Editorially Speaking . . .

Damaged Dignity Or Oversensitivity?

A significant incident happened rather inconspicuously during the Kappa Sigma Chariot Race parade a week ago Saturday. It lasted no more than a couple of minutes, and its disturbance to the parade was so slight that only a few participants and by-standers were aware of its occurrence.

As the lengthy parade approached the front of Kohl Hall, the lead chariot was forced to halt. The reason for the forced stop of the parade was a group of approximately 15 Negroes with linked arms standing across Route 6.

The Negroes were asked to step aside by the Campus Police and a representative from the parade, and, after a brief exchange of words, the parade was again on its way.

The purpose of this brief "demonstration" was to protest the use of black body coloration by parade participants. In last year's parade, several units had participants who used black shoe polish to color their skin. Apparently this was to give the participants an appearance of being Negro slaves. (Historically, however, most of the slaves of the Roman empire were white Christians.)

However this was not the case in this year's parade. None of the marchers used artificial means to color their bodies.

The demonstration was not supported by the whole Negro population on campus. The idea was conceived and carried out by a small group of Negroes, but we feel that the stand taken typifies the feelings of most Negroes.

We spoke with several Negroes connected with the incident. Here are some of their comments:

We did this to "let the students know how we feel."
"Either people do not know or do not care about Negro feelings."

"With present racial situations, it (the body coloration does nothing to better relations . . . it causes racial friction."
"There will be more of this (demonstrating) as time goes on if this type of thing continues."

About the closest thing to body coloration during this year's parade was participants who were covered with mud. Annually, Kappa Sigma pledges are required to jump into mud before they pull the Venus Queen's float in the parade. This traditional event precedes the parade each year, and it is the final humbling act of pledging.

Besides the fact that it has been tradition, one of the men of the fraternity commented that the muddy appearance of the pledges is so bad, that the contrast between them and the queen just gives her extra radiance.

However one of the spokesmen from the Negro group commenting about the mud remarked that the "connotation is still there." But this belief about the mud was not unanimous, even among the Negroes who demonstrated.

We feel that the use of mud and the use of shoe polish are two different items, with different meanings and connotations. To demonstrate against the use of one is to protest against dirt, while to protest against the use of the other may have a more serious cause—the Negro dignity—behind it.

Now that racial tensions are mounting in this country, and the Negro is pressing harder than ever for equal rights and opportunities, this type of incident comes as no surprise. It is only natural that today's Negro does not enjoy still being linked with his ancestors of the slave days.

We are for civil rights and the common dignity of man, but there is such a thing as becoming oversensitive too. If there was a deliberate attempt at ridicule, as some of the Negroes believe was the case in last year's parade, then they have a just right to be heard, and we all have a moral obligation to see that this type of thing does not reoccur. But to demonstrate in the future against jumping in the mud, seems to us to be reading into a situation something which is not intended or does not exist.

This oversensitive type of behavior is about as absurd as a band of Indians protesting a cowboy movie in which the Indians lose, or the Chinese protesting the use of "Chinese New Year" for the theme of Spring Week End (As was the case in an early letter to the editor), or like demonstrating against the Mud Tug.

Public assembly and the right of protest, within the law, is a constitutional right of all American citizens. Demonstrating against last year's use of body coloration might have been justified, but even in this case there is some question as to whether this is being oversensitive or not. But to demonstrate against this year's parade is definitely becoming oversensitive.

It is our hope that in the future, participants in the parade will give no cause for racial demonstrations, and the future demonstrations, if any, will have a definite cause.

Letters To The Editor

Functions Of Court

To the Editor:

In reply to Gary M. Victor's letter which appeared in the May 14 issue of the News, I feel that a few brief statements should be made.

First, any court sitting on traffic cases is in a position unique in the court system. In virtually all parking violation cases the vehicle cited was in violation at the time when the ticket was issued. Therefore, the cases which come before a traffic court are those which offer circumstances in mitigation of the car's illegal position. The court in these cases must decide who was responsible for the illegal act; an interpretation of the law is not required.

Secondly, the function of any court is a judicial, not a legislative one. It is the duty of the court to interpret and apply law, not to make it. Mr. Victor, who seems to question the reasonableness and justice of the laws should appeal to the legislative rather than the judicial area of government. His proper recourse would be to consult with the President of this University, who would probably be more than willing to pursue his case.

