South Pacific staged at Boone Campus Nov. 14-16

By JEFF CRAIGMILE
Staff Writer

A new day for theatre here at DMACC Boone Campus occurred September 29 as the first read-through for South Pacific was held. It is the first combined effort between Boone Community Theatre and the DMACC drama department. The play will be directed by DMACC Drama and Speech Instructor Kay Mueller with music directed by DMACC Music Instructor Jim Loos. Boone Community Theatre's Mary Maybee is the producer.

South Pacific will be presented in three performances November 14, 15 and 16 at 8 p.m. in the Boone Campus Auditorium. Tickets are available on request from cast and crew members or from Mary Maybee. Tickets are 5 dollars. No reserved seating is available.

South Pacific is a Rodgers and Hammerstein musical set on two WWII South Pacific Islands. In this story, Emile falls in love with Nellie, an Army nurse. Nellie is unsure whether or not to marry him. "Lootellan" Cable as Bloody Mary calls him, is pursued throughout by several women. Luther Billis is another character who manages to find adventure as an enterprising soldier always looking to make a fast dollar.

Familiar musical numbers that can be heard throughout include "Dites Moi Por Qoui," "Honey Bun," "Some Enchanted Evening," "Happy Talk," "Gonna Wash That Man Right Outta My Hair" and "There Ain't Nothin' Like a Dame." There is a lot of singing and dancing in this show. Choreography is being headed by Carol Renae Hamman of Boone.

Jayne Smith, librarian and Connie Booth, Nursing Department chairperson are among the dedicated theatre people cast from Boone Campus. Other DMACC chorus members include students Mike Koch, Jim Merrill, Janene Hale, Jeff Craigmile, Dana Scott and Julie Sharp. The rest of the cast is as follows:

Emile, Leroy Peterson; Nellie, Kahla Jackson; Cable, Bill Grieser; Billis, Mike Terwilliger; Bloody Mary, Deborah Bishop; Lia, Nichole Rusnak; Harbison, Don Riemenschneider; Brackett, Donald Welder; Jerome, Tyler Grieser; Ngana, Lyndsay Kooistra.

The women's chorus includes Carla Werre, Michelle Olson, Rosie Needham, Jolene Philo, Sharp, Hale, Booth and Smith.

Six elected to Student Action Board

By CHAD ELSBERRY

On Sept. 23-25, the elections for the Boone Campus Student Action Board (SAB) were held. Voting took place in the main office with the use of a voting machine provided by Al Sorensen, Boone County Auditor.

Officially, 120 students cast ballots. The six individuals elected to the SAB were Joe Carswell, Carrie Ohlendorf, Jennifer Silberhorn, Ken Stoneburner, Angie Strother, and Tori Wilhite. In addition, Joel Irvine and Scott Swier will serve as alternates on the SAB.

Following is some background information on the recently elected members:

Joe Carswell, is a 19-year-old first year student at DMACC. Joe is from Boone, and his plans include transferring to ISU and majoring in landscape architecture. Joe enjoys swimming and photography. Joe ran for the SAB to get involved in school activities.

Carrie Ohlendorf, 20, is also a first year student here at DMACC. Her plans include transferring to a four year school and majoring in psychology. Carrie sees the SAB as a chance to gain useful leadership experience.

Jennifer Silberhorn, is an 18-year-old freshman here. Jennifer is from Boone, and her future plans include transferring to ISU and pursuing a career in sports marketing. Jennifer ran for the SAB in order to help decide how student fees should be spent in the best interest of all students.

Ken Stoneburner, is a 41-year-old second year student from Ogden, Iowa. Ken's major is leisure studies (Recreational Leadership.) Ken enjoys hunting, fishing, camping and gardening. One reason Ken ran for the SAB was to gain a better understanding of the inner workings of a government body.

Angie Strother, is an 18-year-old freshman from Boone. She plans to transfer to UNI to major in elementary education. Angie enjoys traveling and spending time with friends and family. She feels the SAB will be a good learning experience as well as a chance to become involved in school activities.

Tori Wilhite, is a 19-year-old second year student who hails from Boone. She plans on attending ISU in the future and majoring in criminology. Tori then plans to move on to Drake University for her criminal law degree. Tori's interests include swimming, softball, and tennis. She hopes to learn more about leadership skills through the SAB activities.

One of the first undertakings by the SAB was attending the Student Leadership Conference at Camp Hantesa on October 1. The purpose of the event was to allow students from the four DMACC campuses to meet and get acquainted.

In addition, the SAB members also had the opportunity to listen to speakers discuss time management, job organization and aspects of parliamentary procedure.

PBL Conference a success

By JOHN GREENE
Staff Writer

Boone campus Phi Beta Lamda officers and members recently attended the State PBL Conference in Newton Oct 12. It was held at the Newton Best Western Inn, where all members stayed overnight and attended workshops and meetings the next day.

A number of workshops were about recycling, time management, and keys to leadership. Boone Campus PBLers said they gained experience and enjoyed going to them. The time management presentation explained how to make time for everything in a busy life, including studying, sleeping, and even eating!

Dave Redix, PBL president said that the state PBL president, William Lenbke, thought that the workshops and meetings were a great success. The Carroll DMACC Campus is starting a PBL after learning about the organization at the conference.

Next, PBL will be traveling to Mount Pleasant, for the next Leadership Conference, March 6-7. The canned food drive for Thanksgiving is still under way. There is a box outside Mary Jane Green's office.

Pre-enrollment Workshop

The Boone Campus Displaced Homemakers Center is offering a pre-enrollment workshop for prospective adult students to be held Monday, Nov. 4 at 7 p.m. in Room 117. The step-by-step process of enrolling will be explained as well as how to apply for financial aid, work study and scholarships.

Each program department will have a representative explain the various Boone County programs of study.

The many services of the Learning Achievement Center will also be explained.

For additional information, contact Maggie Stone in Room 128.

NSU attends convention

Three faculty and 28 nursing students from DMACC-Boone recently attended the state convention for the Iowa Organization for the Advancement of Associate Degree Nursing in Des Moines, Iowa.

The theme this year was "Celebrate AD Nursing: We Have the Spirit."

Keynote speech was presented by Dr. Ray Pugh who spoke on "A Challenge for Your Life." Another highlight of the convention was Barbara Fassbinder, RN from Iowa who presented her own special story entitled "A Nurse's Story." Other informative sessions included "Fueling the Flame for Nursing," "Caring for the Homeless," and the latest update on HIV and Aids.

REZOOMERS view movie

Members of the Rezoomers Club viewed the motivational movie, "You Pack Your Own Chute" Tuesday, October 15 at their regularly scheduled meeting.

The movie showed a middle-aged woman preparing for and going through her first parachute jump. Her experiences were symbolic of the fears everyone experiences... fear of failure, fear of the unknown, fear of criticism. The movie pointed out that most fears are unrealistic and gave suggestions for overcoming them.

The November meetings of the Rezoomers Club are scheduled for Wednesday, November 6 and Tuesday, November 19 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Library Conference Room 131. All adult students are invited to attend.

For additional information about the Rezoomers Club, contact Maggie Stone, Room 128.

Rec Club attends national convention

By JASON DEBOOM
Staff Writer

Seven recreation students left Boone Campus Oct. 15 to go to the National Recreation Convention in Baltimore, Md.

The group boarded a school van that afternoon, beginning a trip that would take 20 hours of driving, oneway.

The National Recreation Convention, which was held at the Baltimore Convention Center located downtown, provided many activities to see and do.

There was an exhibit hall with 740 exhibitors showing new equipment dealing with the field of recreation. Some of the things that were being presented were sports equipment, playground equipment for parks and lawn mowers for the maintenance of parks.

There were also academic sessions in which people distinguished in the field of recreation spoke.

On Sunday, October 20, the students attended a party given for all those people involved in recreation.

This marked the end of this year's convention, with next year's being held in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Although the trip going was long, Bill Alley, Recreation Club adviser said, "Everyone had a good time."

ISU Rep.

Gregory Millar, ISU office of admissions, will visit with interested students Wednesday, Nov. 13 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the theatre lobby.

Students are invited to stop in to see Millar and have their questions about ISU answered.

Rotaract news

By KAROL J. HICKS
Contributing Writer

Boone Campus' Rotaract Club is beginning the school term with a bang. An election, food drive and pop tab collection led off the new year.

