"Athlete of Month" Award Initiated

"Athlete of the Month" and "Athlete of the Year" are two awards stated to be made in the future by the Liberal Arts Student Council.

In a recent council meeting, Russell Miller, Sophomore Class Representative, called for recognition of outstanding athletes and moved that the said awards be sponsored by the Council. His motion was passed unanimously.

The awards will be restricted to athletes participating in varsity sports. At the end of the year the Council will award a trophy "Athlete of the Year" to one of the participants who is elected "Athlete of the Month" at least twice.

Dr. Johnson Retires In June; Successor Sought

University officials announced last week the appointment of a Special Committee of the University's Board of Trustees to canvass the field and to recommend a highly qualified person to be the successor to Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, who will retire on June 30, 1960, after serving thirty-three years as president of Howard University.

Dr. Johnson is retiring at his own request. As early as April of this year, just prior to the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Johnson advised the Chairman and his associate executive officers, of his determination to retire at that time, and requested them to take all needed steps to provide for his successor.

The Special Committee has held several meetings under the Chairman, Mr. Lorimer D. Milton. One of its first steps has been to seek suggestions and recommendations from the members of the faculties of the University regarding the names and qualifications of persons to be considered for President Johnson's successor.

Dr. Johnson is currently on a month-long tour of European educational institutions, including a two- to three-week visit of schools and social agencies in Russia. He will also visit Scandinavian countries and France and return to the University on December 8.

Frosh Plan Float, Dance Talent Show, Elect Reps

Freshman Queen Audrey Latimore and her court will participate in the Homecoming parade, the Freshman Steering Committee decided recently. Five members of the Freshman Steering Committee are represented on the Freshman Class Homecoming Committee which is to plan either a float or two cars for the Queen and her attendants. The Committee also planned to consult students in the School of Engineering and Architecture and in the Art Department for advice in building their exhibit.

Freshman Talent Show is to be planned shortly after Homecoming. Consultation of all undergraduate schools in search of talent, prizes for outstanding participants, and presentation of an added attraction were considered by the Steering Committee.

A Freshman Dance is also being considered.

Louise Diaz and Vernon Gill were elected to sit in on meetings of the Liberal Arts Council as representatives. They will not have votes, however.

School Spirit Aim Of Booster Club

Largely through the efforts of Herb Scott, in conjunction with the '58-'59 L. A. Student Council, an infant Booster Club appeared on the Howard scene last year. The original purpose of the club was to boost the morale of the student body and the varsity teams. Pep rallies were held, "I am a H.U. Bison Booster" pins began to appear on everyone's lapel, and the football team fought its "boostered" way to a 6-2-1 record.

Since then, the scope of the club has expanded to encompass all sports on campus. Under the able co-chairmanship of Wiletha Jones and James Collins, the club has grown in stature and membership. Whereas last year the club consisted primarily of Scott and a handful of enthusiastic students, this year, it has over forty members, and it is a re-organized subcommittee of the Student Council's Social-Projects Committee.

Among the activities the boosters have undertaken thus far this year are the trip to Virginia State for the first football game

Bisons, Morehouse Clash Tomorrow At Homecoming

"I'd like to Win"

By Richard B. Braxton, Jr.

Tomorrow the Bisons host as their Homecoming gridiron opposition Morehouse College of Atlanta, Georgia. The game, which is one of the highlights of Homecoming activities, should prove to be quite interesting for several reasons.

For one thing, it is the Homecoming game. Therefore the Howard team definitely has the cause. They will be driven by their own desire and that of the alumni, faculty, grads, and undergrads to emerge from the contest victorious.

On the other hand, the Morehouse boys have acquired new lustre. Their record thus far this season — undefeated. To what might one attribute such an improvement over last year's losing contingent, a year's experience, perhaps?

A reputable source informs us that the booster club at Morehouse has just this year initiated a program to provide scholarship aid to promising "intellectuals", who, incidentally, weigh over two hundred pounds, and can tackle, block, punt, pass, and carry a football through stiff opposition.

200-Pound Line

It is reported that the entire line consists of the over-two-hundred - pounds - average line which started at Booker T. Washington High School of Atlanta last year.

In case the Howardites are wondering about the loss to Fisk, its Booster club has also initiated a program similar to that of Morehouse, and has recruited able-bodied scholars.

