fortunately I had an excellent support system composed of a loving family, memories of my deceased grandparents, understanding friends, e-mail, and the telephone. All of you should know how you have impacted my life. I wish I could recognize everyone in this limited space.

I am very excited to have the responsibility to take care of people. Family Medicine will allow for rich relationships to develop with my patients. Am I still crazy?

To my colleagues: An observation about myself that may help you. I noticed that I learn the most medicine when family or friends approach me with a medical problem. I am truly inspired to understand their problem and explore all treatment options. I have also seen this inspiration within attendings that become very aggressive in diagnosing/treating their family or friends that have problems. Perhaps if we were to treat all of our patients as if they were our own family or friends. Can you imagine what a great doctor you would be? Good luck in your careers.

To the class of '99: Well, here we are. Four years and a seemingly insurmountable amount of debt later, the time has come to graduate and move on. Congratulations to everyone. As we reflect on our difficult tenure in Medical School, I am sure we can all say it was well worth it. Best of luck wherever your careers may lead!

Mom and Dad: What can I say? You have always been there for all of us whenever we needed you, for whatever reason, and no matter what the sacrifice. I could ask for nothing more than to live my life, and raise my family expressing the same love and ideals as you. Thank you for your never ending support!

Sis': You are truly one of the best friends I'll ever have. Thank you for your caring and guidance throughout my life!

Bro: You told me I'd be finished in "no time at all" 4 years ago, and you were right. Thanks for all your advice throughout my clinical years!

WHO AM I? I never imagined medical school would change my life so drastically in such a short period of time. I find myself focused on my career like never before. I know I will be an obstetrician/gynecologist and eventually a reproductive endocrinologist....THAT IS CRYSTAL CLEAR.

My personal life is not so clear. I lost my marriage and the joy of being a family with my wife and son. My role as a father has changed and I am struggling with the fact that on graduation day I will be moving away from the most precious part of my life. Kody has given me so much strength, determination and joy that words can not do justice. I love him and I hope he knows that I never put medicine ahead of family...even though that may be how it appears. Maybe even though we will be far apart we will somehow find a way to build and strengthen the beautiful relationship we already have.....THAT IS NOT SO CLEAR.

Mom and Dad, I know you are proud of my accomplishments and I could have never achieved this goal without the love, strength and support you provided. I made a few life long friends and they refused to let me give up and I am forever grateful.

We did this together and our lives will never be the same. We have many changes still ahead of us but I have confidence, like never before, that we will pursue opportunity and build from every misfortune...That is who we are.....That is who I am.

I will continue to form relationships in my life. There will be relationships with family, friends, children, and of course patients. My success as a physician, husband, and father hinges on the ability to form intimate bonds with those that depend on me. I know this because I am a product of an environment where personal relations are the backbone of one's character.

Besides the endless support my father and mother have given me, they have made the ultimate sacrifice, putting their children before themselves in every aspect of life. As a result, every single day my parent's influence is expressed in my personality and actions. My sisters and I have taken on every challenge in life together. Each of us shares a little part of the other. There is no one that I respect and admire more than my sisters. Laleh is everything to me. She takes my hand and guides me through the maze of life. Her warmth and grace brighten each moment of my existence. She soothes my soul with her love and friendship. The relationship we share will last an eternity. Because I owe everything to all the people who touch my life, I can with most certainty say I will be dedicated to upholding my part in any relationship.

"Success is going from failure to failure without losing enthusiasm."

Winston Churchill

A friend of mine once said when I started this long journey, "If you fall, pick yourself up again and keep going." Yes, I fell, many times, but we all do. Any goal worth achieving has falls along the way, but if it's your dream, and you are determined, you don't give up so easily. My husband and my family have seen my determination. They have picked me up and helped me to keep going; they have padded the fall, grabbed my hand, and urged me to go on. Graduating medical school is a great feat, but keeping a family together through it is a greater one. For that I owe half my degree, perhaps more, to my family. May God bless all of you.

He has watched over me. He has comforted me. He has provided me with the nourishment of his love so that I may return his goodness to those who are special to me. First and foremost, I give thanks to God for placing me in the position that I am in today.

Mom and Dad

You have been so supportive and have taught me to strive for the best. I worried and complained at times, but you have always comforted me as if you held me in your warm embrace from a distance.

Ronnie, Bobby and Phillip

One arrived with me. One guided me. One followed me. You roughed me up in my younger years, but today you are the stability of my stance.

"The Family"

You know who you are. The list is so long, including the adopted ones (Jasmine and Yasmeen). From the beginning, when times were not so good, each one of you helped to lift me up. Without you, I would not of made it through 1ST year.

mom and Dad: WOW!!! I can't believe my graduation day has finally arrived. I feel like it was just yesterday that we were starting our family vacation to Georgia when we called home and found out that I had been accepted to COM... I was so excited, nervous, and anxious that all I wanted to do was turn around and go home! Oh... how the last four years have flown by. All the phone calls to wish me luck on exams, the follow-up calls to see how I did, the articles that mom always cut out for me to read, and the cards just to say "I love you." I appreciate everything you do for me! I want to thank you both for all the love, support, and encouragement over the years. I love you!!

Aileen, Michelle, and Chris: The best sisters and brother ever... I cannot imagine growing up without you... how wrong it would have been in the Bryan household! I always knew that I could come home and at least one of you usually Chris) would want me to practice some of my "osteopathic manipulation." The hardest part was finding a makeshift table to use. Again, I appreciate your support and caring words of encouragement. The three of you make me proud to be your big sister!

ally: Thanks for being such a great roomy throughout 4 years of med school. Who would have known that we would come home such good friends after finding out that I went to Susquehanna and you went to Lycoming... our rival! We've had some fun times together and I'm definitely going to miss you next year. Don't worry - you taught me well!! Ha, ha!

arissa: I really missed living with you after 2nd year... no one screams anymore when they see a spider! Always remember our trip to Cancun and Javier and Miguel. I will always look forward to your phone calls about MEN!

elissa: I never would have gotten through 2nd year if it hadn't been for you and your "Top 10 Lists." Maybe I would have learned more if I hadn't sat next to you, but it wouldn't have been nearly as much fun!

son: Thanks for all the advice on my love-life and your never-ending listening ear!! I will miss our "cappuccino nights" at Barnes and Noble.

olly and Lardi: I never would have gotten through med school without your constant phone calls!! All the times we "act UP", make prank calls, talk about boys, sit around and eat ice-cream and read Cosmo, exchange tidbits... both of you are such wonderful friends!

Mom and Dad: I would never have known to shoot for the stars if you hadn't taught me how to look up in the sky.

Kim and Cassie: I couldn't have asked for better sisters to grow up with...and laugh at my bad jokes.

Alexandra: You are the kindest, most beautiful spirit I have ever known. You have taught me so much about life since the day I became your father.

Aaron: I don't know what I'd do without your daily antics; you can always make me laugh. You are such a blessing to me, my son.

-many asked me how I got through medical school with two kids, to which I replied, "how did you do it without them?"

Dalia: Four years ago you agreed to sell the house, move across the country with two young children, raise those children with, at most times, little help and go massively in debt...all so I could pursue a dream. We have journeyed far together my love, a journey never conceived of but for your tremendous strength, support and love. What a blessing it is to be on this journey with you.

Aimee Without you these past four years would not have occurred. Your time, support, and love made what seemed impossible a reality. In all honesty you deserve a diploma as much as I do. Thank you for sharing this with me. Thank you for making me the happiest man alive. I Love You!

Mom & Dad All your sleepless nights of worry are over. Your baby finally made it! Thank you for all your support and advice. Thanks for being there when I needed you and also when I didn't. You do now realize that now that I am a physician it would be unethical to give "free medical advice". Just kidding!

Bubby, this has all been because of you and it will always be for you. You're always in my heart and I will never forget you. Pop, I've wanted you to see this day all of my life. Thanks for always being there.

Mom and Dad, I could never put into words the appreciation I have for all your sacrifices, for all your time, for all your encouragement, and for all your love and support. You nurtured me so that my dreams could come true. When I veered of course, you corrected me. You let me believe I could do anything (even if I had to wear a Jim Londborg shirt in the process). One could never hope for better parents and I hope that Gabby and I will be as good as you are. You made this possible and this moment is as much yours as it is mine. I hope you stay this proud of me forever, I love both of you.

Debbie, I love you and I hope you're half as proud of me as I am of you.

To my other Mom and Dad, thanks for your love and support and for giving me the greatest part of my life - your daughter.

Doc and Osbert, you lifted me up when I was down, straightened me out when I was crooked, and made riding SEPTA worthwhile.

Dr. Lannuti... You have been a teacher, a friend, a mentor, and a confidant. I appreciate your help and honesty over these four years. I can't thank you enough or understate the profound influence you've had on me. You will always be my teacher. (I'm happy... I am...) Dr. Cowen, I hope that I can touch the lives of my patients as profoundly as you have yours. Dr. Fogel, your passion, your expectation of excellence, and your compassion for the human condition will always serve as the goals towards which I will strive.

To my friends - you made this fun. Let's go save some lives.

Gabby, I've only reached this point because of your love, support, and encouragement (and patience). You've always been there and I don't know what I do without your unconditional love. Nothing I could say here would do my love for you justice. If our future is half as much fun as the past, we're going to have an awesome life together.

You have always been the ones to listen to my opinions and for some reason you still love me. May God grant you everything in life that you want. I've found that if you try you just might get it?

Chris and Ed: I have valued our talks and adventure over the past 4 years. I've learned a lot from you both. Chris, you taught me to be tolerant and open minded. Ed, you taught me how to get a good tan.

I feel that I am always thanking you for some act of good parenting, yet I just can't express my gratitude adequately. Your love and guidance enabled me to achieve most of my goals thus far in life. I only wish to make you proud. Thanks again.

SCOTT

I'm sure you'll be shocked when I finally get a real job and start paying for things (i.e. dinner and tickets). Thanks for everything you have done for me. I am fortunate to have you for both a brother and a best friend.

ROOMMATES

We made it through four years together and remained close friends. I guess away rotations, a big house, and a beer miester helped the situation. The most significant factor in our successful cohabitation was that you are all nice people. Good luck with your careers and weddings. I'll really miss you guys. Keep in touch.

CLOSE FRIENDS

How did we manage to have so much fun during the course of medical school? I am fortunate to have friends who are such bad influences. We will forget a lot of what we were taught during the past four years, but we will never forget one another.

Let me first say thank you to all of my family and all of my friends. You have been so very supportive and given me so much. From the bottom of my heart I thank you.

Mom -Without you none of this would be possible. Your patience and understanding were of the highest order. Your love was without limit. You have given me much of what I am.

Tom & Nick-You guys are the coolest I could hope for in the way of brothers. Thanks for believing in me all these years.

Diane & Mike-You both have really come up big for me especially in these last few years during some of my poorest days when you lent me your car. That really meant a lot to me so Thank You once again for being so kind.

Mom, it's almost four years since we've lost you to cancer. I miss you dearly. As I trotted through med. school, your motto "The greatest accomplishment is not in never falling, but in rising every time you fall" kept me going. Your spirit lives within me. You're always in my heart.

SHIRLEY and DAVE: We've been through some tough times. Thank you for your love and unrelenting support. I'm grateful to have such wonderful siblings. Sis, thanks for all the advice, medical books, and the encouragement throughout the years. You're the best!

ROBERTO, my love and best friend: We've done it finally! Thanks for putting up with my complaints and late night cramming sessions. You've always been there to share my laughs and tears. I love you with all my heart.

My deepest gratitude to all my teachers, professors, and mentors. Thank you for your patience and dedication.

Mom, so much of who I am I owe to you. From you I learned independence, the confidence to create goals for myself, the determination to pursue them, and the understanding to accept and learn from disappointments along the way. Thank you for always reminding me that aiming high and missing is not a failure, but that aiming low and hitting may be. Throughout the years, your love, support, guidance, and encouragement have meant the world to me.

Pap and Gram, I consider myself truly blessed to have grown up with you as my grandparents. Through your wisdom, and the strength of your love, you have helped shape my morals and values. You have also taught me the importance of honesty and the value of hard work.

Camron and Russ, thanks for the many fun memories as the third Musketeer. To my partner Jules, I want to say that you will always be stellar in my eyes! May your OPP never go awry. I am so glad to have shared my time at PCOM with friends like you. I wish you the best life has to offer as we continue on our paths.

It is with great pride and honor that I dedicate this degree to my mother, Rocca, and the loving memory of my father, Mario. Your courage, sacrifice, and love inspire me.

Dad: I wish nothing more than to have you see the fruit of your labor. Brick by brick, you have laid the foundation upon which I stand. You have taught me the relationship between gentleness and true strength. Your light will continue to shine through me, in thought and action.

Mom: You are my greatest source of inspiration, teaching me the meaning of charity and compassion. Your unwavering faith in my abilities helped me through my most trying times. In your eyes, I was capable of any task and that made all the difference. I can never thank you enough.

Carlo: At critical times in my life, you have steered me down the right path. You are a wonderful brother and man. Thank you for your wisdom and concern.

Antonella: Your selflessness allowed me the freedom to grow and learn. I could never have done this without you. Wise beyond your years, excellence in so many areas, an incredible sister and friend.

We are what we repeatedly do. Excellence therefore is not an act, but a habit.

Aristotle

Since the first day of medical school, I have carried a notebook in which I have written small statements that I thought were noteworthy but would be lost in the daily shuffle if I didn't write them down. I have collected about 30 quotes, which is too many for this space. I have chosen a few that mean a lot to me. I frequently will read these quotes when I need to refocus.

"Man often becomes what he believes himself to be. If I keep on saying to myself that I cannot do certain tasks, it is possible that I will really become incapable of doing that task. On the contrary, if I have the belief that I can do it, I shall surely acquire the capacity to do it even if I may not have had it in the beginning." -Mahatma Gandhi

"Not all patients read the same textbooks as we do." -Dean Dobbert, M.D.

"Teach the tongue to say "I don't know" and thou shall progress." -Maimonides

"Speak softly and carry a big stick". -Teddy Roosevelt

And finally, to my wife Cheryl. Although you knew the plan, neither of us knew how much more difficult this would be for you than me. Thank you for putting my needs in front of your needs for 4 long years. The end is near. Your love has made this odyssey much more manageable. I love you very much.

DEDICATED TO MY FAMILY

Well what do you say when a dream comes true? I can only thank those who made it possible. Mom, Dad and Chris, it is only with your support that I was able to fulfil this dream. We are all told as children that we have a special gift. You are my gift. I will continue to use this gift to make you proud of me as a physician. Above all, I will always be there for you if you should need anything just as you were there for me. I love you!!!

To my best friends, Nancy and Terry: It was a rocky road but you weathered the storm. Thank you. Your support, encouragement and humor enabled me to stay focused on my dream. I am forever indebted to you.

To my colleagues at PCOM: It has been a pleasure to learn and grow with you. Our paths will lead us down different roads and I wish all of you a smooth and peaceful ride.