The first order of business was the placing of a collection container for tabs from pop cans. Rotaract is working in conjunction with the Nursing Department collecting the tabs for the Ronald McDonald House in Des Moines. According to Gary Hill, secretary of Rotaract during the last school year, "It would be wonderful if DMACC students could save these tabs at home and bring them in to school for this special cause."

An election of officers was held on October 23, and the following were elected into office:

- President, Duanna Vinchattle
- Vice President, Elizabeth Foust
- Secretary, Barbara Brayton
- Treasurer, Harriet Simmons
- Publicity/Historian, Janene Hale

One of the first events to take place after the new officers take charge will be the food drive beginning in October and running until close to Thanksgiving. The club asks that you donate as many canned goods as possible in order to provide meals for Boone families who are less fortunate and who would otherwise go without.

Guests' in-depth view on alcoholism

By JANENE HALE
Staff Writer

Alcoholism is one of the most common mental disorders in the U.S., according to the textbook used in the Boone Campus abnormal psychology class. In addition, alcohol is a psychoactive drug that affects thought, emotion and behavior, the book claims.

Several guest speakers recently visited Dr. Bob Taylor's abnormal psychology class to discuss alcoholism, first hand. (With respect to those speakers, names will not be used, as requested.)

The speakers indicated that alcoholism does not distinguish between those whose lifestyles are centered around alcohol or those whose are not.

The backgrounds of the speakers varied a great deal.

It was made clear that the disorder is not a matter of behavior, but rather a disease. One of the speakers with a diabetic brother used an analogy of relating alcoholics to diabetics.

"When taking the proper medication, you can't tell who is or is not diabetic. If they do not receive any medicine, they become ill fast. It is similar for an alcoholic. You could not pick them out in a crowd, but if they start drinking, they also become ill fast," the speaker said.

As the speakers' stories unfolded, they all mentioned using alcohol as a solution, eventually with alcohol ending up as the problem. One said, "he may have been protecting his feelings of inadequacy by using alcohol as a defense mechanism." Another said, "she sat down to a social drink with friends and lost ten years of her life." The third speaker told the listeners about blackouts. During a blackout one may function normally, yet never recall a specific period of time. Observing that person you would not know they were experiencing a blackout.

These reasons were given for seeking help, "I felt uncomfortable in my own skin," and "so much was wrong with my life that I didn't know where to start (fixing it)." Still another said, "It didn't make sense to be miserable when all I was trying to do was be happy."

The week of October 13-19 was Alcohol Awareness Week. Discussions and lectures were held nationwide. Students at Iowa Central College, Fort Dodge, viewed a car involved in an alcohol related accident. Still, many people just don't want to deal with alcohol as a problem. Maybe more should.

DMACC faculty ride train

By JASON DEBOOM
Staff Writer

Approximately 250 faculty and staff members and their families from all four Des Moines Area Community College campuses came to Boone to ride the Boone and Scenic Valley Railroad and enjoy a picnic at McHose Park Oct. 3.

The event was called "Track IV" and was the fourth year for the get-together. The cost was $5 per person.

Track IV activities began at 4:30 p.m. when the participants took a train ride on "The Iowan."

At approximately 6:30 p.m. a picnic was held at the McHose shelter. Barbecued turkey tenderloins were served.

George Silberhorn, who helped coordinate the event, said Track IV is a worthwhile activity providing a great opportunity for all people associated with DMACC to get together.

DMACC - Boone Campus signed 'drug free'

By JANENE HALE
Staff Writer

A new sign was added to the Boone DMACC campus the week of Oct. 13. It is the Drug Free Zone sign posted at the north entrance to the parking lot. The purpose is to deter the selling or use of drugs on or around the school area by imposing stricter penalties.

A recent Federal law allows local law enforcement to enforce the Drug Free Zone.

Students were asked what they thought about the new sign. Here are their responses:

Brian Phelps - I think it's a very good idea.

Tonya Anderson - It might help keep drugs out of the school and keep it safe.

Armond Jackson - I noticed it and there is good meaning and message behind it.

Jackie Langford - It's OK, a good idea.

Charlie Ahrens - It's a good idea. I definitely don't think drugs should be on campus.

Soviets visit Boone Campus

By JASON DEBOOM
Staff Writer

DMACC-Boone Campus hosted a Russian delegation consisting of 12 members from Stavropol State Pedagogical Institute (SSPI), Wednesday, Oct. 23.

The objective of their visit is to develop and establish a prototype community college in the Stavropol Region.

Their visit provided an opportunity for faculty members and community leaders to develop new insights into their instructional areas and business relations.

(As part of this cultural and educational exchange, Gary Stasko and Vivian Brandmeyer, both business instructors, will be going to Russia in May.)

The Russian delegation was involved in several activities on campus and around the city of Boone, including a train ride and lunch on the Boone and Scenic Valley Railroad, a briefing on how Boone Campus strives to meet the needs of students and the community, a social time, dinner and a preview of the musical "South Pacific" practice in the Boone Campus auditorium.

Attention all students. There is a Lost and Found located in the Admissions Office.

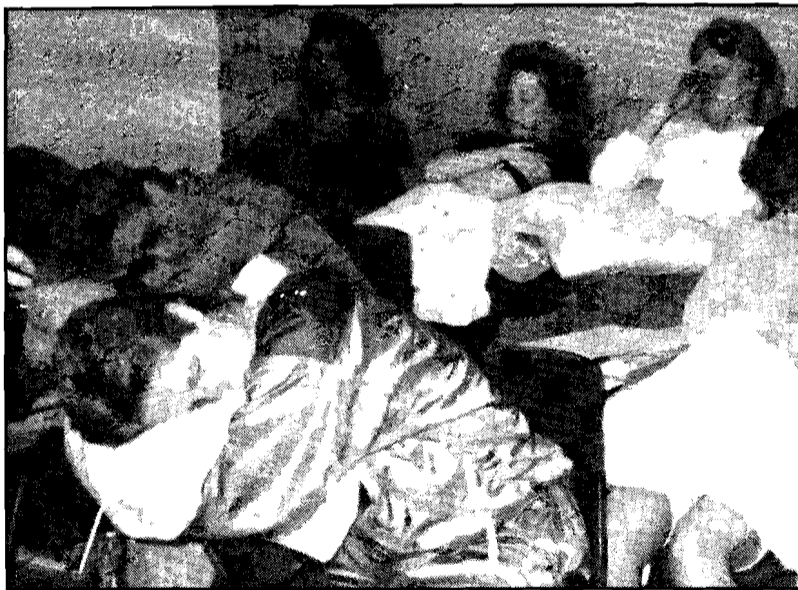

Any student who has lost an item on campus should check with the Lost and Found. Items will have to be identified by the owner before they will be released.

Basketball player adjusts to lifestyle in Boone

By SHANNON HAYES
Staff Writer

Reggie Martin is the subject of the student spotlight for this month's Bear Facts.

Reggie is from East Chicago, Ind. where his friends call him "House" or "Gemini."

Reggie first heard about DMACC from a friend of his that played basketball in this area. He then contacted his aunt and uncle who live in Des Moines and asked them about DMACC. Right away he knew he'd like to try DMACC.

When making his decision to come to DMACC, Reggie knew it was going to be a drastic change from his home and he wasn't sure if he was going to like it. But after being here for a while, he really began to adjust to the change.

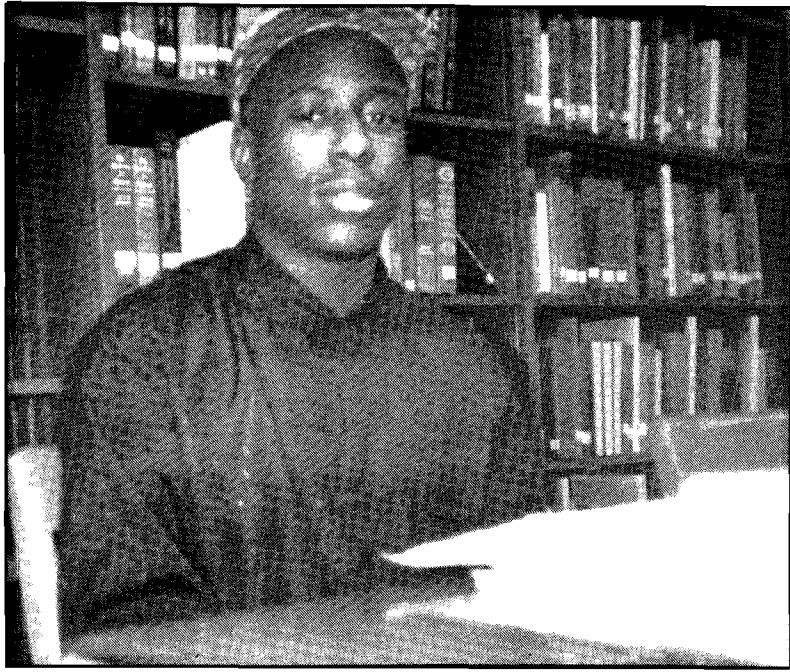

Reggie likes Iowa now; he hopes to someday build a house here.

