Conference attracts international philosophers

"Values and Moral Standing" will be the title of a conference on applied philosophy to be held at the University on April 11 and 12.

Scholars from 14 universities from across the nation, Canada and England are expected to participate in the five-session conference, which is free and open to the public.

Scholars will present a 20-25-minute speeches, which will be followed by discussion. All sessions will be held in the Community Suite, University Union.

The program gets underway on Friday, April 11, with a session from 9 a.m.-noon. "Values: Varieties and Sources" will feature James Griffin from the University of Oxford, England; Anthony Weston of the State University of New York at Stony Brook and Richard Lee from the University of Arkansas. Thomas Attig, chair, philosophy, will chair the session.

The second part of Friday's program, entitled "Individuals and the Community," will be held from 2-5 p.m. and feature E.J. Bond from Queen's University, Ontario; Larry May of Purdue University and Jan Narveson of the University of Waterloo, Ontario. Mary Edmonds, vice president for student affairs, will chair the session.

Following dinner, Friday's keynote addresses will be presented by L.W. Sumner of the University of Toronto and Christopher Morris of the University of California at Riverside. Each 45-minute address will address "Subjectivity and Moral Standing" and will be followed by discussion. Kendall Baker, dean, College of Arts and Sciences will chair the session, which will run from 8-9:30 p.m.

The first of two three-hour sessions Saturday will begin at 9 a.m. and is entitled "Moral Standing and the Environment." It will feature Holmes Rolston III of Colorado State University, Gerald H. Paske of Wichita State University and Eric Katz of Barnard College in New York City. Eloise Clark, vice president for academic affairs, will chair the session.

"Moral Standing and Medicine" will be the subject of the conference's final session at 2 p.m. Saturday. It will feature R.G. Frey of the University of Liverpool, England; Michael Wreen of Marquette University and Robert B. Hallborg Jr. of the University of Florida. The session will be chaired by Clyde Willis, dean, College of Health and Human Services.

College observes 50th anniversary

While the University celebrates its 75th birthday this year, the College of Business Administration is observing a milestone of its own — 50 years.

And to commemorate that anniversary, the college has invited two highly successful businessmen to present special lectures on Friday, April 11.

The speakers, both of whom recently retired from corporate life, are Lewis W. Lehr, former chairman and chief executive officer of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., and Donald E. Noble, former chief executive officer of Rubbermaid Inc.

Noble will speak at 9 a.m. about "Corporate Mission and Strategy" and Lehr will follow at 10:30 a.m. with a talk about "Fostering Innovation." Both lectures are in Kobacker Hall, Moore Musical Arts Center.

"Under the leadership of Mr. Noble and Mr. Lehr, Rubbermaid and 3M became models of excellence in the American business community," said Robert Patton, dean of the College of Business Administration. He noted that a recent issue of Fortune magazine published a survey listing the two companies among the 10 most admired firms in the country.

"We're fortunate to have these two outstanding business leaders help us celebrate the College of Business Administration's 50th anniversary," said Dr. Patton.

Noble led Rubbermaid for 21 years during a time when sales soared from $24.5 million to $305 million and profits increased 20.3 times from $1.1 million in 1959 to $22.8 million in 1979. He served as chairman of Rubbermaid's executive and finance committees until May 1985.

Lehr began his 3M career in 1947 working his way through the ranks until being elected chief executive officer in 1979. Under his guidance, the company achieved record sales and profits and gained a reputation for developing new and successful products.

Academic Challenge: President Paul J. Olscamp holds three checks totalling $557,930 presented to him Wednesday by State Sen. Paul Gillmor (center) and State Rep. Randall Gardner (right). The checks represent half of the Academic Challenge funds awarded to Bowling Green by the Ohio General Assembly and the Board of Regents. Firelands College received $90,000 and the remainder will be used to support programs in the departments of sociology, chemistry, psychology, management, college student personnel and philosophy.

Two scholarships to honor former professor

Frank Baldanza, a University Professor of English who died in January 1985, maintained a lifelong interest in literature and music.

This spring two scholarships which recognize his personal achievements in those two areas will be given to University students who also excel.

The Frank Baldanza Vocal Talent Scholarship and the Frank Baldanza Scholarship in English Studies will each be awarded in his memory for the first time. Both awards were created with contributions made to the Baldanza Memorial Fund through the BGSU Foundation Inc.

