Employees Encouraged To Participate In Flood Preparation Activities

University employees are encouraged to help the city prepare for the impending flood, and to participate in flood control and flood fighting activities as become necessary. Employees who wish to take time off during work hours to deal with personal flood emergencies or to assist as volunteers should arrange annual leave with their supervisors according to standard procedure. However, employees participating in a flood-related activity sponsored and coordinated by the University, will not be required to take personal leave. --Kendall L. Baker, President, 3-25-97.

Flood Coordination Team Named

The University has appointed a three-person team to coordinate UND's response to the flood emergency. Al Hoffarth, vice president for operations, will serve as over all manager of UND's flood fighting effort. Reporting to him will be LeRoy Sondrol, Director of Plant Services, who will be in charge of protection of the UND campus, and Mark Thompson, Director of Career Services, who will coordinate UND staff and student volunteers, UND-sponsored community service activity, and liaison with the academic division and with student government.--Kendall L. Baker, President, 3-26-97.

Spring Commencements Set For May 10 and 11

Preparations have begun for the University's annual round of spring commencements. The Honorable Clarence Thomas, Associate Justice, United States Supreme Court, will be the main speaker for the Law School Commencement at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, May 10, in the Chester Fritz Auditorium. John H. Stone III, M.D., Associate Dean and Director of Admissions, Emory University School of Medicine, will be the speaker at the Medical School Commencement at 4 p.m. Saturday, May 10, in the Chester Fritz Auditorium. General Commencement will take place at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, May 11, in the Hyslop Sports Center. President Baker will give the Charge to the Class. -- Rita Galloway (University Relations), Associate Commencement Coordinator.

Planning Council Sponsors Video Conference Forums

The University of North Dakota Planning Council is sponsoring UND's participation in a national live video conference on Thursday, April 10 on the subject of "The New Public University: How Do We Compete in a Changing Environment?" The session, from noon to 2 p.m., will take place in 1360 Bio-LRC, Medical Science North, and is free and open to the public. Please note the change in location.

In the days following the video conference, the Council will host two forums to solicit input on the Planning Document that has guided much of UND's Restructuring and Reallocation effort and which is in the process of being revised. The first forum will be held at noon Friday, April 11, North Ballroom, Memorial Union, and the second at 7 p.m. Monday, April 14, in the Loft at the Engelstad Arena. Copies of the planning document are available from the President's Office (777-2121) or by accessing the University's Web Site (<http://www.und.edu>).

Produced by the Public Broadcasting Service, the video conference will feature a panel made up of Constantine Curtis, President of Clemson University and a member of the Kellogg Commission to explore the public university mission; Gil Whitaker, Professor of Business Administration and former Provost of the University of Michigan; Judith Eaton, Chancellor of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities; and Colorado Governor Roy Romer, Chair of the National Education Goals Panel. The panel will address the question, "If you could design the ideal public university for today's world, what choices would you make?" Among topics to be considered are expected to be the need to restructure and re-order the public university; successful institutional models that meet community and corporate needs; involving and motivating faculty, students and community to change; competition outside the academy; new delivery systems; ensuring diversity; and using alternative learning assessments. -- Dave Vorland, Assistant to the President and Recording Secretary to the Planning Council.

Protect Equipment From Flood Threat

State Fire and Tornado provides the insurance coverage for all state-owned facilities and equipment. Flood damage is a covered loss, but only at a minimal level ($10,000 per occurrence). The University has obtained additional flood insurance for three high-risk facilities on campus: Hughes Fine Arts Center, Wilkerson and Smith Hall. This additional insurance is on the structure only. Therefore, ALL departments are strongly encouraged to take the necessary action to protect their equipment and supplies. Appropriate action may include moving equipment from basement areas and/or raising equipment off the floor. If you have any questions, please call. -- Pat Hanson, Director of Payroll, 7-4228, or Leroy Sondrol, Director of Physical Plant, 7-2592.