Thirdly, the college student is usually expected to be mature enough to obey the traffic regulations. If everyone disregarded them, the result would be obvious. To one who has heard many cases in court this year, it seems a rather frightening mirror into the beliefs of the people of our generation if they must resort to perjury to protect themselves. No reflection on Mr. Victor intended, but how those who speak of resorting to perjury as their only answer can cry for truth and justice is a little beyond me. The Student Court at Bowling Green prides itself this year on the sympathetic ear it has lent to the Student Body.

Constructive criticism and student interest are areas that the Student Body Organization have been trying to promote all year long. But irresponsible and uninformed name calling is no more the answer now than it has ever been.

Chief Justice, Student Court

Polls Reliable?

To the Editor:

Mr. Love's most recent attack on the Arizona Senator places implicit faith in the Harris and Gallup polls. Any student of journalism should be aware of the fact that polls can be concocted to press almost any point the individual paying for that poll chooses. Dr. Gallup, for one, has been engaged in selling Liberalism to the American people since the days of F.D.R.

More importantly, Mr. Love is in grave and unquestionable error in stating that the Senator's delegate count is not commensurate with his alleged poor showing in the primaries.

To date Senator Goldwater has won four of the nine primaries, or 44 per cent. Governor Rockefeller and Ambassador Lodge have each won two, or 22 per cent, and Governor Seranton has won one, or 11 per cent.

Nor have the Senator's victories been in small states. The aggregate total of all popular votes cast run as follows: (West Virginia is not included. Rockefeller was unopposed and the total vote was small, but I haven't been able to find exact figures.)

Of a total of 2,189,525 in the eight states, Goldwater has 984,683, or 45 per cent. Lodge has 342,392 or 16 per cent, Sranton has 228,599 or 10 per cent, Smith has 199,203 or 9 per cent, Nixon has 172,403 or 8 per cent, Rockefeller has 128,891 or 6 per cent, and Stassen has 110,699 or 5 per cent.

Obviously, as I'm sure Mr. Love can see, the delegate count definitely is inconsistent with the popular will. Perhaps Mr. Love, in the course of his research, should pay less attention to the harangues of news analysts, and more to the facts which are at hand.

George R. Wallace

It Stands To Reason

A Change Is Needed In Vietnam

By John Love
News Associate Editor

The United States has been deeply involved in a war for the last three years. Presently, our contribution to that war consists of $1.5 million a day and 15,500 military "advisers." Since entering the war in Vietnam, the United States has regularly increased its aid to the South Vietnamese government, but the aid has shown few visible signs of helping to deter the persistent attack of the communist Viet Cong.

Recently, the Viet Cong have stepped up their attack on South Vietnam. At this point, the United States is faced with many choices. We can continue our present aid, increase our aid, withdraw all support, or press for negotiations to set up a neutralist government in Vietnam.

Our present amount of aid is not really aiding at all; it is only prolonging a war which, under the present circumstances, we cannot win. The aid that we have given to date has been inadequate to suppress and push back the driving Viet Cong. The communist guerrillas are taking increased control of the Mekong Delta, one of the main areas of battle. They are continuing their push southward despite our effort to win the war by 1965.

To withdraw all support would be just as foolish as to continue our present aid program. Our country has committed itself to supporting a legal government which is earnestly resisting attack from without. True, many Vietnamese are now willing to make a peace no matter what the price. But it also must be remembered that they have been involved with war for a quarter of a century. It could be that they are tired of resisting defeat with the help of too little aid from their allies.

A neutralist government is highly impractical in the light of its experimental use in Laos.

Furthermore, the communist desire to force the United States out of Southeast Asia and to establish communist governments in that area would only be temporarily satisfied by a neutralist regime.

If the United States' present aid is to have any meaning in the future, our only course is to increase the economic and military aid enough to produce a victory over the attacking reds. Also, the President firmly pledged last week that we would not withdraw from Southeast Asia. To back down or fail at such a commitment would be disastrous to our foreign prestige.

Our effort thus far can only be considered half-hearted. The planes that we are sending to aid the effort are obsolete. Recently, two American pilots were killed when the wings fell off their prop-driven T-28 airplanes (1949 vintage).

Five hundred million dollars a year and 15,500 men may seem adequate, but the results produced have not been satisfactory. This situation cannot be justified to the belief of many experts that if South Vietnam falls into communism, the rest of Southeast Asia will follow.