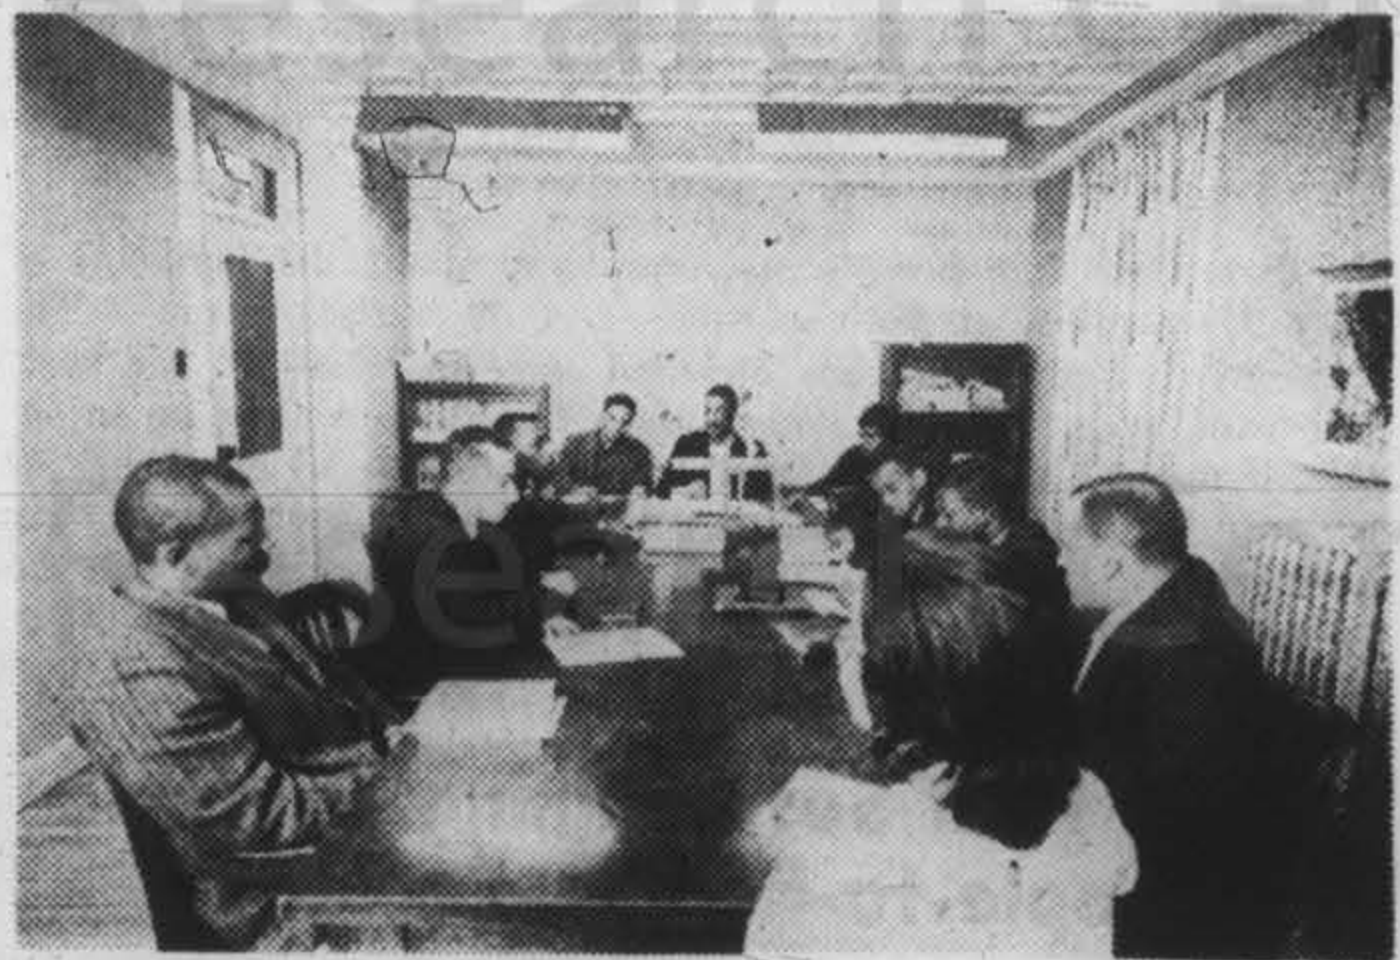

Representing the Bisons at the kick-off will be: center, John Tyler, 6-2, 206-pound freshman; guards, Ellsworth Wiggins, a 6-0, 195 sophomore, and Edward Peoples, a 5-10, 175-pound senior; tackles, Sid Banks, and Reggie Taylor both 6-4, weighing 280 pounds, and also seniors; ends, Bernard Quarterman, 6-2, 184-pound junior, and Robert Reed, 6-0, 175-pound sophomore; in the backfield, quarterback, Charles Smith, 6-0, 168-pound junior; fullback, Leon Armour, 5-11, 170-pound sophomore; and halfback, John Ware, 5-11, 175-pound junior, and Howard Williams, 6-2, 195-pound sophomore.

Since they are seniors and will culminate their college gridiron careers this year, Sid Banks, Reggie Taylor, and Ed Peoples will act as co-captains.

Homecoming Victory

Now in his third year as head coach of the Bisons, Mr. Robert White, known already to Howardites as "Coach White", says, "I'd like to beat Morehouse, as this is my third attempt since coming to Howard. Besides, it's Homecoming and I always like to win Homecoming games."

In past contests with Morehouse under Coach White's direction, the Bisons have defeated them and tied them once respectively.

