N.J. students protest in Trenton

By George Olschewski
Staff Writer

More than 300 students from New Jersey state colleges attended a rally in Trenton on Friday, Nov. 9, to protest rising tuition in all state colleges, to prevent future cuts of higher education funding and to encourage passage of the Student Rights Act, which is still pending in the New Jersey Legislature.

The bill would give more power to student governments and provide opportunities for students to take a more active role in the legislative decision-making process. It will also allow students to form a statewide student association to lobby for student concerns.

Demonstrators rallied at the State House and then to the front steps of the Department of Education, before it moved back to the State House.

Signs and banners filled the street in front of the State House with statements such as, "Hey, Florio - Freeze tuition while you're still in office!" and "I'll pay more for toilet paper, but not tuition!"

The students had an official statement from Governor Jim Florio on the steps of the State House. According to a news release, Governor Florio will work closely with parent, student, education and legislative leaders to minimize tuition increases and ensure the highest priority to affordable programs.

Florio also told the students he supports student representation on the State Board of Higher Education as well as increased participation in the governing of state colleges and universities.

He plans to work closely with Assembly Speaker Joe Doria and Senate Majority Leader Dan Dalton for the consideration of the Student Rights Act currently pending in the Legislature.

Marcoantonio Lacatena, president of the Council of New Jersey State College Locals for the faculty unions, assured college students statewide that the faculty is behind them 100%. He also said that the state's financial burdens should not be put onto the shoulders of students.

Lacatena cited a case where tuition funds have been misused. "At Trenton State College, where some of the worst abuses have occurred, tuition doubled between fiscal years 1984-85 and 1990-91. The college has plans to sell hundreds of millions of dollars worth of construction bonds, to be repaid from further tuition increases. Funds generated by past tuition increases were spent to provide free housing for administrators. An academic scholarship program was implemented which increased middle-income student's tuition to pay for other, sometimes more affluent, students.

"Such a warped policy is an affront to every student who must work, and both of whose parents must also work, to pay that tuition. Tuition increases must be kept in reasonable bounds- not inflated to pay for grandiose building schemes and administrator's free housing," Lacatena said.

Douglass College Government Association representative Wendy-Ann Vodak added to Lacatena's comments. "Find out how your college is using your money. Find out the power structure between you and the administration. That knowledge is a source of power," Vodak said.

Darren Fedder of the William Paterson College SGA made reference to state budget cuts for higher education. "Because of these cuts, we had to cut enrollment - we just can't afford to take in new students!"

"There are $2.6 billion in unpaid state loans - get the people who took out the loans to pay them back - not us!" said Joe Sevillo of Essex County Community College.

$72,000 settlement against FSCA

By Sean McAnally
Correspondent

Gertrude Silberman, former chief accountant and finance director of the Faculty Student Cooperative Association (FSCA), reached a $72,000 settlement with the FSCA for her charges of age discrimination. The settlement was reached on the first day of her trial, Oct. 15, in federal court, said Silberman's attorney, Paul Schachter, of Reinhardt & Schachter in Newark.

This was the third accusation of discrimination against Jeffrey Shapiro, former president of the FSCA, by an FSCA employee.

Silberman, age 69, of Teaneck said that Shapiro discriminated against her because of her age and tried to fire her from the job she held for 13 years. Silberman's suit was filed in hopes of covering medical and health care insurance that she lost as a result of her termination.

On Nov. 26, 1986, Silberman received a performance evaluation in which she said there was inaccurate information. In response to the poor evaluation, Silberman attempted to rectify matters by meeting with Shapiro. She then filed a complaint with Anita Walters of MSC's Affirmative Action office in December of 1986, Silberman said.

Walters' office handled complaints of sex discrimination against Shapiro by two other FSCA employees. Joyce Hazacorizan and Elizabeth Lytel filed complaints against Shapiro, but Walters' investigation cleared him, said the FSCA's attorney, Robert Fagella of Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella and Nowak of Newark.

Shapiro suspended Silberman for two days for removing the letter from Miozzi's desk. Upon returning to work she was suspended for an additional two days, said Silberman. Immediately

MSC College Bowl to be held on Dec. 1

By Sandra Spillman
Correspondent

An exhibition for MSC's first College Bowl was held last Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in the Student Center Commuter Cafeteria and was sponsored by Student Activities and Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE) Fraternity.

The College Bowl will be held on Saturday, Dec. 1, in the Student Center Ballrooms. The exhibition, which was between Alpha Iota Chi (AIX) Sorority and TKE, was meant to bring the actual College Bowl to the campus' attention.

"I think it's great that we can demonstrate our knowledge in such a fun way," said Stacey Leibowitz, a junior and member of AIX's College Bowl team. AIX beat TKE at the exhibition with a score of 60 to 50.

The College Bowl will consist of at least 16 teams of four players and an alternate each. Throughout the game, teams will be asked to answer both academic and trivial questions and will be awarded points for correct answers. When a team wins a match, it will go on to compete against other teams which has not yet been eliminated by a loss. The last two teams will play in the final match of the College Bowl tournament.

The winning team will receive $100 and the runner-up will receive $50. The four best participants, not necessarily from the same team, will then be chosen to represent MSC.

"Hopefully we'll be able to compete against other colleges," said Charles Feiner, director of Student Activities. Feiner thought of bringing the College Bowl to MSC after his success with it at Ramapo College.

"I posed the idea to TKE, and they're running it," Feiner said.

Feiner and Student Affairs will be advising TKE, donating the awards for the 1st and 2nd place winners and $15 to the first 16 teams who signed-up for the tournament. TKE organized the sign-ups and will be organizing the tournament.

"We want it to be an entire campus event," Dan Forte, a member of TKE Fraternity said. "We're hoping to get a lot of support from the faculty and administration too."

The teams, which are made of fraternities, sororities, organizations and clubs have already been assigned. However, all are invited to participate as judges, moderators and supporters for the tournament.

USSR and MSC agree on educational exchange

By Chris Rohloff
Staff Writer

The first agreement establishing an educational collaboration between U.S. and USSR educators and philosophers was signed by MSC on October 23.

The agreement is between MSC's Institute for the Advancement of Philosophy for Children (IAPC), a program that trains educators to teach children logic and critical thinking skills, and the Academy of Pedagogical Sciences (APS), an educational research organization in the Soviet Union.

"This agreement is a busy way of interchanging key academic people from different nations," said Dr. Matthew Lipman founder and director of the IAPC.

Lipman, along with APS Vice President V.V. Davydov, signed the agreement. The points include:

- Conducting a Soviet/American seminar on developing children's thinking skills
- Application of the Philosophy of Children curriculum at Moscow's Experimental School #91
- A program for training Soviet educators via MSC's IAPC.

"The exchange of educators is the beginning of transferring other educational processes as well as educational programs," said U.S. Department of Education Official Dr. Lee E. Wickline who characterized the agreement as "groundbreaking."

Wickline advised Lipman to visit the APS and demonstrate his program after APS Deputy Director Nikolai Nikandrov asked him to send directors of U.S. programs which focused on the development of critical thinking skills.

The Soviet's positive response to the demonstration helped move the agreement along more quickly, said Lipman who established the Philosophy for Children program at MSC in 1974 with co-director Ann Margaret Sharp.

"The purpose of the program has always been to explore ethical questions such as what is fairness and what makes for a good society. In a way that is conducive to strengthening reasoning skills in grades K-12," said Sharp.

Today the program exists in 5,000 U.S. schools and 5,000 schools overseas (other than the USSR).

Lipman said that different languages and local examples for illustrative purposes are used in the various countries but the basic curriculum used is the same.

"The Philosophy for Children curriculum is an education in thinking and presents universal ideas," said Lipman.

Dr. Irvin Reid, president of MSC, considers the agreement a "natural marriage and collaboration between the two nations," and would eventually like to see the program include the exchange of not only educators but graduate and undergraduate students as well.

"In many ways, this agreement is an exchange of students," said Mariso Pallino, an MSC senior member of the International Student Organization, "because educators will be able to share not only a new program with students, but new cultural experiences as well."

The first exchange of this IAPC/APS agreement will be held January 6-23 in New Jersey. Lipman, Sharp and two other IAPC educators will then travel to Moscow in April to complete the second phase of the exchange. An annual exchange is expected to continue.

FEW HAVE THE POWER

Work remains unfinished on Freeman Cafeteria

By Mark Hendricks
Correspondent

Freeman Hall Cafeteria opened on Nov. 5 with ceiling tiles and lighting fixtures still being worked on and without new tables, chairs and beverage and condiment stations.

"It was an insult to eat there," said Christine McNamara, a resident of Freeman Hall.

"There were only tables set up on half of the room and there weren't that many available," she added.

Donna Pericone, head of Freeman Campus Housing Entertainment Educational Recreation Society (CHEERS), said that the construction is still progressing very slowly.

"Sometimes there are ceiling tiles above you, sometimes there aren't. The lighting was terrible on Nov. 5," Pericone said. "The lights were scattered and they were still painting the walls. We ate in the dark."

"One of the major differences between the way the cafeteria was and the way it is now is that side dishes, vegetables and entrees used to be served by a staff and were continuously replaced. Now it's self-service, which I think was to cut down on cafeteria workers. If something runs out, now you have to yell for more," said Pericone.

In addition to these inconveniences, Pericone said that some of the wallpaper had been hung improperly and was currently being repaired. She also said that there was sometimes a limited selection of beverages at the cafeteria.

Brunswick agreed. "CUNY won their fight because they had spirit - let's keep it up!" Canzo was referring to the tuition protests at the campuses of City University of New York a few years ago.

"We're not just doing this for ourselves, but for the next generation, and the generation after that," said Rob Lewandowski, a sophomore at Glassboro State College.

"We didn't get a tuition freeze or increased funding, but we did get support for what we are doing," Stacy Berger from Rutgers Livingston said at the close of the day's protests. "This is just the beginning!"

The New Jersey Student Rights Coalition (NJSRC) in conjunction with the individual state colleges is planning to return to Trenton in the Spring 1991 semester for another rally. The NJSRC urges students statewide to attend, and emphasizes the fact that there is strength in numbers.

"Tuition has been going up for the past ten years... no more!" said James Cotter, an MSC student and member of Students Toward A New Direction (STAND). "Read our lips- no more cuts in education, and no more hikes in tuition!"

following that, Silberman was fired. Once she had been fired, the FSCA cancelled her health care. She requested that she be allowed to continue paying for that insurance policy. The ability for an employee to continue insurance payments for 18 to 24 months following dismissal is covered under the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, or COBRA law.

The FSCA refused to reinstate her insurance claiming that she was covered under Medicare, said Silberman. However, Silberman contends that since Medicare is contingent on carrying another insurance policy she should be entitled to continue her other policy.

After three and a half years of pursuing the case, Silberman was advised by her attorney to take the settlement of $72,000 because it could have been an additional three years before she saw a judgment.

Unless you have money to burn and time to kill," Silberman quoted her lawyer, "it's not worth it."

"At my age, I had to consider whether I could afford to wait years before seeing the fruits of my lawsuit," Silberman said.

Shapiro left the FSCA six months after Silberman's dismissal.

Both Doug Blackburn, the FSCA's current president and Walters of the Affirmative Action office declined to comment.

Silberman filed a request, on both February 3 and February 9, 1987, with the college and FSCA for a formal hearing. She received no response to her requests.

Then on February 24, 1987 Silberman filed charges with the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights and the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, said Schachter.

