

5-1-2007

To Be Forgotten

Gregory C. McClure

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.collin.edu/forces>

Recommended Citation

McClure, Gregory C. (2007) "To Be Forgotten," Forces: Vol. 2007 , Article 56.
Available at: <https://digitalcommons.collin.edu/forces/vol2007/iss1/56>

This Essay is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@Collin. It has been accepted for inclusion in Forces by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@Collin. For more information, please contact mtomlin@collin.edu.

K2 Walk PAUL BELLAH

To Be Forgotten

GREGORY C. MCCLURE

Please, do not forget me;

There is no greater tragedy.

Nothing could end more horribly.

Please, do not forget me.

Please, do remember me;

Nothing to me is more dear than this.

No more intimate, higher wish.

Please, do remember me.