I could not have achieved this accomplishment without the many contributions made by those important in my life. I thank God for all blessings. I thank Mom for all her strength and selflessness. I thank Shas for her support and compassion. I thank Pam for her love, understanding and patience. Many others have lent different elements to my character and it is relatively impossible to acknowledge everyone. I've been blessed with family and friends whose prayers, thoughts and well wishes have sustained me throughout my life. How do I measure each contribution? I could not have come so far without their help!

...freely ye have received, freely give.

Matthew 10:8

With special remembrance of Lisa Gehris.

I have dreamed about the end of this journey for almost 20 years, but I now realize sometimes the end is really only the beginning.

I thank God for placing me on the path toward medical school and keeping me there, even through the detours. Without Him, this moment would never have come and without Him, none of it would be worth it. I can do all things through God who strengthens me. (Phillipians 4:8). May He continue to use me according to His will.

- To my parents: How can I thank my two biggest fans for a lifetime of joy, unconditional love, unwavering support, and mutual admiration? This is your accomplishment as much as it is mine. I love you both so very much.
- To Mark & Steve: You've endured my histrionics, questionable caretaking skills, and sage advice with a smile on your faces and love in your hearts. You are the best little brothers anyone could ask for and I love you.
- To my family & friends: Thank you for supporting my dream all these years with love and understanding. I love you, Mom Mom. Thanks, Juanita - you're my girl!
- To the PCOM gang: Thanks for sharing the great times, keeping me sane through the bad times, and most of all for believing in me even when I didn't believe in myself. You guys are the best! (P.S. I kept track of all the times I overpaid and you guys owe me $3,217.97).

Success: to laugh often and much;...to find the best in others;...to know that even one life has breathed easier because you have lived.

Ralph Waldo Emerson

Tucked away in our subconscious is an idyllic vision. We see ourselves on a long trip that spans the continent. We are traveling by train...Uppermost in our minds is the final destination. Bands will be playing and flags waving. Once we get there our dreams will come true, and the pieces of our lives will fit together like a jigsaw puzzle. How restlessly we pace the aisles, damming the minutes for loitering...waiting...for the station.

Sooner or later we must realize that there is no station, no one place to arrive at once and for all. The true joy of life is the trip. The station is only a dream. It constantly outdistances us.

Relish the moment...It isn't the burdens of today that drive men mad. It is the regrets over yesterday and the fear of tomorrow...twin thieves who rob us of today...So stop pacing the aisles and counting the miles. Instead, climb more mountains, eat more ice cream, go barefoot more often, swim more rivers, watch more sunsets, laugh more, cry less. Life must be lived as we go along. The station will come soon enough.

-Robert J. Hastings

Mom and Dad: Thanks for giving me everything I've ever wanted in life, the most important being my education. Things don't last forever ... an education does. I love you both very much.

Hetal: You are my one, my only, my everything ... I LOVE YOU!

Bhai and Bhabhi: Your little bro's going to be a doc! Thanks for all your support through the years and for being there when things didn't go quite the way I had expected. I love you both.

My Friends: You've all been there for me, through thick and thin, through the turbulence of life as a medical student. I wish you all the best of luck in your careers and lives. Mom and Dad: Thank you for your support, wisdom, confidence, and unconditional love. Your belief and example in the importance of education made this day possible. I pray that I will be as good of a parent as you are to me. I love you very much!

Joey: Thanks for your smiles, laughter & comic relief, the meals at Denny's and Unos, and for always being there. I am very proud of all of your accomplishments and am truly blessed to have you as my brother. I love you dearly!

Julius Mingroni, D.O. '74: You have been my inspiration. Thank you for all of the advice and pep talks. I am truly honored to call you a relative, mentor, friend, and now a colleague. I will always be grateful for your constant support through the years. You will always hold a very special place in my heart. I love you!

Chris: You have made these past four years bearable and enjoyable. We make a terrific team as friends, physicians, and on October 2, 1999, as husband and wife. I am looking forward to spending the rest of our lives together. I love you with all my heart!

"What is meant to be, will be."

A comforting quote heard quite often by D. Gracia and me.

Dreams do come true, although not easily.

My friends and family: Your love and support mean so much to me. Thank you and God bless you all.

Meus queridos paizinhos, o vosso amor e suporte tem me ajudado a conseguir o meu sonho. Eu sei que estes anos nao tem sido facil e agradeço-vos com todo o meu coracao e agradeço a Deus por vos me dar.

Tia: It hasn't been easy for you but thank you for your love, your words of encouragement, for those great escapes, for always being there for me even when "there" was across the world.

Steffy: The best roommate - WOW- somehow you managed to live with me. There is no way I can express all I have to say in here ... We have gone through so much together these past four years, but together we managed to get through it. I will never forget all those "moments" at our kitchen table (shoo fly pie, espressos, Ben & Jerry's, and the parmesan cheese). I thank you for sharing your life with me. You have made an impact on me and on my life that will never be forgotten.

Sandi: I still say that without you I would never have entered medical school. Thank You. Thank You for always being there for me even now when your life is so hectic as a new mom. Congratulations.

Rose: It has been many years with many changes in our lives but I am very glad and grateful that our friendship has remained a constant. Keep going for those dreams...

Lou: Everyone should have a friend like you who knows exactly what to say and when to say it. Thank You.

Debbie, Ronda, Sherri, Vernicka, Pete, Karen, Alicia, James, Anthony, Kerry, Crystal: It has been a long four years ... I am very honored to have met you all and to have enjoyed so many fun moments together.

To everyone CONGRATULATIONS!!!!!!!!!!!!

To my Mom and Dad: For years you have helped nurture my dream and now it has become a reality. You're right mom...you really can do anything you put your mind to. Your love and support helped me through the last few years and has made me who I am today. I am grateful for all you've done for me, and I love you very much.

To David: Thanks for your curiosity - you kept me sharp. Having a conversation with you is like taking a comprehensive exam - you never know what you'll need to know. I wish you and Regina the greatest of happiness in your lives together. Thanks for everything; it's your turn now.

To my Roommates: Thanks for putting up with me through all the stressful times. You have made the last few years so much fun and have been a constant and welcomed reminder that there is more to life than med. school. Thanks for all of your advice and encouragement.

To all my friends: You've helped me get where I am today. Thanks for the fun and the memories. Our good times together kept me sane over the last few years.

Dear Lord: My thanks to you can not be over emphasized. Thank you for making these four years a success. I am grateful for the enormous strength, good health and discipline you have given me - which indeed enabled me to excel in my studies and yet do a lot more than anyone is expected to handle outside of medical school.

My Husband: Johnson, words are not enough to thank you for your immense support through the years. You made my tax more bearable. Thanks for your care and love for me and the children.

My children: Amanda, Brian, and Micheal. I love you. You are the best. Thanks for being so good through the four years. Your love and discipline gave me the strength to move on.

Mom and Dad: Thank you for being the best parents a girl could ever hope for.

Mom: Virginia, thank you for your everlasting love and support. Thank you for teaching me to be strong.

Dad: Innocent, bless your soul. I wish you were here, but I know you are here in spirit with me to today. Thanks for believing in me. I love you dearly, and I shall carry on the legacy you had led. I miss you.

Brother: Victor, may your soul rest in peace. You are with me today for a Christian never dies. I love you and thanks for your brotherly love.

Looking back over the past few years, I realize that God strategically placed people in my life when I needed help. When I started down this road I thought I was invincible. I was naive. If it had not been for many individuals' help, my picture would not be found among these pages. The journey was demanding, and at times seemingly relentless. I thank God for putting such individuals in my life, and I thank those individuals for being so caring, sympathetic, and uplifting in so many wonderful ways. Thank you...

My Wife— You and I have completed this journey. It is because of you, and God, that I am the man I am today. Without you, or God, I would never see the mountain's top. Thank you for lifting my brow, when it hanged low, and lengthening my stride when it was short. I love you, Tiffany.

Mr. & Mrs. Tracey— You are the epitome of what I envision God to want parents to be. Words can not express my thankfulness. I love you, Mom and Dad.

Friends & Family- My diploma is not just a certificate in my eyes, but a rich tapestry woven with threads of experiences and lessons you have given me throughout my medical school experience. I hope when you see me you realize that you had a hand in making me the physician I am today. Thank you...

I must thank everyone who made this achievement possible. This page is in honor of all of you:

Mom, Ken and Mike: I could never thank you for all you have done. All my life, you provided me with the tools I needed to succeed and were always there with a helping hand and encouraging words. Thanks for believing in me and raising me with the confidence to trust myself and follow my dreams. Bro, thanks for being more than my brother, but also my friend, and best man.

Dad and Lori: Thanks for your support and for listening to all of my stories and sharing in the experience of this journey with me.

My Chapman family, Donald and KK: You have always made me feel like part of the family. Thanks for supporting Denise and I all these years as we pursue our dreams together.

My PCOM friends: Thanks for making the last four years of my life such memorable ones.

Denise: My love, my wife, and my best friend. I could never have done this without you. Thank you for your patience and understanding, for your love and friendship, and for all the sacrifices you made to help me reach this goal. I will never be able to thank you enough for going through all of this with me, but I plan to spend the rest of my life trying. Oh Denise, Because You Loved Me, In the Still of the Night, I Will Always Love You! You have always been there, by my side, every single day, even back when I never thought I would be here. "... be kind and tenderhearted to one another, and forgive one another, as God has forgiven you through Jesus Christ."

Ephesians 4:32

What a wonderful and exciting time for all of us!!!

I'd like to thank all of the special people I have met and who supported me through this sometime crazy period. These people include my family, who have watched me change into a "professional" ... and who made sure I would lose my "amateur status." My friends have made sure that I had fun and were that needed "crutch" to help me in my walk. The patients and instructors deserve a thank you as well; however, I have to save the biggest thank you for last! Jesus Christ deserves all the credit and glory ... without Him, I can do nothing!

Special words of wisdom ... hmmm! That's a tough one! You need to keep fit - so exercise in all aspects of your life. I recommend church and step aerobics. You also need to have the faith of a child - so watch your Teletubbies and Power Rangers ... and remember the following:

Mom and Dad, I know in my heart that this day would never have been possible without the two of you in my life.

Mom, without your tireless understanding, patience with me when I was stressed out, undying and unquestionable love and your 'mommy' packages from home getting from some days to others would have been insurmountable.

Dad, you are what someday I hope to become. Your love not only for your family, but for medicine as well is what has kept me going ever since college. I have learned a lot on my clinical rotations but the most important lesson I have learned is that you are, without a doubt, the most caring, selfless, intelligent and dedicated physician and father a patient or child could ever be blessed with. I can never repay either of you for everything you have given me... I just hope that I can make both of you proud of me.

To my sisters; Robyn, Courtney and Jill, you have blossomed into such beautiful women and I love you very much.

To my grandparents, thank you for everything, I wouldn't be here without any of you.

To my friends, new and old, you mean the world to me and always will. Thanks!!!

God- Thank you for answering my prayers, for giving me guidance and the focus that has helped me overcome my obstacles.

Mama- I got my strength and my pride from you, thanks for being my guardian angel. Even though, I know you will be there in spirit, I wish you could be here in person to share this day with me.

Papi- I got my kindness and patience from you. Thanks for your support and for always being there for me.

Dadou- Believe in yourself and all your dreams will come true. Thank you for making me laugh.

The Girls- Thanks for your friendship and you support throughout the years I hope our friendship lasts forever and that as we grow and go through changes that our friendship is able to adapt. I could not ask for better friends.

To my PCOM Fam. I could not have done this without you guys. We made it with each others support.

To all who supported me in this endeavor and to all those who did not, I made it - God Bless! I love you all.

Philippians 4:13

The dream began as a young child. Watching and listening to my grandfather preach and teach his congregation remains vivid in my memories. Counseling those in need was what he did and he was passionately devoted to serving people. The dream was clearer still as I grew up observing my father serve his patients as their family doctor. Curing physical ailments, but also the emotional, spiritual and family struggles that occurred. High school and college saw the dream continue to thrive, but studying takes a toll. Getting into schools is difficult, and often the dream at the end of the tunnel becomes blurred. But others along the way help keep the dream alive. Thank you Michelle, for being the love of my life. And thanks to your parents for all their support with everything. It's been rewarding to go along this path with others who also struggle. Friendships last forever, often because they are built during trying times. And now as school comes to a close I as well as the others in the class of 1999 can begin to live our dream as physicians.

Mom and Dad: You have taught me that any dream is attainable, and have helped me through every step along this journey. We accept this degree together! Your love, faith, support, patience, encouragement, and sacrifices have been my inspiration. Thank you for always having the time to listen. I am truly blessed to have the "BEST" parents in the world! I love you!

Jon, My Fiancee: You have been my best friend, my shoulder to cry on, and my unconditional support. The words "It'll be all right," helped me face each new challenge from MCATS to Boards. No more long distance phone calls, weekend visits, and difficult good-byes. From now on we're together forever. You are the love of my life!

Jason: The only brother I'll ever have, you are the greatest!

Jacob: My dearest nephew, you remind me of everything that is important in life - love and family. I write to you so that you may someday realize how your hugs and little voice helped me to overcome my emotional moments.

Debbie: Congratulations roomy. We did it! Thank you for the late night pathology study sessions, and for being a wonderful friend.

Mel, Rob, and DeEtte: Your friendship and generous hospitality helped me through my 3rd and 4th years. I am forever grateful.

NHT Friends: Laughter, beach trips, weddings, and good luck wishes were the best medicine.

In loving memory, I dedicate this page to my grandmother, Rosella Richardson, who forever introduced me as, Doctor.

It's time to grow up, to move on, and to ship out. However, not without a degree of hesitation, trepidation, and reflection. Gone will be the shelter and comfort that comes with being the medical student. Uncertain are the challenges that lay ahead, though they are many. And echoing from the dark recesses of my essence whispers the question, "Am I prepared?" ... I am; I know that I am. I am because I have had the best of teachers and have learned my lessons well. And now is my opportunity to express my gratitude.

Thank you Mom and Dad for your endless support and guidance. Mom, your keen perception, subtle direction are a talent I have yet to master. Dad, you are my role model and my hero. I can't thank the two of you enough.

Linda, you are my wife and my friend. You know me better than I know myself (and aren't afraid to say so). Thank you for your support and your understanding. Oh yeah, and thanks for an excuse to visit Arizona.

Gram H. and Gram D. thank you both for your support. Your guidance and collective wisdom have been an asset.

Stephen: You have been my greatest supporter. You pushed me when I needed to be pushed and picked me up when I fell. Without your love, encouragement and endless patience I wouldn't have made it! I love you and look forward to our future together.

Mom and Dad: Thank you for all your support and encouragement over the years. You always taught me to go for my dreams – and I am finally here! I love you both!

Jaime: My little sis, the last few years we've grown to be such good friends. I guess Mom and Dad were right!

Linda: Starting five years ago, at our interview our friendship began and continues to grow stronger every day. We've had wonderful times that I will always cherish.