Silberman contends that her dismissal on May 15, 1987, was also brought about by her accusations of improper procedures regarding the safeguarding of FSCA funds and college funds of which the FSCA is custodian. Silberman's ability to point out employer wrong doing is protected by the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, or "whistleblower's" statute, said Schachter.

In April of 1987, Silberman, while reviewing the work of her subordinate, Linda Miozzi, found a letter from Shapiro to Prudential Bache that changed the FSCA's investment policy to a higher risk policy. "I have doubled the risk to my own corporation in order to try and generate the potential of a significant portfolio account. I am willing to place at risk both the investment of FSCA funds and if necessary, the college funds," wrote Shapiro, April 7, 1987.

Shapiro should have been responsible for obtaining written permission from the college board and the FSCA board before making a change in investment policy, said Silberman. Silberman's complaint, however, was that she would have been responsible for setting up a reserve fund for the investments, but hadn't been notified of the policy change.

Arab Club appeals appropriation denial

By Richard E. Buckley Jr. and Norman Kurdy

The Arab Club made an appeal to the SGA for $170 which they were denied last week for a lecture. Several legislators felt they were misled about the content of the lecture after reviewing fliers that were passed out promoting the lecture.

The Arab Club suggested that the lecture would be about the Middle East crisis and how it affected Kuwait and Iraq. However, the fliers stated: "Palestinian Rights in Light of The Gulf Crisis."

The bill passed and was then denied after legislators saw the fliers. See SGA News of November 7 p.10.

The Spanish Club was granted $350 from the Mass Transit Authority (MTA) account for a trip to New York. This is the second trip to New York City within two weeks being funded by the MTA account.

Supporters of Child Care was granted a class III charter. The group was created to find affordable means of child care for students.

Starting next semester the minutes to the previous week's meeting will be available to the public on Mondays. Currently the minutes are not available until Wednesday afternoon and legislators feel they do not have enough time to prepare for the meetings the same day.

Phi Sigma Pi was granted a constitution change which will permit them to fine members who repeatedly miss meetings.

The Montclarion was appropriated $800 for their magazine section and the position of production editor was created.

Dozens of groups at MSC Health Fair

By Audrey Regan
Staff Writer

The Fall '90 Health Fair, sponsored by the Health Professions Department, brought a host of services to MSC last Thursday ranging from cholesterol readings and fitness assessments to career counseling and health related awareness programs.

Dozens of both on and off campus organizations set up tables in the Student Center Ballrooms while three mobile units - Mammography Testing, the Eye/Ear Mobile and the PSE&G Energy Conservation Van - offered reduced rate testing and educational awareness information to interested MSC students and faculty.

"This is the sixteenth year we've been doing this," said Dr. John Redd, coordinator of the Health Fair and head of the Health Professions Department.

"We thought attendance was good. There were a couple of thousand people who came during the day," said Redd.

"I think on a campus as big as Montclair, we could have had more students and faculty come out, but for the people that came, it was really worthwhile," said Mary Jane Linnehan, president of the Health Professions Association, who worked with Jeff Caswell, the chairperson, in coordinating the Health Fair.

Dr. Richard Tobin of the Spiedes Human Performance Lab in Panzer Gym and his student staff conducted fitness assessments. The assessment, a 25-minute procedure, tested blood pressure, heart rate, body fat composition, flexibility, and cardiovascular strength.

"We're working to determine fitness levels in healthy individuals, not sick individuals," Tobin said. "We're on the verge of a campus-wide testing program for faculty, students and the public," and the program could possibly run in the spring, Tobin said.

Students at the health fair could also have had a $12 cholesterol test, a $5 cholesterol reading, a free Shiatsu massage from the Well Being Center of Montclair or they could take advantage of the many pamphlets and booklets from organizations like Planned Parenthood, Traffic Safety Now, Red Cross, Montclair YMCA, Omnitrition International and the New Jersey Chiropractic Association.

Several on-campus organizations set up tables at the health fair. The Conservation Club displayed harmful household environmental products and Career Services offered information on health-related professions. Other on-campus organizations, such as the Drop-In Center and the Therapeutic Recreation Center, provided information on their services.

In the Student Center Mall, students and faculty could visit the Eye/Ear Mobile or the PSE&G Energy Conservation Show. For $65 female students could have a 15 minute mammography exam which was half of what it would cost at a hospital, said Ed Helmbold of the Marlton-based unit.

"We had 17 students tested today. That's a lot for a college, especially when these students fall below the critical age group," Helmbold said.

Student Rights Bill pursued by NJSRC

By Jaime Reinoso
Writer for The Vector

This summer the "New Jersey Student Rights Coalition" was formed. This coalition, representing about 12 schools of higher education in New Jersey, was formed with the purpose of sponsoring the "Student Rights Bill".

This is a bill that will give the students in the state the basis for better representation. It consists of three basic points:

First, it will give the elected student leaders control of the student government fees. This statement will not affect our undergraduate student government. The student senate already has control of its fees, and a checks-and-balances system with the administration. Therefore, this point will just create a "buffer" for the student government, if in the future there are any discrepancies with the administration.

Second, it will establish students' right to found, fund and direct independent student organizations. This point will allow the Student Senate to bring a non-profit organization onto campus and to support it independently. It must be understood that before any association of this type is accepted, there must be a student referendum which 1/4 of the student body must sign. After this procedure is done, then this new amendment must be brought up to a general student election. This organization will be supported on a separate "waivable" student fee, much like the fee on our income tax form concerning the presidential election fund to which the tax payer may choose to give a dollar or not.

Finally, the most important point provides for a New Jersey State Students' Association. This group will bring together all the schools in the state. So far the 2 institutions in the NJSRC will be the founders of this organization. The main goal of the group is to be able one day to represent all the students in the state. This association's purpose will be to defend the students' rights. It will tackle all issues: tuition increases, financial aid cuts, student representation, and others.

Rash of Toyota thefts on campus

By William C. Hendrixson
Staff Writer

Stolen Cars:

-Nov. 11 between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. a 1984 Oldsmobile Cutlass was stolen from lot 13. The car was recovered intact the next day by the 40th precinct in the Bronx.

-Nov. 12 between 11:45 a.m. and 2 p.m. a 1985 Toyota Corolla was stolen from lot 28.

-Nov. 12 between 9:40 a.m. and 2 p.m. another 1985 Toyota Corolla was also stolen from lot 28.

-Nov. 12 between 7:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. a 1988 Toyota Celica was stolen from lot 26.

Break-ins/Vandalism:

-Between 11:20 p.m. on Nov. 1 and 6 a.m. on Nov. 2, a 1988 Ford Escort in the nurses parking area near Blanton Hall had its door and quarter panel kicked in.

-Between 9 p.m. on Nov. 5 and 11:30 a.m. on Nov. 6, a 1986 Pontiac was broken into and the radio was stolen.

-Nov. 11 at 11:48 p.m. a 1986 Corvette parked in lot 21 was vandalized by 7 to 8 males. They smashed a window and attempted to steal the car, but a witness called Campus Police and scared them away before they could start the car. They fled on foot and Campus Police called the Little Falls and Clifton Police Departments for assistance. The vandals were not apprehended.

Thefts:

-Between 10 p.m. on Nov. 9 and 4 p.m. on Nov. 10, two Webster Hall rooms were burglarized. Jewelry and clothing were stolen.

-Between 10:30 p.m. on Nov. 9 and 9 a.m. on Nov. 10 a VCR was stolen from a locked closet in Partridge Hall.

-Between 3 p.m. on Nov. 10 and 8:30 p.m. on Nov. 12, a candy machine in Partridge Hall was broken into. No assessment has yet been made on how much was stolen.

Bomb Threats:

-Nov. 9 at 3:30 a.m. a bomb threat was received by the Blanton Hall desk from a male. The building was cleared and a routine search was performed, but nothing was found.

Miscellaneous:

-Nov. 1 at 5:30 p.m. Campus Police investigating a report of a female being assaulted in a car found a female student and a male non-student arguing. The female claimed it was a simple misunderstanding and that they were friends.

-Nov. 2 at 4 a.m. a female Blanton resident reported someone had entered her room and touched her head and back as she slept. The person fled and she was unable to identify the person as a male or female.

-Nov. 1 between 10-10:30 p.m. a female Bohn Hall resident left her wallet near the mailbox and returned later to find it was missing.

-Nov. 7 at 3 p.m. a female student left her purse in the library, and it was not found.

-Nov. 8 at 8 p.m. and again on Nov. 13 at 8 p.m., a faculty member and a student were arguing in Richardson Hall. When Campus Police arrived it was decided both times the matter should be handled internally.

Lack of maintenance on campus housing

By David Orr
Correspondent

Maintenance workers have repaired the plumbing at Clove Road but some problems still exist, said Shelly Jackson, director of Clove Road.

Four maintenance positions, one of which is at Clove Road, cannot be filled due to lack of funding, said Doug Cooper, assistant director of residence life in charge of maintenance and housekeeping.

Problems at Clove Road still include unpainted rooms, broken air-conditioners and sinks and toilets which do not work, said Jackson.

Part of the problem is that the maintenance crew is supposed to have 15 members. There have not been 15 maintenance workers since 1988.

During the summer there was a crew assigned to do the work over a six week period but the college froze funds and the workers fell behind schedule, Cooper said.

Under the present 1991 budget, which is pending approval, there is no money to hire more maintenance workers. Webster and Stone Halls would remain without maintenance workers, said Cooper.

Originally, he said, Clove Road asked for $385,000 for the fiscal year; 95% of that was approved, and then cut in half due to problems with the budget.

Students Rights Bill supported by SGA

By George Olschewski
Staff Writer

November 7, 1990

The SGA passed a resolution supporting the Student Rights Bill. This bill, introduced in the New Jersey State Senate on July 1 will give more rights and powers to student government associations statewide. (See the NJ state college protest article on p. 1).

The Arab Club, a Class II organization, went up for an appropriation of $170 to help fund a lecture on Nov. 13. The lecture was to focus on the Gulf Crisis.

Originally, the bill passed through the legislature without incident, but when a flyer documenting what was to be covered in the lecture was distributed, the bill was brought back onto the floor for reconsideration and another vote. "The Arab Club representative was withholding information," said legislator David Goldberg.

The flyer read as follows:

ISRAEL COMMITS ANOTHER MASSACRE

30 Palestinians killed
Hundreds of Palestinians injured
Bloodiest day in Jerusalem in years
World strongly condemns ISRAEL
Embargo against IRAQ continues

Palestinian Rights in Light of The Gulf Crisis!

The legislature felt that while the flyer made reference to the Gulf Crisis (the United States military presence in Saudi Arabia and the Kuwait-Saddam Hussein conflict), it had four other points that were not touched upon by the representative.

"The representative said the lecture was to deal with the Persian Gulf situation. Out of five points on this flyer, only one makes any reference to the Persian Gulf," said legislator Robert Tranter.

Legislator Angel Mossucco did not think there was any misrepresentation in the flyer. "If there is a conflict, then the speaker can be questioned. An open forum like this is a very good way to discuss issues and educate the campus."

"The representative gave information that was false," Goldberg said. "He misled us, and he may attempt to mislead others." Other legislators agreed, citing lying by withholding information.

Others present at the meeting commented that although his views may not be the same as the legislature's, the lecturer should still be permitted to speak. This was countered by legislator James Cotter, who said, "If the Ku Klux Klan wanted to come and speak on campus, they can, but how would the SGA look if we appropriated them money to fund the speaker? It would appear that we, as representatives of the student body, were supporting them."

