N. Viet invasion blockade 'possible'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said yesterday he would not rule out mining Haiphong harbor or establishing a naval blockade of North Vietnam to blunt the Communist invasion of the South.

Laird responded with a terse. "Yes," when asked by Sen. J. W. Fulbright if any thought was being given to these possibilities. Laird was testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee chaired by the Arkansas Democrat, a longtime critic of policy in Vietnam.

The Defense Secretary said there are many contingency plans and noted that these two possibilities had been discussed by the previous administration

BUT WHEN pressed by Fulbright if they were merely old contingency plans, Laird said: "I would not rule it out.

In a four-and-a-half-hour appearance before the committee. Laird said that "any area of North Vietnam, as long as the invasion continues, is subject to attack.

But he declined to state specifically whether the aerial bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong area was continuing.

"I am not going to outline target areas," he said, adding that U.S. air power is being used in the North. in the South and within the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams.

PRIOR TO the committee session. Laird told newsmen there was no substance to reports that President Nixon has suspended the bombing of North Vietnam's heartland to see if Hanoi backed off from its offensive in the South

The reports were attributed to official U.S. military sources in Saigon who continued to insist that this was the policy.

At the White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked by newsmen about the reports of a bombing suspension and Laird's denial.

"I'd go along with the Secretary of Defense and not a secondary source in Saigon." Ziegler

THE SECRETARY of State said the President would take whatever steps were necessary-short of reintroducing ground troops or using nuclear weapons-to thwart the North Vietnamese

On the battlefield, action was curtailed in the North, but U.S. bombers stepped up their attacks against North Vietnamese positions in South Vietnam, logging more than 1,000 strikes Monday and yesterday in the heaviest raids since the peak days of the air war from 1965 to

The U.S. Command announced the loss of three aircraft in the South.

Four American crewmen and two South Korean soldiers were killed when an Army helicopter crashed on the central coast while supporting Korean forces.

A four-engine C130 transport plane was hit by enemy fire while trying to resupply the embattled provincial capital of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. It crashed 25 miles from Saigon.

All six crewmen were rescued, two of them

AN ARMY helicopter was shot down 32 miles southwest of Da Nang, but both crewmen escaped uninjured.

By far the most dramatic ground action in Indochina was centered around the temple ruins of Angker Wat in Cambodia's northwest. North Vietnamese troops swarmed toward a Cambodian relief column trying to reach a 1,000man government force trapped near the

There were indications the relief column now was surrounded, too. The imperiled government soldiers are part of a drive to encircle the Angker Wat complex which has been in North Vietnamese hands for two years.

Opposes Nixon Viet policy

GSS endorses Sen. McGovern

Graduate Student Senate (GSS) endorsed Senator George McGovern for President vesterday.

It also passed a resolution opposing Nixon's present policy in Vietnam.

THE FOREIGN policy amendment read: "We the members of the Graduate Student Senate of Bowling Green State University do, as human beings, condemn the massive affront to the ton destruction of human life perpetrated by the present Nixon Administration policy of escalating the war in

"Furthermore, as human beings who deplore the loss of the lives of our sisters and brothers--yellow, black, white, and red--we urge all American citizens to inform their elected representatives that the total and immediate withdrawal of all American military personnel from Vietnam and a complete end to all hostilities are impera-

"In so doing, we wish to affirm the human dignity of all peoples and the right of all peoples to self-determination.

"We believe, further, that we, as human beings and as citizens of the United States, have a serious and binding responsibility to work ceaselessly to right the wrongs of social injustice in our own nation, and to foster understanding among all peoples and all nations throughout the world.

"SUCH RESPONSIBILITY cannot

Members of the psychology department reported on their findings about raising graduate student stipends.

They said the stipends have not been raised since they were set six years ago, whereas faculty salaries have been raised nearly every year.

They found in many departments, graduate assistants bring in the larger percent of state funds since they compile a larger amount of credit hours than faculty members.