Jeff: You've been such a wonderful friend! Thanks for always being such a good listener. We've had quite a few good laughs!

I've learned that it is impossible to accomplish anything worthwhile without the help of others.

To the gifts in my life:

My parents: Thank you for always being there. Over the years, your love and support has healed me when I was sick, lifted me when I was down, and encouraged me when I was in doubt. I couldn't have accomplished this without you. I love you.

Scott: As twins, we have been together from day one. Knowing that you are always there when I need you has always been and continues to be a great comfort to me. I love you.

Mike: I know it has not always been easy living in the shadows of Scott and I. Always know that I am proud of you. Thank you for teaching me that everyone has different dreams. I love you.

My sister-in-law, Kim: I couldn't ask for a better sister. Thank you for all of your support, for making my brother so happy, and for making me and aunt.

Stephanie: For nineteen years you have been my best friend. Even when there have been miles between us you've been there in my thoughts and in my heart. Your support has meant the world to me - Thank you.

Grandma, Pap Pap and all of my aunts, uncles, cousins and friends: Thank you for always believing in me. Your love and support has provided me with the strength and determination to finally reach this life long goal.

My angels in heaven: Grandma, Grandpa Davis, Grandpa Hamilton, Granny, Uncle Alec and Jill. Your memory lives on, every minute in my heart. I miss you.

Tahatha: My roommate and dear friend. On August 23, 1995, the first day of freshman orientation, we shared an elevator together, as scared first years. On June 6, 1999, graduation day, we share a stage together, as doctors. Thanks for for making even the worst times bearable.

My colleagues: Congratulations to the class of 1999. I wish you all the best in your future endeavors. May your lives be full of success, love, and most of all happiness.

"The style of a soul. Do you remember the famous philosopher who spoke of the style of a civilization? He called it 'style.' He said it was the nearest word he could find for it. He said that every civilization has its one basic principle, one single, supreme, determining conception, and every endeavor of men within that civilization is true, unconsciously and irrevocably, to that one principle.... I think, Kiki, that every human soul has a style of its own, also. Its one basic theme. You'll see it reflected in every thought, every act, every wish of that person. The one absolute, the one imperative in that living creature. Years of studying a man won't show it to you. His face will. You'd have to write volumes to describe a person. Think of his face. You need nothing else."

—Ellsworth Monkton Toohey in The Fountainhead by Ayn Rand.

I would like to thank my parents and loved-ones for their help in attaining my goals. Dad, thank you for instilling in me the work ethic that I am now only beginning to understand and enjoy. Another chapter in my life has been completed, ending with graduation from medical school and this page. I would like to thank all who have made this goal reachable for without them I would not be where I am today.

Mom - You started it all for me and made a lot of sacrifices along the way. Even during the many mistakes I've made you've supported me and stood by my side, guiding me. I will never be able to thank-you enough for your love and kindness so I only hope that I continue to make you proud.

Dad, my brother Chris, and sister Kara - Thanks for all your support during my school training. I am very fortunate to have you as a family. You all helped me realize that I could achieve this goal.

PCOM friends - Scottie, Old Buck, Spicolli, Catrina, and everyone I forgot (you know who you are) It was a good ride and I hope we all never lose touch. Now that we are not only friends but colleagues as well I wish you all success.

Kristie - You are my life. All this hard work the past four years was to establish the foundation of our lives together. All your unconditional love and support made it possible to achieve this goal and you made it all worthwhile. I could not imagine my life without you being the center of it and by the time I begin my residency training you will be my wife. Our future together is wide open and I cannot wait to help you raise our children at our ocean front house.

To Jen: From Day One we have been the best of friends. Thanks for putting up with my antisocial tendencies. I know we will always be close as sisters. I love you, hon.

To Fran, Todd and Mackie: You have been my second family. Thank you for opening up your home and lives. Your support and love have been tremendous. I love you all.

To Ali: I could not imagine a better sister! I am so proud of you. You are my best friend in the world. I could not have done this without you.

To Dad: You are my TRUE INSPIRATION!! I can only hope to be one-tenth the physician you are. You are the BEST father a person could have! Thank you for everything!!

To Gossy: What can I say? The past 3+ years have been bliss (mostly)! Thank you for your patience, kindness, humor and love when I needed it most. You are my soulmate and my inspiration. I am so proud of us, for this is truly a shared victory. WE DID IT GOSSY!!

DAD: I couldn't have done it without you! Thanks so much for your support and encouragement throughout my academic endeavors. I wouldn't be who I am and where I am today without your guidance, support, and love. No matter what my decisions and pathways in life, whether you agreed or disagreed with my choices, you were always there to see me through. You were always someone that I respected and looked up to. And as time goes on I realize and appreciate more and more what you have done for me. Thanks dad for everything and I love you.

MOM: Thanks for everything you've done for me especially for your support the past 4 years. You always made sure that I had everything I needed. You were always generous in everything that you gave to me. You were always the one in the background that not only kept our family together but gave it balance. And you could always make me laugh with your funny stories. I love you mom.

GRANDPOD: You were always like a second father to me. You were always there for me when I needed you, someone that I could always talk to and confide in no matter what. You always patiently listened to my problems and gave me words of wisdom and experience to help me solve them. You taught me to value what was really important in life and not be concerned about things that really didn't matter. Thanks for everything especially for believing in me. I love you.

GRANDMOM: You were the link that binded our family. You were always the organizer that brought our family together during family events and special occasions. You always gave to us unconditionally, no matter what. I'll always remember all the great dinners that you always made for me whenever I came home to visit for cooking was your way of showing you cared. I love you.

To My Friends: I can't believe that it's been 4 years already. We made it! I'll always remember all the good times and laughs that we've shared. And I know that even as we all go our separate ways, we'll still keep in touch for this is just the beginning of a lifelong friendship.

Mom and Dad: It could not be more simply put than to say I couldn't have accomplished this without your love, generosity and support. You've taught me all my life that with hardwork and a goal in sight life, and all its elements, will be rewarding. You are my mentors and I love you both very much.

Ben: If ever I've known a person who gives new meaning to the word dedication, big brother it's definitely you. You've been an inspiration to me ever since the Batman and Robin days (remember couch jumping?). Thanks for being such a positive, caring influence and for always making me laugh when I needed to most.

Becca: For the 'sister' I never had but finally got- (I am so glad you've become a part of our family. How could I have made it through this without your stress-relief care packages? You're the best and I appreciate all you do for me.

Tammy: Where do I start? This has been an unforgettable four years, worth remembering mostly because I shared them with a friend like you. I didn't think it was possible to laugh so hard or to talk so long about absolutely nothing. But I think we've broken all the records. You're a wonderful person (although a bit freaky) who I wish all the luck, happiness and love in the world.

A special thank you to: Grandma and Grandpa- you represent all things good and caring and what devotion to family means, Baba- you are an incredible woman with a huge heart and the best holushskies anywhere, and the rest of my family and friends who make life so enjoyable and meaningful.

This accomplishment is as much yours as it is mine. Throughout the years you have always been there to listen and encourage unselfishly. I would not be here today if it weren't for your gentle support and tough love. You are the source of my strength and the outlet for my insanity. Thank you so much for all of your love and understanding during those months when it was a luxury to breathe. You are my soul mate and I love you more and more everyday. Together we can accomplish all of our dreams.

Dear Mom and Dad,

Thank you for instilling in me the belief that I could do anything, teaching me to make my own decisions, and giving me the strength to try. You are the source I look to for guidance in my life, my marriage, and my career. Thank you for believing in me, always. I love you.

"If you build castles in the air, your work need not be lost; that is where they should be. Now put the foundations beneath them"

- Thoreau-

I thank God from whom I have gained the strength to persevere despite the obstacles, and the faith to believe that through Him all things are possible.

David- my husband, my best friend and soul mate- God has blessed me with your love. Our love has grown during these emotionally trying years. You have always kept me focused on my goal and provided me with your strength when I doubted my own. As time progresses and our family grows, the love we share will be the foundation for our predestined castle in the sky.

DAVALI SWEETHEART, DAVALI

Mom and Dad - As I matured I have come to understand and appreciate the sacrifices that you have made for me. While at the time I may not have understood all of your decisions, today I am only a stronger woman because of them.

My Family - Through you I have learned the importance of compassion. It was your love and support that enabled me to achieve every milestone. Each of you has provided a bit of wisdom which I intend to pass on to others.

Mommy, Daddy, and Laurie: This degree is a reflection of everything you instilled in me as I was growing up and continue to do so now. Thank you for teaching me to believe in myself and always pushing me to be my best. This success is yours just as it is mine. I could not have reached this point without you. I love you with all of my heart.

Grace and Saul: There are no words to express what you mean to me. I would not be the person I am today if luck had not smiled on me the summer of 1983. Thank you for all of the love, support and confidence that you have given to me over the past sixteen years. I love you.

Barrie and Jordan: The two most beautiful little girls I know! I have loved watching you grow and look forward to knowing the incredible women you will become. I love you.

Stacy and Steve: Friends from the very beginning... we made it! I know that ours is a friendship with the ability to sustain both time and distance. Here's to being on the beaches of Boca together when we're seventy!

Livia and Kari: Great roommates, even better friends... thank you for all of the good times these past two years!

Jessica: Although we don't see each other or talk as often as we would like, our friendship will always hold a special place in my heart.

Amy: What would I do without you? My friend, my date, my partner-in-crime! Having you to talk to and commiserate with has always made things better. Love you!

Charlie: This page just wouldn't be complete without you. We have been through so much these past four years - from the rigors of medical school to the ups and downs of our relationship. Whatever the future holds, know that I love you and am so proud of you.

Where to begin.....the most important person in my life.....my motivation.....my everyday.....my stability.....my love.....my wife. You are the reason I get up each morning and rush to get home at night. Knowing that I have you to share my life, dreams, hopes and fears with, make the good things better and the bad things not so terrible. I have watched over the past four years both of us grow (me rounder and grayer) and our relationship strengthen. You never doubted my capabilities and potential even when I did. All I have would be meaningless if I didn't have you.....I love you.

Alex

It's Saturday night in the year 2014 and you say there is a party at a friend's house and you want to go. Mommy said to ask me if it's O.K. to go. I say no chance. Please remind me that I was once your age and ask me what I may have been thinking back then. Don't accept "times were different then". You will always have my unconditional love, stability of a home, an ear if you need someone to listen, a hand if you need help, and a hug whether you want one or not.

My Family

Each of you, in your own uniquely special way, has given me the support I needed to reach my goals. Whether it was a quick phone call, some needed advice or a few dollars in my pocket, I thank all of you. My values, ideals, personality, sense of compassion, fears and dreams are a combination of all of yours. I am a product of my family. I think of all of you everyday, am lucky to have you, and love you all very much.

My friends

Four years have flown by, it's unbelievable. The bonds I have formed over the past four years at PCOM are some of the strongest I have. I thank all of you for some of the best times of my life, if not the most memorable. Regardless where all of us wind up, all of you will be in my heart.

PCOM

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to enter a profession where I can be myself, use my brain, help others, do good things, go to sleep feeling content, and get paid for it.

MOM & DAD: I finally made it! I could have never made it this far without your constant support, your unconditional love, your never-ending encouragement at 1 am, and your smiles that showed me how proud you were. Your "cheers above the crowd" and your support is what drove me to do my best and succeed in whatever I put my mind to. I was able to achieve these accomplishments because of your encouragement, patience, and understanding. You both mean more to me than words can express.....I LOVE YOU VERY MUCH!

NATE: You are my favorite brother! You bring an extra spark to my life and a bigger smile to my face whenever we're together. You are also one of the most unique, artistic, caring, smart, and adventuristic people I know. I'm lucky to have someone like you as my brother. I love you very much! Congratulations on Graduation! Good luck in the future—you're gonna go far!

STACE: We've been through a lot together and have come out stronger in the end. You truly are my best friend and I love you dearly for that. Remember: Sasha, Anaheim, bread-maker, ass-slappings, U.N. Convention, "Days", Georgia, etc.

"Nothing purchased can come close to the renewed sense of gratitude for having family and friends."

—Courtland Milloy

This page is dedicated in loving memory of my brother Brian. Bri, I walk with confident steps because I know you are there to guide my path. You are always with me, alive, in my heart. I love you and I miss you.

Mom and Dad: Where do I begin? Words alone cannot express the gratitude I have for your constant love and support. We have been through some very difficult times as a family and it is through both of you that I have gained inner strength and security to continue on. I thank you for all that you are in my life and I love you more than you will ever know.

Bill: My brother, my friend. You have made a difficult journey easier to travel by just being there for me. I am proud of the person that you are and I have gained the motivation to achieve my goals through your example. I know you will always be there for me as I for you. I love you.

Nanny and PopPop: Thank you for your never ending love and support. You have been behind me every step of the way especially when times were hard (Oh and thanks for all the afternoon talks at the kitchen table and nights at the Philly Diner!)

Aunt Tillie: I have been blessed with you as a fifth grandparent. You have always said I could be anything I wanted and with your guidance I believe that. Thank You!

Grandmom and Grandpop: You always told me to follow my dreams; thank you for always believing in me and helping me make my dreams come true.

Chris and Steve: Your words of encouragement helped me to believe in myself and your influence in my life has helped me to become who I am today—Thank you and I love you both.

Laurie: Thank you for caring enough to listen when I needed to vent and for offering advice when you knew I needed direction, you have helped me in so many ways - thank you.

Maria: I know from this point on our lives are going to take different paths but I want you to know that you have been like a sister to me, helping me through the rough times and laughing with me during the good. I hope we never loose touch because a friendship like yours only comes once in a lifetime.

"The definition of a sense of humor: never take yourself, other people or life too seriously."

Harry H. Kichta

In these last four years I have encountered a lot of apprehension, insecurity and doubt on this path I have chosen. However, in this lifetime I have never been more confident of the people that are important to me. I would not have made it through this journey without them. My Mom and Dad are two of the most unselfish people that I have met. They have given me tireless guidance, support and friendship. In my 25 years they have never failed to give me all that I need. My Little Sister is truly, one of my best friends. We're different in many ways yet she always seems to understand where I'm coming from. I don't think she realizes it, but I hope she knows, "I never could have come this far without you." Then there is my Baby Brother, although there is a generation between us I learn a lot from him. His determination, aspiration and perseverance motivate me. Pap and Stella Bella Golebiewski have nurtured me through childhood, and now their prayers keep me safe and give me guidance. Gram Kichta remains my inspiration through all of this. Her strength impels me to keep going. Grandpap Kichta's thirst for knowledge is endless; he instills that thirst within me. Aunt Shelia and the Kichta Family give me a warm and comfortable place to come home to. They keep my feet rooted well in the ground while still giving me room to grow. They always let me know they love me for who I am. This goes for those Good Catholic Girls, Nurse Mary and Dr. B too. Their friendship and humor has maintained my sanity. Last but not least there's Frank Quigley who has been at my side through a lot of this journey. Well, what can I say, our "illicit affair" has gone much further than I had anticipated, but our relationship has offered me "the world." It is strange to me that although I'm nearing the end of this road I'm still unsure about exactly where it is that I'm headed. But because of these people I have faith God is with me and I am headed in the right direction.