"I'm pretty confident that he knew what our interpretation of 'Gulf Crisis' was, and he used that to mislead us," said legislator and MSC Board of Trustees member Paul Prior.

After a motion to end debate, the bill was voted on and failed.

Dr. Richard Lynde of the Division of Academic Affairs of MSC addressed the legislature. Dr. Lynde clarified many of the duties and influences of the Division of Academic Affairs, including the hiring and retention of faculty and personnel, long-term planning for the college as a whole, Co-operative Education, the library and media center, and EOF funding.

A videotape of the Homecoming Parade was shown to the legislators. Any of the participating organizations or interested students wishing a copy can see the secretary in the Dumont Television Center in Life Hall for details.

The Human Relations Organization (HRO), a Class I organization, came up for an appropriation from the Montclair Transportation Authority (MTA) for "The Weekend," a series of workshops which will take place on Nov. 30 through Dec. 3. The MTA fund is granted by the state to MSC specifically for the purpose of an educational, recreational, or social trip.

The bill originally failed when it came to a vote. Some legislators felt that the reasons for the trip were not clear, but later in the meeting the bill was reconsidered and passed.

The Marketing Club was appropriated $387 to attend a conference in Charlottesville, Virginia. The American Marketing Association will be holding workshops which will be open to all students, not just marketing students. For more information, contact the Marketing Club through the SGA office.

Latin Month 1990: Flying in a "Latin Dream"

By Valerie Kalfrin
Outlook Editor

Once upon a time in Washington, D.C., Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. said he had a dream. This month Rita Benavides is saying the same thing.

Benavides, 21, is a member of the Latin American Student Organization (LASO) and the coordinator of Latin Month. This year, the theme is "The Latin Dream," a theme reflected in the lectures, films, and other activities that LASO is sponsoring throughout November.

"I had many themes in mind," said Benavides, a junior business finance major, "but I chose this one because my whole family is achieving the dream they had when they came to this country (from Ecuador)."

Benavides said that she has also noticed this attitude on campus through Latin American students trying to achieve educational goals.

"Hispanics are in this country because they are looking for better futures that they can't get in their own country because of their social or political situations," she said. "This country opens the door. It offers opportunities."

Speakers such as Luis Quintana and MSC professors Carmen Arderio and Joan Engelbert have offered insight into these opportunities, she said, as well as the Hispanic culture.

Last Thursday, for example, Ramapo political science professor John Frandt, Nicaraguan Solidarity Network members Jane Guskin and Dennis Perin from WBAI in New York City, and Guatemalan Miguel Garcia, who spoke through a translator, talked about the socio-political situation in Central America.

"The turnout was excellent," said LASO president Ramona Guzman. "They told us how badly Central America is covered in the news. It's (political killings) covered very vaguely."

"We got first-hand information," added LASO vice-president Sandra Garcia.

Two former LASO presidents, Tomase Jimenez and Miguel Melendez, also gave "first-hand information" about other experiences at the Latin Month alumni dinner last Sunday.

"Tomase graduated here in 1985," Garcia said. "She was married and pregnant the year she was president of LASO." Jimenez went on to graduate from Columbia University, and is currently a lawyer for juvenile rights in Union City.

"She talked about how people tried to discourage her. She said that all her life she'd been told that she would never make it in college, so she was a secretary for two years before she ever came to MSC," said Latin Month committee member Nancy Garcia.

She added that Melendez offered a similar message. "He said that once you're out there, there's nothing like LASO there. Hispanics should be there for others, basically," she said.

So far, Benavides has noticed a good response toward the Latin Month activities from both the faculty and the student body. The political science department and the Spanish/Italian department, she said, have been especially supportive, as well as LASO's 100 members.

Benavides added that MSC has about 1,000 Hispanic students, but others have been interested in the activities as well. "It's making me very happy," she said, "because I see that they want to learn about our culture."

In the remainder of Latin Month, events such as a dance, a Spanish food display, and a talent show will be held, as well as the "Latin Dream Concert" on November 30, featuring Latin jazz ensemble Grupo Causucnan and Casa Latinoamericana.

However, Benavides adds that the "dream" will not end at the end of November.

"The Latin Dream is going to keep on for the rest of our lives as Hispanics," she said, "even if we sometimes face obstacles such as prejudice or language barriers, like some of our members. I know they are working to improve that."

And working to keep the "dream" alive. "We're going to strive and achieve what we want," she said.

All Around the Campus — Students Speak

How Do You Feel About Another Tuition Increase?

I am a foreign student (India). Getting money transferred from home means losing lots already, and I am not allowed to work off campus. Another increase would affect us, the foreign students, even more severely than it is affecting other students. Impeach Florio!

Krishna Aikat
Junior/Marketing

If the next tuition hike is above ten percent, I can no longer attend school. I think they should audit government agencies before they bleed more money from me.

James Kuba
Senior/Anthropology & Philosophy

I feel they have not justified enough reasons to increase tuition again. It's hard enough to pay the tuition as it is, and another increase would discourage people seeking higher education.

Gina Nitti
Senior/Psychology

I am definitely against it. It's hard enough as it is to get financial aid. I'm working two jobs already and don't know how I could afford another increase. With another raise it would be impossible for some of us to afford an education which we are entitled to.

Vietnam Revisited: An MSC professor remembers

MSC marketing professor Paul Scipione stands in front of a Vietnamese burial plot near the perimeter at Phu Bai, 1969. He is holding an aiming stake for an 81-mm mortar, and was 23 years old when this was taken by another soldier.

Editor's note: On Veterans' Day 1988, the Montclarion printed a letter to the editor from Dr. Paul A. Scipione, a marketing professor at MSC and a Vietnam veteran.

This week, he resubmitted the letter. "In view of the Middle East crisis, I thought you might find it appropriate to run it again," he said. Scipione and Dr. Robert Stephens of the music department are the only two Vietnam vets on the MSC faculty.

I remember. How could I ever forget?

A small country half a world away. A war that fewer and fewer Americans supported as it dragged on for eight and a half years.

It seemed right at the beginning; most Americans approved when the first battalions of GIs landed at Saigon and DaNang. But then came Tet 68 and hand-to-hand fighting at Hue and nearly every other place in 'Nam. We fought hard and destroyed the VC and beat the NVA back, but the statistics seemed to be going the other way — 100 Americans killed in action; then 300; then 3,000; then 30,000.

I remember...1968. So many things happened so fast. Linda and I graduated from college and got married six days later. We paid for our own wedding and we were broke, but who cared? We had each other and we both had teaching contracts for the fall.

That's when the Vietnam War got personal for me. I wanted to teach, but I knew that the draft would get me soon if I didn't take action. I drove to Rochester and took the test for Navy OCS. By late Summer '68 I was third on the waiting list for OCS at Newport, but the Draft Board in Lockport, NY needed warm bodies and wasn't about to wait. I found myself in Army Basic at Fort Dix, marching, crawling and stabbing at old tires with a bayonet, screaming, "Kill, kill, kill!"

The Army sent me to Ft. Gordon for Airborne Infantry AIT, then onto Ft. Benning where they paid an extra $55 a month if you'd jump out of a C-119 five times. A couple of drill sergeants thought I was officer material, and a few weeks later I was in the 92nd Company of Infantry OCS at Benning, learning how to lead 18-year-olds against NVA regulars. It was a responsibility I didn't feel comfortable with.

When a desk job running the Peer Evaluation Ratings program came up, I quit OCS and rented a trailer. Linda and I were together again in Columbus, GA for about a month. It was 1969; nearly 40,000 Americans had died in 'Nam. By then the Pentagon needed more warm bodies, especially guys like me, an infantry sergeant with an MOS of 11-Charlie — mortars. They allowed us only three weeks to move back to New York to find Linda a new home and a job. We listened to Peter, Paul and Mary sing "Leavin' On A Jet Plane," and wouldn't let go of each other. It didn't seem right to have to think about death at 23.

I was ordered back to Ft. Dix. Several hundred other Nam-bound GIs and I were put in old wooden barracks and wore fatigues. We sat on the steps of the barracks, listened to news about Woodstock and felt like condemned men. In the middle of a hot night, they packed us into "cattle cars" and drove us over to McGuire Air Force Base to a chartered DC-8 for a 22-hour flight to 'Nam.

I remember...landing at Bien Hoa. The heat and the smell were overpowering. A computer somewhere assigned me to the 101st Airborne Division. They sewed Screaming Eagles onto my fatigues. I was only days from the bush and whatever that would bring. I prayed for a miracle and for once in my life it actually happened. A senior NCO took me aside and offered me an administrative job in base camp; I grabbed at the chance.

I remember...when my company was at Bien Hoa, 20 miles north of Saigon. It was sunny and warm and the only bad part was getting rocketed or mortared by the NVA every other night. Then they moved us 400 miles north to Phu Bai, just six miles south of Hue and only twenty minutes by chopper from Hamburger Hill, Khe Sanh and the DMZ. One week it rained more than 50 inches; mildew formed in minutes. We shivered day and night, both of which looked the same. There were enemy probes at night and then came Tet. All that we thought about was survival and getting back to the world, neither of which seemed likely.

I remember...waking up in a ward at the 85th Evac Hospital at Phu Bai, staring at a dozen other scared patients. It didn't hurt much — until the morphine wore off. After a few days they told me they'd have to fly me to a bigger Army hospital in Japan in order to save my right kidney and bladder. The next morning I was in a stretcher hung from the ceiling of a C0141 Starlifter, one of fifty GI patients on the medevac flight to Yokota, Japan.

I remember the fear on that plane — dying at 40,000 feet in the cold, sterile world of a jet, where screams mixed with surges from the engines. Dying alone, without friends or family, at some unknown cross-hatch on the aeronautical charts.

I remember...spending two months in Ward 884 of the 249th Army Hospital at Camp Drake, Asaka, Japan. Business was brisk at the 249th, a direct barometer of how many soldiers were being wounded in 'Nam. There were 600 beds and they were never empty. All day and night, we'd hear the wail of the siren

by Chris Panepinto

Ten years ago this week, MSC students were "ticked off," while five years ago, students were warned that too narrow a focus might anger their future employers...

Nov. 13, 1980

□ "Rat brawl ends in alcohol ban"

A "major altercation" between patrons and staff of the Rathskellar prompted an administrative decision to temporarily ban the sale of alcohol. The argument involved approximately 15 to 25 people, and began when a student refused to present proper identification. He became enraged and allegedly assaulted a member of the Rat's staff. Talks were scheduled to appease both students and administrators, while the students hoped the ban would be lifted.

□ "Union and state stalled in talks"

The state stopped negotiations with the American Federation of Teachers because the NJEA won the right to hold a collective bargaining election the following week. The cost of living increases and pay increments would be discussed. Jon Sobecki, NJEA organizer, said that the NJEA would have its own proposals generated by employee demands and elected leadership. Meanwhile, hopes of satisfying faculty demands were lagging, and a possible strike was seen on the horizon.

Nov. 14, 1985

□ "Limited budget in economics dept. might result in a greater selectivity"

Due to budget cuts, the economics department was forced to be more selective of its students; in other words, it would raise its academic standards in order to meet limited resources (including faculty) and maintain the quality of education. As a result of expanded enrollment, the department came to rely more on part-time faculty members to teach the expanded curriculum.