THE PLANNERS — Members of the University-Wide Homecoming Committee are shown planning the activities for this year's Homecoming. Walter Bennet is chairman of the Committee.

Guinea President Sekou Toure Says H. U. Provides Tomorrow's Leaders

By Alma-Jean Powell

"Even if Howard University were destroyed, its influence would be carried on through the work of men and women who have studied here," These were the words of President Sekou Toure of Guinea in a visit he made to Howard University on October 26.

Mr. Toure met for the first time representatives of Howard University; its officers, trustees, faculty representatives, College Deans and other representatives from the various departments of the University. Attending the meeting were students from Guinea, Kenya, and Tanganyika.

During the President's short visit from 3:30-4:20 p.m., he discussed colonialism as a problem of the world that must come to an end. He expressed the value of education and the value of Howard University in developing men and women in life, and indicated in his speech that race, color, and creed should not determine the status of an individual.

President Toure arrived in D.C. Monday for a two-day visit. He arrived at the university in a black limousine followed by two army cars and several other cars. The entire procession was led by a motorcycle police escort. The President met his host in the Trustee Reception Room of the Administration Building.

During the conference, Howard spectators lined the streets to see their guest enter and leave. The press was on hand equipped with cameras. When Toure descended the steps of the building, he received a great hand from a cheering crowd of Howard students.

HU Troupes Hampton Ready for Morehouse?

By Colbert King

If the Hampton Pirates never get eyes on the Howard Bisons again it will be too soon. For the second consecutive year the boys from Virginia have tasted bitter defeat at the hands of a Bison eleven. This time it was the spectacular passing of Charlie Smith combined with the steadfast defense of the Bisons sparked by sophomore end Bob Reed that beat them. Howard's display of smooth-working offense and rugged defense had the victory-hungry fans constantly on the verge of joyful hysteria as they scored two T. D.'s in the action-filled second half.

During the scoreless first half, the Bison's defensive line led by Bob Reed and Ellsworth Wiggins, constantly harassed Hampton QB Lewis Shackleford to such an extent that at times the Pirate Quarterback seemed to wonder if Howard was fielding more than eleven men. Then the fun began.

To start the ball rolling in the second half, Guard Art Waller pounced on a Hampton fumble on the visitors' 25. After a series of dazzling runs by halfbacks Howie Williams and Ted Hillman, Charlie Smith executed a surprise play by tossing an eight yard touchdown pass to 280-lb. Sid Banks on a tackle-eligible play. The sympathetic crowd moaned as "Big Sid" rolled over

Re-Election Today Gridiron Queen

Students who voted last Friday for Gridiron Queen in the University Ballroom will be asked to cast their ballots again today; this time in the Minor Hall student lounge.

Election returns from ballot boxes stationed in the Ballroom last Friday were invalidated because of discrepancies between the number of ballots and the number of signatures on the voters list. According to Mr. James L. Cary, Director of Student Activities, the discrepancy was greater than the difference between the totals of the first place and second place candidates at the tally. Hence a re-election is necessary.

The re-election will concern the following schools only: Liberal Arts, School of Social Work, Graduate School, and the School of Music. Voting will take place from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Last Friday's election was conducted by the university-wide Homecoming Committee, with the assistance of the L. A. Council's Election Committee. Today's election will be conducted by the L. A. Council's Election Committee.

Booster Club Commended, True Howard Spirit Urged

This school year has been marked by significant increase in the demonstration of school spirit by our students.

Howardites gleefully packed three buses to watch the Bisons play at Virginia State — the soccer and football teams have been enjoying encouraging audiences.

Much of this improvement is due to the work of the Liberal Arts Council's Booster Club and to the co-operation of the Physical Education Department. The Liberal Arts Council and its Booster Club are to be commended, in particular.

But there has been some complaint about the behavior of some Howardites at both our on- and off-campus games. The scope of this complaint has included some members of our football team, even. We ask you to make this Homecoming an enjoyable, if not rollicking, one. But let's not provide by our behavior evidence for the claim that Howard students are immature. Play hard, cheer hard, and enjoy ourselves; but let us remember that the old axiom counselling humanity against excess is as sound today as it ever was.

Cook Hall Sets Shining Example In People-to-People Project

President Dwight D. Eisenhower remarked not too long ago: "Greater understanding among nations, on a people-to-people as well as a government-to-government basis, is a necessary part of our efforts to remove misunderstanding that hinder disarmament, the building of a safeguarded peace, and the strengthening of freedom."

In 1956, some people of the United States got together to commence a "People-to-People Program." The program was structured in a fashion as to depend upon the American people to carry it out. It was to be completely non-partisan and outside government control, depending upon Americans' willingness to give time and effort to the cause of international friendship and peace.

People-to-People is a massive program today of communication between Americans and people of other lands designed to establish lasting two-way relationships in which international friendships and understanding can grow. Thirty-eight Committees of the People-to-People Program exist today, e.g., to mention a few, advertising organizations, banking, books, speakers, music, writers, youth, etc.