The scholarship accounts are endowed. Only the interest will be allocated, enabling the Baldanza scholarships to become permanent annual awards. This year's recipients will each receive $300 scholarships.

Denice Baldanza of Bay Village, Dr. Baldanza's sister-in-law, provided the major gift to establish the vocal talent scholarship, which is intended to encourage students with exceptional talents in vocal music to pursue degree studies in music at Bowling Green. The award will be given annually to a student displaying superior vocal and operatic performance talent. Preference will be given to a first- or second-year graduate student, but in years when such a student is not identified, the award may be given to an entering or returning undergraduate. The recipient is to be chosen by a committee from the College of Musical Arts, where the fund will be administered.

The scholarship in English will be awarded to an outstanding undergraduate major in an English department program. The recipient, to be chosen by a committee from the English department, must have completed 60 semester credit hours and have a minimum 3.5 overall grade point average with a minimum 3.7 in English courses.

Honorary degree going to Atwood

Acclaimed Canadian author and poet Margaret Atwood will receive an honorary doctorate of letters from the University at the annual Friends of the Library and Center for Archival Studies banquet Wednesday, April 16.

Atwood, who will receive the honor from President Paul J. Olscamp, is expected to present remarks at 8 p.m. The banquet begins at 6 p.m. and will be held at the ice arena lounge. Tickets, which cost $25, are limited. To make reservations call 372-2856.

Atwood will also read from her work on Thursday, April 17, at 10 a.m. in Joe E. Brown Theater, University

Margaret Atwood

Hall. The session is free and open to the public.

The writer of more than 20 volumes of poetry, fiction and nonfiction that have been published in almost as many countries, Atwood's latest work, The Handmaid's Tale, has been a bestseller for several weeks. Reviewers have called the speculative fiction, written in the tradition of Aldous Huxley and George Orwell, her best work to-date. It was published in February.

"We are pleased and very honored to have someone of Margaret Atwood's caliber and reputation address the Friends," said Paul Yon, acting dean of libraries."

Atwood is perhaps best known for her five novels: The Edible Woman, Surfacing, Lady Oracle, Life Before Man and Bodily Harm, as well as her collection of short fiction, Dancing Girls.

Born in 1939 in Ottawa, Atwood grew up in northern Ontario, Quebec and Toronto. She graduated from Victoria College at the University of Toronto and received her master's degree from Radcliffe College.

Atwood's work has been acclaimed for portraying both personal and worldly problems of universal concern. In an interview with "Ms." magazine, Atwood said fiction offers a potential for change.

"Speculative fiction is a logical extension of where we are now," she said in the February 1986 edition of "Ms." "I think this particular genre is a walking along of a potential road, and the reader as well as the writer can then decide if that is the road they wish to go on. Whether we go that way or not is going to be up to us."

Week's events honor playwright Bertolt Brecht

A day-long symposium is among events planned this week to commemorate the 30th anniversary of the death of German playwright and director Bertolt Brecht.

Other activities include an exhibition and two different productions of one of Brecht's plays.

Brecht was born in Augsburg in 1898. He left Germany in 1933 when the Nazis came to power and lived in the United States from 1941-47. He moved to East Berlin in 1949 and formed the Berliner Ensemble. Of his 35 plays, "The Three Penny Opera" was the most successful.

While scholars will discuss the German playwright's influence on American theater during an all-day symposium on Saturday, April 12, the week-long celebration begins with the opening today, April 7, of an exhibit, "Bertolt Brecht Then and Now," at the McFall Center Gallery. Posters, books, photographs and other items portraying Brecht's career as a playwright and director will be shown.

The symposium begins at 10 a.m.

Saturday in the McFall Center Assembly Room. The first session will focus on Brecht's success on today's American stage compared to theatrical activities in general. A 2 p.m. session will examine how useful and popular Brecht's dramatic methods are in American theater.

The first U.S. showing of the 1981 German Democratic Republic television production of "Fear and Misery of the Third Reich" will take place at 4:15 p.m. in the Gish Film Theater, Hanna Hall.

A final discussion session, entitled "History Versus Actuality," will follow the Saturday night performance of "The Resistible Rise of Arturo Ui" at Joe E. Brown Theater, University Hall.