Vietnam through a veteran's perspective: an MSC professor on the water towers as another medevac chopper arrived from Yokota. The wards got so jammed that the less severe cases were moved to the corridors and solarium and we had to share wheelchairs and gurneys.

The surgeons and urologists were finally able to put me back together again and I was put on a charter flight from Yokota with 249 other patients, landing at Travis Air Force Base nine hours later. I wanted to kiss American soil, but it was too painful to bend down.

It was the middle of the night when we arrived at the Oakland Army Depot. There were no bands or parades, just a free steak dinner. They checked all our papers and told us to sleep a few hours while we waited for our Honorable Discharge. A dozen of us slept on one side of a thin plywood partition; on the other side slept a dozen "cherries" who were waiting for their flight to Nam.

Six hours later I was a civilian again, and twelve hours after that I stepped off a plane in Buffalo back to Linda. Home. Normalcy. Nightmares, too. After the war ended for me, several years after President Nixon and Henry Kissinger first said "peace is almost at hand," nearly 15,000 more American GIs would die.

I remember...April 1975. Watching Vietnamese hang from the last plane out of DaNang as the NVA quickly overran South Vietnam. Hue fell, and I felt sick knowing that my former camps at Phu Bai and Camp Eagle were in enemy hands. We vets felt like losers and our fellow citizens did nothing to either honor or comfort us.

I remember...missing the dedication of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in D.C. on Veterans' Day 1982 because I was in the hospital for surgery. Two years later I was there, though, for the dedication of Frederick Hart's statue of three 'Nam vets. It felt good to be a Vietnam veteran, and we 'Nam vets should feel good about ourselves because we kept the faith during the most difficult, confusing time in American history.

What I remember most, though, are the more than 2,000 Americans still not accounted for in Southeast Asia, and the six names on the wall in Washington who were friends of mine: Fred Cadille, KIA on 12-05-65 (Panel 3E, Line 125); Norm Mayer, KIA on 3-11-67 (Panel 16E, Line 62); Tom Jackson, KIA on 5-21-69 (Panel 24W, Line 67); James McConnyhead, KIA on 6-13-69 (Panel 22W, Line 42); Peter Pulaski, KIA 1-4-70 (Panel 15W, Line 126); and Floyd Moye, KIA 3-10-70 (Panel 13W, Line 105).

I remember every day, not just Veterans' Day. How could I ever forget?

MSC attends tuition protest

On Friday, November 9, students from MSC, in conjunction with other New Jersey State colleges, staged a protest against more tuition increases. The rally in Trenton to show Gov. Florio that the students of New Jersey will not sit by while he continues to increase tuition is a noble endeavor, but out of 17 schools, only between 300 and 500 students attended.

If Florio is going to take students seriously in their quest for a tuition freeze, more students need to come forth and show they care.

It is a crime that the government continues to try to make up for past budget mistakes by increasing the cost of college. It is not something people can just do without, as Florio is well aware, so he feels it is a resource he can continue to exploit. Instead, he should look to the other resources of New Jersey to try and increase the revenue coming into the government; taxing big business for example.

Why is Florio so quick to raise tuition, while not bothering to check where and how the current educational budget is being used. An overall reevaluation of how the state schools use the money allotted to them by the state, might help bring about a more cost efficient school system.

We have already seen how the administration of MSC wastes thousands of dollars a year on useless or unacceptable labor projects, (Nov. 1st Montclarion) how about the other state schools? Do they have similar budget wastage?

These are the type of questions Gov. Florio should be asking before he just decides to increase the cost of tuition, and if he isn't going to ask them, it is up to the students of New Jersey to bring them to his attention.

The rally on Nov. 9 was definitely a step in the right direction, but the fight must be continued. The students have to demand that the government examine how the current money is being used before they make the cost of going to college restricted to only the very rich and the very poor.

Student Voice

by John Tibbetts

What is patriotism?

Though an actual draft for non-military persons, such as MSC Students, is not truly a reality yet, I can not help but wonder what it would be like for Uncle Sam to ask me to go to war.

Recently, I asked several students whether they would actually go to war if they were drafted (All Around the Campus). Though most said they obviously wouldn't want to go, to my surprise almost everyone asked said they would if they had to.

This put quite a threat on my own position towards a possible war: would choosing a mandatory jail-sentence mean for me to be a traitor? What exactly is patriotism, I can't help but wonder.

With a rather conservative decade of politics behind us, a decade in which most of us here at MSC came of age, a re-evaluation of fundamental questions about American life seems to be called for more than ever.

All of us know that there are a lot of problems. With New York City drowning in muck, outrageous tax increases, tuition hikes, continuously rising crime rates, drug addiction at an all-time high, AIDS, and more homeless people than ever, it is not easy to still pride oneself in being an American.

Obviously, something needs to be done; eventually all of us will be affected. Sending our kids to school won't be an easy task the way things are going.

Then why is it that efforts made by Civil rights activists, environmentalists, and other so-called radical people demanding change often get belittled, labeled as 1960s rejects? Is being a patriot not wanting the best for the American people? How can a war help stop hunger for poorer Americans, how can spending millions for oil provide better schools, better drug treatment programs, a chance for everyone to lead a regular life? If thousands of us are going to die, who will be there to make a change?

Whatever the benefits will be from entering a possible war in the Gulf, I am sure it won't compensate for the millions lost needed here, right now. I urge everyone here to forget about the penalty of evading the draft for a moment, and think about what really needs to be done, how anyone could possibly benefit from dying.

Former track coach speaks out

This letter is written in response to several statements by Vice-President Armstrong and Athletic Director Lockard which appeared in successive issues of The Montclarion (Oct. 25, Nov. 1). I have read these statements repeatedly and wonder just what message they are trying to convey?

To begin with, the issue which has brought about all sorts of letter writing, the question of falsified track records, has never been addressed by the powers that be. When asked simple and direct questions pertaining to the issue, the only response has been circumvention of said questions.

It appears that the VP and AD lack awareness of the seriousness of the claim of false records. Nor is this an internal matter: The Montclair Times and The Star Ledger have both run columns using these same non-factual records. Therefore, this has clearly become a much larger public issue. Greg Lockard, as AD, bears immediate responsibility for accuracy of records submitted by his staff members. (True, the SID may assist in location of the documentation but the responsibility is on the shoulders of the AD.)

It is ironic that prior to assuming the post of AD, Mr. Lockard was MSC's very successful coach of Swimming and Diving. In that capacity, he was very aware that any new record must also be reported along with the old record it replaces, who set it, and the time of the old performance. Why Mr. Lockard did not flag or investigate the rash of new record claims, submitted almost weekly over an extended period of time, is baffling.

I am happy that the VP and AD have very similar opinions of Coach Blanton; however, the personal opinions they hold have no bearing on the major issue. False records were reported by the coach and ignorance of the rules and regulations cannot excuse his actions. Nor can this action be excused by anyone, including the VP and AD.

I suggest that these two administrators own up to the very important fact that this issue is not going to be camouflaged by any methods they attempt. Nor will the issue be glossed over by their ridiculous verbalization. This verbalism is seen in the VP's statement (Oct. 25) concerning the "real teams" finally arriving at MSC since Mr. Blanton's appointment. Such a statement is very difficult to fathom. What does she mean?

Apparently, when former coaches, Dean James Harris, Prof. Richard Grey, Vic Mizzone, Gene Lee, and myself were leading the cross country and track programs as MSC, we had less than "real teams." We certainly weren't aware that all of the efforts put forth by the athletes and ourselves were not being directed at a team effort and team concept.

What a pathetic statement she made. How it points up her basic lack of historical knowledge of these sports at this college. With this statement she has demeaned hundreds of young athletes who represented this college with outstanding results and exemplary behavior.

Our squads, (those "non-teams"), ran against the best and were always invited to compete with the best, not because we were a chaotic mob, but rather because we were a track team of quality, on the field and off. So, the VP's statement, designed to build up the current team, does, in fact, demean the former team members as well as put down the former coaches.

This lack of sensitivity to programs which formed the foundation of the current Athletic Department is incredible—especially when one considers that it comes from the office which is responsible for that current program.

I also wonder where the former coaches are now? How do they react to the VP's statement about their runners? Are you going to stand by while the teams you coached are denigrated? I contend that, as former coaches, they owe a response in deference to their team members and their own dedication to MSC track and cross country.

And so, we have an on-going saga: —a charge of record falsification (documentation given to The Montclarion) and, —two administrators, VP and AD, who hold identical opinions about the coach who is responsible for the records. How are they dealing with the problem? —Mr. Lockard held a "private meeting" with several students (Nov. 1 issue) when, in fact, an open forum would have shed greater light on the issue. —VP Armstrong refers to Coach Blanton as a "fine professional" (Oct. 25 issue). Her personal opinion notwithstanding, it is difficult to reconcile her statement with the fact that just two weeks earlier, on Oct. 9, he took an action in which he allegedly violated the right of free press by pressuring a female photographer from The Montclarion to give up her film against her will (Oct. 11 issue).

What has happened to leadership in education when such examples of harassment are not immediately acted upon by the administration. The Montclarion editorial on Oct. 25 had every right to ask why the administration claims to support them, "but when support is needed they are nowhere to be found."

Apparently, changes in education have become far more widespread in the six years since my retirement and the 10 years I coached here. Such an action on the part of a coach, alleged or not, would hardly qualify one to be termed a "first rate coach and a fine professional" as the VP stated. It looks like the administration's "broom and carpet" technique in dealing with this matter is just not working.

Pledging promotes friendship?

I am sorry that some people have deprived themselves of sharing a brotherhood in a fraternity. Why don't you start your own? The previous article was not directed towards those people feeling left out, but to people who are not expressing freedom to speak their minds about harassment. If those in their own little world did not know, harassment is illegal, wake up!

In my personal opinion harassment is coming out of prejudice in this campus from ignorant people who speak about what they see from the outside, and do not have a clue about the beautiful and rewarding sister or brotherhood that sororities and fraternities who pledge on line experience.

Student harassed during fire drill

At approximately 3:30 a.m. on November 9, 1990, the residents of Blanton Hall were awakened by the sound of the fire alarm system. As one knows, all residents are required to evacuate the residence hall during a fire alarm, or in this case, a bomb scare.

Because I am a Resident Assistant, it was my job to check my floor for residents that had not evacuated. Accompanying me during this time was another R.A. and a security guard employed here at MSC. My problem was with the security guard and his complete lack of professionalism.

While checking rooms, we came upon a resident sound asleep, obviously unaware any alarm ever sounded. I attempted to wake her to let her know of the situation and have her evacuate like everyone else. She was slow to get up, which is understandable, considering the early hour of the alarm and the fact that she was legitimately asleep.

The security guard at this point became extremely abusive in his language toward the resident. He threatened to "drag her ass out if she didn't get the fuck up," referring to her getting out of the building. I was offended by both his language and attitude, as was the R.A. with me. I can only imagine how the resident felt.

The security guard, in my opinion, behaved in a completely unprofessional manner that was in no way provoked. I feel he abused his authority and position by acting so irrationally and by all means should be penalized. This man should have been able to approach the situation with a calm and collected manner. Security guards are hired to promote law and order within the residence halls. Instead of being a help, he most definitely proved to be a hindrance.

Pledges promote prejudice?

This is a response to the letter from Belinda Diaz regarding what she sees as prejudice towards pledges. I agree with her that what a person chooses to do is nobody else's business, within reason. I feel that the practice she is defending is a contradiction of her statements about prejudice.