His plans are to finish at DMACC with an AS Degree and go on to play Division I basketball. Some of the colleges that are interested in Reggie's play are Florida State, Florida A&M, UNI, and Kansas State.

Reggie, as a DMACC freshman last year, was averaging 16 points a game, 4.7 assists and 3.2 steals.

Reggie sometimes misses home but he enjoys the freedom he has from his family. One thing he does not miss is his friends "gang banging" (being affiliated with a gang.)

Reggie really would like to see gang violence disappear but he knows that will never happen. What Reggie really hates is seeing his own race eliminate themselves by "crossing each others turf," and drug wars.

And, Reggie says that's where drive-by shootings come into effect. Reggie has witnessed many shootings and even some of his own friends have been involved.

"I have tried to talk to my friends about getting out of gangs but it is no use most of the time. They don't want to give up their $50,000 cars. They also don't ever want to go back to living in old run-down apartments and not having any money," he said.

Reggie added, "A person will talk themselves until they are blue in the face before a member will leave their gang."

Reggie knows that someday they will be caught and all that money and that $50,000 car will mean life in the "house" (prison).

That kind of life-style was never for Reggie.

He says that the biggest difference in life-styles between home and here is one, the gangs, and also "I don't have to watch my back twenty-four seven." (All the time.)

"I have tried to talk to my friends about getting out of gangs, but they don't want to give up their $50,000 cars."

—Reggie Martin
—Boone Campus student

Reggie believes that God has given him a special talent, like many Afro American athletes, and he prays that in the future that God will bless him again with a good family. He also hopes to play in the NBA with some of his friends like Glenn Robinson, who plays for Purdue University.

"It would be great someday to play with Glenn or even against him," he said.

All of the players on the basketball team respect Reggie's talent and know that he can handle the important roll of a point guard.

Reggie for the last two weeks has been out of practice with a sprained ankle and will probably sit out the first couple of scrimmages to get ready for the first regular season game. He feels he might be behind on learning the offense and getting into shape, but he would rather do that than risk injuring it again.

As a team, Reggie believes that they will be better than they were last year. The team plays very hard defense and the players really hustle and involve more of everybody on the floor. We will be out height and will probably not be as fast as our opposition so we will really have to know each and everyones move and play at 100 percent every game to make up for height and speed. Reggie adds, "I know we can win more games than we did last year!"

Students credit

In the college world of the 1990s, students are equipped with more than mom's chocolate chip cookies and clean sheets when they arrive on campus. Most have discovered that they shouldn't leave home without a major credit card.

Paul Ebert, president of the Consumer Credit Counseling Services of Central Ohio, says although the number of students in credit trouble isn't unusually high, some do encounter difficulties.

CCCS of Central Ohio is part of the National Foundation for Consumer Credit which helps people solve debt problems, provides counseling and can establish debt repayment plans between people and their creditors. The service is available nationwide except in Wisconsin, which is currently working on establishing offices.

"Having credit takes a lot of self-control," Ebert says. "Students don't have the substantial funds to pay (cards) off when they load them up. "For students, the emergency aspect is what you need a credit card for—not for daily expenses. It's tempting to use it for tuition, books, groceries, clothes... but you will pay for yesterday's sins tomorrow."

Most of the credit and charge corporations offer students the same card benefits that other members receive, such as purchase protection, extended warranties and insurance on rental cars.

In addition, Chase, American Express and others also send student cardholders quarterly magazines and other publications that give them credit and money management tips.

Not only have students proved to be a stable short-term credit risk while in school, students also tend to pay off in the long run.

"Students, as they come out of school, will be making more money," Knepper says. "If (companies) can influence them now, they will most likely have a customer for life."

Undergrad scholarships

Twenty-five scholarships are available for undergraduate students majoring in engineering and science disciplines. Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) and administered by Oak Ridge Associated Universities, the scholarships are designated for those students interested in pursuing careers in environmental restoration or waste management (ER/WM).

Applicants must be U.S. citizens and currently pursuing an Associate of Science or Bachelor of Science degree full time. The Environmental Restoration/Waste Management Scholarship Program includes full payment of tuition and fees at a DOE-approved institution, a $600 monthly stipend, and a three-month practicum assignment at a DOE facility engaged in environmental restoration and waste management.

Scholarship applications are being taken through Jan. 31, 1992, and awards will be announced in May 1992. For applications or more information contact Peggy Gibson, Environmental Restoration/Waste Management Scholarship Program, Oak Ridge Associated Universities, Science/Engineering Education Division, P.O. Box 117, Oak Ridge, TN 37831-0117, or call (615)576-9278.

The men's chorus, which is a little short of members other than those listed above, are Tim Rose and Chuck Jacson, Greg Flynn, John Shuley, Nathan Welch, David Doran, Koch, Merrill, Craigmile and Scott.

Here are some hints of things and people to watch. There are several excellent singing voices. The characters of Emile and Nellie sound professional in quality. The comic antics of Billis have even had the cast rolling with laughter during rehearsal. Bloody Mary is also showing tremendous acting and vocal ability. It can also be said that the chorus sounds bigger in size than its number suggests.

The cast and crew invite you to be entertained at least one night of the show. Bring the family or a friend.

Everybody gets a chance to sing as Carol Renae Hamman, choreographer; Kay Mueller, director and Jim Loos, music director; look on.

The Canadian Connection

By SHANNON HAYES
Staff Writer

This year, as in the past years, the DMACC baseball team has the pleasure of having Canadians on the team.

Coach John Smith has many connections in Canada and every year he talks kids into coming to Boone to play baseball.

This year there are four players that play for DMACC that have a lot of talent. If they work hard at it, they may someday make some money playing ball.

You may have already met these four players or heard there Canadian dialogue in the hallways. Their names are Joel Irvine, Roman Kula, Jamie White and Wilf Wilson.

Joel is known by friends as "Scosh" because he is from Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Joel plays catcher and outfield for the Bears. Joel, as a freshman last year and catching for the first time in his baseball career, had a throw out percentage of 70%, which is well above pro catchers' percentages. He didn't hit as well as he wanted to, but he says that for a freshman, facing good pitching every day is a big adjustment.

In the middle of last summer, Joel was surprised when he received a call and a letter by the New York Yankees saying he had been drafted. Even though Joel was drafted, he decided to finish school at DMACC and hopefully get a scholarship to a Division I school or get drafted in a higher round for more money. After Joel graduates from DMACC with an AA degree, he wants to go on to a university to major in physical education. Right now he has a 3.32 grade point and some of the schools he is looking at are Duke, University of North Carolina and University of Connecticut.

Joel is not only great in baseball and excels in his studies he is a wizard on the ice. Before even thinking about coming to play baseball for DMACC, he was all set to go play hockey for a Canadian University.

The next player is known to many as the "Candle" (he keeps on burning after everything has gone out). His name is Roman Kula.

Roman, as a freshman pitcher last year, was very successful. His record was very impressive: 9-0. Nothing really bothers Roman on the mound; he just keeps pecking away and keeps his concentration on his job, Mr. Clutch." Roman doesn't throw real hard, but he is a master at the pitches he throws and he keeps the batter thinking at the plate.

Playing baseball for the Boone Bears this season are in front, from left: Joel Irvine, and Wilf Wilson. In back: Roman Kula, and Jamie White.

Roman is from Toronto, Ontario, where he has earned many accomplishments. He was on the 1989 Canadian youth team, he made the Region 11 All-Star team, pitcher of the year in Toronto and he was the top winning pitcher on one occasion. Along with his accomplishments his GPA is 3.21.

