LEGENDARY LADIES Of LINCOLN

*Faye
Tull
Carter*

Faye Tull Carter obtained a Bachelor's of Science Degree in Home Economics from Lincoln University in 1938. Upon receiving a Master's degree in Library Science (MLS) from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio, Carter was appointed the Librarian at Lincoln University Laboratory High School.

She was later transferred to the University library, Inman E. Page Library, where she remained until her retirement in 1989. During her years of service, Carter was promoted to the level of Assistant Professor. She taught courses in Library Science and Children's Literature.

Carter's duties at Inman E. Page Library included creating displays, arranging picture collections and organizing the research material for teachers and students in the Education Department. She also established the Children and Young Adult Literature Collection. Mrs. Carter passed away in 2013