I can't believe it. Another milestone has been reached along this wonderful journey. A time to pause and reflect and give thanks where it is due. I have been so blessed with close family and friends that it is difficult to express just how much I love all of you.

First of all, to my parents...in terms of grocery stores you are my Wegman's!

To Cheryl and Marc...what can I say? For giving me a loving home with unwavering support and guidance, I am forever grateful.

To Amanda...you share my spirit and make me happy everyday.

To my Grandparents...for laying the foundation and leading by example.

To apartment 1803...what memories I will cherish forever. You guys are the best.

To my Rosalinda, Adele...for allowing me to live life to the fullest with honesty and laughter. What a gift God has given me in you.

To my classmates, my teachers, my patients and all my dear friends...I am so grateful, humbled, and honored for your presence in my life.

Lastly, to my heroes of the stage...who continue to inspire, excite, teach and guide me as I continue to pursue my dreams, strive for unlimited happiness, and make each day better than the one before.

Four years ago I was given the opportunity to become a physician. Today, through hard work and dedication, I will have achieved my goal. As with all accomplishments come pride, self-satisfaction and congratulations for the individual. I am also filled with a great amount of humility for one realizes that if not for the support and love of those around him not only would the goal not have been achieved but it would be meaningless. In no way can a few short words describe the appreciation I have for all those who have helped me to achieve this milestone.

To PCOM- Thanks for the opportunity.

To my fellow classmates- Congratulations and good luck on wherever your path leads you.

To Mom and Dad- Thank you for teaching me that "hard work isn't easy". Your love and support will never be forgotten. I love you both very much.

To Ed and Alice- I cannot begin to express my sincere appreciation for all that you have done over the last four years. I can never repay you enough for everything you have done. Thank you both very much.

To Andrew- my son, you have taught me about the joys of fatherhood and I hope to make you proud of me.

To Mary- you are still my best friend and most beloved wife, you have shown me what unconditional support and love are all about. I appreciate your sacrifices, they are not forgotten, so that I may achieve my dream. Thank you for all that you do and all that you are. I will love you forever. I look forward to sharing the success and rewards that will be in our future.

A half-educated physician is not valuable. He thinks he can cure everything.
Notebook of Mark Twain

Since the age of eight I have been dreaming of this day. Now that it is at hand, I know that my perseverance was due to the love and support of my family and friends. I can not even begin to thank them for their encouragement, direction, and their unconditional love. My mother and father are integral parts of my decision-making, and always support my decisions. My brother, busy in his pursuit of his law career, always manages to find the time to call, and I know that I can always count on him. My grandparents always express their deepest love for me. I am honored to have made friends, both in college and medical school, who are there through good times and bad.

So as I reflect on this day of achievement, I am convinced that no matter what my future holds, no goal will be out of reach. My only regret is that I am unable to share this joyous occasion with my grandmother Ruth and grandfather Murray. On a lighter note, my family and friends know that in return they will receive discounted medical treatment...all right free!

Denise — This is as much a celebration of your efforts as it is mine. You provided me with the strength and stability to change careers and to pursue this degree. I never could have done it without you by my side. I'm forever grateful you came into my life and I look forward to the future knowing you're a member of this team.

Jordan and Samuel — Times with you have been like mini vacations from the stressors of medical school. You've contributed more than you'll ever know. I look forward to many more mini vacations in the years to come.

Mom and Dad — You never lost faith and taught me to persevere. Thank you for those gifts. If the accomplishments of your children is a measure of the quality of parenthood they received, then the two of you are tough acts to follow.

To Mom: My angel in heaven. My guiding light. Your beauty, grace, values, love and laughter live on everyday in my heart and in my dreams. You taught me the meaning of life through your life that was driven by love. Thank you for seeing my dreams come true.

To Dad: My angel on earth. My strength, my mentor. You instilled in me the hope and courage to follow my dreams, and the confidence and determination to see them through. Thank you for your sacrifices and your unyielding support and love. This one's for you!

To Kathy: My sister, my best friend. Ours is a unique bond of sisterhood: Strengthened by hardship, strengthened by friendship, forever growing with love. Thank you for always being by my side to listen, to laugh, to cry.

To My Family: I thank God everyday for letting us share our lives. I am truly blessed. Thank you for believing in me and always being there for me. I love you all.

Family- Often people speak of their accomplishments, and many times they claim to have done it on their own. Even though the time and effort was theirs, it was the shoulders and the backs of the people they stood upon that made it all possible. So I would like to say, thank you for your support. Thank you for your sacrifices. And finally, thank you for your love. I love you all very much and because of you I'm finally a yiattos.

Helen- These last four years have been some of my best, I often sit back and think of how lucky I was to find someone who cares for me in an unselfish way. Manalis, you made times that were completely unbearable easier, and you could always make me smile with one of those cute things you do. We've been through a lot and you've helped me grow as a person. Who would of thought my life could change so much after meeting you.

Guys- All I can think about are those midnight runs to Geno's and Pat's while we were studying. All it took was one person to say something and we were off. Then there was the Ouzo shots at the first year formal and all the Thursday nights we hung out third and fourth year. I had a great time. Good luck Charlie, Pete, Matt and Nick.

Chicks- Those road trips probably will always be part of our conversations, along with those heated arguments that we had over women and Osteopathic Medicine. Tormenting Deluca was a favorite past time while Lauri would just interject with her one-liners. Thuy and her tight social calendar (by appointment only), Christina the newly adopted Greek girl, and Rachel who thought she could beat me in the war of insults. Thanks for making the last four years fun and unforgettable.

Meditation

Live not for yesterday, for its joys and agonies have already whirled into the eternal spirals of the past. We can neither relive the good nor remedy the evil, as both will remain now and forever beyond our grasp.

Live not for tomorrow, for it is not yet here. Do not agonize over what may or may never be, as it will come soon enough.

Live only for today, for each fleeting moment here and now. Experience every second to the fullest, as the present thread will soon be woven into the endless strand of the past.

For those who worry only about the past and the future will miss the beauty of today and will arrive in tomorrow bearing only a collection of empty yesterdays

Well, colleagues of 1999, we have finally come to the end of what has been the longest road of our lives. For some of us the road has been rockier than others, nevertheless, it is time to move on to reap the rewards of our hard work. Thus, it is with great pride and an awesome sense of satisfaction that I say the following:

Mom & Dad: Thank you for all the love and support you've given me throughout the past four years...without this I would have never made it. You've always told me to stay focused and work hard and in the end everything would work out. Thus it has, and I have finally attained my dream! I love you!

Paul: No matter what anyone tells you, do in life whatever you wish, all it takes is a little effort - and you give more than anyone I know.

Goss: I knew 4 years ago we'd either join forces or kick the #@#$ out of each other - I'm glad you were there when I needed you. I'm proud to call you my best friend. I wish you and Stacy the world together.

Pete: "Pitchers", "...continue meds!" You made me feel like I was back in college again. Medical school was just a little easier hanging out with you. I know we'll be friends for life.

Ryan: Having you as my daughter has made my life more meaningful than I could have ever anticipated.

Mom: Thank you for being there when I was frustrated and overwhelmed. Your reason and judgement have been a pillar in the foundation of my goals as well as my achievements in work and in life.

In Memory of Dad: Your love of science, as well as your kindness and respect of all people has inspired me, and has set an example that I will strive to meet for the rest of my life.

Michael: Thank you for being my mentor, role model, and caring father-in-law. You have directly shaped my ongoing quest for knowledge, my respect for medicine, and most importantly my love of golf.

Seek first to understand and then to be understood. Most people do not listen with the intent to understand; they listen with the intent to reply. They're filtering everything through their own paradigms, reading their autobiography into other people's lives.

Stephen R. Covey

As we turn and look back on time, we realize that we put forth toward achieving our goals. We sometimes lose sight of the ones around us who are closest to our hearts that gave us the emotional support to make use what we are and who we are today. I want those very people to know how much I appreciate what they have done for me. Thanks to my parents for teaching me and preparing me for life and not letting me give up when times were tough. Thanks to Lisa and Michael for listening and being there for me. Thanks to my grandparents for making me feel like the "world's greatest doctor" even though I was still in medical school. Special thanks to Ann and Paul Becker for giving me the best thing in life, my wife Nicole. Nicole, I owe everything I have to you. Your love and support helped me through the toughest times of my life. Most of all thanks for giving me my "little buddy", my son Gage.

The experience was worth the pain.

Mom: You have been the biggest part of my life for the past twenty six years, which makes me the luckiest person in the world. The support, compassion and love you've given me are immeasurable. Even though I'm all grown up and away from home, you'll always be in my heart.

Dad: I can now relate to what you went through and I admire, respect and thank you. I'm very appreciative of everything you've done for me throughout the years.

Grandpa: I've looked up to you for as long as I can remember. You've been the greatest role model and friend a grandson could ask for. The days we've spent fishing are some of the most memorable and special days of my life.

Carrie and Sarah: I'm so proud of everything you have accomplished. Whether you know it or not, I'm always bragging about my two younger sisters.

My Relatives: I've been blessed with a very close and caring family who have always been there for the important times in my life.

My Friends: Throughout grade school, high school, college and medical school I've been very fortunate to have such incredible friendships. Many times I've needed you to talk with, laugh with or get away with and you've always helped me through the tough times.

I love all of you very much and I wouldn't be the person I am today without your support. Thank you.

To my classmates: Best wishes and much happiness to you all!

To my friends: Michele, Molly, Jenny, and Tae - thanks for keeping me sane when I felt insane. Yoon - you're the sister I never had. Joan and Ken - You two have been my family for the last four years. Our study sessions, midnight desserts, two person CPR, juicing, rockclimbing (not). . . is what I will remember most about medical school. Jerry and Ken S. - summer start would have never been the same! Katie - my new Maryland sister. Emily - female power! Todd - Olive juice. Paula - EKG queen.

To Drs. Shore, Jensen, Leviton, Hiatt, Gartner, and Jeck and Josie: Thank you from the bottom of my heart!

To my family: We did it! I owe you so much (Tom - no pun intended). This is as much as your accomplishment as it is mine.

John: This would mean nothing, if I couldn't share it with you. Ready to conquer the World?

Marti- Thank you for the tremendous amount of love, support and guidance throughout these four difficult years. I will never forget the strength and courage it took to bring our beautiful children into this world. Forever in love.

Alexandra, Gabrielle and Dominique- My angels. I have been so blessed to have three such wonderful children. You are three little miracles, which I love dearly. I hope I can make all your dreams come true.

Mom- You have been my inspiration. Thank you for your strength and guidance growing up and never letting me settle for second best. I love you and I hope you are proud.

Dad- I appreciate the encouragement, support and advice you have given me. I love you and I know you will always be there for me.

Gram- I am so grateful that you have been an important part of my life. Thank you for always being there. I love you.

Kristina- You're a great sister. Thank you for love and encouragement these past four years.

Mr & Mrs. G- you have always been there for us, we could not have made it without you.

Mom and Dad: I can never thank you two enough for all you have done for me these past years. You continue to be my biggest fans and that means more to me than you will ever know. I probably don't say this often enough so I'm saying it now, I love you.

Stacey: You are one of the two best sisters anyone could ever want. Stace, I'll answer your "dumb" questions anytime (but I probably won't stop making faces when you ask them).

Jen: You are the other of the two best sisters anyone could ever want. This world needs more great teachers and you are destined to become one.

Jon and Lee: Better brother's in law there can not be.

Todd and Matt: I can't even begin to put into words how much you guys mean to me. If my sisters weren't married you would be the brothers I never had. Thanks for always being there.

I have to thank the rest of my team:

To my mother: I can never express the amount of gratitude I have for all the sacrifices you have made along the way. This is our D.O. degree. Thank you. I love you.

Scott and Jimmy: What can I say, being a brother is the toughest but most rewarding experience a guy can have. I've loved every minute of it. I look forward to more calm golf outings! Lets get together more often bros! Thanks for everything. I love you guys.

Chris and Emil: Having a second family and an adopted father has meant a lot to me. I couldn't have felt more welcome in your family and I appreciate that more than you can ever know.

Kelly: The past five years have been wonderful. You have always been there for me, even when I was cranky from studying. I look forward to having you as my wife and life partner, and I can't wait for the wedding. I love you!!

BOB: All of the laughs we had along the way certainly helped make the path a lot smoother. I'll always be there for you Holmes! (Sorry,... Dr. Holmes!)

Mom and Dad: Since I was a little girl, you taught me to always remain grounded and that one-day hard work and persistence would enable me to fulfill my dream of becoming a physician. Thank you for your constant support, encouragement, and belief in me. Your continuous love and devotion provided me with such strength that it allowed me to fulfill my dream. I will be forever grateful to both of you. I love you.

Dafni and Maria: My two little sisters..... You both have been there for me throughout my various trials throughout these four years. I love you both dearly.

To my friends: Sam, Lori, Cristina, Thuy, Rachel, Rhonda, Eileen, and Vicki... These past four years we have shared both laughter and many tears. You all made the struggles of medical school bearable. I was blessed with the opportunity to build such wonderful and supporting friendships that will last forever.

To Kimon: We met four years ago and from that point in time you grew to become my best friend. You have changed my life. Your constant encouragement and support helped me to succeed these past four years. I will be forever grateful to God for sending me you, my guardian angel.

I am grateful for all the sacrifices you've both made for Danny, Nick and me so that we would have an education and life-style that was never available to you. You're the best parents a son can hope for, and I love you both very much!

NICK & DANNY: Despite all the times we argue, I love and care for you guys. I enjoyed growing up with you and hope we always remain close. Nick, I know you'll make a great lawyer. Danny, I wish you good luck in acting and all your endeavors.

JACQUI: Thanks honey for your patience and understanding during medical school. I never would have made it through the four years without you. Your love, company and beautiful smile kept me in good spirits during the rough times and for that I am grateful. You're very special to me, and I will always stand by you and your career. Mom - It goes without saying that you have always been and continue to be the most inspirational and influential person in my life. Thank you for always being there for me. I guess inheriting your genes wasn't so bad after all.

Dave - You are a wonderful father. You mean so much to me and this family. Thank you for all your love and support through all of this. Hoorah!!!

Kim, Deb, and Tif - All of you are very dear to me. I am so proud of each one of you and very lucky to have you as sisters. You guys have always brought a lot of joy into my life.

Dave S. and Dave C. - I couldn't ask for a better set of brother-in-laws. My sisters must have pretty good taste. But, who's the man?

Naehal - Congratulations, Babe! We've finally made it. It wouldn't have been fun without out you.

To Mom: For showing me how to work hard, and for showing me how to have fun doing it. For believing that I could do this, even when I didn't. And for not killing me as a child (even though, at times, I know you wanted to).

Oh, and I'll be proud to be known as Dr. Candy's Son.