If we consider our position in Southeast Asia a strategic one, we have not shown it with our actions. If it is victory we desire, we must put forth a victorious effort. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara recommended a 100 per cent increase in our aid to the war-torn country. But this increase may prove inadequate; I believe that an even greater increase is needed, and it may be in the offing.

Library To Install Copying Machine

A coin-operated machine, known as Vicomatic, will be installed in the University Library on a trial basis within the next two weeks, said Dr. A. Robert Rogers, director of the Library.

The machine will produce full-size negative copies of flat documents and pages from bound volumes at 25 cents a page. It will be placed in the Reference Room and will be available for use whenever the Library is open.

Students are invited to visit the Library in late May or during the summer to examine or use the machine, said Dr. Rogers. If the results this summer are mutually satisfactory to the University and Magnagard Inc., a contract will be negotiated in September.

Netters Share MAC Crown: Dean Wins; Stu Hughes' 66 Captures Medalist Honors

TENNIS

Climaxing a year of record-setting, the Falcon tennis team grabbed a share of the Mid-American Conference net championships Friday and Saturday at Oxford, becoming the first Falcon court squad ever to accomplish this feat.

The Falcons shared the crown with perennial titlist Western Michigan (champion or co-champion the last 11 seasons) and host Miami, each compiling 12 points. Kent State and Toledo each managed five points for fourth place honors, followed by Marshall with one point, and Ohio with none.

"We did it with the great team balance we have had all year," stated coach Robert Keefe, who has enjoyed his most successful of nine years at the helm of the Falcons.

"In the tournament, each of our entrants contributed at least one point toward our total. In addition, in the six categories in which our boys did not win the individual title, they were eliminated by the eventual champion."

Senior Lee Murray closed out a brilliant intercollegiate career by reaching the finals in the division of number one singles contestants before bowing to top-seeded Bob Gill of Western Michigan, 6-3, 9-7. In advancing to the final match, Murray disposed of Kent State's Ernie Kuhn, 6-2, 6-0, avenging a setback by Kuhn earlier in the season.

Number two man Ted Norris fought his way to the semi-finals, downing Toledo's Jack Crowley, 7-5, 6-3, but then fell to Western's Mike Goodrich, 6-2, 6-4.

A sparkling performance by Jim Dean, 12-1 during the regular season, brought the University's only individual title. Competing in the number three spot, the sharp sophomore mowed down three opponents in impressive fashion, defeating Marshall's Lou Sammons, 6-1, 6-1, Miami's Ray Gates, 6-3, 6-1, and Kent State's Ray Vens, in the title match, 6-1, 6-4.

The Falcons' number four man, Tom Manning advanced to the semi-finals with a 6-2, 6-1 win over Marshall's Jim Wellman but fell to Dick Meredith of Miami, 6-1, 6-2, to end his title hopes.

The Falcons' number one doubles team, Steve Brannan and Murray, added two wins to the team total, besting Bill Carroll and Wayne Wokey of Marshall, 6-3, 6-1, and Bill Thompson and Fred Bonsack of Miami, 8-6, 6-2. The Falcon combo was unable to upset the nationally ranked Western Michigan duo of Gill and Goodrich, however, falling, 6-1, 6-4.

Also reaching the finals of their division was the Falcons' number two doubles team of Norris and Manning. They dropped Ohio Holden and Kent Hiatt, 6-3, 6-1, and Western's Burt Wiehsema and Glen Sykes, 6-3, 6-4, before bowing to Miami's talented team of Gates and Meredith, 6-3, 9-7.

GOLF

Adding a brilliant seven-under par 66 to an opening 74, Falcon number one man Stu Hughes captured medalist honors in the Mid-American Conference golf championships at the Oxford Country Club Friday and Saturday.

Hughes, fourth in the Ohio Intercollegiate, missed the course record by only one stroke in pacing the Falcons to a close fourth place in the tightest MAC links battle ever staged.

Perennial titlist Ohio University, winners of last year's title by a full 41 strokes, vaulted to a five-stroke advantage in Friday's opening 18 holes but had to settle for just a share of the crown as charging Toledo deadlocked the Bobcats at 739.

Two strokes behind the co-champions with a 741 total came host Miami, second at the midway point, followed by the Falcons at 742. Marshall was fifth with 746, followed by Western Michigan, 756, and Kent State, 773.