Senate To Hear Restructuring Report

The University Senate will meet at 4:05 p.m. Thursday, April 3, in Room 7, Gamble Hall.

-- Alice Poehls (Admissions and Records), Secretary of the Senate.

EVENTS TO NOTE

Computer Science Lists Colloquiums

On Thursday, March 27, the Computer Science Colloquium Series will present James Peters from the University of Manitoba and Sheela Ramana from the University of Winnipeg. Dr. Peters will present "Time and Roughly Fuzzy Process Models of Clocks: Concepts and Applications" at 2:30 p.m. in 107 CAS I, and Dr. Ramana will present "Fuzzy Software Cost Estimation: A Multi-Criteria Decision Making Approach with Applications" at 4:15 p.m. in 102 CAS I.

All students and faculty are invited. Please join us. -- Bruce Maxwell, Assistant Professor of Computer Science.

Counseling Course Lists Seminars

The Department of Counseling 565N Topics Seminar Presents "Counseling Research, Determinism and Positivism: Postmodern, Critical Person-Centered Musings," with J. Wade Hannon, at noon Thursday, March 27, in 318 Montgomery Hall. "The Efficacy of Counselor Training Using the Bug-In-the-Ear Approach," with Shan Jumper, will be held Thursday, April 3, at noon in 318 Montgomery Hall. -- Linda Winter, Coordinator, Counseling 565N Topics Seminar.

Distinguished Lecturer To Present "Laser Medicine"

The Office of Research and Program Development, and the Departments of Industrial Technology and Physics are proud to sponsor AWU-DOE Distinguished Lecturer, Luiz B. Da Silva, Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, Livermore, Calif. He will present "Laser Medicine" at noon Thursday, April 3, in the Reed T. Keller Auditorium, School of Medicine and Health Sciences. Enter by the south door of the Medical School, and turn left down the hall to the Reed T. Keller Auditorium.

Dr. Da Silva will present information on his current research into the use of lasers for medical therapy. The laboratory has been studying the interaction of short (~200 fs) lasers for ablating soft and hard tissue. These laser systems produce minimal collateral damage and represent a unique tool for precise surgery. Other current work includes the use of lasers for tissue welding, and for tomographic imaging.

A recipient of the IEEE Early Achievement Award, Dr. Da Silva earned his degrees from the University of British Columbia, in Vancouver, B.C. He has performed experimental and theoretical research on the equation of state and opacity of strongly coupled plasmas. This work used laser driven shock waves to produce uniform high density material. As part of this work, new optical diagnostic techniques were developed to measure the electron temperature of shock compressed material. The opacity of shocked aluminum near the K-shell was measured using time resolved x-ray diagnostics.

He has also served as a visiting scientist at the Laboratory for Laser Energetics at the University of Rochester, where under the supervision of Dr. Paul Jaanimagi, he conducted experiments on direct drive inertial confinement fusion (ICF). Time resolved x-ray spectroscopy of thin buried layers was used to measure the mass ablation rate and investigate the effects of beam uniformity. -- Ray Diez, Assistant Professor of Industrial Technology.

Engineering Sets Open House

On Thursday, April 3, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the School of Engineering and Mines (SEM) invites the area schools, general public, and UND students and faculty to view engineering students' activities.

The Open House is sponsored by the Dean's Office and the Engineers' Council. There will be presentations throughout the day of interest to the general public and prospective students. Many students have worked on cooperative education positions and may be willing to give insight about their co-op experiences. There will also be financial aid and scholarship information available for students already in the program and for prospective students.

As an added attraction this year, the Society of Energy Alternatives will have on display a solar-powered car they built for Sunrayce 97. Sunrayce is a biennial intercollegiate event which brings together university students from across the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Puerto Rico in a competition to build and race cars powered only by sunlight. The University of North Dakota is participating in this competition, and this is where people can see cutting edge engineering at its best.