More than 1,000 men and women are members of these Committees, participating from their homes, offices, trips abroad, and through civic, fraternal and social organizations, by letter writing, sharing books and magazines, and inviting foreign visitors into their homes.

The People-to-People Book Committee recently completed a successful campaign for books to be sent overseas by collecting 16,000 volumes in one place. It is through the Book Committee that Howard University is a participant in the program.

The men of Cook Hall, spearheaded by the Hall's amiable director, Carl E. Anderson, have chosen not only to aid in the collecting of books for the Program, but to serve also as the Washington-area clearinghouse and packing agent for the Book Committee, which has headquarters in Morristown, New Jersey.

The HILLTOP commends highly Cook Hall, its residents, and Director Carl E. Anderson on this altruistic endeavor. The Cook Hall People-to-People project serves as a shining example for others on this campus to emulate.

Letters to the Editor FELLOWSHIP SOLICITED

Dear Editor,

I have noticed on campus a group of well dressed middle class students who seem to be so self-centred and egotistical that they do not care about those who are less fortunate than themselves. They are interested in trying to achieve a good academic record which should be their primary purpose for attending Howard. They are also interested in having a good time which is as it should be. Nevertheless, I feel some of these "good times" can be converted into services, services to the University and especially services to the community. This would mean curtailing some of the "fun time" and using it to help those in need.

I am referring to those people who are living under such deplorable conditions that there are five and six sleeping in one bed; three families living in a three story house with eight and nine per family; Food sufficient for two or three days with no foresight of food for the remainder of the week.

There are a few groups who do care what happens to these people. We have a service fraternity on campus which is willing to help change these conditions. Another group that has made a sizeable contribution to help these people is the Washington Fellowship House Workcampers. These youngsters, like myself, realize the need for love and understanding among mankind. They are college and high school people of all races, colors, creeds and religions who come together for a weekend to eat, sleep, sing, dance, and work. Together they go into the slum sections of the city and, for no money, work with the owner of the house to help make it a better place to live in.

I mentioned earlier that Howard's students are egotistical. Now I will give my reasons for saying this. In trying to recruit students for workcamps I have received a wide variety of excuses and refusals. For instance: "I've got a date Saturday night" or "I've got to study Friday night" or "I've got to work" or "I've got to stay home" or "I live in the dorm and can not get permission to be excused."

I am sure that if each of you would really search your heart, you could not find a concrete reason for not participating in workcamps.

Please students and faculty members, let us begin to show more love to our fellow man and take part in more service groups such as Howard's NAACP Chapter, a service fraternity on campus, or try to become a Fellowship House Weekend Workcamper. (NO. 7-7421). Remember the time to act is NOW.

UNHEALTHY ROTC ATTITUDE

Dear Editor:

In my childhood an army uniform had a most unique appeal to me. It was a distinctive symbol of ultimate respect. As life moves on and childhood is replaced by adulthood (in most cases) our childish ideals must yield to the harsh overwhelming and sometimes painfully disillusioning forces of reality. Today I find myself rapidly losing respect for the uniform which, as a child, I had idolized. Consequently, I sincerely believe that I am developing a very unhealthy attitude for the uniform.

This extreme change of attitude which I am experiencing at present is attributed to the student officers on Howard's campus who have become carried away with the game of "soldiers." How can one be expected to respect or even approve of a uniform which whenever he puts it on he subjects himself to abuse by some mild psychopath?

There are army student officers on the campus who, with very little effort, can do an exceedingly effective job of making Thursday the most dreaded day of the week. I have a tendency to be analytical where people are concerned. Analyzing this situation, I have found that there exists among the ROTC student officers a strong drive toward the assertion of masculinity. When an adult male has to go to the limits of humiliating and verbally debasing a man through the camouflage of military formality merely to prove to himself he is not an equal but superior, sir, look out! You are approaching an emotional danger zone.

Sincerely,
Claude Brown,
Class of 1963

HILLTOP COVERAGE PRAISED

Dear Sir:

Someone at Howard most thoughtfully sent us a copy of your issue of October 19 in which UN Day and UN Week activities are featured, and in which there were many interesting interviews with members of the faculty and student body about the organization, its affiliates, and its programs.

I wish to thank and congratulate you on this issue, and in this I am warmly joined by my colleague, Dr. William Bruce, who is now with us here as the Regional Education Representative of the Office of Public Information of the United Nations. We both hope that your readers may be reminded of the availability of the reference library in this office for UN documents and reports on various international phases of economic, social, and political questions together with a variety of general, popular material on the United Nations family, and of the interest that Dr. Bruce especially will have in discussing any phase of study—or of teaching—relating to our work.

I showed Dr. Bruce the issue in question and he noted to me: "The views expressed by both faculty and students, show seriousness to think about UN as an instrument or organization to be used by man to achieve the objectives of the Charter: one of the best student newspaper appraisals of the UN I have seen."

So again, our thanks and congratulations.

