OPHELIA EGYPT PAPERS

Collection 140-1 to 140-20

Prepared by
Joellen El Bashir
October 1986

MANUSCRIPT DIVISION

Scope Note

The papers of Ophelia Settle Egypt (1903-1984), sociologist, social worker, educator and writer, reflect the varied vocations and interests of a multifaceted Black woman. The initial deposit of papers was made by Mrs. Egypt in 1977, the balance being deposited after her death in 1984. The collection totals approximately 11 linear feet and span a period from the early 1930s to the 1930s.

A pioneer in family planning at a time when the words "birth control" were taboo in the black community, Ophelia Egypt promoted the concept of family planning among her clients at the Parklands Neighborhood Clinic in Southeast Washington, D.C., which she established in 1956. Prior to that, she had assisted in the development of Howard University's School of Social Work, where she was on the faculty for ten years. From Probation Officer in the D.C. Juvenile Court to Director of the Ionia R. Whipper Home (for unwed mothers), she moved easily into family planning work, for which she is most remembered.

It was during the 1930's at Fisk University, where Ophelia Egypt helped Dr. Charles S. Johnson organize the fledgling Social Science Department, that her literary career was launched. The interviews with 100 former slaves in West Tennessee which she conducted as Dr. Johnson's research assistant, established this project as one of the earliest uses of oral history documentation in the United States. The interviews became the basis for two manuscripts. One entitled Unwritten History of Slavery: Autobiographical Accounts of Negro El-Slaves was published by Fisk University in 1968. The other, Raggedy Thorns, remains unpublished in spite of attempts over many years to get it published. As the oldest founding member of the D.C. Black Writers' Workshop, at the age of 71, Mrs. Egypt also wrote a children's biography of James Weldon Johnson, published by Crowell in 1974.

Her writings and correspondence comprise the bulk of the collection. The correspondence is primarily from family members. There is also a smaller collection of letters from life-long friends and colleagues, such as Langston Hughes, poet; Barrington Dunbar, Quaker activist; Ruth Lewis Hall, artist and confidant; and Glenn Carrington, bibliophile. The correspondence also contains letters regarding the publication of her works. Notable among her writings in the collection are the published articles; the book Unwritten History of Slavery; an unpublished manuscript of 10 chapters entitled, "Walk Through the Valley", based on her own childhood; and the many drafts and versions, though not the final draft, of her unpublished manuscript, Raggedy Thorns. The documentation of her organizational affiliations consists of small assortments of correspondence and printed materials related primarily to family planning organizations. Mrs. Egypt was interviewed in 1981-82 by Dr. Elinor Sinnette, the head of the Oral History Department of Moorland- Spingarn. The transcript of that interview, entitled "Transcript of an Oral Memoir of Mrs. Ophelia Settle Egypt", and the Ophelia Egypt Papers were formally installed in the MSRC Manuscript Division in a special program on February 20, 1985. The transcript is available for research in the MSRC Oral History Department.