The main reason people join an organization is to belong to a group that shares similar views. There is nothing wrong with this; the problem arises when the requirements for gaining acceptance into the group are detrimental, counterproductive, and potentially, destructive.

Many of the pledging practices, i.e. the singing in the cafeteria are dumb and silly, but, nevertheless, harmless. Miss Diaz, in defending the requirement that pledges speak, outside of class, only to their big brothers/sisters, is going beyond foolishness.

Prejudice does exist on this campus. It is the responsibility of every individual to change this situation. To demand that pledges speak only to certain people, contributes to the separatism that pervades the campus. A sense of belonging should not be bought at the price of isolation from the rest of the college community.

To belong to an organization provides the members with opportunities to meet new people, to learn and to grow, to be able to say, "We're special," and, this is very different from the implication, in this pledging practice, that group members are apart from the community as a whole. Read 'apart' as better.

I think that Miss Diaz should carefully examine this practice - it is promoting the very prejudices that she is complaining about.

Climbing on Jacob's Ladder to New Depths

By John Tibbetts
Staff Writer

If you try to hold on to your life, and its memories, you will see demons and experience the worst kind of hell. But if you accept dying, and let go of your life those demons will look like angels.

Though this is an old concept, experiencing this might make you think you have gone insane. And insanity is exactly what Jacob (Tim Robbins) refuses to accept as an explanation for the unexplainable hallucinations and terrifying events in his life in Jacob's Ladder. His quest for explanation eventually uncovers a trail of conspiracy, deception, and murder; a more than surprising and thought-provoking outcome will most likely fascinate and intrigue some, and put off others. Either way, two hours of Jacob's Ladder are enough to give you material to think about for quite some time. Giving away any more of a plot would spoil the movie; the fact alone that Jacob and the audience have the rug pulled away from underneath their feet several times, not knowing what will happen next, is the key to this movie's success.

Director Adrian Lyne, director of Fatal Attraction, 9½ Weeks, and Flashdance seems to have taken quite a risk with this movie; the script alone certainly didn't guarantee success. Having dug into the human psyche, purging deep fears and unconscious terrors he might easily have let this movie become aimless; but instead, the movie ties together due to his careful directing. For instance, the camera never takes an omniscient point of view, which would suggest for Jacob's hallucinations to be real. This way the audience doesn't know, making the last scene of the movie an exciting and fulfilling ending, as mentioned above.

Tim Robbins (Bull Durham, Cadillac Man, Miss Firecracker, Tapeheads) does very well in the title role. His vulnerability and intelligence seem to add a certain lightness to his part, balancing the darkness of the movie. Elizabeth Pena (Down and Out in Beverly Hills & La Bamba), Danny Aiello (most recently seen in Do The Right Thing), Matt Craven, and Pruiff Taylor Vince also star.

Though I cannot guarantee whether you will like this movie, I can guarantee that if you go see it you will experience two hours that will startle and intrigue you. Personally, I would give "thumbs up."

Jacob Singer's (Tim Robbins) life turns into nightmare when unexplainable hallucinations and terrifying events begin to plague him in Jacob's Ladder

The Harp by Angel

Greetings and Salutations, MSC. Before you do anything else, you must do the campus music community a grand favor. If you didn't want Meatloaf to visit MSC, then you should've told them. There is Class 1 Concerts. Now is your chance for input. Stop by and place your opinion on who you want to play at MSC next. I've already worked my Jane's Addiction vote. Do it soon or else we might be listening to pre-recorded, lip-synching Milli Vanilli in the amphitheater. Rock the Vote!

Campus Dedications:

This is dedicated to the possible fact that the personals seem to be a conspiracy. It has been noted by 2 anonymous gals by the pseudonyms of Lil-Bit and Afro that there is foul play and favoritism. They'd like to point out that if this is the case, then - "Idiots Rule," by Jane's Addiction. On this note I'd like to add: Like music, everyone should be heard.

Our second dedication is to that species that is scarce during this time of year. They only dwell in temperatures of 87 degrees or above with a tanning index of 9 or higher. They have a craving for excessive gold and tacky wardrobe. Their defense mechanisms are their claws and shielding big hair. These mysterious creatures, which can be caught during a 3:42 am Blanton Fire drill looking their absolute best, are the Guidettes. Your song is "Phony Ladies" by Neneh Cherry.

1st String:

Following in the artistic steps of Milli Vanilli and Paula Abdul, November will host new compilations of original hits in the form of Remix Albums. This prestigious musical format has but one intention...to squeeze the leftover momentum of an artist...to make a left-over buck.

Who would have ever suspected that the leader of the remix regime would be the New Kids on the Block with No More Games: The Remix Album (Are they hinting to be taken seriously with this title? Who are they kidding?). After a 2 year hiatus, the Fine Young Cannibals release The Raw and the Remixed. This is probably a cheesy effort so the public won't forget who they are since they take years between real albums. Another Remix compilation due is Shriekback's The Dancing Years. I didn't even remember them going multi-platinum; so how can this remix be? Ending with a material blow is Madonna, hot off her heels of her I'm Breathless album. Who knows? Maybe she'll surprise us by going back to her Danceteria years. She'll attempt it with The Immaculate Collection.

2nd String:

A real album to check out is Red, Hot & Blue. It's a music industry assault on the deadly AIDS virus through multi-level support of the album. Showcasing their music and hearts will be Sinead O'Connor, U2, Neneh Cherry, the Pogues, David Byrne, and others... Do you know what Frank Sinatra wants to do with Sinead O'Connor? He wants to "kick her in the ass..." Maybe the music world is coming to its senses since the latest New Kids single stalled at #53 on the charts.

High Strung:

Vanilla Ice becomes the 1st rap artist in history to have the #1 song in the nation, "Ice Ice Baby..." The #1 R & B single for a 2nd straight week is "So You Like What You See" by Samuelle... In his 21st week as the #1 album is Please Hammer Don't Hurt 'Em by MC Hammer.

Stringing You Along:

Last week's answer is Michael or Christopher Penn as Madonna's brother-in-law. This week's: What is the oldest album on the charts? Until next week, peace, love, and brutal honesty, MSC.

BUDDY HOLLY LIVE (sort of) AT THE SCHUBERT THEATER

By Oren B. Silverstein
Correspondant

Hey kids, meet the gang at the malt shop! Gals! Dig out those poodle skirts and the saddle shoes! Slick back the hair with Brylcreem and get the leather jackets on, daddy-o! Don't be no square, Jackson, there's good rockin' at midnight 'cause Buddy's back in town.

Well, he's not exactly in town, man, actually, he's at the Schubert Theatre in New York City. And it's not exactly Buddy Holly, either. It's this guy, Paul Hipp, who does one of those Beatlemania numbers on us (You know, not the real thing, but an incredible simulation). But, unlike most of those tribute shows, this one does not lapse into either tastelessness, or self-parody.

Much of the praise can be directed toward star, Paul Hipp. Along with a startling resemblance to the departed legend, he also is able to convey the insecurities, stubbornness and determination of this young Texan who hit the big time.

The story details Buddy's meteoric rise from Lubbock, Texas to his tragic death in 1953 at the pinnacle of his career. While the show is strong on the music, the biographical drama only seems to be killing time between songs.

To be fair, there are highlights. For example, the scene where performers in Harlem's Apollo Theatre wonder how these white boys will go over with the souled out audience (and Buddy's eventual triumph) is a real winner. Unfortunately, the show can also lapse into cliché at times. The endless repetitions telling how Buddy wants to play his music "My way" can be wearying. The telegraphing of the eventual fateful plane crash in lines such as Ritchie Valens' "Thanks for saving me a ride on that plane!" lapses into parody.

What truly makes the show is the final forty-five minutes. There it is shown Buddy's final performance at the Surf Ballroom in Clear Lake, Iowa along with Ritchie Valens and the Big Bopper. That final hour of rock and roll captures more of the spirit of Buddy Holly than forty-five hours of drama ever could. The performance that I attended had the audience dancing and singing in the aisles.

The production also shines in its design. Painted and neon billboards, designed by Andy Walmsley, not only serve as backdrop to the action, but give us a sense of the era as well. The final ballroom concert especially captures the flavor of the era, with yards of satin curtains, tacky lighting, and the frilly dresses of the background singers.

The show triumphs because it is able to work around the contradictions that it sets up for itself. It portrays both the shy, insecure Texas boy, and sexually charged rocker. Unfortunately, it also presents the fact that rock and roll changed American culture without explaining how or why it did so.

But this is not why people will come out and see it. People came to hear faithful recreations of full-throttle rock and roll favorites. This is what the people got. The music, not the words, did the talking.

The spirit of the show can best be represented by the theatre's request that there should be no standing or dancing in the aisles. The audience, ranging in age from seven to seventy, ignored those posted signs. As Buddy would have said "Let's rock and roll!"

Couch Potato Update

By George Olschewski

Your favorite show has been cancelled. Bang. End of discussion. It hasn't been on television in weeks, so it must be cancelled. Wrong! There's an even bigger television limbo than CNN or PBS. It's called the hiatus library. A stroll into this dank, dark, dismal tomb will undoubtedly unearth some unaired episodes of shows gone by. TV-101, a CBS favorite of mine was axed. So was Alien Nation. CBS has officially cancelled TV-101. Alien Nation is "on hiatus."

What's the big difference between hiatus and cancellation? Cancellation is the abyss, the Place of Eternal Damnation for shows with no future, as determined by the A.C. Nielsen Company. Hiatus is reserved for all those shows with "critical acclaim" but no ratings numbers, like Alien Nation, perhaps to be joined by Cop Rock. Why do they call these programs "on hiatus?" Networks don't like to announce the fact that they f*cked up. Besides, some other network can buy the show and then, it's their baby. The original network doesn't have to worry about it. Case in point: The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd. Lifetime, a cable network, bought the dramedy that NBC didn't know how to classify.

It's interesting to predict what will last and what won't. I gave up predicting when I said that Oakland would win two, lose one, and win two for the Series. I won't even mention the Douglas-Holyfield fight. The majority of shows that I watch are pretty good (but then again, would any of us admit to watching crap?), but when it comes time for those 1200 television sets that determine what the entire nation and then some is watching, my faves fall through the cracks. Granted, I like Cosby and Bart and In Living Color, but when it comes time for some really decent entertainment, the kind that really stimulates the grey matter, I am left short. If television was kept alive by the quality of programming, we'd see a hell of a lot more decent shows, ones that MAKE US THINK. Not just some slapstick with canned laugh tracks (even if they do say they were filmed before a live studio audience). But, as long as television is based on bucks, we're stuck with it.

Okay, turn on Fox.

TATER TOTS

In other news, William Paley, one of the three men who fathered network television, died last week at the age of 89. Back in the day when newscasting was a budding field, Paley, at the helm of CBS, shot his network to the top. CBS paved the way for modern news with pioneers like Edward R. Murrow, Walter Cronkite, and the "newsman you could trust." Under Paley's leadership, CBS led the airwaves for more than two decades, which has never been beaten.

Paley also founded the Museum of Broadcasting in New York as a monument to radio and television.

Naked Raygun. No, it is not a new sexual stimulation device, it just happens to be the name of a well established punk band from Chicago. Their sixth and latest release off of Caroline Records is called Raygun...Naked Raygun. (The title being a spoof of "Bond...James Bond.") The members of the band are: Jeff Pezzati on vocals, Bill Stephen on guitars, Pierre Kezdy on bass, and Eric Spicer on drums. Their lineup represents a classic example of a strong, four man punk band cast in the loose mode of such legendary slammin' quartets as The Ramones, The Sex Pistols, and The Clash. What distinguishes them from other bands in this mold is that they can play and write good songs with an indestructible wall of sound that is practically required for all good punk bands to succeed. Inspired amateurism at its best.