Have you ever wondered how to explode a garbage can? A cryogenics (liquid nitrogen) display show will demonstrate it. In addition, a large number of SEM students will display their design projects and lab experiments in a competition that takes place throughout the day. The Society of Women Engineers (SWE) will also have some hands-on experiments for visitors to take part in. These experiments show how fun science, math, and engineering can be. Children of all ages are guaranteed to enjoy the activities SWE has planned for the day.

There are a number of other attractions taking place throughout the Engineering facilities, including laboratory tours, a chance to meet the SEM faculty, and the opportunity to talk to people about careers in engineering. -- Don Richard, Dean of Engineering and Mines.

IRB Sets Meeting For April 4

The UND's Institutional Review Board will meet at 4 p.m. Friday, April 4, in 305 Twamley Hall, to consider all research proposals submitted to the Office of Research and Program Development before Tuesday, March 25. Proposals received later will be considered only if a quorum has reviewed them and time permits.

Clinical medical projects must be reviewed by the Clinical Medical Subcommittee before being brought to the full Board. Proposals for these projects are due in the Office of Research and Program Development Tuesday, March 18.

Notes from the meeting will be available in ORPD approximately one week after the meeting.

-- F. R. Ferraro (Psychology), Chair, Institutional Review Board.

Biology To Hold Seminar

The Department of Biology will present a seminar at noon Friday, April 4, in 141 Starcher Hall. Tom Hill (Microbiology), will present "The End of DNA Replication as We Know It." All are welcome. -- Colin Hughes, Assistant Professor of Biology.

Soils Expert To Give LEEPS Lecture

A LEEPS (Leading Edge of Earth and Planetary Sciences) lecture and workshop will be presented by Jimmie Richardson, North Dakota State University, on Friday, April 4.

At noon in Leonard Hall Lecture Bowl, Room 100, he will consider "Soils and Groundwater on the Lake Agassiz Plain." From 2 to 4 p.m. in 214 Leonard Hall, he will conduct a Soils and Hydrogeology Workshop.

Dr. Richardson is a dynamic lecturer with a broad base in both geology and soils. The LEEPS Lecture Series is supported by the Department of Geology and Geological Engineering, the Energy and Environmental Research Center, Office of Research and Program Development, Office of Instructional Development and the Advancing Science Excellence in North Dakota (ASEND) Program. All interested persons are welcome to attend. For additional information, contact John Reid at 777-2131. -- Dexter Perkins, Professor of Geology and Geological Engineering.

Dean's Hour Lecture Will Consider Euthanasia

The School of Medicine and Health Sciences Dean's Hour seminar will feature a presentation by Marsha Fowler, Professor of Theology and Nursing and Director of Health Ministries Programs, San Francisco Theological Seminary. She will discuss "Assisted Suicide and Euthanasia," at noon Friday, April 4, in the Reed T. Keller Auditorium, Room 1350, World Bio-Information Learning Resources Center, Health Sciences Building. -- Thomas Norris, Executive Associate Dean, Academic Affairs and Research, School of Medicine and Health Sciences.

Grand Forks Native To Give Lecture

The Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology will present a special lecture at 10 a.m. Tuesday, April 4, in 1360 Clifford Haugen Lecture Hall, Medical Science. "Gene Expression Associated with Chromosome 6-Mediated Tumor Suppression of Human Cutaneous Malignant Melanoma" will be presented by Michael Ray, Department of Human Genetics, University of Michigan School of Medicine in Ann Arbor. An informal reception will immediately follow the presentation and all are invited.

Michael Ray is a native of Grand Forks who graduated at the top of his class from Red River High School in 1986. He attended Concordia College in Moorhead, and graduated summa cum laude in 1990. Dr. Ray then was accepted into the M.D./Ph.D. Medical Scientist Training Program at the University of Michigan School of Medicine. He recently completed his Ph.D. studies at the National Center for Human Genome Research at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., under the direction of Dr. Jeffrey Trent. The work, begun in the Human Genetics Department at the University of Michigan, transferred to NIH when Dr. Trent was named scientific director of the Human Genome project by Dr. Francis Collins, the project's director. Dr. Ray is co-author of eight full professional papers and eight abstracts of papers presented at professional meetings. He will lecture on studies constituting his Ph.D. dissertation. He has recently returned to Ann Arbor where he is completing his third year of Medicine.