To Dad: For teaching me to be honest and to treat people fairly. For demonstrating to me that thinking only goes so far, and that feeling is really what counts. And for not laughing too hard when your 5 year old said that he had waited all day to bang you off the walls.

I still think that I would have won that fight.

To all of my Family: The Matsons, Liggetts, Kaplans, and Duffys.

I have dreamed since I was little of becoming a doctor. There were times that I wasn't sure I would ever see this day. We are finally at the end of a very long and challenging road. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those people who have been so supportive and understanding during this journey. I couldn't have done it without you. Thank you to my parents who have always supported my every decision. The lessons and values that you taught me and instilled in me are what enabled me to get to where I am right now. Thank you to my husband who has been right there with me every step of the way. Your never ending patience, understanding, forgiveness, and unconditional love are the things that keep me going even when challenges seem unconquerable. And to my friends who have always been there to talk to when things are rough and to laugh with when things are great. Another stepping stone is behind us. Good luck in the future to everyone in the class of 1999.

Congratulations!
Today is your day.
You're off to Great Places!
You're off and away!

You have brains in your head.
You have feet in your shoes.
You can steer yourself
Any direction you choose.

So be sure when you step,
Step with care and great tact and remember that Life's a Great Balancing Act.
Just never forget to be dexterous and deft.
And never mix up your right foot with your left.

And will you succeed?
Yes! You will, indeed!

"What you know is useless, what you don't know can do you great harm."

—Cicero

I entered his room
Which had cold sterile walls
And it was tightly groomed

I heard wild calls
Painful voices lingered
Thru the hospital halls

Mr. Makowski
Hands clasped behind his head
He looked like he was sunbathing
His cheeks were fire-engine red

Peacefully, he slept
Barely making a sound
He was a man who never wept
As his health had spiraled down

For not one or two
There were several reasons
For his declining health
All of which don't quite matter
For he would be dead in only a few hours

As I approached his bed
I wanted to say my good-byes
He jumped up shocked and startled
I had taken him by surprise

Cookies? he offered
He shoved them in my thighs
Said "my family loves to send sweets"
"They're good...They're good!" he repeats

I ate a cookie
It crumbled in my hands
Not bad, not too bad at all
Well, it was just a little bland

Yesterday he left Without telling a soul
"Business had to get done", he said
"I can't just sit and wait for the crow"

He really looked smart
As the staff tried to find him a bed
They looked for his wheelchair and chart
And he sat with his hands clasped behind his head

To the world he made little impact
Would have eventually faded away
He didn't have many words of wisdom
No money nor prosperity, but that's OK

Destiny is such
A place that is between
Here and obscurity
Where the insignificant die
A death of a thousand times

And I may not have understood him
But I can say without chance
His name was Mr. Makowski and I did know him
As the life he had
Continues through his family and this poem

To make an attempt at a summary of one's FIVE YEARS (What was I thinking) in medical school and try to remember all that have tugged, pulled, pushed, and walked with me along the way would be an impossibility and a dishonor to the people who all hold a special place in my HEART. There are those who have seen me grow and mature and who have been there throughout my life, never judgmental, just supporting and tempORIZING as I hike my path down the road of life. I love you Heather.

Mom, you are my inspiration. I use the values and morals you taught me everyday of my life. You are an absolutely amazing, strong, loving person. You have an incredible way of making everyday a little extra special for everyone around you. I thank God for blessing me with such a wonderful friend and mother. I honestly could have never done this without you. Thank you so much for our late night talks, warm hugs, and crazy laughs. You might not believe this, but the greatest compliment I ever got was, "Amy, you remind me of your mother." You made me real. I Love you.

Dad, to the most generous man in the world. You have given me it all; love, support, and strength. From throwing softballs in the backyard, to giving me advice about the many decision I make, you've always supported me and I thank you. You've given me the strength and desire to always try my hardest and never accept anything but the best. You make the whole family very proud. Thank you. I Love you.

Todd and Tim, you two are the best brothers ever!!! I am so proud of both of you. You have grown into wonderful, loving, successful men, with beautiful families. I cherish all the memories we share and look forward to the many more to be made. You are truly admired by you lil'sis. I love you. Boogie.

Jason, We have grown up together and experienced everything. I cherish our relationship with all my heart. I would never be here without your support. Thank you. You are truly my best friend and always will be a part of me. I am more proud of you than you could ever know.

Josh, Brielle, and Ryan, You are the sunshine and happiness in my life.

Without the support and help of so many people I could not have made it to or through medical school. If I were a great writer, I would try to portray my thanks and appreciation for everything each of these people have done. My parents, who supported me through the worse and best of times. My aunts and uncles who fed me, put me up and put up with me when things were getting crazy. My sisters and their families, who's moral support was unending. My friends who encouraged me and kept their sense of humor, when I was being impossible. If I could write, I would tell you that I am so lucky that sometimes I have to pinch myself to be sure it's really me, and you would understand just how much I appreciate everyone who helped me to get here.

Mom & Dad: Thanks for all your prayers, sacrifices, sweat and tears. Your wisdom, devotion and discipline have made me the woman I am today. I love you and I am eternally grateful.

Sonya: Thanks for being my protector, my confidant, my best friend. Your baby sister's a doctor!

Samara & Greg: My big sister & the "big brother I never had". I am proud, joyous, encouraged, and envious of the life you have built together. I will take care of my nieces and nephews free of charge!

Grandma Marjorie & Mr. George: You have both shown me that each day is a blessing from God and what I do with those days is my Thanks to Him. I will always live each day to the fullest!

Aunt Doe: You are truly an inspiration in my life, thanks for the support, I love you.

Kay: My 2nd mother and my 1st patient. Thanks for the encouragement and God bless you always.

Tammy & Monique: The best friends in the world, thanks for always being there when I need you.

The "Family": I couldn't have made it through without you guys, best wishes with your future endeavors.

Grandma Cleater, Granddaddy Buddy, & Harry: This is for you.... I miss you all very much.

Mom: Thank You!! Your constant support, endless encouragement and NUMEROUS prayers have helped me more than you can ever imagine.

Dad: Yes, that day has finally come to take you to the finest restaurant in town, as I have promised for over ten years now—your choice! Thanks for your tremendous love and support.

Howard: Your love, humor, and yes—mechanical expertise, has helped me greatly over the years. Thanks so much!

Mary Helen/ William and Anthony: My sister/brothers, running partners, comedians and best friends. You guys have helped me keep my sanity. Thanks for always believing in and supporting me.

Grandma M: Your delicious dinners, deep talks, and witty jokes will never be forgotten. Yes, I am finally done!

Grandma S: Thank you for your prayers and support during these past few years.

Leon: I don't think I could ever thank you enough. Your patience, love, support and encouragement has kept

Many years of hard work, many hardships conquered, many people who helped, many to thank.

I thank God for leading me to medicine, and keeping me on the path.

To my wife Jennifer: you have been more wonderful than I ever could have imagined. You have given me constant love, support, care, and understanding. I could not have made it without you. I love you, and I thank you for being my best friend, my biggest supporter, and my lifelong companion.

To my Mom, Dad, Brad, Joelle, Natasha, Alysha, and Zac: thanks for always believing in me and for your encouragement. I love you all very much!

To my "other" Mom and Dad, Matt, and the rest of the family, thank you for welcoming me with open arms. I am truly fortunate to have such a special family, and I love you!

To "the Squad": Playing on this team has been a great experience. I am proud to have been a part of it, and lucky to have gained not teammates, but friends. Thank you all!

To Wishbone and Happy Guy: Thanks for everything.

To PCOM: Classmates, Colleagues, Friends. I thank you all for making my time at PCOM special and memorable. I wish you all the very best.

I've been very fortunate. I have a great family and friends who are always very supportive. I can't adequately thank them for everything they've done for me.

I guess I'm sort of obligated to mention the class of '99 also. You guys have been great. Thank you for making the past four years fly by. Special thanks to the easy targets in my scribe notes - I just want you guys to know that I really meant every word. And thank you to my friends in the back row who helped me annoy everyone within a thirty foot radius (probably 45 ft - we were pretty damn loud). You guys are the best.

Congratulation and good luck to everyone in the class of '99.

To my mother and father: From the bottom of my heart I thank you for all your support and love. I love you both so much; you guys are the best.

To my grandmother: Neenie, you have always been so good to me. I know Baba would be proud. I will attempt to honor his memory by being a good physician. I love you very much.

To my friends at PCOM, especially Jeff Amato, Jeff Bubis and Keith Barton: We made it, guys. I wish you all the best in the coming years, both professionally and personally.

To Lily Williams: You are so awesome. I have enjoyed the time we have spent together and I look forward to the great things our futures hold. I love you!

To my friends from Hobart and William Smith and from Cape Cod: All of you have helped to be the foundation for this. I will never forget the selflessness and support shown to me during my time at PCOM. Thank you for being great people. Andy, Charlemagne is smiling.

God thank you for answering my prayers and the prayers of the friends and family who believed in me!

Mom & Dad: Thank you for your continued love, support and encouragement. Because of your faith in me, I have reached this goal. Thank you for the sacrifices you have made and for sharing this dream with me. Thank you for teaching me the value of goodness, kindness and hard work. I am so happy you could join in the celebration of this day with me. I hope I will always make you proud!

Cutie: Thank you for being there for me when I needed a friend the most. Your faith in God, renewed my faith. I gain strength from your goodness. Thank you for reminding me to appreciate the simple pleasures in life. I will never again walk a path without looking at the sky and giving thanks. I have truly been blessed by your friendship.

My dear friend Fletch: Thank you for always believing in me and encouraging me, unconditionally! I feel the deepest sadness that you could not be here to share this day with me. I know that you would have been so proud. I will never forget your words of support - "do your best, Dana, that's all I ask."

T. Holt: I really miss you! I know you would have been an excellent physician. You will be my guiding force as I practice. Although I could never be the activist that you could have been, I am hopeful that the gift of my service to our community will make you proud!

My family: Thank you for the love and support you have shown me over the years. You were with me when this dream began, thank you for sharing the reality.

My friends: Thanks for the many good times and the laughter that got me through the truly difficult days of med school. I am fortunate to have friends that I can count on 24 hours a day - not many people do. I look forward to the future memories we will share. I will always measure my success by the number of faithful friends I have!

The journey to this day has been long and difficult. I am truly thankful that my dream of one day practicing medicine has finally come true. Never lose sight of your dream and never stop believing in yourself. I DID IT!

Todd- Ours isn't a typical marriage. living apart. only seeing each other on weekends. but we've made it. You've been supportive, understanding and always eager to hear about my day, no matter how boring. You mean the world to me and I am looking forward to spending the rest of my tomorrows with you. I love you.

Mom and Dad- I cannot thank you enough for your never-ending support, encouragement and love. Without this I would not be who or where I am today. Thanks also for enduring all the times when Todd, Jake and I invade your house, a lot of times without warning. You are the best parents. I love you both very much.

Kimberly- my sister. Your love of medicine, compassion, spirit and determination are an inspiration to me. Although you probably do not know it, I strive to be better than I am because of you. I love you.

Family and Friends- We've enjoyed many things together, weddings, vacations, sporting events, concerts, dining out, etc. This allows me to stay sane and I thank you for that!

Gram, Mom, Dad, John, Kathy, Kevin, Nancy, Colleen, Pat, Tim, Terry, and Joey - Thanks for all your love, prayers, and support throughout my life. I love you all very much.

Frank - We were friends from day one. I'll always remember the great times we had through med school - especially when we were Frick and Frack. Thanks for being an awesome friend and being there when I really needed you. You're a good man Frank - stay that way.

John - Well we have, without a doubt, been through our share of fiascoes these past four years and I wouldn't trade one of them in for anything. Thanks for being such a great friend especially during the down times.

Steve - I'll always remember the great times we had down on Main Street and in Key West - but most especially "The Pause."

Krome - Salute. See ya in Brazil buddy.

Jeanne - When I think of you I'll always remember a kind, warm, and good-hearted person.

Capes, Scnu, Simpson, and Chris - You guys definitely made med school bearable.

Dave - What can I say? The Class of 1999, (and Manyunk), surely wouldn't have been the same without you. You most definitely added spice to PCOM. We certainly have many stories and memories to cherish and none of them involve going to jail - pretty amazing. You are a great friend.

Pam - I'm so glad I got to know you these past few years. You do nothing but make me laugh and feel good. I hope we continue to be such good friends for a long time. I think I hear the Arroyo Grill calling.

To all of my friends and classmates - The best of luck to each and every one of you!

I want to thank you for all your interest in my future and all the love and support you have given me over the years.

To my PCOM Friends:

You all mean the world to me. I want to thank you all for the fun times and memories we have had. I will never forget- Happy Gilmore, the famous Alan Jackson song from Myrtle Beach, the late night runs to Baskin Robbins, our OPP practice sessions, walks at West River Drive, Youle, and the many late night study sessions. I want to especially thank you, Robin, for being my study partner- I could not have done it without you.

Larry:

Can you believe it? I am finally done and soon we will starting our new life together. I do not know how to thank you for putting up with me for the past four years. You have been right there encouraging me when I was down, celebrating my every achievement, and always helping me keep it all into perspective. Thank you for believing in me! To Dad and Vicky: My thoughts are often kept to myself, but on this day, I want you to know the security I feel by having your love and never ending support and encouragement. People tell me that I have always been independent, but what they fail to realize is that it is easy to stand on your own when you have such a strong foundation to support you. I can not thank you enough for the sacrifices you have made so that I could have the life that I do. I want to share this accomplishment with you, for it is you who molded me into the person I am today and made this all possible. I love you.

To Amy, Jill, and Ken: It's amazing we all lived under the same roof and didn't kill each other! When I think of our family, so many good times come to mind I can't list them all. So much has happened and through it all, I could always count on you guys to listen, care, laugh, or just be there. No one could ask for a better brother and sisters and no one will ever have them.

To All My Boys: Although life may take us on our separate paths, we will always have our memories and our history, and that will always keep us close no matter what. Here's to great times and adding even more crazy memories....

To my Parents:

Your encouragement and support throughout the years has been unending. I love you both.

Dad: You are the most intelligent person I know. It is through your passion for knowledge that I have learned the importance of an education. You have taught me about dedication, determination & honesty which have made me the success I am today. Your advice throughout the years has been priceless, even through the difficult times you never let me quit or settle for second best. For this I am truly thankful.

Mom: You always took the time to ask me about what was going on in my life. I never needed to look for encouragement. Your unending questions about school and medicine meant a lot. Thank you for always being there to talk to but more importantly for instilling such high morals & values in me which have helped guide, influence and direct me on my path in medicine.

John, Senu, Shawn and fellow PCOM friends: At last! After 4 years of hard work our day has finally come. We had many good times together which I will never forget. We have gone through so much together-from getting into PCOM, through numerous exams, boards, and don't forget the parties. Along the way I have met great people and made some good friends. I wish nothing but the best for you guys and know you will all make excellent physicians in the future.