To explain what I am talking about, side one is a good example. It starts off with "Home" and "Fever Island," two uptempo songs about alienation that start the album off with a pleasant adrenalin rush. Pezzati's voice on these two cuts (this may shock some fans) occasionally recalls James Hetfield of Metallica, only with more range and less bark. The side slows down and gets weird with "The Grind" and "Jazz Gone Bad," the later song being an off-beat tune about a jazzman succumbing to drug addiction who asks, "Let me get a work in. Let me get away." Finally, side one ends with "Prepare to Die" and "The Promise," the former being a pleasant song about suicide and the latter being an obvious plea to keep a promise.

Side two starts off lovey-dovey with "Holding You," a song with a high concept, a punk love song with a saxophone solo. It's sweet, it's heavy, and it works, how sensitive! "Strange Days" continues the series and fits the title with on off-kilter beat that goes from a slow and heavy funk to a punk lockstep with grace and agility. (Inspired amateurism is proven again). The rest of the side finishes off with "In My Head," "Camarilla," and "Terminal". The three songs being about the usual topics of nihilism and anti-conformity, impressive but done before and better by other bands.

Overall, the album is strong with a few twists that keep it stimulating while still keeping it punk. The guitar riffs are simple, the beat is strong, and the singer is pissed off and concerned. Enjoy!

This Flick Goes Beyond
Child's Play

By Anthony Minutella
Staff Writer

Would it be too damaging to my reputation as a film critic to admit that Child's Play, the 1988 hit horror/thriller about a living, foul-mouthed killer doll, is one of my favorite films of the last decade? It was scary, intelligent, well acted and directed, paced like lightning, and, most importantly, it introduced to the world a screen villain in a class by himself: Chucky, the doll with a heart of ice. In addition, it was a lot of fun and incorporated some truly astonishing special effects sequences (courtesy of Kevin Yagher, the effects wizard who designed the Crypt Keeper for the HBO series, "Tales from the Crypt").

Well, I've heard a few good things about this column to date, which almost makes it worth the effort. I've also heard that it's not the news section. Anyway, today we'll show you a way to amuse your friends and maybe even pick up a few dollars on the side. I'm going to teach you the secrets of cartooning. Just as Matt Groening's sister's next-door neighbor's calculator tutor's psychic taught them to me. Get a pencil. Get some paper. Observe your subject, pick out the closest features from the following categories, and trace. Voila! Maybe you can be the next cartoonist to throw away a wildly funny and successful daily strip for a soapbox-of-the-week that even members of STAND would consider pointless - good career move Berke.

Horror films have been around since the good old days of Frankenstein, but how many horror films of late do you know of that are genuinely "fun"? That's what horror films are supposed to do: to give the audience goosebumps and provide a good time; after all, it's fun to be scared. So many recent horror films - like the monotonous Friday the 13th series - substitute gore for scares, therefore eliminating the fright factor and adding buckets of blood instead.

Well, I'm happy to report that Chucky chops again in Child's Play 2, but the gore is minimal and, for the most part, the sequel maintains the lightweight sense of fun and humor that captured the spirit of the original. Unfortunately, while the sequel is visually eye catching and well paced, the sense of roller coaster thrills and chills that marked Part 1 a public and critical success is displayed only occasionally in Part 2.

The plot: workers at Play Pals Toy Factory come across the charred remains of Chucky from Part 1. In order to cover the bad publicity of events from the first film, they work furiously to repair the damaged doll to show there's nothing wrong with it. As the eyes are re-implanted, lightning strikes, Chucky is reanimated and goes off on another murderous rampage in his quest to transfer his soul into little Andy Barclay (Alex Vincent).

With so much to like in the first film, I had high hopes for the sequel. Overall, however, the film is a mixed bag. The script by Don Mancini is scattered with standard cliches and illogical plot points stemming from the original. For a villain as appealing and original as Chucky, was it really necessary to load the script with such tired cliches as the "Frankenstein" - inspired resurrection of the doll, or the use of the cruel teacher, an obvious sitting duck? Wouldn't it have been more terrifying to make the teacher sympathetic and, therefore, more vulnerable to Chucky? Also, in Part 1, a bullet in the

Avalon

Starring Armin Mueller-Stahl, Aidan Quinn and Elizabeth Perkins. Mueller-Stahl is an immigrant who came to this country in 1914. He and his wife live with their son, Quinn, and daughter-in-law, Perkins. Quinn struggles to make a new business work. A poignant movie that makes use of flashbacks from present-day 1940's to the mid 1910's. Excellent portrayal of a family with extended relations in a new country. A movie designed for older audiences (over 30) who enjoy a storytelling movie (there is no sex, violence or foul language). $$$$

Welcome Home, Roxie Carmichael

Starring Winona Ryder and Jeff Daniels. The hometown of the famous Roxie Carmichael prepares for her return, especially two of its residents, Ryder and Daniels. Daniels is the long-ago jilted ex-boyfriend; Ryder, the town misfit. Ryder is very credible as the troubled teenager who searches for a way to fit in with the rest of the world. Daniels plays his usual role of a typical, hum-drum middle aged man. The purpose of the movie is not to welcome its star, but to help the two "left" behind. Overall, a bland movie with no real or exciting action and few surprising moments. $$

Don't Tell Her It's Me

Starring Shelley Long, Steve Guttenberg and Jami Gertz. Boy meets girl, boy falls for girl, girl isn't interested, boy changes for her (and no, I'm not going to tell you the ending). This is not a typical Guttenberg movie. At times it is sad, as Guttenberg is recovering from cancer treatment. But it is also a funny fast-paced movie with a continually unfolding story. A good movie to see, if you don't mind a little emotional distraction from the basic funny entertainment films. $$$$

Sibling Rivalry

Starring Kirstie Alley, Scott Bakula, Jami Gertz and Ed O'Neill. Alley is the neglected wife of a doctor, Bakula. She decides that she needs to find her real self. What she finds herself in is a real mess. It makes a very funny movie, filled with fresh innovative comical scenes. Alley is full of her usual facial expressions and whining desperation. Expect to laugh out loud. $$$$

Video

Opportunity Knocks

Starring Dana Carvey. A con-artist finds the ultimate con. Along the way he falls in love, or is that too a con? An entertaining movie if you can make it past the first half hour.

Troop Beverly Hills

Starring Shelley Long. Long decides to prove to her husband that she can do more than shop. So, she heads a girl-scout-type troop. A truly nice movie.

heart was supposed to kill Chucky, yet the toy makers are able to remove the bullets and transplant a new heart like they're cardiac surgeons. A little imagination in the script would've helped enormously.

Another hindrance is Hohn Lafia's direction. The "suggestion" of Chucky in the first film made it scary; in the sequel, the ominous mood and atmosphere for creating suspense are mostly absent, except in a few creatively shot sequences.

Still, there are moments when Child's Play 2 really works, such as a terrifying confrontation between a teen-age girl and Chucky in a dark, gloomy house and the explosive climax at the toy factory. Visually, the sequel is dynamite, using sets that are colorful and expansive. The best asset of the sequel is, of course, Chucky, again executed by Yagher just as imaginatively and scary as the first time around. Whether he's simply moving his eyeballs menacingly to his next victim, or spitting out a hilarious line of dialogue, or stalking his victims with deadly accuracy, Chucky is a riot and easily has the edge over other popular horror movie villains. A genuinely wonderful character, Chucky is the driving force of the "Child's Play" series, and one can only hope he finds a better script for his creative talents for the forthcoming Child's Play 3.

SGA president talks tuition

Last Friday, November 9, 1990, New Jersey state college students protested in Trenton against the proposed 8% decrease in the Higher Education budget. In the past, these cuts have been the reasoning behind increased tuition costs, faculty and staff hiring freezing and program and curriculum cuts.

The rally was organized by the New Jersey Student Rights Coalition consisting of student action groups and Student Governments from across the state of New Jersey.

This wide range in membership prompted Governor Jim Florio to request a meeting with the rally organizers. Myself and Sharon Maffetone, a member of S.T.A.N.D., represented MSC. During this meeting we discussed the need for affordable and accessible education in the New Jersey State school system. The following requests were made:

1. The Department of Higher Education guidelines that sets a 30% limit on the amount of college costs has been violated by several colleges. MSC students and their families presently pay 32% of all college costs and an increase will further burden the average MSC student. If this guideline becomes law, this 30% limit on college costs will not be easily violated.
2. A tuition review board will be established to look into and approve proposed increases and that membership of this board include student representation.

3. The governor gave his support to a student rights bill that has been introduced into the legislature. This bill would give greater autonomy to each Student Government Association thus allowing Student Governments to establish and fund a statewide student association that would enable them to represent students' views on state issues.

Governor Florio's response:

He expressed his concern with rising tuition costs and pledged his support in providing affordable, quality education as well as more direct financial assistance to students and their families. The Governor also told us that the supported student representation on the Board of Higher Education as well as increased participation by students in governing state colleges and universities. The Governor also plans to work with the legislative leadership, particularly Assembly Speaker, Joseph Doria and Senate Majority, Dan Dalton, for the expeditious consideration of the "Student Rights Bill."

It was the unified action of New Jersey students that secured a meeting with the governor and gained the attention of the entire state towards this crisis in higher education.

As students, we all share this success of the rally in Trenton, but this was only the first step, and for us to guarantee our rights and to have accessible and affordable quality education, we must continue to work together to protect these rights.

If anyone is interested, please contact the SGA office, in Room 103, Student Center Annex or call 893-4202 or (201)384-1570. Your continued help and support is greatly appreciated.

Anthony Vito Susco
SGA President

MSC wastes money

Psychologists document that we, as children, take after our parents. We mimic their movements, actions and even wear their clothing. All of us at one time or another have slipped into the too-big shoes of our parents and clomped around the house. Our parents think this is cute. Pictures are taken, and are brought out years later to playfully embarrass us in front of our boyfriends or girlfriends.

The child, in this case, is MSC. The administration of MSC is mimicing the United States administration as a child would mimic a parent. This is evident all over campus. Shoddy repairs on the Memorial Auditorium, Freeman Hall's Cafeteria still lies unrepaired and unfitted, as the deadline gets pushed further and further back. And to top it all off, $25,000 was spent on new gates for the campus roads. Granted, new gates may help reduce car theft from the pit. But, really, $25,000 for a bunch of pipes welded together?

Sound familiar? Unless it comes to lining their own pockets or giving themselves extra perks, the administration is spending students' dollars left and right. Repairs that are not done right must be done again, and should any damage occur because of these shoddy repairs, then that must be fixed also. This amounts to more money spent on a job that should have been done right the first time.

Remember all the fractured fairy tales about the United States Government paying up to $1,000 for a pair of pliers, or $300 for a screw? Remember, $25,000 for a bunch of PIPES welded together!

Do we students think this is cute or playful? Absolutely not! Are we embarrassed? Yes, we are. How does it feel to return home to our parents and show them The Montclarion of slapdash repairs or student cafeterias that are not open, but should've been months ago? The administration jacks up tuition, and will only refund a portion of the money that would have been used in Freeman Hall. Correct me if I'm wrong, but doesn't this equal legalized stealing?