Brian Meredith, Director
United Nations Information
Center, Washington

SOCCER, L.A. COUNCIL COUNCIL BUDGET

Every student enrolled in Liberal Arts, Engineering and Architecture, Music, and Pharmacy, as an undergraduate student has paid an extra-curricular fee of five dollars. Now, with the exception of the HILLTOP allotment which the Councils are only the custodians of, the student Councils are free it would seem, if one goes by the superficialities of the situation, to do what they want with "public funds."

It would be nice if the Student Councils would hold hearings before they adopt their budgets. It would be even better if they would hold mass meetings informing the students of their plans to spend the "public" funds. Amidst all this talk of a Council for Councils, I am at a loss as to what they would do in this area of public funds. Certainly very little historical evidence can be brought to show that centralized bodies, such as they envision, have been any more considerate of public feeling than the several councils have been.

Perhaps, as individual students, we had best seek out our council members and find out what they are going to do with our taxes to benefit us. But, then again, we may yet see a mass meeting on budgetary affairs, or at least a hearing. P.E.J.

COUNCIL PROCEDURES

Some stable body of procedures ought to be decided on finally by the L. A. Student Council for the conduct of its meetings. This section hastens to suggest the following: (1) call to meeting by the president; (2) presentation of president's agenda; (3) presentation of matters from officers, viz., secretary (correspondence, etc.), treasurer, and the vice president; (4) presentations from individual members; (5) committee reports, and (6) any new business to come before the body, or such raised by student audience. The latter would be in keeping with "the spirit of the Committee of 100," i.e., students would have the chance to get closer to student government by having the opportunity to be heard. L.S.B.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Joan Burt has been appointed chairman of the Awareness Committee and Dwight Cropp, Council Secretary, will chair the Styles Committee.

The chairman of the third committee, The Committee on the Revision of the Constitution, was not announced. There is a disagreement as to which person should get the job. Joslyn Williams has been suggested for the position with his committee members listed as Percy Johnston, Russell Miller, and Cropp. L.S.B.

SOCCER TEAM

Howard's soccer team has been a championship team for some years now, and the sport has remained a never heard of sport on this campus until this semester. Thanks to the tenacity of Archibald L. Bethelmy, soccer is making the papers these days. Bethelmy has been a diligent soccer reporter; he is seen tacking up soccer notices for each event, and presses out handbills now advertising the team and its events. I am afraid soccer may replace football in a few years as the chief Howard sport, and because of Bethelmy's one-man (Continued on Page 7, Col. 5)

Harold Lewis Asks Intelligent Dissent

By Walt DeLegall

After a year's post-doctoral study at Harvard, Harold O. Lewis, Associate Professor of History, recently returned to Howard where he heads the Course, Introduction to the Social Sciences. Dr. Lewis, who has been teaching at Howard since 1931, received a fellowship from the Harvard Center for East Asian studies to concentrate on China and Japan.

"I should like to write a paper to supplement the Social Science text," said Dr. Lewis, with regard to his plans for revising the course. "I don't feel that the focus should be entirely on American society. Students must view human affairs in both microcosm and macrocosm."

Significant Changes

In the near thirty years that Dr. Lewis has been on the faculty, he has witnessed many significant changes in the University, both of an academic and physical nature. Upon reflecting on the changes taken place over the years, he stated that the many new buildings have added much to the elegance of the University. "I am much happier, however, about the increased technical competence among the faculty members with regard to training and preparation. Another trend has been the transfer of student affairs to professionally trained personnel."

As for the future, Dr. Lewis thinks that the reminder program should be extended. "I would also find it especially gratifying to see more intelligent dissent on the part of the students not merely on biblical issues, which are so popular today, but in all areas of our lives."

Candid Observations

Dr. Lewis who is well known for his candid observations, had this to say about the teaching profession. "The ideal teacher is one who does not limit his instruction to the mere fifty minutes of the class period. His instruction should, if necessary, be continued in after class discussion and student-instructor conferences. Of course, research and speaking engagements, etc., are an important part of the teacher's job, but these should be coordinated with his class instruction. If there is conflict between them, the former must, of necessity, be subordinated."

Lighting a cigarette in his casual, deliberate manner, he leaned back in his chair and went on to discuss his views on Greek organizations. He said, very pointedly, "I have no objections to the Greeks as long as in their functioning they do not abuse students seeking to join them. I feel that all students with the necessary scholastic qualifications should be admitted to the organization of his choice."

Dr. Lewis who is very fond of guns and western attire, has collected a number of rifles and various type hand-guns. During summers, between teaching school and reading, he manages to devote a lot of time to his favorite sport—target shooting.

Mental Health Is Theme of Weekend

"Mental Health and Today's Youth" was the theme of the annual Women's Weekend at Howard University, Nov. 6-8, sponsored by the Howard Women's Club of Washington and the Office of the Dean of Women.

More than 500 Howard graduates and undergraduates participated in this sixth annual program which brings Howard women together each year for discussions of problems affecting themselves, their families and communities.