Behind Hughes, who averaged 76 strokes per round while compiling a 12-8-2 mark during the regular season, came Dick Ambrose, 75-70-145, Ron Apple, 74-74-148, Chuck Darnell, 77-77-154, and Pat McGohan, 80-75-155.

Ohio was led by Bob Santor, back from last year's title team, who carded a steady 70-71-141. Pacing the surprising Rockets, 24-6 during the regular campaign, was Dennis Spencer with a 71-70-141.

The winning 739 team total was one stroke better than last year's 740 recorded by the Bobcats at Bowling Green. Toledo finished a distant runnerup with a 781 total, eight strokes higher than what last place Kent State fired this year.

The Falcons finished third last year with a 785 total with Hughes leading the way once again with a 79-76-156 total. Ohio's Nick Karl was medalist last year with a 66-72-138.

The Falcons, never lower than fourth but never a titlist in eight campaigns under coach Forrest Creason, were 18 strokes back at the halfway point after a disappointing 380 18-hole total but came back Saturday with a 362, 10 strokes better than what any other team recorded that afternoon. Ohio took the first day lead with an identical 362 total.

TRACK

Unable to capture a single first place, the Falcon thin-clads slipped to a fifth place finish in the Mid-American Conference track championships held last week end at Oxford, Western Michigan again dominated the seven-team contest to notch its seventh consecutive MAC title, collecting a total of 72 points.

Miami was runner-up with 61½ and was followed by Ohio University, with 38; Toledo 37; the Falcons, 26½; Kent 6; and Marshall 2.

Miami's Bob Schul, the nation's fastest collegiate miler this spring, was the top individual performer as he cracked the meet records in both the mile and three-mile runs. Schul, who has been clocked at a 4:00.9 clip this season, broke the MAC mile mark of 4:12.3 with his fine 4:07 effort and bettered the 14:35.2 three-mile standard with a 13:52.5 timing.

Ken Bryant, who tied for second in the broad jump and finished third in the high jump, was the leading Falcon point-producer. He barely missed taking first honors in the broad jump as his leap of 23'5" fell short of 23'6" winning effort by Western's Dennis Holland.

Kent's Norm Curry sailed 6'9¼" to erase the MAC 6'8" high jump record, while Bryant, the defending champ, jumped 6'5" and had to settle for a third place this season.

Sophomore speedster Tom Wright sprinted to a :48.1 finish in the 440-yard dash and broke the varsity record of :48.4 but still was not quick enough to outrun Ohio's Barry Sugden, who crossed the line in :47.5.

The Falcons' veteran pole vaulter, Keith Hamilton, was in his best form all season, breaking his 13'9½" varsity record with a 13'10" leap to tie Mike Bradford for second place. Western's Mickey Turcheck sailed 14' to capture first place laurels.

The Falcons end their 1964 outdoor season Saturday when they visit Baldwin Wallace for the annual All-Ohio Championships.

CLEAR 13'10"

Falcon record-holding pole vaulter, Keith Hamilton turned in his best vault of the season Saturday in the Mid-American Conference championships at Oxford. Hamilton and two other thin-clads cleared 13'10" but Western Michigan's Mickey Turcheck won the individual crown with a 14' vault.

Stickmen Club Mich. St., 14-1; Finish Season With 3-7 Slate

The Falcon stickmen, celebrating recognition of lacrosse from a club to a varsity sport, humbled invading Michigan State Saturday, 14-1, to conclude their season with a 3-7 mark.

The stickmen recorded their second straight victory and third in their last four behind strong offensive performances of veterans Larry Bice, Steve Shuckra, and co-captain Mike Corrigan.

Bice, last year's playing-coach, established a new Falcon point mark with four goals and three assists for seven points. Shuckra, who set the single game total point mark last week against Notre Dame, equaled his effort with four goals and two assists. Corrigan contributed three goals and one assist, all coming in the second period when the Falcons scored five times.

Shuckra penetrated the riddled

Spartan defenses for three goals in the opening stanza, two on assists by Bice, to start the rout.

Against Notre Dame Wednesday, the stickmen almost completely dominated the Irish behind the scoring of veteran Larry Bice, who scored four goals and one assist, and Steve Shuckra, who scored four goals and two assists.

Tom Green, Dave Lampman, Ron Frantz, Bob Schnauber, and Chuck Myer also got into the scoring act, connecting for one goal each, while co-captain Corrigan contributed two assists.