Pam: Since the moment you stepped into my life I knew we would be together forever. We have shared many good times together and have many still to come. When I'm with you I am truly happy. I feel blessed to be spending my life with such a kind, caring, loving person. You are so wonderful. Your energy inspires me and your motivation in life will enable you to succeed in everything you do. You are my best friend. I love you!

Thank you to all the people I love and who are always there for me:

Mom and Dad—because everything that I am I owe to you, and I treasure all the gifts you have given me. You are the reason I am always homesick.

Paul, Gail, Bruce, Keri, and Diane—because you always support me and make it so much fun to go home.

My nieces and nephews,

Ricky, Jessica, Kaitlin, Tim, and Kelsey—five beautiful reminders to work hard and make the world a better place.

John P.—(T. Rubble) because you and Charlie are my first and forever best friends from medical school. Thank you for always fixing everything... in my house and in my life.

Charlie—"Ballyhoool!" The past four years could never have been the same without you, all our adventures with Diane in NYC, and all the times we have been there for each other... I will never forget.

Mike—"Hi, it's me!" You made me laugh during some crazy times, and laugh even more through some great times. Thank you.

Seenu and John C.—May the Captain sail forever! I'm so grateful for your friendship.

Becky and Jen—It was worth starting rotations to meet you... you quickly became such good friends, and we've had so much fun in such a short period of time.

.. and to my other dearest of friends, especially, Christine, Nora, Kelly, Rob C., and Tom—"because I never could have come this far without you."

.. and to all the friends I've made, and teachers and patients I have met, I will carry all that I have learned from you with me throughout my career.

As I graduate from medical school and earn my doctorate in osteopathy, I want to express my utmost gratitude to my loving parents. It is their constant support, reassurance, and nurturing that has fostered my personal integrity and enabled me to flourish into who I am today. I have been privileged to have two compassionate and dedicated physicians as my perpetual role models. They have been my spirit, my aspiration and my glory in success. I am also quite fortunate to share such a special, unified bond with my brother and sister. They have given me endless smiles and cheer when I needed uplifted, words of wisdom in times of distress, and most importantly, cherished memories, which I shall forever hold treasured in my heart. They have been there through it all; they exemplify the true meaning of family to me. Seth has enchanted me with his natural charm, unconditional love, and alluring, charisma for life. Together we have conquered medical school, yet still managed to journey to far away lands and enjoy each day to the fullest. Soon we will commence our married life together as one. I know we will turn our dreams into beautiful realities.

Brad...

You are the best friend and best family that I have ever known. Thank you for always being my rock — I know that I can always count on you. I have never been happier than I am with you; and although I can not imagine that it is possible to be any happier than we are now, I hope that these are the least happy days of the rest of our lives! We have so much to look forward to... I love you.

Dr. Affuso, Dr. DeLuca, Dr. Goldstein, Dr. Hoang, Dr. Kanner, Dr. Kostopolous, Dr. Manalis, Dr. Metrishyn, Dr. Paqing, Dr. Raider, and Dr. Salinsky...

We have been through so much these past four years of friendship: birthdays, holidays, dances, parties, relationships, engagements, marriages, accomplishments, achievements, and even disappointments. I hope that as we all go our separate ways, we still make efforts to get together... I can not imagine us not being together for the many milestones in our lives that are still to come!

Apache and Cherokee...

My furry little bundles of joy... you have taught me the meaning of the word unconditional.

To my professors, preceptors, and patients...

I could never thank you enough for the gifts you have given me; if I am a good physician, it will in no small part be due to you. Thank you.

Mom, Dad, Scott, and Randy: I finally made it! Thank you for being the best family ever, for all of your support, for believing in me (even when I didn't), for always being there for me, but most of all for making me laugh. I couldn't have done it without your hugs, teases, scares (DAD!), and the most entertaining dinner conversations that I've ever participated in! As proud as you are of me, always remember that I am just as proud of all of you. I love you guys!

Grandma and Granddad: Every granddaughter expects to be loved by her grandparents, but not every one is lucky enough to develop a friendship as special as ours. The two of you are truly a treasure I hold dear to my heart. I love you both!

Susan: It just wouldn't have been the same without you, Suse!! For all of the fun we have had I must ask the infamous question, We were in med. school? It seems like no matter what we were doing, we always had a blast. Things to remember...quote boards, top ten lists, the gray sweatpants, watching the shows, Betty Crocker, and all of the DOMs and BFs of our lives! Good luck in the future...you deserve only the best!

Thuy, Maricar, Aaron, Jason, Marissa, Kartik, and the rest of my friends at PCOM: You have all played a special part in my life. For all of the good times, laughs, parties, conventions, and all the rest...thanks! I'll miss you all!

Throughout my journey, many have molded me into the disciple, husband, son, brother and doctor I have become. My name will hold the title, but many have contributed to my success.

"My Lord and Savior" Jesus, you are my inspiration and my example to heal. I felt your presence even before I ever knew you. I hope I never let you down.

"My Beautiful Bride and my best friend" Blythe, you have been a wonderful support to me these past six years. Thank you for the sacrifices you have made and the joy you have brought to my life.

"My Father" Dr. Edward Francis Restelli Jr. Dad, thank you for never letting me give up on myself, pushing me when I needed to be pushed. You are the hardest working man I have ever known.

"Big T, my older brother" Ted, thank you for saying, "If Med school was easy everyone would do it". I've held to this on many a long night of studying. You and Catherine have listened and encouraged me during many of my challenges.

"Little E, my younger brother" Errol, thank you for the laughter and the joy you have brought to our family, no matter the circumstances. You are truly the greatest competitor I have ever met and knowing you challenges me to be my best.

"My Mother" Sarah Ann Restelli Mom, you have done more for me than I ever should have asked. I will model your kindness and generosity. I miss you dearly.

Thank you for everything and especially for putting up with me throughout the past four years (and the many years to come). I love you.

Mom and Dad: I do not know how to thank you enough. You have loved and supported me in more ways than you will ever know. Dad you inspired me to follow in your footsteps at PCOM and you provided me with the tools to accomplish my goals. You both furnished me with the kindness and values which you embody and have helped mold me into the man I am.

The last four years have been an amazing time of growth and maturity. I have tried to take from this experience the wisdom and knowledge to prepare me for the mysterious world of medicine as well as the general journey through life. This stepping stone is firm as I leap from it.

There are many people I'd like to thank, like my entire family, Debbie- Howie- and Ethan, Pie- but most of all Dad-Mar-and Jodi. You are my support system and my motivation. As you constantly remind me how important it is to work hard and persevere, you selflessly give me everything and anything I need to be happy, healthy, and good at golf. Thank you for believing in me. And remember Jodi, the Animal clinic.

Mom- I know you are always watching me. You instilled in me the drive to be happy, helpful and independent. I have successfully reached another goal Mom, with these drives in tact. You are always with me every step of the way as I continuously preach what I practice

To Mom and Dad: How can I ever thank you for all that you have done. Without your love, support, and guidance the dream of becoming a physician could have never come true. A son could have not been blessed with two more caring, loving, and understanding parents as myself. Thank you for all the sacrifices you have made in your lives so that mine could be so rich. I love you both.

To Mamtha and Namratha: Thank you for putting up with me for all those years that I relentlessly bothered and tormented you. Thank you also for all the encouragement, advice, and interest in what is happening in my life. I am very fortunate to have two such incredible sisters. I love you both.

To my roommates and friends: Who would have ever thought that going to medical school could be so much fun. Chris, Shawn, and John you guys have been the best roommates. I will never forget the great times of cook outs, Christmas parties, Killington ski trips, late nights in Manayunk, phillies/eagles games, kegs on tap, blizzard of 96'... To God

I would like to take time to praise God for not only the opportunities He has bestowed upon me, but also for giving me and my family the many blessings I have received throughout my lifetime. For without Him I am nothing. I also ask God to lead my classmates and I to do His will.

To my parents

For my mother and father I would like give my appreciation and gratitude. Thank you for guiding me, supporting me through the many rough times. Thank you for providing the right environment and strength to carry on. I am forever grateful and I will always love you.

To Tamika

Thank you for supporting me through the troubled times and being there for the good ones. I know my path would have been altered if you were not with me. You have given me so much of yourself and your time. For this I am intensely grateful.

To "the Family"

MOM & DAD: How can a son express his thanks for a lifetime? There is not enough paper to demonstrate my gratitude and thanks. Your unconditional love and sacrifices have given me the strength, courage and wisdom to reach my goals. You taught me to believe in my abilities and myself. Without you, the words DR. SESSO would not have come to fruition. I LOVE YOU!

JACKIE & MARK: How did I get so lucky? I could not have asked for a better sister and brother. I could never return the support you have given me — from coming to my CYO games to helping me get ready for my senior formal — you have always been there for me. I am proud to be your brother! I LOVE YOU!

JEN: Your love, compassion and understanding have made a difficult journey easier. You have helped me to negotiate the good and bad days of medical school. Thank you for your patience since this journey began in college. The best is still to come. I LOVE YOU!

Jesus Christ

First, thank you Lord Jesus for choosing to forgive me, love me, and bless me despite my shortcomings and failures. I cannot fathom your love, mercy, and faithfulness.

To my family, I want to thank you for your continuing love through this process. I know at times I did not make it an easy thing for you. Lisa, you have paid the price for my success. You have spent the lonely nights, moved from family and a comfortable life, and unselfishly given your time and love. I can never repay your love and devotion. I am looking forward to our future together. Molly, you have been here a few short months, but you have changed my life forever. Mom and Dad, you finally have seen your son finish school. Thanks for the support and directing my life toward Christ from my childhood. To the Hackenbergs and Hartmans, thank you for your acceptance. I couldn't ask for better in-laws.

The words of others are whispers on a breeze.
The portraits they paint, the words they sing, none original yet all anxiously waiting to be plagiarized. The moral here is that you must be careful what you pretend to be because in the end you are what you pretend to be.
I can reflect on myself, see what I've done, change what I don't like, accept what's good and move on. I don't have to etch my youth in stone and abide by all that I have been.
Instead, I look ahead and consider that chance favors the prepared mind - and so, I must thank God for my abilities and my talents; thank God for my family and friends, the gift of love and the joy of life.

Praise God! - I got accepted into medical school, did very well, and am now graduating.

To my parents - I could not have done it without you. Thank you for all your encouragement and support. It was nice to come home to two very sympathetic people every day.

To my family - Thank you for your excitement and being there for me.

To Melmark - All of you gave such continual support. It was nice to know you were all cheering for me.

To Taylor University - Thank you for preparing me so well, not just in the sciences but how to treat people.

To my husband - You have brought fun and joy into my life. You have willingly, perhaps unknowingly become a part of this journey. I look forward to many years of happiness with you by my side.

You have taught me the importance of family and the strength that it brings. I love you both.

To Lucille and Joe: I consider myself very lucky to have both a little sister and an older brother. I am equally fortunate that we all are so close and can approach each other with anything. You both mean very much to me.

To Zachary, my godson: Although you are still too young to even read this, you have already made a great impact on my life. I love you dearly and I promise to always be there for you. Love, Uncle John.

To All of My Family: You are each an important part of my life and who I am today. Thank you for all of the love, the laughs, and especially the great food.

To Brian and Bill: Thanks for being a great escape from medical school and making four years much more fun. Thanks to you guys, I got to travel more during medical school than I did my whole life.

To Tony and Angelo: Well we made it guys! Thanks for being such a great support system and also for being such good friends. Thank you also for welcoming an Italian into the Greek community and making Greek my second language!

Mom and Dad: I would not have gotten this far without your constant love and support. You have been there through all the good and bad times and your advice and loving support will never be forgotten. You are the best parents a son could ask for and I love you both very much. Thank you for everything.

Brian: I'd like to thank you for allowing me to be smug while at the same time being the role model that inspired me to succeed. You are one of the main reasons I am where I am today. I couldn't have asked for a better brother to grow up with. I love you.

Susan: Thank you for the much-needed advice when I needed it the most. I'm grateful you are now a part of our family. Thank you. I love you.

Donna: My best friend, my soul mate, my true love. Donna, you are my greatest gift. Your smile, your laugh, and your never-ending love have made these past few years extraordinary. A lifetime with you will not be enough. You have made me realize the true meaning of unconditional love. I can't wait until our wedding day. I LOVE YOU.

To My Family: Thanks to my entire family for support, encouragement, humor and caring.

Mom: You've always been a symbol of high moral character and of a diligent work ethic. Throughout all of my success and absent minded professorism you've always encouraged me to look ahead and to be self reliant; yet you've always been merely a step behind when I needed you. Sorry for all the gray hairs.

Dad: Silently you're part of this by being part of me in my piveness, calmness and caring. I think you'd be proud.

Ed: Thanks big brother for your insistent challenges when we were young, for leading the way (like going bald first) and for being a role model.

Alyssa: Little sister, thanks for being there with a smile and for believing in me.

To My Friends: Here's to the best friends in the world. You've made my life interesting and fun. I might be here but I wouldn't be the same person without you all.

Mom- Thank you for giving me the courage to do what I had deemed impossible by continuing to believe in me. Basically, thanks for continuing to be my mom and becoming my friend whenever I needed you. I love you.

Dad- Thank you for giving me the encouragement and drive to become myself and for respecting all of my decisions. Don't worry, I'll try to stay out of trouble. I love you.

Jodi- Thank you for always being you (even when we argue)- your honesty is what I cherish most. Thanks for being my best friend as well as my sister.

My family- Thank you to all of you who encouraged me, believed in me, and always tried to keep me calm.

My friends- No one could underestimate the friendships we created at PCOM and at the Haywood estate. Thank you for listening, giving advice, and most of all for making me laugh. Jen, Jen, and Bec- my sincere thanks for everything!!!! (we made it together) Sharon, Jen, and Alexis- there are no other friends like those from home—thanks for all the memories and fun. W&J girls-thanks for getting me started- I owe you all.

Thank you for all of the advice, guidance and spirit you provided to help me along this path. I hope that I can somehow begin to repay you, and I hope that I can make you as proud of me as I am of you. I love you very much.

To my Sister: We have had our differences but we have become closer lately than we ever have been before. I would not trade that for anything in the world. I am always there for you, and I love you.

To Sadie and Sam: Not a day goes by that I don't think of you. I miss you more than words can begin to say. I know that you are watching over me and I hope I will make you proud.

To Shelly: You are my life, my love, my inspiration. You have been with me through the good and the bad. You are the reason I was able to come this far. I love you so much.

Although it's been said many times, many ways thanks for the memories: Kelley, for pinching Albino Phil's butt; Pacek, for dancing for us; Stairs, buzz - enough said; Matt and his I'm so... cold dance; Big Dog, for being so darn cute; Rob and his pinch of mustard; Jill, from BU and beyond; Pam, for showing me how bad my first impressions are and making it higher; my sparring partner Tomich for his wine tasting tips and my best friend Jen who laughs at my jokes, for the song game and for eating ice pops with me on the veranda until 4am.