After attending DMACC and getting his AA degree, Roman hopes to get a good scholarship to a Division I school and play baseball for them and also major in business. His ultimate goal and plan is to get drafted by a pro team.

If nothing comes up out of this year, he will go back home and go to school at the University of Toronto.

He hopes something comes up because he says he doesn't know what he would do without baseball. "I eat, drink and dream baseball. Once a person experiences baseball they can't help but fall in love with the game," he says.

The next two Canadian connections on this year's baseball team are a long ways from home. The first one is known around campus as "Whitey." Jamie White is from Victory, British Columbia.

Jamie plays shortstop and third-base for the Bears and, which requires a strong arm and Jamie does not lack that. He has been clocked in throwing across the infield in by scouts in the upper eighties.

Jamie feels that he has much more confidence in the field and up to bat than he did last year. Jamie added, "This fall proved that I was a lot more comfortable with myself in the field and at bat. I didn't put the pressure on myself this year, like me so many other freshman players did. I hit .400 this fall and didn't make near the errors I did last year."

Jamie is a real solid and tough player and will be an asset to this year's team. He says he is really looking forward to this coming baseball season because he thinks that this year's team has the ability to be one of the best teams ever at DMACC, but he adds as did Joel and Roman, "DMACC will never come back from the spring break trip over five hundred percent or maybe five and four when the team has to sleep on wrestling mats and not eat all day until you get back to the gym that

After Jamie gets his AA Degree from DMACC he would like to go on to a four year school. He would prefer to go some place closer to home. One university that interests him is the University of Washington State. "Their baseball is good and it is also a good academic school." He is also considering to go south to go to school, because he likes the idea of playing baseball in good weather and playing outside all year around.

While going to his choice of university he would like to major in something in the medical sciences field.

As Jamie played baseball in Canada he received his recognition by earning most valuable player in Sr. league last year. Also in 1986, Jamie played in Detroit for the Jr. World Series. As an 18-year-old he made the British Columbia all star team.

Jamie has a lot of tools to work with and he hopes, as did Joel and Roman, to get drafted and make good money at playing baseball someday.

Jamie has not always just been good in baseball, but he played rugby and soccer, and excelled at it.

The newest and the last addition to the team from Canada is Wilf Wilson, better known as "Chief," because he is a native American. For those who knew who Derrik Sutton was this is his twin brother, but Wilf can talk and speak English.

Wilf began enjoying the game of baseball in Terrace, British Columbia.

This fall Wilf had an eye opener when a Grandview batter hit a 500 foot grand slam home run. And the very next batter hit one just as far for another home run. As they were hit he kind of laughed about them, but went on to get the next batter out to end the game.

Wilf says he has a lot to learn about pitching, but hopes to help DMACC this year any way he can. Even if it means chasing foul balls! And hopefully not give up home runs like in the Grandview game.

Wilf is a hard worker in practice and someday that work will pay off, but Wilf also knows how to have fun when he should be under pressure and that is what people like about him.

As a freshman he kind of misses home, but likes the freedom of being away from his parents. He also adds that people are really nice here and he will probably be back next year if everything goes well.

Boone Campus hosts Oktoberfest

By JOHN GREENE

Oktoberfest at Boone Campus was a continuation of Germany year activities at the DMACC campuses. The event here included a cookout on Thursday, Oct. 17, from 3 to 6 p.m. Everyone enjoyed a good old fashion German meal complete with real German potato salad, sauerkraut, and bratwurst grilled by George Silberhorn, director of student services.

There was even live and recorded German music provided. All the food was free of charge, and all activities were open to all students, faculty, and staff and the public.

Bruce Kelly provided pins for everyone to wear at the cookout. They displayed an American and German flag.

Ankeny, Carroll and Urban campuses also participated in Oktoberfest activities.

Silberhorn said that there was a very good turn out. "Everyone had a real good time," he said.

Jim Bittner, English, thanks Dave Richardson from the Boone High School for providing the music.

Jason DeBoom student, said that the cookout should have been earlier in the day.

Learning about the body by dissection

By JANENE HALE
Staff Writer

On Tuesday the 8th of October, I visited Linda Figdore's general anatomy and physiology class. I had heard that they were going to dissect a pig fetus and I was a bit curious. The instructor, Figdore, graciously invited me in.

Figdore says the goal is to find out how the human body works by studying the internal structures of the pig. All of the systems will be explored including, the muscular, nervous and reproductive systems, to name a few. Students will also study the organs that relate to those systems.

Initial cuts were made Friday to remove the skin in a flaplike fashion up to the backbone. Tuesday, preparations were underway to become familiar with and identify the muscle structure. The students were looking at slides of actual skeletal muscle structure. I took a look at those interesting slides myself.

Thursday the actual dissection began. As I arrived, students were gingerly clipping away fat and membrane to get down to and look at the muscles. As in any good lab, there was a lot of information being shared amongst the students to clarify the proper procedures. The dissection was not messy or horrid. One comment shared by most was summed up by student Marilyn

Smith who said, "It smells." I left the students working diligently on their pigs. By the way, no one (in Figdore's class anyway) has refused the dissection or passed out.

Where do the pig fetus' come from you may be wondering? Many companies raise pigs to impregnate and abort the fetus specifically for laboratory study, according to Figdore. They had been drained of blood and injected with a dye for better visual identification in the lab. The pigs were well packaged in the preservative substance, formaldehyde.

I got the reactions of some of the students in the class. Here are the questions and their responses.

Why did you take this class?
Is this your first dissection?
How do you feel about dissecting this animal?

Annette Foster: It is required for an early childhood/special education degree. Yes. It makes me sick.

Dense Cornellson: I took it for a BA nursing degree. This isn't my first dissection, but it is as interesting to me as the first time.

Roman Kula: Because I need the five credits. Yes, this is my first dissection, and my last. I think dissecting this pig is disgusting and if I didn't have to do it I wouldn't.

Jamie White: I took this class because I was interested in the structure and functions of the human body. It is not my first and probably not my last. It does not bother me at all.

Darren Douglas: For teaching purposes and I also needed the five credits, like Roman. No it is not my first dissection. It doesn't bother me.

Bookstore survey underway

By ROBIN NELSON
Staff Writer

At the beginning of the fall semester the Boone Campus Bookstore started a survey. The survey is to provide information to DMACC for the kind of service the students, faculty, and staff are looking for in the bookstore.

Doris Wickman, manager, says, "We need a lot more help with filling out of the survey." It would only take a minute to fill out the survey, so stop by the bookstore, fill one out. You'll receive a free pencil.

A bright outlook for the Lady Bears

By JEFF CRAIGMILE
Sports Writer

Coach Dick Criner, beginning his tenth year as coach of the DMACC Boone Campus women's basketball team opens the 91-92 season with five returning players and a much heralded freshman class.

Valerie Camp, last year's leading scorer returns for her final season with the Lady Bears. Camp averaged 15 points per game last year when the team finished 4-19. Coach Criner is also expecting a big year for sophomore Karla Lilly, who averaged 12 points per game last year. Also returning from last year's squad are Heather Smith, Sonya Hanna and Cindy Fridley.

The Lady Bear's roster is as follows:

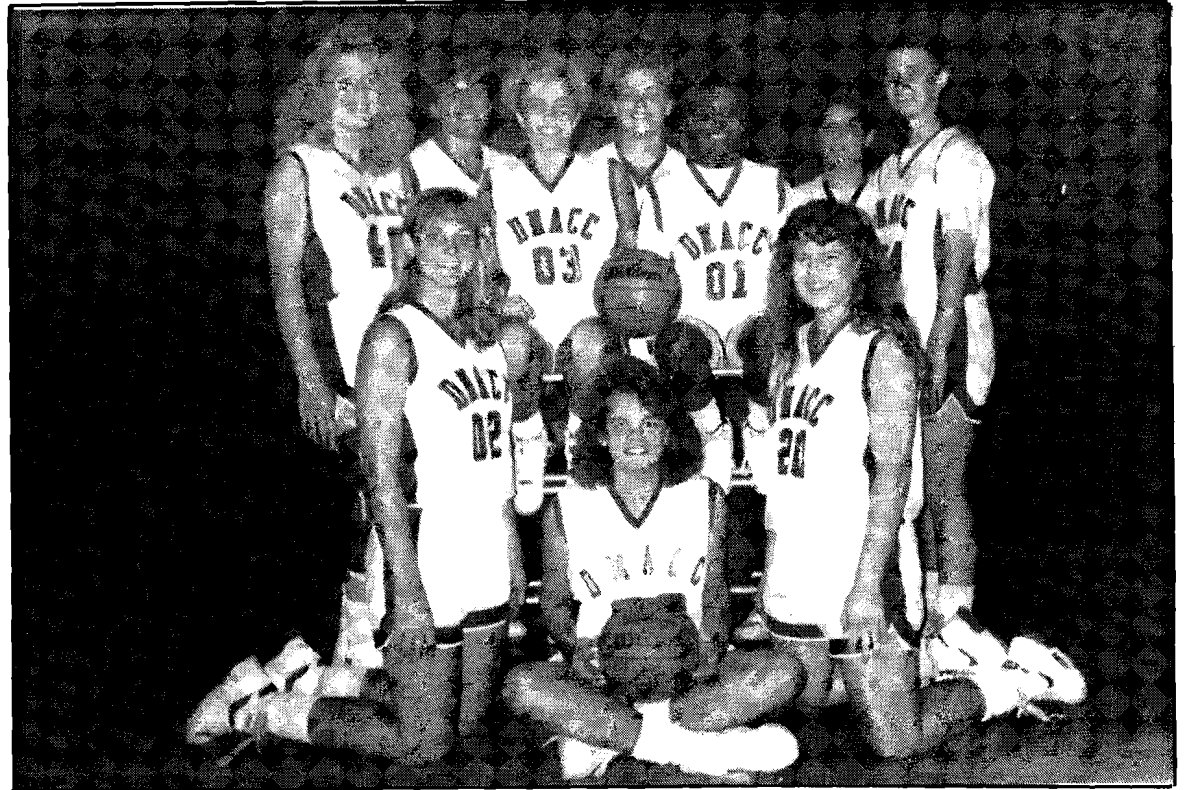

NAME	POSITION	HT.	YR.	H.S.
Camp, Valarie	Forward	5'10"	SO.	Collins-Maxwell
Lilly, Karla	Guard	5'7"	SO.	Des Moines East
Fridley, Cindy	Guard	5'6"	SO.	S.E. Warren
Hanna, Sonya	Forward	5'7"	SO.	Ogden
Smith, Heather	Center	5'10"	SO.	Ogden
Kellen, Jennifer	Center	6'0"	SO.	Ames
Schlenker, Michelle	Forward	5'10"	FR.	Johnston
Wilson, Stephanie	Center	6'0"	FR.	Maquoketa Valley
Wernimont, Dana	Center	5'10"	FR.	Fonda-Newell
Silberhorn, Jennifer	Guard	5'7"	FR.	Boone
Klinker, Angela	Forward	5'8"	FR.	Charter Oak
Krachey, Dawn	Guard	5'8"	FR.	Buchanan Troy, MO

Coach Criner commented that in order to recruit five good players you have to go through 50. Watching them practice would indicate that he found the best of those numbers.

Coach Criner's goals in the coming season are to beat Ellsworth, Kirkwood and ICC. Coach Criner would also like to see the Lady Bears get to the Regional Tournament.

DMACC starts the season November 13 on the road against Northern Iowa Area Community College (NIACC). The Lady Bears home opener is set for November 16 against Marshalltown Community College.

Coach Criner had this to say about his players:

Lady Bears

Valerie Camp- We expect Camp to be a leader for us this year.

Karla Lilly- She is the best defensive guard of the junior college players in the state.

Cindy Fridley- Fridley is a pretty good ball handler, has a good head on her shoulders and is very aggressive.

Sonya Hanna- Hanna had the highest jumper on the team and she's only 5'7".

Heather Smith- Smith is a defensive force and a rugged kid who will be a defensive force for us.

Jenifer Kellen- Kellen gets up and down the court real well and is going to score some real points for us.

Michelle Schlenker- Schlenker has a good jump shot and good moves allowing her to get open to hit the jump shot.

Stephanie Wilson- Wilson is a good outside player but has demonstrated her ability to score from the outside.

Dana Wernimont- Wernimont has all the tools. She could be a standout player for DMACC.

Jenifer Silberhorn- Silberhorn is real quick and will get a lot of steals. She is a good defensive player.

Dawn Krachey- Krachey will really help us by getting the ball up and down the court and into our offense.

Dunham comments on upcoming season

By JEFF CRAIGMILE
Sports Writer

"The players have worked extremely hard during the workouts and I'm pleased with both our effort and attitude," said Coach Joe Dunham when chatting about the 1991-92 season.

"With 11 new players, there are a lot of unknown factors that will affect our performance early in the season; however, if we stay focused on defense and become patient on offense, we may surprise some people this season.

REGGIE MARTIN is the lone returning starter from last year's 4-23 team. Martin is a sophomore from East Chicago Central High School where he starred on a highly regarded ball club. He is regarded as one of the best point guards in the Junior College League.

"Bears fans will enjoy the excitement that Reggie Martin brings to the court," said Coach Joe Dunham.

DANA SCOTT transferred from Iowa Central Community College in Fort Dodge after red-shirting his first year at ICCC due to a knee injury.

"He is a strong 6'2" off-guard that plays tough defense and takes the ball to the basket with aggressiveness," said Dunham.

TERRY FISHER from Jefferson/Scranton High School is in his second year of competition at DMACC after sitting out the 1990-91 season.

"Fisher is a valuable ball-handler and a good passer," said Dunham.

RICHARD WEBB from Cedar Rapids Washington is a transfer from UNI and has a 30+ inch vertical leap.

"Webb has shown that he plays the swing position well and has the ability to take the ball outside or inside," said Dunham.

TOM SANDVE is one of three former Boone High School players on the roster.

"Sandve has an excellent attitude and his hustling style will benefit the DMACC Bears this season," said Dunham.

BRAD VINCENT from Nevada High School is a 6'4" power forward who was an honorable mention All-Conference performer last season.

"Vincent plays the baseline well and will be counted on to rebound and provide low post scoring this season," said Dunham.

BRENT KRUG from Boone is 6'4" and can play both small forward and shooting guard. Krug was honorable mention All-Conference player in the Central Iowa Conference last year.

"With a big time jump shot that extends beyond the 3 point line, Krug will bust zone defenses for the Bears," said Dunham.

GENE RIFE, JR. from Des Moines Hoover High School will be counted on to provide support in the backcourt for the 1991-92 season.

"Rife has provided steady play at both point guard and shooting guard during the fall workouts," said Dunham.

ADAM KRUG, 6'4" twin brother of Brent, was slowed his final high school season at Boone High due to a collapsed lung. He has fully recovered.

"Adam Krug is a very physical player with a soft jump shot. He has shown the ability to go both inside and outside during the fall practices," said Dunham.

JEFF MULDER from Nevada is 6'7" and bench presses 250 pounds. Bear fans will be impressed with his strength and low post play this season.

"Mulder has been the most dominating big man for the Bears during the preseason conditioning program," said Dunham.

JAMES HEINTZ is a 6-1" forward from Ames.

"Heintz is the hardest worker of any of the Bears. With his excellent attitude and hard work, James should make an impact at forward for the Bears this season," said Dunham.

The DMACC Men's Basketball team is also proud to announce the addition of a new player to this year's roster. Welcome Shannon Hayes, a 5'7" sophomore from Urbandale. Shannon has previously been seen on the Bears Baseball team as the second baseman or shortstop.

DMACC kicks off the 91-92 season on the road at Northern Iowa Community College (NIACC) on November 13 in Mason City. The home opener is schedule for November 16 against rival Marshalltown Community College.

Dunham said the Iowa Junior College League again appears to be well balanced with tremendous talent.

"I expect Marshalltown, Ellsworth and Indian Hills to have excellent ball clubs," said Dunham. "We will have to be on top of our game each night in order to be competitive in this league."

Intramurals update

By SHANNON HAYES
Staff Writer

In the long drive competition on September 26, nine contestants showed their golfing skills by seeing how far they could drive a golf ball.

In the women's division, Chantel Jordan of Ames won with a drive of 250 yards.

And in the men's, Jeff Gano won with a drive of 330 yards.

The 8 ball and table tennis competition started October 7 and will probably wrap up this week. Each of the participants play each other when they have free time.

In the table tennis, there are two divisions. The champion division has four contestants and the novice division has six. Each person will play the best two out of three games.