Students are protesting for lower tuition, and I sincerely hope that all they do is not for nothing. However, all our voices will not be worth a nickel if the frivolous spending of the campus administration is allowed. Repairs that are twice done, asinine expenditures like the gates all come from a theoretically free-flowing source- the students' wallets. I am sure that all we students have better things to spend our money on than $25,000 pipes.

Cohesion's Corner:

Gamblers end Gnat's Cinderella story

Sixteen teams took part in the seven game flag football season, bidding for six coveted playoff spots. After four playoff games, only the Gamblers and the Gnats were still standing.

The Gamblers, which feature former MSC football players, had lost just once this season en route to capturing the Tuesday - Thursday league regular season title.

In the league semi-finals, the Gamblers beat ZBT-A's six game winning streak upending the fraternity based squad 12-0.

The Gnats, finished in third place in the supposedly "inferior" Monday - Wednesday League with a 4-3 record. The Gnats had QB Brian Pray and Jeff Kowalchuk come off of injured reserve which proved to be key in the Gnats capturing a Super Bowl birth.

With a 4-3 record the Gnats had to take the NFL's equivalent of the wild card route which included a 7-6 win over the defending champions The Birds. The combination of Pray to Rick Schannen for a 50 yard TD late in the contest proved to be the difference.

The Gnats didn't have long to celebrate their victory as the road to the Super Bowl went through the undefeated and number one ranked Bushmen in their second playoff game. Once again it was the magic of Brian Pray who hit Jeff Kowalchuk on a 25 yard post pattern to tie the game at 6-6 with seconds remaining. Pray who was reminiscent of Roger Staubach leading the Dallas Cowboys with his last minute heroics, then hit Kowalchuk for the conversion to win the game by a point and get to the Bowl.

So the scene was set. A battle of David and Goliath if you will. This year's Super Bowl would be like Villanova - Georgetown in 1985; the USA - USSR in 1980 Olympic Ice Hockey; the Jets beating the Colts in the 1969 Super Bowl. This would have been on the same scale if the Gnats could have upset the lofty Gamblers.

In the first half of the Super Bowl game, the Gamblers exploded. Ted Conley threw 3 first half touchdown passes to give the Gamblers an early 19-0 lead.

The Gnats tried to answer back on the last play of the first half when Brian Pray hooked up with Rick Schannen on a 50 yard TD pass.

The Gamblers had the ball to start the second half and with a 19 to 7 lead it was imperative for the Gnat defense to stop them in order to gain momentum. However, Ted Conley picked apart the Gnats defense as his Gamblers marched downfield. The second half drive culminated when Conley hit Mike Ketchum on a beautiful 25 yard TD pass.

The Gnats were now down 25 to 7 and were forced to go the long air game. However, a stingy Gambler defense would not let the Gnats score. John Fiore's two interceptions at the goal line stopped the Gnats cold on their ensuing touchdown drives.

"L.T. and Ron Clarke playing cornerbacks and Mike Strauss covering the middle gave me freedom to roam around and pick off passes," said Fiore.

The final score of the game was 25 to 7. Not a Hollywood ending for the Gnats' Cinderella story.

While the Gamblers rolled to a school title, they also had their eyes on capturing the state title. Sunday the Gamblers traveled to William Paterson for their shot at the crown. The tournament featured a double elimination format of 12 champions from public and private schools throughout the state.

The Gamblers beat WPC 18-13 and later romped Kean College 28-6 to get to the finals of the winner's bracket against Princeton.

This brought the Gamblers to the finals of the winner's bracket against a highly organized Princeton team. Big plays for the Ivy League school and an injured Ted Conley proved to be too much for Gamblers to overcome dropping a 13-7 decision.

The Gamblers regrouped in the fourth game to romp Ramapo 25 to 6. Backup quarterback Jeff Trzcinski came in for the injured Conley and threw for 3 TD passes. A 20 yard L.T. touchdown run also contributed to Gamblers scoring.

This brought the Gamblers to the state finals against Princeton. Once again Princeton had their number and was able to beat the Gamblers for the state championship.

The Gamblers second place finish was the best ever by an MSC team since the tournament began in 1983. The second place finish also earned the Gamblers an invitation to the nationals in the Louisiana Superdome. All they need is $10,000 to be able to go.

John Fiore earned the tournament MVP with 6 TD's and 6 interceptions. Cornerbacks L.T. and Ron Clarke also had great tournaments. L.T. had 5 interceptions on the day and Ron Clarke had 4.

Women's hoops preps for season

By Richard T. Green
Staff Writer

If there was any one phrase that could best describe the 1990-1991 Women's basketball season, it would be "great expectations".

After an impressive season last year, and a birth into the Sweet 16 of the NCAA tournament, great things are expected from the Lady Hawks this season.

Ranked 16th nationally in the pre-season polls, MSC has three returning starters Kim Wilson, Cathy Madalone, and Tracy Moffat.

Wilson tore up the hardwood last season as she was the NJAC leading scorer. Her impressive 89-90 campaign was recognized by the ECAC and the New Jersey Coach's Association which both named Wilson "Player of the Year".

Cathy Madalone returns to the squad after leading the team in assists last season. In addition to setting up scoring opportunities for her teammates, Madalone can hurt the opposition with her long range shooting.

Tracy Moffat brings an all around game to this year's team. Moffat is a multi-faceted player who according to Coach Jeffrey can hurt you either with the jump shot or a quick move to the hoop.

Returning non-starters from the 89-90 Lady Hawks include Cindy Poling, Jeannine Mullahy and Shannon Shaffer.

Cindy Poling was known for providing that needed quick spark off the bench and her tight "in your face" defensive style. Her defensive prowess is such that Coach Jeffrey feels Poling might be the best defensive player in the conference as well as a projected starter.

Last year Shannon Shaffer served as the understudy to the now graduated Carolyn Savio. With Savio's departure, Shaffer has redefined her game and worked herself into the position of getting a shot at cracking the starting five.

To round out the remainder of the team, Coach Jeffrey has a group of six fresh faces to work with. The six new additions include three transfers Tracy Bails, Maritza Martinez, and Stacy McWilliams. The other trio consists of three baby boomers Kerry Price, Judy Stare, and Monica Stellato. The blend of old and new faces will look to contribute to a program that has been a dominant force in the NJAC.

Despite having the two key losses of Carolyn Savio and Jackie Martinez, Coach Jeffrey is very optimistic about the season.

"Despite losing Carolyn and Jackie, we still have the nucleus of a strong team. We have three returning starters and a stronger bench. We have more depth this year at certain positions and I feel very good at our chances. Last year we had the #1 defensive team in the country, and this year's team is quicker, so we definitely have reasons to be optimistic."

The Lady Hawks open the season against Heidelberg in the Frostburg Basketball Invitational in Maryland.

Heidelberg is ranked #7 in the country and is the team that made the Lady Hawks exit stage right from last year's NCAA tourney earlier than they preferred.

Last season's tournament loss hasn't slipped the minds of the Lady Hawks as they eagerly await to avenge their defeat.

Men's soccer bows out of NCAA's

Richard T. Green
Staff Writer

After a highly successful 16-3 season, the MSC men's soccer team suffered a disappointing 4-1 loss to Glassboro State College in the opening round of the NCAA tournament.

The Red Hawks looking to avenge an earlier 4-2 regular season loss to GSC, failed to generate any offense, and subsequently had an early exit from NCAA play.

After falling behind early 1-0 MSC came back when Dominick Bucci scored on a penalty kick, with eight minutes left to tie the game at 1-1. However, GSC answered right back scoring with just

GSC went on to add 2 more goals in the second half to put the game away as the Red Hawks could manage only 11 shots on goal, their lowest shot total of the season. The final score was 4-1 in favor of GSC ending any chances the Red Hawks had of capturing the NCAA title.

MSC entered the game with several injuries to key players.

Leading scorer Tom Estes played despite having a 103 fever and starting. Starting defensemen Dominick Bucci was injured midway through the first half, causing the Red Hawks to switch their entire defensive scheme.

Despite playing with such adversity, Coach Masur still felt his team would have had a tough time winning even if everyone had been healthy.

"We faced a very focused and determined GSC team who knew how to make the right decisions at the right times. My team lacked maturity, in the sense of knowing what to do and how to maintain their poise once the score was in the other team's favor. We got down on ourselves and teammates and that hurt us in the long run. Hopefully this game will serve as a learning tool for the team and we can learn from our mistakes" explained Coach Masur.

Coach Masur also went on the record as saying, "Any rumors that might have been floating around about me taking a head coaching job at Brown University are totally false and inaccurate. I'm looking forward to recruitment and the next spring season."

Coach Masur was pleased with the performance of his team this year, as well he should be, considering MSC finished the season at 16-4 without a senior on the entire team.

The Red Hawks established ten new records this past season including single season team marks in goals (79), assists (86) and points (244).

goal keeper Mike Rodgers was unable to play because of an injury suffered in pre-game warm ups.

With the injury to Rodgers, MSC was forced to play George Zaula, who played at 75% because he had been injured in a previous game.

X-country splashes through Mideast Regional Tourney

By Al Iannazzone
Staff Writer

The MSC Men's and Women's Cross Country Team slipped, splashed and dove its way through a downpour at the NCAA Mideast Regionals, Saturday, at Allentown College, in Allentown Pa. "We're happy no one was hurt," Coach Blanton said after his team competed in what Blanton called one of the worst weather conditions he'd ever experienced for a track and field event.

The heavy wind and rain caused the course to be extremely wet and muddy. The conditions were so bad that parts of the men's course runners were knee deep in water and in another place it was almost waist deep. "It was like a small lake," Blanton said. Some of the guys literally dove in the "simulated pool" and swam their way through, Coach said. Fortunately, everyone was all right. Well, almost everyone. Coach Blanton slipped and slid and suffered a sprained ankle getting to one of the mile marks.

Despite the horrendous weather conditions both races were completed. The officials at Allentown felt the conditions weren't that bad and were safe for running, Blanton said. In the competition, the women placed 12th, out of 24, and were led by Jennifer Welch, who finished 34th, out of 277. The men finished 24th, out of 26, and were led by Brian Major, who came in 78th out of 344.

"I think we ran well," Blanton said. "We're just glad everyone finished the race. We told them to be aggressive but be cautious since the course was so wet and muddy. Our major concern was getting through the race. I will definitely express my sentiments against running the regionals or the 1992 NCAA Championships in Allentown."

Two weeks ago, at the New Jersey Athletic Conference Championships in Holmdel, the men and women had four runners named to the All-Conference Team. The women finished second in the seven team competition behind Trenton State, while the men placed third behind Glassboro, the winner, and TSC.

Jennifer Welch, Kathy Papke and Alicia Hennessy were named to the All-Conference Team while running the 3.1 mile competition in 20:03, 20:07 and 21:26 respectively. These times were good enough to earn them second, third and 12th overall. Danielle DeBose also ran well, coming in 25th, with a time of 23:38. Welch, Papke, Hennessy and DeBose all ran personal bests on the Holmdel course, (in other words, this isn't the first time the team has run in Holmdel, and this the best time the girls ran on their numerous occasions there), Blanton said.

The men's lone All-Conference runner in the 5.1 mile competition was Brian Major, who placed eighth with a 27:32 time. Major was followed by Wesley Peters, placing 20th with a 28:24 mark, and Tim Fuhrer, finishing 21st at 28:27. Coach Blanton said these were also personal bests, on the Holmdel course, for Major, Peters and Fuhrer.