On the homefront: Heather, for the escapes from studying; Stacy, for the escapes from reality, and a friendship worth a childhood of torture. Jami, for the house you'll build me some day, for no charge, of course; and Mom and Dad, as you know I can't possibly thank you in a fragment of a sentence for a lifetime of support, just know this accomplishment is as much yours as it is mine and I love you.

Unfortunately I have had a lot of obstacles that I've had to overcome in my life to be where I am today - and through all of them I can only thank one person, my best-friend, my confidant, my mother, Darlene J. Thomas. The biggest influence my mother has had, is to inspire the will to survive in me, which so many people take for granted. You truly are the wind beneath my wings and with you in my life, I know I can accomplish any goal!!! Thank-you - I love you so much!

My father, brother and family: Thank-you for all your love and support. I am so proud to be the first doctor in our family.

All my friends back home: Great friends are those that understand - Thank-you! (Esp. Renee and Steve, the cards put a smile on my face every time!)

Deb, Scott and Paige(r): You are the best friends that anyone can ask for! Thank-you for always being there and for giving me the many needed "stress-breaks" during these four years. I love praying to your porcelain God!

Deb & Mark, Susan and all my friends in Philly: Thank-you for making my life in Philly an enjoyable one and I look forward to the years to come (Hopefully only 5 more!).

Pam Boyer: Paybacks are coming! Thanks for Jagr and all the times you've been there for me! I'm so excited about Africa - it's going to be a blast!!! (he, he, he)

Wendy: Why did the baby cross the road? I wish you the best of luck!

Roomy: I'm so proud of you for all your dedication and accomplishments thus far. You are going to be a successful physician! "You go girl!" Thank-you for being there for me!

"WHAT - ME WORRY?"

Alfred E. Newman

Remember when you were young, you shone like the sun.
Now there's a look in your eyes, like black holes in the sky.
You were caught on the crossfire of childhood and stardom, blown on the steel breeze.
Come on you target for faraway laughter, come on you stranger, you legend, you martyr, and shine!

You reached the secret too soon, you cried for the moon.
Threatened by shadows at night, and exposed in the light.
Well you were wore out your welcome with random precision, rode on the steel breeze.
Come on you raven, you seer of visions, come on you painter, you piper, you prisoner, and shine!

Nobody knows where you are, how near or how far.
Pile on many more layers and I'll be joining you there.
And we'll bask in the shadow of yesterday's triumph, and sail on the steel breeze.
Come on you boy child, you winner and loser, come on you miner for truth and delusion, and shine!

It's been an eventful and exciting journey this far. My endless and heartfelt thanks to all of the following people who have impacted my life significantly and touched it so tenderly:

Dad & Mom: You have been my rock and my fortress. Your never-ending and unconditional love, support, and encouragement were the driving force that made this all so real and bearable. Words can never describe how grateful and fortunate I am to have parents like you. I am indebted to you for all that you have selflessly given to me throughout my life. I love you and will always take care of you!

Roseanne, Carolyn & Joe, Donna & Bobby, Al & Theresa: What a great family you have been. I'm so very lucky to call you sisters and brothers. Thank you for helping me stand tall and proud. I will always be there for each and every one of you. I love you!

Danielle, Dominique, Christopher, Kyle, Regina & Angelo: My beautiful and precious nieces and nephews, how I love you all so dearly. You have kept a smile on my face through it all. Remember that you can do anything you set your mind to as long as you believe in yourself. I will always believe in you!

Granny: How blessed I have been to have a nanny like you. I'll never forget all the memories you have given me since I was a little girl. I hope I can be half the grandmother to my future grandchildren that you have been to me.

George: Our love is one that comes but once in a lifetime. You are my angel sent from above. I am so appreciative of your sweet sincerity and gentleness, true companionship, constant support and devotion. You have deeply impacted my life in so many positive ways. I look so forward to walking this path together and living an incredible and fulfilling life with you, forever. You truly are my best friend, confidant, and soul mate.

My dear friends: (especially Heather, Julia, Cathy and Cassie) Thanks for all the beautiful and fond memories throughout the years. We share a bond that neither time nor distance can ever sever. You can always count on me whenever you need a true friend.

My classmates: "When you come into the edge of all the light you know, and are about to step off into the darkness of the unknown, faith is knowing one of two things will happen: There will be something solid to stand on or you will be taught how to fly." - Barbara J. Winter

Rob (Walnut) ~ God blessed me by bringing you into my life. You are the most genuine, thoughtful, and warmhearted person that I know. You are my best friend, my love, and my anchor. Thank you for showing me the light during my periods of darkness, for holding me and making me laugh during my fits of stress, and for hugging me and making everything feel better. You made me realize that life is really simple and that we should never take anything for granted. I cannot imagine my life without you and I look forward to the next 80 years filled with love and happiness. You are my world Rob and I will always love you.

Mom and Dad ~ Well, I finally made it! Through the years you have been with me to celebrate my accomplishments, to support me through my failures, and to love me unconditionally. Without your hard work, guidance, encouragement, faith, and love I could not have achieved my goals nor become the person that I am today. Dad, I am thankful and fortunate that God has not taken you away from us and that you are able to see me graduate from medical school. I can only pray that both of you will be there for many more celebrations. Thank you for everything! I love you Mom and Dad!

Mare and Pia ~ I could not ask for any better sisters. Both of you have grown up to become such strong and beautiful women - I am so proud of both of you and I am honored to say that I am your sister. Just as you were always there for me, remember that I am always here for you. I love you!

DeEtte and Guth ~ The day has finally arrived my fellow Parrotheads - we did it! Thank you for your friendship and encouragement and I'll see you in Margaritaville.

The Wallaces ~ Thank you for welcoming me into your family with open arms, love, and support. I now know why Rob is such a wonderful person. You have helped us through some of the toughest times in our lives and I cannot thank you enough.

MY LORD IN HEAVEN: Thank you for giving me the knowledge and compassion to become a physician. In my life, I will serve you always.

MOM AND DAD: I thank God daily for your love and support. You are the greatest parents that God could have given to me, and it's only through your strength and confidence that I am now a physician.

CHURCH FAMILY: Thank you for the prayers. God has blessed me because of them.

TO ALL MY AUNT'S, UNCLE'S, AND COUSIN'S: Your constant love and encouragement has meant the world to me. Thank you all.

Dad: Although we have been separated by thousands of miles, I felt your presence in my heart. Your Sunday phone calls meant so much to me. Thank you for all the love and support. I love you.

Skip: I am glad to have you in my family. The cartoons you sent always made me laugh out loud. Thanks. I love you.

Dianthe and Mike: I know you two have great faith in me but, you have to stop bragging! All the people in Helena and Spokane don't care if your sister is going to be a Doctor! Seriously, I thank you both for your support and love. I love you both.

Tony and Joe: I am convinced I have the coolest Nephews ever born! I love you guys.

To my friends at PCOM: Jill, Melissa, Lisa, Dana, Pam, and everyone else thank you for all the memories and best of luck to all.

Laura: We did it! I mean that with all my heart. You were, and are, my biggest supporter and inspiration. When times were tough, it was you who would pull us through. You are truly a great wife and my best friend. I look forward to spending the rest of our lives together. I can't wait until January to have our dream come true. You will be an amazing mother.

Mom & Dad: Thank you for helping make my dream a reality. Without your love and support I would have never made it through these tough years. Whether it was being an Accountant or a Med student, you two always supported me. I love you Mom and Dad!

Wendy Heather: Mom & I were so excited with your arrival on January 12, 1999. It is awesome just looking at you. I love you with all of my heart.

To the Rest of My Family: Thanks for all your support and understanding over the last four years. Whether it was summer family vacations, hanging in the "Hill", going to DC or weddings, it was awesome spending time with each and everyone of you. Misty, you are a great puppy.

Thanks Mom, for being the best role model a son could have. You showed me that age doesn't matter when it comes to getting an education, and sacrifices must be made to achieve your dreams.

Thanks Grandma for showing me how to survive and make the most of any situation.

United we stand, divided we fall. Thanks to the FAMILY, especially the 509 CREW, for staying united throughout the past four and a half years. I'm looking forward to future Family reunions.

Thanks to all my friends and family in Pittsburgh

I would like to thank my son Quinton and baby sister Carol for giving me two more reasons to get up every day and work on my goals.

Thanks Amy for being a great mother to my son and being there for him when I could not.

I would like to thank my father for allowing me to believe that I could do anything I put my mind to, and showing me how to be a good father.

These four years have passed so quickly. I can't thank my friends and family enough for their support. To all my friends who are graduating - I wish you the best of luck in the future.

My life would not be complete without my family. You are the reason I succeed in life and I cherish our closeness.

Mom and Dad - You have inspired and supported me to succeed throughout my life. You have given me more than I could ever imagine. I truly appreciate your kindness and generosity. I love you both dearly.

Mark and Michele - Mark you are my brother and my best friend and Michele you are like a sister to me. Thank you for all that you have done - May we all grow old together and enjoy a happy and healthy existence.

Carol - you are my inspiration and closest friend. You have changed my life and without you I would not be complete. I find my love for you grows as each day passes. We have shared so many memories and the best are yet to come!

Thank you Carol, Mom and Dad, Mark and Michele.

Mom & Dad: You've always told me if I wanted something bad enough I would get it—well as much as I hate to admit it, you were right. Thanks for your timeless, unconditional love and support throughout my life, which has allowed me to achieve my lifelong dream of becoming a doctor. I love you both very much.

Rachel: As the years have passed we've become closer and closer. I can't thank you enough for all your love and encouragement. You are a very special person in my life and I have become your biggest fan. I love you, sis.

Mom, Dad, Holly & Jon: Thank you for making me feel a part of your family from day one. You are all very special to me and I could not have asked for a warmer, more loving family to make a part of my life. Much love.

Romy: You never doubted me—even when I began to doubt myself. This degree is as much yours as it is mine. The day you became my wife was the single greatest day in my life—and ever since, each and every new day together has become the single greatest day in my life. I am truly blessed to have found someone as wonderful as you—"you're just like heaven." I love you.

Mom & Dad - Thank you for all your support these past 4 years. More importantly, thank you for 26 years of encouragement and love that has helped me get where I am today. I love you!

Michelle - Every year that has gone by has brought us closer together. You have been there for me whenever I needed you. Thank you for being a great big sister and my best friend. I love you too!

Mitchell - Having 2 older sisters has strained you well. You are the best brother anyone could ever ask for and I love you very much.

Healthcare, in the final analysis, is not about results. Not that one can ignore the results or that one has no responsibility to try to cure when one can, but health care is primarily about relationships of knowledge, of trust, and of care. Health care is about being there with people in their finitude and doubt, in their pain and uncertainty, respecting each one and saying that one cares, and showing by one's deeds that one really does care in all the ways that one can. Such caring does mean acting in a way that promotes the best results possible. But the results, ultimately, are really Someone Else's business.

- Daniel P Sulmasy, O.F.M., M.D. The Healer's Calling

Steve and Ed - the best damn roomies ever & two of my dearest friends. Ed, thanks for always trying to annoy the hell out of me. Your talent and creativity regarding this is unprecedented! Steve, thanks for the lessons in good housekeeping. No, seriously, you're not anal! Great friendships that I will never forget and for which I will always be grateful.

Brian, Donnie, Jamie & Steve - thank you guys for all of the great times & memories. We don't have many opportunities to get together, but that hasn't diminished anything. Many more good times to come!

So many people to thank - Sean & Dean; the Helsels; everyone at Country Meadows; the Zihaver Family; the Beer Club; Philly FVMs (best year of my life) & everyone at St. Francis Inn esp Michael; friends/teachers at CSHS & BHS; Coach Jula, Mrs Jolley & Hill; Mr Leslie, Hobson & Welker; friends at SBU esp. Dan Riley, Chris, Marc, Ryan, Brig, Grip, Andrew & Jeff, also R/F/D Staff. Students for the Mt; Joe, Lou, Hurls & Mt. Irenaeus Community; The Men in Brown (esp Allen, Basil, Bob, Ed, Peter). Thank you all!

Thanks to those classmates, faculty, & preceptors who made an important impact while at PCOM - you know who you are. Thanks to the "Miami 4" and others like them. Thanks to patients like Mr. Mastrangelo, Mrs Beverly & others whose courage and trust humbled me.

Jen: You have uniquely touched my heart, becoming my dear friend and one of my heroes. Thank you for the warmth, love & concern. You are "wonderful."

Mom & Dad: You once thought of physicians as "suave & sophisticated" - then your son graduated from medical school. Sorry for shattering "reality" - the jeans, t-shirt & cap are here to stay. Your love has been unending and my appreciation is immeasurable. The meaning of all of this for me has little to do with the time and effort involved. Instead, it has everything to do with 28 years of unconditional love, support and guidance from you two. You both deserve so much more credit than what you are willing to take. I love you.

Mike: You have no idea how many things I did just because you did them. No matter how much you tortured me, my big bro always remained the man! In fact, had you not pursued medicine, I wouldn't currently be 180 grand in debt. My deepest "thanks"! Seriously, I love you dearly and can't wait for the days when life calms down & we have more time to laugh while reminiscing & being realistically honest about life. Thank you, brother!

Tina: The once 13-year-old dweeb is now your 28-year-old dweeb brother-in-law with a D.O. degree! Scary stuff! I am so grateful that Mike, Eric & Sam have you in their lives. Your heart is huge, and your love and support has been very important.

Eric & Samantha: I hope someday you realize how much I have appreciated your hugs and kisses. In so many ways you two are beautiful, and I love being your uncle.

Grandpa: You may not be a man of many words but your life speaks volumes.

To the rest of my family: Thanks for the thoughts, love and well-wishes. It's meant much.

If you are lucky enough to find a way of life you love, you have to find the courage to live it.

John Irving

As graduation approaches, it is hard to believe that time has gone by so quickly. I have learned more than a few valuable lessons during this endeavor. The most meaningful lesson, was the importance of friends and family. It is a difficult task to come home and tell your wife, "Hey honey, I'm leaving my job and I'm going to go to school for the next eight years". In my case, Linda didn't bat an eye, she gave me love, support, and a couple of stiff kicks when I needed them. Without that support this would have been a very, very, long road. I also owe a large debt of gratitude to my father in law, Ralph Sundstrom, the eternal engineer. Without Ralph's guidance and tutelage this trip would have ended in my first college physics class - thanks for being there. My brothers, Pete, Sean, Chris, and Robby, were my own private fan club. Their constant boasting was a big incentive to graduate. I hope I made my mother, father, and friends proud. My unavailability and constant focus on school must have been difficult. I will do my best to make a difference in all that I do.

To Mom and Dad: Thank you both for instilling in me the qualities that have, and will continue to guide me throughout life. You have loved and supported me through the good and the tough times, and for that I will always appreciate and love you. I could never thank you enough just for being Mom and Dad.

To My Family: Thank you all for your infinite love, support, and understanding. I love you all and will always remember your kindness.