The weekend got underway at 8 p.m., Friday, with a dinner in Baldwin Hall. Mrs. Mordecai W. Johnson, wife of the University president, spoke.

A forum on mental health was held at 10 a.m., Saturday, in the auditorium of the School of Engineering and Architecture building. Speakers included Dr. Luther D. Robinson, physician-in-charge, West Large Service, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington; Dr. Marvin E. Perkins, chief of the Bureau of Mental Health, D.C. Department of Public Health; and Dr. E. Y. Williams, professor and head of the Department of Neurology and Psychiatry of the College of Medicine at Howard.

Dr. Raleigh Morgan, Jr., associate director of the Center for Applied Linguistics, spoke at a luncheon meeting at 1 p.m., Saturday, in Baldwin Hall.

A fellowship brunch at 9 a.m., Sunday, in Miller House, was followed at 11 a.m. by the University religious services in Andrew Rankin Chapel. The Reverend Ralph D. Abernathy, pastor of First Baptist Church, Montgomery, Ala., spoke.

Nicholson Leads Harriers

By Richard Braxton

Coached by Mr. Ted Chambers the Bison cross-country team has run four races in inter-collegiate competition thus far.

In their first meet, a small contingent of three harriers represented the Bison against Lincoln U. at the latter's course. Lincoln won by a score of 19-40, Howard earning the 40 points and Lincoln's Eddy Williams gaining first place honors. Howard freshman, Clyde Nicholson was second to Williams, with Bisons, William Hall and Leroy Colter also placing.

Cheyney's Bill Chandler led to the finish in the next duel, Nicholson again placing second. Hall, Jim Alston, Herb Greene, and Leroy Colter finished in that order for Howard. Nevertheless, Cheyney was victorious, 19-38.

In the ensuing encounter, the first to be run at Howard, Jim Bryan, of West Chester, broke the record for Howard's three and three quarter miles course with a time of 18:42.5. In doing so, he led his teammates to a 18-45 victory. Placing for Howard were, in order, Nicholson, who was also third in the entire race, Hall, Alston, Martin, Greene, and Colter.

The fourth race was against Mt. St. Mary, and American University.

Nazi, Personality Issue Debated

By Carol Frost

The German Club held its first meeting of the school year on Thursday evening, October 29th, at 7:30 p.m. at the Miller House. The topic for the evening, "The Nazi Personality" embodied a brief talk of Guenter Hagedorn, a student in physics, and a discussion period, during which controversial aspects of the topic were debated.

Mr. Hagedorn, born in Preetz, Germany, and a former member of the Nazi Youth Organization, discussed the Nazi personality in relation to his own experiences and impressions of the Nazi regime. The purpose of his discussion, said Mr. Hagedorn, was not to attempt to justify or evaluate Naziism and its effects, but to explain how and why Naziism was able to develop. However, much of the discussion period resulted in moral evaluations of the Nazi regime. Active participants in the discussion included Dr. Bernard Fall, a former investigator for the Nuremberg trials, Dr. Karl Darmstadter, a former victim of Nazi persecution, and Edna Bolling, who had spent a summer with a German family through the Experiment in International Living. The meeting closed with the singing of Die Gedanken Sind Frei, "Our Thoughts are Free".

Winters: Recital "Song of Nations"

Baritone Lawrence Winters opened the 1959-60 concert series at Howard University, Thursday, November 12, with a program of songs of four nations. The concert was held in Andrew Rankin Chapel.

Three other concerts are scheduled this season. Pianist Malcolm Frager, winner of the 1959 Leventritt Foundation Competition, will play December 10; the Trio di Bolzano will appear February 11, and Pianist William Masselos on March 31.

Mr. Winters, who has appeared in 42 operatic roles in the United States and Europe, is leading baritone of the New York City Center Opera Company. His roles include the title role in Rigoletto, Amonasro in Aida, Dr. Miracle in Tales of Hoffman, Tschello in Love for Three Oranges, and Marcello in La Boheme. He has appeared also in musical comedy, playing a lead role in a two-year run (1945-47) of Call Me Mister. Graduated from the School of Music at Howard University in 1941, Mr. Winters made his solo debut in the same year with the NBC Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Leopold Stokowski. A year later he played the role of Porgy in the Broadway production of Porgy and Bess.

He has appeared in concerts in Canada, Mexico, Europe, the West Indies and Central and South America. A former member of the Howard Choir, Mr. Winters performed in 1955 as a soloist with the Choir and the National Symphony Orchestra in Constitution Hall.

Thomas Kerr, associate professor of piano at Howard, will accompany Mr. Winters. "In Memoriam," composed by Mr. Kerr, and two spirituals arranged by Mr. Kerr, will be included on the program.

The cycle, "Poeme d'un jour" by the French composer, Gabriel Faure, and two groups of German Lieder by Schubert, Schumann and Hugo Wolf will be sung in the first half of the concert. Aaron Copland's "The Boatman's Dance" will lead off a group of four songs by American composer, Kerr, Howard Swanson and J. Alden Carpenter. Afro-Brazilian songs and spirituals will be sung as the final group.

