We Salute The Navy . . .

Today is Navy Day. Even though the Bowling Green sailors are not on campus this week, it is only fitting that we should pay special tribute to them, as they are a small part of the great United States Navy.

Is there a little time in our hurried class-filled life to sit down for a moment and think? Think about the Lieutenants, the Ensigns, the Apprentice Seamen who are aboard ships in the Pacific area at this moment fighting for the ideal they think is right—for the country they love. We may hate to think that Homecoming celebrations will be shortened this year, but it will be paradise compared to what those men are going through for us.

From time to time comments such as, "What a snap those sailors have here on the campus," are heard. Do you think those men asked for this war? Of course not, but they realize that as long as they are in it, there must be leaders as well as followers in the Navy, and the leaders must be trained for their duties. The men on this campus will be those leaders in the not too far distant future. In a few months some of them will be the Ensigns in the Pacific area.

Right now they are studying—studying hard—so that they will be able to cope with situations which will arise later. Life is no bed of roses for them. Up at six, drill, clean rooms, classes, more classes, drill, study, and more study.

There is no doubt that some good will arise from this great struggle. A part of that good will be the leadership ability devoted by the many officer trainees.

So, as we salute the whole United States Navy and thank them for fighting for us, we extend a special salute to the Navy men on our campus.

Students, Servicemen Voice Opinions On Current Election

Elections are over, and since they were conducted differently this year than in previous years, we decided to scout around a bit to see what students and service men think of the reorganized system.

Here are a few examples of replies made to the question: "What do you think of the campus election system?"

Joanne Etzel, freshman — It gives all students a chance to take part and everyone has an equal chance to run.

Bill Chastain, V-12—The system is undoubtedly poor, but as long as the future elections come out as well as the Homecoming queen did, more power to them.

Wilda Berndt, sophomore—Most of us didn't know when, where, or how the election was to be held because of the lack of advance publicity.

Marti Vietmeier, freshman—As far as the upperclassmen were concerned, the election went off with a bang, but we freshmen didn't know anything about the procedure here. How about an assembly to let us in on campus secrets?

Second Contest Begins Monday

"Is the New Deal Endangering Free Enterprise" is the topic of the second extempore discussion contest. Registration for this second round in the contest series closes at noon Monday.

All students, including service men, are eligible to enter and may register in Room 106A, according to Dr. Wayne Thompson, director of forensics.

The contest, the same type as the one in October, consists of two rounds. Entries will participate in thirty-minute round table discussions on the central topic. The speaker judged best will qualify for the final.

A prize will be awarded to the winner of the final when speakers will give a five-minute speech in addition to the roundtable discussion.

The series will run throughout the semester when a sweepstakes contest will determine the winner of the event.

Dick Conn, Navy V-12 student, was the October winner. He and Merritt Van Fleet, Marine V-12, and Mary Jane Lloyd, sophomore, second and third place winners, are eligible to compete in the November contest without further tryouts.

Annual Will Have Military Theme

Due to the fact that the servicemen have invaded the campus this year, the Key, University annual, will have a definite military theme.

Navy V-12 and V-5 seniors will be pictured individually in the senior section. All other servicemen's pictures will appear by platoons.

A record of every Bowling Green alumnus now in service will also be featured. After the preliminary list is completed, it will be posted in the Well and students are asked to contribute the names and pictures of friends now serving in the armed forces.

All senior questionnaires are due in the Key office at 4 p.m. Wednesday. Seniors are requested to put them in Wilma Stone's box.

Keith Marah, Marine—I think it's a good system, but it was a little congested at times and some of the fellows didn't get to vote.

Billie Stone, sophomore — In spite of the fact that there were no men elected, I think the offices were well distributed.

Joe Rodio, V-12—I think it's the most loosely constructed and grossly inefficient system I've ever seen. There was no mode of checking to determine valid votes. In short, it was no election, but a distorted, glorified checking system.

That's what they said. What do you think?

Overman And Bunn Speak To Faculty

Dean J. R. Overman and Registrar J. W. Bunn were principal speakers at the second monthly meeting of the faculty Senate Tuesday afternoon in 315A.