They said graduate students would also like to see their stipends made untaxable, but this cannot be enacted for next year since contracts have already been sent out.

THE WORDING of the contract would have to be changed from 'Employment Contract' to "Appointment Contract. The psychology department graduate students also said this problem is statewide and may have to be resolved on a state-wide basis. Information will be sent to all GSS members when a meeting to study the University charter will be held.

Court led by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has approved a Massachusetts loyalty oath that requires public employees to pledge to oppose the overthrow of the government.

Robert T. Francoeur

We are not charged with correcting grammar but with enforcing Constitution," Burger said yesterday in delivering a 4-3 decision that the oath is not too vague to remain on the books. All that it requires, the chief justice said, is that government workers com-the ones taken by presidents, members of Congress, and even lawyers who practice before the court.

THE DECISION reverses a panel of three federal judges in Boston who took what Burger called "a highly literalistic approach" and declared the oath invalid in 1969.

Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall found the oath in conflict with the freespeech guarantees of the First Amend-

Pill policy cost reviewed

Managing Editor

Much has been said about the moral implications of the Student Health Center prescribing birth control devices to students, but economics might be the major roadblock to a revised pill policy on campus.

'Any kind of additional medical services will cost," President Hollis A. Moore Jr. said. "We aren't going to get a gynecologist cheap.'

Dr. Moore said he could not make a decision on additions to the medical staff until he sees a complete plan on total needs of the health center.

He said he presently sees the health center as a referral type of organization, but with the recent liberalization of the contraceptive policy at Ohio State University "the issue will be sharpened across the state."

DR. MOORE recently sent a committee to observe the medical services at the University of Kentucky and make recommendations on possible changes

The committee included Dr. Stanley Coffman, provost; Dr. Michael Ferrari, coordinator of planning and budgeting; Dr. James Olms, director of the health center; and Dr. William Baxter, chairman of the Health Services Advisory Committee.

Dr. Ferrari said the group found the University of Kentucky's pill policy medical services program to be "very extensive.

The university, which includes a medical school, has three social workers, two psychiatrists and eight physicians. Its contraceptive program includes a class which runs one to two weeks on sex education and birth control devices and methods and a physical examination before the device or pill is

TWO MORE examinations after the first month and the sixth month are also included. The service costs $15-$20 plus pills and devices at cost.

Dr. Ferrari suggested the University explore the possibilities of a similar program in conjunction with the University of Toledo Medical College.

He said an agreement with Toledo could provide the University with a good, low cost staff plus give the medical students experience.

Dr. Ferrari said studies he has made indicate that students here would be. willing to pay extra for a comprehensive health service program.

He cited a mandatory student health insurance and a different type of organization at the health center as ways of implementing more health services including birth control.

'We just cannot afford it now in our present position," Dr. Ferrari said.

not enough

After Secretary of State William P. Rogers described the bombing of North Vietnam as essential to the protection of American troops to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday, the committee described a few things to Rogers.

In a nine to one vote, the committee voted to cut off all money for all U.S. forces fighting in Indochina on Dec. 31, if Hanoi returns all American prisoners. The proposal will be brought before the Senate sometime next week.

The Senate is to be commended for its attempt to end the war; but, is this enough? The last day of the year is a long way off.

While our legislators sit in their chairs, until the snow falls in December, the bodies will continue to fall in Indochina and the cut-off date will seem all the more absurd.

loyalty oath

The Supreme Court shot another hole through the constitutionally guaranteed freedom of speech yesterday, and it did it without the help of President Nixon's two most recent conservative appointees

In a four to three decision, the court upheld a Massachusetts loyalty oath requiring all public employees to pledge they will oppose the overthrow of the government by force or violence.

William P. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr, newest appointees to the court, were unable to participate because the case was introduced before they joined the court.

We agree with the three dissenting justices who said the oath flatly violates the freedom of speech guarantee.

