Abstract

This paper studies the generic move structure of the blurbs of Electronic Socio-romantic novels published in Pakistan. It explores the move schema, the number of moves and their order in different blurbs. It also observes the most focused and the most neglected move in these blurbs. 20 book blurbs have been collected from online source and the model presented by Valor (2005) has been adapted for their analysis. The results reveal that there have been total 6 moves and 12 steps in the blurbs of Pakistani socio-romantic novels. Most of the moves have no fix order. The “Description” move has been followed by all the blurbs where as “publisher’s info” has been least attended by them. This suggests that this genre does not rely much on Publisher’s name for their promotion; rather the description of the story has been used as a tool to attract the potential readers.

Key words: book blurbs, socio-romantic novels, genre analysis

Introduction

Genre analysis has broken through the academic constraints and has successfully made its way to all different types of genres. Many studies have been inspired from Swales’ (1990) model of move-step model for genre analysis so is this study which focuses generic structure of the blurbs written for Electronic socio-romantic Urdu novels in Pakistan. The study aims to investigate the following questions:

- What is the generic structure of online socio-romantic novels published in Pakistan?
- What are the obligatory and optional moves?
- What is the order of the moves in these blurbs?

This term genre, derived from Latin word for type, kind, or class, “is widely used in rhetoric, literary theory, media theory and more recently linguistics, to refer to a distinctive type of Chandler;1997 )text’(. Genre has particular conventions of content and form. These contents and forms are common to specific type of text and they constitute a genre. Some texts may be more typical of their type while other may seem a type of ‘less members’ but as far as they share common core i.e. conventionalized, shared communicative purpose , they are one genre. Genres can be identified on the basis of specific communicative goals and shared set of functional and linguistic conventions. Book Blurb genre is comparatively under studied field. Blurbs have been defined as “a promotional description as found on the jackets of books” (CED; 2003), brief publicity notice, promotional description and as “publisher’s short description of the contents of a book, usually printed on the jacket or cover” ( OALD, 1990). Valor(2005) contends the latter definition on the grounds that “blurbs not only describe the contents of a book, but also evaluate and recommend the book by means of extracts from reviews in well-known newspapers, journals and magazines which praise the qualities of the book and the author”. It is through all these elements, that blurbs attract the potential readers to buy the book. Blurbs have been seen belonging to advertising genre because they promote the product through various functional moves. Blurbs have been studied for their generic structures and linguistic devices used to attract the potential customers. Bhatia (2004) suggested six-move structure found in the book blurbs that he studied. These books belonged to fiction and academic genre. He found the blurbs having headlines, justification of book, appraisal of book, establishing credentials, endorsements and targeting the market. Basturkmen (2009) followed Swales (1990) and Bhatia (2004) in her analysis of seven EFL book blurbs. She identified four move schema; identifying the market niche, identifying language teaching theory, presenting credentials and informing readers of other items in the book. Gesuato (2007) also evaluated academic book blurbs and found the ‘evaluation ‘move as the most occurring one. Cacchiani (2007) studied the lexical and discourse features in 200 book blurbs and found use of positive evaluative linguistic devices used most frequently. Cross-cultural evaluation of book blurbs has also been attention of some researchers. Kathpalia' (1997) compared local Singaporean Publishers with International publishers in this context. She found six-move schema like that of Bhatia (2004) and found generic structure similarities between both publishers' book blurbs with little variation. However, she found differences in language and lexico-grammatical features. Onder (2013) also conducted a cross cultural study of book blurbs. He compared generic structure and promotional elements in the blurbs from Amazon United Kingdom and Okuoku Turkey. He found that book blurbs from Amazon UK have six-move structure while OkuoKu TR had five moves with three and two obligatory moves respectively. He concludes that blurbs are mixed genre and incorporate both promotional and informative elements. Valor (2005) compared traditional blurbs on printed books and digital blurbs on online books. She suggested three move schema named: description, evaluation and about the author. Blurbs have been found to have both informative and persuasive functions along with the positive evaluation of the book and author's writing style.

Methodology

This study explores the generic structure of 20 book blurbs. All these blurbs are of the socio-romantic popular Urdu novels published in Pakistan. The online blurbs have been collected from <http://kitaabghar.com/>. They have been studied manually on the basis of move-step framework after Swales (1990). The first reading was done keeping in view three move structure proposed by valor (2005). The moves suggested by valor( 2005) are: description, evaluation and about the author. However, more moves have been identified in this corpus and a corpus driven model has been developed after a careful study the book blurbs. The final analysis has been done on the following model:

Move	Steps
1. Description	Intro of book
	About the story
	Excerpt from novel
2. About the author	Other writings
	Education/ degree
	Author's style of writing/ major themes
3. Evaluation	Of book
	Of the writer's style
4. Publishers' info
5. Message/theme	Message/Theme of the novel
6. Expectation from the readers	Liking
	Feed back

The first three moves have been proposed by Valor ( 2005), this study extended the model and identified the steps within these moves.