Please note that if you are wanting to sign up for the doubles table tennis (M, W, CO-REC) or the doubles 8-ball (CO-REC) the deadline for entries is November 6.

And if you're planning on competing in the bowling competition the deadline is December 4.

If anyone has any questions, please contact George Silberhorn or Kevin Israel.

Budget cutbacks affect library hours

(CPS) — College and university libraries are the latest victims of the budget-cutting guillotine, and administrators are frantically looking for ways to trim expenses without losing their heads.

A shortage of money has resulted in cutbacks in hours, cancellations in journal subscriptions, delays in expensive book purchases and in some cases, fee increases.

"It's a big problem," says Sarah Pritchard, associate executive director of the Association of Research Libraries. "It's a grave concern for the future of education and for the building up of scholarly research."

Even though money is tight, most schools don't want to reduce the money they give their libraries, so they are allocating the same amount of money as last year.

But the cost of library materials has tripled since last year because of inflation, Pritchard says. So, administrators are facing de facto reductions in their budgets and are now scrambling to find alternative sources of funding and innovative ways to avoid cutting off access to materials.

Unlike other student services, however, most administrators firmly reject the idea of initiating a fee-for-service method of generating more revenue.

"Fees are very controversial because libraries are based on the philosophy of providing unlimited access to information," Pritchard says. "User fees for basic services and for primary users is so fundamentally against the concept we are based on."

Double cheese and pepperoni, hold the fraternity

AUSTIN, Texas (CPS)—John Houston never thought a couple of noise complaints against a fraternity would earn him dozens of pizzas, video subscriptions and book and health club memberships that he didn't want.

The fraternity down the street never thought Houston would report

Still, some have contemplated and acted on fee proposals. At the University of Texas at Dallas, the student newspaper The Mercury reported that the Student Service Fee Committee made an unprecedented decision to use fee money to keep the library open longer than the hours funded by the state.

To generate more money without resorting to user fees, however, some schools have hired full-time library development officers who solicit special library endowments and grants and try to encourage alumni donations and other gift-giving.

"We do get a lot of donations of books, but unfortunately they're not always the books that we need," says John Flemming, interim co-director of library services at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania.

As other alternatives, many schools are looking to share sources through programs like inter-library loan; they are cutting back on investments in rare book collections; they are charging minimal fees for specialized services and they are focusing on continued technological advancements like computer databases that will save them money in the long run.

On the down side, however, many schools are also reducing staff hours and cancelling subscriptions to some scholarly journals.

"We've been circulating lists of journals to departments asking them which to get rid of," says P. Grady Morein, director of library services at the University of West Florida. "Faculty have tended to resist those cuts and are asking us to get rid of books first."

West Florida is also cutting its hours—the library is currently closed on Saturdays and has shaved a half-hour from its daily hours of operation.

Students, upset with the reduction of hours, are petitioning the university's administration. At the University of Arizona, where daily closing hours were shifted from 2 a.m. to midnight because of cuts, student government officials objected so strongly that the university reallocated $24,000 to the library to reinstate the lost hours.

"There are still real cuts in other areas that at the moment aren't apparent," says Carla Stoffle, Arizona's head librarian. "There will be less access to materials and less bibliographical access, among other things."

Arizona's library had its budget cut $240,000 this year, but the administration had promised Stoffle $1 million for technical automation of the library.

"We are aggressively moving ahead with the automation and that will ultimately enhance our services," she said.

At the University of Illinois in Urbana, a $233,000 cut to the library's service budget also forced hour reductions.

"We didn't receive cuts to our materials budget, but we had to cancel 1,060 journals just to hold the line," says Dale Montanelli, director of administrative services for the library.

Computers course

Beginning Nov. 14, a course dealing with microcomputers and their use on farms will be offered through DMACC.

However, no prior computer experience is necessary. The course will deal with the basics of microcomputers and how they can be used on the farm. During the course individuals will learn:

• How microcomputers process data

• Agricultural related spreadsheet basics

• Database management basics

• How to select a computer system to fit user's needs

• How to select computer software

This class will meet on Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. beginning Nov. 14 through Dec. 12 at the Boone Campus. The tuition for this class is $25.80 per person, and the instructor will be Gary Stasko.

Anyone interested should call 432-7203 for further details.

Does this scenario sound all too familiar?

With pencils sharpened and a big pot of coffee on the stove, you are ready to settle down for a long night of studying. But then you open your book and find you do not understand one of the basic concepts you need to know to be able to progress with the evening's work. It's too late to find your instructor on campus, and it's inconvenient to go back to school to get help.

You need not throw up your hands, slam your book shut and veg out in front of the TV any more. The Learning Center has help for you.

Between 5 and 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday, DMACC students may call 1-800-362-2127 or 432-7203 with questions on chemistry for nurses, finite math, algebra, basic math, and English. Sally Tanner, Jan Larson and Susan Ofner are available to help with your math, science and English problems during these hours.

Florida freezes enrollment

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (CPS)—The Florida Board of Regents has decided to freeze enrollment at nine state universities because of anticipated budget shortfalls.

Beginning next year, admission to the universities will be limited to the same number of students as this year. Currently, about 183,000 students attend the schools.

In addition, the board agreed to delay work on a tenth university scheduled for 1995-96 and has suspended mandatory summer school for students.

The move comes after increased enrollment, less money from the state government and indications that a $582 million shortfall in the state's current budget will cause even more cuts to the state university system.

"The board said it's time to stop," says Michael Armstrong, the state system's director of planning. "We are going to stop taking new students until the legislature starts funding us."

Armstrong said Florida already ranks 49th nationally in the number of degrees granted in relationship to its population and that with 825 new residents moving into the state every day, coupled with an expected 50 percent increase in the number of high school graduates by 1995, the freeze is going to hurt.

Still, he said, the universities in the system understand why the board took action Sept. 19.

Future students weren't the only ones affected. The board also voted to waive a requirement that every student take a total of nine hours in the summertime during the span of his or her academic career. Some schools are eliminating summer courses, which will make it more difficult for many students to get the classes they need to graduate.

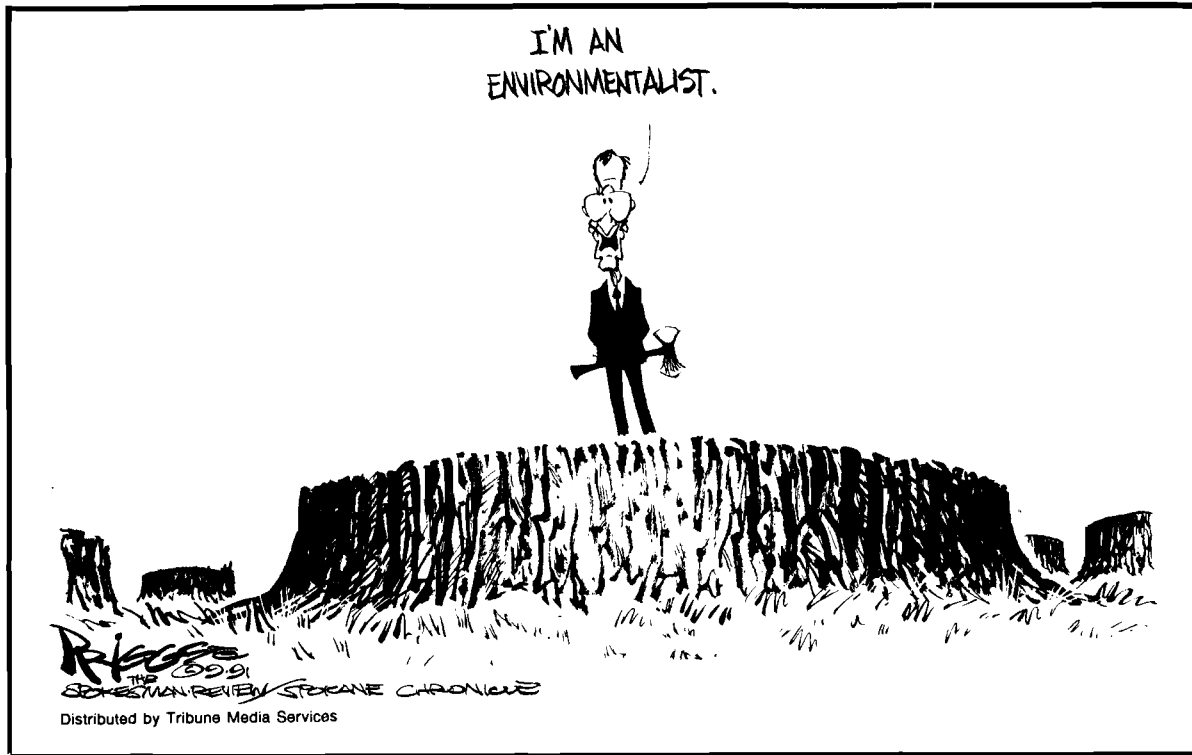

Women have lower salary expectations

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (CPS)—Future businesswomen in college today don't expect to make as much money as men and both sexes look to their fathers when seeking career advice and approval, a recent study shows.