It's just one more reprehensible method to hold down dissent by threatening public employees with the loss of their jobs if they don't pledge unquestioning loyalty to governmental policies, no matter what they may be

An earlier ruling by a U.S. district court judge said the words 'oppose' and "overthrow" were "fatally vague and unspecific.'

However, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger contended that was a 'highly literal approach.

May we point out to Justice Burger that vague and unspecific laws--particularly those regarding "conspiracy"--are the very regulations that ultimately end up with deadlocked juries? And confused judges'

Burger contended the loyalty oath is no more than a commitment not to use illegal force to change the system. But what does he consider illegal force? A sit-in? A march? A speech?

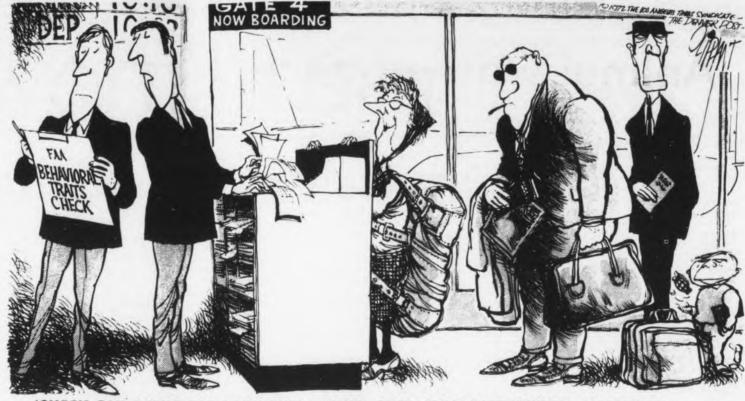

Nixon need not have worried about a too liberal Supreme Court. Older members are doing a fine job of repression, without any help from Nixon's most recent appointees.

primary perspectives

jackson--different democrat

By Dr. Russell Decker

The following is the Editor's Note: second of a series of columns describing the assets of the presidential candidates appearing on the May 2 Ohio primary

I have been asked to write a guest column indicating why BGSU students should support Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson in his bid for the Democratic nomination for President of the United

I would rather direct my remarks on a broader plane--why Senator Jackson deserves the attention of all citizens of the United States

I feel that BGSU students do not differ from the rest of the citizenry-they have the same feelings, concerns, biases as the cross section of the population of northwestern Ohio, and the state, and the nation from which they come. Their economic, social, and political experiences are not as great as some of us, but potentially they will react the same as most of us.

First, a bit of information about Senator Jackson should be presented because one of his biggest problems in the quest for the nomination is that he is not well known-he is not a "household

Senator Jackson is fifty-nine years old He married late in life, and has two children, both born in the 1960's. He has lived all his life in Everett. Washington. a suburb of Seattle. His education prepared him for a practice of law.

HE HAS NEVER lost an election. His political career began at the age of twenty-six when he was elected prosecuting attorney of his home county. Then came six terms as congressman from his home district followed by being elected three times to six-year terms in the United States Senate.

In his last race in 1970, he carried 83.9 per cent of the vote to lead the nation in two-party races for senator or governor In 1960 he assumed the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee at the request of presidential candidate John F. Kennedy

Senator Jackson serves as chairman of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee and as a member of the Government Operations Committee, the Armed Services Committee, and the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy. He is chairman of the Subcommittee on National Security and International Operations and ranking member of the McClellan Investigations Subcommittee.

Under his leadership, Congress set aside more than 14 million acres in a national reserve for parks, wilderness and recreation areas. He worked closely with Florida leaders on the project to preserve the Everglades.

He authored the Youth Conservation Corps Act which provides opportunity for youth to work summers in national parks and forests.