The symposium is free and open to the public. Sponsors of the week's events include the theater department, the department of German, Russian and Asian languages, the College of Arts and Sciences, the ethnic studies department and the University's Alumni Association.

College selects 'Alum of the Year'

A former dean has been named "Alum of the Year" and an area judge will be honored as "Friend of the College" by the College of Education and Allied Professions at its annual awards convocation Sunday, April 13.

The ceremonies will held at 1:30 p.m. in 115 Education Building.

David G. Elsass, a 1949 graduate of Bowling Green, will receive the Alum of the Year award, which is presented to an outstanding graduate of a program in the college. Dr. Elsass earned his bachelor's degree in history education and political science and a master's in education and guidance from Bowling Green. His doctorate in educational administration was awarded by Case Western Reserve University.

He is the only Bowling Green alumnus to have served as dean of the college, a position he held from 1971-1981, when he returned to full-time teaching. He retired in May 1985 after 25 years with the University.

His career as an educator began at Wauseon High School, where he taught social studies and later become principal. He also served as principal at Avon Lake High School and was on the faculty at Baldwin-Wallace College.

Dr. Elsass continues to serve as director of the Educational Memorabilia Center.

Judge Arthur Wilkowski of the Sixth District Court of Appeals in Toledo has been selected for the Friend of the College award, an annual recognition for persons or groups who are not affiliated with the college, but have contributed to the success of its programs.

As a state representative 10 years ago, Wilkowski introduced legislation that allocated $50,000 toward the one-room schoolhouse reconstruction on campus. The schoolhouse is now the Educational Memorabilia Center.

Wilkowski, a 1951 graduate of the College of Education, was a teacher in a one-room school in southeastern Michigan for two years after his graduation. He taught six more years in other schools in Michigan and Ohio before entering the legal profession and running for the state legislature. He served six terms in the legislature before being appointed to his current post.

Belgian organist to present lecture

The College of Musical Arts is sponsoring a guest lecture by Belgian organist Kamiel d'Hooghe today, April 7.

D'Hooghe, a professor of organ at the Conservatoire in Maastricht (Holland) and director of the Royal Conservatoire of Brussels, will give a lecture entitled "The Cesar-Franck Tradition" at 8 p.m. in the Organ Studio, Moore Musical Arts Center.

Dr. Baldanza, a native of Cleveland, joined the Bowling Green faculty in 1957. A specialist in the modern British novel, he was the author of three books and numerous articles. In 1976, he became only the second Bowling Green faculty member to be designated as a University Professor.

His interest in the musical arts prompted him to pursue a semester of opera study in Europe in 1984. He frequently conducted workshops on opera presentations by the College of Musical Arts and for several years hosted a weekly radio show, "The Song is Art," on WGTE-FM in Toledo.

Additional contributions to either scholarship account will make it possible to award more scholarships each year or to increase the dollar amount of the annual awards. Contributions can be made through the BGSU Foundation Inc. and will be counted toward the 75th Anniversary Fund.

D'Hooghe gave a performance Sunday.

D'Hooghe has studied at the Lemmens Institute in Malines, the Royal Flemish Conservatoire in Antwerp and the Royal Conservatoire in Ghent. At the Lemmens Institute he was awarded the Prize of Excellence and received the Higher Certificate of Organ with "Highest Distinction" from the Royal Flemish Conservatoire.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Energy resources subject of talk

Bowling Green inventor and entrepreneur Albert Calderon will speak about "Energy, Environment and Economics" Tuesday, April 8, as part of the University's 75th anniversary celebration.

The 7:30 p.m. lecture, which is free and open to the public, will be in the Lenhart Grand Ballroom, University Union, and marks the founding year of the College of Technology.

He will explain views on the nation's energy resources and their use in a social, political and economic context. Through the use of proper planning and wise use of technology, Calderon believes the nation can achieve energy independence.

Calderon is a highly successful and highly reputed inventor and holder of

Seminar looks at DUI regulations

A free seminar to inform students, faculty and staff of their rights under DUI regulations will be held at 7 p.m. today, April 7, in 115 Education Building.

Sponsored by Student Legal Services, Inc., the two-hour seminar will feature three speakers and a question-and-answer session.