Mr. Bunn gave a report to the faculty of his recent tour of inspection of Naval installations in the East while attending a conference of representatives from universities which have V-12 Naval training programs.

Dr. John Mosely Addresses Student Body On Education

Dr. John O. Mosely, Dean of Students at the University of Tennessee, spoke to the student body Monday at 11:20 a.m. in the auditorium of the Ad Building. His address was on "Old Deal in Education."

"Out of the worst times, the worst things can come, but out of these times, the best things can come, too. What are we going to get out of these times right now?" Dr. Mosely asked.

He then outlined "The Best Things in Education," first quoting from a great historian, "When it gets dark enough, you can see the stars."

"We've got to come back to the philosophy that the emphasis is on man—not on machines—not on money. A liberal education should be available to every person, and each human being should be allowed to think for himself. Students should be brought into contact with greatness, and mediocrity should be erased. All education should be the type that makes a person grow upward."

"Anyone who is in school should realize that his objective is not merely to get a grade, but to learn something. He should possess expression as well as information. He should also have unification—be able to look on life steadily and live it steadfastly."

Dr. Mosely, son of a Scotch Presbyterian minister, has A.B., B.A., and M.A. degrees. He had also completed half of the required

Speaker's Bureau Will Organize

The 1943-44 Speaker's Bureau will be organized Thursday at 7 p.m., according to Dr. Wayne Thompson, speech professor who will head the group.

The Speaker's Bureau, unable to function extensively this year because of gas rationing, has consisted in the past of a group of students prepared to give speeches, book reviews, or to participate in discussions. They have been on the programs of service clubs, high schools, and social groups throughout northwestern Ohio.

Admission to the bureau will be by tryout, Dr. Thompson said. Anyone who can not be present at the organization meeting should see him in his office, he added.

Anyone who has had some interesting or unusual experiences, who has a hobby of interest to others, or who is prepared to give book reviews or speeches of any type is urged to attend.

Twenty-Nine On Debate Team

Twenty-nine students are working as debate teams, according to Dr. Wayne Thompson, director of forensics.

Teams are Martha Transue and Mary Jane Lloyd; Alice White and Beverly Mills; Virginia Keller and Marilyn Smith; Margaret LeFevre and Lucille Pope; Betty Ruth Krabill and Aurelia Chris-Potts; Phil Miles and Donald Sutter; Merritt Van Fleet and Robert Bradley; Dick Conn and John Henry Wilson; Dora Ehrhart and Doreen Stouffer; Phyllis Crandall and Kathleen Price; and Vivian Gracely and Genevieve Sorenson. Additional debaters have failed to make a choice as to colleague, but are expected to do so soon. They are Marie Powell, Barbara Smith, E. Philip Trapp, Bill Zentz and Margaret Hall.

Pre Med Students Will Have Tests To Show Aptitude

The Medical Aptitude Test will be given in Room 303, Administration Building, at 3 p.m. on November 5.

All Pre-medical students should take this test, unless they have done so previously. The test may be taken more than once if a student desires to improve his score. The fee is one dollar to be paid at the time of the test.

Students expecting to take the test should leave their names in Dean J. R. Overman's office.

Jeanne Powell Wins Coveted Queen Honor

Another local girl makes good! Delta Gamma's candidate, lovely Jeanne Powell, was elected Homecoming Queen in an all-campus election held last Wednesday to reign over the festivities Saturday.

Her attendants, who rivaled for this coveted honor, will be Eloise Overholt, Elmere Parquette, Betty Brenneman, and Barbara Burridge.

Homecoming activities will be limited mainly to the football game between the Bowling Green Falcons and Alma College, Alma, Michigan. There will be no traditional Homecoming dance on Friday night due to war-time limitations, mid-term vacations for the service men on the campus, and the numerous activities of the nationalization of the sororities.

Donna Rech, the 1942 Homecoming queen, will crown this year's queen at the coronation ceremony immediately preceding the football game. Queen Jeanne and her regal court will reign throughout the game.

Jeanne is the daughter of Professor and Mrs. E. C. Powell. Professor Powell is a member of the University faculty. She is a junior enrolled in the College of Business Administration, minoring in social sciences.