Data Presentation and Discussion

The 20 studied book blurbs showed variation in the observance of moves and steps. The table below shows the number of blurbs that followed the particular move and the steps within that move.

Table 1. Moves and Steps observed by E-book blurbs

Move		Steps
1. Description	20	Intro of book	20
		About the story	06
		Excerpt from novel	02
2. About the author	11	Other writings	07
		Education/ degree	02
		Author's style of writing/ major themes	01
3. Evaluation	09	Of book	03
		Of the writer's style	6
4. Publishers' info	02	Publisher's name	02
5. Message/theme	07	Message/Theme of the novel	07
6. Expectation from the readers	10	Liking	8
		Feed back	8

Move 1. As the table shows, 'Description' move has been observed by all the blurbs and within that move first step that introduces the book showed the same tendency. All 20 blurbs had introduced the book in first line and there has been no variation in this step. This step has been realized in different blurbs as shown below:

'Jannat Kay Pattay is a Socio Romantic Urdu Novel by Story Writer & Novelist Nemrah Ahmed' ( blurb 1. )

'Amarbail by Umaira Ahmad is a love story of Umar Jehangir and Aleezay Sikandar'. (Blurb 2)

'Mah e Tamam (complete upto 14th (last) episode) is a Social Romantic Urdu Novel'. (Blurb 3).

Out of 20, 6 blurbs described the story and only 02 presented excerpts from the story. These two steps have been realized as:

"The leading character Haya Salman, LLB Hons Student, a girl who initially has made an impression of a very Modern Girl, faced an amusing turning point in her life when she got a scholarship from a Turkish University and somebody uploaded her personal video of a family function on Internet. As she belongs to a Conventional Family, she contacted an Cybercrime Division Officer Major Ahmed but she was astonished that he knows her very well"(blurb 1)

And "Different newspapers and magazines have started to appear in her room. The writing table was decorated like a newlywed bride. The expensive pen and the table equipped with paper were expressing the choice of a royal writer. In the beginning, everyone was expecting that she would soon forget what she had wished or decided. However, when they saw her firm determination, they also became serious about it." (Blurb 12)

Move 2. Move 2 is 'about the author' and it has been observed in 11 blurbs. It has three steps, first of which tells about the other writings by the same author. 07 blurbs realized this move, 02 blurbs presented information about the degree and education of the author while only one blurb briefed about the major themes attempted by the author.

Move 3. Evaluation is another important move observed by almost half of the blurbs. This move has been realized through two steps i.e. evaluation of the book; telling how good the contents are, and evaluation of the writer's style; telling how beautifully the author presents her/his ideas. First step has been found only in 03 blurbs while second step has been observed by comparatively more number of the blurbs. 06 blurbs presented positive information about the writing style of the author.

Move 4. This move offers Publisher's information and has been realized in only 02 blurbs, identifying it as optional move.

Move 5. Message /theme of the novel gives brief description of the moral lesson, message or the theme of the novel and presented the crux of the story. 07 blurbs offered this move.

Move 6. This has been the last move in all blurbs that observed it. It expressed expectations from the reader and there have been two steps in this move. 1st, ‘liking’ the publisher has expected the reader to like the book and its contents and the second step is ‘feed back’. The readers have been asked to give feedback and provide their opinion regarding the book. 8 blurbs have been found having first step and 8 have had ‘feedback’ step. On the whole, 10 blurbs observed this move which makes this move an important one.

The following diagram shows the frequency of move observance by different number of blurbs.

The figure above highlights that move 1 ( Description), Move 2 ( About the author ), Move 3 ( Evaluation) and Move 6 ( Expectations from the readers) have been followed more rigorously as they have been observed by 20, 11, 09 and 10 blurbs respectively. Thus they may be regarded as obligatory moves, while move 4 ( Publisher’s information ) and Move 5 ( Message/ theme of the novel) has been observed only by 02 and 07 blurbs respectively and may be considered as optional moves.

There is no fix order of moves in these blurbs, except that description move has always been preceding all others and ‘expectations’ has always occurred in the last. Among other moves, there has been great oscillation, sometimes ‘evaluation’ precedes the ‘information about the author’ and at other time it follows the latter. The table below shows the move order in each blurb.