Dr. Ray is the son of Annette and Dr. Paul Ray, distinguished long-time professor of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology at the UND School of Medicine and Health Sciences. -- Robert Nordlie, Professor and Chair of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology.

Conference To Discuss Genetics

The Department of Pediatrics/Genetics will present a conference, "Practical Genetics in Primary Health Care" on Friday, April 4, via Interactive Video Network at Gamble Hall. Nationally known experts will present information on gene testing for breast cancer, fetal alcohol syndrome screening, diabetes and other common adult diseases, diabetes prevention trials in North Dakota, sorting out the diagnosis of ADHD, DD, and MR, and harmful exposures during pregnancy.

The conference is free to students. Please call Mary Ebertowski, Department of Pediatrics, for more information, before April 1, at 777-4243. -- Mary Ebertowski, Nurse Geneticist, Pediatrics/Genetics.

Honors Students To Host "End of Science" Forum

Honors Program students will host a University-wide forum on "The End of Science" Sunday, April 6, at 6:30 p.m. in 1618 Swanson, Memorial Union. Professors, students and anyone else interested in the topic are invited to attend and share their views. The forum will focus both on the topic and on the book "The End of Science" by John Horgan. For more information, contact me. -- Tami Carmichael, Honors Program, 777-2219.

Psychology Announces Colloquium

The Psychology Department will hold a colloquium at which Mark Grabe (Psychology) will present "Consequences of Personal Philosophies of Learning: Educator Beliefs Determining Student Opportunities," Monday, April 7, in Room 102, Nursing Building, from noon to 1 p.m. Everyone is welcome. -- Joan Peterson, Psychology Department.

Phi Beta Kappa Lecture Set

This year's Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar is Dennis O'Brien, President Emeritus of the University of Rochester, and previously Professor of Philosophy at Rochester and Bucknell Universities. He will present a lecture Thursday, April 10, at 8 p.m. in 101 Abbott Hall on "The Logic of Cursing." The lecture will address the nature of primary religious discourse from the perspective of its converse, cursing. He is also the speaker in the "Theology for Lunch" series, Thursday, April 10. The noon discussion, at Christus Rex, is on "The Anger World and Theology." Both events are free and open to the public. Dr. O'Brien's visit is sponsored by the UND chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the Department of Philosophy and Religion, Christus Rex, the Newman Center, the College of Arts and Sciences, and the Office of the President. -- Patricia Kelley (Geology and Geological Engineering), Vice President, Phi Beta Kappa.

Psychology Schedules Colloquium

The Psychology Department will hold a colloquium in which James Coyne, University of Michigan, will present "Psychology's New Frontier? Depression in Primary Care," at 11 a.m. Friday, April 11, in Room 102, Nursing Building. Everyone is welcome. -- Joan Peterson, Psychology Department.

OF ACADEMIC INTEREST

Help Update Directory Of Scientists, Artists & Scholars

The Graduate School and the Office of University Relations are in the process of updating the Directory of Scientists, Artists & Scholars. Faculty and researchers should soon receive in the mail a form, a copy of an entry from the last directory and a letter from Graduate School Dean Harvey Knull asking them to participate in the project. Please fill out the form and return it to Research Directory, Office of University Relations, Box 7144, by Friday, March 28. To help expedite the process, you may wish to use the form on the world wide web. It can be found at <http://www.und.nodak.edu/form>. Thank you in advance for your help on this important project. -- Peter Johnson, Assistant Director, University Relations.