The purpose of the seminar is to answer such questions as whether field sobriety tests are mandatory, do people have to take blood and alcohol content analyzer tests, whether an attorney should or can be present when such tests are taken, DUI penalties in Bowling Green and the effect of a DUI conviction on an individual.

Walter Frajola, of Columbus and an authority on the reliability of BAC tests; Bowling Green attorney Peter Halleck, and Sandra Scott, Student Legal Services attorney, will be featured speakers.

Further information about the seminar can be obtained by calling SLS at 372-2951.

Spyro Gyra shows highlight Jazz Week

Two performances by Spyro Gyra are among the highlights of Jazz Week VII being sponsored April 9-12 by the College of Musical Arts.

The week begins at 8 p.m. Wednesday with a double bass concert by Jeff Halsey, musical arts, in Bryan Recital Hall, Moore Musical Arts Center. Admission is free.

At 8 p.m. Thursday, several University jazz combos will present a free concert in Bryan Recital Hall. The concert will include performances by Multiple Choice and other players who recently won awards at the 1986 Elmhurst College Jazz Festival.

The University Faculty Jazz Quartet will give a free concert in Bryan Recital Hall at 8 p.m. Friday. The members of the quartet are David Melle, flute; Chris Buzzelli, guitar; Wendell Jones, vibraharp, and Halsey, bass.

Annual dinner caps International Week

"Art From Around The World" is the theme of the 23rd annual International Week being held on campus today through Saturday, April 7-12.

Sponsored by the World Student Association and the office of international student programs, the week will feature films, discussions, art, fashion show and a concert. All are free and open to the public.

The highlight of the week will be the traditional international dinner at 7 p.m. Saturday at St. Aloysius Church, 150 S. Enterprise. The dinner will feature foods prepared by the

Peruvian trip popular program

One of the most popular continuing education programs at the University this spring is in South America.

Interest in a Continuing Education trip to Peru to view Halley's Comet with University astronomers has skyrocketed in spite of, or perhaps because of, the comet's poor showing in this part of the world.

More than 65 people from across Ohio and southern Michigan, as well as a few from as far away as Texas, Arizona and Missouri, have signed up for the eight-day celestial sightseeing trip.

"We thought that we might have about 30 going on the trip but the response has been overwhelming," said tour organizer Lorene Malanowski, continuing education. She added that at one time there was even a waiting list, but arrangements have been made to accommodate all those wishing to participate in the expedition.

Ronald Stoner, physics and astronomy, who is one of the four group leaders for the tour, said Peru is the ideal place to view the comet. Those on the tour will see the comet through powerful telescopes at the Smithsonian Satellite Tracking Station in Arequipa.

The comet gazers, who will leave for Peru on Tuesday, April 8, prepared for the trip by meeting a few weeks ago at the University's planetarium to see what the Peruvian skies will look like.

The University's 1986 High School Jazz Festival will be held from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday. The festival will feature contest jazz numbers by 10 Ohio high schools groups. Noted jazz artists Ron Newman, Roland Paolucci and Gene Parker will judge the free event, which will be held in Kobacker Hall.

Following the high school festival, the University Lab Band will give a free performance at 3:10 p.m. Saturday in Bryan Recital Hall.

Jazz Week's finale on Saturday will be performances by Spyro Gyra at 7 and 9:30 p.m. in Kobacker Hall. Tickets are $9, $11 and $14 for the general public and $7, $9 and $12 for University students. For ticket reservations call 372-8171 between 10:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. weekdays.

University's international students. Countries represented will include all of Latin America, Korea, Cyprus, France, India, Spain and several countries from southeast Asia.

Following the dinner an entertainment program of dance and music will be presented.

Tickets for the dinner are $5 and are on sale at 16 Williams Hall. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Co-sponsors of the week's events include the office of student activities, the Graduate Student Senate, the Caribbean Association and University Activities Organization.

Following the two morning lectures, the college will pay tribute to its "best and brightest" with nearly $50,000 in awards and scholarships during the annual business honors luncheon in McDonald West cafeteria. Nearly 110 students will be recognized during the program.

The afternoon program will include small group sessions at 1:30 and 2:30 which will be led by Lehr and Noble in the Business Administration Building. The sessions for faculty and students will cover a variety of business topics.