Army Draft-Extension Attacked at Oklahoma

(ACP)—Oklahoma State University senior Neal L. Baumgart wrote his views on the peacetime draft in this letter to the DAILY O'COLLEGIAN:

"This university will be interested in an article appearing in the October issue of Motive magazine entitled "The Army Gets Its Way." The author, John M. Swoomley, discusses the recent extension by congress of the peacetime draft for another four years, and believes such a law to be unwarranted and very dangerous.

"To summarize Swoomley's comments briefly—the army, in contrast to the more realistic air force and navy, failed in its drive for universal military training, but is placated by such laws as the Reserve Forces act of 1955 and the recent draft-extension act.

"Undoubtedly, army officers have come to believe their own propaganda that there is something inherently good and democratic in the requirement that every citizen serve. Army officers have a vested interest in maintaining a large establishment which requires a sizable officer trainer corps for every new group of draftees. The larger the establishment the greater are the chances for promotion.

"Perhaps Mr. Swoomley is merely nursing a personal grudge against the army, but, nevertheless, the provocative issues raised in his article deserve our immediate attention. Can this campus furiously "wave the flag" over the issue and cast it aside as we do so many others? (Will any ROTC or other students have the "intestinal fortitude" to take an intelligent stand despite ridicule from the many 300% Americans among us?"

Air Society Aims And Program Outlined

The Arnold Air Society is a society of Air Force R.O.T.C. cadets which has as its raison d'être the following goals:

1. The encouragement of the purposes, mission, traditions and concepts of the United States Air Force;
2. To promote greater awareness of the responsibilities of American citizenship;
3. To create a closer and more efficient relationship among R.O.T.C. cadets.

The Arnold Air Society has the active support of the Air Force, and the range of activities possible for members of this society extend from coast to coast as a result of the co-operation and support of the Air Force. These activities include area and national meetings, Air Force briefings, inspection tours and orientation flights. The all-important objective of these activities is the motivation of the individual towards a more successful and profitable Air Force R.O.T.C. career.

In accomplishing their objective the Cadet develops through participation in the training program qualities of teamwork, cooperation, discipline and dependability. Workshop Opened By Modern Dance Club

The opening meeting of the Workshop Series of the Modern Dance Club was held on October 23rd in the Activity Studio of the Women's Physical Education Building. The program consisted of brief outlines and demonstration of ballet and modern dance by students from the University of Maryland, and student and faculty members of the Dance Department at Howard. Particular emphasis was placed upon the Humphrey, Graham, and Wigman schools of modern dance. Miss Evalyn Washington, president of the Modern Dance Club, announced the outline of the year's program, which will attempt to relate the dance to the other fine arts.

Roving Reporter Univ. Senate Assailed

By Leonard S. Brown

Greeks and pro-Greeks haven't stop reacting yet to the University's Senate regulation issued several weeks ago defining and restricting activities of fraternities and sororities on campus.

While it would appear the action of the University is in harmony with a nation-wide movement wherein colleges are cracking down on the quasi-campus Greek organizations, feeling they have procrastinated in their duties long enough, it would appear also that the reaction of the Howard student is no more different or unique than the reactions of other university students. Here are Howard students:

COLBERT I. KING, Washington. "The actions of the University Senate are grossly unfair. The Senate is making a blatant attempt to weaken the Greek letter organizations, leading to their eventual elimination from the Howard campus."

MAUDINE M. RICE, St. Paul, Minn. "I cannot see any purpose behind the limitation of Greek activities. The University 'appears' to be attempting to slow down the interest shown by the student body. To me, Greek organizations are a vast part of University life. Many students desiring to participate may work harder in order to make the necessary grade averages."

WALTER A. BENNETT, N.Y. "The action taken by the University Senate was premature and absurd. I sincerely feel such action should be taken in a more democratic society and university."

Annette Eaton Begins Course in Russian

Howard University is beginning a Russian class under the direction of Dr. Eaton of the Classics Department. Meeting on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 12 to 1 in Douglass Hall, room 143, the class consists presently of about eight students, and any other interested students will be welcome. Additional instruction is being provided by R. C. Lewis and Corolyn Frost, who, having previously studied Russian, assist newcomers in the class. The extra-curricular course will proceed at any rate desired by the class, and the major objective will be a sound knowledge of the fundamental grammar skills. A basic text has been selected, and at present the students are undertaking mastery of the Cyrillic alphabet, a major difficulty in the study of Russian.

Under the guidance of Mr. Anderson and his staff, the Cook Hall Council has assumed responsibility to pack and ship books to be sent to foreign countries for the People-to-People Organization.

People-to-People is a nonpartisan and non government controlled program carried out by the people of the United States and is "designed to establish lasting two-way relationships from which international friendships and understanding can grow."

Recently, Mr. Hollis Hodges spoke to a group of interested Cook Hall residents on the nature of the program. From this group, a number of volunteers was selected and a committee was formed to screen 5000 books collected by various organizations and stored at a Goodwill Industries warehouse.