Summer, Fall Registration Begins April 7

Registration for the 1997 summer term will be from Monday, April 7, through Friday, May 9, and for the fall term from Monday, April 7, through Friday, Sept. 4. Students will register and drop/add using the ALFI System (Access Line For Information). Students who have proper signatures for registration actions not permitted by ALFI may add these courses at the Office of Admissions and Records, second floor, Twamley Hall, during normal office hours starting April 7. Students may register on or after appointment times as printed on their registration forms. -- Veriena Garver, Admissions and Records Officer.

Faculty, Counselors Sought For Summer Camp

The Science in the Circle of Life summer program, a 10-day summer camp held on the UND campus June 8-21, for seventh and eighth grade rural and minority students, is searching for energetic, enthusiastic individuals to serve as Faculty Mentors, Program Leaders, and Counselors. Faculty Mentors and Program Leaders are integral in the implementation of program curriculum while Counselors will be responsible for leading evening activities and providing guidance to camp participants. Camp participants will explore and investigate science and technology through multiple sites on campus including Chemistry, Engineering, Biology, Geology, and Computer Science, as well as discover information on career options. Listed below are the staff job descriptions.

Faculty Mentor Job Description

Duties will include: provide and prepare lab space appropriate to your discipline; collaborate with Program Leaders to develop an introduction to your field; and work with a small group of students on the completion of a final investigative project. Salary: $1,000. Submit letter of application, resume, two references to: Science in the Circle of Life, Box 5023, Grand Forks, ND 58206. Deadline 3-25-97.

Program Leader Job Description

Teaching/science experience with middle school students necessary. Prior work in a multi-cultural educational setting preferred. Live in the UND residence halls with students and staff during the camp. On-duty during camp from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Salary: $1,000. Submit letter of application, resume, two references to: Science in the Circle of Life, Box 5023, Grand Forks, ND 58206. Deadline 3/25/97.

Counseling Job Description

Prior experience working with youth programs or middle school students necessary. Prior work in a multi-cultural educational setting preferred. Live in the UND residence halls with students and staff during the camp. On-duty during camp from 5 p.m. to 9:30 a.m. and on call during two days of camp. Salary: $1,000. Submit letter of application, resume, transcripts, and two references to: Science in the Circle of Life, Box 5023, Grand Forks, ND 58206. Deadline 4/7/97.

-- Jan Orvik, Editor, for Diane Hiltner, Director, Science in the Circle of Life.

Doctoral Exam Set For Michael Mann

The final examination for Michael Mann, a candidate for the Ph.D. degree with a major in Energy Engineering, is set for 10 a.m. Monday, April 7, in 360A Harrington Hall. The dissertation title is "Capture of Alkali During Pressurized Fluidized Bed Combustion Using In-Bed Sorbents." Douglas Ludlow (Chemical Engineering) is the committee chair.

Members of the Graduate Faculty are invited to attend. -- Harvey Knull, Dean, Graduate School.

GRANTS AND FELLOWSHIPS

Faculty May Apply For WAC Workshop

Faculty who plan to develop a writing component for a course, or to reconsider and restructure writing activities currently being used, are invited to apply to participate in a seven-session May Extended Writing Across the Curriculum Workshop. The workshop is scheduled for seven mornings (May 12-13, 15-16, and 19-21), from 8:30 a.m. until noon each day. Group members will work together during those sessions to address teaching with writing issues as they relate to their own course projects. Stipends of $600 will be awarded to participants.

Faculty who are interested in participating in this workshop should apply by April 1, since participation is limited. For more information on the workshop, contact me. -- Joan Hawthorne, WAC Coordinator, 7-6381 or hawthorn@badlands.nodak.edu.

EPSCoR Awards Grants

The North Dakota Experimental Program to Stimulate Competitive Research (ND EPSCoR) recently awarded four North Dakota University System (NDUS) researchers $3,000 each to examine the feasibility of developing their research into commercial products. The award winners are:

Frank Beaver (Geology and Geological Engineering, UND), and John Rindt of GeoDynamics, Inc., Grand Forks, are investigating "Container Decontamination Using Oxygen Plasma."