Also taking part in the small group sessions will be W. Hall Wendel Jr., president and chief executive officer of Polaris Industries Inc., Niagara Falls, N.Y. Polaris manufactures snowmobiles and all-terrain vehicles.

Vogt answers telephone concerns for senate

Addressing concerns raised last month, Karl E. Vogt, vice president for operations, appeared before the Faculty Senate April 1 to provide information about the University telephone system.

Dr. Vogt said that most of the problems identified during the period immediately following installation last summer have been resolved. But, he said, two major concerns remain — delay in billing for long distance tolls and the costs of long distance calls.

During installation of the phone system, Dr. Vogt said it was determined that the intended cost distribution system would not adequately meet the University's objectives. Though attempts were made to alleviate this, it was not until late spring/early summer of 1985 that software could be obtained. Due to the late purchase of necessary material, it wasn't until late November that on-site processing of bills could begin. In the meantime, a backlog of long distance calls were being recorded.

It wasn't until late December 1985 that students were billed, followed by other groups thereafter. More problems occurred in January 1986 while the software program was being updated.

"We now believe that all problems have been corrected," he said. "Currently, the system is functioning properly."

Based on the cost reports distributed in January, Dr. Vogt said it appears that toll charges in some budgets are exceeding 1985 levels. He said without a specific analysis it would be difficult to determine a precise cause for the increase. However, he said increased use could be due to improved voice clarity, greater speed in placing calls and fewer blocked calls that the new system offers, but these may not necessarily be linked to the higher bills.

Dr. Vogt said a study has been initiated to determine the reasons for the increased phone costs. He said foreign exchange (FX) and wide area telephone service (WATTS) are being used in message routing.

He said telecommunications will experience a $165,000 deficit in its first year with the new system. "A deficit situation is not uncommon," said Dr. Vogt, adding that there are four reasons for the deficit.

- Limited sales of long distance service to students.
- Difficulty assessing operating expenses tied to delayed invoices received from telecommunication vendors.
- Difficulties making adjustments to system efficiencies for the processing of long distance calls.
- And, problems associated with the administration of the billing system, which made it difficult to assess the income-producing side of budget forecasts.

Dr. Vogt said each of the problems is being addressed, including embarking on an ambitious marketing program to inform student residents of the cost savings capabilities of the phone system.

In other matters, the senate elected Ralph Wolfe, English, as its vice chair and chair-elect for the 1986-87 academic year. Genevieve Stang, education foundations and inquiry, was re-elected as secretary.

The senate discussed at length summer calendars for 1987 through 1997. No action was taken on the proposal, which is to be addressed at the senate's May meeting.

The proposal for the summer of 1987 includes an eight-week session from June 22-Aug. 14, and four five-week sessions, May 18-June 19, June 22-July 24, June 8-July 10 and July 13-Aug. 14.

University honors employees for long service

More than 220 workers who have been employed at the University five or more years were honored last week.

Those employees who have reached 15, 20, 25 and 30 years of service were recognized at the annual Staff Awards banquet April 3 in the Lenhart Grand Ballroom, University Union. Workers with five- and 10-year anniversaries will receive their awards at various presentation ceremonies around campus presided over by an area vice president.

Margaret Carr, a food service employee in Kreisler Quadrangle, and Glenn A. Cooke, a fire safety officer in the office of environmental services, were each recognized for their 30 years of service to the University.

Also receiving awards were 10 employees who have each accumulated 25 years of service. They include: Paul Nusser, University treasurer; Harold Junk, plant operations; Kathleen Cookson and Zelma Metzger, both in the University Union; Monna L. Pugh, food services; Arla Cron, post office; Carey C. Hummel, custodial services; Phyllis Sweeney, bursar's office, and Ralph Townsend, College of Arts and Sciences.

In addition, Earl E. Rupright, who retired from the plant operations staff in November, was honored for his 25 years of service to the University.

Look for shelter

Tornado season is here. Faculty and staff should familiarize themselves with the siren warning system and with tornado shelter locations.

A straight siren tone for three minutes indicates that a tornado has been seen in Wood County. Immediately go to a designated shelter if you hear the warning signal. Tornado shelter locations have been posted on each floor level.

If tornado shelter postings are missing from your building, order more by contacting Environmental Services (372-2171).

A special siren test will occur on Wednesday, April 9. Siren tests also occur on the first Friday of each month at 10 a.m.