Thus, to those who know me best and have heard me speak on the subject of law and justice, it comes as no surprise that I favor him above all the other candidates in the Democratic field. He joins with me in the crusade which insists that we must stop over-reacting to this militant minority, and give heed to the concerns and the rights of the majority to go peacefully about their business, their education and their daily

ANOTHER POINT which has attracted me to Senator Jackson has been his concern for our national defense posture. Drawing upon his experiences with the Senate, he has authored four books, all dealing with national security. He has received awards from patriotic, ethnic, labor and social groups for his vigorous support of a strong national defense. Yet, he has expressed his concern for the war-ravaged of the

"I'm not a hawk and I'm not a dove." he says. "I just don't want my country to be a pigeon.

He is chairman of a special subcommittee appointed to monitor the SALT negotiations between the Soviet Union and the United States. He wants to put the brakes on the arms race, but resists those who say we must take risks for peace by cutting the meat from the military muscle, and thus unwittingly risk war.

He believes weakness invites trouble. and that we should negotiate for peace. but from a position of strength. He wants to bring the troops home from Vietnam as soon as possible, but he wants to preserve for the President of the United States (whoever he may be) the chance to do that in a responsible manner.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of Governor Wallace (whose motives might be questioned), he has the strongest position of any of the candidates in the Democratic race against school busing for the sole purpose of satisfying some arbitrary mix of students on the basis of race, religion or heritage.

Not until the Florida primary pointed up the true feelings of "middle America" and of the "real majority" on this issue did any of the other Democratic candidates begin to modify their stance on this point.

Long before this Senator Jackson was saying, "What we desperately need is not massive busing, but a massive commitment of talent and resources to achieve equality of education opportunity.

Rather than busing, he supports the route followed in California where the courts have ruled that the wealth of a school district should not be permitted to determine the quality of education. Then school children will not be bused from a good school to an inferior school.

In summary, let me suggest that BGSU students, as well as all citizens of the United States, might well look closely at the stance and posture of Senator Henry M. Jackson. He is certainly the one Democrat who is different.

Perhaps we will find in him the man for whom people all over the land have been searching-a leader who has not lost his common sense.

Perhaps you may examine him closely and in person, for we are making every effort to bring Senator Jackson to northwest Ohio; we hope to have him in an appearance on campus. Watch for announcements later of the time and

and industrial purposes

it becomes apparent that Senator Jackson is a true conservationist and environmentalist. But, he refuses to make a choice between environment and "I am weary of listening to those who scorn this nation," says Senator Jackson. "Most Americans--whether black, white or brown--are hard-working wageearners struggling to make ends meet, to get their kids through school, to acquire a decent home in a decent neighborhood to clothe their families, to be respected as decent citizens, and to live out their lives with a measure of dignity that everywhere seems more difficult to concern for the fact that today the stability of our democratic system is threatened by the tyranny of a small minority that is systematically disrupting our society.

term paper factories

The BG News has shown poor publishing advertisement for a term paper factory. To condone such an enterprise editorially as recompense to instructors who assign "busy work" endows this device with a morality it can never have. Incidentally, the cost of such products discriminates against less affluent

Many instructors have responded affirmatively to student complaints about the traditional type of face oriented tests, and requests for more options, such as papers.

ESSAYS AND TERM papers can be superior educational devices in that they require the student himself to gather and evaluate material and integrate it with his own thoughts into a forceful presentation. Properly used, papers provide valuable training. A student who commissions a term paper factory to do the work for him foregoes the development of critical skills.

To students who take pride in their own intellectual achievements and to instructors whose primary professional goal is to foster their student's development, The BG News' policy appears as outright approval of plagiarism.

Animal warden named

Bowling Green now has its own animal warden.

Safety-Service Director Wesley K. Hoffman nounced the appointment of William C. Barrow, senior (B.A.), of 325 S. Church St. as animal warden at the city council Monday evening.

Barrow was to begin his duties yesterday.

Hoffman said the duties of the animal warden will include handling problems and complaints pertaining to all animals.