Mark Doll (Pharmacology and Toxicology, UND), is pursuing a novel approach to an "RNA Purification Procedure." He is also affiliated with the Grand Forks technology company, Gene Finders.

Robert Groves (Fine Arts, NDSU), is developing "A Technical Approach for Relieving Repetitive Stress Injury at the Computer Keyboard."

Harvey Gullicks (Civil Engineering, UND), is investigating waste water treatment based on "A Prototype for Energy Capitalization by an Innovative Combination of Attached and Suspended Growth."

ND EPSCoR's Phase 0 Technology Transfer Into Commercialization program helps North Dakota university researchers prepare for submittal to the Small Business Innovative Research (SBIR) grants program. Eleven federal agencies use SBIR to contract with small companies to commercialize innovative research. The SBIR program provides over $1 billion in annual awards.

The Phase 0 award is used to obtain data leading to a "proof of concept" that the research has merit for commercialization. The 1997 Phase 0 award winners responded to an RFP issued to the University system on Nov. 20, 1996. This is the second year of the Phase 0 program. Gale Mayer (Energy and Environmental Research Center) and President of Western Environmental Services and Technology, Inc., Grand Forks, received a Phase 0 award in 1996. Dr. Mayer submitted a Phase 1 proposal to NSF and was recently awarded $75,000 to continue development of his innovative method of soil decontamination.

ND EPSCoR is a North Dakota University System program aimed at increasing research and developing human resources. The purpose is to make North Dakota more competitive nationally in science, engineering, and mathematics research and development. ND EPSCoR, also known as ASEND (Advancing Science Excellence in North Dakota), is open to student and faculty at all state university system campuses.

To learn more about ND EPSCoR technology transfer programs, contact me. -- David R. Givers, North Dakota State University, (701) 231-7516 or givers@badlands.nodak.edu, or visit the EPSCoR homepage at: <http://www.ndsu.nodak.edu/epscor/index.html>.

BILLBOARD

Former Faculty Member Dies

It is with regret that the University announces the death on March 20, of former faculty member Dr. Douglas M. Wills (D.A.T., History, 1973) of Poway, Calif. Dr. Wills taught in the Humanities Program from 1973 to 1988. He was 58. -- Ellen Erickson, Administrative Officer, College of Arts and Sciences.

Laundry Discontinues Dry Cleaning Service

The University Laundry has discontinued its dry cleaning operation. The University has contracted with Valley Queen Dry Cleaning to provide for your departmental dry cleaning needs. You may contact the Purchasing Office at 777-2681 for further information. Alterations will continue to be serviced through the University Laundry. -- Paul Clark, Associate Director of Plant Services, and Jerry Clancy, Buyer, Purchasing.

Beware Of Phone Solicitations

Phone solicitations for selling office supplies have been made by vendors not normally conducting business with the University. Tactics, such as getting your address to mail you supplies, offering something free with or without an order, offering a great deal, and the need to get an order in before the sale goes off, are some of the sales pitches used. An actual solicitation is summarized as follows:

"Their usual practice is to thank you for inquiring in some manner about their product. Then they talk so fast that it is hard to follow what they are saying. The result is to fluster you because you may not remember doing any inquiring, are to embarrassed to admit it, and you will say yes to everything they ask."

Solicitations generated by these tactics are not the University's accepted methods of business transactions. When such phone solicitations occur, please do not give them any information to lead the caller in to sending you anything. You may ask them to send information in writing or just offer to transfer the call to the Purchasing office at 777-2681.

For further information on phone solicitations, please refer to the Oct. 11, 1996, "University letter," page 11. If there are questions or concerns regarding this manner, please call Purchasing at 777-2681. -- Linda Romuld, Director of Purchasing.