To My Always and Forever: You have brought me new life, inspired everything good within me, and made me whole. I owe my degree to your endless love, support, patience, and friendship. Thank you for all you have given me, I will forever love and cherish you.

To Mom and Ta: Thank you for all your love, tireless support, and guidance. I've been blessed to have found you and can never thank you enough for the ultimate gift you have given me- Suri.

I offer praise first to Jesus Christ, for the life You have given me and the love You have shown me. Special thanks to my friends and family for your abundant love, prayers, and understanding.

To my loving husband, John: I wouldn't be who I am today without you by my side. You are my sunshine and my best friend, and I thank you for your patience, your laughter, and your support over the past four years.

To Mom and Dad: I was blessed to have been raised in such a loving and caring home, and I'm grateful for the endless number of opportunities you have provided for me. I love you both very much.

To Lynne and Kelley: Thank you for being my friends, and not just my sisters. I appreciate you more than you'll ever know.

To my Papa: Thank you for showing me the kind of person I want to be. I hope I've made you as proud of me as I have always been to be your granddaughter. I miss you, Freda Joe.

To the Wolfgangs: Thank you for welcoming me into your family and for trying to understand this career path I have chosen.

First. I would like to give thanks to God for allowing me the opportunity to achieve my goals. My faith in God has guided me through these four years with much success.

To Mommy - How can I thank you enough for all the countless times you were there for me when I needed you. Thanks for being my personal postal service for two years, you made my life so much simpler. I love you very much and truly appreciate all of the support through the years.

To Daddy - Thanks for being so supportive and patient as I moved from place to place over the past two years. Anytime I called and needed help you were always willing and able to assist me - thank you. Love Always!

To the "215" study crew - I would not have made it without you guys. I'll never forget all the fun times we shared together (those all-nighters, mountain dew & cappuccino runs, etc...) GOOD LUCK TO YOU ALL. Love Ya!!!!!(S.M. R.B., V.P, D.G.)

Tabatha Jeffers, D.O.

Tabatha Lee:

Is it "Rah", "Rah", "Rah" or "Cha", "Cha", "Cha" — Either way kid — YOU'VE DONE IT ALL!!! The accomplishments in your young life have fulfilled dreams that Dad and I would never have experienced in a lifetime. It goes without saying how proud the family is of you - and you better believe "Grandma" and "Pa" are smiling down on their "Tammy". We love you!! Mom and Dad

Jason Tronetti, D.O.

May your long years of preparation for a life of service to those who are sick and hurting be continually blessed, always honoring and glorifying God "Who began a good work in you and continues to complete it until Jesus comes"(Phil. 1:6) Love, Aunt Carolyn and family.

We are so proud of all you have accomplished! You are truly the man of Proverbs 17:27 "He who has knowledge spares his words, And a man of understanding is of a calm spirit." We love you, Dr. Tronetti! Love, Marilu, Mickey, Nathan and Jordan.

May God bless you as you dedicate your life to serving others. "For whatever a man sows, this he will also reap" Gal. 6:7. Love you! Your very proud cousin, Kristina.

"Whatever you do, do your work heartily, as for the Lord rather than for men; knowing that from the Lord you will receive the reward of the inheritance. It is the Lord Christ whom you serve." Col. 3:24. May you and those you seek to serve be truly blessed. All our love, Dennis, Cara, Jeremy & Brittany.

We are so proud of you "Dr. J" Go get 'em. The dream of the 12 year old boy has come to fruition, through lots of hard work, patience and prayer. Love you, Uncle Bob & Aunt Sandy.

Congratulations on all your dedication & hard work. We know that you will not only be a good doctor, but a kind & compassionate one as well. Love, Mike, Babette & Willie.

I knew because of the "special" day you were born on, you'd be very special. Congratulations, Jeff, Tracia & Tangie.

Congratulations on your pursuit of excellence. Thanks for always caring about me. A proud cousin, Chad.

Jay, be confident of this, He that began a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ. Phil. 1:6. Congratulations & Best Wishes (I can't wait 'til the elk hunt) Greg, Jessica, Ariel, Tim, Laura & Jeff.

Congratulations on fulfilling your life long dream. We are so proud of you. Continue to be fruitful in your work & increase in the knowledge of Him. Love, Ed, Deanna, Christi & Bryant.

Your perseverance, integrity and faith have brought you to this point in your life and will see you through all that lies ahead. Always remember that faith is rewarded and love fortifies. And of course, "patients" is a virtue! God Bless You Always. We love you, Tami, Angelo, Anthony & Nicholas.

With God all things are possible! As you strive to serve others never lose sight of the God who created you. "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels." Hebrews 13:2. A very proud MOM & DAD.

This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will be glad and rejoice in it. Ps. 118:24. It's your day, Jason, it's our day. Your dedication, hours of study and sacrifice of social life have brought you to this day. I'm so-o-o proud of you. Love, Gram.

Jason, Awesome! We sure are proud of all you have accomplished! We are excited for you. We love you, Uncle Fred & Aunt Linda.

Jason, Congratulations Buddy. All your time and efforts have paid off. (You can be my doctor any day). Love ya, Fred S. Harteis.

You are the man! We are so happy for you & all that you have accomplished. You are our favorite doctor! We love you, J.C. & Tonya.

We wish you all the success and happiness that you have worked so hard to achieve! Much love, Uncle Ken and Marsha.

Congratulations! All of your hard work throughout the years has paid off. We are proud and wish you a lifetime of success and happiness. May God continue to bless you. All our love, Uncle Lon, Aunt Barb, Jennifer and Amanda.

Congratulations, Jason. You can do all things through Christ who strengthens you. Best Wishes, Aunt Dede, Jeff, Carol, Josh, Nate, Pam, Jami & Ashley.

A Doctor in the family? YES! (Dr. Jason Tronetti) May God bless your hands as you reach out to serve Him by serving others. (Phil. 1:6; James 1:5) Love, Uncle Bud, Aunt Donna and family.

Gene says Hurry up - I need your services. Congratulations!! Uncle Gene & Aunt Jean.

Together, we can make a world of difference.

Botsford, known nationally as a leading teaching hospital, offers extensive continuing education programs in a wide range of specialties and subspecialties. Our affiliation with Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine allows our physicians additional access to the latest research in diagnostic and therapeutic technology.

While we continue in our commitment to progress by expanding our facilities and training our staff in the most current techniques and procedures, we recognize that health care is not limited to technology.

Our most fundamental activity is the provision of a personal, compassionate care that considers the entire person.

At Botsford, we believe that making a difference in the world starts in our community.

Dear Carolyn,

I am so proud of you! I hope you will be very happy in your chosen profession.

When you were a little girl you always said when you grew up you were going to be a doctor like you Grandpa Rogers. I thought you would get over this idea, as children do, but you never changed your mind. Your Grandpa would have been proud of you, too. I know he would have been very pleased to have another doctor in the family.

Lots of love, Grandma Rogers

I've always been so very proud of you, but never more so than now. Your determination and confidence have made your Goal of becoming a Doctor a reality. There'll be nobody like you ever again, so make the most of every precious moment. The Medical profession has just a "star". With great pride and joy I Congratulate you, I love you with all of my heart, you are my heart! Mom

I don't think anyone in this world has touched my life as much as you have. You have been such an important part of my life. You told me when you were a little girl that you wanted to be a doctor and you would take care of me. You have reached your goal. You told me five years ago that I would attend your Medical School Graduation - save me a front seat on June 6th! You're the greatest! I love you, Aunt Anne

Your were my first grandchild. From your early youth you had a goal in life and it was to become a doctor. That dream will soon become a reality. God bless you for many, many happy years. I am so proud of you. Love Always, Gram

Congratulations! Words cannot express how proud I am of you today. Thank you for being such a sweet niece. Your dreams and goals came true. Lots of love, Aunt Mary

"The man who succeeds is the one who early in life clearly discerns his object and towards that object habitually directs his powers."

"The force, the mass of character, mind, heart or soul that a man can put into any work, is the most important factor in that work."

I am so proud of you. I am impressed that you have always known what you wanted and have never let anything stop you from attaining your goal. You never wavered on what you wanted to be when you grew up and now you are there. The work you have done to reach this point is only the beginning and with what you have accomplished thus far, I know that what is to come will be even more amazing. You have all of the qualities that will make you a good doctor - the main one being caring about others.

There are no words that I can find that seem to do justice to this moment.

I am proud. I am impressed. Congratulations. Love, Mom

For waiting on Bus #3 with a surprise Grablick's ice-cream cone for your younger cousin, riding towards the sunny half-days in the alleys & yards of West Pittston. For singing every song on popular radio, the Top Gun-Madonna-80's gal who chilled on the shores of Long Beach Island during the best summers of our lives with our Big Sister who showed us how to be awesome, even told us the word awesome, and plenty of other things which have been captured on T-shirts, countless pictures resting quietly in Anne Babe's closet, and on vintage Beta videos that are quite dusty lately as well. For the Polo & Benetton fashion tips, and the punctual arrivals at Family celebrations. For going to Nova & cheering the team I used to dream of playing with. For taking chances others wouldn't, for defeating every odd and shattering the expectations. For excelling far beyond all of our dreams by your rules, and defining greatness for the rest to follow. For never resisting your helping hand while keeping your eye on what's important to you. For always giving me someone to look up to; the World is yours kid, much love from the gang still on Susquehanna Ave.

In the course of the lives of organizations in this country, it is rare for one to reach its 100th birthday. For an organization to reach the century mark and have made as many human contributions as PCOM is truly remarkable. As co-editors of Synapsis 1999 it has been a privilege to be part of this centennial celebration.

When I volunteered to work on Synapsis 1999, I had no idea what an unbelievably HUGE task would ensue. Luckily I had a fantastic co-editor to share the load.

Chris, I can't believe we actually pulled it off. Our vision has become reality. I couldn't have asked for a better partner. I will never understand how we worked so closely and never once disagreed. I wish you the best in all you do - I know that you will be a success. (If things ever gets crazy, always remember to blow out the candle).

To the Class of 1999, Chris and I have spent countless hours producing what we hope you feel is the best in PCOM's 100 year history. In the preceding pages we not only attempted to document the recent past (4yrs.) but have tried to reminisce on the highlights of the past century. I wish all of you the best in your careers and lives. I hope that each time you open this book you have fond memories of all that we shared along this journey.

-Dana

Well, what do you know - it's finally finished! We made a conscience effort to make this "everyone's" yearbook. I hope that is the impression you are left with.

Dana, working with you was great. (And, yes, I'd still be inclined to say this even if you weren't going to be proofreading my work). You kept it fun. You kept it sane. So thanks for allowing me to vent when necessary. Accomplishing this with you will certainly be one of my fondest memories. I wish you the best, knowing that you will be a fantastic pediatrician.

And to the Class of 1999...thanks for the memories. I hoped but never expected to have the number of good times that we all shared. Whether it was Jake & Oliver's, the PCOM Prom or where ever, we knew how to relieve our stress. And talk about stress, how 'bout that medical school experience? There were numerous times (like yesterday during COMLEX Part II) that I kept my sanity only because I realized that I wasn't the only one getting blown away on an exam. I made it through every finals week because I understood that 250 other people were feeling the same stress and anxiety, and if I needed to bitch there were many people who could identify. And regarding those feelings of inadequacy in the hospital, it was good to know that I wasn't the only one not to be all that "vital" to the process. The point is that when I walk across that stage on June 6th to pick up my diploma, I will be very conscience of the fact that I am a member of our class. We did it together. I'll always take great pride in that, and I leave here believing that this is what made PCOM so unique. Thanks to those who especially contributed to my experience at PCOM, and I wish everyone peace and fulfillment in their lives.

-Chris

Dana and Chris would like to thank the following for their contributions to Synapsis 1999.

In the Class of 1999: To Tabatha Jeffers for cropping all the photos in the senior section. To Jeanne Gimple for filing the senior page information as it trickled in and sharing her infamous Top Ten Lists. To Jeanne Price and Meg Griffith (Class of 2000) for the layouts in the student life section. To Carolyn Kollar for organizing and designing all of the ads in the encomiums section. To Jennifer Accozzo for helping in ad sales. To Todd Kazdan for his photography skills displayed in the faculty/administration section and his wit carefully dispersed throughout the timeline. To Maria Hoertz for typing the timeline entries and for her input into the MBA/MPH pages. To T.J. Gray (Class of 2001) for helping to organize photos of the clubs/organizations. To Leamon Davenport for his input in the timeline. To Susan Bryan, Maricar Pacquin, Reshma Desai, Doug Luxenberg, Sheri More and Rhonda Broady who helped design the color section. To Marissa Weiss who also helped with the color section and designed the collage on page 16. To Ed Tori and John Myers for providing their memorable artwork. Ric Colella, thanks for offering.

To Phil Klein and David Harned from Jostens for their technical support and helping put our ideas on the page. To Carl Wolff Studios for the senior photos and help in developing our film.

In the PCOM family- To Denise Curran and Hank Tomkiewicz from Student Affairs for all of their help. To Bruce Fairfield and to the late Audrey Erter-Nodler from Educational Media Services for being so generous in lending and sharing many of the wonderful photos included in the previous pages. To the Communications and Design staff especially Cindy Pinnie, Shannon Deegan, Sue Neborak and Lisa Smith. To Carol Benenson, Archivist and author of To Secure Merit for allowing us to include excerpts from her book in the Centennial Section. Without the help of all these people Synapsis 1999 would not be the masterpiece we feel it is.

IN MEMORIAM

Nothing Gold Can Stay

Nature's first green is gold, her hardest hue to hold.

Her early leaf's a flower;

but only for an hour:

Then the leaf subsides to leaf,

so Eden sank to grief

So dawn goes down to day,

nothing gold can stay

Merit Secured

When co-founders O. J. Snyder, D.O., and Mason W. Pressly, D.O., launched the Philadelphia College and Infirmary of Osteopathy in 1899, they purchased the rudimentary necessities: anatomical specimens, chemical and physiological equipment, and one dozen compound microscopes. They donated their time and their passion for teaching, and imparted their convictions in the osteopathic concept. Over time, the tools of the osteopathic profession changed as advances were made in medicine and as D.O.s loosened their strict adherence to Andrew Taylor Still's principles to embrace the new medical developments. Teaching methods changed, too- perhaps the most radical innovation being the computer, which opened new avenues to medical education in the mid- 1980s and '90s.

Throughout PCOM's century of evolution, its timehonored tradition of teaching excellence has prevailed. On a whole- or part-time basis, seven decades of alumni have helped train the students of the late 1990s, who now will lead PCOM into its second century. Many of the alumni, faculty and administrators who have given years of service to PCOM are mentioned in this history; even more are to be remembered by their deeds.

Nearly 100 years ago, Pressly wrote, "To secure merit is our aim." The challenge meant introducing a new school of thought into a city steeped in traditional medicine; financing buildings and programs; weathering internal and external struggles; and most importantly, training physicians who are recognized for their skills in any setting. With mens et manus PCOM has met all these challenges- for the College, for the osteopathic profession and ultimately, for humanity.