No Decoration Plaque Planned

The YMCA has announced that there will be no award given for the best decorated house this year. In former years a plaque was presented to the sorority, fraternity, or dormitory who had the best outside decorations, but due to the shortage of materials and the fact that Homecoming will be shortened this year, the plan has been abandoned temporarily.

An all-campus party will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the Falcon's Nest Friday evening. Norm Knisely will preside as Master of Ceremonies for the evening, and some entertainment skits have been planned.

All graduated and former students of the University are invited to attend the Northwest Ohio luncheon for the alumnae at the Toledo YMCA at 12:15 p.m. Reservations may be made with Dr. W. A. Zaugg, chairman of the luncheon, today.

Last year the Delhi (now the ATO) fraternity won the house decorations plaque, with a "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" theme. The Pi KA's were second with their decoration scheme set around a Golden Falcon.

Dr. Swanson Is Chosen Head Of Wood County Forum Group

Dr. C. G. Swanson, professor in the sociology department, is president of the Wood County Public Forum, an organization which presents a program of speakers throughout the year. University students will be sold half-price tickets, either for the season or for a single number.

Hiram Motherwell, foreign correspondent, will open the series November 14 with a discussion of the problems presented in his recent book, "The Peace We Fight For."

Carl Joachim Hambro, president of the Norwegian Parliament and former president of the League of Nations assembly, will speak on the "Requirements of Peace", December 12.

Gilbert Ross, concert violinist and head of the department of stringed instruments of the University of Michigan school of music, will present a recital January 30.

Carleton Smith, economist and world traveler, will discuss "Our Future in South America" February 27, and Olive E. Tinder will give book reviews March 26 at the last program in the series.

This is the seventh year that the forum has sold half-price tickets to college students.

Support Our Advertisers . . .

We'd like to take a moment this week to give a big, hearty "Thanks" to Bowling Green merchants who help keep the Bee Gee News going from year to year. Few people realize that they would be paying approximately 10 cents a copy for a paper if there was no money coming in every week from the advertising department.

And what can you do to repay these merchants for seeing that you have an inexpensive paper every week? Here's what you can do. The next time you start on a spending spree downtown, pick up a Bee Gee News and find out who is supporting you so that you can do a bit of supporting, too. We know the merchants would appreciate this, and would show their appreciation by taking bigger and better advertising space from the Bee Gee News.

It's not a very big thing to do, people. Let's get behind the people who are boosting the Bee Gee News!

Block That Kick . . .

It is increasingly amazing to us that people whom one would consider loyal students, are continually complaining about every stick of furniture, professors, or institutional policy for which the University stands. How do you suppose this attitude will affect those who have had no previous interest in our college—the Freshmen and the servicemen?

We aren't condemning constructive criticism that offers a new idea to replace the old. It's this eternal "beefin'" that we're talking about. Sometimes we wonder if complaining isn't just another means of making conversation, like talking about the weather.

The next time you start to complain about something, just ask yourself this question: "Do I have a better solution to this problem?"—JT

A Word To The Wise . . .

It happens every year about this time. And then somebody has to write an editorial. But there's really no reason why college students have to be reminded about how to behave. Though it seems they must.

True, we are living in abnormal times, and people may not be giving as much thought to their actions as they might, but this is no excuse for action that is destructive to campus property. It seems that people don't realize that public property is everyone's property rather than no one's property.

So let's take it on ourselves individually to walk on the sidewalks instead of making unsightly paths across the lawn. Lawns really look so much nicer green than brown.

And there is no excuse for such action as carving and writing initials on desks and tables. Labels pasted on the tables and benches at the Nest are not attractive to look at either. And you've no idea how much extra work they make for the already overburdened.

Most disgusting and uncalled for action of all is writing and drawing of obscenities on the walls of the restrooms of the Nest.

It has also been noticed that some of the newcomers to the campus have unknowingly violated some of our campus traditions. Perhaps they are not to be blamed for this.

It may be true that they have no way of knowing what our "unwritten laws" are. But it doesn't seem that anyone would have to be told that hats should be taken off in the Nest. Strange as it may seem faculty members and officers have been as guilty as students in this matter.

Also the Nest has long had a house rule that there should be no "cutting in" or "tagging" of dancing couples.