Computer Center Offers Win '95 Class

A training session, "Windows 95 Transition," will be offered by the Computer Center to faculty, staff, and students for a $20 fee. The fee will cover the cost of a learning guide for each participant. The session will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday, April 21, 23, and 25 at 1:30 p.m. in 361 Upson II. You must register in advance by calling Bonnie or Shelly at 777-3171, and providing an account number to be charged. Requests for accommodation related to disability need to be made when registering.

The course presents the new concepts of Windows 95 for Windows 3.x users. Participants will be introduced to Windows 95 features and complete corresponding step-by-step exercises in a learning guide that will be theirs to keep. Topics covered include navigating the desktop, using online help, using Windows Explorer, and using the find utility. -- Marlys Hanson, User Services Consultant, Computer Center.

Meritorious Service Nominations Due April 11

This is a reminder to all faculty, staff and others associated with UND that the deadline for nominations for Meritorious Service Awards for staff employees is Friday, April 11. The completed nomination form must be forwarded to Personnel Services, 313 Twamley Hall, Box 8010, by that date. Any questions regarding this award program should be directed to Personnel Services at 7-4361. -- Cheryl Osowski, Personnel Services.

Nominations Sought for Organization Award

Each year student organizations are recognized for their work within the University community. The awards highlight organizations' programming efforts, community service, leadership development programs and overall accomplishments throughout the year. The awards recognize the outside-the-classroom work of students and student organizations. Please stop by the Student Organization Center or call 7-3620 for an application. Completed applications must be submitted by 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 16, to the Student Organizations Center, Memorial Union. The awards will be presented during the Memorial Union Leadership Program on April 25.

-- Ben Subedi, Coordinator of Student Organizations.

NDUS Legal News: The ADA on College Campuses

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) prohibit discrimination on the basis of disability in employment or access to facilities, programs, services or activities at colleges and universities.

Protected individuals include those with a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits a major life activity. In employment, admissions, and in all programs and services, institutions must make reasonable accommodations enabling protected persons to participate fully in the program or activity.

A reasonable accommodation means a change or adjustment that permits a qualified individual to perform the essential job functions, or to participate in and fully enjoy the benefits of the program or activity. An accommodation is not required if it is unduly costly or disruptive, or if it would fundamentally alter the nature or operation of the business or program.

Colleges and universities may not make pre-admission inquiries concerning disabilities. Eligibility criteria, including standardized tests, that tend to screen out qualified applicants with disabilities are suspect. If a testing company "flags" tests given under nonstandard conditions, college officials may not ask an applicant why that was done, or what testing accommodations were made. Applicants with a disability may always voluntarily disclose the condition and request an accommodation or special consideration.

Institutions are required to make an individualized inquiry into every request for an accommodation. Although documentation of the disabling condition can (and should) be required whenever a request is made, requests should not be denied merely because documentation is not readily available to the person to whom the request is made, and such requests should never be disregarded. Documentation may already be on file in another department. To ensure that disabled student needs are not ignored, it is important that all employees have a basic understanding of Section 504 and the ADA and be familiar with procedures for responding to accommodations requests.

There are three basic categories of accommodations to assist students with disabilities: academic adjustments, modification or alteration in course examinations, and the provision of auxiliary aids. Examples of accommodations include moving a class to an accessible room, providing notetakers or interpreters, providing written copies or tapes of lectures, providing individual orientation to science labs and extra practice with equipment or extra lab time, providing extra exam time or a secluded, quiet room for an exam, using alternative test designs, or allowing the use of aids such as notebook computers, calculators, dictionaries, etc., during exams. Faculty must be sensitive to disabled student needs and understand that academic freedom does not justify denial of a reasonable accommodation.

Discrimination is prohibited, and reasonable accommodations must be provided, in all programs and activities, including activities off campus. For example, reasonable accommodations must be made to enable qualified students to participate in clinical programs or internships.