"The animal warden will initially direct his efforts toward control of stray and unlicensed dogs, but will respond to complaints concerning licensed dogs." Hoffman said.

Owners whose dogs are impounded as a result of running at large will be notified by the warden. They will be required to pay a boarding fee of 50 cents per day, he said.

OWNERS OF unlicensed dogs that are impounded will also be charged the $2 licensing fee plus a $1 late fee and a pickup fee of $2 if the county warden makes the pickup. Until legislation is approved by council, there will be no charge for pickups made by the city animal warden, Hoffman said.

THE MINIMUM the Communist planners seem to be seeking in this northern front is the demoralization of the regular South Vietnamese divisions based here, with the consequent collapse of security among the population and an increase in the influence of the clandestine Viet Cong.

Hanoi's goal of sending its infantrymen victoriously storming Quang Tri City seems improbable if assessments of allied officers are valid. Outdoor education project set with the opportunity to practice methodology in the classroom.

The outdoor education program, directed by the Toledo Board of Education. gives students the opportunity to work as counselors with sixth grade

Mays pleads guilty to one drug charge

Dewey O. Mays, freshman (A&S), pled guilty to a charge of sale of an hallucinogen without a wholesaler's license Monday morning in Wood County Common Pleas Court

He had been indicted on charges of prohibited use of a dwelling, sale of an hallucinogen and possession for sale of an hallucinogen. Mays was referred to the probation officer for presentence investigation.

Four others also indicted by the same grand jury on similar charges had previously entered guilty pleas to the same offense Mays did yesterday.

Founders forms 'diet-line'

A serious attack on fat has been launched this quarter by a group of Founders residents.

According to Katie Edie. freshman (A&S), a diet club was set up for two weeks last quarter on an experimental basis, but didn't operate efficiently until this quarter.

The program, which now includes 36 members, has a special "diet line" set up in Founders cafeteria where the weight watchers get a balanced, nutritional meal.

Ms. Edie said the meal consists of a meat portion; fruit: limited vegetables. including limited portions of carrots and onions: and unlimited portions of vegetables such as beans and salads.

The "diet line" was set up in cooperation with Ms. Friend. quality control manager of Food Services.

"Out of the four lines in the cafeteria, only three were in use and the other line was being used for steak orders in the evening." Ms. Friend said.

The women came to her because they found it difficult to maintain dietary program with the food on the regular line," she explained.

Ms. Edie said the group took some of the menus out of the Weight Watcher's Inc. cookbook and revised them.

Some kids are in the program because the food is better, since it isn't fried,' Ms. Edie said. She explained that because the members get larger meat portions, the price of the meal must go up. She said students pay for their meals with their food coupons

According to Ms. Edie, seven-day tickets for the diet line cost $11.90 and four-day tickets cost $6.20. She said the four-day tickets accommodate the student who plans to leave on the weekend.

'You also get weighed in when you buy your tickets," she said.

The program "has turned out to be quite selfsufficient," according to Ms. Friend.

"The success of the program depends on the motivations of the people involved," she said. people must be sincere, and we're now down to the people who are really serious

All interested persons should contact Ms. Edie at 372-5823

Memories of Maupin

One of the favorite things I pick out of the memory of my freshman year at BG is the way Dennis Maupin would turn into something short of an animal during physical conditioning class.

Maupin, you'll remember, was the stalwart Falcon center last season and an all-MAC selection to boot, now destined for the World Champion Dallas Cowboys' training camp in July. If he wasn't the meanest dude on the squad, he had to be at least a close second.

Physical conditioning class-otherwise known as UPF 101 or 201, depending upon class rank-was actually disguised as boot camp for varsity football candidates. The taskmasters consisted of every football coach the University had under contract, from graduate assistants to the head man and his

ME? WELL, somehow I had this crazy idea I wanted to sell my body and soul for good ole BG and smash people's bodies on sunny afternoons at harvesttime. Somehow. I realized the inanity of such a notion and turned my efforts to something more constructive (?)--sports writing.