Researchers at Florida State University surveyed 159 male and 109 female seniors and graduate students, asking questions about their career expectations.

What they found was that women studying business-related fields expected to earn $10,000 to $20,000 a year less than men when they reach the ages of their parents.

"We were really surprised," said professor Elizabeth Goldsmith, one of the researchers and a professor of family, child and consumer sciences at Florida State. "(Women's) expectations could be realistic, though, because of the gender gap and because they might have other concerns such as getting married."

Harvard tops list

(CPS)—The Ivy League fared well in U.S. News and World Report's fifth annual survey of the nation's best colleges.

Harvard University was ranked first, followed by Yale University, Stanford University, Princeton University, California Institute of Technology, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Duke University, Dartmouth College, Columbia University and the University of Chicago.

The magazine rated the schools on the basis of test scores, graduation rates, faculty-student ratios, academic reputation and student satisfaction.

In terms of the best buys, the five schools with the lowest tuitions were the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill ($6,642), Rice University (Texas, $7,700), University of Virginia ($8,950), University of California at Berkeley ($9,973) and University of California at Los Angeles ($9,973).

Professor becomes standup comic for laugh research

(CPS) — "A fellow comes up to me at a party, and he says, 'I understand you're a doctor—do something medical.'" Pause. "So I made him wait." Laughter. "And then I billed him for it." More laughter.

When it's a good night on the comedy club circuit, America's Laugh Doctor is knocking them dead. Cliff Kuhn is giving the audience a cure for their blues. It's magic, almost chemical. They love his jokes! They love him!

And then there are bad nights when the audience is unresponsive, too embarrassed for him even to titter. He's stumbling in blind panic, trying to come up with a feeble joke, anything that will make the act okay again.

Flopsweat, it's called. A standup comic's worst nightmare.

But the bright nights in comedy clubs are more than just gigs to Kuhn, who went on the standup circuit this year to do in-depth research on laughter and its role in healing.

His specialty is a professor of community psychiatry at the University of Louisville School of Medicine is finding out why mind-body interaction is so important to people with chronic ailments, such as rheumatoid arthritis, and life-threatening illnesses like cancer.

So, with the blessing of the school, he went on sabbatical to study laughter, which has been proven to be good medicine.

"I was always a frustrated comic in one way or another," he said.

Kuhn said he actually started working with standup comedians to learn the tricks of the trade when he began holding laughter workshops for patients with chronic conditions that defied the treatments of modern medicine.

"Laughter raises the tolerance for pain. It also stimulates the immune system," said Kuhn. Laughter boosts T-cells, natural killer cells. "They're in more abundance in those who laugh more. It's been well-documented that laughter is a valuable tool for eliminating stress and tension."

In order to present live comedy material at the workshops, Kuhn started hanging around comedy clubs.

"I asked so many questions about the techniques of comedy that the comics threw the gauntlet down and said, 'you've got to get up there.'" Gulp. So he did.

"It was a kick. I thought I was the best comic since Bob Hope. It was the second time that was bad," Kuhn said.

"It's a terrible feeling to stand up there and hit them with a joke...and you get silence," he said. "It's totally embarrassing. You panic and feel silly and stupid. It takes a long time to get rid of the feeling to just run off stage."

Kuhn said he has a new-found respect for the business.

"The people who are good make it look easy. It takes an awful lot of energy," he said.

The secret, he said, is letting the audience know in the first 10 to 15 seconds that it's okay to laugh with you—or at you.

"There's a certain inhibition to laughing in public," said Kuhn, who noted that it was not acceptable in Western culture to laugh out loud in public until the past 200 years or so. Even now, there is a certain uneasiness and suspicion about people who smile a lot or laugh easily. They tend to be viewed as goof-offs or frivolous, he said.

"We somehow feed we-re being more responsible if we look at the dark side," he said. "We have a tendency in our society to take ourselves too seriously."

Kuhn said he planned to keep a diary while on his 18-city tour, take notes and interview fellow comics. Once he finishes, he plans to hang up the microphone.

"I do love it, but I really love my work in psychiatry too. I have a serious commitment to bring this back into the medical community."

LORETTO, Tenn. (CPS)—Ever met someone with so much school pride he wanted to take it to the grave?

Well, now he (or she) can. Ken Abercrombie, owner of the Loretto Casket Co., has started marketing college caskets. The idea came about as Abercrombie prepared for a summer convention. He offered the caskets for die-hard Tennessee, Alabama, Auburn and Georgia fans.

Abercrombie says he plans to market the caskets nationwide.

Who should run for president?

By BRIAN PHELPS
Staff Writer

Recently I asked students around Boone DMACC Campus a question about the presidency: Who do you think should run for president and why?

Here are their responses:

Janene Hale: As many people that can afford it should run to give the people a wide choice.

Nick Boothby: Perry Farrel from the rock band Jane's Addiction because he is a man of the future.

John Greene: Dan Quale because it would be a laugh.

Shannon Hayes: George Steinbrenner because he would be able to manipulate the government better than anyone else ever has.

Robin Nelson: Mickey Mouse because everybody loves him.

Chad Elsberry: Anybody who is willing to avoid the political rhetoric we have been hearing.

Todd Tilley: Vince Neil of the heavy metal Motley Crue because he is the best person for the job.

Steve Penberthy: Alice Cooper because he is cool.

Benjy Bergman: Arnold Schwarzeneger because nobody will mess with him.

Dennis Jenlins: Tom Harkin

because he sticks to what he says.

Donna Meinecke: Any woman because the men obviously can't do the job.

Troy Emley: Lee Iococca because if he can do for the country what he did for the Chrysler Corporation he could help the economy. Or, Sam Walton, owner of the Wal-Mart chain, would be a good person.

Kevin Mamm: Himself because he is the best person for the job.

Mike Waterbury: Zsa Zsa Gabor because if any other country gives us any lip she will go over there and smack them.

Comments by the Dean

In the near future, it is possible that I will need to consider canceling school on Boone Campus because of inclement weather. There are times that it will be necessary to deviate from the closing of the Ankeny Campus. When in my best judgement these times exist, I will take the appropriate action.

I plan to arrive at this decision no later than 5:30 a.m. if the conditions in the early morning hours warrant. I will notify the local radio station (KWBG/KZBA) immediately upon my decision, then I will notify Delbert Peter and Paula Trowbridge. As time does not permit me to notify everyone, the most logical way for you to learn of our school closing would be to listen to the following area stations:

KWBG-AM (1590), KZBA-FM (98.3), Boone; KCIM-AM (1380), KKRL-FM (93.7), Carroll; KDSL-AM (1310), KDLS-FM (104.9), Perry/Jefferson; and KEZT-FM (104), Ames.

School cancellation for evening school will be considered separately from school cancellation during the daytime; i.e. weather conditions may improve during the day, and classes may be held at night when they have been canceled during the daytime. A decision to cancel evening classes will be made no later than 4:30 p.m.

Study help

A number of students have visited the Learning Center in recent weeks concerned about study techniques and test-taking tips.

We have several instructors that would be happy to visit with you about time management, notetaking skills, improving reading comprehension skills, and test anxiety.

Mini workshops in these areas were held the week of September 23-27. They may be repeated at a later date if enough interest is shown.

Handouts are available in certain areas. Come in and visit with an instructor about the areas that are giving you problems this semester.

Spring registration

By JOHN GREENE
Staff Writer

It's not too early to get a head start on registration for spring classes. The official dates are November 4 and November 11. But any student who would like to come in and register early can do it now. Just set up an appointment with Rich Finnestad or George Silberhorn, counselors.

By careful selection of course work, students will be able to meet program requirements, degree requirements and transfer requirements on time and in harmony with their career objectives of additional education, according to Finnestad.