The cost of an accommodation is the institution's responsibility. However, the state vocational rehabilitation department may be responsible for those costs in some cases (although institutions may not require students to apply for vocational rehab as a condition of granting a request). Personal services not available to other students are not a reasonable accommodation and they are not the institution's responsibility. For example, a personal attendant to assist a disabled student with daily living tasks, or hearing aids, eyeglasses and other personal items, are not the institution's responsibility. If transportation is not provided to students generally, the institution is not required to provide that service to disabled students (but if transportation is provided to the general student population, it must be accessible to disabled students).

Institutions are not required to grant a "second chance" if a request is made after an unsatisfactory grade, failed test or poor performance, at least when the student was earlier aware of the disability. However, entitlement to readmission or reconsideration is unclear when the student is diagnosed after the fact and had no knowledge of the condition earlier. College officials should exercise discretion in these cases, and at least consider whether the student's performance may have been different had the condition been known, and accommodations provided earlier.

-- Pat Seaworthy, NDUS Legal Counsel.

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Women's Center Lists Events

The Wednesday, April 2, Feast and Focus program at noon in the Women's Center, 305 Hamline St., is "Gender and Communication in the Media Context." Forms of media are strong learning sources for shaping our perceptions of women and men. In the media, women are generally under-represented, and both women and men are portrayed in narrow sex roles. Bias toward or against either sex is injurious to both men and women. Stereotyping, or oversimplifying the roles women and men play, has a variety of negative outcomes. In this program, we will examine various forms of media and discuss its impact on our lives.

The Thursday, April 3, For Women Only program will feature Sue Goebel from Valley Health, who will lead us in a discussion of women's sexuality issues.

Sarah Weddington, the attorney who gained national attention in the 1973 Roe vs. Wade case will speak on campus Thursday, April 3, at 8 p.m. For location and more information, contact the university Program Council at 777-4202.

-- Donna Oltmanns, Coordinator, Women's Center.

International Centre Lists Events

The Thursday, April 3, program at 7 p.m. in the International Centre, 2908 University Ave., is "Celebrating Turkish Culture," featuring Turkish foods, history, artifacts and discussion of Turkish culture.

Tickets are now on sale for the 36th Annual Feast of Nations to be held Saturday, April 19, at 6 p.m. at the Grand Forks Civic Auditorium. Join us for an international extravaganza including world vignettes, an international candlelight dinner, intercultural entertainment, music, attire, and artifacts. All are welcome. Tickets for non-students are $15, $7 for students. Call the International Centre for reservations at 777-4231. -- Sharon Rezac Andersen, Director, International Centre, 777-4231.

Burtness Theatre Presents "She Stoops To Conquer"

The Department of Theatre Arts is proud to present the Restoration comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer." Set in 18th century England, the production shows the humorous relationship between an upper class lady who must present herself as a commoner to win the heart of a gentleman who becomes incredibly shy around women of the same social standing.

Although the play makes light of social situations found in the 1700s, contemporary audiences will find the comedy just as funny today because many of the same situations exist in the 1990s.

The production is directed by Dean Bruce Jacobsen and runs Tuesday through Saturday, April 15-19, at the Burtness Theatre. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 and will be available at the Burtness Box Office beginning April 1; call 777-2587. -- Joel Svendsen, Burtness Theatre Publicity Manager.

_____University Bookstore_____

UNIVERSITY LETTER is published weekly (bi-weekly during the summer) and distributed at no charge to members of the University community. It is also available electronically through UNInfo, the University's menu system on the Internet. The addresses are <http://www.und.nodak.edu> for World-Wide Web and uninfo.und.nodak.edu for gopher.

All articles submitted for publication should be labeled "University Letter" and must reach the editor by 1 p.m. Tuesday. Electronic submissions may be sent to jan_orvik@mail.und.nodak.edu. Attachments to University Letter require approval of the editor and an account number. University Letter is issued by the UND Office of University Relations, Jan Orvik, editor, Box 7144, 411 Twamley Hall, 777-2731.

UND is an equal opportunity/affirmative action institution.