Show tickets available

Discount tickets are available for the performance of "La Cage aux Folles" at the Toledo Masonic Auditorium on Thursday, April 10, at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $24 without transportation and $26 with transportation. A van will leave the University oval at 6:45 p.m. Thursday. Tickets can be purchased at the University Activities Organization office, University Union.

Film chronicles glass boom

A documentary will chronicle the lives, arts and lore of the artists who participated in the Midwest glass boom between 1885-1920, according to the University professors who wrote and are producing the film.

The documentary, entitled "The Fragile Art," is being funded by $25,000 in grants from the Ohio Humanities Council and additional gifts from individuals and corporations, according to co-producers Joseph Arpad, English, and Susan Arpad, popular culture.

The program will look at glass manufacturing in several places, including factories in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and New York that still make glass by using 19th century methods.

"We want to show the different techniques of glass making by concentrating on the performance of making rather than the artifact itself," said Dr. Joseph Arpad. "If you lose the know-how of performance, then you've lost the art."

The documentary was originally scheduled to be released last spring. However, equipment and technical problems as well as the closings of key glass companies in Tiffin, Bellaire and West Virginia have caused delays. The closed plants were to have been location sites for filming.

The narrated television program will show contemporary artists at work replicating glass production of the glass boom period. Artist demonstrations will be on hand and will focus on four main glass artifacts — vases, bottles, art pieces and plate glass.

The show also will include segments about Toledoans Michael Owens and Edward Drummond Libbey, both of whom played important roles in the development of modern glass-making techniques.

The show is expected to be aired on WBGU-TV and later released to other educational media. A study guide and a video cassette of the program will be made available for educational purposes.

Datebook

Slate is set for first Classified Council election

A slate of candidates has been nominated for the first election of members to the Classified Staff Council.

The election will be held on Thursday, May 8, in Memorial Hall from 7 a.m.-6 p.m. to enable employees from different shifts an opportunity to cast their votes.

To vote, classified staff will be required to show a valid University ID and sign in before they will receive a ballot. The ballot will be a scannable form, which will be electronically read and processed. The ballots will not be counted by hand.

Employees will vote only for candidates who are running and work in the same vice presidential area as the individual casting the vote. In the operations area, employees will cast votes only for candidates in their sub-area.

The newly elected council will begin its term of office on July 1. At the first meeting, a lottery will be held to determine who will serve a one-, two- or three-year term. This will enable the council to abide by its charter, which requires that one third of the 21 members be replaced each year.

Candidates may campaign within their constituent area, however, they must comply with the University's solicitation policy.

Candidates on the ballot include:

Academic Affairs (three to be elected): Nancy Myers, Mary Shurts, Annette Ecker, Annette Rideout, Marianne Kolbe, Donna Beam, Waltraud Vogel, Joyce Hyslop, Patricia Wise, Mary Hennings and Judy Hagemann.

Planning and Budgeting (two to be elected): H. Chris Esparza and Dave Mears.

Part-time Employee (one to be elected): Janet Wilhelm and Mary Tebbe.

President's Office and Intercollegiate Athletics (one to be elected): No candidates were nominated.

Student Affairs (one to be elected): Jodie Laubes, Linda Eynon and Clyde Milligan.

Firelands College (one to be elected): Kerry Taylor.

University Relations (one to be elected): Gloria Sponslor and Chris Sexton.

Operations (11 to be elected): Larry Holland, management support (1); Mary Holley, personnel support (1); Charlotte Starnes, public safety (1); Margaret Houchins, Judy Lianos and Joel Burg, auxiliary support (2); Lois Howe, Shirley Baker, Dan Sturges, Jack Rhoden, Carol Hummel, James Lein, Bonnie Lawrence, James Beaupre, Jake Trevino, Bruce Rutter and Dave Tracy, plant operations and maintenance (6).

Tracey joins operations

Tim Tracey, 38, of Newark has been named assistant director of plant operations and maintenance.

Tracey, who is responsible for custodial services, the furniture shop, motor vehicles and grounds, joined the staff March 17. He was formerly superintendent of parks and recreation for the city of Newark. He is a former health, physical education and recreation teacher and basketball coach.

Robert Hayward will continue in his position as assistant director of plant operations and maintenance, directing skilled trades as well as having other responsibilities.