Is it asking too much of everyone to cooperate in these few things? Let's keep alive what we can of custom and tradition.—BC

Jovial Jottings

BY KIPPY

If you can smile when things go wrong
And say it doesn't matter,
If you can laugh off cares and woe
And trouble makes you fatter,
If you can keep a cheerful face,
When all around are blue,
Then have your head examined,
Bud,
There's something wrong with you.
For one thing I've arrived at,
There are no ands and buts,
A guy that's grinning all the time
Must be completely nuts.

Sergeant: "Of course not."
Rookie: "Well, I didn't get up for reveille."

Mountaineer: "Doc, I want you to take a look at my son-in-law. I shot him yesterday and took a piece out of his ear."

Doctor: "Shame on you, shooting your son-in-law!"

Mountaineer: "He wasn't my son-in-law when I shot him."

"Your girl's spoiled isn't she?"

"No, it's just the perfume she's using."

"Was her father surprised when you said you wanted to marry her?"

"Surprised? Why he nearly dropped the shotgun!"

"Sure, send her in."

Toledo Symphony Concert Will Be Long Remembered

The symphony is over. But the haunting strains of its memory are still echoing over the campus.

When the Toledo Symphony Orchestra appeared in concert here last week it was one of those occasions which will go down in the year-book calendar. Ever since it was announced, excitement reigned.

The audience-filled auditorium included those who would recognize themes from every great symphony and overture and those who knew more boogie-woogie than Bach and Beethoven.

But whether a newcomer or a veteran at symphony concerts, not one could miss the thrill as the conductor came upon the platform and mounted the podium. Nor could one miss the thrill of the audience participation in singing The National Anthem, which brought a happy feeling of pride. The audience seated itself, the conductor raised his baton, and the music began.

Programmed were the works of Bach, Bizet, Haydn, Schubert, and Wagner. The numbers varied from the melodious Bach chorales to the imperial Overture to "Tannhauser" by Wagner. Thus each person heard a composition which was seemingly designed for his musical tastes.

And we realize that the beauty which was conceived in music years ago grows more beautiful with time. And we know that music is one of the perennials of eternity.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

Corporal Walter Bodt's squad was spying out Jap positions in the Pacific. We needed information badly. The squad got it, but was cut off from our lines. Using handkerchiefs tied to bayonets, Marine Corporal Bodt wigwagged the information back. He lost an eye, sustained other wounds from furious enemy fire, but his message was urgent. He stuck and got it through, winning the Navy Cross. Weapons are urgent too, and your War Bonds buy them.

Student Takes Class Notes Of Professors Idiosyncrasies

By JEAN NEWMAN

He is a man of ideas. He has journalistic aces up his sleeve. Yes, he has that wavy brown hair and the quiet manner. He has humor, the subtle type. Could you guess? And then there is the fellow who loves dogs. "I have a philosophy about them," he says. He likes to raise carrots, too, we take it, and as far as bacteria are concerned, well, he is just up on "every little thing."

There is one among us who has studied under Einstein, which confuses us greatly, because the only thing we have in common with Mr. Einstein is difficulty in parting our hair. Anyway, this gentleman fascinates his students. Apparently two and two do not make four and never did and there is very good reason for two cats and two cats not making four kittens and he is just the man to prove it, too. So there.

Does anyone remember a certain class that a certain gentleman with the initials J. W. had one year? It seems the roll call brought two transfers.

A certain Homecoming Queen whose pa-pa is in the Industrial Arts Department, says her dear padre "drinks dandelion wine and makes ration stamps and counterfeit greet bills in the basement."—Quite a business.

Let us not overlook the kind sir who talks in French and puts his students in Gallic fits. He is quite devoted to the subject even to the point of continuing the conversation (after the usual recitation in "that" language).

"Quel-ce que est la capitale de Espagneol, Madamoiselle Newman?"

"Oh, oui, Monsieur R., oui!"

An authority on the life of Alexander Hamilton greets certain debates with "Ahaaa!!!" and pummels his poor knuckles on an innocent desk. Who could he be? Who could he be?

As to these professors, well, we might go on and on. But, really, would they want us to?

The Editor's Mail

To the Editor:

There are three things that I think we could be doing to help win the war.