Hazing Death Causes National Stir

by Robert Walters

High on this week's list of discussion topics for college students is a news story from Los Angeles. In that city . . . a student at the University of Southern California was choked to death attempting to swallow a quarter-pound piece of oil-soaked raw liver.

What makes the story significant is that the boy who died in this particular instance was a pledgee of Kappa Sigma fraternity, and the liver swallowing was part of hazing during his initiation.

For those who don't know of the case (no Lehigh fraternity man can plead ignorance on this count since Dean Leith has mimeographed copies of both wire service stories and distributed them to all 30 fraternities) and the basic facts are as follows:

As part of an initiation eleven Kappa Sigma pledgees had been

Alpha Phi Alpha

Beta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha includes the following officers: President, Russell Miller; Vice-President, Clarence Magwood; Recording Secretary, Maurice Nelson; Corresponding Secretary, James Collins; Financial Secretary, Moss Kendrick; Treasurer, Joseph Robinson; Dean of Pledges, Samuel Gough.

The year's program is in the planning stage; however, the annual Queen's Court Tea will be held early in November.

Howard Debaters Win

By Conrad Harper

The Kappa Sigma Debating Society participated in its first tournament of the school year at the University of Maryland on October 31, 1959. "Resolved: That Congress should be given the power to reverse decision of the Supreme Court" was the Proposition which was debated. Six teams were defeated by the Howard debaters; of these teams, two from Georgetown University, two from the American University, one from the Catholic University of America, and one from Johns Hopkins University.

Anthony Campbell, Conrad Harper, Lascelles Anderson — in the order listed — were the three highest rated debaters from Howard at the Tournament. The other debaters who took part were Esther Barham, Dorothy Drinkhard, Kenneth Hansen, Ivan Hammond, Francine Johnson, Garnita Selby, Jerome Shuman, Horace Wheatley, and Claudina Young.

Argentine

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 5) University of La Plata, and Humberto Gussoni, a fourth year economics major at the University of Buenos Aires, all of whom are presidents of their respective student bodies, were guests of the L.A. Student Council, acting in behalf of the National Students Association.

"At Howard, I found students helping each other without distinction of any class or school. At your School of Law, I found the organization just great. I am very glad to know that your students are preparing to defend the rights of man."

While in Washington, the students visited the Argentina Embassy and the State Department, attended a Howard Student Council meeting, visited classes, and went shopping downtown.

told to eat the chunks of raw liver soaked in cod liver oil. Six succeeded. The seventh, Richard Swanson, tried five times and on the sixth fell gasping to the floor.

The members and pledgees became frantic. They slapped Swanson on the back, stuck fingers down his throat, turned him upside down, and finally became hysterical when nothing succeeded.

The incident, which has received nation-wide publicity, immediately brings to mind a similar affair of several years ago. In the last death of a college student due to an initiation practice, an MIT student fell through the ice cover of a reservoir and drowned.

Something certainly must be said for the fraternity case which points out that it has been a long time between the MIT drowning and the USC choking. When it is noted that any occupational group, including fraternity pledges, has a certain statistical chance of dying while engaged in whatever activity is necessary to that occupation, the argument almost assumes an aura of credibility.

Almost . . . until it pointed out that both of these deaths have one very startling characteristic in common — they were unnecessary.

Hampton struck back in nine plays to go ahead 7-6 following the kickoff. Fullback Norm Anderson accounted for the final yardage by smashing over from the 3.

In the fourth period Smitty uncorked another beauty to his favorite target, end Bernie Quarterman. This time Quarterman made an over-the-shoulder catch just before stepping out of the end zone. For the extra point, Ted Hillman faked a Hampton defensive back out of his shoes and caught Smith's toss.

After witnessing the chicanery of the Bisons many Hampton rooters left the game wondering why their team and not Howard is called the Pirates. And next comes Morehouse tomorrow.

The club has recently begun to transmit its philosophy into the community by performing in various programs for the public schools, various universities and colleges, and leading civic organizations. The May Festival, and a technique demonstration presented to the Freshman Assembly are annual events which incorporated the Dance Club into the immediate community.

During the winter quarter, there is held a Dance Workshop Series wherein one may share and reciprocate dance as it correlates with other art forms. There will be performances, lectures, and lecture demonstrations, master lessons, and presentations of celebrated dance artists.

The series is open to the public and is held at 3:30 on Fridays in the dance studios.

Daily are held the three dance classes which compose the Dance Club. At 3:30, the beginners and the intermediate classes meet under the direction of Miss Ruth Heikes and Miss Ethel Butler respectively. At 4:30, the advanced

The next major project of the Boosters is the creation of student interest in going to the Lincoln game on the 21st of this month. If they can arouse enough enthusiasm among the students, so that the latter take an active interest in the trip, the club plans to sponsor buses to Lincoln. Actually, the club itself will act only as an administrative body in the matter of collecting the necessary funds, and procuring the buses. No student subsidization will be made.