At any rate, physical conditioning consisted of six stations where each soldier player did an assortment of physical tasks to prepare him for the spring offensive, i.e., spring practice. Like I said. it was boot camp for varsity football

Which finally brings us to our subject. Maupin was a rising junior at the time and most of his varsity time was put in on the suicide squads where he played with fervent elan. He was vieing for the center's job that winter spring. Eliot Uzelac. then an assistant coach and a martinet of profound proportion, happened to be the interior offensive line coach. And, oh, how Coach loved Player.

UZELAC, WHO at times showed maniacal tendencies when the word "football" was mentioned, would work himself into a frenzy at physical conditioning. He screamed and taunted so loud and often. I couldn't believe he would go much longer before the veins in his neck would burst.

Naturally, he turned flip-flops over Maupin because Denny showed the same fanatical enthusiasm Uzelac embellished When it came to the latter's station--agility drills--and everyone's tongues were flapping, there was Uzelac asking Maupin to show everyone how they should act in this station.

While half the panting, sweating bodies were bent over, hands on knees (something Uzelac despised), Maupin was hopping around like a madman. He'd get a running start and actually climb halfway up the handball court wall, scratching like an enraged cat. And of course, there were the assorted growls and snorts football players are supposed to make to show everyone (especially coaches) how mean they

MAUPIN DIDN'T have to growl or snort. All you had to do was look at the guy to know how mean he was. Those thick, bushy eyebrows that extended clear across the top of his face and the steel brown eyes almost made you want to call him

"What I was trying to accomplish was to make the other guys high," explained Denny. "That makes the workout more worthwhile.

Since then Mssr. Maupin has mellowed somewhat from his brash days of scaling walls, albeit he hasn't shed his yen for hitting people. Signed as a free agent following the National Football League draft last February, he's officially one of eight rookie linebackers trying out for three positions

THE TWO OF us discussed his chances one day last week. "I'm better off signing with Dallas," he explained. "That way I'd have a better chance of getting picked up if I get cut. By starting out with the best, you can always get picked up

Denny dismissed Canadian football ("It's too cold there"), but is open to the minor league circuit. "They'd get me and my wife decent jobs on the side. And I'd be playing football under a contract of profit-sharing, depending upon how the team did at the gate

Maupin goes to camp faced with the calamity of switching from center to linebacker, a position he's only played as a freshman at BG. But like past Falcon pros, Joe Green (from middle guard to defensive back) and Phil Villapiano (from defensive end to linebacker). Denny thinks he can weather

WHEN HE REALIZES there are two rookie LBs from Penn State and Michigan State in camp among the eight hopefuls, Maupin knows he's got some catching up to do. But he thinks he's got a trump card he'll be able to pull when the

'I like to play with people's heads in football," he said with unintentional ambivalence. "And I was always aware of all the positions

'I'm going to learn the defense so well that my head will be in a better place than theirs. From there on, it's how much I want to hit someone

"I haven't really been that far away from linebacker, playing center and guard. I know what I'd do to get them down so I'll know what to expect.

DENNY POINTED out that if he had been a linebacker since the 10th grade in high school, he might be more at a disadvantage going into the pros as a LB. "You'd probably pick up a lot of bad habits along the way that would be hard to correct, and you wouldn't be as good as you thought. Perhaps that's wishful thinking.

But linebacking aside, Maupin has at least a 50-50 chance of making the club in my book because he'll be able to perform on the special teams as well as anyone.

With veteran Chuck Howley retiring and punt snapper D.D. Lewis slated to fill his shoes, Maupin may get a chance to break in on the punt team. That's the same route Green took to hang on with the New York Giants.

And there's little doubt Maupin's attitude toward the game is big league. "It's a combination of anger you build up and what you convince yourself you can do," he said. "I want to show the other guy he can't do what he's trying to do to me. I like to laugh at people when they get knocked down. They get mad at you and become careless with their play. From then you've got them.