Notre Dame scored first, slipping a goal past Mike Petrosini early in the opening period at 1:35, but Green countered just four seconds later for the Falcons.

The Falcon stickmen added three more goals in the first period and two more in the second period while the Irish were held scoreless, taking a 6-1 halftime advantage.

Falcon Nine Splits With Irish Host Cincinnati Today In Finale

Coach Dick Young's Falcon baseball squad concludes its season at 3 p.m. today, hosting Cincinnati.

The University nine bulged their season mark to a fine 17-9-1 in three games this week, smashing Dayton, 15-3, in a single game Wednesday, and splitting a double-header with Notre Dame over the week end.

Long-hitting Tom Tiettmeyer, steadily regaining the batting form that netted him the Mid-American Conference batting title two years ago, rapped five home runs in the three game set. Tiettmeyer's latest surge gives him eight hits in his last 16 appearances, including seven homers.

The Falcons unleashed a massive 16-hit attack Friday, including three circuit blasts by Tiettmeyer, to smash Dayton, 15-3.

Frank Reyes worked eight innings and picked up credit for his first win of the season, permitting only four hits while fanning five and walking two.

The Falcons registered their 17th win of the season Friday, scoring an unearned run in the 10th inning to nip Notre Dame, 14-13.

The diamondmen rang up seven runs in the first inning aided by four consecutive walks and a grand slam home run by Kashmer.

Falcon ace Jack Thompson started but had his problems. John Counsell drilled a two run shot in the first inning to give Notre Dame lead. Then in the fifth, Al Kristowski and Rich Gonski belted back-to-back homers, chasing Thompson from the mound.

The Falcons scored the winning run in the bottom of the 10th when Martin reached first on an infield error and came home when the Irish pitcher threw Trent's bunt into right field. Ron Trinqu was credited with the win.

Saturday, the Irish gained some revenge with a 6-4 win, capitalizing on a sparkling relief job by Larry Kennedy.

Kennedy relieved starter Ed Lupton in the fourth inning and went the rest of the way, whitewashing the Falcons until the ninth when they erupted for two runs.

Beta Little 500

A Chi O's, Sig Eps Place 1st

The black and white checkered flag whipped against the hot afternoon's heavy air to signal the finish of the first Beta Theta Pi Little 500 with Alpha Chi Omega social sorority, and Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity driving their carts into first place in their division.

Doris C. Scott, of Alpha Xi Delta social sorority, reigned over the races, kissing the top fraternity driver as she presented trophies to the winners. Delta Gamma social sorority, and Delta Lambda, the newest social fraternity on campus, received trophies for runnerup positions in the finals.

PEM Club Party To Honor Seniors

Under the direction of next year's officers, the underclass members of the PEM Club will host a farewell party for the graduating women physical education majors from 6 to 7 p.m. this evening in the north gymnasium of the Women's Bldg.

"Besides honoring the graduating senior members, the party also will be in honor of the members who received honors earlier in the day at the recognition program," said Mrs. Amy R. Torgerson, faculty sponsor of the club.

She also said that the identity of senior members of the women's intramural anonymous spirit booster club will be revealed. The booster club goes by the name HHWR (Hip-Hip who ray).

Mrs. Torgerson mentioned that Delta Phi Kappa, women's physical education honorary society, will present awards to senior members for their outstanding contributions to the department during their school years here.

Barbara A. Mercer of Chi Omega social sorority, and Carol A. Dyke, of Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority, were finalists in the all-sorority competition. Each was asked two questions, one humorous and the other serious, before the judges made their decision.

After rating each girl for sincerity, interest, poise, and appearance, the final decision was announced after the qualifying heats.

All teams entered in the race participated in the qualifying heats, and the four best times in each division raced in the semi-finals. Alpha Chi Omega, Phi Mu, Alpha Xi Delta, and Delta Gamma qualified for the sorority semi-finals; while Delta Lambda, Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Sigma Chi raced in the fraternity finals.

The two fastest times of the semi-finals competed for the championship of the first Beta Little 500. In the finals, Alpha Chi Omega recorded a time of 50.3 seconds while Delta Gamma ran the track in 49.5 seconds, but was penalized for an improper exchange of runners, adding five seconds to its time.

In a photofinish, Sigma Phi Epsilon with 1:56.1 seconds edged Delta Lambda's 2:09.2 seconds.

A serenade for the Queen, cheers and the checkered flag for the race winners concluded the first Beta Little 500.