As the outdoor season ends, and the indoor season is about to begin, Blanton is happy with what his teams accomplished. "I am extremely proud of them," Coach B said. "They worked real hard from August to this point. We had our share of ups and downs, more ups than anything, and I would just like to thank the runners along with my coaching staff for making it an overall successful season.

The Bottom Line

by Matt Wintner

At the end of the 1990 baseball season, Darryl Strawberry was preparing to move himself from his place of residence. The request to move came from Strawberry himself. With many places to turn, he knocked on the door of his boyhood dreams, the Los Angeles Dodgers. Fred Claire opened the door, salivated, and inked Darryl to a 5 year $20.3 million deal. Can Darryl and the Dodgers share the same town without driving each other crazy?

Darryl clicked his heels three times and said the magic words, Met fans asking how, why, and what's next?

So now in a ballpark in Flushing there is a hole in the outfield the size of the Grand Canyon with no immediate answers. Fortunately, there is over five months to the start of the season and by not signing Straw there is a lot of money to spend on the free agent market. Unfortunately, this year's market is the weakest in recent memory.

So Darryl is gone. A member of a left coast team that by taking number 18 away from the Mets has taken New York's heart and soul. Along with Doc Gooden the tandem acted as the backbone of what could have been a great franchise and is now in a downward swing.

Almost ten years ago when baseball reigned supreme in The Bronx, the now dethroned King George let a lock-jaw Hall of Famer named Reggie Jackson split for Gene Autrey's ranch. Letting Reggie go was a huge mistake and George admitted so. When Jackson headed west, he had already logged 15 years of Major League experience and only had a handful of years left before hanging it up. Strawberry on the other hand had eight years under his belt with an untapped number of longballs left in his bat and now will be playing in L.A. in his prime. What makes the situation even worse is that the Mets let Darryl get away for unsuitable compensation.

Plain and simple you don't go out into the free agent market or make a trade that will get a body that is capable of putting up 37 homers and 108 RBI that Straw put up last year. Therefore letting Berry go cracked the top 5 Met front office blunders sandwiched in between the Nolan Ryan-Jim Fregosi deal and the '77 Seaver trade.

While many believe that letting Straw go wasn't the right way to go, some of his former teammates have been outspoken and believe that saying bye bye Berry was beneficial to the team. The most outspoken met has been infielder Tim Lincecum. While Lincecum is a reserve infielder, he is also noted as being the most respected voice in the Met clubhouse. Lincecum strongly believes that letting Darryl go was a good move claiming that he wasn't a gamer and that other teammates felt Darryl had let the team down by not playing down the stretch because of an injured back. Lincecum said that it is one thing to be injured, but questioned the fact that Darryl didn't seek treatment for the injury making the team wonder if he didn't fold up the tent prematurely.

Then there is the issue of those who sided with Darryl. That side is anchored by pitcher Doc Gooden who was Strawberry's best friend. With Darryl gone compounded with a possible expansion team in Doc's hometown of Tampa, don't be surprised if Gooden bails out as well and inks a monster contract to pitch for a losing team in his backyard.

The Mets could have put this issue to bed a long time ago and still would have had Straw in their outfield. He could have been signed after Smithers but that would have been playing Russian roulette. The best time to have gotten an inked contract would have been at the beginning of the Davey Johnson-Bud Harrelson transition when the Mets were rolling along making a run at the first place Pirates. Darryl would have been happy not having to deal with any distraction as to what uniform he would be wearing next year.

For those who wish to see Darryl in Dodger blue, he makes his return to Shea on May 7. It will be interesting to see by then the product the Met hierarchy puts on the diamond. There is major renovation needed to fix up a team that is in a midst of decline.

Hawks weather storm, beat GSC

By Tom Reid
Staff Writer

For most other teams, an overall record of 7-3 with a conference record of 4-2 would be considered a successful season. But this is MSC, a place where the standards by which excellence is judged is greater than what the Hawks achieved this season. So it's safe to say that although the Hawks won their final two games this season, there was feeling of disappointment by players, coaches, and fans after the Hawks defeated Glassboro State last Saturday 22-20 at Sprague Field. It was a hard fought win, but MSC failed to make the playoffs and anything less at MSC is hard to swallow.

Saturday's Glassboro game was played in rainy, windy conditions that seemed to be more conducive to water skiing than football. Yet the Hawks, with nothing to play for but pride, showed their true colors by squeaking out a victory in the season finale, and salvaging the season with a win for the seniors who were playing their last game at MSC.

In the early stages of the game, it didn't look good for the Hawks. MSC fumbled the opening kickoff and Glassboro recovered on MSC's 36 yard line. Two plays later, Glassboro scored on a 37 yard touch down pass to give the Prof a 7-0 lead with 14:09 left in the quarter.

After that, MSC and Glassboro traded possessions until MSC put together a 7 play 70 yard drive. MSC used both the run and pass effectively in the drive by using tailback John Walker and a key 16 yard pass from quarterback Steve Banas to tight end Phil Vigeant. With the ball at Glassboro's 35 yard line, Banas connected on a 35 yard scoring strike to wide receiver Ernie Harris. Jim Young's extra point attempt was wide right however, and MSC trailed 7-6 with 8:07 left in the first quarter.

After MSC kicked off, Paul Cioffi sacked Glassboro quarterback Ed Hesson and MSC's Larry Thompson recovered the ball at the 26 yard line. The drive was thwarted by Glassboro however, and MSC settled on a 41 yard field goal by Young, making the score 9-7.

Glassboro was able to enter MSC territory on the next drive, but Almer Dyar intercepted a pass killing the drive at the 47 yard line.

MSC then took over at Glassboro's 29 yard line after a 22 yard net punt. 5 plays later on 3rd and six, Banas hit Brian McNair for a ten yard touchdown pass. Once again however, the extra point was missed and MSC had a 15-7 lead.

The remainder of the half was marred by turnovers and sloppy play, due to the impossible weather conditions. Glassboro could never seem to get going the rest of the half however, and at the end of the first half, MSC lead 15-7.

The third quarter saw no scoring by either team, but with 5:02 left in the quarter, MSC fumbled and Glassboro recovered at MSC's 22 yard line.

Glassboro marched down the field on the Hawk defense and with 14:56 left in the fourth quarter Glassboro then scored on a quarterback sneak. A two point conversion failed however, and Glassboro trailed 15-13 at the start of the fourth quarter.

Glassboro once again hurt themselves with a turnover when Paul Cioffi recovered a fumbled snap at Glassboro's 33 yard line. John Walker then ran 33 yards for a touchdown and after Jim Young's extra point was good, MSC had a 22-13 lead with 8:07 left in the game.

MSC kicked off to Glassboro and they put together an impressive drive which saw them march all the way down to MSC's two yard line. But Glassboro fumbled the snap on the two yard line and Winford Bellamy recovered the ball at the 3 yard line.

On the next series, MSC fumbled the ball right back to Glassboro on the 1 yard line. With 1:225 left, Glassboro scored on a 1 yard run making the score 22-20. MSC then recovered an onside kick and was able to run out the clock preserving a hard fought 22-20 victory.

"To some degree, 7-4 is disappointing," said Giancola. "Our goals are high because we expect to win the conference and go into the post season. People forget that at one point we were 2-2 and we could have let the season die but the guys were determined to play hard. It's tough to play when there is no gold ring to get but we did it. I'm very proud of them."

Giancola feels that the key game for the Hawks this season was the Kean game. It was at a point where the players were questioning themselves and their ability as a team. "Kean was a big win," he said. "We were emotionally down, feeling sorry for ourselves. But due to a great effort in the second half, we overcame. Paul (Cioffi) really gave this team a lift with the touchdown he scored and he showed why he is All American."

So what does MSC do to keep their winning tradition next season? Well Giancola is confident that MSC will once live up to the high standards that people expect. "We have a good foundation of players which we always have. All eras at MSC were able to sustain the excellence each season. We groom players to be ready to play when they are called upon."

MSC is losing some tremendous seniors this year however, and replacing them will not be easy, despite the talent of the underclassmen. Starting seniors gone on offensive are linemen Joe Fernandez, Bob Franks, Jim DeSarno and tight end Vigeant. On defense the Hawks lose Cioffi, linebacker Derek Sininski, and defensive back Dyar. Giancola has a special feeling for these seniors. "They have paid their dues and reaped the benefits of the program. It isn't easy because it's so difficult to break into the lineup. I really lean towards the kids who have been here and not lost their patience (to play)."

But recruiting players is very difficult according to Giancola. "Some athlete may be recruiting by 10 schools, so we have to try and sell the whole college life to the kids in high school. Assistant Coach O'Conner tries to visit as many schools as possible, but it isn't easy to get the players. It's very competitive."

Perhaps the main problem this season was the inexperience at quarterback, as MSC started both freshmen Anthony Guma and Steve Banas. With all fairness to but Banas and Guma, it's very hard to come into college and lead a team right away. But fans wonder "what if" senior quarterback Ed Baffige had been healthy. Well, Baffige should be ready for next season and the "What if's" may be answered.

HAWK NOTES

Two weeks ago, MSC pounded Jersey City State 44-0 behind Walker's 150 yards rushing. He also had 150 against Glassboro giving him 1013 yards rushing for the season...Sininski had 13 tackles and led the Hawks against Glassboro followed by Cioffi's 11...Sininski led MSC in tackles this season with 105 followed by Cioffi who had 84...Cioffi had 14 sacks this season...MSC was penalized 14 times for 109 yards against Glassboro...Offensive linemen rarely get the credit they deserve, but MSC's line of Fernandez, Alex Sanagorski, DeSarno, Franks, Mark Padovini, and Vigeant helped open huge holes all season for Walker, Kenyatta Greene and Derrick McCoy. They were tremendous and Walker has said time and time again that they would be nothing without them...Ernie Harris led the team with 32 receptions followed closely by Walker at 30....

The Women's Volleyball season came to an end November 2, at the New Jersey Athletic Conference Championship, at Stockton College. MSC was upended in the double elimination tournament by William Paterson, 15-12 and 15-1, and Rutgers-Newark, 15-5 and 15-6 finishing the season with 4-25-2 record.

In the first match, WPC started strong, taking a quick six point lead, but MSC chipped away only to come up short, 15-12. In the second contest, it seemed WPC got together and corrected what went wrong, Coach Anita Kubicka said. WPC capitalized on MSC not being in the game mentally, as four of their first six points were serve-receive points, and MSC fell 15-1. Rutgers-Newark then defeated MSC in straight sets, 15-5 and 15-6, to end the season.

The winner of the NJAC was Kean as they dominated and beat Ramapo in the finals. "Kean dominated and you could tell they were hungry for the win," Coach K said. "They took control and had the desire and intensity needed to win the tournament. If you don't have a mental edge, you're a few steps behind. We didn't have the hunger or desire needed in tournament play."

Before the NJAC, MSC played Rutgers-Newark on October 30, and N.J. Tech on the 31st, and played well. Despite losing both games MSC looked the sharpest they had looked all season in the first match against Rutgers-Newark, Kubicka said. "Everything we did in the first game was fundamentally sound and we were 150 percent in the game and it showed," Kubicka said. MSC won the first match 15-12, but lost the next three, 15-10, 15-5 and 15-5. Against N.J. Tech it was the same old story. MSC won the first 15-13, but dropped the next three 15-1, 15-2 and 15-7.