1. Have some means on the campus of selling war stamps.

2. Bring a Red Cross Unit to the campus for all-student body work.

3. Help entertain the servicemen while they are on our campus.

The first method could be very well carried out by setting up a booth for the sale of stamp corages in some conspicuous place such as the Falcon's Nest. Voluntary workers, chosen from sororities, YW, and other campus organizations could work in this booth at specified hours, like Saturday afternoons. Perhaps a small prize could be given at the end of a drive, to the person or organization who have purchased the most stamps.

For the second method we could use some large classroom and do Red Cross work on Monday nights or Sunday afternoons. There are many things which the unskilled person could learn to do for the Red Cross, such as knitting, rolling bandages, and making dressings.

The third method has probably been pretty well taken care of by the sororities, but we think that some of the Freshmen could make quite nice contacts with these fellows by having a party or so every now and then at the Falcon's Nest, or at Shtazel Hall and inviting different divisions to these affairs.

HOMECOMING . . .

We don't want you Freshmen to think that this Homecoming week-end is a typical Bowling Green one (we hear it's going to be rather quiet) . . . Maybe next year we can have one for you like they had for us when we were Freshmen . . .

WE'D LIKE TO SEE . . .

More of the V-S's individually, rather than in a body . . . It's so hard to tell them apart that way, Lieutenant Jones . . . more letters to the editors; a good way to get that "kick" out of your system . . . "Stitch" Sturzaker, and Whisperin' Walt Glaus, and Hugh Nott, and Big Elmer Brown, and lots more of the "old school" who are now scattered over the world . . . Carol Bill and Marge Fristoe around the campus after 7:00 . . .

PEOPLE WHO COMPLAIN . . .

It continually amazes us that people who are supposedly good and loyal supporters of our Alma Mater, can go about constantly criticizing every stick of furniture, professor, and institutional policy that the University stands for . . . How can you people expect others to admire a campus that you are constantly "beefing" about? . . .

SMART KID . . .

It happened in one of the freshman speech classes . . . Miss Hiltz: Since you are so kind in your criticism of the speeches of others, suppose you criticize your own, Mr. Chambers.

John C: I'm sorry, Miss Hiltz, but I wasn't listening to it very well . . .

LAY THAT HATCHET DOWN, BABE . . .

Lois Kochlaun had the Alpha Phi's in quite a dither when she couldn't locate her hatchet . . . Friend Alice Cerny had deposited the dread instrument in the waste basket, and it was "chuted" out . . . Worried Alice sat right down on a nice soft cement step and waited patiently for the paper collector to return Kochy's pride and joy . . .

POT PATER . . .

Another great organization has hit the campus . . . A pot club has been formed in Shtazel by Janey Rothe and Marty Ritzhaupt . . . Every one of the fourteen members has an appropriate flower name . . . Dorothy Gray is the littlest pot, Janey Rothe the biggest, and the rest, so we hear, are crack-pots . . .

SURPRISE . . .

Imagine the astonishment of the Delta Gamma's the other night when they were trying to be nice by serenading the boys in Kohl and received in return a fire drill, complete with bathrobes, blankets, and not much of anything . . . It seems that the sergeant doesn't approve . . .

BIG UPSET . . .

The upset of the week was when the seat of the station wagon tipped and Alpha Phi international president, Mrs. Cobb, landed, feet up . . .

FASHION NOTE . . .

Note all the coeds running around in their brothers' clothes (right, Bumby?) and that mellow Annapolis bathrobe Neeb owns . . . And the long, long jackets girls are getting from somewhere . . . The masculine influence is really being carried on—by the girls these days . . .

SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

We hear that Marine Jim Forrest is getting salty from being aboard ship so long . . . What did Chief Smith say when Bill Galbraith reported that all were present at evening muster by saying, "Company 3, Platoon 1, all absent, sir." . . . Is "Blackie" Blackman really the best dancer around this place? . . .

Homecoming Game Scheduled With Alma Saturday

Falcons Hold Yellow Jackets In A 7 to 7 Deadlock

The Falcons held the B-W Yellow Jackets to a 7-7 deadlock last Saturday night in spite of the fact that signal-caller Al DiMarco was confined to his barracks, as a disciplinary measure. The ace quarterback and aerial artist was left at home under Navy discipline and there is no question but that his presence would have made Bee Gee superior to B-W.