Granted, not every college technique is going to work against seasoned professional veterans. But Maupin's devilmay-care posture combined with his unbending confidence may be his ticket to the big time.

BG ruggers smother JC

The previously undefeated John Carroll Rugby club came to Bowling Green Saturday and received a 43-0 pounding on rain-soaked Sterling Farm.

The BG ruggers scored only seconds after the opening kick off when Tom Wentz fell on a loose ball in the visitors' end zone. Minutes later Mike Turwood went 23 yards to score the second BG try. Steve Kretz added the conversion

Weber and Paul Paese both scored one apiece and BG led 19-0 at the intermission

After halftime the game became even worse for the battered Carroll ruggers. Rick Griswald and Dave Grooms scored early in the period.

JOHN CARROLL put together its only scoring threat of the day when it kicked the ball to the BG one yard line at 11:55 of the second period. The BG forwards put together a hard-hitting goal line stand and stifled the Gator's threat

BG's forwards repeatedly manhandled and intimidated John Carroll ball carriers. "The wolfpack" completely dominated the scrums. They aided the blossoming BG running attack consistently gaining possession of the ball in the rugged in-fighting. Rick Born, Chip Elv and Bruce George were commended by coach Jim Haines for their aggressiveness in the loose

We played a good game. but I'm afraid we still have a lot of room for improvement," said Haines. 'We'll have to beat some teams a lot tougher than Carroll.

BG finished the match with a flurry of scoring. It scored four tries in the final two minutes. Dave Grooms carried the ball seven yards to score with just six seconds showing on the clock. That tally ran the total to 43 points, a new single game team scoring record for the club. It tops the 42-0 trouncing given to

Army vet Bennett makes bid comeback, team wins

By JIM FERSTLE

"I was beginning to wonder if I was over the hill," said Rob Bennett. whose 15'5" pole vault broke his own school record in the track team's 91-72 victory over Kent State last

"I'll be 25 this May," added Bennett, who returned to Bowling Green last year after two years in the service. "It's sort of gratifying to finally get a improvement personal considering all the work it's taken to get it.

"I was on the all-army track team for two-and-ahalf to three months and then I chipped a bone in my " said Bennett. "If your injury is long-term, they just drop you.'

Baseballers lose, tie to UM in home openers

By FRED R. ORTLIP

A rusty Bowling Green baseball team came alive late in the second game of their doubleheader against Michigan yesterday to salvage a tie after dropping the

The Falcons, 8-6-1 on the season, who had been rained out of five games since opening the regular season March 29, dropped the first game, 8-1, then rallied from behind to tie, 6-6, in the home openers. The game was called after the eighth inning because of darkness.

The long layoff had a visible effect on Bowling Green pitching. Eight Falcons hurlers issued 14 bases on balls in the twin bill, including 10 in the opener

HARD-THROWING right hander Jim Meerpohl was effected most from the layoff. Meerpohl took a sparkling 1.85 earned run average into the opener but never did locate the plate, walking six in an inning and two-thirds. He allowed four Michigan runs on only one hit. Meerpohl's record is now 2

"I'm disappointed in the pitching, but you've got to blame a lot of it on the layoff," said coach Don Purvis 'Some of those guys hadn't been on a mound for two

After the four-run second frame, the Wolverines got two in the third off Jim Salem and one in the fifth and sixth innings off Jim Fisher for an easy win, their seventh against seven

THE FALCONS, who gathered only four hits for the second game straight, put together a minor threat in the sixth when Ralph Clapp looped a two-out single to center, driving home Gary Haas with BG's solo run of the game.

"We just couldn't get started," testified Purvis. 'We didn't play very we'll at all--no excuses--we just didn't play. In the first game we walked the lead off batter four out of the seven innings and the odds are better that
