covered by the media, by the way he always liked to attach grenades in his vest, in his belt, and the way he'd always carry a different handgun from the rest of the soldiers. The list goes on and on because when I interview the soldiers, they keep on telling stories about the other soldiers that it just makes sense right now as I'm studying them, meeting them, and piecing all the information together.

In consideration of the physical conditions of the speakers (PEFTOK Veterans) and due to lack of time, the organizers decided to limit the Open Forum.