DiMarco's absence was quite noticeable in the first half, as the Yellow Jackets held the upper hand throughout. However the Falcons took complete command in the closing periods.

Lee Tressel put the Jackets ahead in the first period, leading a drive down to the Bowling Green 7-yard line and then skirting left end for the touchdown.

Jack Bevan, husky tackle made the extra point to give B-W a 7 to 0 lead, which the Jackets held until the final four minutes of play.

Bob Babcock, sophomore who was at DePauw last year, then tossed a 25-yard touchdown to big Wayne Bordner for the Falcons. George Brodston, fullback, got the tying point with a place kick.

The deadlock left the Jackets and Bee Gee's with similar records for the season, both teams having won four, lost one and tied one.

After one of the Falcons' numerous attempts to score was throttled on the B-W. 14, they came right back to score the tying touchdown, starting from the Jackets' 36-yard line where Jim Roberts' only poor punt of the game rolled dead.

Babcock circled right end for 11 yards and a first down on the B-W. 25 and on the first down from there Babcock hurled the pass that tied the count. Bordner snared the ball in the end zone while surrounded by three B-W players.

The Falcons had a slight edge in statistics, making 12 first downs to the Jackets' nine. Both teams tried 11 passes, B-W, completing four and Bowling Green six.

The Jackets got a break when Brodston fumbled and Bevan recovered on the Bowling Green 35.

After an offside penalty set the Falcons back five yards, Tressel went through a big hole in the middle of the line and got to the 9-yard line before he was stopped.

On the first play from there he took a lateral from Roberts and went around left end, completing his touchdown journey by diving into the end zone. Bevan added the extra point from placement.

The Jackets were in command the remainder of the opening half and threatened to score on the other occasion. A Bee Gee fumble gave the Jackets that chance too, Urban dropping the ball on the 50-yard line where Fioeca recovered for B-W.

A pass from Roberts to Mintz, with the latter floating into the flat, was good for 19 yards and was instrumental in the advance that carried the pigskin to the Bee Gee 7. Four downs netted the Jackets only three yards, however, and Baxter kicked out of danger for Bowling Green.

Squads Handicapped Due To Loss Of Players On Furlough

In spite of the fact that both Alma, Mich. and the Bowling Green teams will be handicapped for loss of players, there will be a homecoming game here Saturday. Game time has been set for 2:00 p.m.

Last week-end the Bunker Hill team pounced the Alma boys, 32-0.

The annual homecoming game has been a tradition for many years and it is at this game that Queen Jeanne Powell will be presented by Captain Wayne Bordner. However, due to the chaotic times, many of the gala events have been curtailed.

Undoubtedly both gridiron teams will be weakened as many of the players have gone home on leave and will not be back, but nevertheless both teams will be represented.

Gordan A. Macdonald's gridders from Alma have consented to meet in Toledo on Friday and then journey on to Bowling Green Saturday.

The tentative Alma line-up:

Newton, LE; Gabriel, LT; Dittmars, LG; Gillespie, C; Andrews, RG; Rosenkrans, RT; McMurray, RE; Hicks, QB; Chulaz, LH; Roseman, RH; Boelens, FB.

Rumors are that the Falcon line-up will be crushed as DiMarco and Brodston will probably not return. However, we can be sure of two good ends, Mohr and Bordner in there giving it all they've got.

Spotlights In Sports

Orders are orders! An it is due to this fact that the spotlight shines vividly on thirteen magnanimous seniors who fought their last battle for the Falcons on the B-W gridiron last Saturday.

We'll sure miss his competent captainship, his never-ending fighting spirit, and his pearly teeth (if he has any left). The campus just won't be the same with Big Wayne Bordner gone.

If someone happened to ask, real sudden like, for the names of the best footballers who went to the wars for the Falcons clad in orange and brown, tackles Al Schindler and Art Mergenthal would certainly head the list. Knowing that these two linesmen were in there plugging with all they had was a sure ace for a strong defense.

Then there's the index of the team, Homer Socolofsky—a fine Kansas State boy, who came in the V-12 program with his buddy, Big Bill Engelland. Engelland played a fine game at B-W in the end position.