Books	Move Order in numbers	Move Names
1. JANNAT KAY PATTAY	1,3,2	Description, evaluation, about the author
2. AMAR BAIL	1,3,6	Description, evaluation, expectation
3. MAH E TAMAM	1,6	Description, expectations
4. ZINDAGI HO TUM	1,2,3,1,5, 6	Description, about the author, evaluation, description, message/theme, expectation
5. QALANDAR E ZAT	1,4	Description, publisher’s info
6. MERAY HAMDAM MERAY DOST	1,3,2	Description , evaluation, about the author
7. AMRAT KOR	1,2	Description, about the author

8. AY SHAMA E KU E JANA	1,2,1,2,	Description, about the author, description, about the author
9. CHAND GAGAN AUR CHANDANI	1,3,1,5	Description, evaluation, description, message/theme
10. JIS TAN LGYA ISHQ KAMAL	1,2,1,2,6	Description, about the author, description, about the author
11. KHWAB MAHAL	1,2,1,2,6	Description, about the author, description, about the author, expectations
12. DIL TO DENA HI THA	1	Description
13. SARAB	1,6	Description, expectations
14. TUM MERI ZEEST KA HASIL HO	1,2,1,3,4, 3,6	Description, about the author, description, evaluation, publisher's info, evaluation, expectations
15. TERI ULFAT MAIN SANAM	1,3,1,5	Description, evaluation, description, theme/message
16. DARD GAR	1,3,1,2,6	Description, evaluation, description , about the author, expectations
17. BAHARON KAY SANG	1,2,1,3,6	Description, about the author, description, evaluation, expectations
18. DHOOP KAY PIGLNAY TAK	1,3,5,6	Description, evaluation, theme/message, expectations
19. KHWAB HAY YA SARAB HAY	1,2,3,5,6	Description, about the author, evaluation, theme/message, expectations
20. DEEMAK ZDA MUHABBAT	1,3,1	Description, evaluation, description

It has been observed that no blurb has all the 6 moves. Sometimes there is only one move i.e. description as in Blurb no. 12.

Conclusion

The study reveals that in Pakistani E-Socio romantic novels' blurbs, there have been total 6 moves realized by 12 steps that are randomly observed by these blurbs. The 'Description move' has always been the first one in move-order of the blurbs, while the last has been 'expectation from the reader'. 'About the author' and 'evaluation' have been exchanging their order in different blurbs. The 'description move' has been found in all the 20 blurbs while 'publisher's info' is the least observed move, present only in 02 blurbs. It suggests that the publishers' names are not used for publicity and promotional purposes instead the description of the story arouses the readers' interest. The linguistic analysis of these blurbs can show the promotional elements used for attracting the readers. Moreover, this study may arouse interest of comparing e-blurbs and traditional hard-cover book blurbs and find the generic variation between the two.

2. Amar bail

Amarbail by Umaira Ahmad is a love story of Umar Jehangir and Aleezay Sikandar, set-up in the backdrop of Pakistani bureaucratic culture. A very simply written novel of Umaira Ahmed, deals with multiple issues of our society in a very intriguing manner. It is a story of imbalanced relationships, broken families, lust for power, complexes, insecurities and amidst all problems of love, its intensity and sacrifices. It depicts the true face of our bureaucratic system, highlighting social evils like corruption, nepotism and injustice and how at times going against the law is the only way to punish the culprits. The novel touches your heart by its brilliant portrayal of human emotions and psychology. It revolves around Umer Jehangir and Aleezay Sikandar. Two people both from broken bureaucrat families. Aleezay Sikandar who had her complexes, her desire in life to be loved and taken care of and Umar Jehangir, a character with multiple shades. What makes Umer intriguing and fascinating are the imperfections in him, a character that is very realistic but never sketched before, a mixture of good and evil, far from the usual perfect hero; normally depicted in our novels. On the surface he was a selfish and corrupt man, but deep inside he had a caring and sensitive heart, who longed for his mother's love, cared for his friends and was totally aware of his own weaknesses and that awareness of himself is what made him sacrifice his love. In short he is a character one cannot resist falling in love with despite all his weaknesses. We hope, Umaira's fans will find this book interesting and good addition to kitaabghar.com.

While elders think young ones are not behaving and violating their cultural values and family traditions. Mostly this Generation Gap comes with Communication Gap, when family members, old and young ones do not talk or express themselves. Novel also explains that Suspicion can destroy any beautiful relation and one must learn to forgive others in good faith and move ahead in life. This was the reason that this matter was under a hot debate by everyone in the house. Zara had no concerns about this discussion. What is their opinion about it?