Conservatives, Liberals and Labels

By CHAD ELSBERRY
Staff Writer

Am I a Liberal, or am I a Conservative? Well, I'm a Conservative Liberal, or is it a Liberal Conservative? In order to avoid confusion I'll just call myself an independent thinker. I know independent thinker isn't on the voter registration forms, but I think it's legal to be one.

Some people think us independent thinkers are simply unwilling to commit to a given set of beliefs.

However, I think that's the idea. Even I used to wonder how much weight my political views carried since I wasn't a dutiful party member.

But the events of the last few months have more than reassured me that I chose the best course. I mean when I look at the accounting abilities of our Congressmen along with their confirmation hearing practices, it makes me wonder why I would want to be a dutiful member of their parties.

The various scandals which have hit Congress involve members from both parties. Of course, I'm sure the spin-artists of Washington will find a way to make those rubber checks stick exclusively to the opposing party.

And I'm sure that we the informed electorate (I use the term informed electorate cautiously, because I do realize it may be a contradiction of terms) will find a way to accept their stories.

I don't contend that there are not differences between our two mainstream parties. What I do contend with is the idea that an individual can't hold positions which encompass certain views from both parties. Maybe I'm trying to walk the fence, but I hope I don't lose my balance anytime soon.

Cast comments about 'South Pacific'

By JEFF CRAIGMILE
Staff Writer

The South Pacific cast and chorus were recently asked what they enjoy about being a part of the production.

Here are their responses:

Chuck Jackson (The Professor): The interaction and comradery with the rest of the cast and a chance to sing.

Kahla Jackson (Nellie): Just the opportunity to sing. It's been four years since I've been in a musical production. I'm also getting to meet a lot of new friends.

Don Riemenschneider (Commander Harbison): This is my first experience since high school. I am very, very excited about participating in theatre especially since this is a musical. We have a lot of talented people associated with this production.

Janene Hale (Women's Chorus): It's fun! I enjoy meeting people.

Jim Merril (Stewpot): This is my last production here at DMACC. Kay Mueller is the best instructor I've ever had and I hope to carry that inspiration with me when I become a teacher. I've never done a musical before, but since Kay was directing I thought it was worth a try.

Jeff Craigmille (Male Chorus, Set and Lights): Theatre is my life, especially backstage. Aside from that it's nice to have the opportunity to sing again and work under a super director like Kay.

Bill Grieser (Cable): Singing and seeing it start from scratch and seeing it grow into the final production. All the work that goes into it and working with everyone with different backgrounds is also very enjoyable.

Deborah Bishop (Bloody Mary): I enjoy the social activity, getting to know people, being able to share other people's talents and learn more about myself.

Mike Terwilliger (Billis): The thing I like the best is the comradery. Each play is like a family for six to eight weeks. I also get to crack a lot of one-liners that I don't get at work.

Jim Loos (Music Director): The chance to be creative!

Jayne Smith (Women's Chorus): Meeting the different people and performing the music.

Sue Gelse (Assistant Producer): The variety of people you get to work with and the opportunity to be creative.

Mary Maybee (Producer): I like watching a show come together and a bunch of different, talented individualistic people get together on stage.

Kay Mueller (Director): The challenge. Obviously, there are several. The first is to be creative, taking words from a book and giving them form. Another is figuring out what to do with the play and communicate to the actors. It's also challenging to coordinate everything such as props, set, costumes, etc. Mastering the set has been a big challenge.

A letter home from college

By GEORGE HUEDEPOHL
Guest Writer

Dear Mom,

School has been going on for about six weeks now here at choo-choo town. I'm getting kind of low on money so I thought that I had better write. I probably will be coming home at Thanksgiving time, but I definitely will be needing some money before then.

After looking over all the courses, I decided to major in liberal arts. There probably will be plenty of jobs available by the time I graduate if Sen. Harkin gets elected president. They say that he is very liberal so he will probably hire a lot of liberal arts majors.

The classes seem to be pretty easy. Most of them are scheduled only three times a week, and no written excuses are required if a person misses a class. Another thing—no passes are necessary to be in the hallway, but I do miss the lockers.

My books must weigh 100 pounds and the cheapest one costs over $50. So far I have managed not to use any of them in the hopes of turning them in as new books. We do have reading assignments but nobody reads those books, because the teachers are so good. They tell us everything that is in them.

Some of my teachers let class out early because there are no bells or buzzers. When a teacher runs out of time, they just quit. And, we do not have to line up in front of the door. We can just leave.

It sure seems different not having to go to the study hall. Sometimes when I don't have a class for at least an hour I go shopping with my friends and nobody says a word.

You will be pleased to know that I haven't used a single one of those C-things you always told me to keep in my purse. Now don't get excited, I just have not had the opportunity. The boys all seem so old here and so busy. Most of them leave school right after classes; I guess they have jobs. One boy did say something about ledges at Blanket Park, or maybe it was blankets at Ledges Park. It turned out to be really cold and he didn't show up.

I am thinking about auditioning for a part in South Pacific. Maybe I'll get a better part than I had in high school. You remember, I was a rock and I had to sit still through the whole thing. This time I am going to insist on being at least a tree. Please see if you can find my grass skirt that Aunt Edna sent from Hawaii, and I will pick it up at Thanksgiving time.

I will probably be home a few days early, because nobody attends class the last couple of days before a holiday.

And don't forget that Mom, Money, Memories and Maturity are all very important at this time in my life. I love you.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Huedepohl

(Editor's Note: George Huedepohl is the chemistry teacher at Boone Campus. He submits articles to this newspaper from time to time.)

Chicago trip coming up

By DUANNA VINCHATTLE
Staff Writer

The Holst Farm Management Institute is sponsoring its Fifth Annual Chicago Trip March 21-24 (Spring Break).

Gary Stasko, Director of Holst Institute, says that the trip is a business learning experience. The scheduled activities will include a Broadway play or Comedy Club on Sunday. Monday will be trips to the Chicago Board of Trade and the Mercantile Exchange. Anyone going on the trip will be expected to attend scheduled activities, but there is still lots of time for leisure and entertainment.

This year for the first time the group will be going by Amtrak instead of the bus. The schedule is as follows: Leave from Osceola at 9:22 a.m. on March 21; arrive in Chicago at 4:15 p.m. Return home on March 24; leave Chicago 2:15 p.m.; arrive in Osceola 9:30 p.m. There is a dining car on the train.

The group will be staying at the Congress Hotel again this year. The hotel is centrally located and is in walking distance of downtown Chicago, museums, nice restaurants and Lake Michigan. Cost of the Hotel based on double occupancy is approximately $55 per night for three nights.

There is a maximum of 30 seats for the trip so get your name on the list as soon as possible. You may contact Gary Stasko in Room 201 or by calling 432-7203. You do not have to be a DMACC student to go.

Time to pick up your card

By BRIAN PHELPS
Staff Writer

Activity cards are now available at Boone Campus. To obtain your activity card just go to the main office and ask for it.

Your activity cards may be used for many different things on and off campus. For instance, you can use your activity card to get in to all DMACC sports and athletic events. You may also use your activity card if you have to take a test in the Learning Center. The activity card is used for identification. Also, Worlds of Fun and Oceans of Fun in Kansas City offer discounts to DMACC students. In order to receive your discount you must present your activity card.

In the past DMACC mailed out the activity cards to the students. This year, the activity cards are not being mailed due to the budget crunch, according to George Silberhorn, director of student services.

As you register for every semester at DMACC you will pay a small amount of money called an activity fee. The activity fee is used for a number of things. "About 48 percent of the activity fee goes to athletics. The rest of it is used for student government, clubs on campus, the cheerleaders and the Bear Facts," Silberhorn said.

The activity card is a great way to support DMACC sports and activities. So go pick up your activity card today!

Talk about floating a trial balloon...

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (CPS)—College graduates appealing for jobs with resumes should take note. What you really might need is a lot of hot air.

Anita O'Hearn, a 31-year-old music teacher who wants a new career, recently bypassed Traditional Job-Seeking Strategies 101 for Creative Self-Selling—she's advertising on a hot-air balloon.

O'Hearn presented a black-and-white photo of herself on one side and her telephone number with the sign "Anita Job" on the other.

She floated her personal appeal over an interstate in Oakland last week. But for now, no job offers have wafted her way.