Two veterans on the Falcon team—Don Harris and Ward Pollock. Harris, an all-time guard, while Pollock alternated at back.

Although Little Mike Patanelli had his ups and downs, we could always hear his cheering from the bench.

Dave Hayes, tackle from Hiram, and Bob Fuller, back from Mt. Union, both saw action in the B-W game.

Even though we didn't know you personally James Hodgen, Howard Bruce and Don Jacob, we knew you were out there for the Falcons 100 per cent.

This is a tribute to you footballers who come and go, we know, but are never forgotten.

Mohr, a Berea product, never seemed to be appreciated at home as much as he was Saturday night. Don is one of the finest gridders in the state. He thinks Captain Anastasio is "tops", for the favor last Saturday... Miami pounced Ohio Wesleyan last week-end, 35-0.

Don Munson, Buffalo Runner Wins Annual A.A.U. Event

Twenty-nine players competed in the 40th annual Junior AAU Cross Country Championship held here Saturday afternoon.

Oberlin won the team championship with Bowling Green second and Ohio State third.

Don Munson, from the Buffalo YMCA won the 10,000 meter event running approximately 6 1/4 miles in 33 minutes and 20 seconds.

Munson took the lead before the end of the first lap around. He is the National AAU 5,000 meter Steeplechase champion, and is one of the fine runners in such events in the country.

John Hermanies of Penn State was right behind him while Frank Hicks, a 17-year-old from the Buffalo Y. was third.

Eaton Freeman, of Oberlin was fourth, while Harold Hess, of Bowling Green, was fifth, only 8 seconds behind him.

Oberlin finished with 19 points, Bowling Green totaled 38 while Ohio State had 54.

In addition to Hess, the Bowling Green team consisted of Henry Salzman, who came in 10th and qualified for one of the first ten individual medals as did Hess; William Forrest, 11; Jim Ferrell, 14; and Beaton Pettingill, 16.

Lt. Russell Ferguson was the starter of the meet while his superior officer, Lt. Cmdr. J. Courts was the honorary referee. Harold Anderson conducted the meet, Sam Monetta being the referee and Alva Bachman in charge of the finish judges.

The tabulated results:
1—Munson, Don, Buffalo YMCA, time 33.20.
2—Hermanies, John, Penn State,

Cage Drill Starts Under Anderson

Bowling Green State is going to have a basketball team. Athletic Director Harold Anderson, who coaches the cagers, has been working with about 40 men this week and expects to cut the squad before serious drill is started after Nov. 1.

Veterans of the squad are few this season. Big Sid Otten, sophomore from Bellefontaine, who skims clouds at 6 ft. 11 in. is on hand again for some sensational play and Joe Siegforth, sharp-shooting forward from Akron, has also reported. Ron Waugh, of B.G., will be out after football is finished.

Coach Anderson is arranging a complete schedule, which he will announce shortly.

The taking of junior Key photographs will be completed today and Thursday and scheduling should be done at once at the table in the Well.

The fee is 50 cents which includes one enlargement of the photograph.

To add variety to the class section the juniors are being pictured individually in outdoor portraits. Samples of the pictures are on display in the Well.

Floor Show Will Be Featured At "Homecoming" Nest Party

In answer to all the questions goin' 'round the Campus, the answer is "YES, we are going to have a Homecoming Week-end". Perhaps the upperclassmen will be able to detect quite a few changes in this traditional alumni get-together, but we should all be accustomed to changes by this time.

Friday night Bob Crowell and Miss Katherine Rausch will be host and hostess at the first Nest Party of the year! The privilege of keeping the juke-box singing falls on the Social Committee, so get your group together and plan to spend the evening at the Nest.

That Homecoming dance you've all been asking about is scheduled for Saturday night in the Recreation Hall from 8:30 to 11:30. General Chairman of the affair is Kay Carras.

Urge your Alumni to attend the dance and mix with their old B. G. friends and members of the faculty. It may be different, but it can be fun.

Drape Shaped Hospital Gowns New Fad For Freshmen Women

Have you ever thought of yourself as just one more mortal, with maybe different dimensions than Betty Grable, but all the same a human with two eyes, a nose, and a mouth?

There is probably only one time in life where curves make no difference, that is when you receive the little yellow card in the mail which tells you to appear for your physical. All at once you begin to see allusions concerning what is going to happen.

Your sense of modesty becomes overwhelming and you are sure you can never go through with it. Don't fear, many an upperclassman has lived through the ordeal, and shows no marks of the tragedy. They know your fears and you are delighted when they succeed in convincing you that you will never pull through.

The appointed day comes and with your awful card you appear at Johnston Hall, embarrassed and sure that it will be a most horrible experience to endure. Then probably will be the time for you to discard your outer protection and resort to your birthday suit (well practically). The parade of other students in their newly acquired dress whites and draped shaped outfits will make you momentarily forget the awful thing that is before you. Finally your time comes and again your knees turn to water and your mouth feels like your heart were in it.

Heart beat—normal, eyesight—adapted to night work, teeth—present, weight—we really can't say, height—well, and so on until you feel like the index to a mail order catalog.

When finished, your fears are forgotten, you seem to tick right and all is well again, the first thing that will probably come to your mind is, "Won't I have fun next year scaring the green Freshies."

Bowling Green Is Ideal Spot For Progressive Fraternity

"Bowling Green is an ideal spot for progressive fraternities," Dr. John O. Moseley stated Monday afternoon in a forum open to all fraternity men and women on the campus. "You have the initiative and the congeniality here that makes for good fraternity life."

Dr. Moseley went on to explain just what the fraternity should offer to the individual and what the individual can give to the fraternity. "The fraternity can accomplish what the University can not do in the way of social life and the development of personality, but unless the fraternity cooperates with the scholastic program of the university, it is doomed."

"There is no place in the fraternity for the individual who feels he has nothing to learn, or cannot be bettered in any way. Such a person will have nothing to offer the fraternity and will be uncooperative in everything they undertake."

A series of events comprising what is known as a Greek Week has been in practice at the University of Tennessee for four years and has had great success in selling the fraternity to the university and to the individual.

The program, agreed to by both fraternities and sororities, provides for all the pledges moving into the house for a week prior to initiation. The parties and meetings which are held during the week are for the purpose of entertaining the pledges and making them feel more at home in fraternity life, not to amuse the active members by requiring the pledges to ridicule themselves in public, or perform personal services for the older members. In other words Hell Week is becoming a thing of the past and a more constructive program is taking the place.

The week's program consists of exchange luncheons, advisory meetings, introduction to alumni, and in general acquainting the new pledges with the history and traditions of the fraternity and the University.

A pledge night, entertaining the pledges and their guests, can go a long way toward making the pledges feel that they are really welcomed in the fraternity. All entertainment should avoid the stilted and the pompous and the program should be planned so as to insure that it will be an evening the pledges will always remember.

After initiation the fraternities and sororities join in a formal banquet honoring their new members, at which time an outside speaker should be invited to address the group on some timely subject.

Such a Greek Week, advocated by Dr. Moseley, is already in practice in many universities. It is a Greek Week where no one loses any sleep or misses any classes and from which the pledges emerge with a new feeling of confidence and appreciation, rather than one of humiliation and relief. It is a subject which Bowling Green fraternities should give deep consideration now that so many have become affiliated with national organizations.

Nest Celebrates Second Anniversary Sunday Night

Simple impromptu ceremonies Sunday night marked the second anniversary of the opening of the Falcon's Nest.

Free cake, dispensed to patrons early in the evening, ran out long before the official birthday cake was cut at 10 p.m.

While President Frank J. Prout, god-father of the student union since its inception, looked on, Kay Carras cut the cake aided by Bob Crowell. These two are the only student assistants who have served the Nest since its opening.

Begun as a meeting place and "coke parlor" the Nest soon outgrew the function originally planned for it. Cafeteria meals soon were inaugurated which made expansion of kitchen facilities necessary.

First manager of the Nest was Don Patterson, '42, who was followed by Mrs. Mary Katzenberger, better known by students as "Mrs. K." The present manager is Miss Kathryn Rausch.

The Nest is under supervision of a faculty-student committee headed by Dean Ralph G. Harshman.
